Sachems Top Stoneham 12-10 In Long Sought Football Win

First Football Victory Since November, 1964, Celebrated

PETE KNIGHT, breaks through for large gain in fourth quarter. This play helped set up the 33-yard touchdown pass from Brian Collins to John Martin to put the Sachems in the scoring column. Minutes later the Red and Black scored their second touchdown with two minutes to play to defeat Stoneham 12-10.

After a frustrating year plus one game, the win-starved Winchester football team snatched victory from the jaws of defeat in the last few seconds of the game against Stoneham last Monday at Manchester Field when Co-Captain and right end John Martin with a superhuman effort reached high into the stratosphere of the Stoneham end zone and came down with a Collins hurled bullet pass and the touchdown which gave the Red and Black a 12-10 win over the Spartans. It marked the end of a dreary 10-game winless streak and was a fitting reward for a scrapping Sachem team which would not give up.

Earlier in that fourth quarter Brian Collins and Martin collaborated on a 33-yard touchdown pass to put Winchester back in the ball game, after Stoneham had taken a first-half 10-0 lead.

In the first quarter Winchester couldn't muster any kind of attack and fell behind when Collins lost his footing and was nailed in his end zone to give Stoneham a safety and 2 points. Stoneham controlled the ball so well in the quarter the Sachems could get off only seven plays. It was much the same in the second quarter as Winchester had the ball for only nine plays. The Spartans moved the ball well with halfback Sal Cantone getting good yardage to bring the ball to the Winchester 10, at which point they got a first down by inches. On the next play a pass from quarterback Bob Sampson to end John Fallica went for a touchdown. Sampson sneaked over for the two-point conversion and a 10-0 lead.

The Sachems fought back in the third quarter to outplay Stoneham but couldn't get within close range of Stoneham's goal line.

The fourth period Winchester completely dominated the game. Two key plays, a Collins pass to Jeff Schlener good for 15 yards, and another, Collins to Martin, good for another 20 yards, set the stage for the 33-yard Collins to Martin pass for the first touchdown. Martin made a fine catch on this one. The score was 10-6 Stoneham as the conversion failed.

With four minutes to play Kevin Barry recovered a Stoneham fumble to give Winchester another try. The Sachems brought the ball to the Stoneham 10 but lost possession. After a series of plays Bob Nutile brought back a punt to midfield. Three plays brought the ball to the Stoneham 25. A Collins pass was dropped, and on the next play, with 40 seconds remaining, Collins delivered the pass which Martin zoomed for in the extreme right corner of the Stoneham end zone and snared for the winning touchdown.

Although Collins and Martin were the heroes of this big win, the work of some of the other players cannot be overlooked. Tommy Flaherty and Pete Knight did a terrific job piling up yardage on the ground. As for the defensive team, Coach Knowlton couldn't heap enough praise on that overworked group of men. His pleasure in the win was that of a man who had derived his from watching the delight of a group of kids over an unexpected treat.

Local Hungarian Tufts Librarian

A former freedom fighter in the 1956 Hungarian Revolution, Gabor Erdelyi of 200 Swanton Street, has been appoointed readers services librarian of the Nils Y. Wessell Library at Tufts University.

Born in Hungary in 1927, Erdelyi lived through Nazi and then Communist domination of his country. He attended the University of Budapest, where he received a master of arts in philosophy and thereafter taught history of philosophy at the University of Debrecen. Six months before he was to receive his Ph.D., a 1951 Hungarian Law eliminated college-level courses in traditional economics, sociology, psychology and philosophy, instituting in their places Marxist doctrine. Erdelyi, with college teaching no longer a possibility, taught at the high school at Debrecen for the next five years.

The first shooting in the 1956 Hungarian Revolution took place at Debrecen when a secret policeman shot into a demonstrating crowd. Active in the Revolution, Erdelyi and his wife were forced to flee. Their first escape attempt was unsuccessful; their second brought them to the United States in early 1957.

Erdelyi received a master of labrary science from the University of Michigan in 1957. He has been cataloguer at the University of Colorado Library and cataloguer, principal social sciences librarian and curator of the Germanic languages collections at Stanford University.

At Tufts, he will be second in command to the head librarian, with overall responsibility for general circulation, reserve books, reference services, documents, interlibrary loans, special collection and services and room assignments.

Erdelyi lives here with his wife.

Reception For Ed McCormack

Meetings have been held by Winchester supporters of Edward J. McCormack, Democratic endorsed candidate for Governor, to make plans for a gala reception to welcome him to the town.

In announcing the arrangements, Mrs. Mary Serieka and William Dailey as coordinators for McCormack, note that the reception will be held on Sunday, October 23, at 8 p.m. at the sons of Italy Hall on Swanton Street. There will be entertainment, dancing and refreshments.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Margaret Donohoe, 729-1328 and Mary Avakian, 729-2857, who are heading up the refreshment committee. Also from Ruth Peterson, 729-5012, who is chairman of tickets.

In addition Mrs. Serieka said that all Democratic nominees will also be extended an invitation to attend, along with local and state officials. Katherine Jennings is heading up the committee to send out the invitations.

Bill Dailey, Jim Russo, and John Hogan are coordinating the entertainment to fit into the program.

Mrs. Serieka and Bill Dailey have invited all interested residents in Town come on down and meet Eddy McCormack personally.

Shore Rd. Field Borings Start; PBC Still Looks For School Site

Borings on Shore Road field, as authorized by the Permanent Building Committee, are to be started this week on the 9.5 acres of the field itself and on the approximately 3.5 acres that could be made contiguous by tunneling under the railroad track beside the field.

Shore Road field is now under prime consideration by the Planning Board as a high school site according to William Chapman, chairman of the Planning Board, who reported informally at a joint meeting of the Secondary School Building Sub-committee and the Planning Board on Tuesday night.

Mr. Chapman stated, when asked by Mr. Vitka of the Secondary Building Committee, that his board is first considering sites near the business district of Winchester, and would consider secondly sites nearer the center of the town's population density, in the environs of Leonard Field and the Cullen property. He further stated that if no suitable site can be found under the first two precedures then the only other recourse is consideration of a peripheral site, which means an accessible West Side location.

Mr Vitka concurred that a central site must be of prime consideration. He further stated that this time it is not only encumbent upon the Building Committee to make and support a specific proposal for a high school, but it undoubtedly should make available to the Town Meeting information on alternative solutions. He emphasized that this forthcoming Town Meeting has a responsibility beyond acceptance or rejection of one proposal.

Tax Assessment Bills Cause Stir

During the past two weeks Winchester's taxpayers have been receiving their annual real estate property tax levies, and the reaction from most was anything but positive or printable.

The Board of Assessors this year concluded its two-year land revaluation and adjustment program, and most tax bills reflected the increase in local land values, left untouched by valuation assessment changes for most property owners for many years.

The land value increases were felt all across town, but heaviest hit by the fluctuating land value change were the West Side areas, the Symmes Corner areas, and the areas east of Highland Avenue. (One resident noted an increase in land value tax from 15 cents a square foot to 35 cents a foot this year.)

Similar large scale adjustments last year, again all across town but primarily in the East Side areas, and the areas west of Highland Avenue as most heavily impacted, brought on a series of citizen tax protest meetings.

Following last year's clamor for "all at once tax adjustment, or no tax adjustments," the annual Town Meeting appropriated money to have a mass appraisal and revaluation of the town by an independent specialist firm, at the suggestion of the Board of Assessors. This program is due to begin field work sometime in the next few weeks by the firm of Cole-Hayes-Trumble Company.

Dogs in Lap

Vincent P. Clarke, Town counsel, reported to the Selectmen on Monday night giving his definition of their powers relative to the recent petition of 411 citizens that all Winchester dogs be muzzled or restrained.

He left this hot potato still in their laps.

His report submitted in a letter, stated that:

Action on this issue must come from the Selectmen, acording to Chapter 140, Section 167 of the General Laws of the Commonwealth.

They have a choice as to act or not to act.

They may hold a public hearing on the issue.

That, as it is a controversial issue, they may turn to the Town Meeting for a recommendation, such recommendation to be purely advisory.

The Board of Selectmen deferred discussion on this to a later date.

Leisure Time Survey Reveals Much About Recreation Needs

Artificial Ice Rink

A community swimming pool, teen-center, and artificial ice rink topped the list of additional recreation facilities needed in the town, in the eyes of Winchester's teenagers, according to results made known this week from a Leisure Time Survey among local junior and senior high school students polled by the Winchester Recreation Committee.

Seeking to discover trends in leisure time activities and needs, the Recreation Committee, in cooperation with the Winchester School Administration, polled 1,963 of the 2,175 registered public secondary school students last March—and obtained an enthusiastic and informative response from the 90.2 per cent participating.

To provide an adequate recreation program, the Recreation Committee was anxious to determine how secondary school students used their out-of-school hours, how much free time was available, when, and what existing town recreational facilities were used, and what additional facilities the town should have.

In addition, the Committee wanted to learn how many teenagers went out of Winchester for recreational activities and what these activities were.

Because an adequate recreation program includes summertime activities, the Committee also needed to know how many youths are in Winchester during the summer.

Donald Spinney, the town's new recreation director, has found it helpful, for example, in scheduling activities, to learn that approximately 40 percent of the students have at least two hours of spare time every afternoon.

Friday evenings, Saturday afternoons and Saturday evenings are periods when up to 70 percent are looking for something to do.

In the results questioning the use of available town facilities, the Committee was pleased to learn how popular the "Rec" Club had been with the senior high students—approximately 60% enjoy this activity.

Tennis is a very popular activity with over 50% engaging in this sport and making use of the town's courts. The town beaches run a close third in popularity with the teenagers.

If the town were to obtain additional recreational facilities, the questionnaire indicated greatest interest in a swimming pool (78%), followed by a teen-center (70%) and an artificial ice-rink (45%).

The survey showed that boys' clubs and YMCA's in neighboring towns are used extensively because of their swimming pools. Nearby artificial ice skating rinks are also widely used. Another major out-of-town activity is skiing.

Among junior high students, there is high interest in roller skating and bowling, Both junior and senior high pupils said they go out of town regularly for "better movies." Both groups stated they had to go out of town to enjoy dances.

Some of the teenagers requested organized father-son activities.

This wholesome outlook encouraged the Committee, which maintains that recreation should include all ages and various activities.

In spite of today's heavy teenage schedules, the teenagers have free time available and are looking for wholesome leisure time activities, the Recreation Committee concluded. These youths must travel to neighboring communities for recreational facilities such as swimming pools and skating rinks.

The biggest surprise from the questionnaire was the discovery that 446 of the polled youngsters are in Wincheser all summer, and that 60% of the 1963 participating students are in Winchester for at least five weeks of each summer.

This leads the Recreation Committee to believe that the town needs to enlarge the current summertime program.

The limited facilities of the town can be much more extensively used, according to the Recreation Committee. Then a swimming pool and a recreation center are the primary desires of three-quarters of the students.

Area Living Costs Rise $100 Million

To what extent has the rising cost of living affected residents of Middlesex County?

How much does a local family have to spend now for the standard market basket of goods and services as compared with a year ago?

According to the latest government reports, prices in the regional area, as in most other parts of the country, have recently been moving upward at an uncomfortable rate.

A calculation based on the overall figures shows that an additional $100,443,000 a year must be spent by Middlesex County residents to purchase the same amount of goods and services that they bought in 1965.

A little inflation each year, the creeping kind, has come to be accepted by the public as normal. It has been taking place regularly, for many years. It has been looked upon, in fact, as beneficial by many economists. They contend that it makes for busier factories, more employment and larger profits.

The 1965-66 rise in the consumer price index, which has averaged more than 2.8 percent nationally, is causing concern, however. The pace is faster than in any year in the last ten.

Because of it, basic living costs in the local area are approximately $269 higher per family than they were in 1965 at this time.

That is the extent to which it has affected families in Middlesex County that have an income of $10,360.

For families at the $15,000 level, the loss in buying power amounts to $420 a year. Those with net incomes of $5,000, on the other hand, have a drop of only $140, but the squeeze on them is greater.

Can local families spend that much more and will they do so? The indications, on the strength of past performance, are yes. Most of them are able to take the price increases in stride because their incomes have been rising at a much greater rate.

People on pensions or on other fixed income, however, are being hurt as inflation eats into their purchasing power. Except for occasional increases in their social security benefits, they have no means of coping with the higher living costs.

Fire Auxiliaries Hold Open House, Look For Members

The Auxiliary Fire Department invites the public to visit the Auxiliary Fire Station for an Open House on Sunday, October 9th.

The townspeople of Winchester will have a chance to see the station, located at the North Reservoir in back of the Washington School, the equipment, and a collection of old-time fire antiques that the members of the Auxiliary Department have collected.

The Auxiliary Fire Department is a part of the Civil Defense Department, headed by John Blanchard of 11 Ridgefield Road. The Auxiliary responds when possible to all Winchester fires and if needed works under the supervision of the regular department headed by Chief I. Francis Amico.

The Auxiliary has a Lighting Truck which was built by members and responds to all night working fires. They also have a pumper (Engine 6) which is in the process of being replaced with a new front wheel drive vehicle.

Auxiliary members are not required to give a definite amount of time and they are trained and furnished boots, coat and helmet by the Town. While on duty, they are covered by insurance furnished by Civil Defense.

All fire buffs or those interested in helping the town who would like to join a congenial group, are asked to contact Capt. W. Otis of 17 Webster Street (729-1483), or better still, come to open house and see for themselves. Applicants must be over 18 and under 65 years of age, high school graduates and be able to pass a physical examination.

GOP Team Heads Volpe Campaign

A top-notch team of two Congressmen, two state senators and two state representatives have been named to head the Coordinating Committee designed to elect Governor John A. Volpe as the state's first four-year chief executive.

Heading the statewide Coordinating Committee are Congressman Bradford Morse of Lowell, Congressman Silvio Conte of Pittsfield, State Senator John Quinlan of Dover, State Senator William Weeks of Cohasset, State Representative Francis Hatch of Beverly and State Representative Vernon Farnsworth of Longmeadow.

The six experienced campaigners will organize and direct the planning the details of the campaign to re-elect Governor Volpe.

LWV Strives For Voters' Support On Ballot Item

A strong "yes" vote on referendum question 1, 2, and 4 is the November goal of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters and its local chapter here.

Although the League of Women Voters neither supports nor opposes individual candidates, it does get involved in important and exciting action on issues on which the membership has come to consensus after much fact-finding and open pro and con discussion.

Winchester Leaguers are now actively engaged in launching the pre-election campaign on these referenda, each of which has been approved by the platform of both major political parties.

Question 1 would require the voter to cast a single joint ballot for governor and lieutenant governor as he does for president and vice president. This will insure that the two top State officers will be members of the same party, thereby making them more responsible to each other and to the voters.

Question 2 is designed to make the Massachusetts Legislature more responsive to the governor's recommendations for organizational reform in the executive branch of the State government. At present, the Legislature can thwart the governor simply by taking no action on his proposals. This amendment will force them to vote one way or the other.

Question 4 is designed to return to the cities and towns the authority to deal with many local maters which now unnecessarily divert the State Legislature from more importnat tasks. This "home rule" amendment would return to the cities and towns self-government in such matters as city and town charters, local precinct organization, tenure of town employees and parking meters.

The League firmly believes that the passage of these referenda will be an important step towards bringing Massachusetts government into the 20h Century.

Campaigning Begins Locally

POLITICAL STARTING GROUND in Winchester is usually at the town incinerator, and the Republican candidate for this district's State Senator, William Barnstead, was off to an early start to try to unseat incumbent Philibert Pellegrini last Saturday. Shown with Mr. Barnstead, victor in an unusual three-way contest for the GOP primary nomination, is Gary Eaton, left, Dee Bauchspies, center, and Carmen Frongillo and Larry Smith.

Barnstead Hits At Pellegrini's Voting Record

William A. Barnstead of Arlington, Republican nominee for the State Senate in the Sixth Middlesex District (Medford, Arlington and Winchester), moved his campaign into high gear Monday night with a slashing attack on the voting record of his Democratic opponent.

Speaking at the opening of Medford Republican Headquarters at 14 Main Street, Mr. Barnstead cited seven Senate votes by incumbent Senator Phillibert

Mystic Glee Club Announces New Director

Winchester's Mystic Glee Club this week announced the appointment of Robert J. Hodgson, Jr., of Malden, as its new director replacing Wendell R. Withington, who resigned at the end of last season.

Mr. Hodgson is director of choral music at the Woburn Senior High School. He received his bachelor of music degree from Boston University and is presently completing requirements for the master of education degree.

The Mystic Glee Club, although based in Winchester, is made up of male singers from many surrounding towns.

In New England-wide competition last year, sponsored by the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs, the Mystic group walked off with top honors. It has always placed high in this stiff competition through the years and last year's honors were considered a fine tribute to Mr. Withington's direction.

Mr. Hodgson brings an equally fine background in choral direction to Winchester and the club is expected to progress even further under his direction. He was a section leader and officer of the Boston University Glee Club's touring group under Dr. James R. Houghton. The club's new director studied conduction under many well-known directors and is a member of Kappa Gamma Psi Musical fraternity.

Fred Hill, president of the Mystic Glee Club, hopes that many local residents will join the group this year and invites anyone interested in choral music to contact him at Bixby-Northrop Realtors in Winchester center. An active concert program has been planned for the 1966-67 season.

Winchester Historical Society

The Winchester Historical Society announces the fall meeting of the Bay State Historical League on October 15th.

Tales of Cape Cod, Inc. will be the host society sponsoring this meeting to be held at the Bacon Farm Inn in Barnstable.

The business meeting starts at 2 p.m. followed by slides of historic Cape places and events presented by Mrs. Edith Blanche of Centerville and movies of the arrival of Mayflower II.

All Winchester Historical members are cordially invited to attend.

Jaycee-ettes Discuss Projects

Hostess for the monthly business meeting of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes, Wednesday, September 28, was Mrs. Joseph Crocetta of Englewood Road. Members were pleased to have as guests the wives of those who have recently joined the Jaycees.

Among projects adopted for the coming year were the presentation of the Quannapowitt Players' production, "The Red Shoes," Literary and Arts Competition for elementary school children, a clothing and supplies drive for the Fernald State School, and the purchase of Christmas gifts for Winchester service personnel in Viet Nam.

Jaycee-ettes assisted in the chaperoning of the Jaycees' Teen Dance on Saturday, October 1.

On Monday, October 10, a group will travel to Wellesley to perform volunteer clerical duties for the Middlesex County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Speaking at the October 26 meeting, Joshua A. S. Young, Trust Department of the State Street Bank and Trust, will explain "Investments and Mutual Funds for Novices."

Preceding Mr. Young's talk will be the general business meeting when progress reports on such projects as the Baby Sitters' School will be given.

"Just-a-Start" At Mission Guild

On Tuesday, October 11th, at 12:45 p.m. the First Congregational Church Mission Union Guild will begin the 1966-67 year with a luncheon meeting in Chidley Hall. Mrs. Albert Dietz is the chairman. The Worship Service will be led by Mrs. John Sandbo.

"Just-A-Start" is the title of a talk to be given by Gordon N. Gottsche, director of Housing and Improvement Programs in Boston. Mr. Gottsche's many duties include urban renewal, mobilization for low-cost housing and developing and executing a series of neighborhood action programs (Just-A-Start) involving community residents and volunteers on week ends and vacations. He holds degrees in city planning from the University of Massachusetts and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

All women of the church are welcome. Baby-sitting will be provided.

Framingham Head Is Speaking At Methodist

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will have its first meeting of the fall season in Gifford Hall at the Church on Thursday, October 13, at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Ralph Hatch, the new president of the Society, will conduct a short business meeting during which she will introduce her new vice president, Mrs. Royal Morse II. Mrs. William Owens will give devotions and the speaker for the meeting will be Mrs. Betty Cole Smith, superintendent of the Massachusetts Correctional Institution of Framingham. Mrs. Smith is the former superintendent of the State Training School for girls in Minnesota and a former local director of the Women's Division of the United Prison Association.

After the talk the Membership Committee composed of Mrs. Robert Paridy, Mrs. Corey Wynn, Mrs. George Needham, Mrs. N. Oliver, and Mrs. Henry Dempsey have invited 62 prospective members for the Society to be their guests at tea. The tea arrangements are under the supervision of the Rebecca and Miriam Circles having Mesdames Leonard Griffiths, Donald Wilkins, Lewis G. Curtis as chairmen.

Any interested women in the community is cordially invited to attend.

One Week For Motor Vehicle Inspections

"Official stations throughout the state are expecting to do heavy business on motor vehicle inspection during the next two weeks," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said today. "This is due to a compliance with Massachusetts requirements."

Motor Vehicles owned and operated at any time during September 1 to October 15 must be inspected and bear the blue Fall Inspection Sticker on the windshield after the close of the period.

Any operators or owners who feel that work may be required on their vehicles should plan to get to a local inspection station as soon as possible to allow time for necessary repairs to be made. Vehicles with rejection stickers will not be allowed on the highways after October 15.

Retirement

Clerk-Bookkeeper. Gunny is also active in church work serving as treasurer of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Woburn.

Among the 80 well-wishers were members of the school administration, principals, office staff and former coworkers from the Town Hall. Henry Perry, Dr. Walter Gleason, and William Clark of the School Department Administration expressed their sentiments on her retirement.

Dr. Harry P. Gilson, superintendent of schools, gave tribute to "a rare lady" citing her efficiency, compassion and understanding. He presented Gunny with a gift from her friends, a portable typewriter. Mrs. Latour was also given a scrapbook containing appropriate humorous verses and snapshots of friends who have worked with her. A standing ovation expressed the best wishes of the group on her retirement.

Mrs. Latour is the wife of Alfred D. Latour and lives here at 62 Vine Street. She is the mother of Mrs. Warren (Carol Ann Parker) Butt of Wilmington.

Watercolors Are New Features At Co-operative Bank

This month's art exhibit at the Winchester Co-operative Bank will feature a grouping of watercolors by Mary Robbins of 379 Washington Street. This show will be a representative selection of her landscapes and seascapes.

Mrs. Robbins is an artist member of the Rockport Art Association, Rockport and she has studied watercolor with the late Polly Nordell of Boston and John Chetcuti of Rockport.

Children's Clinic, MVMHA Report Success Of Drive

Neil H. Borden, Winchester chairman of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association Capital Fund Drive, announced this week that a total of $66,991.57 has been given or pledged by the five MVMHA towns over a three-year period, toward purchase and alteration of property at 186 Bedford Street, Lexington, which has already become the home of the Association and the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic.

Announcement of the results of the whirlwind campaign, in which active solicitation ended July 1 because of United Fund policy, was deferred until this week to include returns from a pre-July mailing and reports from solicitors unable to complete their contacts because of vacations. Organizations and individuals approached by mail or in person before July 1 may still participate.

"Topping the minimum goal of $50,000 by a generous margin allows acceleration of the long task of bringing comprehensive community mental health services to the area," says Mrs. Lewis F. Good, Jr., president of the MVMHA. It is an affirmation of the present work of the Association and the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic, and an indication of the growing public awareness of the need for expanded mental health services in our five towns."

As a result, the Association has been able to make a substantial down-payment on the property, to arrange financing of the remainder at 5 and one quarter per cent, resulting in monthly payments on interest and principal less than previous rent for inadequate quarters; and to begin alterations which make the property a functional headquarters for eventual coordinated community mental health services.

Mrs. Good praised Winchester's generous response to the campaign, and the core of Winchester workers under the direction of and inspiration of Mr. Borden. They will be among the guests of honor at an Open House being planned for all interested persons Sunday, October 16, from 2 until 5 p.m. They are: Rev. Robert A. Storer, Gerald Y. Hills, Maxwell McCreery, James R. Willing, and the Mesdames Philip Downes, Sidney Stewart, Joseph Hall, Richard Wyman, Ellis Green, Harry L. Benson, James B. Willing, Donald K Lewis, John Gibson, Hiram Smith, Robert Mulford, Leslie DeGroot, Otto Schaefer, Barbara Quigley, George Redding, Walter L. Claflin, Thomas Kell, John Sandbo, Albert Penner, Charles Merenda, Richard Alt, Rowland Patrick, Ralph T. Jope, and Charles Du Toit.

K

Orientals are on the increase in American homes!

New England has been known the nation over as very Oriental Rug conscious. Why? We can only guess.

Maybe it's because we have been known as the last stronghold of the old staunch Yankees who have recognized the fact that Oriental Rugs are long-lasting and durable.

Maybe it's because the area is situated in amongst the largest number of educational institutions anywhere and we're supposed to be smarter and recognize the better things in life.

In either case, one doesn't have to be a Yankee, or have a college degree to recognize the fact that Oriental Rugs are here to stay; that they have been for hundreds of years and will continue to enhance homes in New England for centuries to come.

Contemporary, traditional, provincial or colonial, regardless of your particular decor, let us create a distinctive and lasting effect with the proper Oriental Rug.

Republican Women Look To November

The Women's Republican Club of Winchester opened its 1966-67 season with a board meeting Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. George Bramley, 12 Canterbury Road.

It was an enthusiastic session and many plans were made for an active year. Mrs. Ernest J. Wright, president, greeted the board members graciously and reminded them of their goal for which they must work diligently.

Among those present was Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, coordinator for Francis W. Sargent, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor. She spoke of his campaign progress and how much she enjoyed working both for and with him. Mr. Sargent will be the speaker at the first regular meeting of the club, which will be held Wednesday, October 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Don Greer. All members and guests may take this opportunity to meet and hear the candidate.

Others addressing the group included Representative Harrison Chadwick who explained some of the referenda to appear on the November ballot. Mrs. William Barone, coordinator for Edward Brooke, Republican candidate for U.S. Senator reported on the activity at his headquarters. Mrs. James W. Blackham, former president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, brought the greetings of the federation and displayed a perky G.O.P. sweater to be worn by some of the workers this fall.

There has been an encouraging increase in the membership and on October 5th at the home of Mrs. James Joslin, 18 Dartmouth Street. there will be a tea to welcome these new members.

Mrs. Don Greer, Republican State Committeewoman, announced a broadcast, sponsored by the State Committee which will take place on Tuesday, October 18, at 10:30 a.m. over Channel 5, at which time the seven State candidates will appear. Republican women all over Massachusetts are planning to hold morning coffees to listen to the speakers. Many will be held in Winchester and more would be welcome. Anyone interested in giving such a party, please contact Mrs. William Barone, 729-1544 or Mrs. W. E. Underwood, 729-2264.

The meeting was adjourned and a delicious luncheon and social hour was enjoyed by all.

"Nary A Drop To Drink"

"Water, water everywhere, but nary a drop to drink," quoted Dr. N. Bruce Hanes referring to our serious water pollution problem.

Father of Vicki Hanes of 5 Laurel Street and the Vinson-Owen School and a professor at Tufts University, Dr. Hanes is an environmental engineer studying water pollution and how to prevent it.

The sixth graders of Vinson-Owen School were extremely fortunate to have Dr. Hanes as visiting lecturer on Monday, September 26, explaining how to combat the spreading disgrace of water pollution. He captured and held their interest with slides and a miniature water filtration plant accompanied by an interesting oration.

Dr. Hanes, with a group of fellow scientists, traveled down the mighty Missouri and its tributaries locating water analysis stations and sources of pollution.

After the talk, the four classes individually came and listened to a full explanation of how a filtration plant operates, portrayed by a working model.

New Mothers At Noonan And Annex to Meet

A welcoming coffee, sponsored by the Noonan School Parents Association, will be held on Tuesday, October 11, at 9:30 a.m. for mothers whose children have entered Noonan School or Noonan Annex for the first time this year.

Miss Paula Caffrey, principal, will be present to meet the mothers as well as to speak on the educational structure of Noonan School Annex.

Due to the large number of new mothers this year, Miss Caffrey will also discuss briefly the ungraded primary system which was initiated at Noonan a year ago.

Members of the association's executive board, headed by Mrs. Joseph McDonough, president, will also be on hand to greet the guests.

Women Hear Of Work in India

On Tuesday, September 27, the First Congregational Women's Association was privileged to hear Mrs. Ross Thomas, their missionary in Bombay, India for some 38 years, speak at their opening luncheon meeting.

Mrs. Paul Nason, president of the Association, presided at the business meeting, following which Mrs. Thomas was introduced by Mrs. James E. Barger, program chairman. The title of the speaker's message was "The Christian's Mission in India." Mrs. Thomas stated that the basic purpose of their mission is to change the Indian's outlook on life from fatalistic to confident and optimistic. However, this is a slow process.

Mrs. Thomas then outlined the program which the United Church of Christ Mission Board initiated in 1965 to assist the Indian people, listing financial aid, agriculture and business assistance, medical education and health, and family planning clinics. By the end of 1966, Mrs. Thomas said, there should be 12,000 of these clinics.

Another feature of the program is the care of the one and a half million refugees who have poured into India from the war-torn countries of Burma, Ceylon, and Pakistan.

Mrs. Thomas also spoke of trying to develop a feeling of cooperation in aiding the unfortunate of Africa. This idea turns the Indian's thoughts to other people rather than to themselves.

Course Theme

Adapting to the constantly changing concepts of education, family sex and religion are some of the subjects which will be discussed by Norman Goldstein and his guest speakers during the ten-week Adult Education Course, "Mental Health in a Changing Community." Starting on Tuesday, October 11 at 7:30 at the Senior High School, the course will be co-sponsored by the Winchester Mental Health Association.

One of the lecture series will be built around the approach and point of view of the schools on the subject, one around religion, with a local Protestant minister, Catholic priest and a rabbi as guest speakers. One will have as lecturer Dr. Jacob Christ, director of MacLean Hospital and an authority in the field of family relationships and exponent of family therapy.

The course has been initiated and designed by the local Mental Health Association as a way of strengthening the insights of participants about themselves and those around them, and as a response to the questions of citizens here about the availability of community resources in mental health.

Dr. Goldstein, chief psychologist at the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic which serves Winchester families, received his Ph.D. in clinical psychology at Boston University. He is experienced not only in child guidance, but has worked in the psychiatric service at Beth Israel Hospital and has acted as psychological counselor at Brandeis University. Registration remains open at the School Department offices, 1017 Main Street (729-8130) through tomorrow or on opening night at the High School.

AT MARYCLIFF co-chairmen, Mesdames Frank Massimilla and Ferdinand Martignetti, and Guild president, Mrs. Joseph Simeone, discuss final plans for their forthcoming "Autumn Leaves" Bazaar, which will be held at Marycliff Academy, High Street, on Tuesday, October 18, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

UNICEF Story For Alliance

The first regular meeting of the season for the Women's Alliance of the Winchester Unitarian Society will be held on Wednesday, October 11th at the Church.

The speaker will be Mrs. Robert B. Williams, an Alliance member, who is the State Representative to the United States Committee for UNICEF. She has chosen as her title "Window on the Future" and will include slides of a trip to Guatamala undertaken following the spring workshop in New Orleans that brought together State Representatives from 46 States including Hawaii.

Mrs. Williams says that this UNICEF trip was "Such a cultural shock it served as the spark that lit the fire" of her volunteer work. Most recently, Mrs. Williams has been busy setting up a UNICEF Committee of Boston, which she has formed of people from many walks of life and ethnic backgrounds. She says "the truly ecumenical spirit of UNICEF is what gives me such a wonderful feeling."

Mrs. Wilbert E. Underwood, this years Alliance president plans to open the business session at 12 noon followed by luncheon at one o'clock. This month the luncheon chairman is Mrs. George B. Redding. Her committee consists of Mrs. Neil H. Borden, Mrs. Herbert Black, Mrs. Frank T. Barnes, and Mrs. Lawrence Trevett. The waitresses under Mrs. Anthony Zovickian's supervision are Mrs. Charles H. Astor, Mrs. Bouldin G. Burbank, Mrs. Irving W. Dingwell, Jr., Mrs. Leslie Doten, Jr., Mrs. Robert L. Low, Mrs. Carlton W. Totman, and Mrs. David Wardwell. Devotions are the responsibility of Mrs. Linscott Ruder, tickets Mrs. Wade L. Grindle, and decorations Mrs. Frederick W. Cole.

A special invitation is being extended to new members of the Women's Alliance and of course all are welcome to hear this outstanding speaker.

JAMES FLETCHER BATES, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bates of 26 Mt. Pleasant Street recently enlisted in the U. S. Navy for four years and is training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois, according to Chief Schoepke, the local Navy Recruiter. James is a 1966 graduate of Winchester High School.

Bankers Here Serve MBA

Three Winchester bankers will serve on committees of the Massachusetts Bankers Association for 1966-67, it has been announced by Thaddeus R. Beal, president of the association and of the Harvard Trust Company, Cambridge.

Continuing their assignments will be Allister R. MacKay, vice president of the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, a resident of 9 Lockeland Road, chairman of the fiduciary committee; Robert A. Nyere of 19 Arlington Street, vice president of the First National Bank of Boston, installment credit committee; and Laurence W. Lougee, 7 Cliff Street, vice president of the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, joint legislative committee's sub-committee on taxes.

Waltzing Evenings Will Again Spark

There will be "quite a do," as grandma used to say, on October 14 and 15, at the Winchester Town Hall, the setting for the 15th annual Waltz Evenings.

The mood will be sophisticated, but the music will be as lilting and gay as the people. Dancing starts at 9 p.m. to the strains of Don Russell's orchestra and to a background starred with richly colored flowers, each one more beautiful even than the rose, created by those scissor and paper Merlins on the decorating committee.

The Waltz Contest, which adds the surprise ending everyone enjoys so much, will begin at 10:30 p.m. both evenings. This contest is fair game for everyone except the 1st place winners from the past two years. Lovely prizes donated by some of Winchester's generous mecrhants will be presented to the three couples singled out by the judges each evening. An exhibition waltz, performed by former 1st place winners dating back over the past 15 years, will precede the contest.

A telephone answering service will be set up at the Town Hall for the convenience of those attending. There will also be a 'Mixed Bouquet' table for couples who are not attending Waltz Evening with a group.

The list of patrons and patronesses is growing. Anyone wishing to make a contribution may do so by writing a check payable to the Friends of the Winchester Hospital and mailing to Mrs. Henry Curtis, 290 Main Street.

Anyone can make coffee cake without coffee, Caesar salad without Caesar, chop suey without chops, ad infinitum: but the Friends of the Winchester Hospital just can't make a successful Waltz Evening without waltzers.

Saturday evening is already a sellout; but tickets still may be obtained for Friday, October 14, from Mrs. Richard Gorman (729-2831).

Castaways to Play At St. Eulalia's

St. Eulalia's Parish Hall will be the scene Saturday night, October 8th, from 8 to 11, for a teen mixer, sponsored by the C.Y.O. of St. Eulalia and the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church.

The popular Castaways will be the featured band. Proceeds from this event will be for the benefit of an Ecumenical Retreat planned by these two groups together in November. All teens are welcome at the mixer. Jackets and ties required.

MSPCA Benefit A Huge Success

The champagne luncheon cinema held at the Granada Theatre on Monday, September 26, was one of the most successful events the MSPCA has sponsored.

Following the "champagne hour" and a sumptuous lunch, two excellent movies were shown. Door prizes donated included a bottle of champagne from the MSPCA, an ornamental glass hen filled with candy from Renton's Market, a bath novelty from Avon, a permanent by Leo from Countryside Beauty Salon in Lexington, hair styling by Woody's and dinner for two followed by a movie at the Granada. A doll was also raffled off.

The oil paintings exhibited in the lobby of the Granada were painted by Babs Barlow and are being held over until October 22 at the request of the management.

The MSPCA opened its fall season recently with a meeting held in the spacious home of Mrs. George DeVries. Michael Alfonso of the Animal Rescue League of Fall River emphasized in his very interesting talk, the importance of publicity in the placing of homeless animals. Through coverage on Channel 6, New Bedford, and pictures of "Dog of the Week" in the local newspaper, the League has placed approximately 1000 animals annually.

A social hour followed the meeting. Tea was served by Mrs. Woodrow Boynton and Mrs. Henry Delaney, with Mrs. William MacDonald and Mrs. Richard Chase pouring.

Miss Schmidt Of WVNA Speaks On Child Care

Tonight marks the opening of the first in a series of six programs included in the Baby Sitters' School sponsored by the Winchester Jaycee-ettes.

The classes to be held at the Red Cross House, will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Featured speaker for the evening will be Miss Margaret C. Schmidt, senior staff nurse of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association. Prior to assuming this position, Miss Schmidt was on the nursing staffs of St. Joseph's Hospital, Syracuse, New York, and the Massachusetts General Hospital.

A graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing with a B.S. in nursing from Boston College. Miss Schmidt is a member of state and national nursing leagues and the Winchester chapter of the American Red Cross.

In conjunction with the local Red Cross Chapter she has directed classes here for expectant parents. Infant and child care is her topic for this first lecture.

Stressing safety precautions in each area, Miss Schmidt will instruct sitters in feeding, bathing, and dressing routines. In addition she will familiarize students with appropriate methods and attitudes concerning nap and bed time and outdoor care.

As with all of the lectures in the series, a question and answer period will follow.

Participants are again reminded to have materials for note-taking and to arrive well in advance of the scheduled starting time.

Field Trip For Mineral Club

The Mineral Club of Winchester is planning a two-day field trip to Bath, Maine, for anyone interested in going.

The trip is planned for the weekend of October 15 and 16.

Forum Is Busy

On Sunday, October 9, the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church will attend the 11 a.m. morning worship in the main sanctuary of the church for their monthly Forum in church services. They will hear Dr. Cart on the subject "Where the Action Is."

At 6 p.m. that evening there will be a Forum supper with speaker, Father John White, director of the School of Religion of St. Patrick Parish in Stoneham on "Ecumenical Action Programs." The annual fall outing takes place Columbus Day, a trip to Essex, where the Forumites will spend the day at the Choate farm. The bus leaves the church at 9 a.m.

Saturday, October 8, there will be an Ecumenical Dance for the joint benefit of St. Eulalia and Forum young people, the proceeds to go toward the Ecumenical conference which will be held at Pembroke, New Hampshire in November. The Castaways will play. Time is 8 p.m. at St. Eulalia's.

Dancing For St. Eulalia's

Many parishioners of St. Eulalia's Church have made reservations for the parish dinner dance Tuesday, October 11, at Montvale Plaza in Stoneham. It will begin with a champagne hour and roast beef dinner, followed by a brief speaking program and an evening of dancing to music furnished by the Plaza's orchestra.

The dinner dance will also officially start the parish fund drive. A committee of parishioners is handling arrangements for the dinner dance at which a large attendance is expected, and the drive. Workers for the drive will meet tonight.

Nursing Home Opens with Look To Intensive Care

The first of several unique convalescent care centers planned for the Greater Boston area, the Normandy House Nursing Home which opened at 15 Green Street, Melrose, recently embodies a completely new concept in intensive medical rehabilitative care for the patient in transition from hospital to home.

According to Dr. Edward B. Hager and Dr. Constantine Hampers, medical director, the Normandy House "provides many of the services of an acute care hospital without the excessive burden of overhead costs. It bridges the gap between hospital and home as a true convalescent center." They foresee a greater availability of hospital beds for critically ill individuals thanks to this new type of intermediary medical facility.

The new nursing home is geared to the stringent requirements of Medicare and can handle most specialized cases including healing fractures, post-operative care and other special medical problems.

Services available to patients in the ultra-modern three-story fireproof building include 24-hour care by registered nurses, occupational therapy, special diets, medications, physiotherapy and laboratory testing.

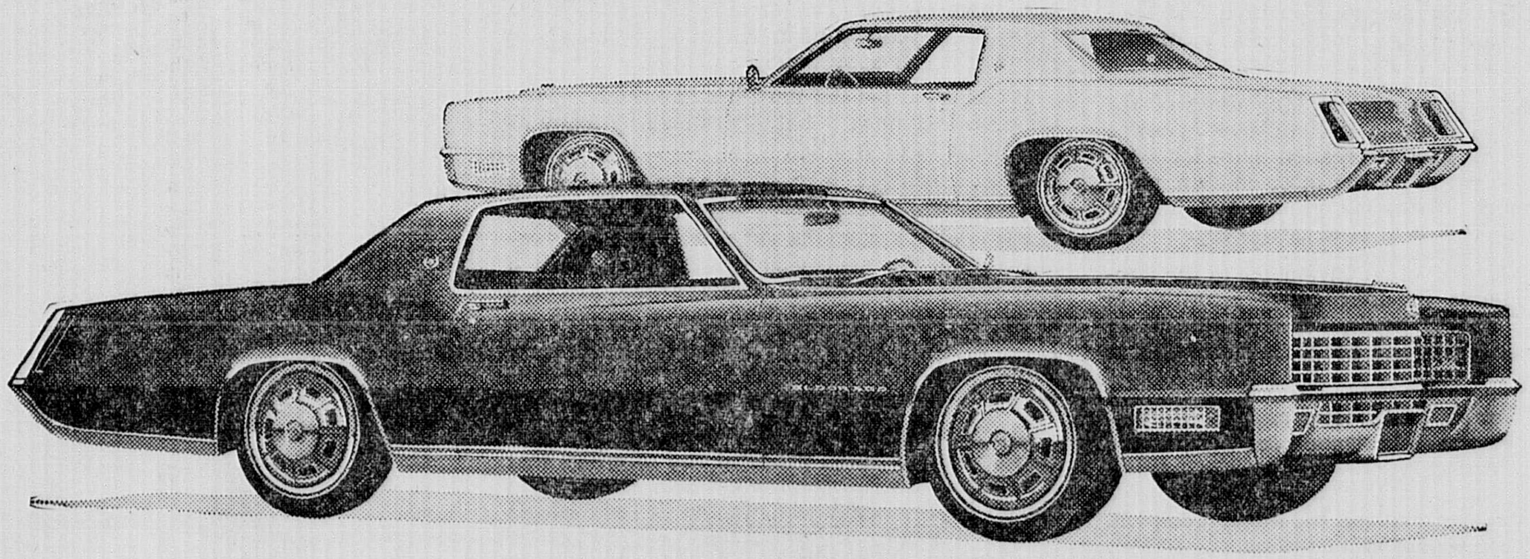
Surprisingly New! Superbly Cadillac!



ELDORADO...world's finest personal car

INTRODUCING THE 1967 STANDARD OF THE WORLD

You are looking at two of the newest luxury cars ever created. They are typical of Cadillac for 1967. The Fleetwood Eldorado—the world's finest personal car—is the first exciting case in point. Eldorado is a styling masterpiece . . . with its spectacularly long hood, its daring new roof lines and its dramatic rear quarter design. It is also an engineering triumph. For Eldorado is the first car in the world to combine the sure-footed traction of front wheel drive with the maneuverability of variable ratio power steering and the balance of automatic level control. And with all its spirit and action, Eldorado provides unusual five-passenger spaciousness and the quietness and comfort that only Cadillac could create. This brilliant newness also marks the Cadillacs you are most familiar with. For they are the most beautiful Cadillacs of all time . . . with a new forward-sweeping grille and a new side contour that flows from front to rear! And with this new Cadillac look come a number of other achievements...the most luxurious interiors in history...a new generously padded instrument panel...a more responsive Cadillac engine . . . improved variable ratio power steering . . . and a new General Motors-developed energy absorbing steering column. Discover Cadillac for 1967 for yourself...at your authorized dealer's. Once you have personally seen and driven these exceptional new automobiles, you'll agree that never before has anything on the highway said new so beautifully...or Cadillac so well!

Down With Secret Government

Tuesday night's meeting of the Permanent Building Committee's secondary school subcommittee was in the first place an illegally held public meeting, and in the second place it appeared to be called into an illegally constituted "executive session"—or closed to the public without proper justification for the purpose of conducting a secret meeting.

The meeting in the East Room of the Town Hall was illegally held because there was no public notice of it placed on the bulletin board in the Town Hall, as is, by law, the requirement and general practice.

Chapter 39, Section 23A of the General Laws, the state law on open meetings, reads in part: "Except in an emergency, a notice of each board meeting shall be, at least twenty-four hours, prior to such meeting, publicly posted, on the principal official bulletin board of such municipality."

We could be generous with our opinion and hope to assume that the error of no notice in this case might have been a mere human error of oversight. However, for some unknown reason, some town boards are making this type of secret meeting an all too common practice, and for what public benefit, we ask?

For what end public good does a secret government in Winchester serve?

Frankly, from where we sit, the Permanent Building Committee is one of the most attentive committees to the proper observances of the spirit of the open meeting law, and usually is very good about posting its notices and not calling unnecessary executive sessions.

One of the worst infractors to the spirit of the open meetings law appears to be the Board of Selectmen, which holds frequent no notice meetings aside from its regularly scheduled ones, and which frequently goes into unnecessary and illegal executive sessions.

The Planning Board is another great infractor of the open meetings law as it almost invariably calls executive sessions anytime it wants to discuss something more important or controversial than the weather.

It was, in fact, the Planning Board which insisted on having an executive session at Tuesday night's meeting of the PBC, on the grounds that it would "affect the financial interests of the town."

Poppycock!

The state law on open meetings reads, in part: "All board meetings shall be open to the public and to the press unless the board shall vote to go into executive session. Such executive session may be held only for the purpose of discussing, deliberating or voting on those matters, which if made public might adversly affect the public security, the financial interest of the town or the reputation of any person."

We would invite the Planning Board to explain how their discussions with the PBC on feasible sites for a secondary school location at this stage of the game involved the "financial interests of the town." This is the Planning Board's favorite gambit for conducting secret meetings, meetings which cannot be opened up to the free flow of public information for public discussion, and we say it is wrong. It is illegal. And it is detrimental to the public interest in Winchester.

The withholding of information is secrecy; and the withholding of public information by public agencies is secret government.

Do we need or want secret government in Winchester?

Tested Trends

The Recreation Committee's Leisure Time Survey just released reveals proof positive that feelings in the community for more public recreation programs and facilities are substantial.

The value of the survey polling most of the secondary school students is significant in terms of providing the new Recreation Director with background statistics for the most efficient planning development of new programs, and for the coordinated improvement of existing ones.

In addition, it will prove invaluable to the Recreation Committee in determining priorities in program and facility needs, based on trends in leisure time activities and needs as discovered in the survey.

Both the Recreation Director and the Recreation Committee are enthusiastic over the positive and constructive response elicited on the Leisure Time Survey that was applied to junior and senior high school students, and feel the information will be of great use to furthering the interests of an expanded and beneficial recreation program in the coming years.

It is interesting to point out that the most desired new facilities expressed by the youth of the town were, in order of preference, a public swimming pool for the summer months, a teen-center for general year-round use, and an artificial ice rink for winter sports and recreation.

It might be said the town has two public swimming beaches now, but they are held by many as not adequate or healthy.

Some might say the use of McCall on Friday and Saturday nights for a "Rec" Club is enough, but it is only a partially sufficient and temporary answer for the evidenced usefulness of such a teen-center. And others could argue that the town recently built an inexpensive natural ice rink by the municipal parking lot opposite the Town Hall, but few would candidly affirm it satisfied the real need in this quarter.

Much remains to be done to bring to Winchester the recreation program and offerings that a community of this nature needs, wants, and should have. Fortunately, we see in such efforts as the conducting of the Leisure Time Survey by the Recreation Committee and the forward thinking and capable leadership of the new Recreation Director, a soundly founded basis for developing constructive progress in this area of community life here.

Intercontinental Friendships:

Student Horizons Broaden

Back at their books with outlooks widened by their trips to far away places are three High School girls each of whom came to their classrooms fresh from journeys to South America.

Others have journeyed to many other countries, and, to turn the coin to its other side, about 20 foreign students are in Winchester classrooms this fall because their parents have chosen to live here while on business or studying in the Greater Boston area.

Two of the young ladies who spent South American summers—one in Colombia, one in Uruguay—are eager to express their gratitude to those who, through the WHS Student Council or the WHS Parent-Teacher Association, helped to sponsor their trip. They went under the aegis of the International Fellowship Group. And, they are Jessica Sirrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sirrine of 75 Lawson Road who studied in Barranquilla, Colombia and Sharon Wilkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Malcolm Wilkinson of 74 Grove Street who was in Montevideo, Uruguay.

Elizabeth Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dolan of 7 Lakeview Terrace, returned August 26 from a year's stay in Quito, Ecuador, where she had gone under her family's guidance for study in La Immaculada, a church school for girls in this capital city.

The least common denominator of the reports of these young ladies is enthusiasm.

EVERONE SHOULD GO

"I just wish everyone could go!" "It makes you want to study and learn even more when you come back!" "They were just wonderful to me—all so warm!"

Sharon and Jessica wanted in particular to share their experiences with others so that more High School young people will this year apply for the opportunity. According to the High School guidance office, information on the International Fellowship program may be had from them or from Mrs. Charles Stebbins of Oxford Street, Parent Faculty exchange officer.

Sharon's experience in Uruguay has already been shared at WHS as her schoolmates at the public school she attended—Lyceo No. 8—sent an extensive scrapbook back with her. Writing in turn for them, she said about Uruguay, "I like the spirit of the people and the sense of freedom of the land, stemming from the "gaucho." . . . One very good idea showing this is the free education through university." . . . (and) "It is the little things that a person notices: a smile, a busdriver's thoughtfulness, a few attempted words in English . . . "

Sharon, reports that her whole group of classmates joined with her host family to give "Gringa" a send-off home.

The girls found some things in common about their experiences in three different countries and some things very different.

"Alka Seltzer and Coco Cola signs were all over—and they drank coke for breakfast, lunch and dinner," they agreed upon. "The traffic was wild—no stop signs, just honking," was another concensus.

But Jessica in Colombia and Elizabeth in Ecuador reported much more impact from striking poverty than did Sharon in Uruguay. Jessica lived just outside Barranquilla and was impressed with the contrast between the very rich and the very poor. "Burros, little tiny, heavily laden burros," were what came first to her mind, remembering things that were different, "And it was hard to get used to the beggars all over—and the very poor and sick condition of some of the people."

Elizabeth had made contact for her year through her father's interest in Harvard's international student group and went to live with the family of a young Ecuadoran who had lived in Cambridge. She was a student at La Immaculada School in Quito—at first, like the others, with no Spanish.

One of her experiences that most highlighted her year was a vacation-journey with classmates out into the jungle missions—the excitement of those visited, some of whom had had no outside visitors ever—and the sharp contrast between their way of life and that of the more sophisticated cities of Ecuador.

EDUCATION

Her year made her hungry to study more history and, although she was complimentary about her curriculum and the presentation of her studies, she remarked on the emphasis on memorizing and that she, and the others too, missed the more probing, discussion approach that she is accustomed to here.

For Elizabeth another highlight was the visit of her family—her father making the trip in the Christmas season and her mother and aunt at Easter. They visited her in the beautiful home she lived in outside the city with a view of five snow-capped mountains. The enrichment and interest of her program were outweighed by the things that home has to offer in a hard decision as to whether to stay for an extra year.

All three girls reported being put on the spot difficult even for some statesmen, in being asked socially and at school to explain the United States position in Vietnam, to explain why it is we have such an erupting civil rights problem, and even to explain the motivations and directions of LBJ himself. They did their best.

LIVING EXPERIMENT

Many other high school students have gone to other countries in the past months and years and all their trips are of maximum interest to Constance Trickett of Lorena Road, dean of girls, who has been a trip director for the Experiment in Living for the past few years, taking groups all over the world, including to Japan. Among others, Judy Robison of 11 Thornberry Road, WHS '66 was abroad for a very happy summer with the Student Ambassador Program and Joan Wheeler, WHS '64 spent a summer in Torquay, Devon and the Isle of Wight, England with Jobs Abroad. Jobs Abroad is a ten week European work program which this year sent 800 young Americans to do resort work, farm work or manufacturing work in England and all over the continent. The High School Guidance Office should be able to supply information on many of these programs.

VISITORS HERE

This year the Winchester High School has in its student body Michiko Nakajima, an exchange student from Japan who will spend her whole junior year here.

And in addition, according to a report from the School Publicity Officer, the public schools are playing host to a number of children from other lands in addition to new pupils representing many of the 50 states across the country.

"Mathew Hoedt from Holland and Rosalma Zubizarreta from Peru are sharing their experiences with Winchester children in Wyman School. International flavor is being supplied in Parkhurst by Afaf Georgia from Iraq and Osa and Anders Djarngard from Sweden.

"From Portugal for their second year at Mystic School are Paula and Helena Malheiro, children of the Portugese Consul, Afonso H. Malheiro. Learning American customs as well as the three R's in Washington School are Laura and Manfredi Palma from Palermo, Italy; Craig and Elizabeth Jenkins from Canada; and Carlos de la Cuesta from Colombia, South America. Monica, Christian, and Yannick Le Coz have come from France and are also at the Washington School.

"Lidija Marincic from Yugoslavia; Rosa MacKay from Malaga, Spain; and Bowman Cox who recently came from Yokosuka, Japan are enriching learning exepriences for themselves and their classmates at Lincoln School.

"Through relating their personal experiences in far away lands these students help make social studies more meaningful for their classmates. In addition, their presence can, on a small scale, make a contribution toward better international understanding."

HANDS ACROSS THE TABLE are really hands across the seas, as Miss Leonor Rich, principal, gathers together her '66-'67 enrollment of youngsters from other lands who are: Monica, Christian and Yannick Le Coz from Paris; Carlos De La Cuesta from Colombia, South America; Craig and Elizabeth Jenkins from Canada, and Laura and Manfredi Palma from Palermo, Italy.

"MY FAMILY WAS JUST WONDERFUL," is how Sharon Wilkinson, fifth from left, came to feel about host family in Montevideo, Uruguay, which adopted her for the summer under auspices of the International Fellowship group. The Santiago Pereira family, with her above, had her thinking in Spanish before she came home, although she'd gone to Montevideo with no Spanish at all.

BOOK REVIEW

by Leila-Jane Roberts
Winchester Public Library

THE MENORAH MEN

by Lionel Davison

This is a book which fits in our MS category—a Mystery Spy story as contrasted with the Mystery story involving a detective. It has all the standard ingredients: two governments trying to locate the same information, a main character who is forced by circumstances beyond his initial comprehension into the role of hero, a beautiful girl, suspense, derring-do. BUT it has an original twist — the setting is Israel, and the sought-for information is on a scroll which may lead to the discovery of the original Menorah.

> ". . . the lamp, the great-seven-branched lamp, the Menorah, has been the symbol of Judaism for some thousands of years; of his own state, Israel, for the past fifteen or so. The Roman conquerer Titus took the lamp when he destroyed the Temple in August of 70. A representation of it is still to be seen on his Triumphal Arch in Rome; a group of Romans carry the massive gold object through the Roman streets in the triumphal procession. The procession was witnessed by the historian Flavius Josephus, who recorded it in the finest detail . . .
> "Apart possibly from the True Cross and the True Shroud, the True Menorah has attracted a larger corpus of fairy tales and legend than any other artifacts in history. Its design and dimensions were of course as specified by God to Moses —in history's earliest as-told-to, the Pentateuch —and as subsequently installed in the Temple by Solomon. With such sponsors, the devout have always accorded it magical properties, including inviolability."

There is a badly damaged account of the disposition of three copies of the scroll. How to translate, how to fill in missing spaces, how to find the location once the translation is accomplished? These are the elements of a fast-moving, suspenseful plot.

The beautiful girl is in the Israeli army and is the driver provided for our scholar-librarian-hero and of course propinquity promotes a mutual admiration society. Much Jewish ritual and history come to life because the author is well versed in his background information. The old orthodox Jewish point-of-view is represented by Shoshana's father. The new style of communal Kibbutz living is exemplified by her married sister. Her fiance is a Morrocan soldier, six feet, six inches tall.

While this book will never become a classic, it can be highly recommended as an above-average example of its kind.

letters to the editor

EDITOR'S NOTE:

The Star's policy in publishing letters to the editor is such that the columns are left as "open" as possible, with the exceptions of those that are held libelous, in bad taste, or that are unsigned.

On rare occasions pen-named letters are printed when there is a view particularly well expressed and when the newspaper is given the name of the writer for its files, and for what legitimate reasons the name is asked to be withheld.

Recently the Star printed a few of these unsigned letters on issues of community discussion. However, the consequent number of unsigned letters from writers who do not wish to have their name stand behind their views, made a restatement of this policy necessary.

If writers of letters do not think enough about their views to warrant their signature to stand by it, then the Star does not feel it should publish it.

The Editor

A Final Word

Editor of the Star:

I do wish Mrs. Edgell would talk practicalities instead of, as she herself puts it, waxing "emotional" and regaling us with her various adventures with cats and dogs. However, it does fill (and I do mean "fill!") the pages of the Star with that essential to all drama, namely, conflict of minds!

Although somewhat confused as to exact procedure, I gather, from expressed opinions of dog owners in general and—surprisingly—that of the Star, that when a dog attacks me, bites me, or tears my clothing I will have the comforting recourse of appeal to the Board of Selectmen, who in due course will direct the dog officer to issue "formal" warning (engraved, I hope) to the owner of the dog on first offense; then on second offense (meaning, I presume, if I am bitten again) with "more attention to enforcing those warnings." As to what happens then, if anything, I'm even more confused. Why not vote medals of honor to well-behaved or trained dogs, which they could wear to assure us of their good intentions?

Seriously, however, I gather from the Star editorial that dog owners should be "more responsible to seeing that their dogs don't roam so far from the homestead." For heaven's sake, isn't that the purpose, and the sole one, of the proposed leash law. How else can they achieve it? Tell the dog how far he can go?

The Star also says editorially, "the number of infractors to the common good is small." How do they get that way?

Opponents of the leash law have cited as horrible examples Hitler and his crew, the prohibition fiasco, and the unjust laws and taxation of the American Revolution. Without recourse to such formidable backing, those of us who support it just don't like being annoyed and bitten, and wish to find out if we have to. It's as simple as that.

Frankly, we're getting exactly nowhere airing our respective opinions, rights and preferences in the pages of the Star, or elsewhere. Let's vote! Some of us are raring to go.

Sincerely,
Rupert F. Jones
31 Mystic Avenue

Will Be Howls On Leash Law

Editor of the Star:

I hope that those who have signed the petitions for dog leashing in Win-chester can in good conscience go to bed at night and sleep peacefully. How cruel can you be? You not only make the dog suffer but you also deny many elderly people, both men and women, the joy, love and companionship of a dog, simply because they are too old or ill to walk the dog. Children will be denied pets in many instances, because mothers will be too busy with other chores to walk the dog.

I have two dogs, and have never counted the times they are at the door daily, and I have to open it and say "either get in or get out." I never tire of it, as I love them both.

The complaint in this week's Star from a probable "newcomer" to Winchester about the deposits on her velvety green lawn and her toddler being knocked to the ground, brought a chuckle to us. The dog was probably playing with the child.

Take a ride around Winchester early any Saturday or Sunday morning and you will be amazed to see what has been deposited on the velvety green lawns around town! The dogs cannot be blamed in this matter.

Another complaint, nice towns and cities like Belmont, Arlington, Melrose, etc., have adopted a leash law, so let's follow suit. These cities and towns adopted a code of dress for school children which we have not. Give that some thought and try "leashing" that problem first.

I have lived in Winchester for many years and know of many more serious matters needing attention before the innocent dogs do. The dog problem is a minor one. We have plenty of other "things" which should be leashed first.

I feel deeply sorry in my heart for my dogs and all other freedom loving dogs in Winchester. The bad dogs are in a minority. If leashed the dogs will just sit all day and grow stupid from inactivity. How far can you go on the end of a rope? Once tied up I know my dogs will bark all day, and I am sure others' will too.

So dear "dog haters," and that is what you have to be to want a dog tied up, get ready for the concert. Either put your ear plugs in, or leave them out, whichever you choose, and enjoy the neighborhood band concerts.

It will be the "Battle of the Bands," with some howls thrown in, for sweeter music.

Sincerely,
Mrs. R. Elliott

All Kinds Of Reasons For . . .

Editor of the Star:

When I wrote my reasons for wanting dogs restrained in Winchester, I had no idea what a field day for hate and emotionalism I was setting off. Nor did it occur to me that I should mention our son-in-law flying bombers in Viet Nam, the fact that I was orphaned at age 34, or that I was not allowed a bike when I was ten because "there were too many cars on the road." And I failed to add that anyone opposing my views was certainly a member in good standing of a dubious political organization.

I know that dog owners can train and restrict their animals, members of the family, beloved

All adults are not about to commit crimes, either, but we have laws to protect the innocent and punish offenders, or public nuisances. And I know that all youngsters do not molest animals. But this is not Utopia. This is modern-day Winchester.

All adults are not to commit crimes, either, but we have laws to the offender. That bit about the number of infractors to a common good really was a beauty. In fact, the sound of "Hearts and Flowers" being played in the background accompanies so much that has been published.

One can hate cats, hate children, deplore teenagers, all of them—dislike neighbors, and disapprove of men in high office, but the thought of a mutually beneficial enforcing of rules for pets, and whoosh—out comes the lace-trimmed handkerchief. And the name-calling. What began as an adult interest in the preserving of the rights of all citizens in the town has become a verbal exchange of non-sequiturs and unfortunate slurring. And, as so many have pointed out, the name-calling is all on one side.

In closing, I must add that I feel sorry that even one writer feels that he has the right to decide not to obey a law unless he feels that it is a "good" law. What a marvelous way to live.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Erwin Hutchings

Role of Parents Is Stressed For Baby-Sitters

Editor of the Star:

Although this letter was prompted in response to last week's item by Mrs. Chase, it would more fittingly be addressed to the parents of Winchester.

We agree with Mrs. Chase that the term "baby sitter," although universally accepted, is indeed an inadequate title to confer on an individual who has entered another person's home to assume the responsibility of becoming a substitute parent!

Over the past several months the Winchester Jaycee-ettes have been preparing a 6 week "Baby Sitters' " Course, (Winchester Star. September 8, 15 issues) which opens this evening at the Red Cross House.

During our investigation, we have found that parents expect sitters to be prepared to handle all routine and emergency situations efficiently and calmly...they expect them to know how to feed, bed, play with, love, and control their charges...and they expect their sitters to know how to administer first aid, contact police and fire departments, or handle a power failure without chaos.

We agree that they have a right to expect all of these things.

However, we believe that the sitter, in turn, has an equal right to expect the parents to provide them with adequate information in order for them to perform their duties properly...they should expect to set a mutually satisfactory rate before any commitment to sit is established...and they should expect parents to state when they will be home and to be there at that time (emergencies excepted).

The most distressing part of our work has been hearing sitters' reports concerning the attitude of their employers. Many say that some parents are in too much of a hurry to spare a few moments to tell them where they can find a flashlight, first aid supplies, or the emergency switch for the furnace. Often, sitters are left in charge of sleeping children without the remotest idea of where the bedrooms are located and which ones contain lives for which they are responsible. In a few cases, when the employers pick up the sitter in an automobile, they don't even know the address of the home in which they are employed.

One teen-ager reports that a parent refused to say where they would be lest an emergency arise and their plans would be interrupted!

Our responsibility as parents does not end when the sitter arrives. We must make it our business to see to it that they are properly informed when we entrust to them the well-being of our children.

Five months work has gone into the preparation of our course in order that the participants will receive a truly beneficial training experience, as Mrs. Chase suggests, but please parents, let's not overlook our responsibility.

It might be well for all of us to reassess our attitude toward our sitters. It is most probable that a substitute parent will care only as much as the natural parent's concern generates...shouldn't we then be expected to set a good example?

We think so...Please let's try!

Sincerely,
Mrs. John J. Williams

Clif Keane Good Copy For Sports Illustrated

Clif Keane, known here as the head of a lively family living at 22 Lloyd Street and known around the country as a Boston Globe sportswriter, had the tables turned on him and was himself the subject of a feature story in the October 3 issue of Sports Illustrated.

The Winchester New Co. sold out immediately and reports it could have sold many, many more copies of the current issue had they had had the proper advance notice from the publishers.

The genial Clif, though billed as a poison pen artist, was drawn by writer Frank Deford with a pen more dipped in the milk of human understanding or at least the good hot broth of human rough and tumble.

The story tells of his 25 years of Globe reporting, preceded by a stint as a real estate ad salesman and by a start as a copy boy. It paints him as the ignitor of fast repartee in every dugout, with an electric word for everyone— a kidder par excellence. He once reported President Eisenhower's golf in such a way as not to be sent out on such an assignment again.

The Keane family is well known here. Bernice, a former Globe writer herself and still on its pages as a Globe Santa reporter each Christmas, is perennial top woman golfer at Meadowbrook Golf Club. All three of their children are WHS graduates. Dennis, 27, also a graduate of Harvard and its business school, is in business in New York. Jacqueline Keane, a Wheaton graduate, is married to a doctor and at present living in California with their baby daughter. Donald is a senior at U. Mass.

The story in Sports Illustrated was about Clif. It might have been about a co-Globe sportswriter, Jerry Nason, or head of Herald Traveler sports, Cliff Sundberg—two other well-known residents.

Doggerel

The doggonedest furor has unleashed
Itself upon our town:
Whether it is civil or uncivil
To tie a good dog down
Or whether dogs shall continue free to roam,
As doggies do,
From public park to private lawn
Leaving doggy residue?
Times that stress our human rights lead canine
To his darkest hour.
All who harken to his howl rally round
The cry "Dog Power."
As to where I stand on issue, let me
Just say this in parting,
One of man's best friends just bit me,
(no puppycock) it's smarting.

Auto Thefts

Three acts of vandalism and theft occurred Tuesday in the parking lot at Wedgemere Station.

Police officers on a routine check discovered at 3 p.m. that the front left wheel and lugs had been removed from one Winchester car.

Reported to them at 5:30 was the theft from a second car of a suitcase, which had been locked in. Reported to them at 5:45 was the theft from a third car of an electric appliance and a tool box.

According to the League of Women Voters observer present, Otto Schaefer of the Planning Board also felt that the forthcoming special Town Meeting must make some kind of positive decision concerning the high school problem due to the urgency of the situation.

In answer to a Planning Board request for a reasonable acreage criterion for a high school site, Mr. Vitka stated that there is no absolute acreage requirement of the State School Building Assistance Commission in order for Winchester to receive state aid to build new high school facilities. The town must make an honest effort towards a visible solution that will meet the needs of the school population, the long range planning of the town, and be sound structurally and financially. The proposal will be evaluated under all these criteria.

When asked what he considered an absolute minimum acreage requirement for a high school site Mr. Vitka proposed that 9 to 10 acres was a minimum, three or four acres for the building and five acres for physical education playing fields. Using this acreage, serious compromises would be necessary in the structure of the building and in the adjacent space for physical education.

At this point in the meeting Mr. Schaefer stated that the meeting was about to discuss matters that concern the financial welfare of the town and moved that the meeting go into executive session. This motion was carried with no dissent and the meeting went into executive session at about 9:30 p.m.

Tire Safety Week October 9-15

"Tire Safety Week" will be observed in Massachusetts October 9-15 to alert Bay State motorists to the importance of tire care in road safety, Gov. John A. Volpe proclaimed recently.

The observance is part of a national campaign to reduce accidents as a result of tire negligence.

Less than one per cent of all automobile accidents are attributed to tires. However, more than 90 per cent of tire failures occur during the last 10 per cent of tire tread life.

Gov. Volpe urged motorists to examine tires of their automobiles for cuts, bruises, other damage or excess wear, for the protection of themselves and family members.

Only the highest-scoring students in each state, the Semifinalists, remain eligible to be considered for Merit Scholarships.

Although students receiving Letters of Commendation advance no further in the Merit Program, their names are reported to other scholarship-granting agencies and on to the colleges they named as their first and second choices at the time they took the test.

These colleges also receive reports of home addresses, test scores, anticipated college majors and career intentions of the Commended students.

Tax Bills

Assessor Ernest Dade announced yesterday that the town's valuation base was increased by $3,912,175 this year to $91,709,300 over last year's base of $87,797,125. The tax rate was reduced $1.20 from $59.60 last year to $58.40 this year, he added. The town's budget expenditures for this year increased by $225,000 to a level of $6,465,129, above last year's cost of government at $6,240,794.

Assessor Dade noted that the results of the land revaluation and adjustment changes should not have come as a surprise to residents since there were several news stories about it before it began, while it was in progress, during the tax protest meetings last year, and again last fall.

He noted that residents were informed of what was happening, and only the specific individual adjustment changes remained to be determined and set in each case, which the taxpayers received with their bills.

Pellegrini as "totally against the interests of the voters of his district." The record shows, he said, that Pellegrini voted against the establishment of local mental health centers, against no-fix traffic tickets, against public disclosure of the reports of state Authorities, against removing state officials who refuse to testify about their official duties and against life-saving reflectorized license plates. In addition, he charged, the Senator voted for special privelege bills including one to set up non-civil service jobs in the Department of Public Works without competitive examinations and one to grant pension rights to an individual who had refused repeatedly to join the pension system and had not paid the contributions.

"The Committee on Public Welfare," Barnstead declared, chairmaned by a Democratic Senator, prepared a bill (Senate 889), providing for 37 local mental health centers to relieve mental hospitals, frequently located far from patient's homes. This bill was favored by Governor Volpe and his Democratic opponent, Edward McCormack, but was opposed by McCormack's campaign manager, Senator Maurice Donahue. Your Senator voted against this bill, helping to kill it for this session.

"One of the biggest causes of traffic accidents is the "fix" system. Many accidents are caused by drivers who have bad driving records, but who have had tickets fixed to hide the record. Your Senator voted against House Bill 4200, which would have authorized the no-fix ticket.

"One of the troubles with government today is the secrecy of public authorities created by the legislature. Senate 661 would require such authorities to file official reports and make them available to the public. Your Senator voted against this bill.

"One of the most disturbing sights today is that of public officials who refuse to answer questions about their conduct in office on the grounds of self-incrimination and are then allowed to retain their offices. Senate 59 would have amended the State Constitution to provide for the removal of such officials. Your Senator voted against this amendment.

"Twenty seven states now use reflectorized license plates to save lives by showing up unlighted plates at night. Massachusetts voted funds to purchase such plates, which will be used in 1967 (June 22, 1966) Your Senator voted against this.

"One of the problems facing the State today is the by-passing of civil service. Jobs are created and persons appointed without going through the procedure of taking open civil service exams required for citizens without political influence. A section of the budget (page 31) created just such a job in the Department of Public Works. Your Senator voted to create this job.

"Special privilege for certain individuals is an ever present evil in our government. Laws are passed for the benefit of favorites while others who lack political pull are denied these benefits. Senate 497 was a bill to allow an individual to join the pension system at the time of retirement although this person had repeatedly refused to join the system or pay the required contributions. Your Senator voted for this bill, too," challenger Barnstead charged.

Presiding at the ceremonies opening the headquarters was Anthony H. Elwell, chairman of the Medford Republican City Committee.

MRS. JOHN H. MITCHELL

The bride wore a gown of peau de soie with empire waist and three-quarter sleeves. Bodice and sleeves were decorated with pearls and crystals, as was the edge of her train. She wore a double crown of pearls and crystals with elbow-length veil, and carried a cascade of white carnations and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was her sister, Miss Karin Sterling of West Medford. She wore a blue linen gown with an empire waist with white panel in front and a blue and white pillbox headdress, and carried a cascade of dark pink carnations and sweetheart roses.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carol Penachio of Revere, Mrs. Patricia Short of Rock Hill, Conn., and Mrs. Susan Hafey of Forestville, Conn. They wore gowns and headpieces similar to that of the maid of honor, their colors being nile green and white, and they carried pale pink carnation cascades.

Best man for Mr. Mitchell was Bernard Murphy of Somerville. Ushers were Edward Mahoney and Edward Forrestall of Somerville, and Charles Thomas of Watertown. Gerald E. Campbell of West Medford was ringbearer.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece street-length suit of green brocade with matching pillbox hat, and a beige jacket trimmed in mink. Mrs. Mitchell wore a blue taffeta two-piece suit with matching pillbox hat.

The bride attended Medford High School and Katharine Gibbs. Mr. Mitchell attended Medford High and Newman Prep. He is associated with Electron Service Center in Medford.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple are making their home in West Somerville.

The twins were born September 25 at Mound Park Hospital, St. Petersburg, Florida. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Mahoney of Seminole, Florida, formerly of Main Street. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Grassia of Miami, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. James Christian Hofmann (Sandra Curtis) of 25 Park Avenue announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Emily Curtis, September 27 at Winchester Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis G. Curtis of 154 Highland Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Hofmann of Mount Vernon, Ohio. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy of Corning, Ohio.

Ives — Marchant

A garden reception at the home of the bride followed the recent wedding of Miss Jeanne Marie Marchant and Mr. Peter Dwinell Ives.

MRS. PETER DWINELL IVES

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Marchant of 5 Mystic Avenue and was given in marriage by her father in the ceremony which took place at three o'clock in the afternoon at St. Mary's Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ives Jr. of 4 Bushcliff Terrace.

Gowned in white silk organza and Chantilly lace, made with a coat train of the same materials, the bride carried a cascade bouquet of bridal roses for her wedding. The bridal attendants all from Winchester were in shades of aqua satin and lace with matching coats. They were Miss Mary Louise Haley as maid of honor and the Misses Thea Kirk and Patricia Garvey.

Mr. Philip G. Ives of New Jersey was best man for his brother and ushering were another brother, Mr. Frederick M. Ives II, and a brother of the bride, Mr. James C. Marchant Jr., along with Mr. Arthur Hall of Hingham and Mr. William Swett of Winchester.

For the occasion the mother of the bride was in ice blue brocade worn with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother was in shocking pink brocade worn with matching accessories.

The new Mrs. Ives is a graduate of the Winchester High School and the Chandler School for Women and also attended Boston University. Mr. Ives was graduated from the Winchester High School and from Wentworth Institute.

After a wedding trip in Vermont and Maine, the couple plan to make their home in South Acton.

The ALA says it's better to get plastered at home than all over the road.

Adult Art Classes Begin

King Coffin opened the Art Association classes Monday night at the High School with an enthusiastic group of returning students and newcomers in attendance.

There are still openings in the class, which will meet for nine more weeks Monday at 7:30.

Mr. Coffin, who now lives in Winchester, is a well known teacher of art, and has been on the faculty of the Boston Museum School of Art for a number of years. His ability as a teacher is reflected in the work his pupils produce, and in their continued enthusiasm for art.

"Not many towns can boast of as great an interest in art as Winchester can," Mr. Coffin said in a recent interview. "The Art Association has helped hundreds of people to appreciate art; it has made an art education possible for a number of students, and it has given many a chance to "sample" a picture before buying it. The "picture party" idea is a wonderful one; it is possible to live with a picture, to know how it will "wear," before making it one's own. So few towns are as responsive to art and artists, both amateurs and professionals."

He continued, "The Art Association classes have enabled many who learn to paint. One of the basic problems with teaching amateurs is that few of us really look at an object, or at how it is related to other objects. Learning to look and to see is in part a technique which can be learned.

"Our Winchester classes start with the fundamentals, and even a quick review for the more advanced students. Then we can emphasize design, which is a basic of art. We will have three groups: beginners, intermediate and advanced. I especially enjoy our Winchester group, and will be happy to see my old friends, and to make new ones. I'm always so pleased to see the development of a student, and to feel I've been able to help a little. Our emphasis on design is, I'm sure, most useful. Of course we apply that emphasis to the portrait work we do, too."

Further information concerning the classes may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Herman R. Sweet, education chairman, EX 5-6062, after 6 p.m.

LWV Orientation Next Thursday

The annual orientation meeting of the League of Women Voters will be held at the home of Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick, 1 Ledgewood Road, on Thursday evening, October 13, at 7:45 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint new and prospective members with the purpose, policy, and activities of the League and is open to all who are interested.

Mrs. Philip C. Hankins, president, will officially welcome the members and friends and will give a brief talk about referendum questions 1, 2, and 4 which will appear on the ballot in November. The League is urging all to vote "yes" on these questions.

The remainder of the meeting will be conducted as a sample unit meeting. Units are the regular monthly neighborhood gatherings where discussion of League programs and agenda items take place.

This sample unit will have as its topic: An evaluation of the Town Manager form of government, the number-one agenda item on the local program for the coming year. Mrs. David J. Ashton will act as the discussion leader; Mrs. Richard W. Freeman, Jr., recorder; Mrs. Nolan Jones and Mrs. Ralph Seferian as the resource people.

Mrs. G. Hartley Curtis is in charge of this meeting. Please call her (729-0275) for any further information or for transportation.

Friends To Hear Dr. Kerr

On Thursday, October 20th, Mrs. Gilbert Hood of 6 Everett Avenue will open her home for the fall meeting of The Friends of the Winchester Hospital.

Coffee will be served at 1:30, followed by a lecture and showing of the film "The Ship Hope," presented by Dr. Walter Kerr. It is requested that members arrive promptly out of courtesy to the distinguished and extremely busy guest. The program will begin at 2. Hearing about the fascinating work done by this hospital ship and its staff is an event members will not want to miss.

STAR SPORT SHORTS

Ed Sterling

We feel cheated, swindled, bilked, bamboozled—and slighted. On the one day the football team decided it had had enough of defeat and played to win—and won, this gent couldn't attend the game. What makes it particularly aggravating is that he had previously been witness to nine consecutive winless games, during which the team had either played losing football—and lost, or played winning football—and either tied or lost. Well, you know how it is with us kids; if you can't attend the party, the next best thing is to have some of the other kids tell you how good the ice cream and cookies tasted.

* * * * *

One ripe tomato doesn't make a harvest, but if the suddenly found offensive punch the team displayed in the last quarter is any indication of latent ability coming into bloom, happier days are ahead for local football fans. The Sachems possess a strong defense which will more than hold its own if the offense will do its share.

* * * * *

Saturday's win was the first since Thanksgiving 1964, when Woburn was the victim. The last win over a Middlesex League rival was its 14-6 defeat of Reading in midseason 1964.

* * * * *

The Sachems will have their hands full this Saturday trying to contain Cambridge Latin's man-sized fullback, Pierre Marchando. In last year's game he gained over a hundred yards rushing against the local team. Don't let the released figure of 195 pounds fool you. He was 228 when he reported for practice, and the CL coach hoped to have him down to about 205 or 210. 215 would be a closer figure—and all muscle.

* * * * *

The team isn't very hefty. Too bad some of the big boys drawn to the soccer team didn't elect to go out for football. However, soccer is gaining in popularity in this country, and the sport is crowding football for a spot on the fall sports scene.

* * * * *

A couple of Winchester boys attending Belmont Hill had a big hand in their team's win over Milton Academy. Joe Stiles played the entire game at end and did a fine job, while Bruce Buchanan did duty as wing back.

* * * * *

Niles Nelson, who brought Millis into the limelight with his fine coaching to get the team off on a long win streak, has left the school for further graduate work at Florida State. With Niles gone, Millis hasn't lost the winning touch. It won its 14th straight Saturday.

* * * * *

It's World Series time again. Although the Orioles' chances would probably have been better against Pittsburgh, it should make for a better series with the Dodgers in there. A lot of the fans don't get a real charge out of a free-swinging match anymore and appreciate a little finesse. There's a heck of a lot more excitement in watching a go-go speedster on first in a battle of wits with the pitcher, than there is in watching a free swinger trying to put one out of the park. A boxer and a slugger are usually the elements which combine for a good match.

Mickey Wins Wright

Massengale Canadian Open Champ and Daniels the U.S.G.A. Senior

by Harry McGrath

The heading may seem a bit confusing, and Mickey's middle name might well be "Wins." The peerless Miss Wright won the Mickey Wright Invitational Tournament at Bonsall, Calif., her seventh victory on this year's Ladies' Professional Golf Association Tour, with rounds of 73-72-73-71—289.

This was one stroke in front of Clifford Ann Creed, who had a fourth-round 69 to come up with a four-round total of 290. The 69 followed 74-73-74, which in turn was one stroke better than the USGA Women's Open champion, Sandra Spuzich, who led the first round with a 69. Sandra's second-round 76 hurt her chances of winning.

Her 291 won her $1000 and third place. Mickey's win was worth $1500, and Clifford Ann received $1200 second-place money.

Kathy Whitworth, this year's and last year's leading money winner on the Pro-ette Circuit, had 292 to tie with Carol Mann for fourth place, and each received $737. Carol led after two rounds with 143, and with 218 was still in the lead after 54 holes. However her final 75 dropped her to her fourth-place tie.

Kathy Whitworth is still the leading money winner for this year.

Canadian Open

Don Massengale, from our second largest state of Texas, put together four rounds of 70 for a 280 total to win his largest official check of $20,000 and first place in the Canadian Open held at the Shaughnessy C. C. in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, the diminutive Puerto Rican, led after three rounds by reason of a wonderful 67 in the third round. His 54-hole total was 208, one stroke better than Randy Glover's and two shots in front of Lou Graham and Massengale's 210 totals.

Graham had a 66 for his third round.

Chi Chi slipped to a 75 on his final round, but got $12,000 for second money with his 283 total.

R. H. Sykes, Tom Aaron, Randy Glover, Rod Funseth, Lou Graham and Homero Blancas all had even par 284's to make up a 6-way tie for third, each player getting $4,516 for his four-days' play.

Billy Casper, finishing with a four over 288, seems to have missed his chance to go over Jack Nicklaus' one-year money-winning record. Billy's 12th-place tie was good for $1920.

Nicklaus never did get going, and finished well down the list with 292.

This one "big one" Jack has never won.

In the USGA Seniors Amateur Championship, Dexter Daniels of Winter Haven, Florida, defeated George Beechler 1 up, at the Tucson National Golf Club in Tucson, Arizona.

It was Daniels' second win in six years.

Dick Chapman of Oyster Harbors was eliminated in a quarter-final match by Dave Goldman of Dallas, losing 1 down.

Goldman was runner-up to Lawson Little at the Country Club in 1934, the first of Lawson's consecutive wins in the USGA Amateur.

Chapman won the USGA Amateur in 1940 at Winged Foot Golf Club.

Goldman lost in the semi-finals.

Beechler was also runner-up last year, losing to Robert Kiersky, who lost in a 20-hole quarter-final match this year.

Short Putts

Have had no report on the "National Seniors" held at Las Vegas.

Interesting to note that Edward Lowery of Pebble Beach, Calif., lost 3 and 2 in one of the early rounds.

Eddie was Francis Ouimet's caddy in the historical win by Francis in the 1913 USGA Open at the Country Club in Brookline.

During the ensuing 53 years since that phenomenal win, Francis has "met" at least 200 people who "caddied" for him in that memorable win.

As a matter of fact, Eddie was offered $100 to let someone else fill in for him in the playoff with Vardon and Ray. And you can be sure Francis couldn't tip Eddie anything like $100.

Neither Eddie nor Francis would hear of such a thing, and little Eddie, small even for his ten years, toted the bag on that September day in 1913. The results of that playoff were heard round the world and was responsible for bringing golf to the forefront.

In that golden year of golf's history, 1913, there were 165 entries, the largest up to that time. (There were eleven in 1895, the first year of the tournament.)

In 1963, the 50th anniversary of Francis' win, there were 2392 entries.

In 1913 Ouimet, Vardon and Ray tied at 304, and in the playoff it was Ouimet 72, Vardon 77, and Ray 78.

In 1963 it was another three-way tie—Boros, Cupit and Palmer with 293's; and in the playoff Boros 70, Cupit 73 and Palmer 76.

Considering all the improvements in all the implements, not much of a difference in scoring.

Speaking of scoring — in the Greater Seattle Open held two weeks ago, there were only two rounds of 70 in the first five finishers. All the other 18 rounds were in the 60's—three 65's, three 66's, four 67's, four 68's and four 69's. Homero Blancas, the winner, had one of the 70's, after 66-65-65. Dave Hill, in fifth place, had the other 70, and there were only four of the top money winners on hand.

Blancas was 18 under par for the four rounds. The course measured 6123 yards. Gay Brewer was the defending champion and he and Doug Sanders missed the 36-hole cut by two strokes with 147's. Al Geiberger missed by one (he must have left the sandwiches in the club house) and R. H. Sikes was disqualified for failure to sign a card. (Won't they ever learn?)

In the official money winners Sanders is 4th, Brewer 5th, R. H. Sikes 8th, and Geiberger 10th.

Charley Boswell's win in the 1966 United States Blind Championship was his second in a row and his 15th over the years. This year was the 21st annual tournament.

The World Match Play championship starts today at the "Burma Road" Course, at the Wentworth Club, Virginia Water, England, and finishes Saturday the 8th.

There is a field of eight, composed of Neil Coles and Dave Thomas of Great Britain; Peter Thomson, Australia, the defending champion; Gary Player, South Africa; Roberto DeVicenzo, the Argentine; and from the USA, Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

The British bookmakers, all legal you know, have made the Columbus big lad Nicklaus the favorite, with Casper and Palmer the second choices.

Me?—Yes, I pick Big Jack. And Sandy Koufax will be busy in Los Angeles and Baltimore.

Soccer Start: One Up, One Down

The Winchester High School Soccer team opened its 1966 season on Tuesday, September 27 with a discouraging 1-0 loss to Lexington.

The predominately returning varsity squad constantly had the ball in its possession, but a fast break by the strong Lexington line succeeded in placing the ball past the outstretched arms of goalie Alan Ingraham.

Winchester bounced back on Friday with a 9-0 win over Wakefield. The Booters overwhelmed first year Wakefield with Bruce Abbott and Henry Shean each scoring three goals. Dick Kadesch, Phil Boesch, and John Joslin scored the other goals.

Co-captains Mark Smith and Bruce Abbott are looking forward to another successful season as well as a chance at the State Tournament in November.

"Y" Leagues Start In Basketball

Winchester players are eligible for four basketball leagues to be organized in the near future at the Woburn Branch Y.M.C.A.

According to present plans by Physical Director Anthony Giglio and Program Director Edward Branagan of the "Y" Staff, junior high boys, high school girls and young men from Woburn, Winchester, Wilmington and Burlington will be eligible to play on a team. Four teams will play in each of the new leagues. Membership in the YMCA is required for participation.

The Junior High League will be for junior high students and will operate Saturdays from 11:45 a.m. until 2 p.m. Junior Highs are asked to be at the YMCA on Saturday, October 8th, at 12 noon.

Senior High League will be organized on Saturday afternoons at 2 p.m. beginning on October 22nd. Boys are asked to be at the YMCA on Saturday, October 15th at noon.

The Young Men's League which proved so popular last year will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. These teams will be called the City Y League. This year we hope to get six teams into action. This League will include Woburn, Winchester, Wilmington and Burlington. Any young man wishing to enter a team, may come to the Woburn Branch Y.M.C.A., 553 Main Street, Woburn, or phone 935-3270 to register. Practice is now in session.

The High School Girl's Basketball League will also soon swing into action. Members who wish to participate are asked to be at the "Y" on Tuesday, October 4, at 2:15 p.m. The Woburn Branch will also enter the "City Wide" Girl's Basketball League, which includes Allston-Brighton, Waltham, West Roxbury and Roxbury.

Great Books Gets Good Start

The Great Books Club of the Winchester area had its first meeting September 27th at the Unitarian Church on Main Street.

Group leader, Elmer Wharton, directed the study of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," and the question arose, "What was the real tragedy of this play?" Could it be man's ambition or his moral weakness? No answer is wrong in this course when supported by one's own reading.

The next meeting will be at 8 on Tuesday, October 11 at the Winchester Unitarian Church, and the subject of the meeting will be selections from Adam Smith's "The Wealth of Nations." No fees or educational requirements are necessary for this first year group. All persons interested in studying good books and participating in informal biweekly discussions are welcome. For additional information please call either Beverly Jones at 729-4234 or Phyllis Daugherty at 729-8283.

Harriers Over Belmont 1-2-3

The Sachem Cross Country team, led by powerhouse Richard Fahey, took a one-two-three sweep against a weak Belmont team on the Winchester course Friday.

Fahey won the race easily with a sensational time of 13:51, the second fastest ever recorded on the home course, bettered only by the course record of 13:37 set last year by Dave Puffer.

Senior Robert Benshimol and junior Tom Spang took second and third places respectively to make the victory for Winchester a reality. Paul Blanch, Steve Pritchard and Bob McLellan also pitched in to give the harriers the decisive win.

The Junior Varsity team, keeping pace with the varsity, also had a winning day against the Belmont squad. Sophomore Dan Strout was the standout for Winchester, taking a first place, with Ken Tully not far behind.

Coach Roger Rawden still remains optimistic about the prospects of the team. But, the big meets are yet to come. Next target for the harriers will be the unpredictable Stoneham runners, who beat Winchester last year by a single point.

Badminton Club Opens Season

By this time next week, birds will be flying in great profusion, all around the local high school gymnasium. Nothing to do with the annual migratory habits of our feathered friends, this will instead signify the opening of the 1966-67 badminton season.

Beginning October 11th, regular badminton sessions will be held each Tuesday and Thursday night from 7:30 to 10:30 in the high school gym. An open invitation is offered to everyone to come down and join in the fun. As a special inducement to those who have never participated before, the Winchester Badminton Club extends to all newcomers the privilege of playing their first evening as guests of the club. Since birds and even racquets are provided by the club at very nominal charges, the only equipment necessary to play is a pair of sneakers.

This year's Governing Board of the club is composed of Truman Dayton, president, and Stella Gallant, Whit Gray, Brad Hersey, Shep Holt, Maxine Kajander, and Keith Lawton. They, and all of the other club members urge all to play as soon and as often as you can.

One final note......because of the Open House festivities at the High School on Tuesday, October 18th, no badminton session will be held that evening.

Radio Buff?

The fall meeting of the Burlington Amateur Radio Association will be held October 14th at 8 p.m. at the Dodge House in Burlington center, for the registration of new members and election of officers.

Membership is open to radio amateurs and C.B. operators of Burlington and all surrounding towns.

BOWLING

S. O. I. Women

The Daffodils took 6 points from the Tulips this week. Both teams bowled very well. E. Giacalone of the Tupils was high on her team with a three-string score of 302. J. Salemi of the Daffodils broke high triple with 315. Nice bowling, girls!

The Petunias and Violets split 8 points. Captain A. Di Sessa of the single with a 133, and C. Esposito of the Violets bowled in good form this week. A Di Sessa broke high hingle with a 133, and C. Esposito bowled a three-string score of 291.

The first-place Carnations took all 8 points from the Pansies. Capt. G. Maggio bowled high for the Carnations with 308. P. Brencola of the Pansies was high on her team with 278.

The Gardenias took 6 points from the Buttercups. B. Morgan bowled high on her team with 301, and S. Borisini of the Gardenias was high for her team with 276.

The Roses took 6 points from the Daisies. C. Fiore was high bowler for the Daisies with 270. Bowling 274, R. DeTeso was high for the Roses.

S. O. I. Men

After the third week of bowling, the Bears still hold the team high three with 1600, and the high single with 580.

Richard Riga holds down the individual high three 379, and the high single with 158.

Looking over the scores, we see that the men are doing a fine job. Some of the new men are doing well, such as Joe McGrath, Richard Russo, and many others.

We wonder who will hit the 400 game first?

For this week, goodbye, and good bowling. Remember, go bowling this week, and relax. At the same time, support your local bowladrome, and have fun.

Early Birds

As of last week the Early Birds have three new members. Pat Walters is bowling with the Blue Jays, Muriel Penna with the Cardinals, and Louise Thomas is with the Orioles.

Congratulations to Connie Stewart. She was our high bowler last week with a score of 188 for one string.

The competition is really close between the first sixteen teams. All of these teams are one-half a game or one game apart.

The Cardinals are in first place with 11½ wins and 4½ losses. The Blue Jays and Doves are in second place with 11 wins and 5 losses. The Hawks are in third place with 10½ wins and 5½ losses. Then we have a three-way tie for fourth place among the Chicadees, Sparrows and Wrens with 10 wins and 6 losses.

Registration For Adult Education

Registration for Adult Education classes remains open up to and including Monday and Tuesday, October 11, when classes begin, through tomorrow at the School Department's 1017 Main Street office (729-8130) and opening nights at respective schools.

The relatively short registration period has been the result of scheduling classes so that courses can be completed prior to Christmas week.

Openings exist in several courses at this time.

S. O. I. News

The monthly meeting for October was held this past Monday evening and Venerable Art Dunbar started the meeting at 8:30 p.m. At this meeting seven new member applications were read and approved by the body and they will be installed at next month's meeting.

The sick committee reports brothers Mike Collucci and Dom Vespucci are at home recuperating after being in the hospital.

Blood Bank committee chairman Richard Penta reported that Phil Adagano, Frank DiMambro and himself went to the Mass. General Hospital last week to donate blood for friends not covered under our blood bank. These 3 members are also regular donors to the S.O.I. blood bank.

At the end of the meeting Grand Lodge Trustee, Mrs. Eleanor Cagno and also a member of the Grand Lodge Insurance Commission explained the benefits of the Grand Lodge Insurance Program. She told of the different types of policies which was then followed by a question and answer period. Any member interested in the program may contact Venerable Art Dunbar and he will direct you to the proper channels.

The annual Columbus Day Celebration will be held this coming Wednesday, October 12. We will assemble at the club house at 8 a.m. for flag raising ceremonies at 8:15. We will then march to St. Mary's Church in a body for a 9 o'clock Memorial Mass for our deceased members. After the Mass we will march back to the club house for coffee and donuts. At 2 p.m. we will have a Soap Box Derby for the boys, ages 10 through 14 of members only, social or regular members. This race will be held on Swanton Street starting at Loring Avenue and ending at the club house area. The carts must be home-made, and no motor type accepted. If you wish to enter your child please contact Columbus Day Chairman Joe Paonessa or Venerables Gerri D'Onofrio or Art Dunbar for additional information. In the afternoon there will be a doll carriage parade at the parking lot for girls up to 8 years. Also a bicycle parade for boys and girls, 7 through 9 years, and 9 through 12 years old.

In the evening we will have the annual Columbus Day Banquet and Dance. At this banquet the winners of the Modern Day Columbus Essay contest will receive their U.S. Savings Bond awards. The tickets for this banquet and dance are limited and are almost gone. If you plan to attend, (and are not too late) you may purchase your tickets from Chairman Joe Paonessa and his committee, or from Venerables Gerri D'Onofrio or Art Dunbar. We hope to see you there.

Mystic Parents Look Ahead To WHS Building

The fall meeting of the association was held on Tuesday evening, September 27th.

Mothers and fathers were enlightened regarding the educational specifications of the proposed new high school by William Clarke, assistant superintendent of administrative services of the Winchester Public Schools.

Mr. Clarke opened the eyes of many of the parents as he talked about modern school design and he elicited a real response from the parents in a lively question and answer period which followed the talk.

September activities commenced at Mystic the day before school opened when the teachers and staff of Mystic School were briefly relieved of their preparatory chores to enjoy the annual teacher's picnic luncheon at the home of Mrs. Clifford England, who graciously opened her home for this event.

On September 20th Mrs. Frederick Zappala, president of the Mystic Mothers Association, greeted new mothers to the Mystic School at a coffee at the home of Mrs. Robert Armstrong of 15 Chestnut Street. Mrs. Wallace was also on hand to describe the activities of the Community School Association, of which she is president.

Duplicate Bridge Club

Plans are going ahead for a Club-sponsored game for the American Contract Bridge League Charity Foundation on Wednesday, October 26. One of our fine women players, Betty Anne Yeomans, is the chairman for this event and invites local bridge players to attend.

On Wednesday, September 28, it was a very tight race North-South in Section A, with the top three places within a 2½-point range, Betty Slade and Bob Haskell winning. In the East-West direction one of our ladies most sought after and cherished as a partner, Lolly Smith, was in top seat, paired with Sam Burwen. There were eleven tables with an average of 110.

North-South
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	128
Martha Walker and Ellen Schofield	126
James Curley and Ben Drinkwater	125½
Nancy Atkinson and Richard Smith	122½
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	116
Ruth Bibby and Ruth Hagan	112
Waveney Smith and William Duryea	110½
East-West
Lolly Smith and Sam Burwen	128½
Guy Mingolelli and Steve Haseltine	127
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	121½
Donna Redpath and Kay McConnell	119½
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade	116½

Section B's nine-and-one-half tables were run with a roving North-South pair, average being 63 for the Easts-Wests and the North-South scores figured on a percentage basis. All ten of the North-South scores were bunched within a 10½-point range, while East-West had one real big game—by our father-daughter duo of Herb Wood and Martha Joslin.

North-South
Mr. and Mrs. John Plaskow	.560
Miggs Root and John Reardon	.551
Barbara Shea and Don Dalrymple	.548
Alan Leland and Clayton Clancy	.528
Adeline Mingolelli and Sally Lix	.519
East-West
Martha Joslin and Herbert Wood	77½
Paul Sanderson and David Littleton	67½
Mr. and Mrs. Larry Rosenthal	67
Howard Wittet and John Mitchell	65

The Club's daytime duplicate group met on Monday, October 1, with Jane Renz directing and dispensing coffee and general information. This is a relaxed way to learn duplicate. If you wish to play, call Jane, 729-8327.

Top scorers, some of them newcomers to the game, were Shirley Black and Jo Collier, Elizabeth Bruns and Mrs. Manson, Adeline Mingolelli and Sally Lix, Muffie Scarpaci and Mary Smith, and Mrs. Trump playing with Mrs. Morgan.

Norwegian at WHS

Winchester Senior High School was chosen by the State Department of Education to receive Thorleif W. Hansen, an educator commissioned by the school board of Oslo, Norway to study American education.

Mr. Hansen visited the high school social studies classes to observe different materials and teaching techniques used in the United States. He spoke to a U.S. History class and conferred with the administration, and guidance, language, and science department heads in his effort to find out more about American educational methodology on the secondary school level.

Mr. Hanson, who is presently "Lektor" at the Aars og Vass Skole in Oslo, is a former high school principal. Included in his itinerary have been visits with Norwegian families in Minneapolis, with American families, as guest of the government of Pennsylvania, traveling, and visiting schools in Boston and neighboring communities.

Auction At Wayside Inn This Saturday

An unusual event for admirers of antiques, bargain hunters, (to animal lovers because it benefits the Buddy Dog Humane Society's shelter for homeless dogs,) and to people who just plain love an old-fashioned auction, is scheduled for Saturday, October 8th, at the famous Wayside Inn Barn, on the Boston Post Road, Sudbury.

Winchesterites working for the success of the auction include Mrs. Don Greer, Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham, Mrs. John Akeson, Mrs. Holbrook Dodge, Mrs. George Connor and Mrs. Fred Cardin, all of whom may be called if you have a donation or if you need transportation arranged.

Opening at 10 o'clock with an exhibition of dog obedience training, the auction will go on all day. Some rare items and the chance to pick up a super bargain are promised. Refreshments will be served.

Sunrise Features Story on N. E. Coaches' Records

The best college football coaching record in New England belongs to Amherst's Jim Ostendarp, it is revealed in the October issue of Sunrise Magazine, now on sale. Going into this season, Ostend had a seven-year record of 45-10-1 for a percentage of 80.4.

Runner-up was Dartmouth's Bob Blackman, whose 17-season total was 115-39-8 for 70.4. Then came Maine's Hal Westerman, Trinity's Dan Jessee, and Harvard's John Yovicsin. The following tabulation of the top ten includes their records at all colleges where they served as head coaches.

Jim Ostendarp, Amherst, 7 seasons, 45-10-1, 80.4.

Bob Blackman, Dartmouth, 17 seasons, 115-39-8, 70.4.

Hal Westerman, Maine, 15 seasons, 76-33-7, 66.4.

Dan Jessee, Trinity, 34 seasons, 141-74-7, 63.5.

John Yovicsin, Harvard, 14 seasons, 78-41-4, 63.4.

Jim Miller, Boston College 9 seasons, 52-32-0, 61.9.

Bob Clifford, Vermont, 10 seasons, 45-29-0, 60.8.

Vic Fusia, Massachusetts, 5 seasons, 34-11-2, 59.6.

Duke Nelson, Middlebury, 20 seasons, 92-64-11, 55.0.

Joe Zabilski, Northeastern, 18 seasons, 72-53-6, 54.9.

The issue, which also reveals that 85 percent of New England's coaches favor the free substitution rule, presents features on Blackman, Patriot center Nick Buoniconti, UMass quarterback Greg Landry, Grantland Rice, Floyd Little of Syracuse, new Bruin hockey coach Harry Sinden, the upcoming Boston ski show, and a colorful story on ruffed grouse hunting.

Swimming For Handicapped

Physically handicapped boys and girls between the ages of six and 18, who live in Woburn, Wakefield, Winchester, Burlington, Lexington, and Reading will benefit from free swimming lessons scheduled to be launched on Saturday, October 15 at the Woburn Boys' Club, Boys' Club Lane, under the joint sponsorship of the Club and the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

The program will be conducted on Saturday from 11:15 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. Emphasis will be placed on individual instruction geared to the pace of each handicapped child. Highly qualified instructors will direct the program assisted by competent volunteers specially trained to work with physically disabled children.

Interested parents may obtain further information by contacting the Easter Seal Society, 9 Newbury Street, Boston.

The swimming program is part of the Society's year-round camping and community recreation project.

Davidson Chevrolet

Winchester's Chevrolet Headquarters

127-137 Main Street, Medford

THE BRAND-NEW 1967 CHEVROLET CAMARO, AS SEEN AT DAVIDSON CHEVROLET, at 127-137 Main Street showroom in Medford. Camaro, from the French, translates pal or comrade. It is the only make new-model car this year that features a choice of bared or concealed headlights. The overhand hood, in the Continental sports style, is an attractive break from previously prevalent American auto straight-line styles. Front engine powers range from a 140 horsepower six cylinder to a 350-cubic-inch V8, with three and four-speed manual or automatic transmissions. Twin body stripes are available for sports buffs; bucket seats standard. Stop in at Davidson Chevrolet, Winchester's Chevrolet Headquarters, and see for yourself what is available for your 1967 driving pleasure. For information or an appointment call on either T. K. Davidson, formerly of Winchester, or Vincent Carroll of Winchester.

Buick Mercedes-Benz

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF BRAND-NEW 1967 BUICKS, AS SEEN AT KOLLIGIAN MOTORS, located at 456 Broadway in Cambridge, is now on display and available for test driving to see for yourself what comforts and conveniences, coupled with dynamic performances and dramatic styles, have been built into this year's new-model Buicks. The new top-of-the-line Buick Riviera features a standard 430-cubic-inch engine, with four-barrel carburetor and 360 horsepower, and such elegant touches as generous leatherlike vinyl covering and padded, triple-spoke steering deep wheel dishes. Also stop in and see the new 1967 GS-400, Buick's personal sports car — a beauty. For a personal test drive and appointment, call on Ronald Kolligian of Winchester.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."

The Psalmist's assurance of God's healing power is included in the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon titled. "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

The account of the woman who was healed simply by touching the hem of Jesus' garment is also among the Scriptural readings.

A correlative passage to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, declares: "Divine Truth, Life, and Love gave Jesus authority over sin, sickness, and death."

Club Season Opening With Luncheon, Play

The Fortnightly will open its 85th season on Monday, October 10th, 12:30 p.m., in Gifford Hall at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The luncheon chairmen, Ruth M. Albee and Ruth J. Mosher, have arranged for a luncheon to be served by Festivals, Inc.

The newly elected Fortnightly president, Mrs. Ralph Meigs, will preside at the business session. Following "Over the Teacups" written by Percival Wilder and directed by the Club's Drama chairman, Eloise Kadesch, will be the afternoon's entertainment. This one-act comedy concerning an afternoon in the lives of two elderly ladies and their visitors combines laughter and pathos. The setting is in the present day in a large Winchester home. Highlight Of School Lunch Week

Credit Lois Carr

FOR SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY, 20 years as associates in the Winchester school lunch program, Mrs. Irene Boyle of 15 Nelson Street and Mrs. Carherine O'Brien of 34 Clark Street, managers of the McCall Junior High School and Senior High School cafeterias, respectively, were cited this week. Both ladies were employed in the program at its inception in 1946 and have advanced to the position of manager over their years of service to the children of the community. Recognition of Mrs. Boyle and Mrs. O'Brien coincides with the occasion of National School Lunch Week, October 9-15, and manager of school cafeterias Peter J. Caliandro stated on the occasion, "The community, school faculty, staff, and particularly the school lunch program can be especially proud of personnel of this calibre."

Science Museum Extends Hours

Beginning Sunday and continuing every Sunday thereafter, Boston's Museum of Science will open its doors at 10 a.m., three hours earlier than previously. They will remain open until 5 p.m., as heretofore.

The extended hours, the same as on week days, are expected to result in more elbow-room for everyone on the day of the week the greatest numbers seem to want to do their museum-going.

Open Spaces Tour

The Open Spaces Tour sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Winchester will be held next Wednesday, October 12. Those interested will meet at the Town Hall parking lot at 2 p.m.

League members, families and friends are invited to spend two hours of the holiday afternoon acquainting themselves with the quality of open spaces in Winchester.

For further information or transportation call Mrs. Robert S. Baylies—729-5275.

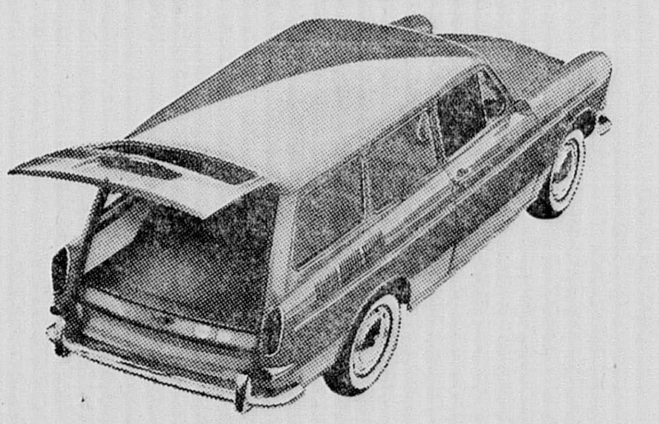
It would be less than honest to call it a station wagon.



We can't look you square in the eye and call this car a station wagon.

Compared to our bus-like station wagon, it just isn't big enough to deserve the name.

But we can positively call it a Squareback Sedan.

So we will. It's a Squareback Sedan. It costs $X,XXX.* And this is what you get:

You get a Volkswagen that holds 5 people plus a decent amount of luggage. (Or 2 people plus an indecent amount of luggage: twice as much as the trunks of the biggest sedans.)

You get everything that we've learned about making Volkswagens: the air-cooled rear engine, the torsion bar suspension, the synchromesh transmission, the blobless finish, the airtight fit.

You also get some things you never got on a VW: more power, disc brakes in the front, seats that adjust 49 ways, and a dozen other innovations.

But good as it is, a bus it's not.

So if you want to be brutally honest, you can think of the Squareback as a less-than-perfect station wagon.

But we'd rather have you think of it as a more-than-perfect sedan.

Scientists View The Prospects Of Immortality

The possibility of physical life after death is a prospect to stagger the imagination, yet scientists believe it may one day be reality.

Why they think so, and how they are working toward this goal is documented on WGBH-FM's "Listen Here!", Thursday, October 13 at 7:30 p.m. (repeat Saturday, October 15, 5 p.m.)

Scientists explain that human corpses can be kept frozen for thousands of years, and they think that techniques of cryobiology-the science of life at very low temperatures—may one day prevent death entirely.

C. W. Ettinger, author of the widely-discussed book "The Prospect of Immortality"; a geneticist, a gerontologist and a cryobiologist are on the panel.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

It's hard to write on Fire Prevention Week (October 9-15) even though it's important. As I was sitting here I thought: "What can I say after I say: Be careful?" Then a bit of verse, that I clipped from a magazine, came to mind:

"Fire is our friend
if we are firm
And guard it as we should,
Safe is our stoves
or on our hearths,
Not let it roam the wood.

When we grow careless,
just one spark
Can creep away and grow
Into a monster, talons spread,
A crafty, red-eyed foe!"

National fire authorities point out that EACH DAY 1500 homes burn, and 18 lives are lost (one-third of these, children).

What is DONE in the first few minutes after a fire is discovered can mean the difference between life and death. That's why it is vital that you follow a prearranged fire escape plan if fire strikes your home. Take a few minutes to discuss this with your family now.

This is also a good time to look around your home for possible fire hazards. The kids will enjoy "helping" you look—and it's good training besides.

So, "Be Prepared" and "Be Careful." Let's keep fires away!

Bauhaus Art For Study Group

The Art Study Group will visit the Rose Art Museum at Brandeis University, Waltham, on October 14. They will meet at two o'clock to enjoy and study together the paintings of Josef Albers, of Yale University.

Josef Albers was formerly a teacher at the Bauhaus in Germany, a school of design founded by Walter Gropius in 1919. The Nazi Party outlawed the paintings of the German Expressionists in 1933 and Gropius, Feininger, Albers and others came to the United States. The exhibition at the Rose Art Museum is entitled "The American Years."

There is also a collection of very beautiful Russian and European Enamels on display at the Theater Museum at Brandeis. Thus the Art Group will have the opportunity to see two exhibitions on the same trip.

Thomas Honored

Dr. George R. Thomas of Cabot Street was honored at West Point when two technical papers presented at the 1966 Army Science Conference won high honors for seven scientists of the U. S. Army Natick Laboratories.

A $200 award for "A Comparison of Impact Behavior in Composites of Single Crystal and Polycrystalline Ceramics," was shared by three researchers, of which Dr. Thomas was one.

He co-authored the paper, a study of materials for improved body armor, which was prepared by Anthony L. Alesi, a supervisory physical research scientist, of Wayland.

Red Cross Appeals For Young Men Field Directors

As U.S. military buildups continue in Vietnam, there is an increasing demand for another kind of buildup in that strife-torn Southeast Asian country. A demand for young, well-trained young men to bridge a vital personal service gap between American servicemen and their families back home.

Through the American Red Cross, American servicemen have a constant link with home.

"With increased American military activity in Vietnam," Philip D. Cabot of the Winchester Chapter of the American National Red Cross said, "An urgent need for assistant field directors on U.S. military installations has been created." Young men, with college background, who like to work with people, are wanted for numerous openings as assistant field directors.

An assistant field director's duties are primarily those of assisting servicemen and women with personal and family problems, and serving as a personal link with servicemen and hometown Red Cross chapters when emergency situations arise.

After an initial assignment in this country, assistant field directors may be transferred to American military bases anywhere in the world. Usual tours of duty in Vietnam are for one year, causing a rapid rotation in Red Cross personnel, and a need for new replacements.

Young men looking for a job that is different—a job that offers a real sense of accomplishment—a job with action, for people on the go—are urged to look into the Red Cross program of Service at Military Installations. Servicemen know that wherever they are stationed, they have a good friend in the Red Cross. Persons interested should contact Red Cross chapter house, 84 Washington Street or call 729-2300.

Father Heath Returns to Speak To Holy Name

For their Sunday, October 9, meeting, the men of St. Mary's parish are fortunate to have as speaker to the Holy Name Society, the Rev. Walter J. Heath, O.P.

REV. WALTER J. HEATH

Father Heath is associate dean of men and professor of philosophy at Providence College. He was asked to return to speak to the society because of the forceful impact that his talk made on the group last June. At that time his comments concerning our young men today, their problems, their direction, and our understanding of them, were well received.

Father Heath's talk to the group at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 9 a.m. Sunday will be preceded by the reception of Communion in a body by the Holy Name Society at the 7:45 a.m. Mass.

Crittenton Jr. Bridge Success

The Jr. Circle of Florence Crittenton began fund raising activities for the year with a successful dessert bridge held September 27, at the Church of the Epiphany.

Mrs. John Collier, ways and means chairman, welcomed members and their friends and thanked them for supporting the league.

A beautiful centerpiece of flowers was won by Mrs. Sandra Rogers. Chances were sold on a copper and wood chafing dish which was taken home by Mrs. Georgia Oddi. They owe their good fortune to Circle President, Mrs. Robert Duffy who drew the numbers.

Committee leaders helping Mrs. Collier were her co-chairman, Mrs. Donald MacElwee and Mrs. William Garner and Mrs. Alexander Pugh.

The Jr. Circle wishes to thank the following for their kind assistance: W. Allan Wilde & Son Insurance Agency, Forester's Flower Shop, Christie McDonald's Food Shop, The First National Stores, and the Gulf Oil Corporation.

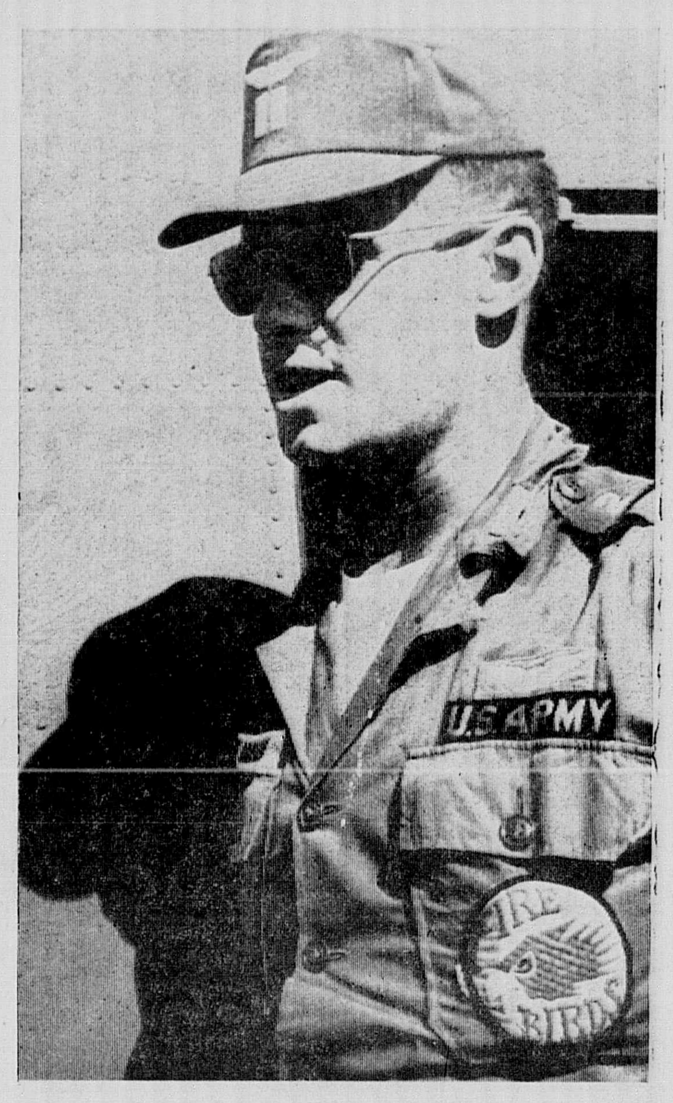
VOL. LXXXVI, NO. 8 COPYRIGHT 1966 BY WINCHESTER STAR, INC. WINCHESTER, MASSACHUSETTS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1966 PRICE TEN CENTS

Helicopter Assault Pilot Awarded Silver Star, 2 D.F.C.'s:

Capt. Farnham Returns From Vietnam A Decorated Airman



CAPT. DONALD W. FARNHAM

With a "bag full of medals," Captain Donald W. Farnham, one of the most decorated Army aviators of the current Southeast Asian conflict, was scheduled to leave Viet Nam Tuesday to return to the United States.

Capt. Farnham, formerly of 5 Highland Avenue in Winchester and now of 12 Wildwood Street in Wilmington, was awarded the Silver Star Medal—the nation's third highest award for valor—and two Distinguished Flying Crosses for conspicuous gallantry in action against hostile Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam.

Among other awards Capt. Farnham has received are the Air Medal with oak leaf clusters, and two purple hearts. He has flown more than 1,000 combat hours against the Viet Cong in armed helicopters with the A-501st Assault Helicopter Company, and participated in nearly all major engagements in the 3rd Corps area during the past year.

Capt. Farnham, 25, the son of "Bud" Farnham, plant supervisor at the J. O. Whitten Company gelatin factory at 134 Cross Street, is serving on his second tour of duty in South Vietnam.

A career Army officer, Capt. Farnham enlisted nine years ago as a paratrooper at the age of 17. He was made a Sergeant two years later, and after two years he applied and was accepted at Officers Candidate School, where he was graduated a Second Lieutenant. He rose to the rank of First Lieutenant, and then to Captain a little over a year and a half ago.

On duty in Southeast Asia for the past five years, Capt. Farnham returned to South Vietnam in October of 1965, after previously having served there.

He distinguished himself twice last June while serving as Aircraft Commander of an armed UH-1B helicopter unit, commanding a platoon of 24 armed helicopters.

On June 23 his fire team was escorting lift helicopters from a landing zone, and the flight came under intense automatic weapon and small arms fire. His aircraft received numerous hits. In spite of the extensive damage he remained on station, and led his fire team on daring, low level firing passes.

During each of the low level, close quarter firing runs his aircraft was subjected to a withering fire from the enemy. After he had expended all his ammunition and, in spite of his low fuel state as the result of hits received in the fuel cell of his aircraft, Captain Farnham remained on station, to adjust artillery fire, on the enemy positions.

After returning to Duc Hoa he coordinated the relocation of the ARVN (South Vietnamese Army) troops to the area where the contact had been made. Then, while the preparation for the assault was being made, Captain Farnham flew his crippled aircraft back to Bien Hoa, where he immediately transferred to a replacement aircraft and then returned to Duc Hoa for the planned assault.

He escorted the lift helicopters from the pick-up zone, flying low level to the proposed landing site, during which the flight again came under heavy enemy fire. Four aircraft, including his own, were hit, and one was forced to land as the result of damage from the enemy fire. The landing was in close proximity to the source of fire.

Capt. Farnham ordered the other armed aircraft to continue their en-rout escort and then broke away unescorted, to cover the downed aircraft.

Unhesitatingly, without regard for his own personal safety, Capt. Farnham flew his aircraft on daring low level firing passes along the entire length of the tree line, placing his helicopter between the enemy and the friendly troops around the downed aircraft.

Appeals Board OK's Elks New Clubhouse Plan

A petition under the town's zoning by-laws for the construction of a new Elks Clubhouse at 375 Cambridge Street, near the Woburn Shopping Plaza at the Woburn-Winchester line, was approved in a recent decision by the Winchester Board of Appeals.

Following a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall on Tuesday, July 12, at which several representatives of the Elks spoke in support of the petition and several nearby residents opposed it, the Board of Appeals took the petition under advisement and studied both the circumstances of its history and the allowances of the zoning by-laws for single residence districts.

The land on which the Elks wished to construct a new clubhouse and related parking facilities lay partly in Winchester (37,360 square feet) and partly in Woburn (5 acres), with 125 feet of frontage on the curved section of the original Cambridge Street which was by-passed when Route 3 was reconstructed there. It is situated between the Star Market paved parking lot and the property of Jessie A. Gustin, life estate, at 387 Cambridge Street.

The Elks proposed to build a two-level building of brick masonry wall construction, 92 feet wide by 46 feet deep, set back 33 feet from the Cambridge Street line, and with the driveway leading to a large parking area in the rear for 72 vehicles running along its northern side. The clubhouse would contain a foyer, main hall, kitchen and storage room for tables on the main floor. The semi-basement level plans show a lobby, two small offices, coat room, bathrooms, clubroom, lounge, bar storage room and kitchen.

The Board of Appeals noted in its decision that under Section 2c(3) of the zoning by-laws, "in a single residence district a building may be constructed and used for a clubhouse or other non-profit civic, social, or recreational use,—provided that permission of the Board of Appeals be obtained—unless the Board of Appeals shall find that the proposed use, subject to appropriate conditions and limitations, will not adversely affect the health or safety of persons

Police Active In Preventing Youth Trouble

Four Winchester policemen had their hands full Saturday night when more than 800 teenagers showed up to go to a youth dance at St. Eulalia's Church on Ridge Street.

Notified by a resident minutes before the dance started that a group of Lexington youths were planning on going to the dance "to start a rumble," Winchester Police determined not to let anything get out of order by a firm, "take charge" policy.

The dance, featuring the well-known local group, "The Castaways," began at about 8 o'clock, and by 8:45 the church hall was filled by over 500 youngsters. The sale of tickets was shut off, and no more youngsters were allowed inside the church.

Outside, another 300 teenagers gathered trying to get inside. They began chanting, and some were yelling: "Let's riot! Let's demonstrate!"

Sergeant-Inspector James J. Cogan, stationed in front of the church and facing the mob that was showing signs of unruliness, had to go through the group on several occasions and pull out leader-troublestarters and send them on their way home.

Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton, and Officers Joseph Amico and Richard Kelly were stationed in the rear of the church and inside the hall, similarly on guard to quell any disturbances.

Near the end of the dance, a group of some 300 youths paced back to Arlington en masse along Ridge Street, blocking traffic and waking residents with obscenities.

In another incident two local youths were walking home along Lockeland Road by Mayflower Road when a car of five other local youths stopped and allegedly, unprovoked, began attacking them. This incident still under police investigation, but possibly headed for court action according to the Juvenile Officer.

Reported damage at and near the scene of the large youth gathering included flowers being ripped out of flower boxes at the side entrance to St. Eulalia's Church, and the pulling out of the pin from the No. Five green hole at the Country Club.

Waltz Of The Flowers Is Theme For Waltz Evening

The Town Hall is decorated as lovely as ever the hanging gardens of Babylon were, with flowers for all seasons, opulently colored, garlanding the walls and trailing the balconies. This pleasing setting was created by the decorating committee for the "Waltz of the Flowers," to be held this Friday and Saturday evenings at 9 p.m.

All of the committees under Mrs. James Hulm's chairmanship are busy as bees coordinating last-minute preparations in their efforts to make Waltz Evening a memorable affair.

Mrs. Kenneth Astill, in charge of music and prizes, has secured Don Russell and his orchestra for your dancing pleasure. Featuring added strings, Mr. Russell's group have been most popular at the Boston Waltz Evenings for many years.

Celebrating the 15th anniversary of the Waltz Evenings, Mrs. Astill has arranged for former first-place waltz contest winners, dating back to the first Waltz night, to perform an exhibition waltz. Gliding ever so gracefully will be:

Board of Appeal Denies BSA New Office Building

The Winchester Board of Appeals recently turned down a petition by the Minuteman Council of the Boy Scouts of America to erect a new administrative office building on 19,194 square feet of land abutting the Star Market parking lot at the Woburn Shopping Plaza in Winchester near Route 3 and the Woburn line.

Following a public hearing on the petition at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall on Tuesday, July 12, at which several scouting executives spoke in favor of the project and several residents opposed it, the Board of Appeals took the petition under advisement.

The Minuteman Council is a non-profit corporation with offices presently at 375 Main Street in Stoneham, and serves as administrative arm of the Boy Scouts of America for some 19 area cities and towns, including Winchester.

It was proposed to construct a two-level building, 106 feet by 93 feet, with a business office, lobby, service counter, conference room, executive office, field offices, secretaries' offices and storage rooms on the main level; and a meeting room, coffee lounge, kitchen, boiler room and storage areas in the basement, and set back about 25 feet from Cambridge Street.

The proposed building would have housed a staff of 8 men and 5 women working a 40 hour week, with occasional evening conferences of up to 80 people.

Crotty Is Peace Corps Volunteer In Brazil Area

Edmund G. Crotty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Crotty of 225 Mystic Valley Parkway, has been named a Peace Corps Volunteer after completing 12 weeks of training at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

Mr. Crotty is one of 32 Volunteers trained in Milwaukee this summer to supplement Peace Corps work with Brazilian community health programs. The group, recently scheduled to leave for their assignments, will be stationed in the northeastern states of Pernambuco, Paraiba, Bahia, Mato Grosso and Sergipe. The new Volunteers studied Portuguese, Brazilian history and culture, U.S. history and world affairs. Technical studies included principles of community development, public sanitation, nutrition and use of audio-visual aids. For practical application of their studies the new Volunteers work for three weeks in the slums of Milwaukee.

With this group's arrival, about 640 Volunteers will be at work in Brazil. Other Peace Corps projects there include urban community development, primary and university education, agriculture and school lunch programs.

"Trick or Treat" Kids for UNICEF

Once again, a "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program will be launched in Winchester. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. William W. Towner, young people of the town will join together to make Halloween a more meaningful holiday for youngsters.

The idea began in 1950 when a small Sunday school class in the United States collected $17 for UNICEF. Small as this effort seems, it provided enough money to buy 10,200 glasses of milk, or 10,200 vitamin tablets, or vaccine enough to protect 1,360 children from tuberculosis!

Last year, more than 4 million young people in the United States and Canada brought more than $2 million as a gift for the needy mothers and children of the world. Ireland and the Philippines, as well as other countries, are making similar efforts.

Representatives of nine churches in Winchester are cooperating this year to make the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" a truly town-wide, non-denominational effort. Mrs. Keith Lawton, Church of the Epiphany; Mrs. Gerald Mosher, Baptist; Mrs. Stanley Marshman, Unitarian; Reverend Herbert K. A. Driscoll, Church of the Immaculate Conception; Miss Joyce Redling, Methodist; Rt. Reverend Joseph W. Lyons, St. Eulalia's; Mrs. James Scroggs, Second Congregational; Mrs. Miles Weaver, 1st Congregational; and Mrs. Florence Crossland, St. Mary's are responsible for the organization in each of the churches participating.

So when the young witches and the goblins and the bats(men!) ring your bell on Halloween shouting "Trick or Treat for UNICEF," you will buy 30 glasses of milk, or 30 vitamin tablets, or enough vaccine to protect 4 children from tuberculosis somewhere in the world.

Selectmen Decline To Impose Leash Law To Restrain Dogs

Study, Action Against Offenders Promised

Winchester's estimated 2,000 free dogs were granted a "stay of execution" from any immediate imposition of a restrictive and confining leash control law by the Board of Selectmen this week.

Taking the position that Winchester has never required a leash control law heretofore and that for more than a hundred years residents' dogs and pets have been left free to wander so long as they injured neither persons nor properties, the Selectmen said they were reluctant to rush into passing such an order.

In response to a recently submitted citizens petition bearing 411 names, which asked that the Selectmen order all dogs in the town restrained by leash and/or muzzle, the board informed a representative group of approximately ten persons on Monday night that it would look further into the dog situation in Winchester, and take a harder view and sterner action on any future dog bite cases.

The Selectmen directed Dog Officer William Ryerson to conduct a survey among other nearby cities and towns with respect to dog control laws, including the leash law, and analyze the successful and failing points which could be applicable here in Winchester.

Locally, the Selectemn directed Mr. Ryerson to prepare a report on the present situation of dogs in Winchester, with an evaluation of the conditions as he sees them.

The board further noted that in the past the only dog cases that had come to its attention was official citizen complaint cases on dog bites and neighborhood nuisances.

Often, the board pointed out, simple dog bite cases were reported to the dog officer or a local physician and the Board of Health, and were never brought to the attention of the Selectmen because no complaints were voiced. In these cases the victim was treated, and the dog simply confined for ten days and freed.

The Selectmen requested that the dog officer and the Board of Health notify the Board of Selectmen of any future dog bite cases, regardless of whether complaints are made or not.

The Board of Selectmen said it was contemplating submitting an article in the annual Town Meeting Warant to see if the representative government and the people of Winchester really wanted more restrictive dog control law.

Robert Armstrong, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said the board had not decided whether it might propose a general article asking the Town Meeting if it wanted more restrictive dog control laws—either to be passed or defeated, or whether it might propose either one or several alternative dog control law possibilities, one of which might be the so-called leash law.

On the other hand, Mr. Armstrong noted the board might also decide not to place such an article in the warrant, and instead allow any citizens who want such laws passed to submit their own petitions for Town Meeting consideration of the matter.

The Board of Selectmen, generally, Mr. Armstrong indicated, was not at this time particularly persuaded that a complete dog leash restriction law was needed or desired in Winchester; although it is investigating the facts on the issue and the prevalent views of the townspeople further.

Water's Edge Cleanup At Wedge Saturday

The Mystic Valley Citizens For Pollution Control will join with the Winchester Park Department and Board of Health in conducting a water's edge clean up of Wedge Pond in Winchester at 10 o'clock this Saturday morning.

Local high school students, explorer scouts, and boy scouts have been invited to join the clean up.

One of the main purposes of the event is to demonstrate that more and more people are interested in taking an active part in keeping our streams and ponds clean.

While Wedge Pond may be one of the cleanest bodies of water in this area, the participating groups hope that Saturday's clean up will illustrate that pollution control is not only a matter of cleaning up polluted waters, but also a job of keeping clean waters clean.

Anyone who would like to help is invited to join the water's edge clean up. Boots or water proof shoes and work gloves are recommended, and a rake might be helpful.

For more information contact Roy Johnson of 24 New Meadows Road, who is supervising the clean up, or Michael Saraco of the Winchester Board of Health.

Looking Ahead To Tufts Road School Program

Erection of partitions and installation of rough plumbing and heating is in progress at the Tufts Road site of the new elementary school.

Clearly discernable now are the special covered play area on the lower level, kindergarten room, and auditorium all-purpose room to the left of the main entrance.

Panel on METCO On October 20 At Wyman School

On Thursday, October 20th, at 8 p.m. Joseph E. Killory, Mrs. Ruth M. Batson, Paul Parks, and Dr. Robert I. Sperber will form a panel to present to the fall meeting of the Wyman Parents' Association an explanation and discussion of METCO, Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity.

Mr. Killory and Mrs. Batson are, respectively, executive director and associate director of METCO, and Mr. Parks, a civil engineer, is first vice president. Dr. Sperber is superintendent of schools in Brookline, one of the seven towns in which the METCO program has been in effect since the opening of schools last month.

Inasmuch as Winchester's School Committee has voted to put the METCO program into effect in our town as soon as possible, the meeting is intended to be informative. What is METCO? How and when was it started? What is its present program? How is the program working in the communities actively participating? What is likely to be Winchester's future role in the program? How soon will we be involved? These and many other questions come to mind as one considers the subject. Here is an opportunity to get some of the answers.

The public is cordially invited to attend this open meeting to be held in the Wyman School Auditorium, where interested citizens and parents of Winchester's school population will be on hand to learn about the significance and importance of METCO.

Littleton Named To Architects' Selection Board

Earle F. Littleton of 14 Cranston Road, a Tufts University professor of civil engineering and a registered architect, was one of five men named by Governor Volpe last Thursday to serve on the new Designer Selection Board, created last week by the Legislature to recommend architects for all state construction projects.

The new statutory board, established by the Democratic-controlled Legislature in the wake of a prolonged and much-publicized Senate investigation into the awarding of architects' contracts by the Republican administration,

Guests Dine On School Lunch

On Tuesday, October 11, National School Lunch Week was observed by the Winchester Schools. Luncheon was served at the Lynch Junior High School cafetorium to school administrators, town officials and other civic-minded citizens with a special invitation being extended to Mrs. John A. Volpe.

A short tour of the school and cafeteria facilities preceded the turkey luncheon planned by Peter J. Caliandro, manager of school cafeterias. In addition to National School Lunch Week it is the 20th Anniversary of the National School Lunch Program.

Local Artists Display Works

Mrs. Elizabeth M. O'Malley of 14 Emerson Road has 22 oils and four drawings hanging in Gallery 11 at the new Cohen Arts Center, Tufts University. The exhibition opened Friday, October 7, and will be on view to the public through October 23. Gallery 11 will be open Monday through Saturday from 9 to 5, and on Sundays from 2 to 5.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Lobingier of 7 Lewis Road is showing 17 oil paintings at the Browne and Nichols School, Memorial Drive in Cambridge. About half of these pictures portray familiar scenes of Rockport, Gloucester, and other sections of Cape Ann. The exhibition hangs in the large foyer, second floor of the center building and may be seen through October 28.

Absenteeism Up, Teaching Staff Substitute Need

Exceptionally high absentee rates, particularly at Parkhurst School, has emphasized the need for available substitute teachers for Winchester schools. Albert F. Sutula, principal at Parkhurst, reports as few as six children in one class, and the absence of four teachers due to an unidentified cold "bug" during the past week.

Dr. Taylor Named To Chiropractor Licensing Board

Dr. Warren J. Taylor of 10 Edgehill Road has been appointed a member of the new state Board of Registration of Chiropractors by Governor Volpe.

He was sworn into office for a one-year term on the five-man board at a State House ceremony at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, September 27.

Dr. Taylor is chief thoracic-chest surgeon at the Malden Hospital and is an associate in surgery at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford. He is also an associate in surgery at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, and at the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and at the Winchester Hospital.

Officials, Citizens Invited To Mental Health Center Opening

Mrs. James B. Willing of Leslie Road and Mrs. Joseph P. Lynch, Jr. of Grove Street will be hostesses during the open house at the new Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, 186 Bedford Street, Lexington, to be held next Sunday afternoon, October 16, from 2 until 5 p.m., it was announced this week by Mrs. Donald K. Lewis of Wedgemere Avenue, president of the Winchester Mental Health Association.

All interested Winchester residents are cordially invited to attend the open house, Mrs. Lewis said. Invited as guests of honor are Governor and Mrs. John A. Volpe, Mr. and Mrs. Endicott Peabody, the 13 members of the General Court representing the Mystic Valley area, town and city officials, Department of Mental Health professionals, presidents of the three Associations for Retarded Children in the Mystic Valley area, and the workers in the capital fund drive who enlisted the community support to make possible purchase and initial alterations of the property.

Winchester contributors to the fund drive, as well as Town Meeting members, who approve contribution of local tax money to the operating costs of the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic, will have an opportunity to see at first hand the setting in which the Clinic and Association work, to meet the staff of both, and to view informational displays. Refreshments will be served by committees from each of the five towns.

The Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, Mrs. Lewis pointed out, now provides a nucleus around which a network of coordinated community mental health services can be developed. It serves one of the thirty seven areas recommended by the Massachusetts Mental Health Planning Project into which the Commonwealth may be divided when the Community Mental Health Centers legislation is passed by the General Court.

The Mystic Valley area, comparatively high on the socio-economic scale, is therefore low in priority for receiving state and federal aid in construction and initial staffing of a complete mental health center. Aware of the unmet mental health needs here, and unwilling to wait 10 years, local leaders have begun the step-by-step development of comprehensive services by providing a stable setting for the Association, spearhead of community mental health planning, and for the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic, the only public mental health facility in the area. Other essential services, including adult out-patient, acute in-patient, 24 hour emergency and aftercare, can be developed, at some other locations such as general hospitals, but coordinated through the Center.

The Mystic Valley Mental Health Association, Inc., is a voluntary non-profit educational corporation, a chapter of the state and national citizens' organization. It is supported by the Massachusetts Bay United Fund through the Massachusetts Association for Mental Health. In cooperation with the Division of Mental Hygiene, Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, it operates the Mystic Valley Children's Clinic, which provides diagnosis and treatment of emotional disorders of children, testing of retarded children, and consultation to parents and others responsible for children's care, especially schools. Opened in 1958, the Clinic has in the past three years increased its direct services by a factor of four and its consultation services by a factor of 10. Its ability to meet the demand for its services has been limited by inadequate quarters and number of professional positions authorized. The new home will make possible the utilization of three temporary positions authorized by the last session of the legislature to decrease the gap between demand for and availability of services.

Cinderella For Kindness!

Mrs. Fred Cardin, president of the Winchester Auxiliary of M.S.P.C.A., reports receiving an unsolicited gift to benefit sick, lost and helpless animals for the proceeds of a play put on during the summer by children of the Prospect Street area.

The performance was a modern version of Cinderella, written by the older brother of two of the girls in the play.

Cast

Luanne Benshimol—Cinderella
Elaine Benshimol—Prudence, the ugly stepsister
Laurie Kincaid—Stepmother
Lisa Kincaid—Fairy godmother
Alexandra Kincaid — Abigail, a stepsister
Saramarie Kincaid—A dancer
Rebecca Wolfe — Prince Charming

The refreshment concession was handled by Paula Berberian, Stacey Materne and Eileen Conlin. Stage settings were by the kindness of older brothers.

Candidates' Views, Brooke - Peabody

U.S. Senatorial candidates Edward Brooke and Endicott Peabody will be the guests when "Candidates and Issues" looks at the hard-fought senate race, Wednesday, October 19 at 8 p.m. on Channel 2 (repeat Friday, October 21, 7:30 p.m. on WGBH-FM).

Both Republican Brooke and Democrat Peabody will be allowed to make an opening statement; then each will be questioned by a panel of newsmen, moderated by Channel 2 Public Affairs Director Mike Spencer.

TV Coffee For Top GOP Runners

Many Winchester people will gather together at a series of friendly "Come as you are" coffee hours next Tuesday, October 18, to focus attention on a Republican T.V. Program.

All of the Republican State Candidates and their wives will appear that morning on Channel 5, Boston, from 10:30 to 11 a.m. The program will highlight an informal discussion of current issues led by Governor Volpe.

The home coffee hours will be held all over the state not only to encourage group-viewing of the program but also to raise money. Each guest will be invited to attend the Coffee and, if possible, to make a dollar or more contribution to the Republican effort.

Anyone wishing to volunteer their home for a neighborhood coffee hour may call Mrs. Barone, 729-1544. Those who have already offered to hold parties in their homes are: Mrs. Woodford Wilcox, Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, Mrs. Ernest Wright, Mrs. George Branley, Mrs. William D. Barone, Mrs. Warren Carley, Mrs. John White, Mrs. Francis Lombardo, Mrs. Frederick Abbe, Mrs. Theodore Shasta, Mrs. David Wardwell, Mrs. David Choate, Jr., Mrs. Gardy Yagjian, Mrs. Warburton Ver Planck and Mrs. Joseph A. Knight.

Mrs. William D. Barone has been coordinator for Brooke on the State wide project and Mrs. Philip J. Woodward has been working on the committee.

Anyone in the vicinity of the Republican Headquarters on Waterfield Road on the morning of October 18 is invited to have coffee and view the program with the group gathered there.

Frank Millyan

Frank Millyan, 87, a resident of Swanton Street for over 50 years, died suddenly on Friday, October 7. A solemn high Mass was sung for him in St. Mary's Church following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Millyan was the father of five daughters and four sons. Surviving him in Winchester are Mrs. Elizabeth Riga, Mrs. Clara Bavuso, Mrs. Alice Kemp and Thomas D. Millyan. Mrs. Mary Nichotera survives him in Roslindale, sons Joseph in Woburn and Andrew in Wakefield. He was the father of the late Frank Millyan, Jr., of Winchester and the late Mrs. Isabelle Madoona of Lexington. He leaves also 25 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Mr. Millyan was well known in Winchester. He worked for many years at the Beggs and Cobb Tannery here and was a former employee of the Town of Winchester Water, Highway and Cemetery Departments. He was a parishioner at St. Mary's.

Mr. Millyan was born in Italy, coming here as a young man.

The Reverend Francis Turke officiated at the Mass.

Bible Soc. Head Speaks to Forum

The Reverend Lawrence Franklin Almond, executive director of the Massachusetts Bible Society will be the Forum speaker at the 9:15 chapel service on October 16. Following the service Mr. Almond will enter into a sermon dialogue with the Forumites.

REV. LAWRENCE F. ALMOND

Mr. Almond has served churches in Kansas, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. In New England Mr. Almond has served the Methodist Conference as president of the Board of Education, a member of the Scholarship Committee and the Board of Ministerial Training and Qualifications.

Senior Forum chaplains for October 16 will be Graham Chase and Ken Cooper. The deacons will be Chris Allyn and Bill Rozelle. The ushers are to be Chris Halverson and Alan Raphael.

Mrs. Maria (Strand) Carlson

Pastor John H. Kidder will officiate at two o'clock this afternoon in the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Woburn, at funeral services for Mrs. Maria (Strand) Carlson, 88, a resident at 16 East Street for nearly 44 years.

Mrs. Carlson died in Wakefield on Monday, October 10, after a brief illness. Visiting hours were yesterday at the Norris Funeral Home. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Carlson was born in Brunskog, Wermland, Sweden, on December 15, 1877, the daughter of Anders and Anna (Anderson) Strand. She was educated and grew up in Sweden and came to this country at the age of 44. The widow of the late Carl Victor Carlson, she was a member of the Lutheran Church and of the Skandia Lodge in Woburn.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ingrid Heden of Grenada Hills, California; by two sons, Borje of Winchester and Ture of Blekinge, Sweden; by eight grandchildren and by 11 great-grandchildren.

John J. Sullivan

John J. Sullivan, 89, died at the Winchester Hospital on Thursday, October 6, after a brief illness. He was born in Ireland on April 10, 1877, but had lived for 75 years in this country. A solemn high Mass was sung for him in St. Eulalia's Church following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mr. Sullivan had been with the Boston and Maine Railroad for many years until his retirement a few years ago. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. He had lived in Somerville until moving here to 32 Lockeland Road eight years ago.

Mr. Sullivan was the husband of the late Ellen A. (White), the father of four daughters, Mrs. Arthur L. Murray of Medford, Mrs. Helen A. Kelly of Brooklyn, New York, Julia F. Sullivan of Winchester and M. Margaret Sullivan of Winchester; and of a son, John J. of Milton. He also leaves seven grandchildren and two sisters in Ireland.

Circuit Minister To Visit Witnesses

Mr. Russell I. Weaver, circuit minister of Jehova's Witnesses in this area will be visiting the Burlington Congregation during the week of October 11. The visit is a semi-annual event designed to assist the Burlington Congregation, which serves the Winchester area, in many ways which will enhance the activity and progress of the preaching of "The Good News of the Kingdom" within the area.

Throughout the week instructions on Bible truths and Christian principals will be given by Mr. Weaver to those associated with the local congregation and he will personally accompany many members of the congregation in a door-to-door visit with Winchester residents with a message of truth from the Bible.

The climax of his visit will be on Sunday afternoon of October 16 at 5 p.m. when he will deliver a public Bible lecture entitled "Christendom or Christianity, Which One has Failed?" He has personally extended an invitation to all interested in keeping abreast of Bible truths to attend. The Kingdom Hall is located on Bridge Lane, Wilmington, and all meetings are open to the public and are free of charge.

Uniroyal® WINTERIDE® SNOW TIRES

Let's face it. You should think about snow tires before it snows. Don't chance getting stuck. Have your snow tires mounted early. In fact, if you wait too long before coming to see us, you may not be able to get the size and style you want. Some of our better snow tires, such as Uniroyal's Winterides, are at a premium even now before the season really begins.

No wonder! A snow tire spends most of its life on snowless roads. And the Winteride is a snow tire tested to do 100 mph . . . when there is no snow. That's one of the reasons it's called The Dry Road Snow Tire and is in such great demand. Winteride's big, big tractor-type treads dig you out of deep snow quick, but also give you a smooth, quiet ride on dry roads where you travel most of the time.

At a five o'clock candlelight ceremony on Saturday, October 1st, Miss Andrea Page Swan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Swan of 91 Church Street and Marblehead became the bride of Robert Newton Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil N. Wood of Burlington.

MRS. ROBERT N. WOOD

Dr. Dwight L. Cart, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Winchester performed the ceremony and Miss Swan was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ivory peau de soie wedding gown with matching coat and chapel length train, appliqued with imported Alencon lace and seed pearls. Her headdress had an elbow length veil and she carried a sheath of calla lilies.

Mrs. James F. Mawn, Jr. was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Roger E. Cole of Peabody, Miss Judith Dellicker of New York, Mrs. Edward Kabadian of Worcester, and Miss Judith Madden of Winchester. They wore lime and moss green gowns with matching coats and carried white fugi mums. Also in attendance were the bride's two nieces, the Misses Erin and Lisa Mawn, wearing lime velvet dresses and carrying white baskets of rose petals.

David Wood, brother of the bridegroom was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. William T. Rogers of Brewer, Maine, Mr. William E. Hoskins of Burlington, Mr. Kendall G. Hopkins of Lynnfield, and Mr. Peter Macione of Chelmsford.

For her daughter's wedding the mother of the bride wore a gown of frosted gold brocade with matching hat, and carried a purse corsage of green cymbidium orchids. For her son's wedding the mother of the bridegroom wore a dusty pink and pale green brocade gown, hat of dusty pink velvet, and carried pale orchids.

The bride attended Denison University and Vesper George School of Art. Mr. Wood attended Maine Central Institute and was graduated from the University of Maine. After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. and Mrs. Wood will be at home at Town House Road, Manchester, New Hampshire.

Panusky—Picopolus

A nuptial Mass held recently in Saint Mary's Church joined in marriage Miss Rosemarie Jean Picopolus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Picopolus of 33 Spruce Street and Mr. Donald Joseph Panusky, son of Mrs. John Panusky of Lawrence and the late Mr. Panusky. The Reverend Bernard M. Hoy officiated at three o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 18 and a reception followed the ceremony at Montvale Plaza in Stoneham.

MRS. DONALD J. PANUSKY

The bride's father gave her in marriage and she wore for her wedding a dress of peau de soie highlighted with lace and embroidered with seed pearls. Her headpiece was a crown of scalloped lace with seed pearls and crystals and she carried a cascade of white carnations, stephanotis and ivy, made with an orchid center.

Mrs. Lewis DeLuca of Winchester was her sister's matron of honor and attending as bridesmaids were the Misses Joan Vespucci and Lois Antonelli, cousins of the bride, and Miss Dolly Paquette, all of Winchester. The honor attendant wore an empire gown of peony pink and azalea pink crepe, styled with a Watteau panel. Her headpiece was a matching crepe bow and she carried a spray of pink and white miniature carnations. The bridesmaids were identically gowned, but in turquoise and peacock blue and they carried the same bouquets.

Mr. John Panusky of Salem, New Hampshire was best man for his brother and ushering were the Messrs Paul Paris, Michael Russo and Richard Schmidt, all of Lawrence.

The mother of the bride was gowned in a floor length peony pink, ensemble, worn with a matching headpiece, and Mrs. Panusky was in a dress fashioned with a green velvet top and gold satin bottom also worn with a matching headpiece.

The couple are returning from a wedding trip in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania to make their home in Woburn. The bride, a Winchester High School graduate, is employed at the Winchester Trust Company and the bridegroom, a Lawrence High School alumnus, is with the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company.

Former Winchester Resident Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood L. Lauderbach of Wakefield announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan, to Joseph C. Masi, Jr., of Reading.

MISS SUSAN LAUDERBACH

Miss Lauderbach, a 1964 graduate of Wakefield High School was graduated last May from Wingate College, Wingate, N.C. She is presently employed but plans to return to school next semester, attending Suffolk University.

Mr. Masi, who graduated from Winchester High School, in 1959, is a Tufts University graduate, class of 1963. He is associated with Honeywell Corp., employed in the communications department and was a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy.

To make their home in Long Beach, Calif., where the bridegroom is stationed on the U.S.S. Gallant, are Ensign and Mrs. Robert James Colclough, Jr., who were married at eleven o'clock on the morning of October 1 in the Notre Dame Church of New Hyde Park, Long Island, N. Y.

MRS. ROBERT J. COLCLOUGH, JR.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Mooney of New Hyde Park, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Colclough of 102 Wendell Street. The Reverend William McGlynn officiated at the wedding ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Maine Maid Inn in Jericho, New York.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin, with which she wore a full-length veil edged with Venetian lace. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Her three sisters attended at her wedding. Miss Clare Mooney was maid of honor, and the Misses Eileen and Patricia Mooney were bridesmaids, along with the Misses Judy Franjola of New Hyde Park and Mary Raleigh of Brandon, Vt. They were dressed alike in olive-green gowns and all wore matching ribbon and tulle headdresses. The honor attendant carried a cascade of rust chrysanthemums with autumn leaves and the bridesmaids' chrysanthemum bouquets were yellow.

Mr. Paul Coffey of Troy, New York was best man. Ushering were the Messrs David Coffey of Troy, Robert Kelley of Reading, Frank Lytle of Malone, New York, and Kevin Cunningham of Arlington.

The mother of the bride was in a beige silk jacket dress worn with a mink hat and brown accessories and a corsage of small mixed chrysanthemums. Mrs. Colclough was gowned in a silk dress and coat of celery green, with which she wore matching shoes and bag, and a tulle hat of moss green. She also wore a corsage of small chrysanthemums.

The bride is a graduate of the Notre Dame School of New Hyde Park, Our Lady of Mercy Academy of Syosset, New York, and of Trinity College in Burlington, Vt. Ensign Colclough was graduated from Matignon High School and from St. Michael's College in Winooski, Vt. He was commissioned in the Navy in February and now serves as first lieutenant and supply officer aboard the Gallant.

The couple left for a wedding trip to San Francisco.

Croft — Gille

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Gille of Gratiot, Wisconsin announce the marriage of their daughter Judith Marie to Mr. Robert C. Croft, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Croft of 93 Wildwood Street.

MRS. ROBERT C. CROFT, JR.

Mr. Croft is employed by the American Red Cross and Mrs. Croft by the Republican Party of Wisconsin.

The couple are making their home at 680 W. Badger Road, Madison, Wisconsin.

Graduation From Modelling School For Two Here

Miss Sharon Keith of Indian Hill Road and Miss Sally Johnson of Prince Avenue, both have recently completed the Charm and Finishing Course at the Carol Nashe School.

They have also completed their modeling training and have been accepted to the Carol Nashe Model Agency.

Graduation will be October 13 at 8 p.m. at a tea and fashion show in Stanbro Hall at the Hotel Statler.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Roberts of Adams, announce the birth of a first child and son, Gary Paul, born September 23 at the Winchester Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Roberts of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Camp of Bridgewater, Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Rogers (Barbara Bowler) announce the birth of their son at the Chelsea Naval Hospital on October 8. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rogers of Cincinnati, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bowler of Winchester are the grandparents. Mrs. Gladys Carter of Cincinnati, Ohio and Mrs. Augusta Bowler of Winchester are great grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Bishop Peckham (Jeanne Chase) of 35 Norwood Street, Sharon, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Lisa Natalie, October 9 at Winchester Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Raymond Chase of 155 Cambridge Street and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon D. Peckham of 64 Church Street. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George H. Peckham of 20 Euclid Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Zarse of 16 Sargent Road announce the birth of their third child, a daughter, Carla Adrianne, October 2 at Richardson House. Grandparents are Mrs. John Jones of Barnstead, New Hampshire and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Zarse of Fort Meyers Beach, Florida, formerly of Felsdale Close.

Citadel Honors To Cadet Bird

Cadet David Owen Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Bird of Bradford, New Hampshire, formerly of Winchester, recently won the coveted designation of Distinguished Military Student at the Citadel.

Gen. Hugh P. Harris, president of The Citadel, congratulated the cadets who were selected for the highly prized honor, who upon graduation are entitled to apply for a regular rather than a reserve commission as a second lieutenant in the Army.

Cadet Bird holds membership in the Block "C" Club and holds office as vice-president in the Association of the United States Army and the History Club. He is on the Guidon staff (freshman orientation handbook). Cadet Bird is a senior at the military college majoring in history and enrolled in the Army ROTC program.

"SNOW WHITE and ROSE RED" and "THE BIG BAD WOLF"

UNIQUE DOUBLE FEATURE MOVIE TREAT FOR CHILDREN COMES TO WINCHESTER

Grimm's Fairy Tales in Color to Play Special Weekend Matinees on October 22 - 23

From the beautiful fairy-tale land of magic and wonder and from the celebrated pens of those two master writers — The Brothers Grimm — there now comes to the motion picture screen a rare entertainment treat produced especially for children. Two delightful stories, "Snow White and Rose Red" and "The Big Bad Wolf," filmed in glowing "Storybook Color" and filled with gay, tuneful songs and music, will be shown at the Winchester Theatre for special matinee performances on October 22 - 23.

"Snow White and Rose Red" is a perfect example of the brilliant imaginations of those two legendary story-tellers. It contains all the fascinating fairy-tale elements in a fantasy that has pleased and thrilled children down through the 150 years since it was first printed. With live actors playing all the parts in spectacular natural settings, the screen is filled with the exciting tale of a handsome prince who is turned into a big bear by a wicked dwarf with magical powers, and how he is helped by two good sisters who live in the forest with their mother.

In its charming film version, "The Big Bad Wolf" tells the equally exciting story of a cunning wolf and seven little kids (baby goats). As in all classic fairy tales, evil is overcome, and the mother goat and her children finally outwit the wolf and, of course, live happily ever after.

These two enchanting children's stories and brand-new productions and are being shown for the first time. They make for a perfect afternoon's entertainment for children of all ages and will prove as popular on the screen as they have been for so long on the printed page.

Down The Allagash In Style

MEMORIES OF BUGS AND DISCOMFORTS are gone and nothing is left but sweet recollection for the above members of Troop 507 who reported to their troopmates at a meeting last week on a very successful canoe trip the boys took recently. They covered some 87 miles of the Allagash River in Maine, from Haymock Pond to Churchill Depot on a seven-day junket which took them through the breathtaking Chase and Carry rapids. Trippers—pick them out if you can—were Harry Boodakian and Dr. Theodore Reynolds of the Troop committee, Michael Boodakian, Paul Smiley, Ernest Crabtree, Peter Tunnicliffe, Michael Kelleher, Peter Reynolds and James Blackburn.

Troop 507 Hears Philmont Report

Boy Scout Troop 507, headed by Scoutmaster Don Marchant, started its 1966-67 season on Thursday, September 22, by reviewing events of the past summer and hearing senior scouts Carl Smiley and Ernie Crabtree report on their trip to Philmont, the scouting reservation in the mountains of New Mexico. Both scouts earned their 50 miler awards.

Carl Smiley then reported on the Allagash canoe trip. Eight scouts of Troop 507 including Carl Smiley, Ernie Crabtree, Chuck Knight, Peter Tunnicliffe, Michael Kelleher, Michael Boodakian, Bill Blackham and Peter Reynolds and headed by committee chairman Harry Boodakian and Ted Reynolds, advancemen chairman, took this exciting 87-mile canoe trip in mid-August.

Fall camping activities for 507 began this last weekend with an overnight advancement trip to Pawtuckaway State Park in Nottingham, New Hampshire. Twenty-four scouts went on this outing.

Coming events for this month include swimming at the Woburn Boy's Club on Sunday, October 16, board of review on Thursday, October 20, and a court of honor on October 27. A second camping weekend is planned for November.

Troop membership currently numbers approximately 40 scouts. Boys who wish to become members of this active Boy Scout Troop are welcome. The troop meets every Thursday at 7 p.m. in the gymnasium of McCall Junior High School.

Residents Attend Alumnae Council

Mrs. Edward Reynolds of 33 Lloyd Street, president of the Mount Holyoke Club of Winchester, and two other area residents will attend the 51st annual Mount Holyoke College Alumnae Council at the South Hadley campus October 14-16.

Those participating in the three-day program along with Mrs. Reynolds are Mrs. Robert Grasty, a newcomer to Winchester, sustaining donor chairman of the national Alumnae Fund Drive; and Mrs. Lloyd Butterfield of 20 Symmes Road, school contacts chairman of the Winchester Mount Holyoke Club.

Some 250 alumnae from all over the United States will attend a series of workshops, panel discussions and lectures on "The Arts at Mount Holyoke."

Local Simmons Club to Present Fashion Show

At 8:30 on Tuesday, October 18th the Arlington-Winchester Simmons College Club will present Fall Fashion Forecast at the Dallin School, Florence Avenue, Arlington Heights.

The fashions will be provided by Sears of Cambridge and will be modeled by Mrs. Elaine Cataldo, Mrs. Nancy Fritch, Mrs. Eleanor Peters, Mrs. Jean Robinson, Miss Andrea Peters—all members of the club.

Mrs. Marjorie Rice of Arlington and currently dean of women and director of fashion merchandising at the Cinderella Career and Finishing School in Boston will serve as commentator. Mrs. Rice is an alumna of the School of Home Economics and the Prince School of Retailing at Simmons, and is active in various professional fashion groups.

There will be a gift drawing at the conclusion of the program which will include styles for everyone.

Tickets can be obtained from Mrs. M. H. Masters (729-1039 or at the door.

Captain Galuffo Instructs Sitters In Fire Safety

Winchester Fire Department Captain Peter L. Galuffo will be the speaker at this evening's session of the Winchester Jayceeettes' Baby Sitters' School at the Red Cross House.

Captain Galuffo, who attended Winchester public schools and Northeastern University, is currently serving as vice president of the Mass. Institute of Fire Department Instructors and president of the Winchester Fireman's Relief Association.

In addition, he is on the faculty of the Central Mass. Fire Training Academy, is Drillmaster of the Winchester Fire Dept. and a member of various community organizations including the Aberjona Civic Association.

In explaining fire safety measures to sitters, Capt. Galuffo will discuss general precautions against fire, emergency action in the event of fire, and how and when to call the Fire Department.

Since the principal causes of fire in the home have as a common denominator the element of carelessness, sitters will be advised of their responsibility in maintaining the safest conditions for children in their care.

Guild of The Infant Saviour

The Winchester Chapter, Guild of the Infant Saviour, has planned many interesting and varied programs for members and friends for the coming year. Mrs. J. Lester Killian, president, announces the opening event will be an autumn dessert bridge to be held at Knights of Columbus Hall, Wednesday, October 19, at 1 p.m. Following the dessert hour, the bridge players will have an opportunity to win some beautiful and useful prizes. Mrs. Killian and Mrs. George F. Winterson are honorary chairmen of this annual fall affair. The very active committee serving with Mrs. Henry Valcour, chairman, are:

Mrs. Frederick H. Brigham
Mrs. Edward F. Conners
Mrs. John H. Cosgro

Arthur Miller: TV Producers Underestimate

Playwright Arthur Miller warned today that television producers are underestimating the intelligence of the public, TV Guide magazine reported.

"It stands to reason that the sharp rise in the level of education has made many more people sensitive to what's happening in our society than the networks choose to believe. People are not the squares producers think they are, but the public is still getting the same old trivia," Miller said in an interview in the October 8 issue of TV Guide.

The playwright also said television has many more taboos and tighter censorship than radio had in its halycon days of drama shows.

Parkhurst Parents

Mr. Albert Sutula, principal of the Parkhurst School, will be the speaker at the opening meeting of the Parkhurst Parents' Association on Tuesday, October 18, at 2:15 p.m. in the school auditorium. Mr. Sutula's subject will be "Influence of the Teaching and Learning Process."

Mrs. Douglas Parkhill, president of the Association, will also conduct a brief business meeting. Parents are invited to meet the teachers, who will join the group after the meeting for refreshments. Baby sitting will be available.

March for MD This Sunday

The Winchester firefighters are heading the Muscular Dystrophy Association's drive and its house-to-hose march Sunday, October 16.

Heading the canister drive is Firefighter Robert Powers, president of I.A.F.F. No. 1564. Firefighters are placing canisters in stores throughout Winchester and helping on the day of the march. The firefighters have been supporting Muscular Dystrophy Associations for over 12 years.

With the funds raised the Greater Boston chapter will continue a program of research and patient service which includes the purchase of wheelchairs, lifts, braces and many other needed appliances. The chapter conducts a summer camp for the Muscular Dystrophy children and a free clinic at the University Hospital.

Promotion To Major L. Curtis

Major Lewis Gilbert Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Curtis of 154 Highland Avenue, was recently promoted from the rank of Captain in the United States Air Force.

Major Curtis completed Air Command and Staff College at the Air University in Montgomery, Alabama last summer and is now stationed at Bitburg Air Base in Germany. Mrs. Curtis (the former Wendy Wood of Winchester) and their three children joined him there last month for the three year assignment.

Parkhurst Named VP at the NE Merchants Bank

New England Merchants National Bank of Boston announces the promotion of Stephen R. Parkhurst to vice president in the computer services department according to a statement by Richard P. Chapman, chairman of the bank.

STEPHEN R. PARKHURST

Mr. Parkhurst, who joined the bank in 1956, is a graduate of Dartmouth who received his MBA at Babson. He is secretary of the Dartmouth College Mystic Valley Club, a member of the executive committee of the Dartmouth College Boston Alumni Club, treasurer of the Winchester Unitarian Church, and a member of the board of governors of the Boston Chapter, Inc., American Institute of Banking.

Mr. Parkhurst lives on Ridgefield Road with his wife, Lorraine, and their five children, John, Laura, Sarah, David, and Susan.

Kazazian Named Purity Supervisor

Leo Kahn, owner and president of Purity Sav-mor Super Markets, announced at a recent executive dinner meeting the promotion of Randolph L. Kazazian of 49 Lincoln Street to the position of supervisor.

As supervisor, Mr. Kazazian will be in charge of all delicatessen departments in this fast growing chain of super markets. There are 14 Purity Sav-mor Super Markets in the northeastern section of Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph L. Kazazian have been residents of Winchester for 33 years.

Electrical Authority

Appointment of Walter R. Stone of New York City as editorial coordinator of the National Electrical Code was announced recently by Percy Bugbee of 22 Symmes Road, general manager of the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) which issue the code. Mr. and Mrs. Stone have moved to 200 Swanton Street.

Recognized as one of the nation's best-informed electrical authorities, Mr. Stone will work closely with the NFPA National Electrical Code Committee and with the association's electrical field service engineer, Frank Stetka. His appointment is effective immediately.

Mr. Stone comes to NFPA headquarters in Boston from the Bureau of Electricity of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, where he held the post of superintendent of codes and standards. From 1947 to 1957 he was chief electrical inspector for the city of Fort Worth, Texas, and for the next six years he served in a similar capacity with the Utica Division of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters.

Long a contributing editor of the periodicals Electrical South, Lighting, and International Association of Electrical Inspectors News Bulletin, Mr. Stone has written extensively on the National Electrical Code and its applications. He is a member of the IAEI and a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, among his many professional activities.

Noonan Rummage Sale on Oct. 18

The annual rummage sale sponsored by the Noonan School Parents' Association will be held on Tuesday, October 18, from 10-12 a.m. in the school auditorium.

Noonan parents remind that this is the perfect opportunity to clean up cellars, attics, and closets. Whatever citizens cannot use, they can sell.

Donations of clean used clothing in good condition with shoes, hats, jewelry, books, toys, household articles, and plants will be gratefully accepted.

Mothers are requested to send in the articles on Friday, October 14, or Monday, the 17th. If it is impossible to get contributions to the school, please call Mrs. Richard Cantillon at 729-6446 for pickup service.

Thanking everyone in advance for donations, the association cordially invites all to come next Tuesday and browse around. Coffee and doughnuts will be served during the rummage sale.

K

The pause before Winter!

If you were like most New Englanders, you took advantage of yesterday's holiday to take that last long ride through the countryside to witness Mother Nature at her best.

There aren't enough adjectives to describe the beautiful colors that tempt amateur and professional artist alike to capture them on canvass.

Yesterday was Columbus Day named in honor of the man who is credited with discovering America. But it also marks another discovery that perhaps many of you are very much aware.

It is a little more than a month since Labor Day, the day that signals the close of the vacation season and "back-to-school" for the youngsters. Since then, clubs and organizations have had their first round of meetings; your social calendar is already full; and the kid's homework is getting tougher.

But somehow, Columbus Day is like a much-needed pause, to reminisce about the past nine months; to finish up that last bit of Fall cleaning and house painting; and to begin preparations for the holiday season.

And speaking of holiday seasons, if you've been planning on getting new rugs this year, now is the time to buy—we have the largest inventory ever in Orientals and in broadlooms.

If you're not in the market to buy new rugs but want to get your present ones cleaned, then let us suggest our rug cleaning service with an offer of 20% off for cash and carry.

Editorials:

A Note On Excellence

Winchester High School Principal Howard Niblock was understandably pleased last week when he received information from the Merit Scholarship Foundation noting 18 seniors' commendations. Coupled with an earlier announcement of 9 seniors qualifying as semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship program, this meant a total of 27 students ranking high in the nationwide scholarship testing operation.

The graduating class of 1967 is only slightly larger than that of 1966, and yet this year the High School has more than twice as many semifinalists and commended students than last year—27 now as opposed to 13 then.

Of course there are many factors involved in the determinations of any number of semifinalists and commended students from a given school, including the number taking the test, the aptness of the students, the quality of the instructional program offered, and the educational environment, among others. But we feel it is worthwhile taking note of the number of students honored for scholastic achievement, very high in relation to the average few per high school across the state, and especially when one remembers that the present high school is greatly hindered by a condition of overcrowding in a less than modern structure.

These students honored by national recognition for their scholarship do credit to themselves through their own abilities and energies. They also do credit to their teachers, former and present, who assisted in developing their academic abilities to this level of excellence.

Services Well Rendered

The resignations of two town committee chairmen recently due to the requirements of their business associations is noted with particular understanding and appreciation for their contributions to good government and dedicated public service in Winchester.

Chairman of the Finance Committee George Pettersen brought some new ideas and approaches to that committee, and many had looked forward to seeing an even fuller development of some of them—maybe yet to come. Leaving Winchester for residence elsewhere in going to work for another employer, Mr. Pettersen made a significant citizen's contribution to this community through his capable service on the Finance Committee and as its head for the past six months.

Permanent Building Committee secondary school subcommittee chairman William O'Malley brought organizational efficiency and dedicated drive to that committee's work in attempting to obtain adequate high school specifications from one advisory committee, and adequate site recommendations from another advisory board so that it could proceed with starting a much needed new high school. With the BRA and other business consulting work requiring more of his time, Mr. O'Malley announced last June his intention to resign as soon as the "ship looked ready to sail." If the ship is almost ready to sail now, when it does sail, it will sail well due in large part to his perseverance and steady mind on the goal to be achieved.

Comment:

Winchester's finest are still selling tickets to their annual Policeman's "ball" (really a variety revue for the family) due in the WHS Audito rium on Wednesday, November 2. Let them get their feet in the door when they come to your house. They deserve the community's support.

Those who didn't take in the football game at Manchester Field Saturday missed a good game and a magnificent half-time show. For our money the Winchester band is the best in the area these days and their new drill work gives even Harvard's instrumentalists a run in competition. Band-master Fred Murray must have been working them overtime. As for looks, they and the smart looking cheer leaders and tumblettes rate the highest too. No one at WHS has yet succumbed to the usual tassle and feathers razzle-dazzle for outfits. Instead the girls are neat, chic, bright and gay as well as tops in good looks. You could do a lot worse for your money than to take the family down to Manchester Field for the next home game, October 22 vs. Melrose. The current gung-ho team has already earned the Town's support.

Airman

Reaching the end of the firing pass, he executed a sharp turn and returned along the previous course dangerously low, but extremely effective, as it put suppresive fire on the enemy from a vantage position, and deliberately drew the enemy fire away from the troops on the ground.

By this time the enemy had directed all his fire toward Captain Farnham's ship and automatic weapons had put several hits into his aircraft.

After repairs to the downed aircraft had been completed Captain Farnham landed and picked up three ARVN soldiers who could not be lifted out by the other aircraft. Then, completely disregarding his own safety, he made one last low firing pass along the tree line, allowing the lift aircraft to reach a safe distance. He then returned to Duc Hoa where he made repairs to his crippled aircraft, and then returned again to the area to lead his fire team on strikes against the hostile positions close to the ARVN soldiers.

At the end of the day lift helicopters approached the operational area, to pick up ARVN soldiers. As the flight landed it came under a heavy hail of automatic weapons fire from the tree line, which was only 20 meters away.

Captain Farnham unhesitatingly led his fire team against the enemy positions, accurately placing fire along the tree line and extremely close to the lift helicopters. So effective was the fire support that it surpressed the enemy fire long enough for the lift helicopters to depart from the area.

In the words of a U.S. Army report 'Captain Farnham's leadership during the nine hours of subjection to enemy fire was a source of inspiration to his men tnd to ARVN in the area.'

On June 26th Captain Farnham again distinguished himself by conspicuous gallantry and heroism above and beyond the call of duty, while participating in an aerial flight against a heavily armed enemy. His heroic leadership, the U.S. Army report stated, keen judgement and inspirational courage, while under continuous heavy enemy fire, caused significant losses to the Viet Cong forces.

Captain Farnham flew as aircraft commander of an armed helicopter to an area approximately five miles south of Cu Chi, Republic of Vietnam, to perform a single ship reconnaisance, mark and strike of a landing zone.

Elements of the U.S. 25th Division were scheduled to make an assault landing on a village area. Enroute to the area the wing aircraft had to return to Bien Hoa because of maintenance difficulties.

Realizing the importance of the mission Captain Farnham elected to fly his heavily loaded, unescorted helicopter into the area to perform the necessary preparation and to provide overhead cover for the troop carrying helicopters.

Because of inclement weather, low surface ceiling and thundershowers in the area the flight had to be at an extremely low altitude.

On his initial pass across the area Captain Farnham's aircraft was subjected to a murderous volume of small arms and automatic weapons fire from the village adjacent to the proposed landing zone. After determining the location of the enemy positions which would prove the most dangerous to the lift helicopters, Captain Farnham flew his aircraft on a succession of daring, low level attacks on the heavily intrenched enemy forces.

The Viet Cong were deployed throughout the area in trenches, buildings and fortified positions, and, despite the heavy enemy fire and without regard for his personal welfare, Capt. Farnham pressed home his attack, placing deadly accurate machine gun and rocket fire on the hostile forces..

He made many firing passes, flying directly into the mouth of a cross fire from two machine gun emplacements set-up facing the landing zone.

With sheer determination and devotion to duty Captain Farnham continued to make firing passes over the enemy positions, firing within 25 meters of the lift aircraft and friendly troops that had been landed in the area. Continuous enemy fire was directed toward his aircraft from all quadrants in the area, requiring Capt. Farnham to overfly the enemy positions to effectively engage all targets presented.

While doing this his aircraft was hit several times, and Capt. Farnham was wounded. Despite the wounds and the extensive damage to his aircraft he refused to quit and fought the enemy until his main weapons ammunition was exhausted. Even then he continued to make passes over the enemy positions to allow his door gunners to expend all their ammunition.

It was only through the leadership, determination, courage, devotion and total disregard to personal welfare of Captain Farnham that the friendly forces completed their assault without injury, and the lift helicopters departed without damage. His accurate fire support killed 13 of the enemy, wounded four others, destroyed 27 structures with fortifications, and damaged 13 others.

Capt. Farnham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farnham of 12 Wildwood Street, Wilmington, and is married to the former Betty Small, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Small of 131 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington. The couple have two sons, Scooter and Skippy, and Mrs. Farnham is at present living in Billerica.

Captain Farnham has been stationed in the Far East since early 1962, and is about to complete his second tour of duty in Vietnam. He will be returning to the US on the 12th of October for a long deferred leave, after which he will be stationed at Fort Rucker, Alabama, with the Army Aviation School.

Dr. Taylor is a member of the Winchester Board of Health, and is the official physician to that board. He also maintains a private practice in Malden, with an office at 452 Pleasant Street.

A graduate of Dartmouth College in 1943, Dr. Taylor received a two-year certificate from Dartmouth Medical School and went on to earn his doctor of medicine degree at Columbia University in 1945. He interned at Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital in Hanover, New Hampshire, in 1945-1946, and served his residency there in 1948 and 1949.

Dr. Taylor resides at 10 Edgehill Road with his wife, Marjorie, and their four children.

Board of Appeal

The Board of Appeals noted in its denial that the Scout Service Center was a "non-profit social or recreational organization" within the purview of the zoning by-law allowances for single residence district construction. However, it found that the proposed use would be "injurious to the neighborhood within the meanings of Section 8, and injurious to the welfare of the community within the meaning of Section 9," that it would be akin to a business operation in a residential district and that the number of vehicles parking near the facility without any appropriately designated off-street parking would be harmful.

The board disallowed a stated agreement with Star Market founder John M. Mugar to use the shopping plaza's parking lot, since that part of the lot under agreement had not been brought before the Appeals Board for proceedings to authorize its use, and therefore would not be a satisfactory solution to the petitioner's parking problem "because the legality of the existing commercial parking lot on the Mugar-Brown land is subject to question."

New School Plan Information Is V-O Talk Topic

On Thursday, October 20, at 8 p.m., the Vinson-Owen Parents and the Parkhurst Parents Associations, with the assistance of the Winchester League of Women Voters, will hold a joint meeting in the Vinson-Owen School Auditorium. This is to be a special information meeting on plans for the proposed new high school, and Mr. William Clarke, assistant superintendent of Schools, and Mr. Joseph Vitka, chairman of the Secondary School Building Committee, will be present to speak and to answer questions.

Representatives from the Planning Board, Finance Committee, and the Selectmen have also been invited to be present.

This information meeting is one of three which will be held for the benefit of the townspeople preliminary to the special Town Meeting on the High School situation. Arrangements for the other two meetings will be announced when plans are finalized.

Substitutes

Difficulty in locating sufficient substitute teachers in such a situation has led the School Department to invite men and women with college degrees in and around Winchester to make themselves available for substitute teaching in the local schools. To do so, contact the Superintendent's Office, 465 Main Street, 729-8130.

Increased substitute pay of $20 per day began in September in an effort to attract the qualified substitutes needed to both elementary and secondary levels. Greatest need is in the field of athletics, physics, chemistry, biology, business education (secondary level) and the special subject areas of art, music and physical education.

A special appeal is made to college graduates with teacher training and former teachers who might be available for day-to-day substituting. At the secondary level a substitute teacher may be approved as a graduate of an accredited college or university in their major and minor fields without previous training or experience in teaching.

Clubhouse

living in the neighborhood—or be detrimental to the public welfare."

The Board of Appeals determined that the petitioner's proposal to build a clubhouse would not be injurious to this particular neighborhood, because of the near-by commercial plaza and heavily traveled highway adjacent to it, and pointing out: "it must be recognized that this is not what one would term a quiet, residential area to begin with."

The Board of Appeals further judged that the proposal would not be detrimental to the public welfare either, such as in depressing property values, since the clubhouse would not significantly increase noise or traffic in that area, adding: "this particular locality cannot reasonably be characterized a residential area of the usual type."

The Board noted that a previous petition by the Elks in 1960 had been granted by an earlier Board of Appeals, but that the three year construction starting time limit had run out while the Elks searched for more capital financing. The Elks bought the land, paid for legal, engineering and architectural services, and had utilities installed, all in anticipation of building the new clubhouse.

In granting the petition allowing the Elks to build a new clubhouse at 375 Cambridge Street near the Winchester-Woburn line, the board stated: We note that the petitioner is a responsible organization of long standing in Winchester. Its work with the youth of the town and its other charitable activities are well recognized. We are aware of no history of past difficulties at 12 Elmwood Avenue (due to noise or other lack of consideration for neighbors) in connection with its existing clubhouse.

"On the basis of the foregoing, it is the unanimous decision of this Board that this petition is allowed, subject to the conditions and restrictions set forth below:

1. The clubhouse must be constructed substantially as shown on the plans submitted to the Board.

2. All parking must be off-street parking; no parking will be permitted on the public way. A minimum of 72 parking spaces, located behind the clubhouse, shall be constructed before the clubhouse is put to use.

3. Use of the clubhouse and its grounds must at all times be restricted to social or recreational use by members of the petitioner and bona fide, nonpaying guests of such members.

4. The clubhouse shall not be used during the hours from 1:00 a.m. on Sunday to 8 a.m. on Monday.

5. Construction of the clubhouse and parking facilities must be completed within three years from the date of this decision.

Littleton

requires that those serving on the board will be prohibited from doing state work. Its recommendations will be made public, but the administration will not be bound to select the architects suggested by it.

Mr. Littleton, a member of the Winchester Planning Board and chairman of the Permanent Building Committee's elementary school subcommittee which was responsible for the planning and construction of the Tufts Road Elementary School, is joined on the new state Designer Selection Board by architects Walter Pulsifer of Abington, Robert Meserve of Reading, Philip Bourne of Beverly, and contractor Stanley Porter of Lincoln.

Tufts Road

with a construction cart and bits of pipe, suggest their use as "daylight providers."

Openings that look like doors are actually tall, floor length windows. The other windows are above eye level and designed to eliminate the heating and lighting problems often encountered when entire wall areas are glass.

While the walls of the new elementary school are rising, plans are being made to implement the problem that the building is designed to house.

Principal Richard Young is working on the special teaching techniques which can be used in the new school with Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction Walter Gleason. Mr. Young and Dr. Gleason met last week with Dr. Robert Anderson of 8 Winslow Road and the Howard Educational School, who has offered some of his time for consultation on the curriculum and instructional methods to be used in the new school.

Uuder discussion presently is recruitment of personnel for the unique school since the success of the program will depend to a great extent on having the best teachers available.

Waltz Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hillery of Connecticut, 1964

Dr. and Mrs. Francis Lombardo, 1965

There will be a special drawing on Saturday evening from among the names of all the exhibition waltzers for a lovely cake plate donated by Myron Berlow Home Accessories

The waltz contest following the exhibition waltz will be judged by Russell Curry of the Curry School of Dancing, and his associates, Paul Lamaureaux and Joel Price.

Dr. William Kermond will be the master of ceremonies on Friday, and Dr. James McDonough will be the master of ceremonies for the program on Saturday. A telephone answering service will be maintained at Town Hall for the convenience of all those attending. The telephone number is 729-9884.

Mrs. James Pettee and her committee have made pretty autumn corsages which the gentlemen can purchase for the ladies of their choice, gaining not only her favour, but the thanks of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital as well.

Tickets are still available for Friday evening. It is not too late. Join in all this gaiety by calling Mrs. Richard Gorman at 729-2831 for tickets.

There will be a "Mixed Bouquet" table for those couples who are attending Waltz Evening without a group. Mr. and Mrs. James Hulm and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Astill will be the hosts and hostesses as this table and hope that you will join them.

Rail Enthusiasts Offer Foliage Trip

The New England Division of the Railroad Enthusiasts, Inc., will sponsor a 275 mile Fall Foliage trip through, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut on Saturday, October 22.

The train will leave South Station, Boston, at 8:40 a.m. and will go via the New Haven Railroad to Stoughton, Bristol, Providence, New London, Plainfield, Providence, Blackstone and back to Boston, arriving about 9:30 p.m. This will be the last passenger train between Plainsfield, Connecticut and Providence, Rhode Island as this section of track is up for abandonment.

Meals will be available at Bristol, Rhode Island. If advance reservations exceed 150 there will be a snack bar on the train. There will be frequent photo stops enroute.

Tickets and further information can be obtained by contacting Fenton Norris at 87 Lawson Road (729-0145), vice-president of the National Association of Railroad Enthusiasts.

Barnstead to Speak Before Y. R.

William A. Barnstead, candidate for Republican State Senator in the sixth senatorial district, will be guest speaker at the Y.R. meeting at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 19, in the East Room of the Town Hall.

The subject of the evening will be the proposal to decrease the membership of the House of Representatives from its present 240 members to 160. This proposal has gained increasing support in recent years because of the potential saving in both time and money.

A lifelong resident of Arlington and an army veteran, Mr. Barnstead is a member of the Republican State Committee and its executive and platform Committees, chairman of the Arlington Town Committee and for 18 years a town meeting member of that community.

A question and answer period will follow the meeting. The public is cordially invited.

Canham Talks On Spiritual Revolution

Many Winchester residents will be in the audience this coming Monday evening, October 17, at 8:00 o'clock when Erwin D. Canham, Editor in Chief of The Christian Science Monitor, climaxes a 50,000 mile worldwide speaking tour by returning home to deliver a public address in Boston's War Memorial Auditorium. Admission will be free.

A chartered bus, open to anyone needing transportation, will leave from the parking lot opposite the Winchester Town Hall, and return afterwards. Advance bus reservations should be made by calling Frederick D. Herberich, 729-4857. Mr. Herberich, of 17 Sheffield West, is a member of the special committee planning the event.

Mr. Canham's non-denominational address on "The Spiritual Revolution" has been widely attended, quoted, and rebroadcast in more than 50 of the world's major cities.

The tour began seven months ago in Australia, and Mr. Canham has been criss-crossing the continents ever since. During the past few weeks the focus has been on Europe, where he gave the address in French and German. It was also picked up by the Voice of America and broadcast in Hungarian to Eastern Europe.

Although Mr. Canham is probably best known in Greater Boston as moderator of a weekly TV program, "Starring the Editors," he is also internationally recognized as one of America's most distinguished journalists, and has been decorated by several governments.

He is a Rhodes Scholar who has served as president of both the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the United States Chamber of Commerce, and also as an alternate American delegate to the United Nations General Assembly, besides holding positions with a number of government commissions, public institutions, and corporations. He recently took office as President of the Christian Science Church.

He is still most widely known, however, for his analysis of current events that began when he was a young Monitor correspondent at the League of Nations and extends today over a broad range of public affairs.

His present speaking tour, which ends Monday night at War Memorial Auditorium, was undertaken in connection with the Centennial of Christian Science. The address is described as a "searching look at the spiritual concepts and forces that are reshaping our world." He gives special attention to the "God is dead" theology and the relation between religion and science.

"What this talk will explore," says Mr. Canham, "is our need to understand the meaning of humanity's achievements in spiritual terms. It would be a tragedy if our society misinterprets and misuses the tremendous knowledge breakthrough that is taking place. But as we recognize a deeper, spiritual intelligence constantly at work, we gain a new perspective by which we can affirm God in modern terms."

Local arrangements for Mr. Canham's Boston appearance and tour finale were made by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester, and other Christian Science branch churches of Greater Boston as part of their centennial observance.

Moses and Aron Dates Announced

Sarah Caldwell, artistic director of the Opera Company of Boston, announced recently that the performance dates of her eagerly anticipated American premiere of Arnold Schonberg's 12-tone opera "Moses and Aron," which is considered the most important work of the 20th century, will be Wednesday evening, November 30, and Friday evening, December 2, at the Back Bay Theatre.

The production under the direction of Miss Caldwell, will be conducted by Osborne McConathy, who conducted last year's American premiere of Rameau's "Hippolyte et Aricie," Oliver Smith, one of America's most distinguished designers, has designed the sets. (Mr. Smith also designed last year's production of "Don Giovanni.")

The cast will include tenor Richard Lewis in the role of Aron. (Mr. Lewis created this role in the Covent Garden production.) Donald Gramm will sing the role of the High Priest. Other announced members of the cast are Harry Thayard, Robert Trehy and Eunice Alberts. The role of Moses will be announced shortly, since George London, who was to have sung it, has been forced to cancel due to illness.

More Voters

Registration for the state and county elections coming November 8 now stands at about 11,200 in Winchester.

Registration closed Saturday night at 10 p.m. at the close of the last extra hour session held at the Clerk's Office. Of the 531 persons who registered since August 13, about 40 signed up at the schools on the first night session on October 4; 55 at the second, the evening of October 6; and 238 waited til the last day, Saturday.

The after hour sessions were held in compliance with the state law enacted this year.

Holmes Speaker At CS Church

Norman B. Holmes, C.S.B., a former Winchester resident, returns next Thursday to deliver a free public lecture at First Church of Christ, Scientist.

NORMAN B. HOLMES

Christian Science Lecturer

The lecture is titled, "God—Not Chance," and will begin at 8 p.m. in the church edifice, 114 Church Street.

"We are presenting this lecture," said Don S. Greer, of 82 Arlington Street, lecture chairman, "to share a practical understanding of Christianity. We realize that many of our Winchester neighbors may not understand what Christian Science actually is. Mr. Holmes' lecture will provide an opportunity for everyone to hear an explanation of Christian Science, and how each individual can use it effectively to help him solve business and personal problems."

Further details may be obtained from 9 to 5 at the Christian Science Reading Room, 4 Mt. Vernon Street.

Many here will remember Norman and Dotty Holmes and their son, David, who lived on Sheffield West from 1961 to 1965, and took an active interest in the community.

Mr. Holmes is a graduate of Northwestern University, and served on active duty as a Chaplain in the United States Navy during World War II and the Korean War. He was officially accredited in the Christian Science healing ministry during this period, and was later called to Boston to serve as manager of the Department of Branches and Practitioners of The Mother Church. He is currently on an extensive tour as a member of the Church's Board of Lectureship.

New Club For Foreign Women

The "Cosmopolitan Club," for women over 28 from foreign countries, is now being organized at the Boston YWCA, 140 Clarendon Street.

The Club will meet on Thursdays, and some of the planned activities include shopping trips, tours to museums and galleries, attending shows and concerts.

Friendship and fun are the major purposes of the organization. Newcomers to our land can be mighty lonely, and although our Boston area is full of exciting places to see and things to do, newcomers find it difficult to explore them alone.

Prospective members of the Cosmopolitan Club, or employers who wish to inquire for their help, should call the Boston YWCA, 536-7940, Extension 37, for complete details.

Tuberculosis Child Testing

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health this week announced that it will continue to promote child-centered tuberculin testing programs in all schools throughout the Commonwealth.

Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, Commissioner, said that the program is aimed at detecting the presence of tuberculosis infection among children entering their first year of school and for students in the ninth grade.

Dr. William P. McHugh, director of the Department's Division of Sanatoria and Tuberculosis Control, said that the program will not only reveal previously undetected cases of active tuberculosis within the school population, but also identify those children who are at greatest risk of developing active tuberculosis in the future. Once detected, simple follow-up measures can be taken to reduce the risk of ever developing active tuberculosis.

"In addition," Dr. McHugh said, "an important facet of the program is that public health personnel will go back into the community to identify and treat those people who have active tuberculosis and who may be the source of the school child's infection."

Miss Susan J. McClennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. McClennan, 32 Central Street, has been named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Russell Sage College, Troy, New York, where she is a junior majoring in nursing.

Community School Board Looks To New Programs

The first meeting of the Community School Association's executive board was held on Thursday, October 6th at the home of Mrs. Miles Weaver.

Mrs. Alvin E. Wallace, president, read a letter from the Winchester Jayceettes suggesting a "block mothers" plan for the protection of children. It was moved to forward the suggested plan to each elementary school board for discussion.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Mark Lombardi, theatre chairman, that two performances of a play, details of which will be outlined later, are scheduled for April 1, 1967, at the high school.

Mrs. Wallace McDonald, vice president of Wyman School, extended an invitation to all parents in Winchester to attend the Fall meeting on October 20th at 8:15 p.m. at Wyman School. Subject of the evening will be the Metco busing program.

Placed on the agenda for future discussion were the following items:

Sex education.
Banking.
Milk at recess time.

Dr. Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools, will meet with the executive board of CSA in November to discuss ways and means of improving Winchester schools.

Just Three Days

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin today reminded motorists that only three days are left to comply with the Fall motor vehicle inspection requirements.

All Massachusetts registered motor vehicles must display the blue inspection sticker on the front windshield on Sunday, October 16 to be legally on the highways.

Deanery to Meet At St. Eulalia's

Winchester members are reminded by Mrs. Edward J. Palmer, president, of the Woburn Deanery, Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women's first meeting of the season to be held at St. Eulalia Church, October 20 at 8 p.m.

The evening will begin with a Holy Family Bible Service with Rt. Rev. Joseph W. Lyons, pastor as celebrant. Following this, the Reverend Francis T. McFarland, secretary to the Metropolitan Tribunal, and chaplain at Marycliff Academy, will speak to the ladies on "You, Your Marriage and the Church Today."

After Rev. McFarland's talk there will be a question period and an opportunitiy for small group dialogue.

The Woburn Deanery, A.C.C.W. includes the members of the women's groups in St. Eulalia, Immaculate Conception, and St. Mary's parishes.

Mrs. Madigan Opens Realty Office Here

Mrs. Doris Franklin Madigan of 30 Lockeland Road is announcing this week the opening of a new reality office in Town.

The Doris Madigan Reality will open this Saturday, the 15th, in the Colonial Building, 735 Main Street, the white building which also houses the law offices of Mrs. Margaret Mahoney Nunes.

From this office, which includes plenty of off-street parking space, Mrs. Madigan will conduct a business predominantly in residential reality in Winchester, but including homes in Belmont, Arlington, and Lexington.

Mrs. Madigan has moved here from Brookline with her son, David F. Madigan, a designer-engineer with Dupont in Dedham. She has been in the real estate business for more than ten years, previously operating the Doris Madigan Realty in Brockton.

TV Studies Get Boost

Dr. Walter P. Gleason and Thomas A. Morse represented the Winchester Schools at a State conference of school television coordinators held recently at the WGBH-TV studios by that channel's 21 Inch Classroom show.

Dr. Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction here, is chairman of the Programming Advisory Committee for the coordinators. Mr. Morse is the newly appointed coordinator of instructional materials.

The group heard about the in-school broadcasting service of the executive committee for Educational Television of the Commonwealth's Department of Education and they heard Dr. Gleason speak about the goals of future programming. In addition they witnessed key program samples from Channel 2.

In Appreciation

Editor of the Star:

The family of the late Paul J. McHugh of 126 Highland Avenue wish to express their deepest admiration and gratitude to the Winchester Police for their immediate response to our call for assistance.

It is reassuring to know that when medical assistance was not available the police came to our rescue when summoned.

We will be forever grateful.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Paul J. McHugh, R.N.

McCall Junior Mothers' Tea

The mothers of young people new to McCall Junior High School have been invited by the board of directors of McCall to a "first year mothers tea" at the McCall cafeteria on Tuesday, October 18, at 3 p.m.

There will be an opportunity to meet other parents and the school staff.

Mr. Forte, principal, Mr. Meurling, assistant principal, and guidance counselors Miss Murray and Mr. Musteikis will be happy to answer any questions about the curriculum program.

Read the Students Guidebook! Do you still have questions about curriculum, about homework, dress codes or some other problem? What is this Accelerated Program? How do you enforce a proper dress code? What is the function of the Guidance Department at junior high level?

Come, bring questions and ideas. The McCall Association is anxious to introduce you to each other and to the McCall Junior High.

Dr. Sizer To Speak Here On Education

Dr. Theodore Sizer comes to Winchester on October 20 for the third and final Winchester Morning, sponsored by the Wellesley Club. A graduate of Yale, Dr. Sizer earned his masters and doctor's degree at Harvard where he is presently Dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

On October 6, an enthusiastic audience heard Geoffrey Godsell of the Christian Science Monitor speak on "The emergence of China." After a brief resume of China's history, Mr. Godsell discussed the present sisuation there under the dictatorship of Mao Tse-tung. Mao believes in intensifying the communist revolution among his people and makes himself increasingly unacceptable to the U.N. He has approached the young people, always the easiest to incite, and resists the growing opposition in the government which wishes to turn Chinese communism toward developing a higher standard of living.

Mao is old and ill and it is expected that on his death, which will cause a political crisis, a less militaristic attitude will prevail.

It is U.S. action in Vietnam which has kept certain neighboring countries (all of which must regard China with concern) from joining the communist line, Mr. Godsell noted.

For Mothers At Arlington C. H. S.

Winchester mothers of Arlington Catholic High School students, are invited to attend the annual Blue and Gold Tea to be held on Sunday, October 16, from 3 to 5 p.m. sponsored by the Arlington Catholic Mothers' Guild.

Mrs. John Shack of Woburn, president, will greet the mothers. Sister Hermine, C.S.J. the spiritual directress, will extend a word of welcome along with members of the faculty and the Rt. Reverend Oscar R. O'Gorman, pastor of St. Agnes Church and spiritual director, has been invited to attend.

"GOD
...not chance"

The more deeply you understand the power and love of God, the less you believe in chance. There's a law of Spirit much greater than the law of averages, and those who discover it, and live by it, will help to light the world's way out of chaos. Hear this public lecture titled "God — Not Chance" by NORMAN B. HOLMES, C.S.B., member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

For More And Better Women Physicists

There are so few women in the field of physics in the United States, and so many jobs they could fill, that Simmons College is giving high school students an opportunity to survey the field before entering college and two young ladies here will take advantage of this offer.

A ten-week course, under the direction of Dr. Robert C. Vernon, professor of physics, will start on October 19 for 16 students who have been chosen to take the course on recommendation of their high school principals as being above average in mathematics ability and having distinct aptitude in physics.

Among those who will attend from Winchester High School are Hollis H. Dolben of 15 Lakeview Road, Mary Fenoglio of 10 Chesterford Road and Maureen O'Toole of 8 Lagrange Street.

According to Dr. Vernon, "American girls are afraid of physics, but there is no need to be if they have a fair aptitude for mathematics. In some countries," he says, "about one-third of the physicists are women. In the United States there are excellent opportunities in industry, government, university research laboratories, and in education, but there just aren't enough women to fill these jobs."

Methodist Youth Paper Drive Is This Saturday

The Youth Fellowship of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church has scheduled its fall paper drive for this Saturday, October 15.

The fellowship is asking for donations of old newspapers, magazines and corrugated boxes (flattened). Proceeds are used for benevolence projects and for the educational fund of the M.Y.F.

All who can are requested to bring their papers to the church on Friday night or Saturday morning. Those who cannot may call 729-1851 or 729-5056 before Saturday. On Saturday call 729-9813. (Please do not call the parsonage, 729-0139.)

All papers should be strongly tied.

Flower Arranging For Garden Club

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will open their season this year with Mrs. Grace M. Peterson.

Mrs. Peterson is a professional floral designer, graduating from the Rittner School of Floral Design of Boston. She has taken an active role in her home town of Weymouth as director of hall exhibits for the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society, founder of the Weymouth Gardeners Club and Conservation Commissioner.

She will talk about "Enjoyable Flower Arranging," illustrating her lecture with her own arrangements.

The meeting will be held on October 19, Wednesday, at 1:30 p.m. at the Methodist Church Hall. Refreshments will be served beginning at 1 p.m.

Retarded Nursery Clinics Opened

Two Pre-school Nursery Clinics opened their doors for the 1966-1967 season recently.

One is held at the Church of the Epiphany here. The teacher is Mrs. Barbara Grossman of Lexington, with Mrs. Muriel Todd of Wakefield her assistant.

The second is located at the Congregational Church in Wakefield. A morning and afternoon class are held there. Mrs. Lois Larson of Wakefield is the teacher and Mrs. Jennie Reynolds her asistant.

Classes are held from 9:15 to 11:45, five mornings a week during the regular school year. Pupils range in age from three to seven years.

The Pre-school Clinics are conducted in conjunction with the Mass. Dept. of Mental Health. The state provides the teacher and supervises the program. EMARC (East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children) provides the physical, quarters, materials and supplies and the services of the assistant teacher.

The earlier a retarded child is helped, the greater his chances are for a normal life. Pre-school Clinics also prepare these children for public school classes.

Open House At WHS Tuesday

The Winchester High School Parent-Faculty Association will hold the annual open house at the high school Tuesday evening, October 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Ruth Weaver, P.F.A.'s president, and W. Howard Niblock, the high school principal, have arranged a program of classroom orientation to begin promptly. Parents are asked to go directly to the home room of their son or daughter. They will then walk through a typical school day, by way of the classrooms, using their student's Tuesday schedule.

Ten-minute classes will be used to acquaint parents with the names and faces of the teachers and explain briefly what the course of study will be for the year. Members of the high school Student Council will be in the school corridors to assist parents locating their respective classrooms.

Mrs. Mary Elise Schlener, social chairman, and the room mothers of P.F.A. will also be at the open house to serve refreshments in the cafeteria and collect the Parent-Faculty Association voluntary dues in the home rooms. Envelopes for the dues have been mailed to students' homes and may be returned at open house.

Everyone is urged to come to open house. The teachers look for the parents, the principal welcomes them, and the P.F.A. wishes all a pleasant and informative evening.

Fair Housing

Winchester Fair Housing Association executive board met on Wednesday night, October 5, at the Madison Avenue West home of Rev. Howard Hunter, chairman.

The Massachusetts Commission against discrimination need for increased funds was discussed and unanimous approval was voted for support of a larger budget for the Commission in the next fiscal year.

Rev. James R. Scroggs announced the formation of a program of orientation for the Negro ghetto in Roxbury for white suburbanites. Directed by Rev. Edward Blackman, the course requires 8 hours of activity per week for six weeks. For further information call Mrs. James Scroggs, 729-1688.

The board also voted to engage in a series of public information meetings during the coming year. Speakers, films and drama will be used to spotlight the aims of the Fair Housing Asociation.

THE REVEREND DR. KENNETH R. HENLEY of Hillcrest Parkway recently took part in the 157th annual dinner program of the Massachusetts Bible Society in Boston, one of the oldest in the world. He was re-elected as an officer.

LWV Meets On Role Of China

The continued widespread interest in the role of China in world affairs has prompted the League of Women Voters of U.S. to make this topic one of the major items on each local League's discussion agenda for the coming year and the League of Women Voters of Winchester will hold a general meeting on this subject on Tuesday October 18th at 7:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Wilbert E. Underwood, 9 Ravenscroft Road.

Lewis Crampton, a representative of Americans for Reappraisal of Far Eastern Policy will speak on "Mainland China—an Evaluation" and all interested persons are invited to attend.

Mr. Crampton is presently a candidate for a Ph.D. in government at Harvard. This year he will receive a M.A. from the department of Far Eastern Language and Literature China Regional Studies Program.

Americans for Reappraisal of Far Eastern Policy is a national volunteer organization with forty chapters, chiefly on college campuses. The Harvard chapter seeks to raise the level of public knowledge about China and to create a new climate of opinion in which alternatives to our present policy can be debated rationally an publicly.

Candidates And Conservation

Last week Governor John A. Volpe and gubernatorial candidate Edward J. McCormack spoke at the fall meeting of the Mass. Association of Conservation Commissions at the Yankee Drummer Inn in Auburn. Governor Volpe pledged support of a continued outdoor recreation program, a water research program, an inland wetland program and a scenic highway program. He promised, if elected, continued aid to communities for buying land for open space and recreation and for clean air program.

During his two administrations, he said, he supported and signed much legislation in the conservation field, among which were programs to: Protect the State's coastal and inland wetlands; Permit the state to grant funds to communities to clean up dirty rivers; Underwrite a program for acquisition of recreation areas by the Dept. of Natural Resources, Metropolitan District Commission and the Dept. of Public Works.

Both candidates for governor called for the formation of a board to control the impact of Dept. of Public Works programs on the natural resources of the state. Governor Volpe said he has asked the departments of Public Works and Natural Resources to study the setting up of a resource review board.

Edward J. McCormack recommended the creation of a special conservation commission which would have to give prior approval to projects of the Dept. of Public Works as well as to those of any state agency whose construction programs affected "the natural landscapes or other natural resources." This commission would be made up of a representative from the Dept. of Natural Resources, the Dept. of Public Works and three members of the professional public in the area of conservation. McCormack said, if elected, he would work for; Greater local control over billboards; Border strips of scenic land along the highways; Underground utility wiring; More local zoning controls; An end to pollution of our air and water with meaningful and vigorously enforced laws.

Other speakers included Allen H. Morgan, executive vice president of Mass. Audubon Society, who told of the new Audubon Conservation Services Center now being organized to help conservation commissions; Benjamin Nason of the Mass. Forest and Park Association, who gave a summary of 1966 legislation, a most successful year for conservation legislation, and Jules Sussman, of Lexington, chairman of the Mass. Association of Conservation Commissions, who told in his report that there are now over 250 conservation commissions in the state. Their formation and record of accomplishment have led to Massachusetts acting as a model for other states as far away as Texas.

Governor John A. Volpe and Commissioner of Natural Resources Robert L. Yasi gave substantial checks to many conservation commissions whose towns had qualified for Mass. Self-Help Funds. Woburn was allocated the sum of $114,500 for conservation projects in the Horn Pond area. (Woburn has already voted a $300,000 bond issue for conservation and is in the process of acquiring land.)

The Winchester Conservation Commission was represented by Mrs. Ellis Green and Malcolm Masters, Mrs. Francis McClellan, Mrs. Fern Meyer, Mrs. Milton Trageser, Mr. and Mrs. David Turnquist, Mrs. Wilbert Underwood and Mrs. Warburton Ver Plank.

New Assistant Principal Meets Lynch Mothers

The Lynch Junior High Associates held their first meeting of the year in the school cafetorium on Tuesday afternoon, October 4.

Mrs. Henry A. Romano Jr., president of the Associates, welcomed all mothers and teaching staff to the annual tea, and proceeded to state briefly the aims of the Lynch Associates. Mrs. Romano then introduced Mrs. Alven Wallace, president of the Community School Association, who informed the audience of the purpose and functions of the Association which are to help the student/teacher/school relationship and to promote the welfare of children.

Gardner W. Handy, principal next greeted the group, explaining the school carriculum and extracurricular activities. The new assistant principal, Mr. David P. Tenney was then introduced by Mr. Handy, and he stressed that he hoped to have parents' cooperation in the area of discipline. To conclude the two guidance counselors, Miss Jean Pitman and Richard M. Boysen explained their respective roles in their endeavor to help and advise students, and administer intelligence and aptitude tests.

The meeting ended with a social hour, with tea being served by Mrs. Joseph A. Vitka and her committee, ably assisted by the following Cadet Girl Scouts, Sarakay Bourne, Susan Friborg, Dorothy Elliott and Linda Rodding. Mrs. Edward Cincotta, Mrs. Roger Crandlemire, Mrs. Eugene Lane and Mrs. Nicholas Troiano poured.

Ed Sterling

This was the week that was — after a lot of weeks that could have was but wasn't. Last Monday the WHS football team won a great come-from-behind game to defeat Stoneham, and bowled over Cambridge Latin Saturday for its second win in five days. Then, to please Bostonians in general, the American League nailed down the World Series pennant on the following day; and to delight Winchesterites in particular, the Patriots knocked off Buffalo, with Joe Bellino playing a fine safety with some great runbacks and catching his first touchdown pass in over five years. It certainly turned out to be the week that was.

* * * * *

Coach Knowlton in a pre-season interview with one of the Boston sportswriters stated that Winchester's rivals this season would be in for a bit of an aerial surprise. He defended Brian Collins' passing and said all Brian needed was some decent pass reception to blossom as a real aerial threat. Knowlton evidently built his belief on something more than faith in his quarterback, and recognized the ability most of us overlooked. With Martin at one end and Schlener on the other, Winchester's opponents are going to find defending against Winchester's passing game a greater problem than in recent years. And with the running game showing signs of life, Winchester's opponents are going to find solving the Sachem attack not quite the easy chore of yore. The one question mark is this — will Winchester's offensive line give Collins a chance to maneuver when the powerhouse teams of the Middlesex League are encountered during the last half of the season?

* * * * *

Saturday's game against Lexington will give Winchester fans an opportunity to see another Bellino in action, cousin Paul, who fills the left halfback spot for the Minutemen. A few weeks ago he played a great game in pulling his team into a tie with two scoring runs. The fans will get a chance to see how he compares with the Winchester Bellinos of bygone years. Last Saturday Lexington dropped another game, to Stoneham, defeated by Winchester two weeks ago. Lexington, which gave promise before the start of the season of being a real threat in the Middlesex League, has yet to win a game, so the Sachems certainly rate at least even money for Saturday's game at Lexington.

* * * * *

This writer has never seen Winchester win a football game. Last year he witnessed every game but the opener against Concord Then he saw the Sachems drop the game against the Patriots at the start of the season. He was unable to attend the last two games, which everyone knows the local team won. Now a nasty rumor has spread that he is a jinx to the team and that every effort should be made to keep him away from all Winchester football encounters. There is even talk of a fund having been started to furnish him with choice tickets to football games which conflict with those in which Winchester appears. A name, so it is said, has been given to this supposed fund, "The Fund to Keep Sterling away from All Winchester Football Games." Sterling will not be intimidated, coerced, or bribed. At the opening kickoff he will be in the press box at Lexington's football field. But, if Winchester should lose — will somebody tell me when's the next freight out of town?

Wee Sachems Defeat Malden

The newly created Junior Wee Sachem Pop Warner team defeated its Malden opponents Friday night in a 12 to 0 football under the lights at Roosevelt Field in Malden. Cheered by Winchester parents and friends, the smaller Winchester team sent its speedy tailback Jeffrey Ashton on two wide sweeps of 40 and 25 yards to score two touchdowns and the margin of victory. With blocks by the blocking busters Paul Tonello, Jay Lanigan, and Roger McGrath on one play, and a block by Alec Phippen on the weak side on a second, Jeff Ashton was able to turn the corner and speed down the sidelines for the scores. With line bucks up the middle by Robbie Ungaretti and Richard Jacobs, a good wingback run by Roger McGrath, and a quarterback sneak by Jack Strain opened by David Bower and Tim Duffy, the Winchester team was able to keep Malden deep in its own territory. Winchester's rugged defense took over from there and contained all Malden's threats whether end runs, passes, or sweeps. The first team defense of Alec Phippen, Tim Duffy, Brian Cullen, Kerry Brough, and Jeff Ashton on the line; Karl Mayer, Joe Martignetti, Paul Tonello, and Robbie Ungaretti at line backer positions; and the defensive backs of Roger McGrath and Jackie Strain held Malden to few yards by driving through blocks and using gang tackling. Key individual tackles were noted from Karl Mayer, Paul Tonello, and Jackie Strain which stopped possible touchdowns.

The second team defensive unit played as much of the defensive game as the first team, and showed great determination and pursuit of tacklers. Led by the Phillips brothers, Michael and Richard, Paul Ceruolo, David Magnusen, Bobby Tonello, Jeep Strain, Kevin Floyd, Chip Vick Roy, P. T. Miller, Wayne West, Don Jackson, and Paul Di Blasi the second unit was able to stop the larger Malden team. All players consented at the end of the game that it was truly a team victory, that each player works as part of one organic group. The spirit was high, and the boys were rewarded for the diligence they had shown in always coming to practice, being susceptible at the same time to the conscientious instruction of the three coaches.

Specialized Swim Classes At Boston YWCA

Boys and girls, ages eight to sixteen, are encouraged to try out for Boston YWCA competitive swimming and to represent the "Y" in AAU meets during the coming season. They are expected to know either American crawl, back crawl, breast or butterfly. Swimmers will work out at the YWCA pool, 140 Clarendon Street, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. AAU membership is included in the registration fee. Call 536-7940, Extension 27, to arrange for a try-out.

For men and women over 16, the YWCA offers a 7 week course in SCUBA DIVING on Friday evenings. Class instruction, by Fred Calhoun of So-Sho-Ne, Inc., will be from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m., with pool work from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. Equipment is supplied. This class is limited to 16, so register now. Call 536-7940, Extension 27.

On Marycliff Sports Fields

With the opening of the academic year, the high school co-curricular athletic program started at Marycliff Academy under the direction of Miss Lorraine Sumner.

Winners of the recent archery tournament played on the new athletic field were announced recently. The 20-yard competition was won by Janet Maggiore, a sophomore from Winchester. The 30-yard tournament was won by freshman Faith Gurry from Burlington. Competing against her were Karen Lopez, Joanne Martignette and Jane McBain, all of Winchester.

Currently the junior varsity and varsity field hockey teams are readying for competition. Girls from grades 8-12 are participating in the practice sessions. Miss Sumner has scheduled games to be held early in 1967 with the following schools: Rose Hawthorne, Shady Hill, Beaver Country Day, and Commonwealth School.

Recently Marycliff Academy joined the Independent Private School League. The girls will be competing with league members in field hockey, basketball, volleyball, tennis, softball and lacrosse.

Player Repeats In World's Match Play

WGAM Team Has Great Trip

by Harry McGrath

Gary Player, winner of just about every major golf championship, took on big Jack Nicklaus in the final round of the World Match Play championship held at Virginia Water, England, and defeated him 6 and 4 in the 36-hole windup of this unusual tournament.

Player had defeated Arnold Palmer 2 and 1 in the semi-final, while Jack Nicklaus was holding off a putting surge by Billy Casper, winning by a similar 2 and 1, after having a 6-up margin after the first 18.

However, in the afternoon, Casper's putting touch returned and he was out in 32, four under par, and in so doing picked up 4 holes on the big boy, and at the end of the 34th was only one in arrears. Big Jack got a birdie 4 on the 35th while Billy was getting a routine par 5, ending the match.

Jack said he was "scared stiff."

Meanwhile, Palmer and Player were playing pretty tight golf, each having a 68 on the first 18.

The muscular South African hit a five iron on the 190-yard 28th hole and sank the 6-foot putt for the birdie 2 and a 2-stroke lead, which he held onto, and put him into the finals for the second consecutive year.

In the finals, Big Jack apparently lost his usual calm when he questioned an adverse ruling by Tony Duncan, a former British Walker Cup player, who was refereeing.

At the next hole Duncan asked Jack if he wanted another referee, and Jack's affirmative answer prompted the referee to step aside for Gerald Micklem, a former Royal and Ancient Championship Committee chairman.

After the unfortunate incident, Jack birdied the next two holes for wins, but they both had birdie 4's on the 12th, and Gary won the next two with a par and birdie.

Gary was 67 for the morning round, while Jack had a pick-up for no score.

They were both three under going out in the afternoon, with 33's, but Gary was still four up, and when the South African won the 31st with a bogie and 32 with a par, Jack was all washed up.

These two great golfers are the closest of pals, both on and off the golf course, and the controversial decision was not based on their play as opponents, but on the referee's refusal to allow Jack a free drop when Jack claimed a billboard was in his line of sight, some 60 yards away.

After a "spirited discussion" with the referee, Jack played his shot and then conceded the hole to his South African fishing companion.

Between rounds, Duncan and Nicklaus shook hands.

Good — because they were both wrong.

The U. S. National Senior Open wound up in a familiar manner.

Dutch Harrison, a golf hall of famer, won for the fifth time with a five-under-par 277, edging out Fred Haas, Jr., by one stroke, after going into the final 18 holes one stroke in back of Haas.

Dutch's 70 gained the necessary two strokes to give him the first-place prize money of $7,500. Here again a penalty was expensive. Haas, who won the Teacher's (Scotch, not instructive) P.G.A. championship, and the World Senior championship from British Senior champ Dai Rees, was penalized two strokes for an improper drop, and this made up the difference between first money of $7,500 and the second-place money of $4,500.

To be sure, this is Fred's first year in the Senior competition, but he has passed 50 years of age, and it seems strange he hadn't learned how a "free" drop should be made.

There were a lot of former greats listed in the summary — such as John Bulla, Vic Ghezzi, Bob Hamilton and Pete Cooper, all of whom tied for third with even par 282's.

Tony Manero, Herman Kaiser, Marty Furgol, Zell Eaton, George Fazio, Lloyd Mangrum, Dick Metz, Ellsworth Vines, Jerry Barber were all among the top finishers a "few" years back.

Maureen Orcutt, who was runner-up in the 1927 Women's Amateur, won the U.S.G.A. Senior Women's Amateur, which was held at the Lakewood Country Club in New Orleans.

Mrs. Orcutt, now a golf writer for the New York Times, got off to a poor start with an 84 for the first of three rounds, but two 79's followed to give her a 54-hole total of 242 for a 6-stroke margin over Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, Texas.

Miss Maureen was the 1962 winner, and tied for first place in 1963 but lost out in the playoff to Mrs. Allison Choate. Interestingly, this playoff was still tied after 18 holes, both had 81's, and was then decided by a four-hole sudden death playoff which Mrs. Choate won with 17 strokes. Miss Orcutt had 19 for the four holes.

Mrs. Edwin Vare, Jr., the great Glenna Collett, finished third with 250. Mrs. Vare, the 6-time Woman's Amateur champion, has never won the Senior title. Her second-place finish to Miss Orcutt's 1962 win has been her best in this "I don't mind giving my right age" tournament first held in 1962.

Mrs. Charles Bartholemew of Brae-Burn was tied for fourth after two rounds, and had a disappointing 89 for the third round, and finished tenth with 259.

Our Massachusetts women golfers did well in the Tri-State matches with Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Mrs. Donald (Floss) McClusky, playing in the No. 1 position, was all even in the first nine holes in her match with Joanne Gunderson Carner, the U.S. Amateur champion, but Mrs. Carner came home with an even par 36, which included birdie fours on the 14th and 17th, par five holes.

Mrs. Paul Black of Marshfield was the Bay State's high-point winner with six points, the maximum possible; and Winchester's own Mrs. James Thomas had 5 points out of the possible six.

There were nine WGAM players, and they won a total of 33 Nassau points, Rhode Island 29½ and Connecticut, the defending champions, 18½.

Others representing Massachusetts were Mrs. W. L. Boyden, Jr., Myopia, 4½ points; Mrs. Philip Dine, Pine Brook, 4 points; Mrs. Edward McAuliffe, Wellesley, 5 points; Mrs. Joseph Malia, Spring Valley, 2½ points; Claire Nolan, Woodland, 3 points; and Mrs. Robert O'Connor, ½ point. Mrs. Lester Sobin of Belmont was the non-playing captain.

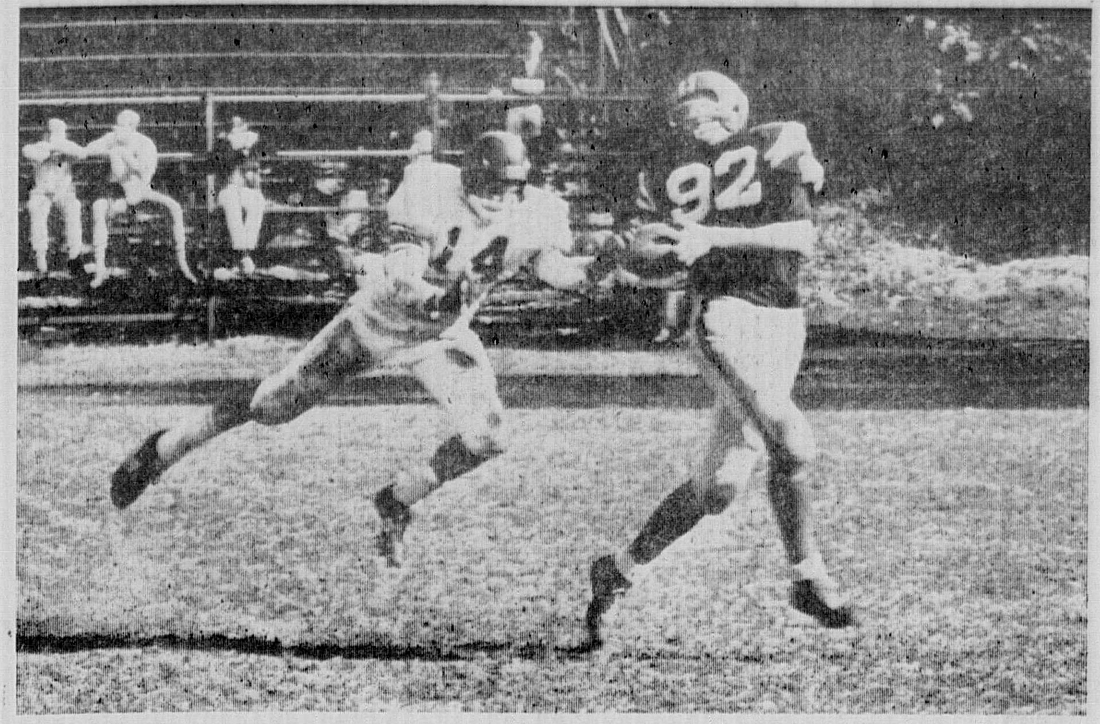
Mrs. McClusky, who got 1½ points in the team competition, had won the Endicott Cup, held prior to the team matches, with a 36-hole total of 166, thanks to her 28 putts in the second 18, with eight one-putt greens.

Mrs. Boyden was second with 168, and Mrs. Dine third with 169.

The Massachusetts team also won the Eaton Tri-State Handicap trophy.

All in all, a very successful trip to Little Rhody for the WGAM swingers—Congratulations.

Sachems Defeat Cantabs 24-12, Sachems, Collins, Nutile Sparkle



JEFF SCHLENER OUTRACES Cambridge Latin defender to snare perfectly placed pass from Collins with a fine over-the-shoulder catch near the Cantab goal line. Another few steps and he was in for the score. The 43-yard pass play came in the third quarter to put Winchester ahead 18-6.

Jeff Schlener, with Brian Collins on the throwing end, snagged two touchdown passes, one good for 55 yards and the second for 43 yards, to represent the margin of victory as Winchester defeated previously unbeaten Cambridge Latin 24-12 at Manchester Field last Saturday. Both passes were perfectly executed, softly arched and caught over the shoulder in the vicinity of the goal line. Jeff just outran the defense to get his hands on the ball and stepped into the end zone, on each occasion.

TWO INTERESTED OBSERVERS, Jim Haley and Charlie Koch, at the Winchester-Cambridge Latin game Saturday, taking a coffee break between halves.

It was a great victory for Winchester, which had had its troubles in the past getting its passes into the hands of receivers who were sure-fingered. It was almost a repetition of the game the previous Monday when John Martin performed the heroics on the receiving end to snatch the victory from Stoneham.

The first touchdown pass to Schlener came in the second quarter with two minutes to play. CL, probably looking for the pass play to Martin, may have been off guard when the ball went to the opposite end. The second touchdown pass came in the third quarter on the perfect peg with Schlener having to take but one step into the end zone.

Cambridge Latin scored in the first period as Pierre Marchando, the Cantabs' giant fullback, plunged time after time through the Sachem line and finally went over for short yardage and the initial touchdown to make it 6-0 against the local team. That ended the scoring in the first quarter.

The second quarter wasn't very old when Bobby Nutile took a punt and went right through the Cantab defense for a 43-yard return and a touchdown. The Sachems still had some trouble with CL's Marchando, but prevented him from doing too much damage. With time running out, about one minute remaining in pass that Schlener caught. The pass pass that Schlener vaught. The pass was beautifully thrown, and Jeff reached it on a great effort over his shoulder and over the goal line he went to put Winchester ahead 12-6.

In the third quarter CL kicked off, and in seven plays the Sachems scored, with Pete Knight, Toby Choate and Bobby Nutile taking the ball to the CL 4, from which Knight went over on an off-tackle run. In this series Nutile did the bulk of the running.

Soon afterwards the Sachems recovered a fumble on the CL 15 but couldn't get anywhere. Three plays later they had the ball again on the CL 43. The pass from Collins to Schlener at that point put the locals ahead 24-6, for their highest point total in over a year.

Greg Dottin plunged for a Cantab touchdown midway in the fourth period and the game ended Winchester 24, Cambridge Latin 12.

Hockey Clinic Starts Soon

The seventh annual olympic hockey clinic will be held by Bill Riley and Jack Garrity, at Hockey Town, U.S.A., Melrose, from October 30 through November 27, Sunday afternoons from 4 to 6 p.m.

Both instructors are former All-American hockey players and Olympic players. Hockey fundamentals will be stressed. The age for the clinic will consist of players from 8 to 14 years.

For information cantact Bill Riley, 9 Grace Road, Medford (HU 8-1092).The following have attended from Winchester: Stephen Troiano, Paul Whitney Jr. and Richard Kimball.

Sachem Harriers Defeat Stoneham

Winchester High's cross-country team remains undefeated after its third meet Tuesday by beating a strong Stoneham High squad 27-30.

Co-captain Dick Faney, running a good race as always, broke the tape first at 14:17. Dick was challenged by a strong Stoneham harrier at the beginning, but won by a full five seconds. Finishing third, only 16 seconds and two places out of first was the other Sachem co-captain, Bob Benshimol. Assuring the win for WHS were Tom Spang and Paul Blanch, finishing fifth and sixth respectively with clockings of 14:51 and 14:56. Paul, one of the League's best in '65, is showing more improvement after a late start.

The WHS harriers, showing little depth thus far in the meets, were boosted by the fine performances of three varsity runners; juniors Steve Pritchard and Bob McClellan, and sophomore Wayne Padula.

In the junior varsity race, WHS could place only two runners in the top ten, Lee Oliver and Neal Benshimol.

FIRST TEN FINISHERS

1.	Richard Fahey (W)	14:17
2.	Tom Fowler (S)	14.23
3.	Robert Benshimol (W)	14.33
4.	Charles Eicher (S)	14:42
5.	Tom Spang (W)	14:51
6.	Paul Blanch (W)	14:56
7.	Joe Carroll (S)	15:08
8.	Steve Arsenault (S)	15:12
9.	Steve Rothman (S)	15:14
10.	Tim O'Keefe (S)	15:27

Sachem Harriers Tied by Melrose

Winchester's cross-country team ran into strong opposition at Melrose and the teams battled to a 28-28 deadlock. Winchester, coming off a close win over Stoneham, had its second tough meet of the week. The team is 2-0-1 in the League, 3-0-1 overall.

Dick Fahey of Winchester placed first and was pushed to a new Melrose course record of 13:47 by Mike Turner of Melrose, who also broke the old record of 14:00. Co-captain Bob Benshimol ran a good fourth, followed by Tom Spang, who finished fifth. A fine sophomore runner, Wayne Padula, finished seventh and made the tie possible by beating Smith of Melrose by one second. Paul Blanch was the fifth Sachem Harrier to finish, followed closely by Bob McClellan and sophomore Dan Strout.

The Melrose JV's, who seldom lose a meet, won easily. Neal Benshimol and Jim Stabile were the first Sachem runners to finish. Winchester takes on a powerful Wakefield team tomorrow at Wakefield, where they will try to upset the Warriors.

Ski Film Shown At Hancock Hall

The FIS World Alpine Ski Championship film will be shown at John Hancock Hall on Friday, October 21, at 8:30 p.m.

The 1966 event will be seen in Dick Barrymore's latest all color ski film entitled, "A Cool Breath of Fresh Air," a feature-length film. Barrymore's appearance is being sponsored by the White Mountain Ski Runners, and tickets can be purchased by mail from 14 Franklin Road, Winchester, or at the box office.

Along with the championships, filmed in Portillo, Chile, Barrymore has included footage of skiing and traveling in Scotland, Lebanon, France, Austria, Canada, and the USA. Viewers will have a chance to run the steep Portillo courses as seen by Olympic champion, Pepi Stiegler.

S. O. I. Women

Gardenias and Petunias split 8 points this week. T. Dattilo of the Gardenias was high on her team with 273. High for the Petunias were K. DeTeso and A. Di Sessa with scores of 280 each. Gardenias are now in second place.

Pansies took 7 points from the Buttercups. Substitute bowler J. Goriasi bowled with the Buttercups this week. It's too bad the team couldn't use her score, she bowled terrific. Her three string score was 321, her first string was 134. Great bowling Joan! P. Brencola and Capt. F. Paonessa were high for the Pansies with scores of 267 each.

Tulips lost all 8 points to the Daisies. M. Gambino was high on her team with 287 and C. Fiore of the Daisies was high with a nice three string score of 310.

Violets took 6 points from the Roses this week. C. Esposito of the Violets was high with 268. High for the Roses was E. Russo with 250.

First place Carnations split 8 points with the Daffodils. E Buzzotta of the Carnations was high with 274. Capt. J. Salemi of the Daffodils was high with 279.

S. O. I. Men

Another week in the lives of the Sons of Italy Bowlers has rolled by, and we find quite a change.

The Bears still hold the team triple and single Richard Riga is still top man with 379 for high triple, and 158 for high single.

Aftr four weeks, the fellows still come to the games for fun. I can hear some of the captains now. WOW. Oh, well, it's all in the game. It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game that counts. A good sport has fun and enjoys the sport, but a poor loser, has no fun or friends. Always play to win, but never be obsessed by the thought of losing. If you don't win, shake the other mans hand, and be a man.

Remember people. It's never too late to start bowling, so go out this week and see how the other half lives. Relax and have fun, enjoy yourselves, and bowl a perfect game.

World Travelers Present Program On Australia

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Symmes of 48 Yale Street will give another of their illustrated lectures this time on Australia and the Nearby South Pacific Islands on Tuesday evening, October 25, at the Methodist Church Hall at 7:30 p.m.

This program is sponsored by the Committee of Safety Chapter of D.A.R. and will benefit the Hillside School for Boys.

This should be an enjoyable evening, especially for those who have the traveling urge. The public is cordially invited. For those interested in more details and tickets please contact Mrs. Louis Kuhn, Jr. 729-3034 or Mrs. William Burrows 729-0204.

Duplicate Bridge Club

Star Bowl Winners

A fine field of nineteen teams turned out on Wednesday, October 5th, at the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club, for the Team of Four Championship Game with "The Winchester Star" Challenge Bowl won by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr., teamed with Elizabeth Slade and Robert Haskell. There was an actual tie for the first place points with a guest team, but Club members only may win the Bowl with the privilege of having their names engraved on it with those of former winners.

The nineteen teams played twenty-two boards, with eighteen of them being played by everyone. This made for a balanced movement with the teams playing not only as many boards as possible in common but also playing against all of the other eighteen teams.

Average score was 22, the scoring being purely team against team, with 2 points for winning the board, 1 for tying, and 0 for losing. Here are the top scorers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr., Elizabeth Slade, Robert Haskell	32
Val Habicht, Maria Schellenbach, Tina Lorris, Jock Olmsted	32
Petre Cullen, Alfred Frederick, Steve Chiotellis, Peter Tritsh	27
James Curley, Ben Drinkwater, John Reardon, Don Rossetti	27
Barbara Shea, Margaret Jackson, David Littleton, Stephen Root	25
Kay McConnell, Sam Burwen, Colonel and Mrs. James Ryan	24
Martha Walker, Lena Collins, Ellen Schofield, William Duryea	24
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade, Marge Hakanson, Dr. Robert Blackler	23
Guy Mingolelli, Alan Leland, Carl Galante, Steve Haseltine	23
Martha Valentine, Douglas Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Al Johnson	22

There is still room for more in the daytime duplicate game on the first and third Mondays. Call Jane Renz, 729-8327, if you wish to play.

Our editor for the hand-of-the week is Stephen Root, who also masterminded and directed the Team movement.

"One of the interesting features of duplicate bridge that is not found in rubber bridge is the "one no trump battle." If the strength is evenly balanced between the competing partnerships, and the distribution is even, the side that bids one no trump first usually comes out ahead. Making one no trump in duplicate is worth 90 points (40 for the trick and 50 for the part score bonus). If, however, the opponents play the one no trump and go down one (that is, you take the same seven tricks on defense that you did on offense), you would get 50 points only if they were non-vulnerable. If they were vulnerable, you would get 100 points; i.e., the value of their set is more than the value of your make. It would thus seem that the one no trump battle applies only when non-vulnerable. In practice, this is only partially true, however, as it is usually much more difficult to take the same tricks in defense that you could on offense. Therefore, you will see vulnerable opponents "steal" one no trump from you, and make it instead of going down one for the juicy 100 points.

It is this push for a small positive score that is in back of the light third and fourth hand openings and shaded overcalls so common in duplicate. These tactics, which are an intregal part of the one no trump battle, do not pay at rubber bridge, where the occasional large losses outweigh the more numerous small gains. Hand six (of the black set of boards, for those who were there) of last Wednesday's team of four championship serves as an excellent example: East is dealer and East-West vulnerable.

This hand was played eighteen times in the following contracts; passed out, three times; one spade by East down one, four times; one no trump by West making one, two times; one spade by South making one; one no trump by North making one; one no trump by South, making one twice and two once; two diamonds by South making two; two spades by South, down two; and two no trump by North making two, twice.

The first thing to notice about this flat, balanced deal is that it was passed out only three times. This illustrates the use of light third and fourth hand openers. The second interesting fact is that North-South played the hand nine times (compared to six for East-West) in spite of the high probability that West will open the bidding in third position. This shows some sort of aggressive competition, either a double, heart overcall, or some type of balancing action. Six times the hand was played in one no trump by both sides and made all six times!

The hand did not work out quite as theory predicted, because a number of pairs were diverted from no trump into some other less favorable contract. The three times South played in spades or diamonds probably resulted from a North take-out double in either the immediate or balancing position. It is, after all, somewhat difficult to get to one no trump on the North-South cards after West opens a club, and downright impossible after a weak no trump opener by West. Somewhat more disturbing is the fact that four Easts played in one spade. After a club opener by West, East will bid one spade, whether or not North intervenes. West must not pass! His hand has no features that favor a spade contract over a no trump contract. Once he has decided to open the hand, he must bid it normally, unless the hot-potato-pass leaves him in what figures to be the best spot. For example, if the five of diamonds in the West hand were changed to the five of spades, a case could be made for passing one spade. We won't talk about the two Norths reaching two no trump on twenty balanced points.

Lifesaving At Wakefield

The Wakefield Y.M.C.A. announces another YMCA/Red Cross Lifesaving course will begin at the local association on October 19th.

This course will be held on Wednesday evenings for 10 weeks. Upon completion the student will receive either the junior (ages 12 to 14) or the senior (ages 15 and over) lifesaving certificate issued by the National Y.M.C.A. and the National American Red Cross.

Rec News

Recreation Director Donald Spinney reports the Junior High "Rec Club," now two weeks in progress this year, has a registration exceeding 416 students.

Mr. Spinney noted some changes in the times and dates for the Junior Rec Club. Previously it was open from 7 to 10:30 p.m. each Friday night at McCall. But, as of this week, due to other committed uses of McCall for certain Friday nights, the junior Rec Club will meet every second Friday night, starting at 7 o'clock as usual, but ending at 9:30 for seventh graders, 9:45 for eighth graders, and 10 o'clock, as previously operated.

Mr. Spinney noted that there are already 19 Junior High Schoolers registered for the riflery program now being planned and scheduled. Senior High School students are registering this week.

The Recreation Office is located on the ground floor of the Town Hall. Telephone 729-4514.

Open Houses At the Schools

Open House dates have been set for the Winchester Public Schools when parents and friends are invited to visit the schools on designated evenings to see the facilities, program, and staff.

In observance of American Education Week the following schools will be open to the public on the dates specified:

Senior High School—Tuesday, October 18

Lynch Junior High School—Thursday, November 3

McCall Junior High School—Tuesday, October 25

Lincoln School—Tuesday, November 8

Mystic School—Wednesday, November 2

Noonan School—Tuesday, November 15

Marycliff To Send Three To "It's Academic"

Selected to represent Marycliff this month in competition with other schools on Channel 5's "It's Academic" were Cheryl Bezis, Leanne Bouley and Carol Govoni. Alternates are Mary Sennott, Julie Coughlan and Alicia Kawecki.

Cheryl, Mary and Julie are from Winchester; and other local girls who auditioned at WHDH studios for the honor were Kathey Lucey, Jane Warson, Mary Burke, Cynthia Ross and Carol Martignette.

Walter Armstrong Is Graduated

Walter G. Armstrong of 64 Fletcher Street was graduated from East Coast Aero Technial School, Hanscom Field, Lexington, on September 30.

He prepared there for his Federal Aviation ratings as licensed airframe and powerplant technician. He is the son of Mr. Walter G. Armstrong.

Hunting At Parker River

Two new areas on the west bank of Broad Sound will be open to waterfowl hunters at the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge this fall. This new acreage added to the areas opened last year will total 1085 acres, approximately 23% of the refuge open this year to provide a quality hunting experience.

During the 1966 season a total of 125 hunters a day will be accomodated on the refuge hunting areas. Refuge bag limits and shooting hours will conform to those in force elsewhere in the Commonwealth.

Natural vegetation, portable blinds, nets, tarps or similar forms of concealment are permitted. Decoys or shadows and retriever dogs may also be used.

No permit will be needed on weekdays. However, a permit will be required on Saturdays and holidays. Permit applications are available from the Newburyport Post Office, numerous sporting goods stores in the area, or from the refuge manager, Parker River National Wildlife Refuge, Northern Boulevard, Newburyport, Massachusetts 01950.

Application for permits must be made by mail no sooner than two weeks nor less than four days prior to the requested hunting date. Areas and dates will be assigned on a first-come first-served basis.

Sunday, October 16
Atonement as the day-by-day effort to yield one's life to obedience to the laws of God is the theme of this week's Lesson-Sermon titled "Doctrine of Atonement" to be read in all Christian Scvience branch churches this Sunday.

Jesus' words, "If ye love me, keep my commandments," from the fourteenth chapter of John, are related to this explanation from the denominational textbook: "The Christ was the Spirit which Jesus implied in his own statements: 'I am the way, the truth, and the life;' 'I and my Father are one.' This Christ, or divinity of the man Jesus, was his divine nature, the godliness which animated him" ("Science and Health with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.)

The Lesson-Sermon consists of citations from the Bible and from the denominational textbook.

USAF After Men

Sergeant David F. Woodford, Air Force representative for Winchester, made it clear in a recent interview that opportunities were never better in the Air Service for former servicemen than they are right now because of present world conditions.

The Air Force program for former servicemen allows veterans of any branch of service to reenlist in the Air Force and in many cases, they can reenlist in the same grade they held when discharged.

The Air Force needs men and women with experience and special training who can train for supervisory positions on the Aerospace Team.

Qualified men and women whose discharge or release papers show that they have military experience in any of the many varied fields needed can find out within minutes whether they qualify for enlistment in the Air Force.

Men and women enlisting and resuming their military career will be advised of their rank and will also have their base of choice before they incur any obligation.

Former service time, in any branch of service, counts toward retirement and is also credited in computation of pay.

For more information, contact Sergeant Woodford at USAF Recruiting office, 19 High Street, Medford, or call 396-5109.

Schools Supply Home Forms For Fire Prevention

In observance of Fire Prevention Week, October 9-15, all sixth grade students in the Winchester schools have been suplied home fire inspection forms. These forms provide a check list for correcting fire hazards possibly present in each child's home, and the Fire Department will collect the forms at the end of the week.

Fire prevention officer, Captain Michael Connolly, advised that during Fire Prevention Week the fire truck has been to the elementary schools to demonstrate techniques and fire drills have been conducted.

Public Health Speaks out On Smoking Teenager

If first things really do come first, then the educator's first job is to teach the young how to reach sound conclusions and make wise decisions based on evaluation of facts, according to the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. And a primary consideration is to develop in the young an understanding and appreciation of the role which good health contributes to a full and satisfying life. It is the responsibility of parents to establish good health habits in the home living patterns. It is equally important that parents impress on their children the importance of the early detection and correction of health problems in order to assure their continued practice as a day to day action throughout life.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health is convinced, however, in addition to home influence, the time is now and one place is in the schools, to begin to chip away at the enormous job of breaking the appeal of that very common, but injurious habit among young people—cigarette smoking.

At the present time more than 4,000 young people each day try smoking for the first time, and half of the teenagers in the country are regular smokers by age 18. Statistics show clearly that the habit of smoking or the determination not to smoke is developed at an early age. Smokers run increasing risks of premature death as a result of early smoking carried throughout life.

In view of these statistics, the Federal Government is presently sponsoring a program in the schools of 18 States, where 7th and 8th graders are being taught the dangers associated with smoking. The program will include every State in the Union by 1969. Interestingly, key persons involved will be those very people who have been most critically affected by the habit—the parents.

"Room mothers," who are PTA representatives, will plan school and home activities in conjunction with the regular school curriculum, involving parents, teachers, and of course, the youngsters themselves. The whole idea is to emphasize the health benefits of not smoking, and at the same time, point up the hazards of smoking. As a side benefit, it is expected that the young people, armed with new knowledge, will exert a powerful influence on their own parents and other adults in convincing them either to give up or at least cut down smoking. Medical facts already have proven anyone, no matter how long they have smoked, will improve their health by stopping or even by cutting down.

Medical research has further proved that lung cancer, heart disease emphysema and ulcers are a few of the known diseases directly related to smoking, according to the State. And conclusive proof is available showing that people who do not smoke or those who have given it up, enhance their chances of avoiding one of these diseases and will enjoy better health over a longer life-span.

In 1962, the number of reported cases of lung cancer approximated 41,000. The figure has doubled since 1952, and by 1970, an expected 100,000 cases are predicted. Authorities attribute the rapid rise directly to the fact that cigarettes have become more popular than ever before.

In the beginning any educator faces a difficult chore. He must expect children to be inquisitive about smoking. They see adults indulging all around them, quite naturally they associate the habit as part of growing up. In homes where all the elders smoke, it's usual for the children to take it up. So the initial educational responsibility does fall on the parent. If they are smokers, their best approach is to tell their children that when they began the habit they were not aware of the serious health hazards. But now that medical research has conclusively proved the habit to be dangerous to health, it would be very unwise for children to ever start to smoke.

They can also point out, with great honesty, how difficult it is to break the habit and perhaps grasp this excellent opportunity to break the habit in themselves with the ready-made incentive of setting a good example to their children.

This much we owe to our youngsters. We must not fall into the trap of underestimating their intelligence. Instructing children in such subjects as traffic safety and obedience of the law is automatically taken for granted. So why not instruction into the hazards of cigarette smoking. It is unthinkable that through ignorance, any child is permitted to face an unnecessary or premature death, or years of suffering because he was not taught the hazards of a harmful habit.

Chief Derro At Law Enforcement Conference

Winchester Police Chief Joseph J. Derro is one of the 4,000 police executives from law enforcement agencies throughout the United States and 60 other Free World nations who attended the 73rd Annual Conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP), in Philadelphia from Oct. 1-6.

"The various seminars, workshops and committee meetings of this annual IACP conference provide an invaluable exchange of ideas and viewpoints in our search for solutions to the rising crime rate, civil disorders, traffic carnage and other law enforcement problems," said Chief Derro.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was among the group of distinguished speakers to address the police administrators. Others included Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor and Governor John J. McKeithen of Louisiana.

First Baptist Reception For Mr., Mrs. Buker

An informal reception was held at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, October 9, in the church parlor for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buker. Mr. Buker is serving First Baptist Church as youth director.

Prior to his entering Andover Newton Theological School this September Mr. Buker was general manager of Buker Airways, Inc., in Claremont, N. H.

Mr. Buker was born August 24, 1934, in New London, N. H., the son of Rev. Harold W. Buker and the late Mildred (Vile) Buker. In 1947 his family moved to Lynn, where he graduated from Lynn Classical High School in 1952, graduated from the University of Massachusettsin 1956, majoring in forestry. In 1957 he entered Naval Officers Candidate School at Newport, R. I., was commissioned in September with orders to join the U.S.S. Diachenko at San Francisco. In July 1958 he left the ship for underwater demolition training in Coronado, Calif. During his tour of duty in UDT he was in operations all along the coast of California, as well as the Salton Sea, Seattle and San Juan Island; he also saw duty in Hawaii, Japan, Okinawa, Hong Kong, the Philippines, and Borneo. In December 1959 he took leave to return to Lynn to marry Miss Marilyn Graves, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graves. Mrs. Buker trained at the Salem Hospital in Salem and is a registered nurse. The couple are the parents of four children, Mark, Shawn, Wendy, and Darren. In 1962 after five years and four months active duty, Mr. Buker left the Navy to accept the position of general manager of Buker Airways, Inc., and commuted by air from his home in New London, N.H., before moving to North Springfield, Vt.

First Baptist Church welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Buker and their family as they begin their church life here in Winchester. Mr. Buker will be available for conferences on Thursday afternoons from approximately 2:30 to 4:30. He is the leader and advisor for our Junior and Senior High B.Y.F. groups.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

The national president of insurance agents recently called attention to a point you may have missed. Because we think it is meaningful and significant, we bring this to your attention.

William E. Webb, Jr., said: "About 80% of the insurance today is written on forms that did NOT exist 10 years ago." This shows how rapidly the insurance business is changing to meet the changing demands of our times. Many of these changes have been dramatic—even exciting!

But Mr. Webb's remarks make one point more clear—it is no longer possible to put up an insurance sign and BE in the insurance business. Regardless of past success, any good agent must continually study—not only the new insurance coverages, but the changing needs of his clientele. New forms and new needs will spring up as surely as tomorrow's sunrise!

Perhaps, you wonder how this affects YOU. That's easy — it means you should pick your insurance agency carefully make certain that it will always keep up with the changing times.

If you don't know such an agency, may I suggest OURS?

Golden Benefits

A Golden Anniversary is always a gala occasion and Wednesday, November 2 will be no exception.

For fifty years the Hattie B. Cooper Community Center has served the Citizens of Roxbury. Today the need is greater than ever in the Inner City. If you have felt helpless at the problem of poverty in an affluent society you can be part of the answer.

A ticket includes dinner at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel in Copley Square on November 2 at 7 p.m., and entertainment by an original drama by Mrs. Peter Schneider, directed by Mrs. Francis Wilson.

The master of ceremonies for the Golden Anniversary Benefit will be radio's own Paul Benzaquin. Tables for the dinner will seat ten and will be assigned on a first come first served basis.

For reservations call Mrs. Fred Dodge 729-0121 or Mrs. Eddie Harris 729-2065 on or before October 20.

Your ticket will help to promote and maintain good human relations among the people of different ethnic backgrounds, economic or social status. We hope many will want to share this evening of fun and fellowship.

Labor Dept. Urges High Schoolers To Stay in School

A high school diploma is becoming a minimum requirement for jobs in our society.

The high school dropout faces a bleak employment future since explosive technological change and automation are eliminating old jobs and creating new ones that require extensive skills and knowledge, according to the New England Regional Director of the N. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, who said that over 3 million of the 10 million youths, aged 16 to 24, in the work force do not have high school diplomas. Unless something is done, he said another 900,000 will drop out minus diplomas in the school year 1966-1967.

"Youngsters who extend their summer vacation into a permanent leave from school make a serious and costly mistake," he said. "The long-term employment outlook for the school dropout grows poorer each year."

Do you earn too much to afford one?

For many people the Volkswagen would be an ideal car. Except for one thing.

It doesn't cost enough.

They're afraid nobody will realize they have any money, if it doesn't show in their car. In other words, they buy their car for other people. Not themselves.

Then there are those who earn enough to buy a much better car than the VW. But they don't. Because they can't find one.

For them the best car is one that's simply comfortable and economical. One they don't have to worry about. That doesn't make many stops for gas. And rarely needs repairs.

A car where the rare repairs don't cost a lot. A car where the car doesn't cost a lot.

They feel they can afford to save money with a Volkswagen.

Now next time you see somebody driving a VW don't feel sorry for him.

Who knows? Someday the bank might use his money to give you a new car loan.

Evolution Of Auto At MS

The evolution of the automobile from crude experimental road wagons to stately limousines is traced in a nostalgic exhibition of colorplates by Clarence P. Hornung just placed on display at Boston's Museum of Science.

The exhibition spans the halcyon period from 1853 to 1915 and was done by Mr. Hornung, author of "Wheels Across America" and known as "the Audubon of the Antique Auto."

Schools Get State Grant For Libraries

The Parkhurst, Wyman and Vinson Owen elementary schools have received shipments of library books valued at $2500 through a Massachusetts Department of Education grant.

McCall and Lynch Junior High Schools were each recipients of $1250 worth of library books. The five year grant of approximately $10,000 per year includes long range plans for establishment and improvement of school library services and instructional materials centers in all elementary schools, junior high schools and the proposed new senior high school.

Health Board Guidebook For Physicians

The Winchester Board of Health recently published a booklet entitled "Board of Health Guide for Physicians," which enumerates the procedures, services and legal requirements in the relationships between the Board of Health and physicians in various areas of public health, and explains the functions and role of the health board in the community.

Acording to Dr. Warren J. Taylor, a member of the Winchester Board of Health, the booklet is the first of its kind in the state. It will serve as a useful reference guide to many physicians here in Winchester, he said, and added that many community health boards will probably take this booklet as a model to use in producing similar issues in their own cities and towns.

The booklets were conceived, drafted and drawn up by Health Director Michael Saraco, assisted by Mrs. Marjorie D. Scott, clerk of the health board, and Miss Rita Plummer, director of nursing, during the past year; and copies have been made available to over 50 residents and practicing local doctors and physicians associated with the Winchester Hospital.

Republican Club Welcomes New Women Members

Mrs. James Joslin of 18 Dartmouth Street opened her home on Wednesday, October 5, for a tea to greet new members of the Winchester Women's Republican Club.

Mrs. Ernest J. Wright, president, and Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, vice-president, welcomed each new member during the informal social hour. Mrs. Robert Cesari and Mrs. Frederick Aseltine poured.

William Barnstead, Republican candidate for State Senator, made a surprise visit and spoke briefly on the current controversy on reducing the size of the legislature. Petitions were circulated regarding this bill.

New members to the organization include: Mrs. John Templeton, Mrs. Joseph VickRoy, Mrs. Winthrop Pearl, Mrs. John Going Jr., Mrs. William Voorhis, Mrs. Andrew Fichera, Mrs. Richard Stiles, Mrs. Jack Wilson, Mrs. Robert Hudson, Mrs. Lorenzo Bianco, Mrs. Joseph Pontone and Miss Mary Copley.

Barker Named As Wentworth Instructor

A Winchester resident was among thirty one new instructors appointed to the faculty at Went-Worth Institute in Boston for the 1966-67 academic year.

Edward A. Barker of 389 Washington Street will teach Architectural History and Building Methods. He received his B.A. from Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut in 1943 and his B.S. in Architectural Engineering from Iowa State University in 1949.

Wentworth, which offers a 2-year program leading to a Certificate or Associate in Engineering degree, is one of the largest accredited and endowed technical institutes in the United States.

Operation Shop Early Sends Xmas Packages To Vietnam

SANTA'S HELPERS FROM RED CROSS put the final touch on "Operation Shop Early"—Mrs. Frederick L. Hicks, Jr., Mrs. John S. Eaton, Mrs. Robert A. Painter, and Mrs. August S. Niewenhous prepare gift cartons for shipment to servicemen in Vietnam.

Each Christmas bag represents not only the gifts inside, but the combined efforts of many people who volunteered time, service and gifts. These fine bags of red and green nylon net, which withstands the climate in Vietnam, are stuffed with things and the kindness and spirit of all who were involved, directly or indirectly, with "Operation Shop Early."

Chairman of the project, John S. Eaton, Winchester Red Cross director assisted by Mrs. Eaton, received an enthusiastic response to a call for helpers and donations.

Phase one included the sewing of the net bags and stitching away were Mrs. Hugh J. Grimes, Mrs. Robert E. Harris, Mrs. Ralph R. Meigs, Mrs. C. William Ross, and Mrs. Ray E. Sylvester. Gift items gathered to fill these bags included: ballpoint pen, plastic soap dish, nail clipper, foot powder, small plastic bags, comic book, small number puzzle, playing cards, paperback book, small plastic snapshot holder, and a notebook.

Local organizations participating in the gift-filling phase were: Fitzgerald Fuel Company, McCormack's Apothecary, Winchester Carton Company, Winchester News Store, and an individual donor.

Phase two meant putting the gifts in individual bags and writing cards for each one. The cards carried greetings from Winchester Red Cross and the organizations involved in supplying the gifts. Assisting in this work were: Mrs. Frederick L. Hicks, Jr., Mrs. Robert A. Painter, Mrs. Eugene Rochow, Mrs. Ray E. Sylvester, and Mrs. John S. Eaton.

The bags were packed in large cartons, labeled for shipment to California, and brought to the Post Office for weight check by William L. Martin, an active Red Cross member and former chairman of the Winchester Red Cross.

The Spector Freight System, Inc. of Needham will soon ship the cartons to California from Winchester, Melrose, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield as their contribution to the Red Cross. These cartons, donated to the chapters by the Winchester Carton Company, will be sent to the San Francisco Red Cross warehouse and from there sent by Parcel Post to the Red Cross Field Director for distribution at the 7th Air Force Base in Vietnam.

Santa must have had a happy time as he saw his earth elves completing "Operation Shop Early" in Red Cross chapters all over the United States. Looking at the one hundred red and green bags filled with gifts and good wishes, above the warm glow, a faint strain of "Silent Night" was almost audible.

WHS Reunion In Vietnam

After ten years and half a world away, two men from Winchester met again in Saigon, Vietnam, recently. Captain Alfred C. Doherty, US Army, and Lieutenant Robert Carter, US Navy, who were graduated from Winchester High School together in 1957, now live in the same hotel in Saigon, the Virginian Bachelor Officers' Quarters.

Captain Doherty is assigned to the US Army Headquarters Area Command in Saigon and Lieutenant Carter works with Naval units operating patrol boats along the rivers and shoreline of Vietnam.

Police Warning About Vandalism On the Upswing

The Winchester Police Department this week issued stern warning to vandals who have been active in the destruction of property lately, and promised either court or other appropriate action in an effort to curb the increase in these activities locally.

At the same time, Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton requested residents to be on the lookout for unusual happenings around their neighborhoods and around town, and to report strange incidents to the Police Department.

Officer Beaton's statement to the Star followed a report that over the weekend vandals had destroyed most of the planted center strips on Wincrest Drive and Capri Terrace in the Winchester Estates area.

The vandals struck the Estates on both Friday and Saturday nights, causing over $100 in damage by snapping off young tree limbs, bending trees over and pulling them up, and general destruction of the Wincrest and Capri center mall strips.

Retirement Fete For Postmaster Thomas Gilgun

Thomas J. Gilgun, Postmaster of the Winchester Post Office, is retiring from the post which he has held for the past twenty years. Postmaster Gilgun of 75 Woodside Road, leaves under the Post Office Department Act and the announcement of his retirement as the executive of the Winchester Post Office inspired immediate plans for a retirement dinner for him.

A dinner in his behalf will be held at the Sons of Italy Hall, at 117 Swanton Street, on Saturday evening, October 22nd, where festivities will start at 7 p.m.

The Honorable Francis P. Cullen, a resident of Winchester and Chief Justice of the Woburn District Court, is Honorary Chairman of the Gilgun Retirement Party Committee. Other Winchester committee members are Asst. Postmaster, Alfred W. Barnard, Supt. of Mails, Coleman G. Foley, Jr., Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, Pastor, Immaculate Conception Church, Nicholas Fitzgerald, James Haley, Terry Cullen, John J. Costello, and Selectman Charles Doucette.

THOMAS J. GILGUN

Postmaster Gilgun is a former Woburnite, and many of his friends from Woburn will be active in the promotion of his retirement dinner. The Woburn committee members are Patrick J. Joyce, Michael J. Curran, John P. Cullen, Bernard McLaughlin, Larry Murphy, and Postmaster James Bradley of the Woburn Post Office.

Tickets for the dinner may be purchased from any of the committee members, or may be obtained at the Winchester News Co. on Thompson Street, or at Larry Murphy's Drug Store at 379 Main Street in Woburn.

Postmaster Gilgun is a career employee in the postal service and prior to his appointment to the Postmastership, he was a regular carrier and serviced many routes in Winchester. He entered the Postmaster's position with a practical knowledge of the delivery and dispatch of mail, besides having many personal contacts with the business and residential patrons of the Post Office.

Selectmen See A Developing Dance Policy For Town Hall

The Board of Selectmen this week discussed the establishing of a new policy governing the licensing of youth dances in the Town Hall, including the advisability of channeling the responsibility or sponsorship of running any large-scale organized youth activities in the municipal facility through the Recreation Committee.

The Selectmen were unanimous in their desire not to completely prohibit all individually and/or privately sponsored youth activities of this nature in the Town Hall. However, it was generally felt among the board, that it would be in the best interests of the town as well as in the best interest of the community's presently developing comprehensive youth recreation program, to have the Winchester Recreation Committee act in its specific function, serving either in a coordinate advisory capacity or as a direct operating agency in this field.

It was noted by the members of the board that entrepreneuring local youth dance bands had seen a need for big popular dances, and had filled that gap in the teen social life here, but strictly on a personal profit gain basis. While crediting the enterprising youngsters for their business acumen in satisfying a local youth social need; the Selectmen nevertheless foresaw a developing avalanche of license applications for large teen dances operated on a high profit scale in a public building—to the possible hindrance of other municipal functions such as the growing recreation program.

In earlier consultation last week with Recreation Committee Chairman Mrs. A. R. Gunnar Brink, the committee indicated to the Selectmen that it would welcome the opportunity to organize and hold some teen dances in the Town Hall within the scope of its present recreation program, possibly as often as once a month, and maybe more often some months.

Mrs. Brink noted that such Recreation Committee sponsored and run dances could work to the benefit of all the town's youth instead of just a few groups.

She pointed out that the committee would be inclined to employ local youth bands at a good going rate—thereby providing inspiration and money-earning chances for in-town musical groups, as opposed to having

Library Closed October 28, 29

As the Winchester Public Library addition and renovation program draws to its conclusion, the adult section of the library will be closed to the public on Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29.

The Junior Library will remain open as usual.

The closing of the adult library will allow staff members an opportunity to move back into the old portion of the library previously turned over to the contractor for renovations.

Jr. High School Initiating Individualized Programming

The advancement of a new educational concept designed to bring a more individualized instruction program to all students at the Junior High School level was launched at a teacher workshop on curriculum planning held on October 11th.

Called the "X Block Program," the new approach toward tailoring educational instruction to the individual's need—be it for extra help in areas of weakness, for enrichment or advanced learning in areas of proficiency, or for delving into areas of new experience such as in research—is now being integrated into Grades Seven through Nine at the Lynch and McCall Junior High Schools. It is due to be a fully operational part of the junior high system by the first of the year.

The X Block program is designed to adjust the child's program to his own individual needs, and is done by inserting two periods per week into the curriculum plans, calling them "X" periods.

During these periods the students will either take more classes in reading, arithmetic, or English composition if they need additional work, or use this time to enlarge and enrich the scope of their research skills if additional classes are not needed. These research skills will be developed in the content subjects (as opposed to the skills subjects) such as social studies and science.

Another use for the X period is for those students who test weak in certain muscular areas or areas of coordination, who will use this extra period for additional gymnastic training for improvement. Also, students who have special abilities in art or music will be able to use these periods for additional practice and instruction in those subjects.

It is hoped that these extra periods can be expanded eventually to five periods per week by increasing the extra help sessions and independent study with a reduction of formal learning periods.

Details of pupil assignments are being worked out at present.

During the summer 6 teachers worked to prepare individual study materials of both remedial and independent study nature, so the materials can be used by the teachers without special preparation.

The junior high staff worked on the implementation of the so-called "X block program" under the direction of Dr. Walter Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, and Joseph Forte and Gardner Handy, junior high principals.

More Elementary School Curricula Coordination

Social Studies Added, New Science, English Approaches

The addition of a new curriculum in social studies to be taught from Kindergarten through Grade 6, a new curriculum in Grade 6 science oriented toward the inductive scientific approach, and a new program in written English composition and exposition in Grades 1-5 were among several progressive notes and improvements sounded at an elementary school teachers' workshop session held on Tuesday, October 11th.

The School Department plans to implement these elementary school innovations, and more, as rapidly as possible; possibly by the first of the year.

Elementary school teachers participated in fruitful teacher workshops, conducted by the curriculum councils, under the direction of Dr. Walter Gleason and Miss May Milliken, Jack Waite, Frank Finigan, and Christos Socarides, who serve as council chairmen.

The councils are composed of teachers in the subject areas of math, science, English and social studies who study and evaluate new ideas in curricula for application in the Winchester schools.

The councils worked during the summer on the development of curricula for kindergarten through grade 12 and the October 11 workshop session was used to introduce new curricula and techniques to the teachers. Materials were presented and instructions given on their use and where additional information could be found.

Specifically included in the presentation was a new curriculum in social studies from kindergarten through grade 6 and a new curriculum in grade 6 science oriented toward the inductive scientific approach.

A workshop was held for grades 1-5 to provide the English curriculum council with the results of the new program in writing compositions and an exposition for all grades was given by the curriculum council of the new math curriculum.

Waltz Evenings Dancing Success

"The Waltz of the Flowers," 15th in a history of successful Waltz Evenings held at the Town Hall on Friday and Saturday nights last weekend, was a sellout and a much enjoyed event by the many couples attending.

Dr. William Kermond was master of ceremonies on Friday evening and on Saturday evening, Dr. James McDonough presided over the festivities.

Midway through the evenings, Exhibition Waltzes were beautifully performed by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Worthen, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mingolelli, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Rich-LaJoie of Stoneham, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKie of Reading, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Colony, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Knox, Mr. James Hulm (filling in for Dr. Frank Bates, unable to attend) and Mrs. Bates, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Horley, Mr. and Mrs. John Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hillery and Dr. and Mrs. Francis Lombardo.

GOP Office Is Opened By Gov. Volpe, Morse

The opening of Winchester Republican Headquarters at 15 Waterfield Road on Saturday afternoon was highlighted by a campaign tour here by Governor Volpe, accompanied by United States Congressman F. Bradford Morse.

The Governor was met at the Common by the Winchester High School Band. Bandleader Frederick J. Murray turned his baton over to Gov. Volpe and the Governor led the band in an impromptu session, with Congressman Morse tapping the sticks on a drum, to the enjoyment of many bystanders.

The group then advanced to the local Republican Headquarters, where Mrs. Albert Thompson of 15 Garfield Avenue, headquarters chairman, was organizing campaign literature, schedules of candidates' programs, and preparing the office for immediate political business.

The GOP Headquarters will be open from 10 to 5 o'clock, and on some evenings. The telephone number is 729-3326.

The members of the Winchester Republican Town Committee have been busy with campaign plans for the November election. Several of its members are acting as town coordinators for state and county candidates.

Absentee Voter Must Take Out An Application

Registered voters who either by absence from Winchester or physical disability will be unable to cast their ballots at the local polling places in the upcoming November 8 State Election, may obtain applications for absent voter ballots at the Town Hall, Town Clerk Elsie Nelson announced this week.

Families of servicemen or others overseas should take out applications as soon as possible to allow for mail transit time, Mrs. Nelson pointed out.

The Town Clerk emphasized that although the deadline for taking applications runs up to noon the day of November 7,

Sales Tax Revenue Halts Property Tax Spiral

Revenues from the new sales tax have brought a virtual halt to the unbroken 22-year rise in Massachusetts property taxes according to Frank J. Zeo, executive vice president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation.

"The predictions of those who have fought for a more equal distribution of the tax burden are being fulfilled," Mr. Zeo said. "With all but four rates reported, two-thirds of the cities and towns have been able to reduce their tax rates or hold them at 1965 levels. This is a spectacular showing and it can be repeated next year if the voters approve the sales tax at the November election."

The Foundation house organ, Affairs of State, has published estimates indicating that 1966 property taxes will total about $967 million, up only $3 million from last year and $73 million less than they would have been without the sales tax program. (Last year the increase was $87 million, or 10 percent. This year the increase would have been about $76 million, or up 8 percent.)

"Without the sales tax," Mr. Zeo noted, "this year's local taxes would have shot over the $1 billion mark, and few cities and towns have been spared."

The Foundation publication suggests that if the voters continue the sales tax program a reduction in the rate of the much-criticized motor vehicle excise is a definite possibility by 1968, if not sooner. "This would be an unexpected but most welcome by-product of the sales tax," the Foundation executive commented in releasing the new figures.

Also shown in the current publication is a list of local tax rates refigured on the basis of estimated full market values of property.

The most significant thing about the adjusted or "full-value tax rates," according to Mr. Zeo, is the sharp drop in number of communities with rates over the critical level—from 50 last year to 30 this year. The Foundation considers any rate over $40 per $1,000 of full market value of property, as being in the critical zone, that is, likely to have harmful economic effects on the community. Exceptions are a few high-income towns which choose to tax themselves heavily for a higher level of municipal services.

Of the 347 communities which have reported their 1966 tax rates, 178 have lowered them while 49 have held their 1965 levels. Thirty communities, including the cities of Pittsfield and Westfield, report sharply reduced rates resulting from property revaluations.

In 17 cities and 103 towns the tax rate is higher though generally much less than it would have been without the sales tax revenues.

Reported tax rates range from $180 in Dunstable, down to $11.60 in Brewster.

The range in the more meaningful full - value tax rates is much less; mostly around $45. Savoy leads the towns with an estimated full-value of $49. Mt. Washington's $8.10 is the lowest full-value rate in a town.

Chelsea leads the cities with a full-value rate estimated at $75.50, followed by Lowell with $61.10 and Boston with $60.90. Lowest city rates, on the full-value basis, are Everett's $21 and Westfield's $28.50.

Reported local property valuations have risen $1.2 billion to $14.7 billion—the largest single increase in Massachusetts history—due in large part to revaluations of property in an unprecedented number of communities. These are resulting from mounting pressures on assessors to conform with the law requiring property to be assessed at its full and fair value.

The prospect of lower motor vehicle tax rates results from the combination of higher valuations and an almost stationary total of property tax levies. This combination has produced a statewide average property tax rate drop from $71 per $1,000 of total state valuation in 1965 to about $65.80 this year. Repetition of the 1966 experience in 1967 and 1968 could give motorists the first decrease in the excise rate in the memory of most of them. The excise rate is based on a 3-year average of state tax rates, with a ceiling of $66 which is now in effect.

With this prospect, assuming continuance of the sales tax, the Legislature may well consider anticipating the drop in excise rate and advancing it to 1967.

Massachusetts communities must wait until 1967 to feel the full benefit from the sales tax since the law did not take effect until last April.

Because of the delay, state distributions of the revenue to the cities and towns this year was based on only eight months' collections.

Next year is expected to bring in almost twice as much additional revenue. Moreover, it will be distributed on a different basis from the temporary arrangement in 1966.

The 1966 program has nevertheless carried out tolerably well one intent of the legislation—to base state aid on the genuine need of each community.

A superficial look at the 1966 tax rates suggests that the benefit of the program has been greater for the cities than the towns. For example:

*For all cities combined, the additional aid comes to about $8.12 per $1,000 of 1965 local valuations; for all towns combined, the increased aid is only $3.72 per $1,000 of valuations.

*For cities, the new aid amounts to $17.06 per capita of population; for towns, $9.42 per capita.

Analysis shows, however, that the cities have not been unduly favored. In fact, there is a clear pattern of equalization—that is, more help for cities and towns which have been carrying heavier tax loads.

For example, in four out of every five of the towns with full-value tax rates under $20 per $1,000 additional aid from the sales tax program amounts to less than 5 percent of their 1965 tax levies.

Conversely, in five out of every six of the cities and towns with full-value tax rates exceeding $40 per $1,000—the critical zone—new aid from the state amounts to more than 5 percent of their 1965 tax levies.

Further equalization is possible next year with the sales tax program and the new Local Aid Fund in full operation. The makeup payments of overdue to state reimbursements will have been completed in 1966.

Whether the cities and towns will continue to receive the additional state aid made possible by the sales tax rests initially with the voters.

The state ballot on November 8 will contain two sales tax questions. On both a YES vote will favor the tax.

These strips were built up by the residents of the area through the Winchester Estates Garden Club, at a cost of over $1,400 and many long hours of neighborhood cooperation in planting the trees and shrubs. And on Monday many went out to try and repair and salvage the trees; but if the weakened trees do not survive the winter, the cost of the vandal's damage could go much higher.

Last week, police further reported, vandals poured gasoline over the Fourth Green at the Country Club golf course and set it on fire.

In another incident, police learned the identity of three youths involved in an egg throwing case at a Calumet Road house last week. After reporting to the Police Station, the youths were given buckets, brooms and cloths to clean up the mess they had done, and they apologized to the homeowner.

Another egg throwing youngster was caught by an irate homeowner, and turned over to police. A similar work detail was volunteered by the youth.

Officer Beaton, recalled an incident last year when a youth threw a rock through the window of a passing train and injured several people with the flying glass, commented that not only homeowners but car drivers and pedestrians have been hit by eggs and other objects. More than one driver has complained to police about nearly losing control of their vehicles when eggs or pumpkins have been broken across their windshields.

Officer Beaton also noted that at this time of year pumpkin stealing and smashing gets to be a serious problem, especially when pumpkins are broken in streets and cars skid on the slippery messes. "We hope there are no bad accidents this year on account of pumpkins splattered over our streets," Officer Beaton added. He pointed out that pumpkin stealers and smashers will not be dealt with lightly, since it does involve theft and a danger to the public safety.

MSUEW to Hear Radcliffe Program

Winchester members of the Massachusetts Society for the University Education of Women will be guests of the Radcliffe College Graduate Center for their fall meeting, Tuesday October 25, at 2 p.m.

M.S.U.E.W. is in its 89th year as a scholarship society which extends help to girls in seven Massachusetts colleges. These girls are recommended for awards by the deans of their colleges.

The program for the afternoon presents Miss Constance Smith, dean of the Radcliffe Institute for Independent Study, speaking on "The Radcliffe Institute—Lessons in Learning." This unique program has been developed to permit and encourage women of talent—usually married—at various stages of personal development, to undertake a specific program of research, writing, or creative work on a part time basis.

Among the many members of M.S.U.E.W. from Winchester who are expected to attend the meeting are Mrs. I. W. Dingwell, Jr., Miss Constance Trickett, Mrs. J. Edward Downes, Miss Margaret Wood Usher, Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Mrs. George B. Redding, Mrs. William Hopkins, Mrs. Cedric Robinson, Mrs. Earle Littleton, Mrs. Howard Leary, and Mrs. Whitney Pedersen. Guests are welcome.

Mr. Capodilupo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Capodilupo of 16 Oneida Road was geaduated from the Winchester High School and from Yale University with a degree in industrial administration. After military service he joined Proctor and Gamble Company and rose to the position of unit manager from which he recently resigned.

In his new position Mr. Capodilupo, will be in charge of company development and diversification.

Mr. MacDonald Speaks To DAR

Michael MacDonald of 92 Bacon Street, who has been director of the Washington Office for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts during the past three years, was the speaker for the opening meeting of the Committee of Safety Chapter of D.A.R. held Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Louis C. Kuhn, Jr.

Mr. MacDonald explained the functions of his office, serving as a liasion between the state of Massachusetts and the federal government. Mr. MacDonald said that he worked on such matters as trying to eliminate the "red tape" between federal and state agencies. Aiding in promotion of business and industry for the state; comparison of other states which support offices in Washington and finding how their methods affect Massachusetts making surveys on various state problems; and helping with legislation on matters such as conservation, nursing homes, fisheries, and water pollution.

Heads Technical Session at NEREM

Dr. Richard C. Sirrine of Lawson Road, has been named to head a technical session at the twentieth annual Northeast Electronics Research and Engineering Meeting, held November 2 through 4, at the Boston War Memorial Auditorium and the Sheraton Boston Hotel. Announcement of the selection was made by Dr. Thomas A. Longo, also of Winchester, chairman of the NEREM Program Committee.

Dr. Sirrine is manager of the Integrated Circuit Development Department, Sylvania Electric Products, Inc. Previous to this, he was with the Norden Division of United Aircraft and at the General Electric Company's Semiconductor Products Department.

He received his B.S. and M.S. from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

Dr. Sirrine's NEREM technical session is entitled, "Digital Integrated Circuits."

NEREM annually attracts over 20,000 engineers and scientists to its technical sessions and electronic equipment exhibition.

VNA Hears Alert On Increases In Social Diseases

On Friday morning, Philip Mather, chairman of the American Social Health Association spoke at the meeting of the Visiting Nursing Association held in the Unitarian Church and alerted them to the resurgence of the problem of the so-called social diseases in the country today.

The group also heard Mrs. Arthur Anderson, president, announce that Miss Margaret Schmidt of the nursing staff has assumed the role of acting director for the VNA here until a replacement for Miss Rita Plummer has been appointed. In addition Mrs. Richard Merrow has resigned her membership in the association to become a staff nurse for the WVNA and is covering the Washington and Mystic Schools as part of her duties at the moment.

The ASHA, made up of professional and lay persons, is a voluntary agency working in close cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service in the fields of prostitution, venereal diseases, and narcotics, according to its spokesman. Mr. Mather noted to his audience that venereal disease is now second on the list of reported contagious diseases in the United States, measles being first. With the advent of penicillin as a cure for VD, the rate of increase leveled off and authorities hoped the control of the disease was solved. But instead the rate of reported cases is again on the upswing. This Mr. Mather said, is due to the following facts: penicillin acted as a green light and removed the fear factor, certain strains of the disease have developed resistence to the penicillin and flourish, and the "pill" has encouraged contact whereby the disease is transmitted.

The ASHA has at last been able to influence the American Medical Association officially to acknowledge that venereal diseases is a public enemy. It hopes that symposiums on VD at the state and regional levels under the sponsorship of the Department of Environmental Health, plus the continued sex education in the curricula of schools and colleges will bring about control of venereal diseases.

At the VNA meeting, Mrs. Thornton Stearns, for the Education Committee which she heads, distributed to members a copy of the newly revised and up-dated WVNA handbook.

Arthur G. Burtnett

Arthur G. Burtnett, 69, husband of Florence H. (Parker) Burtnett, died suddenly at the Winchester Hospital on Thursday, October 13. A retired director of trade relations for the House of Seagram, Incorporated, distillers, he was a former president of the National Association of Liquor Control Commissioners of the United States, and a former chairman of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

In addition to his wife, he leaves in Winchester two sons, Arthur G., Jr., and Wellington P. He is survived also by one daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Stone of Madison, Conn.; by a sister, Mrs. John W. F. Hobbs of Belmont; and by 15 grandchildren.

Mr. Burtnett was born in Cambridge February 1, 1897, the son of the late Eugene A. F. and Florence (Mitten) Burtnett. He attended the Somerville schools, Dean Academy in Franklin, and was graduated from Tufts College. A veteran of World War I, he was a charter member of Post 19 American Legion in Somerville and a life member of the Seagram's Post 1283 in New York City.

Mr. Burtnett had been retired from Seagram's for the past four years. Very active and well known in his business field, he had been a member of the Election Commission of Somerville for many years, assistant treasurer of the City of Somerville, and in the Closed Bank Commission of Somerville during the 1930's.

Dr. John Fitzsimmons of the Plymouth Congregational Church in Belmont conducted funeral services for him in the Lane Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. Burial was in Puritan Lawn Cemetery in Peabody.

Susie M. Fiore

Susie M. Fiore, a native and lifelong resident here, died on Sunday, October 16, at her home at 43 Spruce Street at the age of 58.

Miss Fiore was well known here and in Woburn. She had been proprietor of Susan's Dress and Hat Shop on Main Street for some years and before that was associated with the Schrafft's Candy Company in Charlestown. She was a past president of Winchester Post V.F.W. 3719 Auxiliary, the Middlesex County Council V.F.W. A solemn high Mass was celebrated for her at 10 a.m. in Saint Mary's yesterday morning, following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

Miss Fiore was born here on July 24, 1908, the daughter of Orazio and Celeste (Vozella) Fiore, both natives of Italy. She grew up here and was educated in the Winchester schools. She is survived by her mother and father, residents at her late address; by eight brothers, Louis of Woburn, Peter of San Antonio, Texas., William of Stoneham, Americo of Malden, and Ralph, Richard, Robert and Rudolph of Winchester; by three sisters, Mrs. Rose DiTucci and Mrs. Eva Macario of North Woburn, and Mrs. Eleanor Yore of Winchester; as well as by several nieces and nephews.

Edward Yerxa Neill

Edward Yerxa Neill, 78, founder of the wool company which bears his name in Boston, and well known here as one of the oldest members of the Winchester Country Club, died at the Winchester Hospital on October 12, after a brief illness. He had lived here for 45 years at 30 Cabot Street, but for the past two years had made his home in Arlington. He maintained a summer home in East Orleans for over 20 years.

Mr. Neill was very well known in the wool trade. He had been chairman of the wool imports committee of the Boston Wool Trade Association for many years. He founded the wool brokerage of E. Y. Neill and Company on Summer Street, in 1922 and was a partner at the time of his death. In Boston he was also a member of the Algonquin Club.

Mr. Neill was a member of the Church of the Epiphany. At the Country Club here he was an avid curler and was one of the founders of curling at the WCC. In Medford he was active in the Mount Hermon Lodge and the Samuel Crocker Lawrence Lodge, Masonic organizations.

Mr. Neill was born in Buffalo, N. Y., on April 19, 1888, the son of John H. and Leonie (Dawrell) Neill. He moved to Medford as a boy, grew up there and was educated in the Medford schools.

Mr. Neill is survived by a son, Stanley Edward, and by two grandchildren, Stanley E., Jr., and Nancy C., all of Winchester. The Reverend Ralph B. Putney officiated at services held for him at the Epiphany Church on the afternoon of Friday, October 14. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery in Everett. Gifts in his memory may be made to the Winchester Hospital or the Greater Boston Heart Fund.

Howard A. Stockwell

Howard A. Stockwell, 72, of Waterford, Maine, and Ormond Beach, Florida, father of Howard A. Stockwell, Jr., Fred F. Stockwell and Martha P. Eaton, and brother of Mrs. Edwin C. Chick, all residents of Winchester, died Friday, October 14, at Daytona Beach, Florida.

Mr. Stockwell was born in Somerville and was a resident of Belmont for 35 years. He was graduated from Andover Academy and then Dartmouth College, class of 1917. He retired from Barbour Stockwell Co. of Cambridge as treasurer and director in 1953. He was also a director of both the Suffolk First Federal Bank of Boston and the Harvard Trust Company of Cambridge. He was a past president of the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce, Cambridge Rotary Club and the Dartmouth College Alumni Association of Boston. He was also past president of the National Castings Council and a former member of the War Production Board.

Other survivors are his wife, Dorothy (Stewart) Stockwell of Ormond Beach, Florida; his sons J. Stewart of Vernon, Conn., Richard S. of St. Paul, Minn.; a daughter, Joan S. Tarbell of Lexington; and 22 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Ormond Beach on Sunday, October 16. Memorial services were held at Story Chapel, Mt. Auburn Cemetery, Camridge, on Tuesday, October 18.

Patrick W. Doherty

Patrick W. Doherty, one of Winchester's oldest residents, died at the Winchester Hospital on Monday morning, October 17, at the age of 95. He had been a resident here for 50 years at 995 Main Street.

Well known here, he was a pioneer member of the Holy Name Society at the Immaculate Conception Church and had been associated with the Beggs and Cobb Company as a leather worker for many years before he retired.

Mr. Doherty is survived by a son, Charles E. of Woburn; by two daughters, Mrs. James Finnerty of Woburn and Mrs. Frank Flahive of Winchester; also by a brother, James F. of Woburn; a sister, Mrs. Sarah McHugh of Lynn; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. He was born in Ireland on June 8, 1871, the son of Michael and Ellen (Doherty) Doherty.

A solemn high Mass was sung for Mr. Doherty at 9 a.m. yesterday morning. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

Miss Margaret M. Genster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Joseph Genster of 23 Sheffield Road, has been named to the dean's list at Marymount College, Tarrytown, New York, on the basis of her scholastic record for the academic year 1965-66. She is a sophomore majoring in political science.

DON'T GET CAUGHT WITHOUT WINTERIDE SNOW TIRES!

Uniroyal® WINTERIDE® SNOW TIRES

Let's face it. You should think about snow tires before it snows. Don't chance getting stuck. Have your snow tires mounted early. In fact, if you wait too long before coming to see us, you may not be able to get the size and style you want. Some of our better snow tires, such as Uniroyal's Winterides, are at a premium even now before the season really begins.

No wonder! A snow tire spends most of its life on snowless roads. And the Winteride is a snow tire tested to do 100 mph . . . when there is no snow. That's one of the reasons it's called The Dry Road Snow Tire and is in such great demand. Winteride's big, big tractor-type treads dig you out of deep snow quick, but also give you a smooth, quiet ride on dry roads where you travel most of the time.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Connell, Jr., of 4 Churchill Road, announce the birth on October 8 of their third child and first son, Kenan James. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Connell and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, all of Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. McNamara of 69 Florence Street announce the birth of their third child, Kristen Anne, on October 4 at Winchester Hospital. Sharing grandparent honors are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Venardi of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. John F. McNamara of Buzzards Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Mullen (Helen Rae) of Winchester announce the birth of their second child, first daughter, Susan Jeanne at the Winchester Hospital on October 9. Grandparents are Mrs. Rae and Mrs. Clyde Mullen, also of Winchester.

Merchants Meet To Look Ahead For Christmas

At a regular meeting of the Winchester Merchants Association attending local businessmen made decisions looking to benefit all persons in business here.

Directed by the clear consensus of members and inspired by the group's leaders and visiting speaker, Tom Raftery, former director of advertising at Lechmere Sales and present partner in advertising in Winchester with Brennan and Raftery, they decided to analyse the thinking and desires of citizens here by conducting a survey to look into the likes and dislikes of Winchester shoppers. And to set up a committee which will get going next week on Christmas promotion for the square.

President Jack Chitel of Chitel's on Mt. Vernon Street was pleased at the outcome and at the enthusiasm of those merchants in attendance. He expressed the hope that at the next meeting even more local businessmen will join in what has to be a common effort to maintain and strengthen the drawing power of the square as a unique and special buying center for citizens here and from out of town as well.

The meeting was held Monday night at Randall's with new owner Drogas offering a roast beef dinner. A valuable question and answer period followed Mr. Raftery's presentation with an alert and quick exchange of ideas between all there.

Appointed to serve on the Christmas committee which plans its first meeting next Monday night are Bettie Donald of the corset and lingerie shop of the same name, Ruth Miano of Peck and Peck, Harold Lipsitt of Loralanes and Jack Chitel, ex-officio. Tom Raftery has offered his services to the group for ideas and direction.

During the first six months of 1966, Americans purchased an approximate total number of 54 million U. S. Savings Bonds—the highest for the same period in 20 years.

Good Reader!

The Police Department this week credited this column in the Winchester Star for aiding in the apprehension of three vandals. It seems a locally employed woman from East Boston was passing through Wedgemere Station parking lot when she noticed several youths "acting funny," so she took down their vehicle registration number. When she read in last week's Star Police Blotter column about the theft of a tire from a car there that day, she called police and gave them the registration number, which resulted in the owner of the vandalized vehicle receiving his tire back from the Stoneham youths along with an apology from them.

Sitters to Hear Donald J. Annino On Medical Care

The third session of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes Baby Sitters' School will have as its featured speaker this evening Donald J. Annino, M.D.

Presently engaged in the practice of pediatrics here in Winchester, Dr. Annino is a graduate of Harvard College and Tufts Medical School, Chief of Pediatrics at Choate Memorial Hospital, and a member of the active staff of the Winchester Hospital.

In addition, the doctor is clinical associate in Pediatrics at Massachusetts General Hospital, assistant physician in pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, and serves on the courtesy staff at Children's Hospital.

As part of his talk on the medical aspects of child care, Dr. Annino will explain to sitters those emergencies which may be treated by them and those which demand professional assistance.

General first aid methods for common emergencies will be covered, and sitters will be invited to participate in tne ensuing question and answer period.

Rosa — DeFlumeri

Just returned from a wedding trip on the continent and in London and making their home in Billerica are Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas James Rosa who were married recently in the Saint Theresa Church in Everett.

MRS. NICHOLAS J. ROSA

A reception at the Malden Moose Hall followed the ceremony which united the former Carol Rose DeFlumeri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saverio DeFlumeri of Everett and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rosa of 24 Glenwood Avenue. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in empire silk organza highlighted with appliques of French lace and seed pearls and worn with a shoulder-length veil caught to a two-tiered crown of matching lace. She carried eucharis lilies and stephanotis.

She was attended by Mrs. Anthony Tortorella of Malden as matron of honor; and by Miss Barbara LeBlanc of Dorchester, Mrs. James Cirrone of Medford and Mrs. John Chirichiello fo Washington, D.C. as bridesmaids; by the Misses Gloria Amerena of Everett and Eleanor Caiazzo of Malden as junior bridesmaids and by Carol Migliaccio of Winchester as a flower girl. They were gowned alike in empire gowns of turquoise chiffon with bodice and trains of matching lace. The honor attendent carried a cascade of pink mums, and the flower girl a basket of the same flowers. The bouquets of the bridesmaids were of pink and blue.

Mr. Myron Kazanjian of Winchester was the best man and ushering were the Messrs. John DeFlumeri, Henry Hansen of Lynnfield and William Nickerson of Burlington. Master Philip Migliaccio of Winchester was the ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of the Everett High School and the American Airlines Stewardess College. The bridegroom who is in the accounting business, is a Winchester High School and Burdette College graduate. He is in the active National Guard and a member of the National Rifle Association.

Metco Group Here Tonight

Tonight is the night when representatives of METCO will speak to citizens of Winchester interested in learning more about the METCO program.

Joseph E. Killory, Mrs. Ruth M. Batson, Paul Parks and Dr. Robert I. Spencer will explain and discuss METCO which is currently in effect in seven suburban communities.

The Wyman Parents' Association is pleased to present this excellent opportunity for gaining increased understanding of this new organization.

All citizens, and particularly, parents of Winchester's school children are cordially invited to attend in the Wyman School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Serving The Community For 86 Years

Editorials:

High School When?

The Selectmen this week were discussing plans for calling a special Town Meeting sometime next month to take care of a lot of community business that needs attention. But one item that most residents want to see come to a head and decision round does not appear likely to come up at that time—the selecting of a site for a new high school building.

While the three mainly responsible committees working toward a solution of the three-year-old problem of site selection and building specifications to meet an advanced and future secondary school educational system here have been working hard on the project, there does not appear to be any real site at hand that would be adequate in the central part of the town without landtakings, and this the School, Planning and Building Committees are averse to trying to do because of public emotion against it.

The only answer left facing the committees is moving away from the Center, and this idea the Town Meeting rejected when it turned down the Turkey Ridge proposal on the West Side last year.

It would seem that if the town doesn't undertake to make a decision on a site and get plans and construction started by next spring, we won't have a new high school building even by the year 1970!

It would further seem, that in the interest of expediency of forward progress, that several alternative proposals or even directions of course be submitted for any upcoming special Town Meeting. This might take the form of including a repitition proposal of the Turkey Ridge project in the event townspeople might now wish to reconsider it in a different light, and possibly with even the added phrase, "or any other West Side available land site." Another article might suggest the consideration of several of the lesser desirable Center sites, but yet ones that could be made suitable by a few land acquisitions.

While it is entirely possible that such articles might open up a Pandora's box on the Town Meeting floor; nevertheless, at least either a sense of the representative body might be fathomed for direction for these committees, or some new idea might develop.

The community has waited three years now for an answer to this problem of designing a new high school place and building. A selection site in the Center does not appear any closer today than last summer, last spring, last year or even the year before.

The community may be ready, now that it has been demonstrated that there may not be any answer here in the Center, to either lift its eyes up to the hills surrounding the town, or else across to the outer edges of the town's perimeter.

In any event, the forthcoming special Town Meeting should be confronted with the problem as it stands, and the committees given new directive direction.

Unnecessary Destruction

As if losses to local residents were not enough through the actions of professional criminals such as burglars, and through unavoidable accidents such as car accidents; it is on the one hand unfortunate that the people of this town have to put up with the amount of needless vandalism that goes on here, and on the other hand it is quite surprising how few people have any conception of the degree of the problem.

Of course, Winchester does not have the great juvenile delinquency problem that cities like Boston or Lynn have; but conversely it is not true that Winchester has no problem—as many close-eyed parents and homeowners like to believe, and even so state.

Life in Winchester is so quiet, in fact, for some, that strange noises in the night go unreported to the police, until the homeowner wakes up the next morning and goes to use his car, which has strangely disappeared.

Cars seem to be a high frequency target here in Winchester. Hardly a day goes by that someone's car isn't stolen from his driveway, or one damaged while parked at a public parking place here, or something in or on one taken.

But local vandalism doesn't end with damaging cars, it also goes to such fancies as the desecration at Wildwood Cemetery last March, the tearing up of trees planted to beautify the Winchester Estates entranceways this week, the throwing of rocks through train windows and endangering passengers with flying glass, the senseless pouring of gasoline over the Fourth Green at the Country Club and burning it last week. And, if you are one of those who feels your home is your castle, you've just been fortunate in missing a visit by a vandal. But pumpkin stealing and breaking time is just around the corner, too.

The list could be a lot longer, but the point is made that it not only can happen here—it does!

Juvenile Officer Beaton's warning to vandals this week that if apprehended they will face stern measures should serve as some sort of indication to residents that there is an upswing in both the frequency of vandalism and in the degree of damage done.

What can you, the reader, do to improve the situation? You can become more aware of what is happening in your community, and become involved in seeing that strange incidents or people's behavior is reported to the police for checking out. In this way, the apprehension of vandals will serve notice on others, that they cannot destroy public or private property without fear of punishment.

Comment:

Last week's local school lunch program observed the 20th anniversary of the National School Lunch Act, inaugurated in 1946 when Congress, taking a dim view of the nation's deteriorating health standards, decided to pass the act for the purpose of safeguarding the health of the nation's children. It also served the secondary double purpose of increasing domestic consumption of nutritious surplus agricultural products, the subsidizing support and warehousing of which was costing the government many millions of dollars annually. Under the program, the federal government allots each school district so much credit toward the purchase of surplus foods, which is matched by funds put up by the local districts, so that low-cost nutritionally balanced meals set to provide one-third of a child's daily standard requirements (about 1,200 calories) is offered. The continuance of the school lunch program over the past 20 years attests to its benefits and value, both in upgrading the health of the nation's young at a time in their lives when proper nutrition is most important, and in a convenient and commendable method of disposing of surplus food stockpiles. This year the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended $212 million to support the program of which nearly $5 million is earmarked for Massachusetts. Another popular and beneficial food program recently enacted by Congress to further beef up the nation's health has been the "Operation Headstart" program.

ALL-AMERICANS of the country-wide secondary school competitions are these eight WHS seniors (and Marilyn Zimmer, missing from the photograph) who made the semi-finalist mark in the National Merit competitions taken last spring. Winning in the Merit tests, tough, academically across-the-board annual spring challenge which is backed by the Ford and Carnegie Foundations plus many more business gifts, has come to be the symbol of quintessence of secondary scholarship. Right below the semi-finalists are the 18 students named last week as commended, some of whom would have been semi-finalists in states where the cut-off score is not as high as in Massachusetts. Left to right are Rebecca Leaf, Deborah Ericson, Maureen McKenna, and Rhoda Heaton. Standing are Craig Heindel, John Joslin, Andrew Kincaid and Douglas McVicar.

To Head Bargaining For Firefighters

OFFICERS INSTALLED last week for the Winchester chapter of the International Association of Firefighters were (left to right) Ben Welch, vice president; Robert Powers, president; and William O'Leary, secretary-treasurer. Local Chapter 1591 held ceremonies at the Sons of Italy Hall and included a buffet and dancing on the gala program. Robert Swymer was an adept master of ceremonies, and the head table included many officials from New England and Boston fire associations as well as from the town. The Reverend Jeremiah Cullinane, state chaplain of the Firefighters' Association, was main speaker. A highlight was the presentation of an oil painting of a horse-drawn steamer, done by Alta Merritt, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Merritt, new clerk at headquarters.

Medieval Gayety Is Coming Next Week In "Abbey Fair"

Next week Hadley Hall at the Church of the Epiphany will be gay with colorful banners, beautiful posters from England, a replica of a castle complete with towers; all to carry out the theme of honoring Westminster Abbey on its 900th anniversary.

The dates of the Fair are October 26, opening with a roast beef dinner served from 6 to 7:30 during which the young people from the High School who are known as "Les Troubadors" will entertain. This is an appropriate choice, as they sing in French; in October of 1066 William the Conquerer invaded the British Isles from Normandy.

At the Abbey Fair one will find all the things one expects: knitted articles, decorations for the Christmas season, an elegant choice of goodies at the Yum-Yum Shoppe, candles and gift soaps, jewelry, and many treasures on the White Elephant table.

The luncheon menu offers a choice of lobster salad or chicken salad rolls with chips and a very nice dessert, this to be served from 12 to 1:30, and it is not necessary to make a reservation.

In the afternoon an authentic English Tea is an event to anticipate and enjoy. All the chairmen who have been working since last fall to bring the Abbey Fair to a reality will be gowned in splendid costumes of the Medieval period, adding to the beauty of the occasion, made available through the generosity of Mrs. Percival Metcalf. All are invited to come and join in the festivities next Wednesday and Thursday.

John Williams To Head January March of Dimes

An announcement has just been made by the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes that John Williams of 18 Mystic Avenue has accepted the position of Town Chairman for the town of Winchester for the 1967 March of Dimes campaign.

"The people of Winchester are indeed fortunate to have such a capable leader as Mr. Williams directing the 1967 March of Dimes campaign," said Chairman John Harvey.

"It seems strange to think in cold numbers such as 8,000 children will be born in this state this year with birth defects, and yet, some cold figures have a warmth to them such as the fact that 80% of all children born with birth defects can be treated. The aim of Mr. Williams and the tens of thousands of other March of Dimes volunteers in Winchester and throughout the Massachusetts Bay Chapter is to raise funds so that the cold figure of 8,000 can be reduced and the warm figure of 80% increased. This battle will not be won in a year or maybe not in a decade, but Mr. Williams and the people of Winchester through their generosity are helping us come closer and closer to our final goal—the annihilation of birth defects." Mr. Harvey said.

Open House For Malden Nursing

The Malden Hospital School of Nursing announces its open house schedule for the year.

Each of the four open house socials will be held on a Thursday afternoon from 3-5 p.m. on the following dates: October 20, November 17, January 19, and February 16.

Junior high and high school students, guidance counselors, parents, friends and anyone wishing to learn more about nursing as a career are invited to attend.

EMARC Meeting To Show Art Film

EMARC (East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children) will hold their monthly meeting Wednesday, October 26th at the Goodyear School on Orange Street, East Woburn at 8 p.m.

A very interesting film entitled "The Shape of a Leaf" will be shown depicting the techniques of teaching art to the retarded. It was filmed at the Perkins School in Lancaster and Mrs. David Perkins, instructor of arts and crafts at the school has traveled abroad to Prague to show the film. She will be present at the meeting to speak about the film and her trip abroad.

There will be a coffee hour following the meeting.

Members of EMARC and the general public are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Tufts Overseas Programs Talk

Tufts University's overseas educational programs will be described in an illustrated lecture at the Men's Club of the Winchester First Congregational Church on Wednesday, October 26.

The lecture will be given by Dean Richard A. Kelley of the Tufts College of Special Studies, who is director of the Tufts overseas programs.

Recently returned from a tour of the Tufts' campus in Naples and of universities in Tubinger, Germany, and Paris, where other Tufts programs are centered, Dean Kelley will tell how American students live and study in a European environment and describe the benefits of such programs.

The lecture will be held at Chidley Hall of the Church at 6:30 p.m.

Dever Elected Head County Comm. Asn.

Middlesex County Commissioner John F. Dever, Jr., of Woburn, was recently elected president of the Massachusetts Sheriffs and County Commissioners at a Plymouth restaurant. Mr. Dever, the youngest man ever elected was unopposed for the office. He succeeded Sheriff Joseph Smith of Worcester County.

In his remarks, the new president stated that "the critics of County government in Massachusetts are as a rule poorly informed and give little or no thought to alternative solutions," Mr. Dever further stated, "He visualized a strengthhened County structure as the salvation and obvious answer to many of the problems facing the already overburdened local communities."

Full Tuition Scholarships At Mt. St. Vincent

The College of Mount St. Vincent, through its alumnae chapters is offering four full tuition scholarships to graduates of accredited high schools on the basis of their high school record, results of the December 1966 Scholastic Aptitude Test, the English test and one other Achievement test given by the College Entrance Examination Board and the Parents' Confidential Statement.

Application blanks may be secured from Mrs. August Niewenhous of 4 Cutting Road a member of the scholarship committee.

The College of Mount St. Vincent is a College of liberal arts and sciences for women, situated on a 96 acre campus which borders the Hudson River just north of the George Washington Bridge, within the limits of New York City.

Art Association Invites Members And Announces First Program

A demonstration of a relatively unfamiliar art form, serigraphics (silk screening), has been planned for the opening meeting of the Winchester Art Association's 1966-67 season. Philip Hicken, chairman of the Department of Design at the School of Practical Art, Boston, will lecture as he demonstrates the silk screening techniques in the Rich Room of the public library, at 7:30 p.m., on Wednesday evening, November 2.

The Art Association urges all interested persons to attend and reminds that its membership is open to anyone interested in this field. It is an organization which not only assists in keeping the high cultural standards of the community through its various activities but also makes substantial money contributions to the Scholarship Foundation. The association wishes to make clear that a working knowledge of painting and drawing is not a prerequisite for joining. Many people are simply interested in art for arts sake alone, and these are warmly urged to become members.

Persons wishing to join, need only to contact Mrs. Byron Stites, 729-6255. A coffee hour will precede Mr. Hickens silk screening demonstration.

A special note of interest are the painting exhibitions of two members of the Art Association. The works of Mrs. Elizabeth O'Malley; a collection of semi-abstract paintings and drawings, are being shown at Cohen Art Center, Tufts University and will run through October 23. The paintings of Mrs. Elizabeth Lobingier are being shown in the second-floor foyer of the Browne and Nichols School and runs through October 28. Mrs. Lobingier's paintings interpret scenes in Rockport, Gloucester, and other areas of Cape Ann.

BOOK REVIEW

by Katrine Laban
Winchester Public Library

NEVER CALL IT LOVING

by Dorothy Eden

THE PARNELL TRAGEDY

by Jules Abels

Perhaps there shouldn't be, but there certainly is a vast difference between history proper and historical fiction. A case in point is Dorothy Eden's Never Call It Loving and The Parnell Tragedy by Jules Abels. Of course, the Eden book deals primarily with Charles Stewart Parnell's love affair with Katharine O'Shea, while The Parnell Tragedy treats his political life, but the difference in handling the romance, so involved with the politics, is marked.

Dorothy Eden makes Kitty O'Shea out to be a beautiful and fascinating woman, a mistreated and a devoted mistress. Jules Abels takes a rather dim view of her, describing a bubbling personality as her main asset (indeed, her photograph in his book shows a plain if not downright homely woman) and has a fairly favorable opinion of her husband (his picture shows a really handsome man). Miss Eden brings in politics, of course, but she is much more interested in Parnell, the passionate lover, willing to run the risk of personal and political ruin to be with his beloved. Abels finds the love affair "a fatal flaw" and can't understand it at all.

Of course, Parnell himself is an enigma. An advocate of Home Rule for Ireland, he was a protestant, aristocratic landholder who became the idolized leader of over 5,000,000 peasants in a feudal society. He evidently had a most compelling method of address, on the order of Adolf Hitler's, which appealed to the multitude and naturally he was advocating a cause dear to their hearts. He held together antagonistic factions which clashed without him. The Home Rule movement died when he did at the age of 44. Frankly, Irish politics in large doses bore me, but Mr. Abels makes them as interesting as possible.

Now Miss Eden has a lovely time gilding what was a very nasty scandal. Kitty O'Shea was over thirty, mother of three children and already estranged from her husband, although still living with him, when she met Parnell. Dorothy Eden makes Captain Willie O'Shea out to be a bounder — an ambitious, unscrupulous entrepreneur. His wife was fascinated by Parnell's reputed unavailability and attracted him sufficiently to snare his presence at a dinner party.

From then on both were lost. They had secret meetings and Katharine worked politically for Parnell — this with her husband's approval as he was an Irish member of Parliament himself and usually away from home. She built a special study for Charles in her house and cossetted him here as well as becoming his mistress. She had not one but three children by him before her notorious divorce trial, after which they were married, to the downfall of Charles' career. All this is recounted as deathless romance on the highest plane — a world well lost for love.

Depending on where your interests lie, you can get quite a picture of Irish politics from either book — with the spice of a novel in one, the sober facts in another. Clark Gable would have been highly gratified with all the attention.

letters to the editor

A Note Of Appreciation

Editor of the Star:

I feel compelled to write this open letter on behalf of my mother and the family in appreciation of the efforts of operator No. 21 of the New England Telephone Co. and the Winchester Police Officers who responded to my mother's frantic emergency phone calls last Thursday evening.

That their efforts proved to have been in vain, should in no way detract from the fact that under different circumstances their efficiency and prompt actions could have saved our father's life.

We recognize that in many instances residents have a tendency to write letters to the Star registering complaints or criticism of the performance of town agencies or cost of town operations.

My mother and our family wish to express our heart felt thanks and appreciation to Miss Gertrude Everone, the operator who monitored the phone calls and the six police officers who arrived so promptly at my mother's home and handled their job with compassion and competency.

For our family this sad occasion brought clearly into focus the fact that we do have within reach of a telephone well trained and well equipped public servants who are ready and able to give us immediate assistance.

Teen Dance Said Better Than News Story Appeared

Editor of the Star:

We would like to add our appreciation for the manner in which the Winchester Police handled a large group of teenagers at the St. Eulalia-First Congregational Church Ecumenical Dance held on Saturday, October 8, at St. Eulalia's Church on Ridge Street. The purpose of this dance was to raise funds to defray some of the expenses associated with a planned ecumenical weekend which the youth groups from both churches will attend in November.

In addition to the supervision of the aforementioned Winchester Police, there were more than 20 adult chaperones on duty all evening. It is true there were isolated cases (6) of rule infractions, resulting in the eviction of the offenders. The remaining 600-700 teenagers complied with all rules and regulations at the dance and left promptly at the conclusion of the festivities. It is unfortunate that all of those desiring to attend could not be accomodated due to the capacity limitations of the hall. This resulted in some attempts to enter the dance illegally, as well as some minor property damage.

The apparent difficulties as described in the October 13 Winchester Star occurred after the dance and away from the church. Unfortunately, it is impossible for chaperones to accompany each young person to his home; perhaps closer parental supervision would solve all the problems!

In the quest to print sensational news, it is too bad that all the facts could not be presented so that those who deserve credit receive credit and those who should be reprimanded are reprimanded, rather than to paint the whole teenage group as troublemakers—for in truth, most of them are good kids!

Our thanks to the police officers, chaperones and clergymen for their participation—and to all the teenagers who conducted themselves properly, we wish to express our confidence in the youth of the community.

Sincerely,
Joseph D. and Marjorie C. Hall
Superintendents of The Senior Forum, First Congregational Church

Observations

Editor of the Star:

After reading the letters to the editor about Winter Pond it brings back memories of times I spent fishing and swimming there as a boy some sixty odd years ago and the amount of water there then, although it varied from time to time.

When it was high it covered Woodside Road but it seldom got so low that it didn't connect with Little Winter under the bridge and the dirt road.

I remember some blasting was done on the easterly side of Woodside Road as the hill slopes toward the pond as you come in from Pond Street, it opened up a seam in the rock that flowed water into Winter Pond for quite a while.

The ground water level has been going down fast in the past fifty years and it is a rare spot where you can get water with a shallow well pump.

Horn Pond Brook used to have water in it the year 'round but for many years it dried up as soon as the spring thaw and rains were over.

Horn Pond Brook ran through Hemingway's cow pasture in the Sylvester Avenue area and furnished water for the cows the year 'round.

Winter Pond sure is a sorry sight, but if nature doesn't supply the water for it then it should be left without water if water is pumped into it from wells it would be like robbing Peter to pay Paul and a waste of water resources.

I couldn't pass up a chance to mention a few words about dogs, but it has been pretty well covered from both sides.

All I can say is, if the dogs knew what goes through my mind when I see what they do in my yard and clean up after them they would stay away from my place.

Sincerely yours,
Walter F. Gurney

The Litterbug Is With Us Outdoors

Editor of the Star:

Winchester's a lovely town; we try to keep it so,
But there's a plague upon us that makes our progress slow,
For the devastating litterbug is with us every day
And messing up our town in his inimitable way.
The lovely world of Nature gives him no special thrill,
To him it's just a catch-all (and how it fills the bill!)
And when this heedless fellow has done his daily chore
"America the Beautiful" remains that way no more.
He'll park his car at picnics, and drive off in a hurry
(The mess he leaves behind him is someone else's worry);
Or, sentimentally inclined, he'll privately confer,
And pools of cigarette stubs mark the hours he spends with Her.
The beer-can and the bottle, our two most deadly foes,
The ubiquitous ice-cream cup,
dripping sweetness as it goes,
The blushing facial tissue (yes, ladies do it, too!)
And assorted wraps and wrappings, help contaminate the view.
And still the thoughtless litterbug
pursues his dismal way;
His mother picked up after him
(would she were here today!)
He shares with us—we hope and trust—our love for Uncle
Sam,
But for beautiful America he doesn't give a damn!

Be Kind Today

*I must work the works of Him who sent me, while it is day;
the night cometh when no man can work—John 9:4.*

The urgent admonition of Henry Drummond, the noted English author and evangelist, to practice benevolence should inspire a prompt and ready response in every true Christian. Thus he wrote:—

> "I expect to pass through this world but once; any good thing, therefore that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow-creature; let me do it now; let me not defer or neglect it; for I shall not pass this way again."

The message carries a note of immediacy. Now is the time to begin the blessed work — today, perhaps at this very hour. Let us re-emphasize the insistent time element by quoting from a little poem by L. C. Frame:

"Be kind today. Who knows where we will be—
One minute here, the next eternity.
Hours like the roses quickly pass away,
Don't wait for the setting sun—Be kind today."

And let not our benevolence be restricted to mankind. Let there be no arbitrary bounds to its extent. Let its blessed embrace draw within it all sentient creatures, all our earthly neighbors. For the truly enlightened and sincerely practicing Christian this course is inevitable. He recognizes the common origin and unity of all life and discerns as an inescapable corollary the spiritual kinship that exists between all the inhabitants of our planet.

Therefore in spirit and in truth let us harken to the insistent call for compassion and succor implicit in the plight of any of God's cruelly exploited and suffering animals and never more than in the laboratories of merciless experimenters. Then,—though it is our destiny to be cast to play a humble and lowly role in the drama of life and to live out our days in comparative obscurity —

When is writ the judgment scroll,
And time its final verdict brings,
May this be said of us: Our Souls
Were rich in love for helpless things.

The exhibition couples were all former 1st place Waltz Evening winners dating back 15 years. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson were the lucky winners in the drawing from among the Exhibition Waltzers for the cake plate donated by Myron Berlow Home Accessories.

The Waltz Contest followed the Exhibition Waltz and was judged by Russell Curry, Paul Lamaureaux and Joel Price of the Curry School staff. Judging was based on time, style, variations, and floor decorum.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sackett were singled out by the judges for the first place award on Friday evening and Mr. Fred Rozelle and Mrs. Charles Murray received this honor on Saturday evening. Each couple was presented with an appropriately engraved silver bowl and candy dish donated by Mouradian Rug Galleries. Mrs. Sackett and Mrs. Murray also received a bouquet of roses given again this year by Forester's Flower Shop. While Mr. Sackett and Mr. Rozelle were presented with Parker 75 sterling silver fountain pens from the Winchester National Bank.

Second place honors on Friday went to Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Harrington and on Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Brown. The ladies each received a $10 gift certificate from Handcraft House in addition to a box of stationery from Couture of Somerville. Dr. Harrington and Mr. Brown received $10 gift certificates from Chitel's.

The third place winners on Friday were Mr. and Mrs. George Saulnier, who received a basket of fruit from Renton's Market and a box of golf balls donated by the Winchester Sport Shop. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kell were the third place winners on Saturday night and were presented with a basket of fruit from Renton's Market and a bottle of Cognac from McCormack's Apothecary. Mr. Curry and his associates had a difficult task selecting the winning couples on Saturday night from among so many accomplished waltzers, and recognition certainly goes to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Roche, the fourth runners-up.

The Town Hall was beautifully decorated for the Waltz Evening. The walls were starred with flowers, full of the fresh appearance of Spring, in a kaleidoscopic array of colors created by those studio gardeners on the decorating committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. George Hebb, Jr., and Mrs. Byron Stites. And against this beautiful background danced the loveliest flowers of all—the ladies in their gowns.

Don Russell and his orchestra gave out floating rhythms, a good number of which some may still be humming.

The entire proceeds from the dance will be used by the Friends of the Winchester Hospital for the special needs of the Hospital.

The Friends of the Winchester Hospital expressed their appreciation to the merchants who donated prizes for contest winners. They also expressed their thanks to: Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm, which gave all the corsage flowers that were sold at the dance; Atlas and Cradock Apothecary which donated cigarettes that were sold at the dance; W. Allan Wilde and Son, Insurance Agency for the program cards and printing, Anderson Jewelers for the engravings, Robert Costello for the table covers and Robert Allen for the electrical work.

The Friends also expressed their thanks to the patrons and patronesses and to those who attended the dance.

And finally, the Friends of the Winchester Hospital are grateful to the following people who did a grand job on the committees:

Parkhurst And V-O Parents Meet On High School

A special joint meeting of the Vinson-Owen and Parkhurst Parent's Association will be held in the Vinson-Owen Auditorium tonight at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Parent's Associations and the Winchester League of Women Voters, the meeting is intended to provide basic information concerning the high school space problem to the citizens of Winchester in preparation for the special town meeting currently scheduled for November.

William Clarke, assistant superintendent of schools and Joseph Vitka, chairman of the secondary School Building Committee will be present to speak and answer questions. Representatives of the Planning Board and Finance Committee and the Selectmen have also been invited.

This is the first of three information meetings to be held prior to the Special Town Meeting.

Retirement

Since becoming Postmaster, Mr. Gilgun broadened his horizons with his activity within the membership of the State Association of Postmasters, in which he serves as a Vice President and a member of the State Executive Board. He has also been very active on the National Association of Postmasters, where he served as an official on committees where the business of running Post Offices was the topic of discussion and debate on a national level.

Mr. Gilgun has attended every session of the National Association of Postmasters annual convention, which has been held in a different state for the past twenty years. He has just returned from the last National Postmasters convention which was held in Louisville, Kentucky.

Taking Over Command Of Post 97

Sachem Football Team and School Spirit Lauded

Editor of the Star:

Having recently come from a town in New Jersey known for winning football teams, I was pleased to witness recently what portends to be a change in fortune for Winchester High School's football team.

The town I formerly resided in is Montclair, N. J., where the high school football team is always a perennial favorite for the state championship. We always backed the team with good school spirit, but it was a complacent spirit, tendered by many years of winning seasons.

What I witnessed in the game over Cambridge Latin was a heads-up game of football executed by Winchester High. The team had a winning spirit which seemed to spring from an origin deeper than the camaraderie of the team. The origin was discovered by this writer after the game during the victory parade, although hints of the elusive spirit was first detected during the half-time band display.

In both the half-time show and the victory march evidence was noticed of well-drilled band members, proficient in both marching and musical ability. Cheerleaders showed proficiency, while the tumble-ettes reminded one of the famed Springfield College gymnastics road show.

Surely, a lot of time and effort produced the results described above. I salute the directors of the band, cheerleaders and tumble-ettes and the members of each organization who provided that intangible lift to a sports team that fuses each member into a cohesive unit.

I salute the jubilant student body who substantially swelled the ranks of the band during the victory march. How can a team afford to lose an athletic contest when it receives such enthusiastic support from its backers?

The team was definitely hungry for a win. Very few opportunities to gain possession of the ball were missed. Blocking on punt returns and kickoffs was good. Good tackling showed evidence of sound coaching in the fundamentals of football. The passing game started hesitantly, but the sure fingered grabs made by Jeff Schlener confirmed some observations made by this writer during his own marathon training workouts on the Manchester Field track last August. At that time I noticed a fair haired young man who demonstrated an affinity for catching the long ball.

I am glad Jeff's ability as a pass receiver had such a successful 1966 debut.

Sincerely,
Richard Clapp

still allowing a rushed mailing of ballots to and from individuals before the Election Day receipt deadline, voters who will not be able to reach the polls on November 8 should not procrastinate because the ballot must be notarized by a Notary Public before the vote is cast.

Serving as Notary Public for the Democrats in Winchester at no charge is Mrs. Patrick Jennings of 49 Florence Street (729-1809), and for the Republicans William A. Wilde, Jr., at his 1 Thompson Street office (729-1400).

GOP

Mrs. William Cusack is coordinator for Irene Thresher, candidate for county commissioner. A personal friend of long standing of Mrs. Threshers, Mrs. Cusack has been an active Republican in Winchester for many years.

George Littell has been appointed local coordinator for Elliot Richardson, candidate for attorney general. Mr. Littell is vice president of the Winchester Young Republican Club.

Joseph Albiani, a pre-primary candidate for county office, has turned his time and energy into local coordinator for John Buckley, the Republican candidate for state auditor.

Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth has been working for some time in the Boston Headquarters for Francis Sargent, candidate for Lt. Governor. Mrs. Wadsworth is the local coordinator for Sargent.

The office of Edward W. Brooke, candidate for U.S. Senator, appointed David S. Wardwell as Middlesex County coodinator and Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Gerould as Winchester Brooke coordinators.

Campaign material for all candidates is available at the Republican Headquarters on 15 Waterfield Road. Anyone able to give a few hours to help staff the headquarters is urged to call Mrs. Albert Thompson at 729-5078, Mrs. William Barone at 729-1544, or the Republican headquarters at 729-3326.

Selectmen

some out-of-town groups coming in (as some license applications are now beginning to show).

She further explained that if dances were run by the Recreation Committee, and at the current entry-rate of $.99 a person, the "profits" could theoretically be put into some sort of revolving municipal recreation account—which could then be used to fund other local recreation events, to purchase recreation equipment, supplies, or to rent outside facilities or hire instructors and assistants for new recreation programs.

The Selectmen this week in discussing an evolving policy toward licensing uses of the Town Hall, voiced general concurrence with the Recreation Committee's thinking on the wider Community benefits to be gained by having Recreation Committee sponsored or operated youth dances in the municipal building.

Douglass Party

Mrs. Arthur Pratt of 1 Salisbury Street will entertain Winchester members of the Douglass Alumnae Club at a coffee at her home on Thursday, October 27 at 1:30 p.m. Serving as co-hostesses are Mrs. George W. Carter III, Mrs. Carlton J. Dane, and Mrs. Harry L. Emmons.

This year marks the Bicentenniel of Rutgers University. The Douglass College Alumnae and Rutgers University Alumni Clubs will celebrate the occasion with a dinner-dance at the Magnus Club, Wellesley on Thursday evening, November 10.

"GOD
...not chance"

The more deeply you understand the power and love of God, the less you believe in chance. There's a law of Spirit much greater than the law of averages, and those who discover it, and live by it, will help to light the world's way out of chaos. Senior Forum

The chapel speaker for the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church on Sunday, October 23, will be Dr. John R. Edwards, Jr. Dr. Edwards is the Regional representative for the U. S. Department of Higher Education in New England. He is a resident of Winchester at the present time. He was associated with Westminster College as dean of men and also director of Admissions and Placement. He has served as dean of students at Slippery Rock College. He promises to be an interesting speaker due to his valuable experience in speaking to college young people. Dr. Edwards has chosen for his topic "Going, But Going Where?"

William Brunkhorst will be chaplain and Shari Nichols will be the assistant chaplain. Serving as deacons will be Nancy Bennink and Sally Weedon and ushers, Susan Beckley and Jane Curtis.

New Theatre Group to Start

The Winchester College Club invites Winchester residents to join its new Theatre Study Group.

Those interested will go to a play a month (matinee performance) with meetings to discuss the previous and upcoming presentations.

An organizational meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lee McGuire, 25 Squire Road, on Thursday, October 27 at 9:45 a.m. Please call Mrs. McGuire at 729-7924 if you have any questions concerning this group.

A Peek At A Problem In Our Times

A film maker who had been sent to do a pleasant documentary about a typical church was aghast at the story that unfolded.

When the Lutheran Film Associates saw the reels of what happened, they took a courageous step. They decided it was of the utmost importance for as many people as possible to see what happened, and why it happened, step by step.

They released the film "A Time for Burning" to National Educations Television. Channel 2 aired it on the N.E.T. Journal, Monday, October 17 (repeated Sunday, October 23 at 4 p.m.)

Visits In Naples

John DeWitt Colony, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Colony of 6 Mystic Valley Parkway, was guest at NATO's Allied Forces Southern Europe headquarters in Naples on September 27.

John visited the North Atlantic Treaty Organization during a visit to Southern Italy with 54 school mates enrolled with him in the American School in Switzerland at Lugano. He is spending a year in Europe, studying its history and people and part of the school year includes travel in Italy, East and West Germany, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Russia, Hungary and Poland.

During their visit in Naples the students were told of the role played by AFSOUTH in NATO's defense of the Mediterranean region. AFSOUTH's command area includes Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Ralph L. Gustin New Senior VP At John Hancock

Ralph L. Gustin, vice president and general counsel for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., was just elected as senior vice president and general counsel.

Mr. Gustin is a former Winchester resident and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Gustin, Sr. of 113 Church Street.

A cum laude graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, he has been associated with the John Hancock since 1953 and before that practiced law in San Francisco.

Mr. Gustin was elected a second vice president and counsel for John Hancock in 1957, vice president and general solicitor in 1962 and vice president and general counsel in January 1965.

A World War II veteran, he served with the air corps in the South and Southwest Pacific Theaters and was discharged as a major.

He is active in civic and community affairs, secretary and director of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund and a member of the Corporation of United Community Services and of the town meeting of Wellesley. He is also a member of the Wellesley Country Club and the Harvard Club of Boston.

JOSEPH SAYLOR of 33 Oxford Street, manager of systems engineering at the Sylvania Minuteman Program, Sylvania Electronic Systems, has just been cited in a special Defense Department initiated cost reduction effort. Mr. Saylor, who lives here with his wife and two children, was among a group of Sylvania associates whose efforts substantially reduced costs of the Air Force Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missle through improvements in design and fabrication.

Ungraded System Defined at Noonan

On the morning of October 11, an enthusiastic group of new mothers of Noonan School and Noonan Annex were guests for coffee in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Joseph McDonough, president of the Parents Association, expressed her pleasure in welcoming the mothers and introduced Mrs. Alvin Wallace, president of the Community School Association who pointed out that a strong community school association is made up of the enthusiasm generated by the individual school organizations.

Miss Paula Caffrey, principal, presented a very enlightening talk dealing with the educational structure of Noonan Annex and the ungraded primary system which was instituted at Noonan last year. She defined ungrading as an organizational plan by which children are allowed to progress at their own rate. Projectiles were used to illustrate the 17 levels of reading into which the primary curriculum is divided. It was brought out that the child's progress in both reading and arithmetic would be indicated on their periodic report cards.

Miss Gladys Wood, head staff member at the annex was then introduced by Miss Caffrey to answer questions pertinent to her position. A delightful social hour followed with Mrs. Angelo Morandi and Mrs. Edmund Bingel pouring.

"Harvest Of Fashions" Show

Winchester members are among the Ladies of Austin presenting a "Harvest of Fashions" show at Austin Preparatory School in Reading, on Friday, October 28, at 8 o'clock.

Mildred Albert, dean of the Academie Moderne, will do the commentary on new and exciting fashions which will bw shown by professional models. A social hour starts at 7.

Chairmen from Winchester are Mrs. Joseph Collins, Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, Mrs. Francis Sylvester and Mrs. Charles Newton.

NEW CARS ARE ON EVERYONE'S MIND at this time of the year, and Pass & Weiss, Inc., located at 287 Salem Street in Woburn, sells both new and used Volkswagens and Porsches — both excellently styled and mechanically designed German automobiles for the practical family. The familiar VW "bug" comes in several versions, the standard car with its continued style-line that never becomes outmoded or obsolescent as other cars that change their styles yearly, or the economical bus version for family or business needs, or the sporty Kharmin-Ghia for the young-at-heart. The Porsche, well known for its magnificent road handling, comes in passenger comfort or performance-type models that always draw admiring looks from auto aficionados. For either car, visit Pass & Weisz, Inc., for information, prices, and service. Pass & Weisz, Inc., has a complete inventory of all VW parts, and Porsche parts, and maintains an expert service department of German licensed mechanics who know these two makes of cars inside out. See why VW and Porsche owners entrust their cars to Pass & Weisz, Inc. — VW and Porsche experts!

"Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: Let thy loving kindness and thy truth continually preserve me."

These words from Psalms are part of the responsive reading in this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon titled "Probation After Death." The Lesson-Sermon is read each Sunday in Christian science churches throughout the world.

The sermon also includes these words from Hosea: "I will ransom them from the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death."

Among related passages to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is this: "The nature of Christianity is peaceful and blessed, but in order to enter into the kingdom, the anchor of hope must be cast beyond the veil of matter into the Shekinah into which Jesus has passed before us; and this advance beyond matter must come through the joys and triumphs of the righteous as well as through their sorrows and afflictions. Like our Master, we must depart from material sense into the spiritual sense of being."

Richardson Picks Hallisey, Littell As Coordinators

Lieutenant Governor Elliot L. Richardson, now a candidate for attorney general, announced today that Robert J. Hallisey of Rangeley Road and George Littell Jr. of Grove Street are serving as his campaign Coordinators for Winchester.

Mr. Richardson is a former United States Attorney for Massachusetts under President Eisenhower and was appointed special assistant to the U.S. Attorney General by President Kennedy.

As lieutenant governor, he has used his background as assistant secretary of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare and his experience as chairman of the Greater Boston United Fund to coordinate all Massachusetts health, education and welfare programs.

In accepting appointment as coordinators of Richardson's campaign for attorney general, Mr. Hallisey and Mr. Littell noted that "Mr. Richardson is a first-rate lawyer who has worked tirelessly to help the people throughout his outstanding career in government. We know of no man in public life more uniquely qualified to serve the people of Massachusetts in this important and demanding office."

Library Addition And Services Is Topic at Noonan

Noonan parents and teachers will get acquainted with the services offered by their local library when the Parents Association holds its fall meeting on Wednesday evening October 26 in the school auditorium.

Due to the new addition and general renovation of the older sections, the library will be prepared to serve the schools and the community much more effectively and Robert Wagenknecht head librarian and Mrs. Dorothy Comfort, children's librarian will present an informative program dealing with the relationship between school and library, particularly regarding to reference material.

With the use of slides, parents will become oriented with the building design together with any new procedures on both the adult and junior level resultant from the alterations. A variety of books, typifying the vast selection contained at the library will be on display during the evening.

The annual business meeting will precede the speaking program at 7:45 when Mrs. Joseph McDonough, president, will ask for annual reports and call upon Miss Paula Caffrey, principal, to introduce this year's staff of teachers at Noonan and the Annex. A presentation of corsages will be made.

U. S. Savings Stamps outstanding exceed more than $56 million. Savings Stamp programs are conducted in many schools throughout the nation.

Smileys Win In National Contest

Ed Williams, proprietor of the Colonial Perfumers at 531 Main Street reports with pleasure on the recent gift trip to England taken by customers Mrs. George C. and and Miss Candace Smiley of 232 Highland Avenue.

Candace was one of two persons in the whole United States who won a draw contest sponsored by Yardleys of London and with it a trip to England for two. As head of the shop where she made the draw, Mr. Williams was also named a winner.

While in England Mrs. and Miss Smiley were feted with a round of theatre going and sight seeing. And, just to emphasize their win, were given a complete make-over at the Yardley salon, home headquarters of the oldest cosmetic line in the business.

The history of Yardley's is unique, and some of its packaging this year is good enough to eat; but Mr. Williams reminds that Colonial also carries full French lines of perfumes and colognes as well as scents from Germany and Spain, cards and stationery. No pizzas, though, some Star ads to the contrary.

Do You Care?

CARE has just announced that it plans to feed 40 million people in 35 countries during 1966-67 and that some six and one half million food packages will be delivered in the coming months with emphasis on emergency feeding programs in South Vietnam and India.

The emergency needs of these two nations are great, its New England director said, and nearly one-sixth of our program will be directed to them. Others will touch countries in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America with a wide variety of food packages designed to meet the basic human needs of the recipients.

A CHANCE TO HELP

Many elderly and infirm persons, as well as those with small children and limited incomes, need help at Thanksgiving and Cristmas if these holidays are to be happy occasions in accordance with the American tradition.

To help our less fortunate Winchester friends during the holiday season, gifts of money, food and clothing are earnestly solicited.

Gifts may be sent to the Winchester Community Relief Committee.

Prof. R. Robbins At Fortnightly

Mrs. Ralph Meigs, president of The Fortnightly, announces Monday, October 24th, as International Relations Day with Professor Robert Robbins from the Political Department of Tufts University as speaker.

His subject is "United Nations and Dependent Territories," and the Fortnightly invites the general public to attend.

Refreshments will be served at one o'clock in Gifford Hall, Crawford Memorial Methodist Church by the social hostesses Mrs. Harold Bergquist, Mrs. Ernest Perry and the assisting committee.

Mrs. William Cusack, chairman of the International Relations Committee, will introduce the speaker. Professor Robbins is identified as an officer of the United States Department of State as specialist dealing with dependent areas. He served on several United States delegations to the United Nations General Assembly, and Trusteeship Council and United States representative on a number of committees of those United Nations organs.

As deputy director, Office of Dependent Area Affairs in 1953-56 he concurrently held Presidential commissions as alternate United States representative on the Trusteeship Council and United States Commissioner on the Caribbean and South Pacific Commissions. Professor Robbins was a United States member of the Trusteeship Council's visiting mission to British and French Togoland in 1955 which had the special mission of formulating recommendations for terminating the trusteeship and holding the 1936 plebiscite in British Togoland preceding political union with Ghana.

The Fortnightly members of the International Relations Committee assisting Mrs. Cusack in the arrangements for the day are Mrs. Frederic Abbe, Mrs. Harold Given, Mrs. Gerald Mosher, Mrs. William Priest and Mrs. Charles Potts, Jr.

Knights to Hold Halloween Dance

On Saturday, October 29, at 8:00 p.m., Winchester Council Knights of Columbus will hold their annual Masquerade Halloween Dance. Ken Thorp will provide the music for this very popular evening. Costumes are desired but not necessary. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. The 210 Club will also make their monthly awards during the evening.

All of you people who had such an enjoyable time at our recent "Gay Ninties" party are welcome to come down to another evening of dancing and pleasure. There will be a small admission charge payable at the door. A collation will be served.

Norman Holmes Lectures Tonight

"God—Not Chance" is the subject to be explored at 8 o'clock this evening in a free lecture at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 114 Church Street, by Norman B. Holmes, C.S.B.

Mr. Holmes is a Christian Science practitioner and teacher who now makes his home in Chicago. He is currently on tour throughout the country as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He and his family lived in Winchester from 1961 to 1965 and their many friends here will be glad to know that his wife, Dotty, is accompanying him on tour and will be present this evening. Don S. Greer, this evening's lecture chairman, reminds all residents of Winchester and their friends that they are welcome to attend.

"The lecture," said Mr. Greer, "illustrates how Christianity can be practically applied, and includes authenticated instances of healings of several types. It can be helpful to anyone who feels the need for a sense of renewed purpose or fresh inspiration in his life."

Do you earn too much to afford one?

For many people the Volkswagen would be an ideal car. Except for one thing.

It doesn't cost enough.

They're afraid nobody will realize they have any money, if it doesn't show in their car. In other words, they buy their car for other people. Not themselves.

Then there are those who earn enough to buy a much better car than the VW. But they don't. Because they can't find one.

For them the best car is one that's simply comfortable and economical. One they don't have to worry about. That doesn't make many stops for gas. And rarely needs repairs.

A car where the rare repairs don't cost a lot. A car where the car doesn't cost a lot.

They feel they can afford to save money with a Volkswagen.

Now next time you see somebody driving a VW don't feel sorry for him.

Who knows? Someday the bank might use his money to give you a new car loan.

Children Get Together For UNICEF Effort

Something good is happening in Winchester. On Halloween, young people from nine different churches will cooperate in a town-wide march for "UNICEF." They will be among 3 and one half million boys and girls in 13,000 different communities who will be helping to finance programs to help other less fortunate children in more than 100 countries throughout the world.

Children of all ages and sizes and creeds will be out on Halloween inviting the townspeople to participate in this truly ecumenical effort and to make a practical contribution toward a healthier and happier life for all children.

Each penny that is placed in the little orange and black containers will buy 6 glasses of milk; 5 cents will buy enough penicillin to cure two little victims of yaws; 10 cents provides enough antibiotics to save the sight of a child suffering from trachoma.

When representatives of UNICEF accepted the Nobel Peace Prize in 1965, a member of the Norwegian Parliament said: "UNICEF has realized that children provide the key to the future; that the children of today are the history of tomorrow. UNICEF is now forging a new link of solidarity between the rich and the poor countries. In an age when so many people are terrified of the forces that science has placed in our hands, UNICEF offers young people in all countries an alternative which is worth living and working for—a world with freedom for all people, equality between races, brotherhood among all men."

Winchester's young people have accepted that alternative. In addition to the church groups that are participating, sixth graders in the schools are making posters to publicize "Trick or Treat for UNICEF."

The Senior High School F.M. radio station is broadcasting spot announcements; a group of young people is decorating a window offered by a merchant; and teenagers have volunteered to chaperone the smaller children. Winchester's young people join hands with children all over the world. Yes, something good is happening in Winchester!

Psychiatrist To Talk Of Twins

The Founding Chapter of the Mass. Mothers of Twins Association, Inc. will meet on Monday October 24, at 8 p.m. in the Junior Hall of the Robbins Library, Arlington Center.

The program for the evening will be: " A psychiatrist looks at twins and their dress, and a M.O.T. looks at her role in the family clothing department; fashion, purchasing, and maintenance."

Ruth E. Stauffer M.D. is a practising physician in Belmont and a charter member of the Founding Chapter. She was graduated from the University of Toronto Medical School, and took her post graduate training in neurology and psychiatry in the metropolitan area of Boston.

All mothers and grandmothers of twins and triplets in the area are invited to attend. Interested persons please call Mrs. Letty McGrath at WE 5-0786. Mrs. Joseph Flynn of 47 Winford Way, joined the club at the September meeting.

Volpe Names October United Fund Month

October has been proclaimed "United Fund Month" by Governor John A. Volpe.

Stating that "the compassion of the Commonwealth's citizens for their neighbors has been a signal facet of our heritage, dating back to colonial times," the proclamation pointed out that "the exigencies of these times require more sophisticated methods of solution for the problems of our society."

In urging all citizens to participate in "Fair Share" support of the UF, the Governor's proclamation stated that "the United Fund concept has been accepted by all segments of our society as constituting the most effective, efficient and inclusive voluntary method of meeting the health, welfare and youth-related needs of the Commonwealth."

WHS Science Faculty On Move

Francis W. Fiigan, head of the Winchester Schools science department, G. Hartley Curtis, biology instructor, Helen W. Crawley, chemistry instructor, along with Ruth Graham and George Flynn, elementary members of the science curriculum council, constituted the Winchester delegation at the conference of the National Science Teachers' Association held October 1 and 2 at Hartford, Connecticut.

Comprehensive, authoritative, and critically appraised by the participants, the meetings provided a broad over-view of many of the new programs in science today. Many discussions were on the philosophy of science education that emphasizes inquiry and is experience-centered.

Miss Crawley recently served on a panel for the National Science Foundation to evaluate proposals for the 1967 secondary science training program for high ability secondary school students.

In this program the foundation provides opportunities for about 6,000 exceptional students to participate in course study or research, and among Winchester students who have taken part is Charles Lucier, a member of the present senior class, who attended Thayer Academy in Braintree last summer.

One of the chief safety features of the U. S. Savings Bonds is that they may be redeemed only by their registered owners.

St. Mary's Mr. And Mrs. Club

The first Fall meeting of the St. Mary's Mr. and Mrs. Club was held on October 5 in the Parish Hall. President Alan Friot conducted the business meeting at which he introduced the committee chairmen and outlined the program for the coming year. Chairman Pat Cosgrove reported on plans for the next meeting which is to be a variety show, featuring talent from within the club. This will be presented for the members and their friends on November 9 in the Parish Hall.

The new members present were introduced and welcomed by President Friot.

The meeting was then turned over to the Catholic Action Chairman, Jim Dolan, who gave a most inspiring explanation of the Ecumenical Council's "Vatican Decree on the Laity."

Father O'Donnell commended Mr. Dolan on his excellent presentation and addressed the club briefly.

Mrs. Gerard Donahue and her committee served delicious desserts and coffee at the close of the meeting.

Rummage Sale At Estates Club

At the October meeting members of the Winchester Estates Garden Club made final plans for a Rummage Sale to be held on the 25th of the month at 14 Carriage Lane commencing at 9 a.m.

Many interesting items have already been received including a typewriter, a Waring blender and several articles of children's clothing. The sale will be held this year in the form of a Chinese auction. Baked goods will also be sold and coffee will be served.

Club members are also looking forward to their November 14 meeting on "Holiday Flower Arrangements" by Cummings the Florist. This meeting will be open to all and tickets are available from members or by contacting Mrs. Steven Butcher at 729-2566.

The Symmes Give Travelogue

On Tuesday, October 25, at 7:30 p.m. in Methodist Church Hall Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Symmes, local travelers who have been giving travelogues to various groups in the area for 15 years, will present their colorful slides on Australia and the Nearby Pacific Islands and an exhibit of articles and costumes native to the South Pacific Islands.

This meeting is under the sponsorship of Safety Chapter D.A.R., and will benefit the Hillside School for Boys. The public is welcome. For further information please call Mrs. Louis Kuhn, Jr. 729-3034 or Mrs. William Burrows 729-0204.

Area Center Opens For Mental Health

Professional staff members joined with lay board persons from its five associated towns to celebrate the acquisition of a fine new home for the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center Sunday afternoon at 186 Bedford Street, Lexington.

A large group of visitors from Winchester and its four associated Towns made the open house a huge success. Winchester contributors were on hand to see just how their gifts of money had been spent. And politicians came to see at first hand the tangible results of concerted lay effort in an inter-community mental health project which some are calling a pilot for the contemplated Massachusetts Community Mental Health Center legislation.

Senator Edward DeNormandie of Arlington and Senators James Long of Lexington and Woburn were present along with eight Representatives from the area, including Winchester's Harrison Chadwick.

The 20 room renovated home and its 59,000 feet of land now house the Mystic Valley Association, parent group for Arlington, Bedford, Lexington, Winchester and Woburn and its Children's Clinic. It is being referred to, however as a mental health center as future plans for an extension of consulting services when staff numbers permit.

In addition to seeing the consultation rooms where the child psychiatrist, psychologist and psychiatric social workers do their clinical work, visitors were equally interested in the pamphlet display with such titles as "You Don't Have To Be Perfect—Even If You Are A parent," publications from the Child Study Association and the National Association of Mental Health, available to the general public and designed to help with less serious problems in the mental health area.

THE RECORD IS IMPORTANT
Your State Senator Voted AGAINST

1. A comprehensive Mental Health program for the State.

This program to develop mental health districts to provide complete services near home for the mentally ill, retarded and emotionally disturbed was the result of a long, thorough study and was one of the major pieces of work before this year's legislature. It was killed at the last minute by maneuver in the Senate. Sen. Pellegrini voted with the maneuverers.

2. Local Control over Billboards:

Your Senator voted against S 307 that would have given Winchester power over the erection of billboards within the town.

3. Highway Safety:

In 1965 a no-fix ticket law was passed. But Sen. Pellegrini voted against it.

The legislature voted to use reflectorized plates but then voted to cut the money for them from the budget. Your Senator voted for this cut.

It is acknowledged by safety people that we need to increase the complement of the State Police. Gov. Volpe asked for this increase. Sen. Pellegrini voted it down.

4. Preservation of Parklands.

Your Senator voted in favor of H 2971 which would have permitted the Boston School Committee to take land from Franklin Park.

More and more voters in this district are becoming aware that our Senator's particular view of politics gives us neither satisfactory representation nor leadership in the State Senate. We need to change.

Ed Sterling

The game had its share of heroes, but Bobby Nutile has to get the nod as top man for his great offensive performance, certainly the best in years for a Winchester back. He scored 22 points, made about a hundred yards rushing, an additional 84 yards on three punt returns. Pete Knight broke through for 5, 9, 5, 12 and 9 yards. Dave Choate and Wayne Carpenter chipped in with some nice running plays.

Brian Collins did a heads-up job mixing up the plays, and his passing game was good, although he moved the team on the ground most of the time. He called on the draw quite a bit as Lexington tried to blitz him, and with excellent results. John Martin and Jeff Schlener also looked good, with Martin making some key catches.

Defensively Tom Varley was superb. Time after time he nailed the runner with a vicious tackle, and his recovery of a Lexington fumble set up the Sachems' first touchdown. Also great defensively were Pete Grant, Andy Kincaid, John Pirani, Ken Albertelli and Kevin Barry. In the defensive backfield Dave DeTeso was outstanding.

In the kicking department John Cheever's low-liner punts gave the opposition a tough ball to handle and kept Lexington from getting good field position most of the time.

It was certainly Winchester's finest game in years. It was an extremely aggressive team, which accounted for the many penalties called on the Sachems. It showed versatility, good offense, and the best spirit shown by a Winchester football team in years. It displayed the same desire to win which marked the performance of the hockey team that defeated Melrose 1-0 last January to stymie Dick Umile and Bob Dyer. Nutile had a hand in that win.

* * * * *

And it will be Nutile vs. Umile again this Saturday when Melrose comes to town. This game represents the acid test for Winchester. The Red Raiders are the class of the Middlesex League, with a line averaging close to 200 pounds, towered over by giant tackle Jake Driscoll, 6-4, 260 pounds; a pony backfield consisting of Dave Sheridan at quarter, Umile and Ciulla at the halfs, and fullback Brian Berkowitz, all fine runners. Ciulla and Berkowitz played an outstanding game in Melrose's 26-6 win over Winchester last year, and this year Umile has looked great for the Red Raiders.

Melrose depends mostly on its running game. It has the line to open holes for its fast backs, who can gain both short and long yardage.

Berkowitz was outstanding in the Melrose-Concord game Saturday, while Umile intercepted two Concord passes on defense, running them back for good yardage, and making some fine runs when Melrose had the ball.

So it shapes up as a test of Winchester's fine line against a great line which outweighs it; two small backfields which have shown some fine running, Winchester's in its last game, and Melrose in all its games. The Sachems seem to have the edge in passing, and it is that edge on which Winchester's hopes ride against a team that figures to be a two-touchdown favorite. Still, the big attraction for many will be the Battle of the Mites, Nutile vs. Umile, with a sellout crowd at Manchester Field anticipated this Saturday.

Pity the poor football coaches, who are, most of them, cut from the same piece of material. Here's what Joe Hoague, Melrose coach, whose team has run roughshod over all competition thus far and is favored to win the Middlesex League crown, has to say: "We have Winchester next week. They have won three straight and I am not optimistic. We have lost two starters in the last two games (didn't state whether they'd be ready to play Saturday) and are hurting."

* * * * *

Joe Stiles of Yale Street and Joel Vatter of Jefferson Road had a big hand in their team's win as Belmont Hill swamped St. Mark's 42-0. Joe caught a 20-yard touchdown pass, while Joel intercepted a pass and scampered 70 yards for another touchdown.

Nicklaus Wins Sahara Golf

By Harry McGrath

After a very windy and sandy second round in the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament at Las Vegas, big Jack Nicklaus, put together a final round of 68-66 for a two under par 282, to take first money of $20,000.

His second round of 77—6 over par had followed an opening 71.

Arnold Palmer who had an 80 on the second day, finished with two 69's to tie Miller Barber with 285's.

Barber and Palmer each got $9,750 for their second place tie.

Barber led after the third round, by reason of a seven under par 64. In order after the second place tie came Georgr Archer, and Gardner Dickinson with 287's, good for $4,650; Chi Chi Rodriquez, 289, and $3,800; Billy Casper, defending champion tied with Bob McCallister with 290 and $3,250.

Dave Marad from Wollaston had a total of 298 and got $495 for his efforts.

It was the consensus of opinion of all the players that the wind and the wind driven sand, made the second round conditions the worst the tour has ever experienced.

Palmer said he had never played in more wind in this country and Nicklaus said he was blown off balance several times—and Big Jack qualifies as a real heavyweight.

Jack gained quite a bit on Billy Casper in their money leader battle for this year's top place in official winnings.

There are only a few more official money tournaments remaining in the years play, and they will be hard at it to come out on top.

You just can't stop Slammin Sam Snead. He just won his tenth West Virginia title with a 54-hole total of 199—ten strokes better than the next finisher.

What a competitor Sam is. Too bad he never won the coveted U.S. Open, but he may just do so yet.

Little League Gala to Close Down 1966

Plans have been announced for the big finale of the Winchester Little League season as the date has been set for the graduates' banquet which will be held this year at the Unitarian Church at 6 p.m. this Saturday.

President Al LaPointe also pointed out that this year the graduates will include the senior league's 15-year-old boys as well as the 12-year-old members of the major league clubs in the regular Little League.

A catered roast beef dinner will be served and a large turn-out is expected by the committee consisting of Tom Magoun, chairman, Charlie Koch, Dick Kadesch, Bob Wild and Gordon Peckham. They have been making every effort to see that this get-together is the top affair of the year. A well known sports figure will be the main speaker of the evening and some fine trophies have bee selected for presentation to the boys.

All attending the dinner are asked to use the rear entrance to the building which is the door off Mystic Valley Parkway near the Manchester Field gate. This leads directly to the banquet hall and will avoid confusion at the front of the church.

Tickets for all of the graduates are being distributed by the team mothers under the able direction of Mrs. Betty Hill, president of the Mothers' Auxiliary. Those who would like to purchase tickets for the dinner may do so at the Winchester Sport Shop or at the door to the banquet hall on Saturday evening.

The committee is hopeful that many of the younger boys will attend the dinner with one or both of their parents. "This will be a function that everybody can enjoy," was Chairman Tom Magoun's comment. "We are anxious to have as many parents in attendance as possible. We would particularly like to see a number of mothers attending this year's dinner as well as the fathers of the players. We are certain that the ladies will discover that this is a wonderful evening for everyone."

The banquet will culminate one of the most successful Little League seasons in recent years and much of the credit must go to the managers and coaches who have made the season possible. It was a great season and this will be a gala banquet to climax the year's activity.

Sachems Rack Up Lexington; Nutile Scores 22 Points, 3 TD's

Winchester went on to its greatest scoring spree in years to make it three straight wins by taking Lexington 34-12 at Manchester Field Saturday. Bobby Nutile ran wild, scoring 22 of his team's points, as the Sachems for the most part stuck to the ground in the rout. The score could have been more lopsided had not Coach Knowlton substituted freely all through the last quarter to give the benchwarmers a chance to get in some playing time and a little experience.

Brian Collins quarterbacked a fine game, mixing up his plays well and confusing the Minuteman defense much of the time. The hard-charging Winchester line made life miserable for the Lexington quarterback and the punter. One kick was blocked, a few others partially blocked, and most of the time Lexington had to rush its kicks.

Lexington scored the first time it got possession of the ball. John Cheever's opening kickoff was taken on the 15-yard line by Paul Bellino and brought back to the Lexington 38. Lexington got a first down on carries of 5 and 1 by Jim Hayes, with Bellino getting the necessary yardage on a 4-yard plunge. An 8-yard crash through right guard by Hayes and a forward pass from Trip Davis to left end Bob Murphy put the ball on the Winchester 10. Bellino plunged for 2, then Davis on a keeper swept left end for the touchdown, making the score 6-0. A forward pass attempt for the conversion failed.

Dave Choate took the kickoff on the 15 and brought it back to the Winchester 32. Choate plunged for 5 and Pete Knight for 2. A pass was incomplete. Cheever's kick was fumbled on the Lexington 39 and recovered by Tom Varley on the Lexington 40. Nutile got 6 and Knight added another 9 for Winchester's initial first down on the Lexington 26. On second down Nutile plunged for 4, and a face-mask penalty called on Lexington put the ball on the 12. Nutile plunged for 7, and Knight swept left end for the touchdown. A pass play for the conversion failed and the score was tied 6-6.

Bellino fumbled Cheever's kickoff on the 2-yard line but managed to bring it back to the 10. Three plays netted 4 yards and on the punt, Nutile gathered in the football at the Lexington 48, cut behind a screen of blockers, skirted the left sidelines, cut in toward the middle, faked the last defender and went in for the touchdown. The conversion failed and Winchester led 12-6.

Cheever kicked to the 15 and the ball was brought back to the Lexington 30. At this point the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Robbat plunged for 7, Hayes for 1 and 5 for a first down to the Lexington 44. Kincaid stopped Plasse for no gain, and on the next play Varley smeared Plasse for an 8-yard loss. DeTeso returned Lexington's punt from his 25 to the Winchester 45. Two clipping penalties called on Winchester nullified a small ground gain and a pass play to Schlener for good yardage On the next play a long pass from Collins to Schlener just missed Jeff's fingertips with a clear field to the goal line. Cheever kicked a hard low liner which was downed on the Lexington 4 — a 56-yard punt. Three plays netted Lexington 5 yards, and a partially blocked punt gave Winchester the ball on the Lexington 25. Knight hit for 2, and then broke through for an additional 12 to the 11. Nutile picked up one yard, Wayne Carpenter went around right end for 5. A pass for the remaining 5, Collins to John Martin, made the score 18-6. The conversion failed.

A 15-yard runback brought Cheever's kick to the Lexington 40. Davis gained 5. A 15-yard penalty on Winchester put the ball on its 42. A forward pass, Davis to Hayes, placed the ball on the Winchester 24. Davis on a keeper got 9. On fourth down a pass to end Harris scored for Lexington to bring the score to 18-12 Winchester, The conversion failed on a diving tackle by DeTeso. Here the half ended.

Third Quarter

Choate took the kickoff on the 30 and carried to Winchester's 43. He plunged for 2. On the next play a pass from Collins to Martin was good for 43 yards and brought the ball to the Lexington 12. Nutile squirmed through for 8, Choate for 2. Then Nutile plunged for the touchdown. He also carried for the conversion, making the score 26-12.

Cheever kicked off to Bellino, who took it from the 25 to the Lexington 36. Three plays netted 6 yards. Nutile returned to punt from the 25 to the Winchester 49. Nutile got 3 and Choate 3. A pass, Collins to Martin on the Lexington 33, was nullified by an offside penalty. Nutile fought to the Lexington 40 for a first down. Bellino recovered a Winchester fumble on the Lexington 30. Varley threw Whitney for a 3-yard loss. A pass to Bellino was good for 5. A bad pass from center and a great rush by John Pirani and Kevin Barry gave Winchester the ball on the Lexington 21. Knight on a draw picked up 9, and then Nutile crashed through the middle for the touchdown. Nutile also went over for the conversion, making the score Winchester 34, Lexington 12. Before the quarter ended, Nutile made a 12-yard punt return, and on the next play on a handoff broke off right tackle, cut in toward the middle and almost broke away for another score, but was downed on the Lexington 22 for a gain of 31 yards.

In the fourth quarter the Winchester bench took over for the most part with seesaw action that saw no further scoring.

Sachem Harriers In Easy Win Over Concord, 15-49

In an easy win over Concord, the Sachem cross-country team, powered by speedy Dick Fahey, took the first six places to make it the fourth win of the season.

Dick Fahey, who finished first, was only five seconds away from the Concord course record. Bob Benshimol finished second, and Tom Spang finished third to give Winchester the decisive win. Right behind were Paul Blanch, Wayne Padula, Bob McClellan, and Steve Pritchard.

Following suit, the junior varsity also came out on top as they beat the Concord runners soundly to give them a third win. Dan Strout, a sophomore, looked promising as he finished well ahead of the rest. Ken Tully, Neal Benshimol, and Steve Giacalone also ran well.

TOP TEN FINISHERS

On The Attack

Under Opposition Attack

Harriers Lose As Fahey Shatters Wakefield Record

Winchester High's cross-country team suffered its first loss, to Wakefield, after four wins and a tie, spoiling the team's undefeated record.

Remaining undefeated Dick Fahey broke his own record, which he set as a sophomore, by 13 seconds, even after the course was lengthened 60 yards. His winning time was 12.25, a full 6 seconds better than that of the first Wakefield finisher, John Cummings.

In trying for an upset WHS harriers had Wakefield worried for the first mile, occupying 5 of the first 8 places. Finally the speedy pace took its toll and the quicker Wakefield runners moved to the front of the pack, where they remained to the finish. Wakefield, a team with incredible depth, placed the next 8 men after Fahey. Tom Spang, a junior, finished a strong 10th and Bob Benshimol ran a good 12th. Backing Bob up were Wayne Padula, a promising sophomore, and Paul Blanch.

As usual Wakefield came through with an unbeatable J. V. team, which won with little trouble. Lee Oliver was the first Winchester runner to finish. He was followed closely by Ken Tully, Fred Josephson, and Steve Cervolo.

Immac. CYO Fall Dance

On Saturday, October 22, the Immaculate Conception C.Y.O. of Winchester will hold their first dance of the season at the parish hall on Sheridan Circle. They are very fortunate in obtaining "The Sands" from Medford. The dance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and end at approximately 11:00 p.m. Suit coats and ties for the boys are requested and appropriate dress for the girls.

On Sunday, October 23, will be a cake sale in the school hall following all the Masses. Coffee and doughnuts will be served throughout the morning.

The Misfits took all 8 from the top team Mustangs this week.

Fran Lucas came through with a high 311 for the night. Second was Flaw Macario with a 295. Good bowling girls—you'll make that 150 string yet!

Cappie's Saabs took 6 from Norma's Jaguars. Lucy and Rose D. were high for their teams. Lucy made the 100 Club with her 101 string. Great bowling Lucy.

Tut won the pool this week. Congratulations Tut!

Our new girls are really showing promise. Keep plugging girls!

Remember, think positive, you may come through a real trooper, Marg.

S. O. I. Men

Congratulations are in order for Richie Russo for bowling a 391 last week. Your close Richie, but not close enough. Remember, 400 is the magic number.

Richie Riga still holds the high single with 158. Keep going Richie, and no one will catch you.

There were a lot of big scores last week, but one sticks in my mind. Larry Datillo went crazy and bowled a 363. He hopes that he can keep up the good work, but has his doubts. Time will tell, though. "Choppers" rolled a 327, F. Kimball a 330, Bob Fiore a 368 and others had a good night. For those of you who are having a hard time dont worry, because you will be striking them up before you know it. The harder you try, the worse you do. Believe me!

For those of you who don't bowl, start this week and have some fun. Bowling is fun for all ages, so go out and bowl and have some fun you never had before.

Recreation News

Recreation Director Donald Spinney has announced plans to start the girls elementary school recreation program Friday afternoon, from 3:15 to 4:30, at the Lincoln School, with the help of two Jackson College students, Miss Carol Segerstrom of Maple Road and Miss Leslie Jones of Stoneham.

The program will continue next Tuesday at the Parkhurst School, and on Thursday at Washington School with Paula Haley of Church Street and Jackson College supervising.

Mr. Spinney said he is looking for several more assistants in the girls elementary recreation program; and also for some male assistants to help out in the boys elementary recreation program, which he hopes to start early next month.

Registrations have passed the 545 mark after two Friday night Junior High "Rec Clubs." The number is only 147 for three Saturdays in the Senior Rec Club—probably due to other teen social events on the same evenings, the Recreation Director estimates. Still needed are Saturday night assistants; couples will be paid for their time.

The riflery instruction course and competition for both junior and senior high school boys and girls has registered some 50 interested teenagers, according to the Recreation Director. The program will start as soon as it is chartered by the National Rifle Association, anticipated soon. The two instructors will include volunteer John White, and a police officer.

Thirteen adults have signed up for a Cribbage Club, and all that is needed is a common meeting place and time.

At Heritage Day

Rebecca Osgood and David Miner of Lynch Junior High School have been named as student delegates to the sixth annual Heritage Day to be held in Plymouth on October 22. Faculty representative at the program will be George F. Snyder, social studies teacher.

Dr. John S. Gibson of 20 Cabot Street, acting director of the Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts University, will be the keynote speaker and will address a joint assemblage of students and teachers on "The Bill of Rights and the Bill of Responsibilities."

Four hundred eighth grade students and 200 teachers from public, parochial and independent schools throughout the Commonwealth are expected at the day-long observation which will explore the theme "Liberty Under Law: The Rights and Responsibilities of the Citizen to Dissent."

Duplicate Bridge

Despite the fact that contract players decry the unceremonious manner of some duplicate bridge players, our Wednesday night bridge sessions continues to attract new players. Although our game fell on a midweek holiday, the W D B C was able to attract 17½ tables in the two sessions.

Jock Olmstead, one of our steadier players, teamed up for the first time with Jay Levenson (another strong player) and proceeded to outscore the North-South field. Apparently the deals were to the liking of Jim Byrne and Bill Duryea as they were a board and a half ahead of the second place pair.

North-South
Jock Olmstead and Jay Levenson	133½
Lolly Smith and Dave Littleton	127½
Betty Slade and Bob Haskell	113½

Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	105½

John Reardon, playing with imaginative Leo Gonsalves, took the honors sitting North-South in Section B. Bill and Dot Fuller had another winning game to lead the East - West players. Obviously Schenken's bidding method has been the stimulant.

In Section B. the North-South winners were:

John Reardon and Leo Gonsalves	90

My thanks to Miggs Root, who, while packing for the Virgin Islands, elaborated on a provoking deal from the recent "Team of Four" match held on October 7.

Here is another hand from the Team - of - Four Championship, Board 2 of the black boards. Having eighteen scores on the traveling score sheet offers a rich vein for gleaning nuggets of information. So,—corral your favorite pardner and see where you'd end up bidding the North-South hands. East is the dealer with North-South vulnerable.

Did you get to the unbeatable slam? And were you in clubs or the better-scoring no trump? Looking at both hands, it's easy to see the solid twelve tricks, but out of the eighteen pairs playing the cards, only eight bid the cold slam, five in six clubs and only three in the best contract of six no trump (one being doubled!).

Of the eleven pairs not bidding slam, five settled for three no trump with four of them making six and one seven. Four pairs bid five clubs making six. One pair stopped at two no trump making six, and one bid five diamonds going down two.

It would be fun to find out how many players opened the bidding with the South hand. It is admittedly a marginal bid vulnerable, but in this instance, it immediately tells North the hand is in slam range and simplifies the bidding even with a possible pre-emptive weak jump in hearts by West.

(Imagine the irony of bidding 6 clubs on this hand only to have the opponents bid 6 no trump against your partners at the other table.)

Saddler Sparking Top Tufts Booters

Tibor Saddler of 60 Holland Street is a member of the Tufts College's streaking varsity soccer team.

Tibor is an outstanding offensive forward and has already scored a goal and assisted on another one. The 6-0, 165-lb. sophomore starred in soccer and both indoor and outdoor track at Winchester High.

The Jumbo booters rebounded after opening losses to Clark and Harvard with a 4-1 triumph over Rhode Island. After narrowly missing an upset over defending New England champion Trinity, 4-3, the Tuftsmen scored impressive back-to-back wins over Brandeis and M.I.T. and now stand at 3-3 at the season's midway mark.

The Jumbos, now ranked one of the best small-college teams in New England, take on six tough opponents—W.P.I., U-Mass., Boston U., Wesleyan, Amherst and Babson.

Second-year Coach Herb Erickson has a veteran squad, paced by a solid defense and a fast-moving forward line.

Tibor played soccer in Hungary in his early years. He is a fine sprinter. Saddler is a biology major and intends to pursue a medical career.

Hearts & Hunters

As the leaves turn yellow and orange and brown, and the days grow shorter and crisper, the thoughts of sportsmen throughout Massachusetts turn toward hunting. The lure of the hills, and the prospect of a bag of fresh game—whether bird or deer—become irresistible.

The large majority of those who go striding off through field and wood in search of their goal, go with full awareness of the importance of safety. They know that accidental death from a gunshot—one's own or that of another hunter—takes its toll every year. Most take suitable precautions. They carry their rifles or shotguns carefully. They wear bright jackets and hats. They don't shoot until they are sure what they are shooting at.

To sum up, take as good care of yourself as you take of your gear. Hunting is a fine sport, providing both challenge and recreation...and for those fortunate enough to bring home a full bag, it provides some mighty good eating!

Jr. Wee Sachems Beat Undefeated Newton 28 to 8

The name of the game is blocking, and the Winchester Junior Wee Sachems football team outblocked and outran the Newton Junior Pop Warner team for a 28 to 8 victory last Saturday at Newton.

Newton went into the game unbeaten and untied with a 3 and 0 record. But the hard blocking Winchester team blocked in the ends to give Jeffrey Ashton and Jacky Strain a chance to go outside for long gains, four touchdowns, and four extra points. Paul Tonello was the key blocker in the series as he contiually swept the would-be tackler inside to give fast running Ashton room to move outside and past the secondary for long yardage and three touchdowns.

The importance of blocking was highlighted on the fourth play when the whole defensive line was swept aside by the excellent cross grain blocking of Roger McGrath, Richard Jacobs, Ashton, and Robbie Ungaretti to set Strain free to skirt the end for the first touchdown. With such blocking, Winchester scored twice in the first quarter and continually kept the pressure on the Newton defense.

In the second half, Newton played wide to stop the sweeps. Ashton wisely cut inside the end for long gainers. Also, much credit must be given to Ungaretti who continually drove hard up the middle for five to eight yards. Joe Martignetti was the new discovery on such line bucks. Playing left guard for the first time, Joe opened up holes on the left side that in previous games Winchester found difficult to do. With Ungaretti's newly found speed and quickness, Martignetti, David Bower, and Tim Duffy gave him the spaces needed for up-the-middle gains that kept the defense honest and clustered in the middle.

Much can be said of the excellent play of the Winchester defensive team which smothered the Newton offensive. Except for one long Newton pass, the Newton offense was contained. It was the driving front five led by Kerry Brough that caused the fumbling and lack of momentum for Newton. Sweeps were contained for the most part by the ends Paul Cerulo and Alec Phippen. Newton could not run up the middle due to the good work of Duffy, Brian Cullen, and Brough. Karl Mayer as line backer added to this strength as did Martignetti and Ungaretti. It should be added that the second team defensive unit with Jeepy Strain, Paul DiBlasi, Richard Phillips, Chip Vick Roy, P. T. Miller, Don Johnson, and Wayne West stopped them just as well.

A fitting climax was the end of the game when the second team held Newton on the one foot line on the last play. The first team greeted them with cheers and the whole team was treated with ice cream for their fine play and spirit.

Fine individual tackles were noted from Paul Tonello in the monster position, Chip Vick Roy at end, Kevin Floyd as line backer, and David Magnusen who tackled the pass receiver on the long Newton gain. And it must not go unnoticed that Michael Phillips made a good catch of a punt just as he was surrounded and hit by a number of Newton players. The Winchester boys played well and much credit must be given to the coaching inspiration of David Deschler and the solid defensive coaching of Bill Wolfe.

Pack 511 Charter

Gold fever overtook a large turnout of Pack 511 Cub Scouts at the season's opening Pack meeting held October 7, at the Lincoln School.

Following opening ceremonies by Den 3 during which the 20-star American Flag of 1849 was displayed, Pack 511's charter for the coming year was presented by Albert McDougall to Mrs. Joseph McDonough representing the sponsoring institution, the Lincoln School Mother's Association. Mrs. McDonough then turned over the Charter to Ralph Seferian, Pack 511 institutional representative. Mr. Seferian, then presented a film strip previewer to the Lincoln School for its support and sponsorship.

The '49ers of Mrs. Vangell's den presented a well prepared skit and tried to pan some gold while dam building was going on upstream.

The Cubs enjoyed games and contests, Phillip Simmons winning 15 pounds of rocks and Guy Joslin 89 rocks—and the honor of carrying them home.

Cubmasters Phil Parsons and Bill MacKenzie conducted an impressive awards ceremony. The following boys were honored for advancement: Silver Arrow Points were awarded to Dick Ellis and Marc Berberian; Gold Arrow Points to Daniel Jaffee, Joe Whitney, and Marc Berberian; and Wolf Badges were awarded to Mark Stevenson, Steven DiRocco and Ronald Maggio. Four new Cub Scouts were welcomed to Pack 511: David Dalton, John Ewing, George Durant and Michael Cammarata.

On Saturday morning, October 15, Pack 511 mining operations shifted from the Lincoln School to Devil's Den Mine in Newbury. Some 25 young rockhounds spent an hour searching for serpentine, a good supply of which was extracted and returned to Winchester for later jewelry making sessions.

Thanks to the able leadership of many adults and the enthusiasm of a full complement of Cubs, Pack 511 is off to a highly successful and worthwhile year. Parents and Cubs are reminded of the November 5 Pinewood Derby.

Soccer Team Holds Leagne Lead; Game Here Tomorrow

The Winchester High School Soccer team continued its domination of the Middlesex League by winning three out of the last four starts.

Its present standing in the league is 5 and 1 and the local booters must win the remaining three league games to take the championship and make the state tournament.

The game tomorrow is at Loring Field at 3:15 against Lynnfield, a team which defeated the Sachems October 4, 2 to 1, with Bruce Abbott scoring the only WHS goal early in the first period. Players should be happier on their home field as they felt severely hampered in Lynnfield by that team's narrow playing field. They hope for retribution.

The last home game was October 7 when the local soccermen took Concord to task, 3-0. Then they added the scalps of Belmont at Belmont, 7 to 3 and Watertown over there, 6 to 3. The Tuesday game at Wakefield, another league important, was too late to be recorded for this page.

Junior Tennis

The week of Sept. 25th was a busy one at the Packer Courts as junior tennis players gathered for the annual Junior Tournament, sponsored by the Winchester Tennis Association. There were twenty five entries, ages ranging from ten years to fourteen.

Twelve year old Tom Raleigh Jr., displaying the poise and control of a veteran player, emerged the winner of the boy's singles, defeating Tad Bannister in the finals 7-5, 6-2. This was a well played match with both boys playing fine tennis.

The boy's double's finals say the teams of Jay Harrington-Phil Kadesch and Tad Bannister-Dana Smith contending for the title. Jay and Phil won the match by a score of 6-1, 6-2.

The girls were among the missing in this tournament. As there were only three girls entered a Round Robin was held. Sarah Bates was victorious in this event, winning her matches against Emily Kittredge and Emily Stebbins.

Trophies were awarded to the winners and runners up of all events.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE? Water's edge cleanup at Wedge Pond Saturday morning, jointly sponsored by the Mystic Valley Citizens for Pollution Control and the Winchester Board of Health and Park Department, along with a number of youth volunteers, extracted a number of sundry items from the pond's shoreline. The cleanup was a demonstration project by the MVCPC to see how clean Wedge—Winchester's supposedly cleanest waterway—really was. Would you believe it wasn't really very clean?

Man of Earth Overlooked, Prof. Lamark Tells Audience

"Too much money and effort is being devoted to the hardware of the sky, to putting a man on the moon. Instead we should develop concern for the man on earth and learn how to get along with him."

Professor Herman LaMark pleoded for the return of human relations as a vital concern for Americans today when he spoke Monday night to the Winchester College Club at their annual fall meeting at the Crawford Methodist Church.

After a brief business meeting presided over by Mrs. Henry Delaney, Mrs. Harold Given, the program chairman, introduced this top business advisor appointed to our state government by Governor Volpe.

Dr. LaMark described his "formula" for the successful man whether in business or in life, in general: a belief in himself linked with a real desire to do the job; real enthusiasm; and, most important, good communications. Man cannot exist without communication, the more skilled he is at conveying his ideas to another human being, the more success he will achieve, said the professor.

At the end of this year, the professor pointed out later in the talk, 4.5 per cent of our nation will be under 20 years of age. Our youth has many needs and yet, how many fathers devote ten minutes a week to listening to their sons. Too few, he insisted and "if you fathers don't listen, some one else will."

The core of the professor's talk centered around a few words that he urged be put back into the American language. Pride, the pride in one's work, is one. Like the cabinetmaker of earlier times, today's worker needs to remember with everything he does "part of me is in this." Gone too is patriotism. When more than half of the undergraduates of North Western University think that America owes them a living and the handout philosophy of all Americans is so prevalent, a revised attitude toward our country is overdue.

Next Professor LaMark dared any of his audience to go to work and demand from his colleagues, "hard work." The family was next on Dr. LaMark's list of lost American words. As a parent, we cannot expect the schools to do our work. They can help, but more can be accomplished around our dinner table with our children than anywhere else in the world. Courtesy and doing things "for the good of" our country, our community, our organization, were the final points in this dynamic speech demanding a revitalized America.

Professor LaMark challenged his audience to step forth to bring back the lost American vocabulary, to remember Man on Earth comes first.

More than 8,550,000 Americans are signed up under the Payroll Savings Plan for the regular purchase of United States Savings Bonds.

Crawford Couples Announce Officers

The Crawford Memorial Methodist Church Couples' Club is in high gear and off for an active and entertaining year.

Officers for the year are: presidents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Owens; vice presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hamilton; secretaries, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Morse, II; assistant secretaries, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brust; treasurers, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gullotti; membership, Mr. and Mrs. William Garner and publicity, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paridy.

The first meeting of this season will be on Friday, November 4 with a pot luck supper followed by a talk by Francis J. Maloney from the Bureau of Drug Abuse.

The second portion of the program will be musical selections by Les Troubadours.

At the end of July, 1966, the total amount of U. S. Savings Bonds outstanding exceeded $49,798 million.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

In an election year, Congress has decided the real culprit in highway safety is the automobile — and the auto manufacturer. Statistics do NOT bear out this questionable conclusion. But "politics" does—fewer cars vote than drivers!

The record is frightening. If forty-one hundred passenger jet airplanes crashed EVERY month, for a year, the public would be up in arms! Yet today — and every day this year — about 140 U. S. citizens will die on our highways. This totals over 4,000 dead per month! And hundreds of thousands more are injured!

If the year's total of nearly 50,000 deaths occurred over one week-end, the shock, tragedy, and waste would strike home to us all!

What's the solution? Traffic experts don't agree. But they are UNANIMOUS in stating that the number-one cause of accidents — many times higher than anything else — is DRIVERS. The "human factor" is the big cause.

Warnings, admonitions—good intentions — prove relatively weak in controlling accidents. The average driver firmly believes "It can't happen to me." Unless we all realize that it CAN, safety campaigns will be of minor value.

May we discuss SAFE Auto Insurance with YOU?

LWV Meets On School Sites, Building Needs

The continuing problem of high school facilities for Winchester will ocupy the October unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Winchester. In recent months and weeks, the Education Committee of the League fo Women Voters has been acting as an objective information channel to the public on the high school situation by attending School Committee, Building Committee, and Planning Board meetings and then submitting to the Winchester Star accurate summaries of those meetings at which the high school situation was discussed.

At the October units the Education Committee will use the information thus gathered to discuss the high school educational specifications which define the spaces necessary to implement the present and future high school program. It will also discuss the progress the Building Comittee has made in selecting a site that best fits these specifications.

Members and friends should note that the usual Tuesday evening unit will not be held this month.

The meetings are scheduled as folows:

Wednesday morning, October 26, 9:30 a.m.—chairman, Mrs. Eber T. LeGates, 729-3134; hostess, John F. White, 16 Sheffield Road.

Wednesday afternoon, October 26, 1:00 p.m.—chairman, Mrs. Albert Dietz, 729-2628; hostess, Mrs. O. Guinn Smith, 38 Rangeley Road.

Thursday morning, October 27, 9:30 a.m.—chairman, Mrs. Murray Yavner, 729-3371; hostess, Mrs. William E. Spaulding, 379 Main Street.

The chairman of each unit will be glad to arrange transportation, if needed.

All units are open to members and non-members. Baby sitting is available at a nominal fee at the home of Mrs. Marshall M. Kincaid, 12 Prospect Street on Thursday morning only.

Zip Code Cards For Winchester Postal Patrons

Residents of Winchester will be offered an opportunity to ZIP Code their mailing lists this month, Postmaster Thomas J. Gilgun announced today.

Letter carriers will deliver "no postage needed" cards to each of the town's 6200 residential delivery stops during the month of October, the postmaster said. The cards will have blanks for addresses used most often, but for which individuals do not know the proper ZIP Codes.

The project will be a feature of "ZIP Code Week," to be celebrated locally during October. Throughout the nation 95,000,000 of the cards will be delivered.

In rural areas and cities and towns with one ZIP Code assigned, only one out-of-town card will be delivered since all local addresses will have the same ZIP Code.

"This is a good time to get the ZIP Codes missing from your lists," Postmaster Gilgun noted. "This Christmas, ZIP Code will be as important as shopping and mailing early for the efficient and on-time delivery of the record-breaking avalanche of mail expected in the pre-holiday weeks."

After filling in the street number, city and state, the cards are to be mailed back to the postmaster. Post Office personnel will add the proper ZIP Codes and return the cards to the sender.

Postmaster General O'Brien announced May 19 that steps were being taken to make ZIP Codes more accessible to the mailing public. The present program resulted from a search for the most effective method to get the codes in the hands of private mailers. A poll conducted by Elmo Roper and Associates earlier this year found that about half the population is using ZIP Code. Of the remaining half who are not, 80 per cent said the reason was that they did not know the ZIP Code for the people to whom they write.

Previously, the Post Office Department has embarked upon an extensive effort to help volume mailers convert their lists to ZIP Code.

"The Roper poll strengthened our convictions that the public generally is ready and willing to cooperate with business mailers who will be presorting their second and third-class mail after January 1, 1967," Mr. O'Brien said. "I am convinced that the 'ZIP-A-LIST' project will go a long way towards accomplishing our goal of ready availability of the proper Zip Codes in the home."

Local cards will be printed with blue ink and out-of-town cards in red. Addresses which cannot be ZIP Coded because of insufficient or improper addresses will be forwarded to the city indicated on the card, if legible, and the codes will be added there.

Only addresses, not names of correspondents, should be listed on the cards, the postmaster said. Zip Codes represent delivery areas for the postal service, not individuals.

What Are Your Chances?

They say that travel broadens your knowledge. How true!

During a road trip this last weekend, we stopped at a small out-of-the way restaurant. There were place-mats on the tables with bits of trivia which you could read, if you so desired, while you waited to be served. (I rather suspect they put such things there so you won't notice how long it takes to get waited on.)

However, the mats had bits of information about the odds against certain things happening — such as: one out of twelve people would be lefthanded; your chances at draw-a straight flush were 64,999 to 1; four to one the next song you would hear would have to do with love; and so on.

Even though the restaurant was crowded, it was really quiet. Then I noticed that the floor was carpeted with Ozite's "Town & Terrace," the magic carpet. This really made sense to me!

It not only reduced the amount of noise and added that something extra to the decor, but I saw that the waitresses were having no difficulty cleaning up the spills around the tables. Ozite's Vectra fibers resist staining and spotting from practically all food, even household chemicals.

I immediately took out my pen and added one more tid-bit of knowledge to the place-mat: "What are your chances of getting Ozite's Town & Terrace in your home? — "no odds accepted." Once you have seen "Town & Terrace" being used, you'll find more than one reason to have it put in your home.

"Town & Terrace" sells for only $4.95 per square yard.

Behind Scenes For Mornings at Seven

Weird lights and strange sounds are emerging from Metcalf Hall as the Unitarian Players' Production Staff prepare the stage for the forthcoming fall production, "Morning's at Seven."

Wielding hammers and paint brushes set designer Bob Magnusen, with the help of Tex Renz, Tom Connors, Rod Hoag, Dick Wilcox, Tom Deak, and Chuch Eldridge is constructing the set, which is sure to be a credit to their artistic talents. Masterfully working the controls to shed lights on the Funk and Tom Conners are discovered to be Ted Knowlton and his trusty tape recorder creating the audio effects.

Costumes are being selected by Ellie Hoag, wardrobe chairman, and Salina Fitzpatrick. Joy Woolley, Ann Carrigan, and Jewel Jackson may be seen dashing around town collecting odds and ends to supply the Players with their hand props. The cast will be supported by prompter Phyllis Rowe, who is diligently following along at every rehearsal.

Publicity is in full swing headed by Dee Magnusen and Pam Sibley, who have been industriously aided by Debbie and Judy Deak, Penny Sibley, and John Drugach. The production chairman, Peg Byford and Shelby Saylor are coordinating these committees to be sure everything is ready when the curtain rises at 8:30 on Friday, November 4.

For tickets call Grace White at 729-0287.

Senior Crittenton Opens 50th Year Here Tomorrow

The Senior Circle of the Florence Crittenton League a Red Feather organization is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary and invites the attention of all interested persons to its fine program coming up this year.

The first meeting will be held tomorrow, October 21, at the home of Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick of 1 Ledgewood Road. Dessert and coffee at 1 p.m. will open to be followed by a business meeting. The topic of the afternoon is: "Unwed Parenthood—Is It Preventable?"

The program for the year will include two money raising events to help support the maternity home for unwed mothers in Boston. A Christmas program is planned and in February the group will hear a speaker from the Department of Drugs and Narcotics and in the spring a psychologist.

The Winchester Senior Circle is most fortunate in having for their first guest speaker tomorrow Mrs. Helen Friedman, director of case workers at Hastings House.

Mrs. Friedman, a graduate of Simmons College with a B.S. and M.S. in social work formerly was director of the Homemaker Service Department of The Family Service Association of Greater Boston, which is also a Red Feather agency. She has also been research assistant at Harvard's Laboratory of Social Relations.

Special Honors To Wob'rn Marine

At a ceremony held at the Woburn City Hall on Sunday afternoon, following a parade, a special Freedom Shrine was dedicated in the Woburn Boy's Club Library in memory of PFC Joseph L. Drew, a Marine killed in action in December, 1965.

The Woburn Detachment, Marine Corps League in cooperation with the Wellesley Exchange Club, and the Boy's Club, initiated this as part of the PFC. Joseph L. Drew Memorial. The Freedom Shrine consists of 28 permanently preserved documents including the Declaration of Independence, The Emancipation Proclamation, The Thirteenth Amendment, and others which together constitute the backbone of our American Literary Heritage.

In addition, the Woburn Detachment will inaugurate a perpetual Citizen Of The Year Trophy in the name of PFC. Drew, who in the opinion of his fellows, distinguished himself in personal conduct, and earned the respect of his classmates and friends during his school years, and the admiration of thousands of Americans who saw and heard his story told on a nationwide television documentary during last December, just two days before he was reported killed in action in Viet Nam.

Tax Exemptions Being Increased For The Elderly

The Board of Assessors has announced that certain elderly residents that previously qualified for real estate tax exemptions may now be eligible for more tax relief, and that some senior citizens not before covered may now be entitled to tax exemptions, according to a recently passed state law.

Eligibility requirements under both the old and new provisions include persons 70 years or over as of January 1, 1966, who have resided in the state for 10 years and owned property in the town for five years, and whose income if married but excluding social security does not exceed $5,000, or $4,000 if single or widowed.

Under the old Clause 41 (Chapter 59, Section 5, the General Laws), exemptions were granted on homes of up to $14,000 valuation. New provisions have raised this to $20,000 valuation; and thereby allows more elderly citizens to qualify for this type of exemption, or tax relief.

Assessor Ernest Dade stated that eligible elderly citizens seeking to obtain this tax exemption must file with the Assessors Office for it before December 15.

Assessor Dade pointed out that the most an elderly citizen could previously get this year was a $4,000 valuation exemption, or a maximum of $233.60 in actual tax savings. Now, however, on the same $4,000 valuation exemption, the elderly citizen is entitled to a flat $350 minimum relief saving, or an increase of $116.40 over the previous allowance maximum as a minimum, if eligible.

Mr. Dade noted that the Assessors did not know how many new applicants for Clause 41 exemptions might now be considered eligible with the new ruling from the State Department of Corporations and Taxation, but guessed it could be as many as 50 or more.

He added that when Clause 41 was first introduced last year there were 211 elderly citizens here who qualified. With the $116.40 increase from the earlier maximum to the nek $350 minimum relief, Mr. Dade said, an additional $23,280 in tax revenues will be exempted and charged to the Town's overlay account. On top of this there will be the extra tax revenue reduction of those who now become eligible and file for exemption.

"Citation of Merit" Award Given To Local Post Office for Beautification

The Winchester Post Office received a "Citation of Merit" Award last week for outdoor beautification of the federal installation's grounds under President Johnson's Beauty Program.

The local post office was one among twelve in the state, and 30 in the New England region, to receive the Post Offie Department's recognition award for enhancing the appearances of postal properties.

The award was given in a ceremony attended by many local civic groups, town officials and businessmen, held at the post office at 3 o'clock on Wednesday, October 19. The presentation was made to Postmaster Thomas J. Gilgun by Donald J. Dowd, assistant to the regional director of the Boston Regional Office.

Gildo Corsi, custodian of the Winchester Post Office, received plaudits from postal officials and civic leaders alike for his work in beautifying the local federal property.

The awards given were made only to post offices where examination was made by the Maintenance Division of the Bureau of Facilities, and which were found to be superior.

Local citizens observing the ceremony included Mrs. William Cusack, representing Fortnightly Club; Corrine Mead, representing Winchester Garden Club; Mrs. Roland V. Robison of the Winchester Estates Garden Club, Charles W. Craven of the Winchester National Bank; Arnold M. Gibson of the Winchester Savings Bank; George L. Billman of the Winchester Cooperative Bank; Lewis B. Snow of the Winchester Rotary Club; and Albert A. MacDonnell of the Winchester Park Commissioners.

Post Office officials participating in the award ceremony included John F. McDevitt, director Local Services Division; William P. H. Flanagan, director of Engineering and Facilities Division; and personnel of the Winchester Post Office.

Area's Pollution Meeting

Tonight the Mystic Valley Citizens for Pollution Control meets with representatives from several state agencies to present facts on air and water pollution in the Mystic Valley area to an open public meeting from 7:30 to 9:30 in the Sons of Italy Hall at 117 Swanton Street.

The Mystic Valley citizen's public meeting will delve into such areas of local concern as what are the sources of pollution in the Mystic Valley; what is being done by local and state officials to control this pollution; and what additional pollution control measures can be taken to insure clean water and clean air in the Mystic Valley today, tomorrow, and in the future?

Representatives from the University of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Department of Public Health and the Metropolitan District Commission (M.D.C.) will present facts, statistics, survey information and views about this area for the program entitled "Pollution or Solution."

The Mystic Valley Citizens for Pollution Control was formed in March 1966 after individual attempts to get "to the bottom" of the pollution of the Mystic Lakes met with only confusion, indecision, and frustration.

The citizens group found it frustrating to discuss that on the one hand there were many citizens opposed to water pollution, but on the other hand water pollution was widespread.

The MVCP learned that the people who wanted to combat pollution didn't know where to start; they didn't have the facts; and often their aims were frustrated by misinformation or by explanations that were only part of the true story.

Cong. Morse Tours Town On Tuesday

Congressman F. Bradford Morse, Winchester's representative in the Congress from the Fifth Congressional District and candidate for re-election, toured the community on Tuesday afternon this week meeting businessmen, town employees, and residents in the Center.

Welcoming Congressman Morse to Winchester at the Town Hall at 2 o'clock were two former chairman of the Board of Selectmen, John Lyman of 56 Lorena Road, and Sherman W. Saltmarsh, Jr., of 154 Mount Vernon Street.

Barnstead For Senate Endorsed By Volpe, Morse

The campaign of William A. "Bill" Barnstead for the State Senate from this district got a big boost this week with strong endorsements from Governor John A. Volpe and Congressman F. Bradford Morse.

Speaking at the Sons of Italy Gov. Volpe drew heavy applause when he stated "I want Bill Barnstead in the Senate."

He pointed out that there are only 13 Republicans in the 40-member Senate, not enough to prevent a two-thirds mojority if a vote is along straight party lines.

Library Open House Sunday

The Trustees of the Winchester Public Library have issued an invitation to all townspeople to an Open House, to be held at the Library on Sunday, November 6, from 1:00 to 4:30 in the afternoon. This function will serve to mark the completion of the Library addition building program and will be an opportunity for the public to examine the new addition and recently renovated interior. The entire Library, including areas not usually available to the public, will be open. Staff members will be available to answer questions and describe the various operations and processes of the Library. In the work room one will be able to trace the course of a book from the time of its arrival at the Library to its appearance, fully cataloged and processed, on the shelves. In addition, literature will be available outlining in detail the Library's resources and services.

The Trustees today announced that in order to put the library's interior furnishings, including many thousands of books and much furniture, in their final locations it will be necessary to close the Library to the public on Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29. The outdoor book return slot to the left of the Junior Library entrance (facing Town Hall) may be used during this time.

At Local Coffee Sen. Pellegrini Talks on Issues

Senator and Mrs. Philibert Pellegrini were entertained at a coffee hour last Thursday, October 20, at the Sons of Italy Hall.

In speaking before the group, the Senator spoke with candor in reply to his opponent's recent charges against him appearing in an advertisement in the local paper.

Senator Pellegrini discussed his stand on the sales tax and why he voted in favor of it.

He spoke with regard to auto safety and his reasons for taking the opposition stand on the necessity of passing a law providing for reflector plates. He felt the money could be better expended for education and the much needed mental health program for Massachusetts.

There were many questions from the floor, which the Senator answered. He also spoke to the group individually before they left the hall.

The hall was transformed into a fall festival of color along with a mixture of a fall assortment of flowers decorating the center of the long table.

Hostess for the event was Mrs. James Russo of 9 Adams Road. Assisting her were Mrs. John Peterson, Mrs. Charles Duran, Mrs. Paul Avakian, Mrs. Frank Provinzano and Mrs. Joseph DiDonato, all of Winchester.

"Trick or Treat" For UNICEF On Halloween Nite

Preparations for the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program for Halloween this week have involved hundreds of local young people of all ages from pre-school tots to high school seniors.

Fourth, fifth, and sixth graders in the public schools have made posters to be put in windows in downtown Winchester. These posters have been framed and distributed by a group of high school students.

Members of the Forum at the Second Congregational Church have decorated Kirsten's window. The little orange and black cartons will be distributed in the nine participating churches. Sunday school classes from pre-school tots to junior high school students will take part.

Students at Winchester High School have been beaming spot announcements to explain and publicize the UNICEF program over the WHSR-FM radio station.

The youngsters are talking about children in other countries who are in desperate need of food, and medicine, and education that the pennies and nickels and dimes they will collect can provide. The small sacrifice of an extra treat on Halloween, accepting a donation for UNICEF instead, makes giving and sharing a personal experience.

Between 6 and 8 p.m. on Halloween, the adults will be invited to help. Swarms of children will be ringing doorbells to present small orange cartons to receive contributions to UNICEF. They will be giving the adults a chance to give tangible aid to other children all over the world.

United Fund's Drive Begins For Residents

Winchester's 1966 United Fund Campaign began in high gear this past Sunday, October 23, when the residential drive officially began.

Winchester's goal for this year is $37,000, according to John J. Collier, Jr., of 63 High Street, chairman of the community drive.

Over 325 local volunteers are participating in the drive which enables over 340 charitable services and agencies to continue helping the needy of this country.

Serving as Precinct chairmen of this year's residential drive are: Mrs. Alexander Pugh of 30 North Border Road, Precinct 1; Jacque Bonneville of 6 Cliff Street, Precinct 2; Dr. Charles D. Chipman of 2 Goddu Avenue, Precinct 3; Mrs. Paul Fitzpatrick of 44 Westland Avenue, Precinct 4; and Calvin Bowker of 40 Wildwood Street and Robert Hamilton of 30 Cabot Street, co-chairmen, Precinct 5.

"We hope to obtain pledges for the year as well as actual cash," Mr. Collier said, "because this will enable residents to spread their donations throughout the year as they wish."

"The amount of the donation, or pledge is naturally up to each individual," he added, "but we do ask that donors realize that the amount they give must be divided 340 ways."

The pledge system has been used increasingly in recent years and the larger part of the Greater Boston contribution is received in this manner. Persons who give at work are not expected to give at home. However, a solicitor may visit the home to solicit wage earners who have not had the opprtunity to give at work.

If residents desire to single out a specific agency, they can do so by specifying on their check. In this way, funds can be alloted according to the donor's wishes. This year for the first time, 14 local agencies of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies have joined in the United Fund's long list of agencies.

This is the Ninth Annual United Fund Drive, the slogan for which is "Think Twice—You Give only Once."

The combination of hundreds of separate charities has greatly reduced fund-raising costs and has eased the burden on residents by reducing the number of solicitors who call upon them.

Only 7% of the amount collected is used for United Fund campaign costs. This compares with 20% to 30% for many other fund-raising campaigns.

As the residential drive has just begun, the local business drive is nearing completion. Robert Paridy of 5 Squanto Road, local business fund chairman, reports that local business has reached 50% of its goal to date, with a few days left in the campaign drive.

Equalizing Of Elementary School Pupil-Space Ratio

Transferral of elementary school pupils from overcrowded schools to less crowded schools in September, 1967, was discussed during the Monday night, meeting of the Winchester School Committee.

The School Committee has requested the School Department to do a study of equalization of enrollments among all of the elementary schools, including the new Tufts Road School.

The two criteria for equalization which were discussed were (1) the distribution of children on the basis of equal pupil-teacher ratio throughout the system (the accepted ratio in Winchester being 25 to 1); and (2) the distribution of children on the basis of equal square feet of classroom space per pupil ratio.

According to the League of Women Voters observer who was present, Superintendent of Schools Harry V. Gilson presented a list of recommended enrollment limits for 1967:

School	Projected Enrollment Limit
Parkhurst	338
Lincoln	322
Washington	348
Vinson-Owen	297
Noonan	275
Noonan Annex (Lynch — 4 rooms)	102
Tufts Road	535
Wyman	350
Mystic	350

Schol Committeeman Richard Schroeder raised the question of the relationship of the above figures to the School Committee's approved educational capacities of each elementary school.

He stated that Dr. Gilson's proposed enrollment limits would result in unequal distribution of elementary classroom space per child. Mr. Schroeder supported this statement with the following figures:

It's A Revue, It's Variety, It's A "Ball"

By popular request Lew Bernard is returning to the WHS stage next Wednesday night, curtain time 8 p.m., to MC another gay revue to benefit the Winchester Police Relief Association.

Revue acts for all ages will sparkle throughout the program and there will be something to please all tastes and ages. The Town has been pretty well canvassed, but if you don't have a ticket, you can get one at the Police headquarters in advance, or at the door the night of the show—the 34th annual festivity planned by the local corps.

Heading up the group which is behind the revue is Sgt. James J. Cogan, president of the Relief Association; William E. Nash, vice president; Richard W. Beaton, secretary; Lt. Edward F. Bowler, treasurer and Chief Joseph J. Derro with Thomas E. Kennedy, Jr. and John J. Frongillo, serving as trustees.

The evening will also feature the annual Meritorious Service Award presented each year by the department to an officer who has performed outstandingly during the past year.

Thief Nets $77

Police are investigating the reported theft of $77 in cash receipts from Ann's Donut Shop at 878 Main Street in the early hours of Wednesday morning, October 19.

The thief forced open a rear screen door and broke a window in the back door to gain entry into the North Main Street business establishment. According to owner Al Brebant, the thief took an estimated $77 in receipts from the store.

Survey of Area Dog Leash Laws Given Selectmen

Town Dog Officer William T. Ryerson reported to the Board of Selectmen on Monday night his findings on the prevalency and practices of dog leash laws in neighboring area cities and towns.

Mr. Ryerson told the Selectmen that while Melrose, Medford, Malden and Stoneham have leash laws, other communities such as Burlington and Woburn have dog control laws instead.

Winchester, he noted, has a very much generalized and inadequate local dog law. The town would be in a better position, he suggested, if it adopted his report and recommendations as to what he thought should be done to solve the problem. His recommendations, made to the Selectmen originally on April 26, 1965, included among other items, empowering the Dog Officer with specific powers to order the restraining or muzzling of troublesome dogs (which now must go through a hearing process before the Board of Selectmen, and only upon written complaint and petition by citizens).

Youth Injured in Making "Bombs"

A 15-year-old youth received only minor injuries last week when a homemade bomb he was constructing in the basement of his home exploded in front of him, causing injuries to his left hand and lacerations to his right foot and upper thigh.

The youth, David Brunkhorst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brunkhorst of 9 Fletcher Street, was found lying on the cellar floor, in severe pain and bleeding, by his mother, who had heard the explosion. She rushed him to the hospital for medical attention.

He was treated at Winchester Hospital by Dr. Harry Benson, who later reported the bomb injury to police as is required by Chapter 112, Section 12A of the General Laws. He was released from the hospital to his home on Sunday.

The explosion occurred at approximately noon on Wednesday, October 19, when David was packing match heads into a six-inch conduit pipe.

A second "bomb" was later found beside fragments of the first. Both of its ends were sealed, and a hole drilled into one end with a full match protruding from it to serve as a fuse.

Investigating police officer Joseph M. Perritano and Richard Beaton, juvenile officer, learned from the youth that he had previously made several bombs, and exploded them in the Winter Pond area and in his back yard.

The Police Department closed the case without further investigation or prosecution.

PBC Committee Labors To Meet A New Schedule On School Site

The Permanent Building Committee and subcommittee for secondary schools met with representatives from the School Committee, Planning Board and Finance Committee on Tuesday night to review all sites for a new high school that have been studied to date to summarize information, problems and feasibilities.

The purpose of the meeting was to coordinate the view of the committees as to the assets and liabilities of each site as a potential proposal to be either considered or rejected in moving toward a prime selection recommendation and one or more alternative recommendations to the town for a new high school location.

"I feel satisfied that we achieved our purpose this evening," said Joseph A. Vitka, Jr., chairman of the secondary school subcommittee, in commenting on his desire to stick to a tight schedule circulated in a memorandum to the involved committees.

In concluding comments on the schedule memorandum, Mr. Vitka had stated: "This is an extremely tight and difficult schedule, but one we hope to be able to maintain. Our objectives are to hold a Town Meeting before the end of the year and unless the schedule can be maintained, the possibility of a Town Meeting before year's end becomes dubious."

In addition to the fact that the town needs new high school space as soon as possible, and that deliberations over problems have been under way for an extended period, Mr. Vitka indicated that his committee desires to get recommendation(s) to the town as rapidly as possible for an answer to the problem because the longer it takes the higher go building construction costs. What was originally a $3-5 million school, then a $5-plus million school, now appears to be reaching the level of a $7 million school, he suggested.

Representatives from the participating committees planned to meet with a representative from the State School Building Assistance Commission on Wednesday morning to review the comprehensive picture as developed from the Tuesday night meeting, go over charts and other informational material, and to take a field tour through several of the areas for the purpose of enlightening the SBAC representative on some of the problems faced and for any suggestions he might have to offer from his experience in reviewing other problems in other cities and towns.

True Community Area Magnitude Says Dean Sizer

A Greater Boston school system similar to London's was advocated for this area by Dr. Theodore Sizer, dean of Harvard's Graduate School of Education, at the Wellesley Club's final Winchester morning.

Rather than follow boundary patterns laid down in the eighteenth century, Dr. Sizer said, we should recognize our true community as that more or less defined by the Metropolitan Planning Commission. The quality of education in any one school affects the entire metropolitan community.

Such a system would also meet the vital challenge of mixing students of various economic and racial backgrounds so as to expose each to the problems, aspirations, and achievements of the other. The educator said children's horizons may be widened most effectively in the early elementary grades.

Dr. Sizer asked how we can tolerate inequalities in school systems as illustrated by unusually low per capita expenditures for education in Mississippi. Advocating federal aid to fund first class schools for all U.S. children, he pointed out that otherwise the big cities may become wards of the federal government. A good book on the subject, he suggested, is Conant's "Slums and Suburbs."

The best school, acording to Dr. Sizer, would have the advantages of a large unit, the resources to deal with individual problems, and yet "know what its students are doing." The principal should have a great deal of autonomy, as enjoyed by the English headmaster.

He also envisioned a greater north shore community which would include Winchester. He stated that Roxbury was too far from Winchester within this concept.

Barnstead

This district, which takes in Arlington, Winchester and Wards two through six in Medford, is one where the Republicans have the best opportunity to take a Senate seat away from the Democrats.

Mr. Barnstead has been urging the voters to "Protect the Two Party System" by electing more Republicans to the upper chamber of the Legislature.

In his statement supporting Mr. Barnstead, Congressman Morse declared, "Bill Barnstead is the type of man who should be in the Senate. He will truly represent the voters of the Sixth Middlesex District."

Mr. Barnstead, a resident of Arlington and a successful businessman, has been conducting a driving campaign, ringing doorbells and making appearances wherever residents of the three municipalities gather.

In addition, in his campaign he has been hitting hard at the voting record of his opponent, incumbent State Senator Philibert Pellegrini of Arlington. He has attacked Senator Pellegrini's votes against Governor Volpe's mental health program, highway safety and the crime commission recommendations, and for standing mute while the Legislative Committee on Counties, of which he is a member, increased the county budget by 40%, which adds as much as $5 per thousand on local tax rates.

Tax Exemptions

"This means," Mr. Dade explained, "that there will have to be deficit financing in the overlay account this year, and that will then have to be applied to next year's tax rate."

Mr. Dade said the Assessors could not speculate at this time as to what cost effect this might amount to on next year's tax rate.

The towns total valuation base this year is about $91 million. Roughly figured, a dollar on the tax rate is equivalented to approximately $91,000 in expenditures. Therefore, an estimated $25,000 expenditure would be worth in the neighborhood of $.20 on the tax rate.

Assistant Superintendent Walter Gleason gave the following reasons for the low utilization of the Vinson-Owen School (1) future growth of the Vinson-Owen district; (2) the addition of two more special classes at Vinson-Owen.

Charles P. Harris of the School Committee pointed out that there exists a great discrepancy in class room size among the elementary schools, ranging from 585 feet at Lincoln to 900 square feet at Vinson-Owen.

Mr. Harris stated that twenty five pupils in a 585-square foot classroom are not learning under the favorable conditions existing for twenty-five pupils in a 900-square foot classroom.

Mr. Harris asked that Dr. Gilson's proposed enrollment limits for the older elementary schools be reduced to a figure not to exceed their educational capacity. "It is these schools that contain a total of fifteen classrooms of under 600 square feet," he said.

Dr. Gilson stated that such a rearrangement of pupils would require the busing of more children and the hiring of more teachers, and would result in relatively higher pupil-teacher ratios in the newer schools.

He, however, agreed to continue the enrollment study, incorporating the School Committee's suggestions.

Acting as pourers were Mrs. Phil Pellegrini and Mrs. Mary Doherty.

There were close to 100 women representing Winchester, Medford and Arlington on hand to greet Senator Pellegrini and his attractive wife.

Mrs. Russo introduced Mrs. Mary Doherty, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, who in turn introduced Senator Pellegrini giving comments regarding the Senator's qualifications and background.

Dr. Richard William Sheehy

Dr. Richard William Sheehy, 83, a leading physician here for 60 years, died on Thursday, October 20, at the Veterans Hospital in Brockton after a long illness.

Chief of staff at the Winchester Hospital for 21 years, he was a prominent leader in many social and civic groups here. He was a very well-known general physician whose familiar figure is recalled by many grateful patients to whose calls he responded at all times of the day or night, beginning in the horse and buggy days.

Husband of the late Emily M. (Dowd) Sheehy, he is survived here by a son, Richard W., Jr., and by nine grandchildren. He leaves also three brothers, Charles D. of Quincy, Alfred C. of Yarmouth and Edmund F. of Weymouth; and a sister, Miss Mary L. Sheehy of Weymouth.

Dr. Sheehy was born October 2, 1883, in Weymouth, the son of Michael and Mary (Logue) Sheehy, both natives of Ireland. He grew up there and went through the Weymouth schools. He received his medical education at the Tufts Medical School and in World War I served as a captain in the U.S. Army Medical Corps.

In addition to his medical activities he was a founder, past vice president and director of the Winchester National Bank. He was a charter member of the Winchester Post 97, American Legion and of the Winchester Knights of Columbus; a past president and honorary life member of the Rotary Club and a member of the Saint Vincent dePaul Society.

He also belonged to the Catholic Alumni Society of Boston, was a past president of the Charitable Irish Society of Boston and of the St. Luke's Guild in Boston and a member of the Clover Club.

A nephew, the Reverend Charles I. Sheehy of Saint Paul's Church in Cambridge, celebrated the solemn high Mass held for him at Saint Mary's on Monday morning. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Henry Gregg Small

Henry Gregg Small of Falmouth Foreside, Maine, a former resident here, died suddenly a week ago today in a Portland hospital after a brief illness, at the age of 59.

He was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Small of Lake Street and the late Benjamin Small. He leaves his wife, the former Laura Davies, a son, Henry Gregg, Jr., and a daughter, Carol Ann, all of Falmouth Foreside; also a sister, Mrs. James S. Mack of Florida.

Mr. Small was born in Boston on November 17, 1906. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1930, and he lived in Orono for several years, moving to Portland recently. For several years he had been manager of the northern branch of Nelson and Small Company, Incorporated, in Orono. He had been a member of the Maine Senior Golf Association, the Penobscot Valley Country Club and its board of governors, the Mechanic's Lodge, AF and AM, Maine Consistory, 32nd degree Scottish Rite, Valley of Bangor and Anah Temple Shrine, and the Hancock County Shrine Club.

Funeral services were held for him on Saturday afternoon, preceded by Masonic memorial services on Friday evening. Burial was in Pine Grove Cemetery.

Atom Meeting

conference is designed to encourage interest in the stduy of science and to explore the promise of peaceful uses for atomic energy.

The Chicago meeting of more than 600 outstanding students and teachers includes a visit to Argonne National Laboratory where experiments with nuclear energy are being conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Lucier, is president of Winchester High's Math Club and Debating Society and has received recognition in several science and math fairs for his math exhibits that included a project combining the inequalities and problems in the workability of a 10-value logic system.

Mr. Finigan has been an instructor at Winchester High for the past 15 years and during this past summer served as head of the National Science Foundation program at the Randolph-Macon Women's College Physics Institute at Lynchburg, Virginia. He is married and the father of four children.

In 1962, based largely on a physics course being taught by Mr. Finigan, Winchester High became the first public school in New England to receive an award from the American Association of Physics for the excellence of the school's physics program.

Charles H. Newton

Charles H. Newton of 7 Trinity Road died suddenly at the Winchester Hospital on Thursday, October 20, at the age of 57. He had been a resident here for 15 years.

Mr. Newton was operations manager of the United Motors Service, a division of General Motors Corporation on Cross Street here. He was an extremely popular and well respected executive and had been with the company for 37 years, working his way up from office boy. His associates point to the fact that under his direction, the plant always had very happy labor-management relationships.

Mr. Newton was born in Boston September 9, 1909, the son of Charles H. and Mary G. (Kiley) Newton. He was a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers and the General Motors Management Club as well as a former member of the Mr. and Mrs. Club of Saint Mary's Church. The family had lived on Wildwood Street before moving two years ago.

Mr. Newton is survived by his wife, Lillian R. (McInerney); by three sons, Charles H. of Rochester, New York, and Robert J. and John J. of Winchester; by two brothers, Kenneth B. of Belmont and John W. of Needham; two sisters, Mrs. Peter J. Needham of Brookline and Miss Isabel Newton of Brighton and by two grandchildren.

The Reverend Henry A. Marquardt was celebrant at a funeral Mass held at Saint Eulalia's Church at 10 o'clock on Saturday, October 22, following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Miss Mary Young Regan

A solemn high Mass will be sung on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. at Saint Mary's Church for Miss Mary Young Regan, 75, who died yesterday morning in the Pond View Nursing Home in Stoneham after an illness of two years.

Miss Regan had resided at the Carlisle House of the Winchester Arms for the past 15 years and was well known there as the former secretary of the Arms. She lived here for over 45 years. A nurse, Miss Regan had earlier been nurse and secretary for a great many years to the famous Boston surgeon, Dr. Harvey Cushing.

Visiting hours are to be at the Lane Funeral Home this evening from 7 to 9 p.m., and tomorrow, Friday, October 28, from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. The funeral at 9 a.m. Saturday will be from the Funeral Home and burial is to be in Calvary Cemetery, Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

Mrs. Alice (Thompson) Doolittle

The Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiated at services Monday afternoon in the Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church for Mrs. Alice (Thompson) Doolittle, 84, who died on Saturday, October 22, at the Fairlawn Nursing Home in Lexington.

Mrs. Doolittle had made her home here with her surviving daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Van Vloten of Westland Avenue, for the past 22 years She was the widow of Fred E. Doolittle. She is survived also by a son, Harold F. of Westport, Conn., and by three grandsons.

Mrs. Doolittle was born in Munson on September 18, 1882. In Winchester she had been a member of the Republican Club and the Fortnightly, as well as the First Congregational Church.

Mrs. Anne (Kearney) Moses

Notice of the death Wednesday of Mrs. Anne (Kearney) Moses, wife of Dr. Sanford H. Moses of 8 Prospect Street, was received by the Star just at press time. Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Moses on Friday, October 28, at 2 p.m. at the First Congregational Church. An obituary will appear in the paper next week.

CAPITOL COMMENT

By YOUR CONGRESSMAN
BRAD MORSE

With the 89th Congress moving toward adjournment in mid-October, there is a great push underway to meet the sizable backlog of legislation which still has to be considered and acted upon. As the week ended, the House concluded its debate and passed the Poverty Bill Amendments. Friday's schedule included 3 major bills:

As part of the Administration's 5-point anti-inflationary and lower interest-rate program, a 16-month suspension of the 7% tax credit on business investment and of authority for accelerated tax write-off on depreciation of industrial and commercial buildings; amendments to the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, and of key interest to 5th District residents, the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments, which has already passed the Senate, and as reported out of the House Public Works Committee, substantially increases federal water polution control programs, expanding grant programs for sewage treatment plant construction, and adding the new "Clean Rivers Restoration Program."

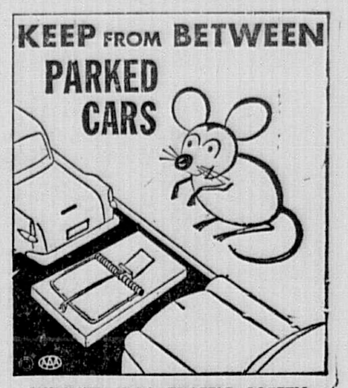
Despite action on these bills, however, the House still has to face major legislation which as yet has not been given a schedule date for action.

It is likely that in the next week, or soon thereafter, the House will consider the Truth-in-Packaging Bill This bill passed earlier by the Senate and now awaiting a scheduling date from the House Rules Committee, would authorize the establishment of federal standards to prevent unfair or deceptive packaging and labeling practices in interstate and foreign commerce.

Besides continuing appropriations legislation, in the next few weeks Congress will most likely take action on at least two more notably controversial bills, the Demonstration Cities Bill, and the Food for Peace Bill. Demonstration Cities would provide for a concentrated and coordinated attack on urban blight to cities, selected under federal standards, which would receive 80% of local costs for the entire array of federal housing, welfare and transport aids. The Food for Peace Bill, now in the form of a compromised House-Senate Conference Report, would amend and enlarge the existing Food for Peace Program, emphasizing planned production for export of surplus disposal, and requiring efforts on the part of foreign countries to increase their own agricultural production as a condition for receiving food under the program.

The present deadline for the completion of the above legislation and other important business before Congress is October 15, and every attempt is being made to meet it.

The Administration has indicated, however, that if legislation is not completed by this date, it will permit Congress to recess but will recall it after elections in November. This remains to be seen.



WINNER, AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

Morse

The group visited Town Hall offices, greeting municipal officials and employees, stopped at the Police and Fire Stations, and visited store owners and shoppers by Randall's.

A half-hour trip to the J. H. Winn Company plant on Washington Street was followed by a visit to the Post Office and then the local Republican Headquarters on Waterfield Road—stopping to talk to high school students doing work there, staff workers and visitors.

A tour by stores on Church Street by Renton's was followed by a walk through the Common and talking to residents, and then to the Winchester Star offices and meeting with the editor.

Starting again at McCormack's Apothecary, Cong. Morse visited stores along Main Street up to Bonnell Motors, then to the V.F.W. and Knights of Columbus' Halls.

After a quick snack at Mr. Lyman's house, Cong. Morse returned to Lowell at 6:30 after a rapid-pace but friendly visit through Winchester meeting and talking with his constituents.

He was scheduled to return to Winchester late Wednesday afternoon to finish his visit to upper Washington, Swanton and Main Street areas.

Metco Panel Draws Full House Here

A highly interested capacity audience was at the Wyman School auditorium last Thursday evening to hear a visiting panel draw the picture of how Metco works in the school systems which have already adopted it and what they may expect if it comes to Winchester.

Thoughtful and provocative questions marked the period following the presentation, and panel members were detained nearly a hour after the formal presentation closed, by those still wanting to know more. The panel members were Joseph Killory, director of Metco, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson (replacing Mrs. Ruth Batson) of its staff, Paul Parks, Metco vice president, and Dr. Robert I. Sperber, superintendent of the Brookline schools.

Dr. Sperber was especially enthusiastic and emphasized the real gains of youngsters in the host community as well as those of their visitors from Boston. No major problems had appeared yet with the 75 Metco students (52 elementary, 23 high school) who have enrolled for six weeks in Brookline.

He described to the audience (made up of Wyman parents but with a large augmentation of mothers and fathers from other parts of town) the system worked out in his town, which gives supportive care to the school department in this venture: a Metco Council of Brookline parents works as a liaison group and each visiting youngster has a host family in his school area to help in cases of sickness, etc.

Mr. Killory emphasized the voluntary aspects of the program. If Brookline decides it doesn't like it, it can pull out any time. He told the story of how federal financial help under title 3 of the Elementary Education Act is placing 220 city children this year in schools in seven suburban communities here.

In clarification of an often held misconception, it was stated that the Metco students are neither outstanding nor below-level students but rank slightly below the medial level for the nation.

Wallace McDonald of Norwood Street, Harvard University administrator, moderated the panel and was introduced by Mrs. McDonald, chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Joseph Harris was present and spoke for the School Committee, which on January 24 of this year voted to participate with Metco but, because of present overcrowding was unable to make a commitment as to when. In answer to a question he said that the earliest time the committee could reconsider its decision would be at the time of the opening of the new Tufts Road school.

Prior to the panel discussion, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. John Sutherland, president of Wyman Parents' Association. Mrs. John Dolan read the secretary's report and Mrs. Claude Shannon, the treasurer's report. William Warnock, principal, welcomed the guests and presented the Wyman staff.

Miss Carol Jean Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Barnes of 77 Walnut Street and Frank John Bird III son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bird, Jr., Stoneham, were married recently in St. Patrick's Church, Stoneham. The reception was held at the Burlington Country Club.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK J. BIRD III

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her ivory silk peau de soie dress had pearl and crystal beads on its empire bodice and bell skirt. A circle of flowers held her illusion veil and she carried pink roses and miniature carnations held with a pink velvet ribbon.

Miss Ruth Barnes was her sisters maid of honor. She wore a pink floor-length silk dress with an empire waistline, accented with green, and a velvet bow. She had a matching pink headpiece and carried pink roses.

Mr. William Bird, brother of the bridegroom was best man. And ushering were Mr. Charles Beauchesne of North Andover, and Mr. James Hureau, of Stoneham. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Carol Bird, assisted with the bride's guest book.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and Fierce Secretarial School. Mr. Bird, an alumnus of Stoneham High School, is a student at Salem State College. The couple are making their home in Salem, after a wedding trip to Cape Cod.

Al-Anon Panel Talk Friday

The Winchester Al-Anon Family Group cordially invites those interested to attend an open panel discussion, Friday, October 28, at 8:30 p.m.

The panel will consist of members of Al-Anon and Alcoholics Anonymous and guest panelist Mrs. Julia O'Brien, executive director of the Eastern Middlesex Committee of Alcoholism. The meeting is at the First Baptist Church, corner of Washington and Mt. Vernon Streets.

If you have a problem with drinking in the home, those already working together suggest you try to attend.

Abel—Littleton

On Saturday, October 22 in the Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church at a simple ceremony performed by Dr. Robert A. Storer and attended by members of the immediate families, Miss Constance Ann Littleton was married to Mr. Walter Lewis Abel, Jr. of Wenham.

The bride, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Earle F. Littleton of Cranston Road, was given in marriage by her father. Miss Jane Candace Littleton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. Abel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewis Abel of Wenham, had as his best man his brother, Mr. Christopher Robert Abel, also of Wenham.

The ushers were Mr. David Alan Littleton of Bedford and Mr. Barry Woodman Littleton of Winchester, brothers of the bride.

The bride wore a white lace mantilla with her gown of white satin brocade and her attendant, attired in a gown of cranberry velvet, wore a mantilla of ecru lace.

Mrs. Abel attended Colorado Woman's College and Tufts University. Mr. Abel is a member of the class of 1967 at Tufts University and the Zeta Psi fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel will make their home in Winchester.

Miss Russell Is Engaged

Mr and Mrs. Harlow Russell II of Ashburnham, formerly of Winchester, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Victoria Russell of San Francisco, California, to Mr. David M. Roberts of Columbia, Missouri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Roberts of Joplin, Missouri.

MISS VICTORIA RUSSELL

Miss Russell is a graduate of Cushing Academy and of Radcliffe College. She received her master of arts degree at Stanford University and is presently teaching in an elementary school in the San Francisco area.

Mr. Roberts is an alumnus of Joplin High School and Wesleyan University, class of 1964. He is a senior at the University of Missouri Law School where he is editor-in-chief of the Missouri Law Review, vice president of the law school board of governors and a member of the Delta Phi fraternity.

Caputo—Hertz

A reception in the Oval Room of the Sheraton Plaza followed the two o'clock ceremony at Saint Mary's Church on Sunday, October 23, which joined in marriage Miss Wendy Susan Hertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark M. Hertz of Latham, New York and Mr. Gerald Anthony Caputo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Louis Caputo of 6 Hillcrest Parkway.

MRS. GERALD A. CAPUTO

The bride was graduated from the Rhode Island School of Design with a bachelor of fine arts degree in apparel design and until recently she has been in sportswear design in New York City. She was attired for her wedding in a floor length gown of her own design, fashioned of imported champagne silk satin and crepe. Her headpiece was a pillbox of matching satin with tulle veiling and she carried a grouping of three calla lilies.

The bridegroom prepared at Belmont Hill School and Worcester Academy for the Rhode Island School of Design. He is an architectural designer and is associated with his father as manager of Builder's Iron Works in Sommerville.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Donna Jayne Hertz as maid of honor and by the sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. B. Robert Talanian of Dedham as matron of honor. Miss Hertz was in a floor length gown of champagne crepe with a beaded empire bodice and Mrs. Talanian in a champagne silk and worsted gown. Both carried bouquets of fall flowers. Miss Robin Lori Hertz was her sister's junior bridesmaid. She was in a gown of imported champagne silk crepe designed by the bride and she carried a nosegay of fall flowers and wore a headpiece of ivy. Attending as flower girls were the Misses Robyn and Lynne Talanian of Dedham, nieces of the bridegroom, and as ringbearer, Master David Talanian of Dedham, his nephew. The young ladies were in dresses of white satin, organdy trimmed with green sashes and rosettes. They carried nosegays of fall flowers and wore ivy wreaths in their hair.

The mother of the bride wore a full length gown of white textured silk fashioned with a beaded bodice and worn with an orchid corsage, and for her son's wedding, Mrs. Caputo chose a white satin and green textured silk full length gown fashioned with a beaded bodice and worn with an orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip to Cape Cod and the Islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, the couple will make their home in Winchester.

Engagement Of Miss Yagjian

The engagement of Miss Janice C. Yagjian to Dr. Glen A. Gulezian, son of Dr. and Mrs. Aram Gulezian, Haverhill, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Yagjian of 66 Grove Street and Harwich.

MISS JANICE C. YAGJIAN

Miss Yagjian, a 1963 debutante, is a senior at Connecticut College for women. Dr. Gulezian attended Tufts University and Massachusetts College of Optometry and is a practicing optometrist in Haverhill.

A June wedding is planned.

Marriage Intentions

John Herbert Edmands of 2 Hillside Avenue and Katherine Joanne Comins of 1 Manomet Road.

Callahan—Darcy

Mary Lee Darcy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Darcy of Maynard, became the bride of James J. Callahan III, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Callahan, Jr. of Richardson Street on September 17 at St. Bridget's Church in Maynard.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES J. CALLAHAN III

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a silk faced peau-de-soie and re-embroidered Alencon lace gown with scoop neckline and attached to a circlet of matching beaded lace. She carried a cascade of stephanotis, snowdrift, and ivy.

The maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Miss Donna Laronga of Holliston. Other attendants were Miss Susan Callahan, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Eunice Sanderson of Newton. The attendants wore identical gowns of olive green crepe fashioned with scoop neckline and matching velvet leaves on skirt and full back panel.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Darcy chose a two piece ensemble of gold brocade dress and brown velvet coat with matching rose accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a light pink suit with matching rose accessories.

After the reception, held at the Concord Rod and Gun Club, the couple left on a honeymoon trip through the White Mountains of New Hampshire.

Both the bride and bridegroom are recent graduates of Northeastern University. They will reside in South Acton.

The Winchester Star
Established 1880 By Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.
Serving The Community For 86 Years

Editorials:

Pollution Is Here

Although most comfortable Winchester suburbanites tend to consider the problems of air and water pollution as something of a big city or far away condition that doesn't or likely won't affect them very much directly; the fact of the situation is that the people of this community will be more and more confronted with the matter of pollution.

In the past year, it will be remembered, many residents on the southerly side of town found cause to become upset with a pollution condition that occurred in the Mystic Lakes near Medford. In the latter part of the summer, some residents on the northerly side of the town became sick with pollution odors in the air.

While investigations into both occurrences resulted in reports attempting to identify the sources of the pollution problems, neither was guaranteed to be the right answer . . . and it couldn't be promised that either pollution condition might not crop up again!

For those who look upon the Aberjona River as Winchester's beautiful waterway; we can only say it may have been beautiful and somewhat clean some time ago, but now it is in many places nothing more than a dirty, littered, polluted, stagnant stream—for example: where it runs under Cross Street by Davidson Park and Leonard Pool.

So residents concerned about local living conditions, atmosphere, and other aspects of community life here, should be cognizant of the fact that air and water pollution not only can happen here, it already has. And, it can be a problem again.

Any persons interested in learning more about pollution as it exists and can develop in the Mystic Valley area here, might find a meeting being held tonight in the Sons of Italy Hall from 7:30 to 9:30 by the Mystic Valley Citizens for Pollution Control a very rewarding and enlightening experience.

Beautification Rewarding

The news this week that the local Post Office received a Citation of Merit award for the beautifying of its grounds should prove that the enhancing of something in the community does not go unnoticed; and in this case it proved rewarding not only to the custodian, Gildo Corsi, but to all the personnel at the Post Office who shared in the honor and live with the more attractive working surroundings.

And the importance of the beautifying effort at the Post Office did not go unnoticed at the local level either, for not only have many citizens commented on the greater attractiveness of the federal installation, but many community civic leaders and businessmen turned out to observe the award ceremony—because it meant that much that Winchester was made more attractive and better!

At other public properties, the Town Park Department strives to keep Winchester beautiful year 'round, such as the brilliantly successful effort at the attractive Commons shows. And as at the Town Hall, under custodian Frank Muraco, displays so beautifully. The Public Library is another good example.

Some public areas still have room for improvement, such as at some of the school properties, Davidson Park, and a few other places. But generally, the town's public domain doesn't look too bad—in fact, it looks on the whole quite attractive. And the new attractiveness of the Post Office adds a healthy luster to the town's shining beauties.

Comment:

The Trick or Treat editorial cartoon shown below should be significant in the thinking of most responsible and knowledgeable adults today; but another Trick or Treat program should give young and old alike a special sense of warmth and significance as the now annual UNICEF Halloween approaches and each is able to contribute in a genuine direct gift of help and aid to children around the world.

The United Nations International Children's Fund, which just last year was awarded the Nobel Prize for saving children's lives since its beginning in 1946, reports that if all the children and mothers helped by UNICEF each year were to hold hands at the Equator, they would circle the world.

Many of Winchester's youngsters, from preschool to college age, will join with millions of other boys and girls in over 13,000 other communities from coast to coast in getting ready to celebrate UNICEF's twentieth anniversary by showing greater enthusiasm than ever before in collecting Halloween "treats" of pennies, nickels and dimes. And, in months to come, the fruit of this mammoth effort by these youngsters will be transformed into vital supplies, equipment, medicines and vaccines for more that 100 underdeveloped countries around the world.

The UNICEF motto "Share rather than Scare" takes Halloween away from some of its least desirable connotations and acts of vandalism and senseless pranks—which should please homeowners, parents, police and firemen, the clergy, and just about everybody—and instead channels these youthful energies into taking part in a constructive project that is of particular benefit to children in other lands.

For the youngsters themselves, it is a fine opportunity to combine their traditional fun with a constructive, rewarding activity of their own— the world's greatest effort by children to help children.

Some idea of what the pennies, nickels and dimes collected by the youngsters will accomplish in the months ahead, may be shown in the statistic that every day UNICEF-bearing vehicles travel roughly the distance of 30 times around the world, or four times the distance from the earth to the moon, to complete the job of helping children around the world. In another way: the dried milk shipped by UNICEF would fill the United Nations building more than 25 times!

This program deserves all the participation it gets, both from the noble children of goodwill, and the generous "treaters" of pennies, nickels and dimes, which together, make UNICEF the success it is.

New TurboTrain Designs For Passenger Service May Signal Rebirth Of Rail Transit In U. S.

City-To-City Trains

A swift lightweight passenger train based on the technology of flight and design by a leading aerospace company will enter service early next year in the United States and Canada, with regular Boston to New York runs scheduled to begin in March.

The TurboTrain was conceived on aerodynamic principles, with power provided by aircraft-type gas turbine engines. It was designed by United Aircraft Corporate Systems Center of Farmington, Connecticut, the systems engineering and systems management division of United Aircraft Corporation.

The TurboTrain will be lighter, faster, quieter, smoother and more reliable than conventional trains, and cheaper to run.

It will be operated between Boston and New York as part of the Northeast Corridor high-speed ground transportation project under contract to the U. S. Department of Commerce. In Canada, Canadian National Railways will operate TurboTrains between Toronto and Montreal.

United Aircraft was awarded a $2.1 million contract on January 21, 1966, by the Department of Commerce to build two three-car models of the train. United will lease the equipment to the government for two years for $970,392, with an option of two more years if needed for the demonstration. The cost of providing maintenance and replacement of spare parts is placed at $938,840 over the two years. Additional costs include tests and adjustments. The Boston-New York TurboTrains will receive maintenance at a United Aircraft facility in Providence, Rhode Island.

Canadian National Railways announced on May 17, 1966, that it was ordering five TurboTrains of seven cars each for the Montreal-Toronto service, The trains are being obtained under a lease-maintenance arrangement with United Aircraft. They will be operated in tandem sets of 14 cars with a total capacity of 660 passengers.

The Pullman Standard division of Pullman, Inc., Chicago, Illinois, is manufacturing the Northeast Coridor TurboTrains under subcontract to Nnited Aircraft. Mon-Corridor TurboTrains under subcontractor to United Aircraft of Canada Limited, is fabricating the Canadian National trains.

The TurboTrain can travel at speeds up to 160 miles per hour. Fully articulated, the train is powered by ST6 gas turbines, based on the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft turboprop PT6, manufactured by United Aircraft of Canada.

The TurboTrain can be built in lengths ranging from three to nine cars per train, and in intercity, commuter, and rapid-transit versions.

It has a streamlined, airplane-like exterior, designed to minimize drag, with a skin of smooth, heavy-guage aluminum. A domed, passenger-carrying power car will be at each end, one pulling and the other pushing the passenger coaches in between. Each power dome car will be equipped with from two to four of the aircraft-type gas turbine engines.

The train can be powered directly by the turbines, through mechanical drive as in the Department of Commerce and Canadian National models, or the engines can be linked to generators which supply electricity to run the train by electrical traction motors. The train is equipped with a third-rail pickup in necessary instances, such as the Department of Commerce train which will operate in New York City tunnels.

Inside the cars, the layout and decor will resemble a jet airliner's interior. There will be carpeting and draperies, soft, indirect lighting and individually controlled reading lights at each seat, fold-down tables, reclining seats with head rests, and carry-on luggage racks at the doors. Airliner-type galleys can be installed for food service at passenger's seats.

The doors will be in the center of the cars. The cars will be heated and air-conditioned electrically, with cigarette smoke removed from the air at each seat area, as in a modern jetliner.

Under present schedules, the best rail time offered between Boston and New York is 4 hours and 15 minutes; between New York and Washington, 3 hours and 35 minutes; between Hartford and New York. 2 hours and 20 minutes; and between Boston and Providence, 50 minutes.

United Aircraft's TurboTrain can reduce these times, respectively, to 3 hours, 2 hours and 36 minutes, 1 hour and 40 minutes, and 35 minutes. These performances were calculated through detailed studies, made with the help of computers at United Aircraft Research Laboratories, which simulated actual train operations over present trackage, including all banks, curves, crossings, and grades as they now exist on the runs studied. With improvements in railroad signaling, the travel times could be cut still further.

Canadian National's Rapido, described as the fastest intercity passenger train in North America, now runs between Montreal and Toronto, a distance of 335 miles, in 4 hours and 59 minutes. The TurboTrains will cut this time to less than 4 hours.

According to Corporate Systems Center President Charles M. Kearns, Jr., the TurboTrain incorporates design elements that make it "far superior to all other railroad equipment presently available, in terms of passenger appeal, operating efficiency, and return on investment."

Analyses by United Aircraft indicate that a seven-car TurboTrain of 325-passenger capacity, operating over a 330-mile route, will cost about 30 percent less per mile to run than a conventional train of the same capacity on the same route.

"The basic design philosophy of the TurboTrain is to eliminate unnecessary weight," Kearns said. "This is achieved by using a lightweight power system built around compact engines only five feet long and a foot and a half in diameter, the use of single-axle suspension, and aluminum construction. While major weight savings are made through design and elimination of various components, the structural design actually provides greater structural strength, hence safety, than conventional passenger cars, especially those made of steel."

Kearns said the train is specifically designed for profitable operation by railroads under existing rate patterns.

A seven-car TurboTrain weighs 300,000 pounds, about one-third the weight of a diesel train of the same capacity.

The Pratt and Whitney Aircraft ST6 free turbine engine employed as the powerplant in the TurboTrain delivers up to 500 horsepower but weighs only about 250 pounds. The engines will burn diesel fuel in the trains. In its airborne version, the PT6, the engine powers a number of airplanes and helicopters, both civil and military. It is a proven, fully developed powerplant. Each power dome car will be equipped with from two to four of the engines, depending on the train's makeup and desired schedule.

Engine warmups and idling, as required with diesels, are unnecessary with gas turbines. They can be started quickly at temperatures of 60 degrees below zero and reach full power in less than half a minute, thus providing savings on fuel and maintenance.

Because of its novel design features, Kearns said, the ST6 is probably the quietest gas turbine engine ever built. Interior and exterior noise is minimized, he said, not only by the engines' quietness but also by the elimination of virtually all metal-to-metal contact in the train's suspension system and by other special acoustical approaches.

The trains, being double-ended, need no switching or turn-arounds. This permits a higher rate of equipment utilization.

The cars are two and a half feet lower than standard cars. The lowered center of gravity, a pendulous suspension system, and guided axles will enable the train to round curves, with no change in present road beds, at speeds up to 30 percent greater than is possible with regular trains.

Like an airplane, the car will bank inwardly around curves under the influence of centrifugal force, as opposed to the outward motion experienced in today's trains. So a passenger will remain upright in his seat at all times instead of bing flung to one side on a fast curve.

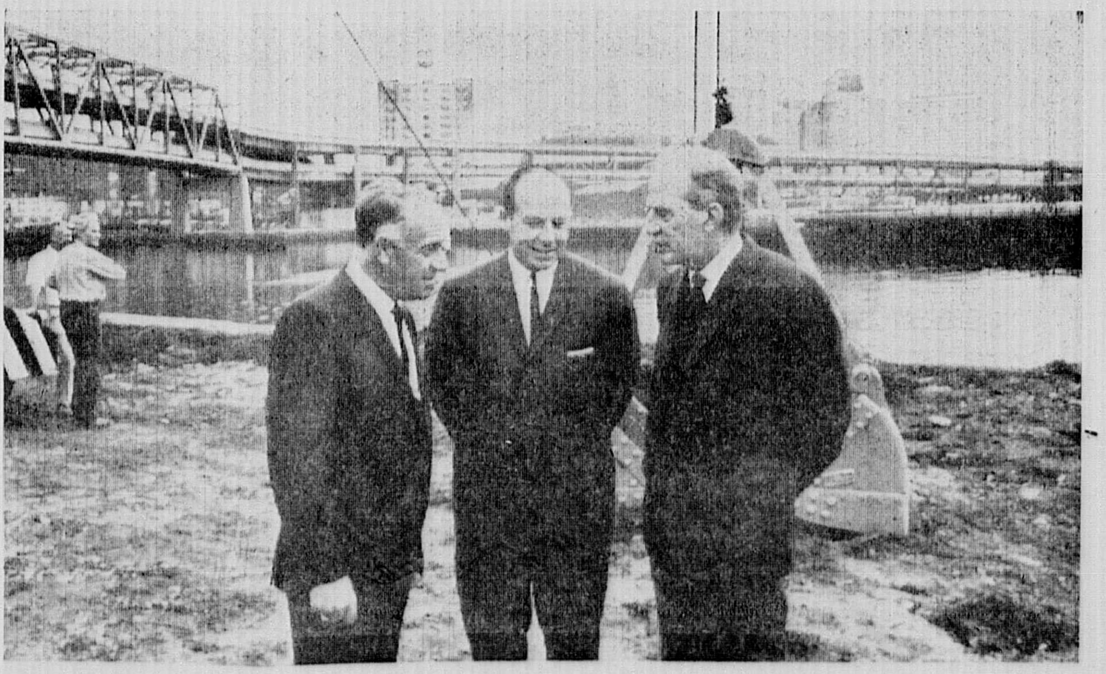
By means of guidance assemblies, the axles, one between each pair of cars, will be steered around curves. This will reduce flange wear and the tendency of conventional suspensions to shimmy. The result will be a smoother, swifter, more efficient ride around curves, with greater passenger comfort.

The capacity of the cars will depend on the seating arrangements and furnishings specified by the operating railroad. A typical power dome car, with parlor and coach compartments will seat about the same number.

United Aircraft has proposed the TurboTrain, in a five-car version carrying up to 250 passengers, in connection with the Connecticut Transportation Authority's plan to provide high-speed rail transportation for the New Haven Railroad to run between Hartford and New York.

United Aircraft's interest in railroad technology is an outgrowth of the work of its Pratt and Whitney Aircraft division, the world's leading designer and producer of jet engines, in adapting its gas turbines for non-aeronautical uses. The company has intensified its efforts in train design as a result of the widespread interest on the part of the Federal Government, Congress, and the railroad industry in applying technological advances to rail transportation, with initial emphasis on the Northeast Corridor stretching from Boston to Washington.

Big Construction For Rapid Transit



GREATER BOSTON TRANSIT SYSTEM begins new $369-million construction program with start of $22-million tunnel across Charles River from North Station to old Charlestown Prison site. Instead of digging under river, new open-ditch construction method will be used with pre-cast concrete sections dropped into 65-foot-deep pit dug into river and shielded from water refill by steel pile sheathing and pumps. ANTIWORLDS

by Andrei Voznesensky

If painting is the national art of France, then poetry is the national art of Russia according to Andrei Voznesensky, who at 33 has published five volumes of poetry and is considered to be along with his compatriot, Yevtushenko, one of the most-celebrated and controversial figures in the Soviet Union.

His latest book, "Antiworlds," has and advance subscription sale of 300,000 copies. That poetry should have such popular appeal in Russia must come as a surprise to many Americans. In this country for a series of readings, Voznesensky recently stated that for the Russians, "The tradition of reciting poetry is not only alive, but it's growing all the time. Pasternak, Blok, Akhmatova, Esinen always made public appearances before large crowds. Poets read to 14,000 people in sports stadiums. So this tradition is spreading. My friends and I in Russia have to some extent widened the scope of poetry in this way."

These readings are called "literary concerts" and last at least three hours. Sometimes a poet is asked to recite a particular poem several times during the course of the program.

The poems of "Antiworlds" are thoroughly contemporary in the exercise of craftsmanship as well as in the spirit which pervades them. They are alive with humor, vitality, keen observation and a fresh imagination. Some have the quality of simplicity and naivete, others of pity and rage. They are poems of a young man who looks at things square in the eye. "We were not born to survive, alas, But to step on the gas."

The effectiveness of poems cannot be garnered by quoting them in part, but perhaps some of the flavor may get through. Some of those simplest in construction have been chosen. Here is the whole of one of his poems:

FIRST FROST

A girl is freezing in a telephone booth huddled in her flimsy coat, he face stained by tears
and smeared with lipstick.
She breathes on her thin little fingers.
Fingers like ice. Glass beads in her ears.
She has to beat her way back alone down the icy street.

First frost. A beginning of losses.
The first frost of telephone phrases.
It is the start of winter glittering on her cheek,
the first frost of having been hurt.

What poet has ever written a poem on the nose? This Russian has done so, and a very humorous one it is. Parts of it go like this:

During the night they grow
On every citizen, high or low,
On janitors, mininsters, rich and poor,
Hooting endlessly like owls, . . .

and the poem ends:

They report that Eskimos
Kiss with their nose.

Among us this has not caught on.

The poem "Ode to Gossips" contains this judgment:

O great tales, O gossips
I love their regal lips,
Their ears like toilet bowls
Pure white and infallible.

The scientific world and the meaning of the machine to man comes out in a series of verses toward the end of the book.

The world is not junk up for auction.
I am Andrei, not just anyone.
All progress is retrogression
If the process breaks man down . . .
Only one thing on earth is constant
Like the light of a star that has gone;
It is the continuing radiance
They used to call "the human soul." . . .

In many of his poems, his technique is to ask questions and to imply possibilities and answers. In others the qualities are both tenderness and detachment.

Someone is beating a woman
In the car that is dark and hot
Only the whites of her eyes shine
Her legs thrash against the roof
Like berserk searchlight beams.. . . .
And the stars? Rattling in the sky
Like raindrops against black glass
Plunging down,
they cool
Her grief-fevered forehead.

letters to the editor

Reporting On Teen Behavior Held Different

Editor of The Star:

I would like to open this letter by saying that I have the utmost respect and high regard for our Winchester Police Department and think they are doing a terrific job in dealing with our youth problems.

The main purpose of this letter, however, is to cirticize the reporting by the Winchester Star in its Oct. 13 issue of the excellently run first young people's Ecumenical dance in this town at the St. Eulalia's church on Oct. 8.

I think it would have been in much better taste and much more encouraging to the hundreds of boys and girls who did behave themselves properly to point out the good and positive features of this dance instead of dwelling exclusively on the unpleasant aspects. This is poor psychology!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Philip Marvel

Citizen Worries About Lethargy In Voter Spirit

Editor of The Star:

Once upon a time a little girl worried, because someone told her there wasn't any Santa Clause, wrote to the editor of a newspaper, and he allayed her fears, by telling her all about the Spirit of Christmas which really is Santa Claus.

Now, upon this time, because I am so childlike in my mind, that I worry about the Spirit that involves the running of our country, I write to you, asking how we can bring back, the Spirit in our people that will awaken them from their lethargy?

This lethargy that allows them to forget how important it is to demand top references and affidavits before they place in their hands the running of the government of our towns, cities, states and our country.

Big business would insist on these references and investigate them also, before they hired anyone to fill their executive positions. Does our country have less importance to us than big business has to it's employer?

Good parents would certainly want references from persons they might of necessity put in their homes in charge of their children, and wisely inquire into their references.

Is not our country as great in importance as the home we raise the children in and where we hopefully try to establish codes of honor and ideals to live by?

But we the voters of the United States who have the privilege of choosing men of honor, integrity and ability allow ourselves to become mesmerized, hoodwinked, or just plain lethargic, and thereby because of ourselves, our lack of Spirit the administration of our country is unquestioningly placed in the hands of men indicted for various offenses, some who are even serving terms for offenses. And others who would have all records of the Crime Investigation Committee destroyed so that theirs and their friends records will not be available for the purpose of reference again.

We have the Spirit of Christmas well established. Please tell me, Mr. Editor, how to do the same for the Spirit of the Voters so they will, by their voting, demand the best leadership for our country?

Sincerely,
Florence Crossland

A Tribute

Editor of the Star:

In the death of Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, Winchester has lost an exemplary human being.

A distinguished-looking man and rightly so, he came when you needed him—money made no difference.

Imbued with a sense of values, he was always close to his God.

May he rest in peace.

Sincerely,
Jim Corrigan

Two New Officers Join Police Here

Two new full-time police officers were appointed for the town by the Board of Selectmen at their regular meeting on Monday night.

They are Roger DeMinico, 23, of 85 Harvard Street and John McKinley, 27, of 7 Holton Street. Officer DeMinico has been on temporary duty with the local force for a year, and Officer McKinley has served since early summer.

Officer DeMinico, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine DeMinico of 40 Florence Street, was born and educated here and is a 1960 graduate of Winchester High School. A star athlete here, he caught the WHS varsity, played end on the football team and was varsity basketball also. At the University of Massachusetts, where he studied for three years, he was also varsity football.

Officer DeMinico is married to the former Paulette (Meleen) and is the father of one girl.

Officer McKinley lives at 7 Holton Street with his wife, Virginia (Larson), and two boys. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. McKinley of Elmwood Avenue, was born and went through the schools here.

Officer McKinley was graduated from the Essex Agricultural School in Hawthorne in 1956 before joining the U. S. Army, which he served for three year, two in Washington and one in France. On his return he entered the University of Massachusetts Animal Husbandry College, Stockbridge, and was awarded his associate degree there in 1962 in animal science. Between this time and joining the force here he has been herdsman at the James Reynolds Larch Farm Dairy in Wenham.

Heritage Delegates

Question 2: What are the major problems confronting the District Attorney?

Candidates

John J. Droney, Cambridge, Democrat

Present Occupation: Attorney-District Attorney

Answer 1: Member Massachusetts, Federal and U. S. Supreme Court Bars. Assistant and then First Assistant District Attorney 1956-1959. District Attorney 1959-1966. Received Simpson Award for creating a Legal Internship program in the District Attorney's office. Navy veteran, WW II. Former Judge Advocate of the George Dilboy V.F.W. Post 529, Somerville, and American Legion Post 27, Cambridge. Present Cambridge Bar Association, 1966.

Answer 2: New state and federal legislation. More manpower and investigators. A state-wide attack on organized crime.

James N. Gabriel—Cambridge, Republican

Answer 1: My education, eighteen years practicing law before Massachusetts and Federal Bars; four years as a regular assistant to Attorney General Brooke.

Answer 2: The duty to wage war on crime, not merely to prosecute; to institute programs to prevent crime; to use the influence of his office to establish public and private activities to combat causes of juvenile delinquency; fight organized crime; help in continuing education of local police to assure understanding and implementation of the ever-changing criminal and constitutional laws.

STATE SENATOR 6TH MIDDLESEX SENATORIAL DISTRICT

Term: 2 years; salary: $7,500 puls mileage.

Duties: Forty members in the Senate. Enact laws dealing with state appropriations and finance, public welfore, taxation, conservation, public works, housing and education.

Question 1: If elected what action would you take in the areas of: a. Tax program, b. Civil Service, c. Public education, including the state's responsibility for higher education, d. Housing, particularly low-income?

Question 2: As a legislator, on what specific issue affecting your district would you concentrate your efforts?

Candidates

William A. Barnstead—Arlington, Republican

Present Occupation: Owner-Mfg. Scientific Apparatus.

Answer 1: a. 100% behind Sales Tax as the only feasible plan to provide funds to meet the state's needs; reduce runaway local taxes and to provide desperately needed funds for education. b. Back the Governor's plan for Civil Service reform, long overdue, which provides for a true merit system, recruiting and training programs and the establishment of educational requirements. c. Support plans to double capacity of State institutions for higher education by 1971 and modernize vocational education. d. Am studying House Bill 3326, the Governor's program for aid in housing with particular interest in the question of establishing housing courts.

Answer 2: It seems to me that an educational program to promote the continuation of the Sales Tax because of the Initiative referendum does not provide alternative means of raising needed revenue.

Philibert L. Pellegrini—Arlington, Democrat.

Answer 1: a. I favor a responsible and equitable program designed to alleviate the oppressive real estate tax burden. b. There is legislation pending to update Civil Service procedures. The time has come where some reform must be made to alleviate inconsistencies and injustices. c. I am on record strongly supporting the Willis Report. The time has arrived for the Commonwealth to meet its requirements in furnishing additional space and facilities for students. Our state's future depends upon today's students. Classrooms must be available for them. d. I support legislation pending to alleviate problems of obtaining decent housing for persons with inadequate incomes.

Answer 2: One major problem is the high cost of compulsory auto insurance. Premium rates should be equitably established. I have supported and voted for legislation which would base the cost of insurance on financial responsibility. People who have good driving records should not be penalized by poor drivers.

REPRESENTATIVE IN GENERAL COURT 29TH MIDDLESEX DISTRICT

Term: 2 years; salary: $7,500 plus mileage.

Duties: 240 members in the House of Representatives. Enact laws dealing with state appropriations and finance, public welfare, taxation, conservations, public works, housing and education.

Questions 1 and 2: Same as above for Senate.

Candidate - unopposed

Harrison Chadwick—Winchester, Republican

Answer 1: a. The Sales Tax should be retained. The distinction between earned and unearned income should be eliminated. b. Massachusetts' Civil Service system should be completely reorganized. c. The state should take over the financing and development of vocational education. At higher education levels, more students should be channeled through community colleges and admitted only to the last two years of four-year colleges. All state institutions of higher learning should operate on a tri-semester basis to help hold down the astronomical costs. d. Private enterprise has not provided a sufficient amount of decent, low-income housing. Government must fill the gap.

Answer 2: Commuter transportation.

REGISTER OF PROBATE MIDDLESEX COUNTY

Term: 6 years; salary: $15,750.

Duties: Handles the detailed work concerning the Probat Court. All wills, divorce actions, and petitions that come before the court are first cleared through him.

Quesion 1: What is your background and experience that qualifies you for the office you seek?

Question 2: What are the major problems confronting the Register of Probate?

Candidate - unopposed

John V. Harvey—Belmont, Democrat.

Present Occupation: Present Register of Probate.

Answer 1: As a lawyer, a former Assistant Register of Probate and the present Register of Probate for the past nine years, I feel that I am uniquely qualified by education and experience to handle this highly technical office.

Answer 2: The fast-growing county with a population of one-and-one-half-million people is taxing the facilities of Middlesex Probate Court and will require the utmost skill in order to service the citizens of the county.

Dr. Walker Shows "Hope" Film Here

The fall meeting of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital was held October 20 at the home of Mrs. Gilbert H. Hood, Jr. Coffee was served by Mrs. E. Leigh Quinn and the hospital committee, followed by a brief business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Persis Gow, president.

Mrs. George Marks introduced the speaker, Dr. William Walker, chief of Urology at Lemuel Shattuck Hospital, who showed a film of the ship "Hope," stationed, at that time, in Peru.

Under the sponsorship of the People to People Health Foundation, the Hope leaves the United States for a year, spending about 10 months in a foreign port, treating diseases, performing operations and teaching modern medicine to the native doctors and nurses. The uncertainty and fear on the faces of the sick and needy, compared to the emotionally jubilant send-off given the ship on its departure, was a heartwarming experience for many who attended.

Red Cross Notes First Aid Course Changes To Nov. 1

There is still time to register for the Standard First Aid Course offered by the Winchester Chapter of the American National Red Cross.

The date has been changed to Tuesday evening, November 1 at 7:30. The classes will continue on five succeeding Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Carlton W. Totman will conduct the classes at the Red Cross Chapter house, 84 Washington Street. All those interested call 729-2300 to register.

Hospitals Need You; Red Cross Gets You There

Once again the demand is greater than the supply. Volunteers are needed as nurses aides at Bedford Veteran's Hospital and Chelsea Naval Hospital. Under the Military Hospitals Veteran's Committee these aides offer service, working with staff nurses to bring comfort and care to the patients.

The Winchester Chapter of the American National Red Cross would like to join the area effort in filling these volunteer positions.

Certain requirements of training, which may be fulfilled while the volunteer is working are available in this area. A Red Cross basic training for all new volunteers and a hospital orientation class are the requisites in this service. Basic training will be given by the Lexington chapter at the Hancock Church in Lexington on Wednesday, November 2, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and continuing for two hours. Two hospital orientation classes will be conducted in November. One at Chelsea on Wednesday the 16th and the other at Bedford Veterans Hospital on Thursday the 17th. Both classes begin at 9:30 a.m. and continues through the day until 3:30 p.m.

The transportation problem sometimes deters volunteers and limits the number who work if they had a ride available. Focusing on this, the Winchester chapter is trying to form a car pool system which will provide a solution and make a pleasant travel group possible.

Drivers and non-drivers contact the Red Cross chapter and with a co-ordinated effort an efficient working schedule could be organized which would solve the transportation problem and provide more volunteers where they are needed so desperately.

Information regarding the duties of volunteers in this service has been prepared by the Red Cross. If you have the time and would like to be a part of the service, do contact the Winchester chapter at 84 Washington Street, or call 729-2300.

A little of your time can make a big difference to those veterans who have given so much of theirs.

CS Lecturer Norman Holmes: "God–Not Chance"

Christian Science lecturer and former Winchester resident, Normman B. Holmes, C.S.B., speaking here last Thursday evening, called for an end to mankind's obeisance to luck and chance.

The challenge to each of us, he said, is to prove "God's divine purpose in our lives."

We are to prove that: "Nothing can oppose the ceaseless integrity and expanding purpose of our lives directed by God's law. God is supreme. No area of man's experience can ever be outside His control."

The lecture was presented at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester. Mr. Holmes was introduced to the attentive audience by Samuel B. McCarthy, First Reader of the local church. Title of the lecture was "God—Not Chance."

"We often hear such expressions as, 'How's your luck holding out?' or 'I've had nothing but bad luck lately,' or 'I've been pretty lucky this week,' " the lecturer commented.

"Millions of people, unacquainted with the divine law which underlies all existence, believe that individual life purposes and experiences are subject to chance."

This belief in chance comes in many disguises, he noted. The "law of averages" is applied to everything from heredity to happiness.

He quoted a dictionary definition of chaos as "a state of things in which chance is supreme." and warned that "the power of God's divine action remains hidden if we have more faith in chance than in God."

He also quoted two challenging questions from the Christian Science textbook: "Are material means the only refuge from fatal chances? Is there no divine permission to conquer discord of every kind with harmony, with Truth and Love?" (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 394).

Most of the world's belief in chance or luck results from the lack of a deep enough understanding, the lecturer indicated.

"In order to see the operation of God's law as invariable in our experience, we must thoroughly understand the nature of His law."

He described God's law as "wholly spiritual, wholly invariable," and said: "The eternal presence of God as Love is an impartial and unvarying law to each one of us, which disputes and eventually eliminates every discordant claim."

The recognition of this is the first step in bringing our lives under control, Mr. Holmes added.

"It brings out in our lives spiritual qualities such as tenderness, strength, and constant love."

New MSPCA Head Speaking Here

The next MSPCA meeting, to be held at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, November 7, at the home of Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, 4 Curtis Street, will feature David S. Claflin, new president of the Massachusetts SPCA, as speaker.

In 1959, Mr. Claflin joined the staff of the MSPCA in the capacity of hospital administrator, a position he held until being promoted to executive vice-president of the Society and the American Humane Education Society. In May of 1966 the Board of Directors voted Mr. Claflin to the presidency. Among his vast duties in running the Society, Mr. Claflin is extremely close to the humane legislation situation, both on the State and Federal levels. Mr. Claflin was recently invited by President Johnson to go to Washington for the signing of the "dognapping bill."

A social hour will follow what promises to be a most interesting meeting.

St. Eulalia's Chi-Rho Elects

Sunday, October 23, St. Eulalia's Chi-Rho elected their officers for the year. They are: Anthony Albiani, president, Carol Sylvester, vice president, Mary Louise Albiani, secretary, Denis Golden, treasurer.

Activities for the year were tentatively planned. These plans included a ski trip, Chi-Rho party, a bowling league, and a retreat.

The next meeting was set for two weeks. Any young adult 18-26 years of age is welcome to attend.

I. C. Prepares Costumes For Halloween Dance

The first dance of the season run by the Immaculate Conception Sodality of Our Lady will be a Halloween costume party on Saturday, October 29, at the parish hall from 8 to 12.

The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Paul Brown and consists of Mrs. James Barry, Mrs. Richard Cantillon, Mrs. Arthur Carr, Mrs. Arthur Collins, Mrs. Andrew Odin, and Mrs. Thomas Parsons.

Costumes are optional but there will be prizes for the prettiest, the funniest, and the most original. So it is hoped that the competition will be as keen as last year.

Music will be provided by Charles Nute and his Multi-tones. Refreshments will be served. The committee sincerely hopes to see all old friends and many new ones on Saturday night.

Radcliffe Women Hear Dominican Ambassador Speak

Winchester women are active in the 1966-67 program of the Radcliffe Club of Boston, which includes more than 500 alumnae from Greater Boston.

The Radcliffe Club's first meeting will be a joint one with members of the Pan-American Society of New England and will be held at Agassiz Theatre, Radcliffe Yard, this evening at 8:15 p.m. Dominican Ambassador to the United States, Hector Garcia-Godoy, will discuss "The Dominican Republic—Past, Present and Future." This will be the first in a series of three joint meetings on current issues in Latin-American relations.

Mrs. John M. Harrington, Jr., of 19 Cabot Street and Mrs. Herbert W. Arnold of 50 Samoset Road are among committee members for the Radcliffe Club of Boston.

Elk's Halloween Childrens Party Is On Friday

The Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold its Annual Halloween Children's Party on Friday evening, October 28, at the Elks Hall.

All Elks and their guests with children 12 and under are invited.

Children are requested to wear costumes and there will be prizes, games and fun for all.

Remember October 28, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The Elks Hall.

Serigraphics: A Demonstration Of An Art Speciality

Silk screening, or, more academically, the art of serigraphics, will come to life for all attendants at the first meeting of the Winchester Art Association to be held Wednesday evening, November 2, in the Rich Room of the Library. All interested persons are invited to attend and to consider membership in the club.

The demonstration will be given by Philip Hicken, chairman of the department of design, School of Practical Art in Boston, who will talk about his art as he paints. A coffee hour will precede his talk.

Mr. Hicken studied art at the Massachusetts School of Art and has taught drawing and painting at the Boston University Graduate School of Design, Harvard University and the Cambridge School of Design. World War II years saw him U.S. Army artist of American and European Theatres and he spent the post war years as training specialist for the Veterans Administration, supervising the training of art students under the G.I. Bill in the art schools of Boston.

Philip Hicken is a member of the National Serigraph Society, Boston Printmakers Association, and an elected Fellow of the Royal Society of Art, England. He is represented in numerous permanent collections, to name a few: Metropolitan Museum, N.Y.C.; United States State Department; Philadelphia Museum of Fine Arts; Princeton University: National Bezalel Museum, Israel. He is also represented in many private collections.

Methodist Youth Planning a Pie And Attic Sale

The Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church are having their first annual Pie and Attic Sale on Saturday morning, November 5th.

The sale will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 1 p.m. Fresh juicy pies, hot from the oven will be featured. Apple pies, squash or pumpkin pies, and maybe even cherry or lemon pies. Antiques galore will be on sale too. Buyers will find just what they're looking for—cabinets, beds, chests, antique tables and chairs, and other conversation pieces. With a fresh coat of paint or a little "antiquing," many tremendous bargains will become useful articles or a piece of furniture in many homes.

All articles will be very reasonably priced! If you have any donations, please call 729-1851 or the Methodist Church at 729-5056. No donations will be accepted after noon, Friday, November 4th.

Uniroyal WINTERIDE SNOW TIRES

Let's face it. You should think about snow tires before it snows. Don't chance getting stuck. Have your snow tires mounted early. In fact, if you wait too long before coming to see us, you may not be able to get the size and style you want. Some of our better snow tires, such as Uniroyal's Winterides, are at a premium even now before the season really begins.

No wonder! A snow tire spends most of its life on snowless roads. And the Winteride is a snow tire tested to do 100 mph . . . when there is no snow. That's one of the reasons it's called The Dry Road Snow Tire and is in such great demand. Winteride's big, big tractor-type treads dig you out of deep snow quick, but also give you a smooth, quiet ride on dry roads where you travel most of the time.

The Record is IMPORTANT

Of the 34 proposals of the Crime Commission to strengthen Massachusetts government only 4 were roll-called in the Senate. Your State Senator voted NO all 4 times.

Your State Senator, Philibert Pellegrini, voted AGAINST allowing public employees to be dismissed from their jobs if they choose not to testify as to their official duties. H 455.

AGAINST requiring the filing of official reports by public authorities. S 553.

AGAINST permitting appeals by the Commonwealth on questions of law under certain conditions in criminal prosecutions. The effect of this would be to allow cases brought by the Attorney General and dismissed because of a legal technicality to be brought again. H 367.

AGAINST money to establish a division within the Attorney General's office for investigation and surveillance.

Is this good representation of your best public interest and safety?

Now, did your Senator lift a finger to rescue any of the other recommendations such as the grant of immunity to witnesses deemed so important in any attempt to prosecute officials for corruption?

The public needs better representation than this in the State Legislature!

More and more voters in this district are becoming aware that our Senator's particular view of politics gives us neither satisfactory representation nor leadership in the State Senate. We need to change.

This Sunday In The Churches

THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
BURLINGTON

Rev. Richard G. Douse, Minister
10 Arlington Road, Ext.
Burlington - 272-9383

Family Worship Service, led by the Reverend Richard G. Douse, is held Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in the United Presbyterian Church, 335 Cambridge Street (Route 3A) and Wilmington Road. (Route 62.) Church school classes for second grade through Senior High School and adults are conducted at 9:15 a.m. Three-year-olds through first grade meet during the worship hour (10:30-11:30 a.m.) A Nursery for infants and toddlers is maintained during both hours.

Sunday, October 30

Reformation Sunday will be observed at the United Presbyterian Church this week with the Rev. Richard Douse taking as his sermon theme "Truly Reformed."

Music for the day will include two selections by the adult choir, "Salvation I Created" by Tschesnokoff and "Almighty God, Who Hast Given Us Grace" by Whittredge.

The final "Fit To Be Tied" program will take place at 6 p.m. Sunday evening for Junior and Senior High students.

The second discussion on Presbyterianism will follow at 7:30 p.m. All those interested in uniting with the church are cordially invited to attend this meeting. There will be an opportunity to meet with the Session at its conclusion.

The Junior choir will meet each Thursday evening at 6:45 p.m. under the direction of Mrs. Richard Douse and just preceding adult choir rehearsal. All children and young people from grade three up who wish to sing, are asked to meet each Thursday beginning Oct. 27th.

Sunday, October 30

"Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions."

This verse from the 51st Psalm is a part of the responsive reading in this week's Lesson-Sermon titled, "Everlasting Punishment," to be read at all Christian Science services this Sunday.

From the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will be read: "Are we benefited by praying? Yes, the desire which goes forth hungering after righteousness is blessed of our Father, and it does not return unto us void."

The Scriptural readings also include the account of healing of Jesus of the Palsied man at the pool of Bathesda.

USAF Now Takes Married Women

The United States Air Force has changed its policy toward married women. In the past, married women were allowed to serve only as Air Force Nurses. Now, married women can apply for the Air Force Officer Training School to become officers and members of the Women in the Air Force (WAF).

Married women, with no dependents, who have a bacculaureate degree from an accredited college or university, or are within 210 days of graduation, and are between 20½ and 29½ may qualify for interesting and challenging jobs in such Air Force career fields as education and training, information, personnel, administrative and many more.

The WAF officer has the same responsibilities on the job, and enjoys the same benefits as a man. Her place on the Aerospace Team is one of leadership. She is an executive at any level of command.

The Air Force policy of assigning married couples to the same base will apply wherever possible for the married woman officer whose husband is also a member of the Aerospace Team.

All Air Force officers enjoy the opportunity for travel and receive free medical and dental care as well as a thirty day paid vacation each year.

Contact your local Air Force Recruiter for details. His office is located at 19 High Street, Medford, and his telephone number is 396-5109.

QUESTIONS

In All Cities and Towns

QUESTION NO. 1
PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held June 11, 1963, received 228 votes in the affirmative and 29 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 5, 1965, received 225 votes in the affirmative and 24 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment provides that at state elections candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor shall be grouped on the official ballot according to the party that they represent and that it shall not be possible to vote for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor except as a partisan group.

QUESTION No. 2
PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 16, 1963, received 169 votes in the affirmative and 100 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 5, 1965, received 200 votes in the affirmative and 61 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment provides that the Governor, for the purpose of making certain structural changes in the executive department, may from time to time prepare reorganization plans to be presented to the General Court. If the General Court fails to disapprove a reorganization plan within sixty days of its presentation and has not prorogued by the end of such sixty days, the plan at that time shall have the force of law.

QUESTION NO. 3
PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held June 11, 1963, received 232 votes in the affirmative and 18 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 19, 1965, received 159 votes in the affirmative and 91 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment authorizes the Commonwealth and the cities and towns therein to provide for municipal industrial development in such manner as the General Court may determine.

QUESTION NO. 4
PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 16, 1963, received 208 votes in the affirmative and 43 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 19, 1965, received 219 votes in the affirmative and 39 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment confers considerable authority upon cities and towns with respect to the conduct of municipal government, including the authority to adopt, repeal and amend city and town charters and, in accordance therewith, local ordinances and by-laws. The General Court retains general power to act in relation to cities and towns and classes thereof and, in some circumstances, to enact special laws regarding a particular municipality, including laws for its incorporation, dissolution or merger. Cities and towns are not empowered to act with respect to general elections, taxation, pledges of credit, dispositions of park land, general civil relationships, the punishment of felonies, or the imposition of imprisonment except as the General Court may lawfully confer such powers upon them.

QUESTION NO. 5
LAW SUBMITTED UPON REFERENDUM AFTER PASSAGE

Do you approve of a law summarized below, which was approved in the House of Representatives by a vote of 118 in the affirmative and 102 in the negative and was approved in the Senate by a vote of 21 in the affirmative and 16 in the negative?

YES ☐
NO ☐

SUMMARY

The Act imposes a temporary tax upon all retail sales of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the selling price. Sales of certain items are exempted from the tax, including but not limited to sales of food products for human use, articles of clothing, prescription medicines, agricultural machinery and certain publications. The statute contains specific provisions relating to the registration of vendors, the filing of returns and the payment of the amounts collected by such vendors. Vendors may apply to the State Tax Commission for abatements of the amounts owed where they believe such amounts to be excessive, and decisions of the Commission on such applications may be reviewed by the Appellate Tax Board. The Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation shall have the usual powers and remedies provided for tax collection for the collection of the taxes imposed by this section. The State Tax Commission shall issue regulations necessary for proper administration and enforcement of the section.

The Act further imposes a temporary excise upon the storage, use or other consumption in Massachusetts of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the sales price of such property. Sales upon which the retail sales tax described above has been imposed, or which are exempt from the retail sales tax, shall be exempt from the use tax. Sales upon which a tax has been paid in another jurisdiction shall also be exempt. Assessment, abatement and collection of the use tax shall be governed by the provisions which relate to the tax upon retail sales. The tax upon retail sales and the excise upon storage, use or other consumption shall be effective during the period from April 1, 1966 to December 31, 1967.

Each qualified taxpayer shall be entitled to a credit of four dollars for himself, four dollars for his spouse and eight dollars for each qualified dependent, but such credit shall no be allowed if the taxable income of such individual and his spouse exceeds five thousand dollars for the year. In addition to the taxes described above, the Act provides for new excises upon certain banks; new taxes upon the income of certain corporations; new taxes upon cigarettes; a room occupancy excise upon rent paid for the use of hotel rooms and other lodging places; and excises upon sales of certain alcoholic beverages.

The Act creates the Local Aid Fund for the purpose of providing educational assistance, and authorizes the periodic disribution of amounts from such Fund to the cities and towns. In addition, the Act contains a variety of provisions relating to the program of State aid to public schools, and to its administration.

QUESTION NO. 6

Do you approve of an act passed by the General Court in the year nineteen hundred and sixty-six, entitled "An Act imposing a temporary tax on retail sales, and a temporary excise upon the storage, use or other consumption, of certain tangible personal property, revising and imposing certain other taxes and excises, establishing the Local Aid Fund, and providing for the distribution of funds therefrom to cities and towns?"

YES ☐

Fall Hazards

"Fallen leaves contribute to dangerous driving conditions," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said today. "The beauty of Fall foliage could turn to tragedy when these leaves become wet and slippery on our roads."

The Registrar also added that children at play in piles of leaves could become targets for drivers unless extreme caution is used.

The end of Daylight Saving this year will coincide with Halloween and create further hazards to unwary drivers and concern to safety officials. "Motorists using the highways during hours of dusk may find it difficult to make quick visual adjustments from daylight to darkness. Children frolicking in the streets intent upon Halloween make-believe may be concealed by shadows. My advice is to SLOW DOWN at SUNDOWN and be alert for danger," said the Registrar.

Olde English

How could one say that the English aren't just a wee bit quaint? According to TV Guide, the BBC announces its video difficulties by flashing on the screen the following notice, lettered in old English script: "We entreat your patience, Our skillfullest Artificers are striving to restore the entertainment with all possible speed."

What's What With TV Repairmen

How can the consumer detect fraudulent and incompetent television repairmen?

And what about the TV set itself? Are there some makes that are pretty expensive to fix?

Channel 2 has some frank answers and the evidence to back up the findings on "Your Dollar's Worth" this week. The program will be broadcast twice on Wednesday, November 2 at 3 p.m. and 9 p.m., and on Sunday, November 6 at 7 p.m.

sick of the war in Vietnam?

If you are sick of the war because:

☐ thousands of young Americans are being killed in an illegal, immoral and unjust war

☐ it brings the world close to the danger of nuclear catastrophe

☐ it diverts billions of dollars to train youth to destroy and kill but not to prepare them for constructive and useful work

☐ we need better schools, decent homes, good health care, clean air and water, livable cities and economic justice for all our people

☐ it discriminates against the sons of the poor who are not able to secure a "college" deferment then look at these issues this election period.

And ask the office-seekers — for the Senate, for Congress, for Governor — where they stand. You are entitled to know.

and tell them your choice.

VOTE FOR VOLPE?

WHY?

John Volpe has done one thing in office people remember: he got through a sales tax by endurance. Take your choice: late figures say the yield is disappointing, but the Governor has said the take can be tripled. How? Already we see that the Volpe purchase levy is a Family Consumer Tax. By now we see that all federal and state taxes and excises are going up, just as prices start to pinch.

Since when has taxing power meant good government?

Volpe attacked bossism and corruption; then told his party to nominate an unknown who hadn't heard he was up for the job, was in Europe at the time, and whose fund-raising tactics have been questioned. Another Volpe aide is labelled untruthful by some.

Volpe forces have indicted more public figures, and made fewer convictions stick, than any administration in memory.

Volpe has tried to deny—vainly—a chance for a woman of a new generation in Republican national politics.

He has not reduced crime in the streets, but he has extended bar hours to 2 a.m.

He has, in this world center of progressive medicine, legalized chiropractic for the first time.

He favors a drastic cut in the people's representatives, but he has not notably reduced the number of unelected appointees or high-priced hangers-on.

He has saddled us with corrosive, unworkable laws for "open housing" and "racial imbalance." His passion for such edicts must reflect the sum of his personal experience, which in Volpe's case can only impugn his Winchester neighbors.

He has not got for us fair auto insurance, but he has given Massachusetts a new image with "vanity" plates like SAM-SUE and BIG-KID.

He has left unsettled a proposed highway route bisecting the country club and crossing the Mystic Lake, an engineering monstrosity that sounds like an act of revenge and threatens West Side property values and this town's character.

He has for years been the subject of nationwide talk that his real aim is to be the first U. S. vice-presidential candidate of Italian heritage. Would Volpe serve a four-year term?

He was, is and will be up against lop-sided Democratic majorities. Where's the percentage?

He has blamed others for his failures. Vote for Volpe? Why?

Pol. Adv. by D. E. Rush, a Republican, 6 Woodside Rd., Winchester, Mass.

Salling Named Vice President Rath and Strong

Recently announced was the appointment of Raymond C. Salling as vice president of Rath and Strong, Inc., management consultants of Boston.

The Sallings live at 3 Euclid Avenue and have three children: Drew 18, Pamela 15 and Diana 13.

ALA Urges White Halloween Night

Halloween trick or treaters would be bright to add some white to their costumes, the Automobile Legal Association said today.

"Don't let the youngsters dart back and forth across the streets; this is one trick that frequently ends in treatment rather than treat.

"Make sure any masks, wigs or other head coverings don't hamper the youngsters' vision.

"Motorists should exercise special caution, particularly on dark side streets where the little witches, monsters and goblins are at play."

LWV Meetings On Ballot Questions

A joint appearance of the Democratic and Republican candidates for the Massachusetts Senate from the 6th Senatorial District will be a feature at one of the coffees in a series of neighborhood coffees to be held by the League of Women Voters of Winchester as part of its campaign to turn out an overwhelming "YES" vote on referendum questions 1, 2, and 4 on the November 8th ballot.

The legislators will be present to provide direct evidence of the bi-partisan support which these questions comand, since all three have been endorsed by both major political parties.

In addition to Philbert L. Pellegrini, the Democratic candidate and William A. Barnstead, the Republican candidate, speakers from the Massachusetts and Winchester Leagues will present the League's position in favor of the joint election of governor and lieutenant governor (Question 1), increased power for the governor to reorganize the executive branch (Question 2), and increased home rule for cities and towns (Question 4).

The hostesses for these coffees are Mesdames Thomas S. Chittenden, Douglass S. Davidson, Albert G. H. Dietz, Clifford Orman, George Hale Reed, Robert Stolow, Milton Trageser, and Anthony Zovickian.

The speakers are Mrs. Martin Small from the L.W.V. State Speakers Bureau, and Mesdames Philip C. Hankins, Alvin O. Hendler, Jr., Nolan T. Jones, Robert A. Joslin, Albert P. Muggia, and Donald L. Puffer from the League of Women Voters of Winchester.

Scriptures And Racial Tolerance

Very Reverend Myles M. Bourke, Scripture scholar and ecumenist, pastor of Corpus Christi Church, New York, and former Scripture professor at the Archdiocesan Seminary of New York, will speak in the Christian Culture Lecture Series, on Monday evening, October 31, at John Hancock Hall, Boston.

Monsignor Bourke, a member of the National Liturgical Conference and member of the Sub-commission on Roman Catholic-Orthodox Dialogue of the American Bishops Comission for Ecumenical Affairs, will discuss "The Scriptures and Racial Tolerance." Monsignor Francis J. Lally, editor of The Pilot, will be the program chairman.

The Honorable and Mrs. John A. Volpe, Mr. Eugene J. McCarthy, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice T. Freeman of Winchester are among the distinguished patrons of this well-known lecture series, now in its 9th season.

Marine Officer Candidate William E. Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Bates of 26 Mt. Pleasant Street has returned to his studies at Boston College after graduating from a special Platoon Leaders Class at the Marine Corps Schools Command in Great Lakes, Michigan. Completion of the Platoon Leaders Class and graduation from college lead to a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve.

Women Work For Barnstead

Approximately thirty-five women spent many hours in the Republican Headquarters at 15 Waterfield Road last week doing work for William A. Barnstead, candidate for State Senator. Coming from various parts of town, they met in the afternoons for their work sessions.

Mrs. William D. Barone, vice chairman of the Winchester Republican Town Committee, has been coordinating the work for Barnstead and arranged the Headquarters programs.

Among those present were: Mesdames Maxwell McCreery, Robert Cesare, Anthony Alba, Robert Hudson, Joseph Pontone, James Denton, Richard Osgood, Frank Roberto, Richard Stiles, Lawrence Robbins, Andrew Fischera, Joseph Hall, Francis Lombardo, Harry Easton, Robert Gardner, Arnold Holbrook, Gordon Sidebotham, James Lamphier, Harry Emmons, Sherman Saltmarsh, Blanch Barnard, Charles Koch, George Kaknes, William Nelson, Miss Eleanor Albee, and Miss Ruth Albee.

Another group of women from the Winchester Estates worked at the home of Mrs. Frank Bauchspies.

Approximately 60 per cent of all purchases of Series E Savings Bonds are made through the Payroll Savings Plan.

A Carnival For Dystrophy

On Saturday, October 22, a neighborhood carnival was held for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy at 14 Hillside Avenue.

The carnival's workers were: Pat Romney, Katey DeGroot, Nancy Allyn, Jean Edmunds, Kathie Komp, Andrew Joslin, Stephen Polleys, Jonathan Choate, Becky Wolfe, Wendy Sands, Lisa Kincaid, Melinda Ellis, and Robin Ellis, Chairman.

About 10 children attended and the sum of $21.50 was raised in events like penny pitch, marble shoot, balloon toss, second-hand treasure table, pupet shows, magician act, and rickshaw rides. Also, home made fudge and popcorn were sold. What a success!

Mariners Here Invite Interest In Flying Club

Some Winchester residents, tired of cold winters and hot summers, are planning to fly to the climates they prefer. They've become Mariners, members of the New England Mariner Society a private club organized on a non-profit basis to provide low-cost flight transportation.

The "Country Club of the Air" plans to purchase a DC-7, and 84 passenger airliner, in January and will depart for St. Thomas on February 22. Following this initial flight, the club has scheduled 10 extensive trips to foreign countries and 35 weekend hops to vacation spots in Canada, the Rockies, the Caribbean anywhere the members desire.

Miss Patricia Mullaney of Oxford Street is a member of the group's travel committee. She helps poll the club to determine where trips will be taken and she makes inquiries regarding accommodations. Club members are free to stay wherever they desire and do whatever they please when their plane lands. However, the travel committee will provide information on group rates everywhere for any of the members who so desire.

Mr. Edward McPartlin, a young lawyer living on Church Street, the club's secretary, has drayn up the organization's by-laws. He is working with other members of the Board of Directors to make sure the club's airliner completely satisfies all CAB and FAA regulations.

Winchester members of the admissions committee, William Caci of Forest Street and Mr. and Mrs. Paul McPartlin of Dunster Lane have been working with other club members in Topsfield to organize a "Get-Acquainted" Party for the club. It is to be held on October 30, from noon to 5 p.m. at the International Motel at Logan Airport. Cider, coffee, and donuts will be served. Anyone desiring further information about this flying country club is welcome to the party. They may also contact club members here in town or the club's director, Reynold B. Nippe at the club's headquarters, 544 Salem Street, Wakefield.

WHY PAY FOR HORSEPOWER YOU DON'T NEED?

Efficient Rotary Fan Design Means that the 3 HP Jari Out-performs High-Speed Blowers with Much Higher Horsepower —

The Jari self-propelled 2-way Snowthrower has a rotary fan speed of only 500 rpm. It is more efficient than high speed blowers which require more power. And lower horsepower requirement means Jari costs less.

So buy performance, not horsepower. And Jari's performance has been proved by 14 years of successful operation.

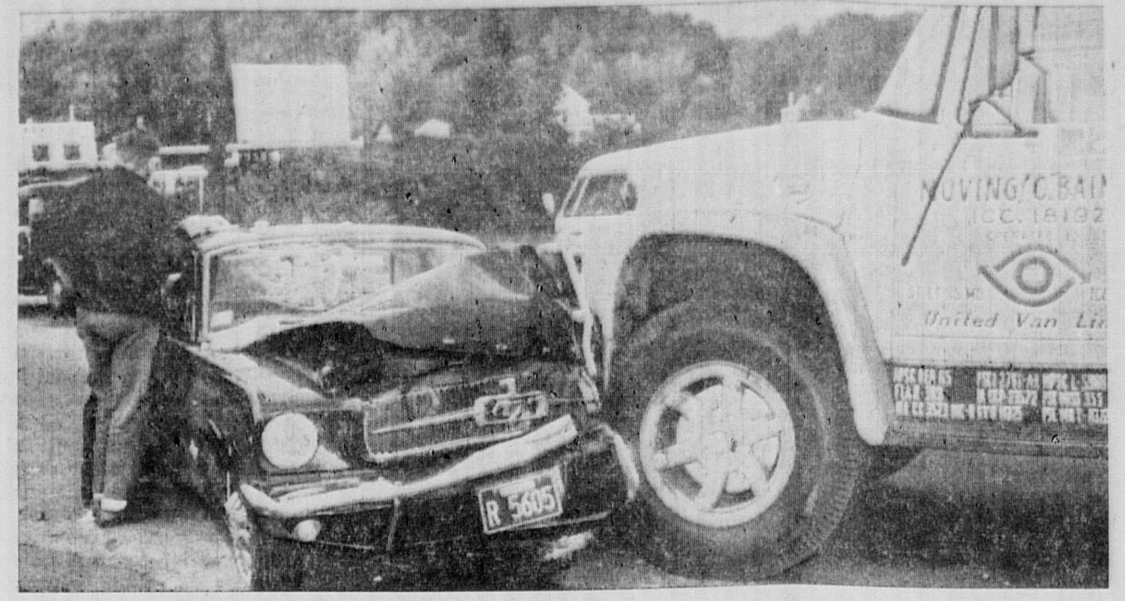
Car And Truck Collide



COLLISION ON CAMBRIDGE STREET, near Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery on Monday last week, involved an International tractor-trailer truck, heading north, operated by Leonard Morton of Holden, and a Mustang, operated by Anne O'Neil, with passenger Lesley Harman, both of Medford, heading South on Route 3. Police rushed the girls to Winchester Hospital for treatment. The truck's brakes were applied to slow down for traffic, according to police, but they didn't hold and the cab swung out into the opposite traffic lane.

The Arts Around Us

Directing In Lincoln

Mrs. Boardman O'Connor of 384 Main Street, an initiator and staff member of the Theatre Company of Boston commutes to Lincoln evenings to rehearse the Lincoln Players who are presenting "The Queen and the Rebels" by contemporary Italian dramatist Ugo Betti on November 11 and 12. Sara O'Connor joined the Boston Company as general manager a year ago. During her 12 years of theatre work she has taught dramatics, directed 21 plays and acted in a dozen major roles.

Winchester's Best

One of Winchester's top actresses, Priscilla Morrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Messer of 1 Priscilla Lane is touring the country with the National Repertory Theatre playing Laura, the lead part in "Still Life," taken from Coward's "Tonight at 8:30" and playing Nora in O'Neill's "A Touch of the Poet." Miss Morrill, who is Mrs. Paul H. Bryson of Hollywood in private life, last summer acted with the Shakespeare Festival at the old Globe Theatre in San Diego.

And In Your Living Room

Another stage notable who claims Winchester background, Orson Bean, will be on Channel 2 heading the cast of Maxwell Anderson's "Star Wagon" tomorrow (the 28th) at 2 and 8 p.m. and Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Bean, a nephew of Dr. Eugene Pollard of Winthrop Street lived here with the Pollards for some years and started his career on the WHS stage. You should be able to catch at least one of these N.E.T. Playhouse performances.

"Still Boston's Biggest Bargain"

This is what Boston Museum of Fine Arts director said this summer when the 96 year old BMFA began charging admission. Considered the greatest comprehensive museum in this hemisphere (its Asiatic Collection is unequalled, its Egyptian collection the best outside of Cairo) it costs $6,000 per day to run and is now charging only 50 cents for adults, 25 for students (annual student tickets are $5 for university and $2.50 for secondary school) and nothing for members. Special show continuing through next week contains the action painting, op art and pop art included in the sculpture and painting collection of Susan Morse Hilles—plus the BFMA'S new acquisitions in 20th century art.

Singing In Arlington

Don Costa, Sally Kincaid, Alta Merritt, and James Sauber are active members of the Arlington Philharmonic Society and will be heard in the first concert of the Society's 1966-1967 season on Friday, November 4, at 8:15 p.m. in the Lowe Auditorium of the Arlington High School. There is no charge for admission to this program featuring the music of Beethoven, Brahms-Hayden and Smetena. Ample parking is available at the rear of the school from an entrance off Mill Street.

Volpe-McCormack Channel 2 Debate

Massachusetts Governor John Volpe and Democrat Edward McCormack the challenger will appear in person on Channel 2's "Candidates and Issues" Wednesday, November 2 at 8 p.m. (repeated Friday, November 4, 7:30 p.m. by WGBH-FM).

Taking place just six days before election day, this final program in the series will concentrate on the issues of the Governor's race, issues that have made front page news in recent weeks.

First moderator and Channel 2 Public Affairs director Mike Spencer will ask each candidate to make an opening statement; then he will be joined by a panel of newsmen to question each man separately and at length. On the panel will be Edgar M. Mills, New England political editor for the Christian Science Monitor; WGBH news analyst Louis Lyons; and Channel 2 statehouse reporter Peter Richards.

Crittenton Talk In Timely Topic

"Unwed parenthood—is it preventible? Maybe not prevented entirely," a Crittenton speaker said, "but it is hoped it can be reduced and modified." This timely problem was discussed by using an actual case history when Mrs. Helen Friedman, director of case workers for the Crittenton Hastings House, addressed the Winchester Senior Circle of the organization last Friday at the home of Mrs. R. V. Patrick.

The case history concerned a seventeen-year old high school junior from another state and covered the period from initial application for admittance to the Home until her return to her own environment months later.

In between she was guided and helped by not only her social worker and doctor, but indeed by the entire staff at C.H.H.

Mrs. Friedman concluded her talk by reading a letter sent by this girl after returning home. She thanked those involved with her case "for having faith in her."

Listeners became aware that rehabilitation, not condemnation, is one key to this problem.

Adult Education Classes Sharpen Minds and Bodies

Classes in the Adult Education fall program have held organizational meetings and are now getting instruction in subjects that range from typing through tailoring.

One of the most "active" classes is Keeping Fit, female division, which meets Tuesday nights in the McCall Junior High School gym. Miss Wenja Engebretsen cuts a fine figure while instructing the energetic class in rhythmic exercises.

From all indications the ladies of Winchester will be the best-dressed in the state. Since there were 38 registrants for the course, Beginning Sewing, it was necessary to split this class and make two sessions, one on Monday evening under the direction of Miss Barbara Dunbury, and the second on Tuesday evening with Mrs. Elizabeth O'Malley as instructor.

Large enrollments also demonstrate perennial interest of Winchesterites in bridge. More than 60 people are presently bidding and trumping under the guidance of Mrs. Elizabeth Yeomans and David Littleton.

Courses that were dropped due to insufficient demand included Jewelry Making, Modern Math, Knitting, and Intermediate Spanish.

Coins given to UNICEF on Halloween mean help and hope for needy children and mothers.

Home and Garden Shares Hints For Flower Arranging

"Anyone can arrange flowers for their own home," Mrs. Grace M. Peterson told members of the Winchester Home and Garden Club at their first meeting of the fall season.

Mrs. Peterson emphasized her point further by using greens in her arrangements that could be found in anyone's yards, vases easily purchased at any florist and sea shells and driftwood from local seashores. Members were treated to the visual enjoyment of both artificial arrangements and fresh flowers. The arrangement of pastel sweetheart roses and snap dragons in a white cherub vase and another of snow-frosted blue juniper with china polar bear received special applause for their originality and beauty.

Mrs. Peterson, a blue ribbon winner in many flower shows, peppered her lecture with hints for the beginner and advanced arranger. She suggested sugar be placed in arrangements to prolong their life; that arrangements be no higher than the length of the arm from the elbow to a closed fist: and that crushed tissue paper placed in the bottom of a vase will keep the flower stems intact.

Several announcements were presented at this meeting. Mrs. Granville Gilpatrick, president, called on Mrs. Edward Mansfield who announced the first meeting of the Landscape Design Course will be held at Mrs. Alexander Aitken's house, 26 Myopia Road, on November 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Edmund Wright, vice president, presented the chairman and committee heads of the forthcoming Yuletide Fun Fest. Mrs. Wright announced the date of the fair would be December 7.

Mrs. Harold Twombly reported that water pollution could be greatly alleviated by the selective use of certain detergents that do not contain an insoluble ingredient. A copy of the September-October issue of "Newsletter," A Garden Club Federation publication, was placed on a table for all to see the names of the detergents reported free of this ingredient.

Mrs. Ray Brown gave an interesting report on the care of house plants. Members took notes on her suggestions of giving plants plenty of light, small amounts of fertilizer and keeping room temperatures lowered at night.

Anyone entering and leaving the Methodist Church Hall stopped to admire Mrs. Gerald Hills' lovely green and white arrangement of Fuji mums and ivy on the tea table.

"The Balcony" At Charles Theatre

Jean Genet's drama "The Balcony," to be presented for the first time in Boston, will open at the Charles Playhouse on Thursday, November 3 as the second production of the 10th Anniversary Season at the resident professional theatre. Produced by Frank Sugrue and Michael Murray, the internationally famous play will be staged by Ben Shaktman as guest director for the Charles.

Currently at the Warrenton Street theatre, Congreve's Restoration comedy "Love for Love," is the first play in the 1966-67 subscription series and will end a 6 week run on Saturday, October 30.

Services Honor Two O'Tooles

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. O'Toole had their progress in service organizations marked by ceremony.

SEAMAN RICHARD B. O'TOOLE

At the Great Lakes Naval Trainin Center Seaman Richard B. O'Toole, 19, was graduated from Naval Training Center. The former student at Marquette University completed nine weeks of basic training.

At Bowdoin College Lawrence G. O'Toole, a sophomore, was one of eight undergraduate members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps to receive an academic achievement wreath, awarded to cadets who were in the top 10 percent of their military science classes.

Both boys are WHS graduates, Richard in 1963, Lawrence in 1965.

Robert A. Nyere of 19 Arlington Street, vice president of the First National bank of Boston, recently attended the annual Installment Credit Conference of the Massachusetts Bankers Association.

Methodist Youth Joining March For UNICEF

The young people of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, from the third grade through Junior high school, will join other young people of the community on Monday night in an appeal for small gifts of money to aid UNICEF (United International Children's Emergency Fund).

Every young solicitor will be a volunteer and will have parental permission and some knowledge of what this great program has been accomplishing. Among other things they know that:

If they held hands at the Equator, the children and mothers helped by UNICEF each year would circle the world.

The dry skim milk shipped by UNICEF would fill the United Nations building more than 25 times.

UNICEF has helped more than 250 teacher training schools and more than 5,700 associated primary schools, about one-fifth of them in 1965.

Over 200 million children have been vaccinated against tuberculosis in UNICEF-aided projects, including over 13 million in 1965.

More than 43 million children have been cured of yaws, and over 21 million have been treated for trachoma with UNICEF help.

This is UNICEF'S 20th anniversary. The "Treats" of coins they collect will represent, in a way, a birthday gift for the world's most needy children. If a child rings your doorbell on Hallowe'en why not contribute? These youngsters might be called "Nobel prize winners in disguise." Of course, you can give the youngster a little "Trick or Treat" gift for himself if you wish.

Toy Symphony Starts Music Club On New Season

Thirty young people met last Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hosmer of Rangeley Road for the first program of the year of the Winchester Music Club. New members included music students now of junior high age and therefore eligible for membership and other junior and senior high students who came to listen and participate.

The hostess for the evening was Hillary Hosmer and Marjorie Sexton was in charge of refreshments. After a short business meeting conducted by Eric Okerson, at which he explained how members may become part of the program, the evening was turned over to Ann Bird, mistress of ceremonies.

Anita Mucci, piano student of Miss Constance Sylvester, played Clair de Lune by Debussy and the theme song from Doctor Zhivago.

The evening continued with everyone taking part in the performance of the Toy Symphony. The Toy Symphony was written 200 years ago by Leopold Mozart, father of Wolfgang, for strings, piano, and toy instruments. Pianist was Jane Sexton. Violinists were Douglas DeNatale, David Detra, Jay Harrington, Mrs. Roy Johnson, Dorcas Joslin, Gail Lamphier, Susan Magee, Mrs. James Ryder, Mrs. Leslie Simon, Jane Thompson, and Noel Webb. Sarah Bates played the cello.

The bird instruments were Debbie Cabot, cuckoo; Anita Mucci, quail; and Ann Bird, nightingale. Other music club members played a variety of drums, castanets, triangles, cymbals, and bells to create a finished performance that was enjoyed by all.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Villari, 94 Highland Avenue, on Sunday, November 27 at 7 p.m.

Any junior or senior high music student interested in joining the club may contact Mrs. John Harrington, 729-3452, to make sure that they will be notified of the next meeting.

Halloween Social By. V. F. W. Ladies Auxiliary

A Halloween dance will be held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies Auxiliary, Post 3719, at the local quarters, White Street, on Saturday evening, October 29.

Costumes are optional, but the committee is of the opinion that there will be more fun and laughs if as many as possible could come in costume. Also, there will be prizes for the best-attired (costume-wise) participants.

Refreshments will be served and dancing from 8 to 12 p.m. Lee Luonge is serving as chairman of the social and has arranged a program that will assure a good time for everyone.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the committee, at post headquarters or at the door the evening of the event.

Spook-Sparked Art for UNICEF

That wild splash of art in Winchester stores this week is through the courtesy of the 4th, 5th and 6th graders in the public schools.

Mrs. Virginia Diegelman, art supervisor of the Winchester school system, coordinated the efforts of the youngsters in the art classes to help publicize the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program taking place here on Halloween. Donna McLean and Debbie Zetterberg with friends from the High School mounted the pictures and placed them in the store windows. They have helped to turn the main shopping area, and several outlying shops, into virtual art galleries.

The posters are representative of many "schools" of art from abstract through primitive to classical representations of their theme. They are colorful and gay and wonderful, and add much to the pleasure of a walk through town.

Metal desk organizers—Excellent for file folders. Priced at $5.85 at the Winchester Star.

Melrose played dirty pool by crossing up the Winchester defense, which had its eyes groundward while the football was traveling in the air. By the time the Sachem tight defense had spread out to compensate for the change in opposition tactics, the Red Raiders had streaked across for three quick touchdowns. This is not criticism of Winchester's play, but rather a tribute to the Melrose coach's strategy. Even in college and pro football it takes a while for a team to adjust to a surprise maneuver. Melrose made the most of the advantage of surprise.

The Umile-ated Sachems didn't take lightly the duplicity of their opponents and came back in the third quarter fired up to completely dominate play in that period, coming so close to pulling an upset over their heavily favored rivals that the Melrose coach must have lost ten pounds sweating it out. The turning point in the game was that series of downs with Winchester having the ball at the Melrose 19 with the Sachems behind 20-14. Two end-zone pass attempts, one just barely eluding Martin, and the other caught by Schlener just as he was leaving the end zone, was the break Melrose needed to pull itself together. If either pass had been completed the score would have been tied and a successful conversion would have changed the entire complexion of the game. That big-little word if can be both an emollient and an abrasive.

It was a case of too much Umile and not quite enough Nutile, although Bobby held up his end of the running duel. It was those passes that gave Umile the edge, who now has a total of 12 touchdowns scored this year. It was the second consecutive game in which Bob has gained over a hundred yards rushing.

* * * * *

Dan McGee played an outstanding game in the defensive backfield. Anyone reading the account of the game will realize how much his alert play contributed to the great showing his team made against its vaunted opponents.

* * * * *

While permitting the players to take a bow, how about the great job Brooks Holmes has done as line coach for the Sachems, and the great improvement Bill Colella has fashioned in the backfield? Somehow in considering the play of any team, the line and backfield coaches tend to be ignored—and this team is as well coached in its assigments as any in the league.

* * * * *

This seems to be Melrose's year, but to let out with the old cry of hope—wait till next year. Melrose will lose just about all its regulars, while Winchester has great potential in the player coming up from McCall. The junior high players have been running wild against all opposition. After a crushing defeat of Newton two weeks ago, it ran over Melrose 22-6. Prospects for the future look good.

* * * * *

The fans at the game were witness to the determination of a young fellow who, despite a cruel accident of birth, lives his life as if it had never occurred. One-armed Steve Murphy played all but a few minutes of the game at center for the Red Raiders, filling in for Rudolph, who was out with a dislocated elbow. The gutty little center played an outstanding game. Steve also played Little League baseball as an outfielder, and with one hand managed to have a close-to-300 batting average. Steve is also a member of the spring track team.

* * * * *

Meanwhile another tough game next Saturday when Winchester travels to Reading to meet Bill Kelly & Co. Reading bounced back from an early loss to play strong football, and still hopes to gain a piece of the Middlesex League title. It should be another great game.

Lexington Shades Sachem Harriers 27-28

Last Friday, at Lexington, the Winchester High cross country team suffered its second loss, to Lexington, by one point.

Dick Fahey, the most outstanding runner on the W.H.S. team, captured first with ease, beating his closest challenger, McCormack, of Lexington by nine seconds. McCormack was followed by two other Lexington runners giving Lexington scecond, third, and fourth places.

In the next group to finish were Bob Benshimol, Paul Blanch, and Tom Spang, who bunched up to assure the valuable following 3 places. Bunching is ideal cross country strategy, for it forces team members to keep up with each other, and forces opposing runners much farther back into the pack than they would be otherwise. Striving to be fourth man in this bunch Wayne Padula, a promising sophomore, roared down the finishing hill, cruising by two Lexington men in his pursuit of the remaining runner between himself and the bunch. But, alas, the Lexington runner, with Wayne hot on his trail, crossed the finish line next, giving Lexington the needed points to win.

Winchester's J.V. team lost to the powerful Lexington J.V. team by a wide margin, but Lee Oliver, Ken Tully, Neil Benshimol, Jeff True and Jeff Hicks, the first five Winchester finishers gave them a battle.

In spite of losing to Wakefield and Lexington Coach Rawson feels that the Winchester team still has an excellent crack at winning the League Meet. Last year the team lost three meets and emerged victorious in the League Meet. Support your team at the League Meet this Friday, the 28th, at 3:30 on the Mt. Hood Colf Course in Melrose.

Harriers Beat Strong Reading Team 23-35

Winchester made a strong comeback against Reading after a disappointing loss to Wakefield. Tom Swain and Dick Fahey both broke Winchester's old course record of 13:37 held by Dave Puffer. Bob Benshimol had a great race and placed third. Paul Blanch was next to finish for Winchester, he was followed closely by Tom Spang and Wayne Padula. This was enough to give Winchester a strong 23-35 victory. The J.V.'s showed their stuff too, with a solid 21-40 victory. Ken Tully and Lee Oliver set the pace in this one.

Melrose Downs Winchester 34-14; Umile And Nutile Sparkle

NUTILE again, sweeping left end for good gain with the help of Pete Knight, ready to block out Melrose's Dick Umile, who made life miserable for Winchester players and fans at Manchester Field Saturday afternoon. Action took place in third quarter during the Sachems comeback from a 20-0 deficit to pull to within six points.

In a hard-fought game in which the score was not indicative of the close contest, Winchester lost a tough one to Melrose last Saturday 34-14 at Manchester Field before a capacity crowd as Melrose's Dick Umile out-dueled Bob Nutile four touchdowns to two. Winchester bounced back from a 20-0 deficit in the first quarter and pulled up to a more respectable score of 20-14, the matter of a scant few inches on two pass plays early in the fourth quarter being the difference between defeat and victory. Melrose regained its composure and its momentum to score two more touchdowns and put the game out of reach.

Knight brought the ball to the Sachem 33. Bob Nutile was smeared for a 3-yard loss. A forward pass, Brian Collins to John Martin, over the line was incompleted. Nutile swept right end for 9. John Cheever's kick was run back to the Melrose 39. Brian Berkowitz was stopped for a 2-yard gain by Dan McGee, who on the next play dropped Dave Sheridan for a 1-yard loss. Dick Umile scored the first of his four touchdowns when he took a pitchout, broke over right guard, took to the sideline and went all the way for a touchdown. A plunge attempt for the conversion failed and the score was 6-0.

Toby Harvey took the kickoff to the Winchester 31. Nutile hit the middle twice for gains of 5 and 2, then went off right guard for another 8 and Winchester's first first-down. Knight went for 4 to midfield, and Collins was smeared for a 5-yard loss to the Winchester 45. A forward pass intended for Jeff Schlener was incomplete. A high pass from center on which Cheever couldn't kick forced him to eat the ball and it went over to Melrose on the Winchester 25. After an incomplete forward pass, Bob Ciulla got 3 up the middle. A forward pass to Umile was good for 8 on the Winchester 14. Umile swept left end for the remaining distance and the Red Raiders' second touchdown.

Sheridan's sweep around right end failed for the conversion and the score was Melrose 12, Winchester 0.

Nutile ran the kickoff from the 30 to the Winchester 44. He lost 4 on the next play. Then a pass intended for Schlener was intercepted by Umile on the Winchester 49. A forward pass from Sheridan to end Bill Greeley was good for 17. Another to Greeley was good for 9. Ciulla ran for 7 to the Winchester 14. Here the quarter ended.

Ciulla got 2. A pass to Greeley was good for another 10 to the Winchester 2. Berkowitz plunged for 1 and got the remaining yard on another plunge. A forward pass to Mark Miliotis was good for the conversion and the score was 20-0.

Toby Harvey brought the kickoff from the 25 to the Winchester 44. After 3 plays got nowhere Cheever kicked and the ball was downed on the Melrose 10. On second down a pass to Umile was good for 17 to the Melrose 27. A fine tackle by Martin averted a touchdown on this play. On second down Ciulla went around right end for 10. The Red Raiders hammered and slashed their way to the Winchester 3, making 6 first downs on this drive, with Ciulla doing most of the carrying. Here a stubborn Sachem line held, aided by Pete Grant, who smeared Sheridan for a 7-yard loss, with Winchester taking over on its 3. Nutile went over the middle for 8. A forward pass over the middle from Collins to Nutile was good, with Nutile fighting his way to the Melrose 48 and a 30-yard gain. Another pass over the middle to Knight was good for 18. The promising drive ended on the Melrose 29 as time ran out in the half.

Third Quarter

Winchester wasted no time scoring as the second half opened. Cheever's onside kick hit a Melrose lineman and was recovered by McGee on the Melrose 42. Nutile hit for 12, Knight got 3, then Nutile slashed, bulled and squirmed his way to the goal line for 8, 1, 11 and 4 and plunged for the touchdown from the 1. Nutile's plunge failed and the score was 20-6.

Aided by a holding penalty on Melrose and a fake kick which did not get the necessary yardage, Winchester took possession on the Melrose 41. A pass, Collins to Martin over the middle was good for 26 yards to the Melrose 13. Nutile squirmed through for 8. After one play failed to gain, Nutile went through right end for 5 yards and Winchester's second touchdown. He also picked up the extra two points through right tackle to make the score 20-14.

On another onside kick Melrose got the ball on its 42. On the second play McGee intercepted a pass intended for Umile on the Winchester 38. Choate went through left guard for 6. A pitchout to Nutile was good for 17 to the Melrose 39. On another pitchout Knight gained 4. Here the quarter ended.

Fourth Quarter

On a fake Nutile ran right end for 17 to the Melrose 18. After one play lost a yard, Collins heaved a pass into the right corner of the end zone which barely eluded Martin's fingertips. On the next play a Collins pass was caught by Schlener just as he was stepping out of the end zone, and this marked the end of the great drive that started in the dying moments of the second quarter. A pitchout to Nutile, who attempted to hit Martin with a pass was no good.

Melrose regained its poise and momentum to score two more touchdowns, one on a pass to Umile good for 42 yards, and another short touchdown pass to Umile. At this point the game ended. In between Martin did snare a pass good for 28 yards, but on the next play Dick Laine intercepted a pass to mark the end of Winchester's possession of the ball.

BOBBY NUTILE bulls his way in for Winchester's first touchdown from the one-yard line. Action took place in the third quarter against Melrose at Manchester Field Saturday.

Soccer Team Wins, Ties; Last Game Here Friday

Co-captain Mark Smith scored the two Winchester goals as the soccer team defeated host Wakefield 2 to 0 on October 18.

The score was much different from a 9 to 0 decision by which the Booters had won before. The team was plagued by a lack of three key players in the game. Dick Thuma played a tremendous game at the center halfback slot. Fullbacks Mike Murray, Bob Hilfinger, and Richard Sawyer teamed up to keep the ball in Wakefield's end of the field during most of the game. Goalie Alan Ingraham constantly came up with saves that kept the score in our favor.

On Friday, October 21, Winchester was host to Lynnfield at Leonard Field. Winchester was out to avenge the 2 to 1 loss that they suffered several weeks ago, but all that they could salvage was a nothing tie in two over-time periods. The game was a hard fought contest in which neither side controlled the ball throughout the entire match.

Winchester needs to win the next three games to take the Middlesex League: Concord, Belmont, and Lexington. The last home is this Friday, October 28, with Belmont. Why not come down and watch the team in action? The game starts at 3:15. The team would really appreciate your support at the games!

More Boosters For Patriots

R. F. Brackett of 25 Central Street and, Mrs. O. Guinn Smith of 38 Rangeley Road, each won two tickets for the Boston Patriots Oakland Raiders game this Sunday.

The tickets were prizes in a special promotion being run by First National Stores which is giving away a total of 2100 tickets this season.

Jr. Wee Sachems Defeat South Boston 24 to 8 At Shore Road Field

After some ten minutes of play, Paul Tonello finally got his defensive end in the vulnerable position for a side block giving Jeff Ashton that chance to sprint outside and around the corner for fifteen yards and Winchester's first touchdown.

With Jacky Strain sweeping the opposite side for the extra points, Winchester led 8 to 0. A short time later, Ashton made a fine defensive play of a double reverse pass. Not going with the fake but with his man, Ashton slipped in front of the would-be receiver, intercepted the pass for a 50 yard scoring play. South Boston was not to be outdone came back with wide sweeps of long yardage to put them right back into the ball game. Winchester left the half with only a 6 point lead.

In the second half, the game was dominated by the Winchester defense.

South Boston could not move through the middle on Tim Duffy, Brian Cullen, Kerry Brough, and line backer Joe Martignetti who made some fine thigh tackles of charging runners. Nor could South Boston sweep the ends. Alec Phippen and Karl Mayer contained them from the left side, Paul Ceruolo, Robbie Ungaretti, and Ashton pulled them down on the right. In the second half, even the second team stopped the South Boston team. David Magnusen did well in steady play as did Jay Lanigan (who also plays first string offense) and Bobby Tonello. Chip Vick Roy, who has always been one of the consistent attenders at practice, fought hard. P. T. Miller contributed his size to the match.

Defensive pressure was placed on South Boston so that they were constantly in the shadow of their goal line. About mid-way through the half, a hard Winchester rush on fourth down plus a bad center by South Boston caused a safety giving Winchester a lead again of 8 points. Winchester took advantage of the momentum to get its offense rolling again.

Winchester's offense worked moderately well, but the team found it bruising to score. South Boston spread their ends and corner backs wide, which put the strain of the offense to move the ball up the middle or off tackle. Robbie Ungaretti can not be commended enough for the strong running drives through the center and dives through the tackles. Not a breakaway runner but a fullback hard to bring down, Ungaretti several times carried two or three men on top of him as he kept moving for extra yards. Jacky Strain's good moves were his cut backs through the tackles. The yards for Winchester were hard to come and thanks go to the good line for opening up holes.

The play of the second half was a touchdown reverse to Paul Tonello who scampered for 20 yards and Winchester's third touchdown. The left side of Winchester's line led by the excellent blocking of Richard Jacobs and included Roger McGrath, Phippen, Martignetti, Ashton, and Ungaretti, literally drove the defensive line inside and away from Tonello so that his way was clear to dodge the remaining corner back. The blocking of Jeep Strain, David Bower, Jay Lanigan, and Duffy provided Jackie Strain the opening for the extra points.

Individual performances and circumstances need to be noted. The courage of Roger McGrath was evidenced in his fine efforts to play wingback after being sick to his stomach for the first time in his life the night before. Recognition must also be given to the fine centering of David Bower. The quick snap into the hands of the quarterback starts each play with the needed firmness of a ready-go move. Don Jackson did well in his first taste of backfield running this past Saturday.

All in all, the team's performance was enough to win, although they were not as sharp as they could have been. The lack of practice on the offense during the week due to rains and illnesses kept them from gaining that feeling of precision necessary for running their plays in the most able way. But the game was won, and things changed from the less serious side of contact and physical drive to the celebration of hand shakes, whoop-a-la, and delicious ice cream and fudge bars.

BOWLING

S. O. I. Women

First place Carnations took 6 points from the Tulips this week. Bowling high for the Tulips was Captain M. Gambino with 282. G. Peluso of the Carnations bowled high with 271.

The Roses, this week, took 6 points from the Petunias. Captain R. DeTeso was high bowler for the Roses with 261. B. Newell of the Petunias was high for her team with 267.

Pansies took all 8 points from the Daffodils this week. M. Vanyo of the Pansies went wild. She bowled a three string score of 314. She bowled a tremendous second string of 126. Nice bowling, Mary!

Bowling high for the Daffodils was Capt. J. Salemi with 272.

Having a lot of trouble trying to get out of last place, the Buttercups lost 6 points to the Violets. Capt. B. Morgan of the Buttercups was high with 285. Doing some terrific bowling was C. Esposito, and she was high for the Violets with 313.

Gardenias, now in second place, took all eight points from the Daisies. T. Dattilo, off to a bad start, ended up as high bowler for the Gardenias with 278. E. Riccio of the Daisies was high with 271.

The Early Bird League is a very exciting league this year. Everyone seems to be bowling much better and doing things that have never been done before.

Molly Lisberger bowled an unbelievable 245 for one of her games last week. And Marion Perani, we tried very hard to find another pin for you but it still remained 199. Congratulations to you both.

The Cardinals and Hawks are now in first place with 18½ wins and 9½ losses. The Wrens remain in second place with 18 wins and 10 losses. In third place the Sparrows have 17 wins and 11 loses and in fourth place the Larks have 16½ wins and 11½ losses.

Another week has come to pass, and I see that the Bears are still up front with high everything.

Dick Tofuri is doing a fine job, but seems to be bothered by the newness of the alleys. Keep plugging, Dick, and you'll be breaking those pins apart. Bob Fiore is still up in the higher group with 107.7. Good work, Bob. One of our newcomers, Babe Olivadoti, is number 9 man. Keep it up Babe, and you'll be captain next year. I see that the Boss has competition this year. Oh Boy! I think Jerry Esposito should bring his mascot, the turtle to the alleys. Some of us might receive some luck from it.

Don't forget, get out and bowl this week, and relax. The more you bowl, the better you feel.

Winchester B. C. Sailors Reap Trophy Harvest

The Winchester Boat Club held its annual Trophy Award Dinner at the Club on Sunday, October 9, at which time sailors of both the Turnabout and Snipe Fleets walked off with an impressive array of trophies.

Captain Ralph Eldridge of the Turnabout Fleet awarded the following trophies:

The Midget Class, sailors under 14 years, won by Mark Lombardi with Mike Kennedy second and Bill Raphael third. Mark Fitzgerald took first place for youths (under 18 years) with second going to B. Buchanan and third to S. Garrity.

The Swanson Cup, a three-race series over the 4th of July weekend for Midgets only, was won by Bill Raphael.

The Dillon Cup, a three-race series over Labor Day, is open to all ages and was won by Sherry Garrity.

Match Elimination Series, First through Fifth Place

Juniors—M. Lombardi, M. Fitzgerald, B. Raphael, S. Smith, M. Kennedy; consolation - S. Mulloy.

Seniors—P. Planchet, J. Blakely, M. Ober, T. Robinson, R. Suneson; consolation - W. Kennedy.

Junior Interclub (Winchester vs. Medford Boat Club)—M. Lombardi (WBC), B. Raphael (WBC), V. Faniff (MBC).

Senior Interclub (Winchester vs. Medford Boat Club)—T. Robinson (WBC), J. Blakely (WBC), P. Doyle (MBC).

Twilight Series - Winchester Seniors only—P. Fopiano, C. Vallee, A. Smith.

A, B, C, D Series (10 races each series):

A—P. Fopiano, T. Robinson, B. Keshian

B—M. Fitzgerald, M. Ober, S. Garrity

C, Juniors—B. Raphael, M. Kennedy, R. Eldridge

C, Seniors—J. Blakely, P. Sanderson, A. Smith

D, Juniors — V. Paquette, S. Smith, S. Mulloy

D, Seniors — C. Vallee, R. Eldridge, W. Wilde

Highest overall average for the A, B, C, D Series was won by M. Lombardi. C. Vallee was winner of the Handicap Series.

Turnabout Fleet officers for 1967 are Paul Fopiano, captain; Ted Robinson, first mate; and Bill Wilde, purser.

Snipe Fleet captain, Norman Towle, made the presentation of Snipe trophies. He, himself, finally succeeded in taking first place in the overall Season Fleet championship. Tom Legere placed second and Dick Montminy third. Awards were also made to the respective crews, Ann Towle, J. Swanson and J. Pazolt.

The Directors' Trophy was awarded to the next three in the season's standings: Dean Anderson and his crew; S. Anderson, R. Cook and his crew; B. Keshian, and Dick Patrick and his crew, M. Patrick.

The final standings in the four series sailed and the awards (on an elimination basis) were as follows:

A—N. Towle, D. Thuma, R. Patrick

B—T. Legere, D. Anderson, R. Nevin

C—L. Law, R. Montminy(B. Keshian

D—R. Cook, S. Swanson, T. Raphael

The Junior Series awards for the season went to: 1, D. Thuma III and his crew, Bill Stites; 2, S. Swanson and his crew, Sue Swanson; 3, J. Swanson and his crew, Anne Gentry.

The Labor Day Cups were won by E. Patrick, R. Swanson and S. Swanson - first, second and third.

The Alden Sherman Trophies, for a handicap series held after the regular season, were awarded to: 1, S. Swanson; 2, T. Nevin; and 3, D. Patrick.

The Bob Hall Trophy, a handicap for the five boats at the bottom of the Fleet standing, was won by Bill McCandless, who was also elected Fleet captain for the 1967 season. Bob Hallisey was elected first mate, and Charlie Brown re-elected to post of purser, which he has faithfully filled for many years.

U.S. Women Golfers Win Amateur Championship

By Harry McGrath

The women's section of The World Amateur Team Championships has been completed, and the United States team won this second holding of the team championship.

First played in 1964, at St. Germain (Paris) France, the hostess French team won over the United States entry by one stroke, 588 to 589—the winning French team being the same three gals that attempted this years defense.

The U.S. team finished nine strokes ahead of Canada, the runner-up.

The scoring in this tournament is rather unusual.

Each team has three players, but only the two best scores each day are used in computing the team scores.

The U.S. team had Mrs. Theodore B. Boddie, the former Barbara Fay White, who was the only member of the team that played in the 1964 matches; Mrs. David Welts, the former Anne Quast; and 17 year old Shelley Hamlin, the youngest who cut quite a figure in this years Women's Amateur.

Miss Hamlin had been chosen as an alternate, and when Mrs. Don Carner, the former Jo Anne Gunderson, and the present U.S. Women's Amateur Champion had to withdraw, Shelly took her place.

And it was this same Shelly Hamlin that put the U.S. team in the winners place on the final day.

In spite of a double bogey six on the last hole, she had a 72, which added to Mrs. Boddie's 73 gave the team, 145 for the final day.

Mrs. Boddie with her 73 had a disheartening 8 on a par 4 hole.

Little (108 lbs.) Mrs. J. Douglas Streit, nee Marlene Stewart, and 1956 winner of the U.S. Womens Title, won individual honors with 289 for the 72 holes.

Mrs. Streit was defeated this year in the finals of the U.S. Womens by Mrs. Carner on the 41st hole of that 36 hole match. Mrs. Carner was runner-up to Marlene in 1956.

She, Mrs. Streit, is 5 feet 1 inch "Tall," but has won the British, Australian, and 7 times the Canadian Championship.

She was three strokes better than Mrs. Boddie at 292 for individual honors.

Miss Hamlin had an 80 in her first round that kept her away from the individual title.

Mrs. Theodore W. Hawes was the playing captain.

There were 19 countries represented as against 25 in last years tourney.

The men's section being played this week also at Mexico City, has representatives from 32 countries. Last year there were 33 teams.

This years team, the men's section have four players, with the low three scores counting each day, is made up of Deane R. Beman, U.S. Amateur champion in 1960 and 1963 and this year runner-up to Gary Cowan, who will be representing Canada; A. Downing Gray and Ronald J. Cerruda.

Jesse Sweetser is the non-playing captain.

The U.S. team has won the men's title in 1960 and 1962.

I will try and give an account of the men's matches next week.

Just learned that Jack Rule and Sandra Spuzich, the Women's Open Champion, won the Haig Mixed Fursomes, and hope to be able to give the details at another time.

Lennie Merullo Featured At Little League Banquet

By Charlie Lucier

The value of baseball in the making of a man was ably demonstrated at the Little League Banquet which was held at the Unitarian Church Hall last Saturday night. Areal "find" in a guest speaker was on hand in the person of Lennie Merullo, one of the great shortstops of the Chicago Cubs for more than eight years and now their chief scout for eastern United States for over 25 years.

Mr. Merullo had a wealth of stories for the boys and assembled guests, but more than that he was visual proof of the fact that athletics and teamwork had left the unmistakable mark of a gentleman on his person. His warmth and good humor, his humility and his general outlook on life were just the correct recipe to instill future goals for all of the boys in attendance.

Rev. Bernard Hoy of St. Mary's Church started the evening off by saying Grace and the food began to arrive at the tables. Charlie Koch took over as master of ceremonies as the dessert arrived and a more effective host would have been difficult to find. Charlie began by introducing all of those at the head table, which included Little League past-presidents John Stumcke and Ed Williams.

There followed a tribute from Little League for Mrs. Al LaPointe, wife and guiding hand behind the president of Winchester Little League, Inc. who spoke next. President LaPointe thanked all of the boys who participated in the program and also extended his thanks to all of the people who helped to make this such a sucessful season. He made special mention of the huge task of handling the first candy sale that was undertaken by Mrs. Betty Hill and of the hours that she put into making this sale a complete success.

In closing, Mr. LaPointe urged the graduates of the Senior League to continue in the program by coaching or umpiring the minor league teams. "You boys can do a great deal for Little League even though you are graduates," he pointed out. "Coaching the youngsters in the minors and umpiring their games can be a lot of fun for you and will keep your energies directed toward future Little League activity."

Toastmaster Koch then introduced Lennie Merullo as "a man who has been in baseball all of his life and has made his life one which has been devoted to youngsters everywhere." Mr. Merullo went on to prove the truth of these words.

He opened with a lively anecdote regarding his baseball days in the Cape Cod League and continued as he pointed out that he "made" the Baseball Hall of Fame. "Or at least my glove did," he explained, "for I hold the record of having made four errors in one inning of a major league game. There have been others who have made three miscues, but up to now I am the record-holder. In fact my "goofs" in that inning have carried forward to the point where they tagged the nickname "Boots" on my son when he began to play baseball."

"I guess I can take a bit of credit for getting one of the greatest pitchers in baseball on the winning road," Lennie went on. "Warren Spahn took the mound for the old Boston Braves and I was the first batter to face him for Chicago. He struck me out and then proceeded to fan the next fourteen men who faced him. I like to think that I gave him a good start."

Concerning his youth, Mr. Merullo told of his boyhood in East Boston. "I came from a large family and my parents had all of the usual difficulties of language and education in this country. They had come from Italy and were not familiar with athletics as a way of life. Work was the important thing. To keep clothed and fed you had to work. So playing baseball, or hockey, or basketball was just a waste of time to them.

"But I played when I could and I made the high school team. A friend who was interested in baseball convinced my parents that I ought to continue to go to school and so I went to St. John's Prep and continued on to Villanova University because of my baseball ability. From there I was asked to visit Chicago and the owner of the Cubs, Mr. Phil Wrigley. When I returned home with a new overcoat, my first, a new felt hat, my first and a check for $1,500 also my first, my parents became convinced that baseball was not too bad a game after all."

Concluding his talk, Mr. Merullo confided that he had been a Little League president and his wife was the president of the Women's Auxiliary. "You won't find that being in Little League will make a big league baseball player out of every boy," Lennie continued, "but that is not what this program is all about. The main idea is to build character in every player. The planned effort of team play that creates spirit and friendship among the boys is the sort of thing that remains with the boy. After he goes home and takes his shower, win or lose, he finds that the desire, the team rivalry and the ideals that he has learned just will not wash off with the spray of water. It sticks inside and will be a constant help in the years ahead."

The informality of the talk had the right touch to impress all of the boys who were present and was a credit to the speaker and to the Little League for having the good fortune to invite Len Merullo to their banquet. They could not have made a better choice.

Trophy presentations were then the order of the evening and manager Babe Olivadoti of the Braves presented the winner's trophy to Mr. Ralph H. Bonnell of Bonnell Motors whose sponsorship of the Braves goes back a number of years. Hal Mullen, manager of the Athletics presented the American League trophy to Al LaPointe as owner of the Federal Heating Co., sponsors of the American League winners.

In the Senior Division, vice-president Jack Elliott presented the winning trophy to Mr. Harry Boodakian, the sponsor of the league leading Giants. And Dave Golden accepted the National League championship for Chitel's Clothing, sponsors of the winning Phillies.

The minor league winners were the Beavers in the National League under the managership of Jack Hines and the sponsorship of Spaulding-McGhee Bookstore. The American League champs were the Buffalos under Manager Ed Rodgers. This team has been sponsored by Forester's Florists Shop for many years.

Following the team presentations, the individual trophies were awarded to the graduates in both the major league teams and the Senior Division outfits. Each boy came forward to receive his trophy amid a clamor, catcalls and cheers of the assembled group.

With Father Hoy's prayer for thanks the evening was complete. There could be no doubt of the success of the affair from the opening words to the final prayer. The committee outdid themselves with their choice of Charlie Koch as toastmaster and their guest speaker Lennie Merullo. It was an evening to be remembered and relived in memory in the years ahead.

Making Sure The Horn Is Full

THE HORN OF PLENTY FAIR, coming Friday and Saturday at St. Mary's Church, has had the whole membership of the St. Mary's Mothers' Club busy with preparation. Among those heading it are, left to right, seated, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Domenic Fazio, Mrs. Charles Rooney, chairman, Mrs. Timothy Sullivan and Mrs. John O'Grady. Ready to attend are Michele Emans and Megan O'Grady, seated in front.

Duplicate Bridge Club

At a recent open pairs (non-life masters) sectional game in Boston, two of our club members brought up in Winchester, David Littleton and Stephen Root, came in the winners in a field of ninety pairs. It's a real challenge to play opposite those two!

The ladies are enjoying the daytime duplicate games under the capable direction of Jane Renz. (1st and 3rd Mondays; phone Jane, 729-8327, if you with to play) The top scorers at the last session were Nancy Atkinson and Greta Hawley, Edna Dayton and Else Hulm, Shirley Black and Jo Collier, Polly Wheelock and Sally Lix, and Florence Wilkinson and Joan Stites.

On Wednesday, October 19, a large group turned out for the Club Master Point game. There were twelve tables in Section A with a 110 average. Waveney Smith, who runs the pleasant game in Lexington, paired with Grace Ryan to come in first North-South, while Marian and Chet Davis continued their winning streak with a big game East-West.

North-South
Waveney Smith and Grace Ryan	132
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sittinger	126
Steve Haseltine and Carl Galante	125
Ruth Hagan and Ruth Bibby	122½
Ida Finlay and Lena Collins	120
Henry Morgan and Fred Gove	119
Martha Walker and Ellen Schofield	112½
East-West
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	138½
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith	127½
Donna Redpath and Fredna Perkins	119½
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade	119
Adeline Mingolelli and Ruth Jackson	115

Section B's ten tables played on a 63 average. Two Winchester Club members, Joe Scarpaci and Alan Leland, posted a fine game to win North-South, while in the East-West direction is was a tight battle with Peggy and Paul Sanderson barely edging out Dave Littleton and Steve Root.

North-South
Joseph Scarpaci and Alan Leland	78
John Mitchell and Darrell Root	73½
Rose Hickey and Lillian Sheridan	68
Thomas Macbeth and Morris Neiman	67
Steve Chiotellis and Peter Tritsch	66½
East-West
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sanderson	80
David Littleton and Stephen Root	79
Barbara Shea and Margaret Jackson	70
Martha Joslin and Herbert Wood	67
Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Holmes	65
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fein	63½

Board 19 in Section A is a good example of the extra kick to be found in a duplicate game. Bidding and making four spades is no real problem, and at rubber bridge an overtrick doesn't make that much difference, while at duplicate it may mean a top board. Take a good look at the North-South hands and see how you would try for that vital overtrick.

North
♠ A K Q 3 2

South

♦ K 10 9 8 7

In rubber bridge, North would probably get out the trumps, take care to lead toward the two kings in the North hand, thus giving up the heart and club aces and a club at the end, having ruffed one club in dummy and discarded the losing heart on the king of diamonds.

In duplicate, on the other hand, making four spades is no good if the others are making five, so you take a second look. Also you glance down the line of tables and see a top player who's going to have the same cards, and you're sure he'll find an extra trick somewhere.

So—assuming the aces are on the right side, there are five losers in the North hand, the two aces, a small heart, and two small clubs. One loser can go on the king of diamonds, and even if trumps don't break two-two, you can trump the other two losers in dummy before taking out the last trump. You have to use a little care in taking the second round of spades in the South hand with the jack so as to lead a heart or club, and the diamond ace should be taken early. (West can, however, still hold you to four by leading spades when he gets in with his aces. It's still worth a try, for he might not have the third spade.)

Of the eleven Norths playing the board, one bid five spades going down one for the bottom score, two stopped short of game with a poor score (one making four and one five); the other eight Norths played in four spades, three making five for a match-point score of 9, and five making only four for 5 match points.

And of course if this time that extra trick proves elusive, you can always look at the score sheet and ask that good player afterwards, "Please tell me how you made five on Board 19."

In short, as in other sports, there's always the golden lure of doing better the next time, which keeps us hooked.

Model Car Design: Third in Nation

James Miga, a junior at Winchester Senior High School, designed and constructed a model car which placed third in a contest sponsored by the Fisher Body Company.

An award of $50 was presented to James for his prize winning model. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Miga of 111 Middlesex Street.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"Basically, the story of man is the story of struggle for security—the conquest of risk. Man's first great stride towards effective security, and freedom for enterprise, came when he learned the principle, and the value, of sharing with others to protect himself against common risks. Insurance has become the working partner of the people . . ." So says Governor James A. Rhodes of Ohio.

We agree with Governor Rhodes that insurance is a vital ingredient in any plan for financial security. To most people, insurance is worth the cost, in security and peace of mind, even if they have NO major losses. It is DOING the job when it merely offers protection. Unlike many products, it isn't necessary to "use" insurance to receive its main benefits — protection, security, and peace of mind.

A few people misunderstand. They seem to feel their insurance premiums are "wasted" if the policies don't pay for themselves," through loss claims. However, a few claims usually convince them that losses COST time and money—even if you get reimbursed 100 cents on the dollar!

A good Insurance Program can provide YOU with added Security. May we tailor one to your needs?

St. Mary's Horn Of Plenty Bazaar Is Brimming Over

Football games will be forgotten this weekend, if you follow the crowd to St. Mary's Hall where the gals of St. Mary's Mothers' Club, under the capable direction of Mrs. Charles Rooney, display their talents in a giant display of originality with gifts that will appeal to all age groups at their Horn of Plenty Bazaar.

The Bazaar will be held for adults on Friday evening, October 28, from 7 to 10 p.m. and on Saturday, October 29, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. for adults and children.

Appropriately named, the Horn of Plenty Bazaar has plenty of everything and, in order to allow plenty of time for buying your Halloween candy, ordering your Christmas shopping early, you can get refreshed at the Snack Bar where tea or coffee and a delicious dessert are being served on Friday evening. Saturday, there will be games for the children and they can buy their lunch there to allow them a very full day.

Mrs. William McBain, president of St. Mary's Mothers' Club, is very enthusiastic about her committee headed by Mrs. Rooney as chairman, assisted by the following committee chairmen: Tea Room, Mary Bumiller (Friday); Saturday Lunch, Jim Murphy; Chances, Virginia O'Grady; Candy, Margaret Niewenhous; Bake, Eleanor Duffy; Knit, Peg Murphy; Hand Sewn, Julie Duffy; Toys, Mary Duran; White Elephant, Kay Boylan; Plants, Connie Fazio; Family Gifts, Eleanor Stygles and Elizabeth Iannacci; Decorations, Mary Boyle; Jewelry, Gail Burns and Rosemarie deMars; Christmas Cards, Kay Sullivan; Ceramics, Sisters of St. Joseph, Bethany Convent.

Police Horses, Dogs Are Starred Today in Boston

The Animal Rescue League of Boston will today hold "Animal Kingdom Day" at its headquarters where Tremont and Arlington Streets meet, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The event will be open to the public free of charge.

Two of Boston's Mounted Patrol will be present all day and the Police Canine Corps will put on two demonstrations, at 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., of how it operates to reduce crime in the city streets.

A highlight of the afternoon will be the arrival of the Boston Zoological Society's Zoomobile with monkeys, chimps and a zebra. And there will be a demonstration of obedience-trained dogs, and conducted group tours of the League's Shelter and Clinic during which household pets that are available for adoption may be seen.

Mrs. Carlton Strong of 326 Highland Avenue is a committee member for the day and reminds that home baked pastries, jellies, jams, candy, household items, Christmas cards and other articles will be on sale, including pet accessories, towels, and stationery.

Juvenile Officer Speaks to Sitters On Personal Safety

Officer Richard Beaton, Winchester Police Department, is to speak tonight at the fourth meeting of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes' Baby Sitters' School.

Since May, 1966, Officer Beaton has served as the Town's Juvenile Officer, and in this capacity is a member of the Massachusetts Association of Juvenile Officers.

Before assuming this position he was both a desk and patrol car officer for the Department.

The purpose of Officer Beaton's talk will be to inform sitters how best to protect themselves and their charges through proper handling of unusual occurrences such as prank phone calls, intruders, and unexpected callers.

He will point out safety precautions to be taken by both the parents and the sitter before the parents leave the home, and will describe both the types of situations a sitter may encounter and the best method of dealing with them.

WHSR-FM: A Growing Service To the Community

Winchester is one of the few suburban towns fortunate enough to have a fully equipped, licensed, and operating non-commercial, educational radio station. The purpose of WHSR-FM-Winchester High High School Radio is two-fold: first, to provide the community with local communication and entertainment, and secondly, to provide a means of training in speech for the students of the Winchester High School.

The station was made possible by a joint effort of the school and community in 1954. The major portion of the transmitting equipment was a gift of the Winchester Rotary Club. Two other gifts, by the High School Class of 1954 and the Dramatics Club, also helped to make the installation possible. The station is operated throughout the school year under the guidance of the faculty station manager, Mr. Paul J. Andrews. However, the actual programming is handled by a staff totally comprised of students.

As WHSR-FM heads into its second decade of local broadcasting, its schedules have been increased and its programming broadened. In general, a listener who tunes his FM receiver to 91.9 any Tuesday, Thursday, or Friday afternoon from 2:45 to 5:15 will hear an enjoyable program of light music with an occasional short, educational talk. In addition, selected home athletic events are also broadcast. For specific program details, listeners may consult the schedule published in this paper every week.

WHSR-FM offers great potential in the fields of community communication and broadcast training simultaneously. Some afternoon why not spin the FM dial to 91.9 and listen to Winchester's own broadcast station.

Hood's Honors To William Kimball

William Kimball of 8 Ginn Road, was honored recently by the H. P. Hood and Sons Company for his 30 years of service.

He was among several Hood employees who were presented service pins by Ezra Merrill, president, and G. H. Hood, Jr., of Everett Avenue, chairman of the executive committee of the Board of Directors.

The awards were made during a service luncheon held at the firm's Boston ice cream plant, site of several such luncheons held periodically to honor long time employees. Mr. Kimball, general manager of wholesale milk operations, received a ruby-studded gold service pin.

". . . Like Your Living Could"

The Reverend Horace Seldon, minister of Christian Education of the Massachusetts Congregational Christian Conference will be the guest speaker at the 9:15 a.m. chapel service of the Senior Forum, First Congregational Church on October 30th.

His topic: "Living That Tastes Good—Like Your Living Could."

Reverend Seldon received his7 B.D. at Andover Newton, went to Northeastern Business Administration School and at Amherst received the John Woodruff Simpson Fellowship award in theology. He has been a pastor in Beverly and Andover. Diane Bemis will be the chaplain and Nancy Millican will be assistant chaplain. Philip Marvel and Richard Kimball will be deacons.

A deputation of young people from Easton, Connecticut will be coming to Winchester as guests of Forum with their minister, Robert Singer, who is a former member of Forum. An interesting weekend is being planned for this visiting youth group.

TV Technician Sees Higher Set Repair Costs

Frederick Del Bartlett of Chapin Street, president of the Minuteman Chapter of the Electronic Technicians Guild of Massachusetts, the local professional organization of radio and television technicians, feels that the cost of maintenance and repair of television sets will probably cost the consumer more in the very near future.

Mr. Bartlett, who is a master licensed technician, bases his observations on information given to him by the Electronic Technicians Guild of Massachusetts. They attribute this to the television manufacturers producing new and innovative sets so quickly that service equipment and testing devices are almost obsolete before you finish paying for them; to color television, with its more and varied circuits, demanding more sophisticated equipment and more time to acquire technical knowledge about them; and finally, to the general overhead costs of doing business.

Mornings at Seven Readies for Stage

The Winchester Unitarian Players are putting the final touches on their fall production, "Morning's at Seven."

Stage managers Peg Magnusen and Gladys West are seeing that there is a place for everything and everything is in its place for opening night November 4th. The lighting done by Steve Funk, Gordon Davis, and Tom Connors will set off the stage decor as arranged by Dee Magnusen and Pam Sibley. Audio effects will be controlled by Ted Knowlton and his faithful tape recorder.

The Players have obtained the services of professional makeup man, Paul Planchet, and hair stylist, Vincent of Salon de Vincent here in Winchester to combine their talents for that Broadway touch.

A staff of ushers headed by Dick Barnard will be on hand at each performance and will provide programs designed by Will Garvey. Refreshments will be served by Mary Ann Knowlton during intermission.

Do contact Grace White at 729-0287 to reserve tickets for an evening of sheer delight.

TAKING THINGS FOR GRANTED?

How often we take things for granted until something happens to shock us into reality!

Take the car for instance. Normally, you can jump into your automobile, turn the ignition, push or pull a lever, and the car responds.

Picture this: you're in a long line of Sunday traffic and you put your car into reverse to back out and around a stalled vehicle in front of you and lo and behold the entire gear shift comes apart in your hand. Beautiful? Now what do you do?

While you're trying to control your temper, others are losing theirs. You force a smile, but all the while, you're wishing you could just disappear into thin air.

It was an unfortunate occurrence to have happen but it just points up the fact that we take many things for granted. After all, who would suspect anything like this could happen?

One thing we do know for certain, however, is the fact that we never take our customers for granted. We try to anticipate your every need whether it's in Oriental Rugs or Broadloom; in cleaning or repairing your carpeting. That's why we're so proud of our slogan:

"Our Reputation is Your Guarantee"

Pack 508 Meets Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow night Cub Pack 508, sponsored by the Noonan School Parents' Association, will hold its October meeting as in other years with a Halloween costume party. Each outfit has been individually created by each scout.

On October 6, 30 new boys were accepted into the pack and five new dens were formed. Many of the parents of the new boys have agreed to participate in the program, and among them are Mrs. Electra Apostolou, Mrs. Louise Bufare, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carey, Mrs. Mary Clabby, Mrs. Barbara Cogan, Mrs. Muriel Haggerty, Elliot P. Melzar, Mrs. Mary Milley, Mrs. Anna Mills, Angelo Morandi, Mrs. Annie Polcari, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Powers, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Rockhill, Thomas Romeo, Mrs. Patricia Sarnie and Mrs. Josephine G. Wightman.

"Old-timers" Mildred Allison, Ed Bingel, Keith Bonn, Frank Hennelly, Ed and Norma Jones, Frank and May Lawton, Bill Oravete, Mildred Paoletti, Elizabeth Porter, Mike Saraco and Mae Swymer will be on hand another year, but the pack is sorry to report that Charlie and Sandra Connor and Maurice and Cathy Cataford have moved away and will be missed.

At the September 30 invitational meeting a report was made on the first summertime program which included a successful series of father-son softball games (both won by sons) and a family picnic in the Sheepfold held in July.

At this meeting Robert Debourke, neighborhood commissioner for the Musket District of the Minuteman Council, presented the pack's '66-'67 charter to Edmund Bingel, pack chairman, and also presented a "Breakthrough for Youth" streamer for the pack banner, a national award for pack accomplishment.

Captain Michael Connolly of the Winchester Fire Department spoke on fire prevention before the boys and demonstrated call boxes and signal devices in use here.

Scout Michael Lawton of Troop 509 was appointed den chief for Den 3, the first boy to achieve Webelos and graduate from cubs into Boy Scouts and the first to return as a junior leader. As his first task Scout Lawton, assisted by Scout Richard DeBourke, conducted inspection-in-ranks and awarded first place to Den 6. Meanwhile Francis Lawton, institutional representative, previewed the program and invited new boys and parents to an orientation meeting planned the next week.

At the council fire ceremony, advancements went to: Stephen Sundberg, Den 3; Michael Collins, William Haggerty, Charles Jones, Brian Mandeville, Den 6; and William Swymer, Den 7, all of whom received arrowheads. The Bear rank was awarded Brian Mandeville of Den 6, Patrick Duran, David Foley, John Paoletti and Edward Porter received individual medals as Den 5 members, placing first at the annual roll call inspection last spring.

Three Here Attend Nat. Scout Council

Among representatives gathering last weekend in Detroit for the 37th meeting of the National Council of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. were 10 adult representatives and four senior scout representatives from the Mistick Side Council here.

Of this group delegates were Mrs. James R. Stewart, Jr., president of the Council, Mrs. Ralph C. Thompson, a member of the Region 1 committee and Kathleen Cosgrove, a senior scout.

They heard Lady Barbara Ward the British economist keynote the meetings theme, "Girl Scouting—Values to Hold, Worlds to Explore," and attended many conferences with the 3,300 delegates.

Mistick Side Council is a member of the United Community Services and receives funds from the Massachusetts Bay United Fund. Please "Think Twice—You Only Give Once," say the scouts.

Fall Forest Fire Season

Commissioner of Natural Resources Robert L. Yasi today called attention to the fall forest fire season and asked for public cooperation in keeping all fires to a minimum.

He said periodic rainfall has helped thus far, but pointed out precipitation is from four to six inches below normal for an average year, although it is above the amount of rainfall of the past four years.

To date, there has been 5474 forest and brush fires reported in Massachusetts this year, which burned over a total of 6822 acres. The estimated cost of extinguishing these fires was $135,000 and nearly 7000 acres of productive land was reduced in value.

"It will take many years for this burned area to produce timber and other forest products. Statistics show that 98 per cent of all such fires are caused by human carelessness," Mr. Yasi said.

Debris burning is one of the chief causes of all fires in the open. Mr. Yasi pointed out that it is unlawful to start such fires without first obtaining a permit from the local fire warden.

Sales of U. S. Savings Bonds for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1966, totaled $4,650 million, contrasted to $4,543 million during the previous fiscal year.

Epiphany Elects And Installs Lay Leaders

Election of officers, the reports of organizations, and action on an amendment to the Constitution highlighted the annual meeting of the Parish of the Epiphany, held in Hadley Hall last Tuesday evening, October 18.

Four officers were re-elected: John K. Colony, warden; Andrew B. Fielding, treasurer; Francis C. Bowes, associate treasurer; and Katherine Philbrick, clerk.

Donald Campbell, Robert E. Durland, Frederick V. Mauger, and Mrs. R. Alan Page were elected to the vestry for terms of three years. John H. Elliott and Charles N. Gebhard were elected to complete unexpired terms. Richard D. Dexter, Mrs. E. T. Blanch, and Whitney Smith were elected for terms of three years each to the Board of Christian Education.

John K. Colony and William H. Buracker, wardens, and Katherine Philbrick, clerk, will serve as parish delegates to the Diocesan Convention. Alternates are Richard N. Carr, Mrs. J. Warren Shoemaker, and Edmund M. Wright. Elected to serve ob the Nominating Committee are Mrs. Frederick V. Mauger, Donald E. McLean, and William G. Urmson.

Members gave first approval to an amendment to the constitution, changing the date of the annual meeting from October to January. This amendment must be approved by the Standing Committee of the Diocese and passed a second time by a two-thirds vote before it becomes effective.

Following the business meeting, the Rev. John J. Bishop, rector, presided at a service of installation of newly-elected officers and delegates.

Electorate Ready To Vote On Candidates And Issues Tuesday

It's anybody's guess as to how many of Winchester's 11,000-plus registered voters will turn out for the upcoming State Election on Tuesday; but there is general feeling observed that the count will be high to vote for and against specific candidates and on particular referendum questions.

Contests seeming to attract the most interest locally appear to be those pitting incumbent Republican Governor John A. Volpe of Winchester against Democratic challenger Edward W. McCormack; U. S. Senatorial candidates, Republican Attorney-General Edward W. Brooke and Democratic former Governor Endicott Peabody; Republican Lieutenant Governor Elliot Richardson and former Democratic Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Beliotti for state's Attorney General; and for local representation on Beacon Hill, GOP challenger Bill Barnstead against incumbent Phil Pellegrini for the Sixth Senatorial District seat.

Issues seem to be playing a larger role in voters' determinations as to the worth of various candidates for office, at least in discussions and political advertisements, than has often been the case. And, similarly, the electorate generally seems to be more aware of the nature and import of the referendum questions it will be confronted with.

Designated polling places in Winchester will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 o'clock in the evening: Precinct One at Washington School; Precinct Two at the Town Hall; Precinct Three at Mystic School; Precinct Four at Vinson-Owen School; Precinct Five at Wyman School, and Precinct Six at Noonan School.

Brooke's Mother To Visit Town

Mrs. Edward W. Brooke, Sr. will be the guest of honor at a Saturday afternoon party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William D. Barone of School Street. Mrs. Brooke, mother of the Attorney General of Massachusetts, came to Boston for the Brooke Birthday dinner and is visiting at the home of her son during election week.

She makes her home in Washington D.C., where Attorney General Brooke lived as a boy and had his early education.

This makes the fourth campaign that the Barones have worked in the Brooke interest and also the fourth campaign that they have sponsored a local reception for a member of the Brooke family.

County Budget Issue Concerns Office Seeker

Homeowners in the 11 cities and 43 towns of Middlesex County do not understand how nearly $14,000,000 of their money is being spent this year for services by the county, according to former Representative Irene K. Thresher of Cambridge, Republican candidate for County Commissioner to fill the unexpired term of the late William G. Andrew.

"More than $11,774,119 of this total is assessed on local real estate taxes," she pointed out. Mayors and selectmen in the county are alarmed about this large increase since 1964.

400 at Fete For Eddie McCormack

For Winchester Democrats the reception for Edward J. McCormack, Jr., candidate for Governor, was the highlight of his local supporters' campaign efforts.

Held at the Sons of Italy Hall on October 23, and sponsored by Edward McCormack's coordinators, Mrs. Mary Serieka and Mr. William Dailey, both of Middlesex Street, the reception was a social and political success. Mr. McCormack spoke to an enthusiastic group of close to 400 people representing Winchester and the neighboring cities and towns.

The former Attorney General McCormack discussed his stand on the sales tax. Although he feels that the sales tax is regressive, he is in favor of a tax program that will provide revenue to keep pace with the needs of the Commonwealth.

In discussing law and order, Mr. McCormack would like to see awards given for the design of public buildings based on ability rather than on political favoritism. This was an obvious reference to the supposed personal participation by Peter Volpe, acting as an assistant to Commissioner McCarthy in the awarding of State contracts.

M.D.C. Plans To Rid Mystic Lake Pollution Odors

Plans for ridding Lower Mystic Lake in Arlington and Medford of occasional offensive odors that sweep over into Winchester and improving the 111-acre area for recreational purposes have been submitted to the Metropolitan District Commission.

M.D.C. Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., announced the program, submitted by Jason M. Cortell, Wellesley consulting biologist, would provide early relief by drawing upon the Upper Mystic Lake to maintain a blanket of fresh water on the surface, and preventing hydrogen sulfide-laden salt water from rising and creating an odor problem.

The long-range solution calls for pumping out the lake's salt water content into the Mill Brook Valley relief sewer, now under construction and slated for completion in 1968.

Meanwhile, further intrusion of salt water up the Mystic River and into the Lower Mystic Lake will be largely halted by blocking off much of the tidal flow at the new Amelia Earhart Mystic River Dam.

Mr. Cortell's report on the cause and possible cure of the problem pointed out the main cause of the "rotten egg" odor is the presence of hydrogen sulfide in the salt water stratified under a thin layer of flowing fresh water, which usually acts as a blanket controlling the smell. This layer varies between three and 11 feet in depth.

The biologist pointed out that the deterioration of water conditions in the Mystic Lakes system is not solely the M.D.C. responsibility. Citing specific instances of contamination from ponds and streams in the watershed system, he said all communities involved must take steps to implement a general clean-up and pollution abatement program if the Mystic Lakes reclamation project is ever to achieve success.

Mr. Cortell reported sewage overflow, nutrient contamination and general debris all contribute to the sub-standard conditions in the Mystic Valley watershed.

Among the recommendations spelled out by the Wellesley biologist were a comprehensive program of water manipulation along the Mystic River and the dams between the Upper and Lower Mystic Lakes. Such steps, he said, would help flood the lower lake with more fresh water and thereby reinforce the blanket which caps the emission of rotten egg odor.

Police Merit Award Goes To Sergeant Dan Reardon For Life Saving Rescue

Sergeant Daniel I. Reardon was honored by his fellow police officers last night at the 36th annual Policeman's Concert in the High School auditorium when he was awarded the prized Meritorious Service Award.

The fifth recipient of the award for outstanding police performance, Sgt. Reardon was recognized for meritorious service for his part in the successful rescue of an elderly woman from a burning apartment building.

The award consisted of a certificate engraved with the Sergeant's name and the record of meritorious service for which the award was given, and a wooden plaque bearing similar inscriptions with a Police Department badge set into wood.

The award ceremony took place during the intermission of the regular annual concert of professional entertainment acts benefiting the Winchester Police Relief Association, and was the fourth such observance of an awarding ceremony.

Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the Board of Selectmen, made the presentation, describing both the nature of the award and the record of meritorious service performed.

Mr. Armstrong related how on the morning of February 26, 1966, Sgt. Reardon had responded to a fire alarm at 1 Lewis Road along with other police officers and the Fire Department. The building had been searched, but learning that someone might still be inside, Sgt. Reardon headed up a resumed search inside the building while firefighters fought the fire. Sgt. Reardon aided a Mrs. Stacey down from the third floor to safety, and returned to search again for the elderly Mrs. Frank Driscoll, who had not been seen to leave the building.

Sgt. Reardon finally located Mrs. Driscoll unconscious on the floor of a smoke-filled rear room in the apartment and, by finding her and getting her out of the apartment in time for emergency first aid and treatment, was credited with saving the life of the elderly resident.

Also present on the stage for the award ceremony were the Board of Selectmen, the concert committee, the Chief of Police, and the award committee —which consisted of Selectman Charles Doucette, Police Lieutenant Edward Bowler, Winchester Star Editor David Cameron McLean, and Woburn Daily Times Correspondent Charles Riley.

Coffee Hour For Mr. Barnstead

William a Barnstead, Republican Candidate for the State Senate from the 6th Senatorial District, was entertained at a morninng coffee on Monday by Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham. A number of women gathered to meet Mr. Barnstead at the Sidebotham home on Westland Avenue, and to listen to him tell his views on our district's representation in the Senate.

Mrs. Sidebotham is also interested in the candidacy of her son Ronald MacKenzie of Burlington who is seeking the State Senate seat in the Seventh Middlesex Senatorial District. Mr Barnstead and Mr. MacKenzie became acquainted when they served together as members of the Republican State Committee.

Library Open House Sunday

All townspeople and other interested persons are cordially invited by the Trustees of the Winchester Public Library to attend an open house at the Library next Sunday, November 6, from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

Although there are several minor areas in which work still needs to be done, the open house will serve to mark the essential completion of the $400,000 Library addition and renovation program.

This will be an opportunity for townspeople to examine the physical plant in detail, including areas not usually open to the public. These will include the newly renovated offices and staff room as well as greatly enlarged work space for the preparation of books for the shelves. Trustees and staff members will be on hand to answer questions and describe the various operations and processes of the Library.

An attractively printed brochure outlining in detail the Library's resources and services will be available.

Most Americans Favor Federal Spending Cuts

Seven out of ten Americans want to reduce federal government spending to control inflation.

Eight out of ten express concern about inflation.

Two out of three say they have been hurt by it.

One-third feel they are worse off financially than a year ago.

These are some of the results released today from a major national opinion survey taken in early October by the Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, New Jersey. The study was commissioned by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Given a choice between the two, 71% of the respondents favored a cut in federal spending rather than increased taxes (7%).

Building Committee Moving To School Site Resolution

Vitka Prods Committees To Keep Schedule, Make Decisions; Feasible Sites Cut To 3; Turkey Ridge Still Most Promising

It was a night scheduled for decisions and there was a definite mood of immediacy and responsibility in the air Tuesday evening as the Permanent Building Committee and its subcommittee for secondary schools met in the Town Hall to deliberate in final review all the remaining contemplated sites for a proposed new high school to reject those held unviable and to resolve those which should remain under prime consideration.

The PBC concluded with three main sites left for recommendation and consideration and, if subcommittee chairman Joseph Vitka's hard driving schedule remains unbroken, a priority order among the three recommendations for an anticipated special Town Meeting before year's end ought to be forthcoming in the next week to two weeks.

The PBC voted to keep alive the Shore Road Field expanded site as the only Center area capable of supporting a new high school complex. This in keeping with some sentiment expressed at the 1965 Town Meeting that rejected Turkey Ridge on the West Side as a desirable location because it was too far removed from the Center.

The PBC also voted to keep the original Turkey Ridge site alive, even though rejected once by the town, since it still appeared to be a promisingly suitable site in terms of area and building conditions.

Finally, the PBC voted to keep alive another West Side site which was held to have at least potential viability as a high school site, that being land north of Johnson Road near its crest, behind an existing and still under development subdivision owned by the Mahoney's, off Plato, Socrates and other Greek-named ways.

Generally, the PBC appeared to favor either a return to the Turkey Ridge site proposal or the one near Mahoney's and West Side Field; although still determined to give the Town Meeting a Center choice, even if it be a last recommendation.

This apparent swing in the PBC's direction seemed strongly based, even though conflicting with the Planning Board's first public announcement Tuesday night that it had definitely voted to recommend to the PBC and eventually the Town Meeting that the Shore Road Field expanded site selected as the best planning site.

Mr. Vitka thanked the Planning Board for finally making a public statement as to its site recommendation, noting that the PBC had waited nearly a year and a half for it, and was still waiting to see an unqualified written statement of position.

Highly critical of what he inferred inadequacies of the Planning Board's role in advising on site locations during the past, Mr. Vitka asked the Planning Board chairman William G. Chapman, Jr., why the Planning Board in coming forth with a recommendation at this time could not make an unqualified recommendation. He charged that the Planning Board's recommendation of Shore Road Field expanded, subject to the PBC's architects' and engineers' findings, did nothing more in fact than throw the recommendation back upon the PBC's hired consultants to make the decision for the Planning Board.

Pressing for an "unqualified" position, Mr. Vitka questioned Mr. Chapman further, asking if the Plannig Board in fact recommended the Shore Road Field expanded site even if it were to prove the most expensive alternative.

After some hedging, Mr. Chapman said that it would not be good planning to recommend several planning alternatives, but that one total plan should be devised for the town, and for this reason the Planning Board would stick by the Shore Road Field site as its sole recommendation.

Mr. Vitka then asked the PBC's architectural consultant to note some of the expense problems involved with the Shore Road site, and indicated this was one reason why the PBC tended to be looking

Rev. Scroggs Leaves Church For Teaching

The Reverend James R. Scroggs announced his resignation as minister of the Second Congregational Church last Sunday in order to accept a full-time position on the faculty of the Chandler School for Women in Boston.

Dr. Scroggs' resignation will become effective on February 1, 1967.

REV. JAMES R. SCROGGS

Dr. Scroggs, 34, has resided here with his wife, Emily, and their two children, daughter Elizabeth, 6, and son Michael, 4, at the church's parsonage at 473 Washington Street since first coming here on November 1, 1963.

Active in community affairs, Dr. Scroggs was last year's president of the Ministers and Directors Association of Winchester. He has been interested in furthering the ecumenical spirit and activities in town, and has also been active in Fair Housing.

Born in Baltimore, Maryland, he was raised in Milton and received his B.A. degree from Northeastern in 1955, his B.D. degree from Harvard Divinity School in 1958, and in 1963 earned his Ph.D. degree at Boston University. He was ordained at the East Congregational Church in Milton by his wife's father, Rev. L. C. Schroeder, in 1959.

The Scroggs plan to live in Winchester for the rest of the year if they can find a home to rent. Among Dr. Scroggs other interests, his hobby is making harpsicord musical instruments.

For the past four years Dr. Scroggs has been teaching psychology and sociology part-time at Chandler School for Women. He will now assume a full teach ing position there.

Vandals Ruin Plantings On Estates Malls

Vandals struck again at the Winchester Estates for the third time in two weeks Monday night, destroying approximately $100 in tree and shrub beautification plantings.

Police Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton reported the destruction of a flowering crab tree at the center mall strip on Capri Terrace, the mutilation of another flowering tree on Wincrest Drive and the pulling up of shrubs from the ground.

The new damage raises to about $300 the cost of vandalism in the area during the month of October. Two weeks ago youths snapped off limbs, bent trees over and pulled them out of the ground at a cost exceeding $200.

The mall strips were built up by the residents of the area through the Winchester Estates Garden Club at a cost of over $1,400 and many long hours of neighborhood cooperation in planting the trees and shrubs. The residents have on all three occasions of vandalism tried to repair and salvage whatever they were able to before the onset of a cold winter kills those that were injured.

A reward of $50 has been offered for information leading to the conviction of those responsible for the vandalism. Information should be addressed to Box M11-1 at the Winchester Star, 3 Church Street.

Jaycees Planning Annual Miss Winchester Pageant

Should it be in the stars, Winchester could easily find itself represented in the Atlantic City finals of the Miss America Pageant next September. Our neighbor, Lexington, has had the distinction three times in the last six years.

Concluding that pulchritude and talent are not peculiar to our neighbor, the Winchester Jaycees, at their October 24th meeting, announced plans to hold the first annual Miss Winchester Scholarship Pageant late next Spring.

To be held in conjunction with the United States Jaycees, who now sponsor more than 95 per cent of all Miss America entrants, the event will be open to all local girls between the ages of 18 and 28.

Miss Winchester and her court will receive awards in the form of scholarships to permit them to further their education in whatever area they chose, be it college, music, art, or secretarial school.

The Miss Winchester Scholarship Pageant will be patterned after the national event in that contestants will be judged not only on beauty, but on poise, personality, and talent as well.

The winner will go on to Attleboro to compete in the Miss Massachusetts Pageant, which again will be televised. John Hackett of the Jaycees, Pageant chairman, has indicated that although further details will not be released until January, inquiries are certainly welcome, in the meantime and should be directed to him or the Jaycees, Box 284 Winchester.

Guest speaker at the October meeting was Donald Spinrey, recently appointed Winchester recreation director. Mr. Spinney outlined his immediate plans for answering Winchester's recreational needs and expressed some of his long-range objectives. He also summarized the aims of the 12-member Town Recreation Committee and answered quite a number of questions directed to him by members of the Jaycees.

The objective of his appearance at the meeting was to explore new areas of cooperation between the Jaycees and the Recreation Committee. With such cooperation, the numerous Jaycee youth projects would be in tune with Mr. Spinney's efforts and would serve to complement community-sponsored programs.

The Jaycees, for example, during the past six months, have conducted a Junior Ski competition, a Junior Golf Tournament, a Teenage Safe Driving Contest and the Battle of the Bands. As a result of Mr. Spinney's appearance, the Jaycees pledged their support of his efforts. Mr. Spinney, in turn, acknowledged this support, for which, he added, many opportunities would arise.

At the meeting, the Jaycees, aided by an increasing membership, also discussed projects in a number of other areas, including Civil Service reform.

The latter area has been the subject of study by the League of Women Voters, the Massachusetts Jaycees, the Taxpayers Foundation and a number of other civic organizations. With the opening of the new legislative session, the question of Civil Service reform is expected to be a heated one.

In this regard the Jaycees have taken a stand in favor of reform in a number of areas, generally as outlined in House Bill 266, and locally will be pressing for acceptance of many of the bills provisions.

Should any young Winchester man between 21 and 35 feel that he would like to contribute to or learn about what the Jaycees are involved with, he ought to call Membership Chairman Bud Bowlin, 729-0873, or President Ed Rodriguez, 729-2032.

Burning Permits

A permit from the Winchester Fire Department is required for all open air burning. Permits may be be obtained at the Fire Headquarters either in person or by a telephone call.

Permits will not be issued for burning on streets or public ways. The reason for this is that it destroys the surface of the street and also can cause accidents.

Area's Installment Debt Hits $1,550 Per Family

How much of a debt load are residents of Middlesex County carrying these days?

How much of their income each month goes toward meeting the installments on their outstanding debts?

As in most other communities, there has been a steady rise in the last few years in the amount of consumer debt.

People have been using credit to buy more automobiles, washing machines, dishwashers and air conditioners than ever before. In addition, they have been borrowing money on personal loans to finance travel, education and other expenditures.

The net result, nationally, is that installment debt is at a new high, equivalent to $1,220 per family.

The data, from the Federal Reserve Board and other sources, shows that installment credit outstanding on June 1st totaled more than $70.2 billion. In 1960, by way of comparison, it was only $42.8 billion.

In Midlesex County, based on the national findings and on average earnings locally, the debt load is estimated at $1,550 per family.

For this country's population as a whole, the grand total is approximately $579,480,000.

This takes into account the bought on time as well as money owed on personal loans and on repair and modernization loans. Not included are charge accounts in retail stores, home mortgages and bank loans.

The amount of debt per family varies from one area of the country to another. It bears a direct relationship to income, in most cases.

Local buying habits and consumer attitudes are also a factor. Many people choose to buy on credit for the sake of convenience even though they have the necessary funds in their saving accounts.

As to whether the American people have taken on too much installment debt, there appears to be little concern in that direction. They are earning more and are therefore quite able to keep up with their payments.

In general, about $1 out of every $7 for disposable income is going into payments.

In Middlesex County, this amounts to approximately $130 per month per family, on average.

Thomas Henry Noonan

Thomas Henry Noonan of 1 Chester Street, a resident here for 15 years, died suddenly on October 19 at the age of 51. Mr. Noonan was a purchasing agent for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and was stricken while at work in Cambridge and rushed to the Mount Auburn Hospital, where he succumbed.

Mr. Noonan was the husband of Jeanette (Colucci) Noonan, and is survived also by his parents, Frank and Josephine Noonan of North Woburn; by a sister, Mrs. Alice Tighe of Woburn; and a niece, Joan Welch of Salt Lake City.

Mr. Noonan was born in Lexington. He was associated with both the Porter Patent Leather Company in Canton and with Mitre Corporation in Bedford before joining the staff at MIT about two years ago. He served in the U. S. Army in World War II in the Pacific Theatre, and he was a member of the Order of the Sons of Italy in Winchester.

A solemn high Mass was celebrated at Saint Mary's Church on Monday, October 24, after a funeral from the Marashio Funeral Home in Woburn. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

Charles W. McClellan

Charles W. McClellan, 41, the father of seven children, was killed on Sunday night, October 30, in Tewksbury while attempting to cross Route 38. Mr. McClellan was a native and resident here until moving to Tewskbury five years ago.

The flag on the Common was at half-mast for Mr. McClellan and a military funeral was held for him from the Lane Funeral Home yesterday morning preceding the solemn high Mass in the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 a.m. Mr. McClellan was buried in Wildwood Cemetery.

Born here on March 2, 1925, he was the son of the late James McClellan, a native of Boston, and Mrs. Ruth E. (White) McClellan, a native of Reading, who survives him in Winchester. He leaves his wife, Margaret (Cole) McClellan, and his children, Doreen, Michael, Carol, Lorraine, Charlene, Nathaniel, and Margaret Ellen, and a brother, James F., all residents of Tewksbury.

Mr. McClellan was graduated from the Winchester schools. He was well known here, as he had been a mail carrier with the Winchester Post Office for many years. He was a Navy veteran of World War II, having served in the European Theatre of Operations. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3719 and of the Holy Name Society at the Immaculate Conception Church.

Miss Persis Augusta Richardson

Winchester lost the last local member of one of its oldest and most contributing families last week with the death of Miss Persis Augusta Richardson at the age of 76.

Miss Richardson was the only child of Granville and Etta (Cutter) Richardson, and she lived in a home on a very small part of the former large family farmlands at number 597 or what is now Washington Street, but used to be known as Richardson's Row.

Miss Richardson, who was a life long active member of the First Baptist Church and much beloved by her co-parishioners, was born in the family homestead on December 28, 1889. She was graduated from the Winchester schools and took further business training in Boston. She then worked a few years for a Boston insurance firm before moving to the State House, where she served for more than 49 years in the Massachusetts Department of Civil Service, many of them as director of personnel.

In Winchester she was a one time superintendent of the Sunday School at the Baptist Church and a member of the Historical Society. She was also a devoted and long time member of the Audubon Society.

Miss Richardson is survived only by many cousins, scattered all over New England. Funeral services were held for her at the First Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon, October 29. Burial was in the family lot of the Cutter family, in Wildwood Cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors and organizations for their many kind expressions of sympathy, spiritual bouquets and floral tributes during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Anne (Kearney) Moses

Mrs. Anne (Kearney) Moses, wife of Dr. Sanford H. Moses of 8 Prospect Street died in the Winchester Hospital on Wednesday morning, October 26, after a long illness. She had been well known through her active church and club work since moving here 36 years ago. A resident also of Marblehead, she was sixty five at the time of her death.

Mrs. Moses was born in Parrsboro, Nova Scotia on May 18, 1901, the daughter of Wintfield and Alberta B. (Atkinson) Kearney, both also natives there. She was educated in the Canadian schools, coming to this country at the age of 16.

Mrs. Moses was a member of the Church Committee of the First Congregational Church, a former president of its Social Service Guild and a member of its Women's Association. In addition she was a former board member of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association, a member of the Friends of the Winchester Hospital and chairman of its mending group for many years, a member of the Winchester Home and Garden Club, the Studio Guild of Winchester and the Winchester Art Association. She has served also as a past president of the Middlesex East Medical Society Auxiliary and on the Board of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Moses leaves one daughter, Mrs. George W. Merrow of Bloomfield, Connecticut; a son, Sanford H. Jr. of Mount Tabor, New Jersey; Two sisters, Miss Alfreda M. Kearney of Winchester and Mrs. William Matteson of Los Angeles, California; a brother, Albert W. Kearney of Cambridge; and five grandchildren.

The Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiated at services for her at 2 p.m. on Friday afternoon, October 28 and interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Miss Hazel F. Berry

Miss Hazel F. Berry of 15 Stowell Road, a resident of 27 years, died on Monday, October 31 after a long illness.

The Reverend Dwight L. Cart of the First Congregational Church officiated at private services held for her at the Kimball Chapel on Wednesday morning, November 2, at 11 a.m.

Miss Berry was born in Barkhansted, Connecticut, the daughter of Clark T. and Ella F. (Wentworth) Berry. A graduate of Radcliffe College she had held many important business positions. She had been special editor of the Webster's International Dictionary at one time and a manager of Filene's branch stores for many years. She had been for 25 years a teacher of textiles at the Chamberlain School of Retailing in Boston. She was known here as a co-owner of the former Tilley's store on Thompson Street.

Miss Berry is survived by one sister, Mrs. Fred Turner of West Bridgewater.

John Murray Cullen

The flag in the Common is at half mast for John Murray Cullen, a native and life long resident who died at the Soldier's Home in Chelsea after a long illness on Monday, October 31.

A solemn high Mass of requiem will be sung this morning at Saint Mary's Church at 10 a.m. following a funeral from the Costello Funeral Home, and burial will be in the family lot in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Mr. Cullen, who had been retired for some time, lived here at 6 Wolcott Road. He was born here the son of John M. and Ann (Murray) Cullen and he was educated in the Winchester schools. Mr. Cullen served the United States Navy in World War I and was a long time member of the American Legion Post 97. A parishioner at St. Mary's, he was also active in the Holy Name Society.

Surviving Mr. Cullen are four sisters and two brothers, Agnes F., Anna V., Helen T., Bernard J. and Mary S. Cullen, all of the home address, and Anthony M. Cullen of Allston.

Mrs. Grace A. (Robinson) Woodward

Funeral services are to be held this afternoon at 2 p.m. at the Wilson Funeral Chapel, Somerville, for Mrs. Grace A. (Robinson) Woodward. She will be buried in Woodlawn Cemetery in Everett.

Mrs. Woodward, widow of Guy Stickney Woodward, was a former Somerville resident but had resided here for the past seven years at 90 Fletcher Street. She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Florence Sperry of Fort Huron, Michigan and by a cousin, Mrs. Olive C. Downer of Watertown.

Mrs. Mary (Bruen) Gilhooly

Mrs. Mary (Bruen) Gilhooley, 83, mother of Mrs. Francis P. Brennan of 39 Westland Avenue, died Sunday, October 23, after suffering a stroke three months earlier.

Mrs. Gilhooly was born in County Sligo, Ireland, and was the wife of Thomas Gilhooly, who passed away in 1940. She was a former employee of the Massachusetts Division of Child Guardianship.

In addition to her daughter she leaves a sister, Mrs. Thomas Cullen, and three brothers, John Patrick and James, of County Sligo, Ireland as well as four grandchildren, Mary Ann, Eileen, John and Thomas Brennan.

Mrs. Gilhooly was buried from her daughter's home and a solemn high Mass was celebrated at St. Eulalia's Church on Wednesday, October 26, by the Reverend Charles Anadore, formerly of St. Mary's Church in Winchester. Deacon at the Mass was a cousin, the Rev. John Dyer of the Worcester Diocese and Sub-Deacon was the Rev. Matthew Coughlin of St. Eulalia's. The Rev. Thomas Walsh of the Columban Fathers was on the altar.

Honorary pallbearers were the Messrs. Hugh Conlon, Martin Cullen, Thomas Cullen, Thomas Gilhooly and James Kelly, all of New York City; John Brennan, James Bruen, Peter Bruen, Laurence Conlon, Michael McDonagh, Andrew McFarland and James McGuinness, all of Boston.

Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford.

McCormack

Regarding education, Mr. McCormack observed that Massachusetts is still lagging behind other States in providing an education for qualified students. The States of California and New York, for example, provide a free college education for all students who can qualify.

From the sound of the standing ovation given to Eddie, there was no doubt how the audience felt about his chances of becoming the next Governor of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Mary Serieka introduced Mrs. Emily McCormack to the audience. An extremely attractive asset for her husband, Mrs. McCormack, dressed in a two piece pink silk suit, was presented the red, white and blue cake which decorated the center of the head table. The cake, prepared by Mrs. Ruth Peterson, was a masterful achievement.

Atty. Francis X. Bellotti, candidate for Attorney General was also present. A tireless campaigner, he spoke to the guests about the overwhelming dedication to party unity that he finds as he travels throughout the State. He emphasized the need for unity as never before with the first four year term for all the Democratic candidates held in the balance. Frank went from table to table greeting all present personally and received fond best wishes in return.

Space would not allow us to mention the many local and statewide guests who attended the reception. However, prominent among those in attendance were: Senator and Mrs. Philibert Pellegrini, Arlington; Senator James Long, Woburn; Representative and Mrs. John J. McGlynn, Medford; and Mr. Edmund Buckley, Registrar of Deeds, Cambridge. Chairmen of the local and neighboring Democratic Town Committees were also in attendance. Mrs. Mary Doherty of Winchester, Mr. Charles Nolan of Arlington, Mr. Robert Vigno of Burlington, and Mr. George Riley, vice chairman of Woburn. Mike Curran, editor of the Wiburn Times was present and Selectman and Mrs. Charles Doucette of Winchester.

Joseph Barry of Roxbury, an aide to Edward J. McCormack, provided most of the excellent entertainment provided during the evening. Miss Anna Leary of Roxbury thrilled the audience with her lively Irish step dancing and then gave a thrilling display on the art of pantomime. Miss Edna Jean Adams sang and played the guitar, and Charles O'Connor, Woburn entertained with some pleasing songs. The Al Ayers Orchestra, featuring guest pianist Roger Harsch of Weston, furnished the music throughout the evening.

The Sons of Italy Hall was decorated in red, white and blue with the tablecloths on the long tables decorated alternately in the same colors. Mrs. Eleanor Russo, Mrs. Ruth Peterson, Mrs. Margaret Donohoe and Miss Mary Serieka were responsible for the excellent color scheme.

There was an abundance of food and each table was served individually. Mrs. Katherine Jennings, Mrs. Mary Avakian, Mrs. Charles Duran, Mrs. Betty McGee, Mrs. Sally O'Donnell, the Misses Mary and Katherine Kennedy, and Mrs. Roger Harsch were in charge of preparing the refreshments.

William Dailey was master of ceremonies, assisted by James Russo and John Hogan.

Appreciation was extended by those present to Mrs. Mary Serieka and William Dailey for providing Winchester Democrats with a splendid evening.

Christian Sex Education Lectures Presented by Marycliff Fathers' Club

The Marycliff Academy Fathers' Club invites all the parents of Marycliff students as well as the parents of St. Eulalia's, St. Mary's and Immaculate Conception Parishes to attend the Christian Sex Education lectures to be given by Dr. William A. Lynch at St. Eulalia's Hall, on Monday evening, November 7, and Thursday evening, November 10, at 8:30 p.m.

A lecture will also be given by Dr. Lynch for high school boys on Wednesday evening, November 16, at 7:30 p.m., and for high school girls on Thursday evening, November 17, at 7:30 p.m. Both these lectures will be given at Marycliff Academy.

The Reverend Russell R. Novello, archdiocesan CCD director in releasing information concerning the Christian Sex Education program here in the Archdiocese of Boston, states "First of all, the basic purpose of the Christian Sex Education program is to train parents so that they can fulfill their responsibility in the home with regard to sex instruction for children of all age levels. Teenage boys and girls are also given instruction because their need for this in our society is so great.

"The Pilot Projects have certainly indicated that this program is needed and is indeed a giant step in the right direction."

Drs. William A. Lynch and William O'Connell structured with Rev. Russell R. Novello the four sessions of the Christian Sex Education program sponsored by the CCD in the archdiocese. There are now four doctors involved in the program, and it is expected that eventually there will be at least ten physicians involved in an attempt to service the over 400 parishes of the archdiocese with this program. These medical men are not only skilled gynecologists but outstanding Catholic laymen.

Already more than 10,000 adults and over 5,00 teenage boys and 5,000 teenage girls have participated in the program. The instruction, which the physicians give is truly inspiring and is meeting some of the basic needs of the parents and youths.

All four lectures in Winchester are to be presented by a Catholic gynecologist of renown, Dr. William A. Lynch, an outstanding writer and personality of radio and TV fame, and an outstanding authority on the subject matter.

Some of the material to be covered at the adult lectures consists of (a) objective-increased communication in the family; (b) need for more Christian attitude in the home; and (c) getting volunteers to work toward or develop interest in the formation of a Teen Code for the town. At the high school level, the scope of the lectures will contain the same material as given to adults, but a major objective will be to develop a Christian attitude toward sex. All lectures will encourage audience participation through questions and answers.

Due to the popularity of these most enlightening lectures there is a great demand for attendance and therefore admission will be limited to those with tickets only. These tickets are being made available through the priests of the parishes listed above for the first lecture. Tickets will be passed to parents at that lecture for admission to the second lecture. Tickets will also be handed out at the second lecture for use by the parents' high school boys and girls for admission to the third and fourth lectures for the teenagers.

M.D.C.

"By conserving water in the Upper Mystic Lake, we have a natural reservoir of fresh water which can be used, in a very viable sense, to cope with the problem on a short-term basis," Mr. Cortell said.

This step, combined with installation of a pumping station adjacent to the mouth of the lower lake and river, will gradually diminish the level of salt water in the lower lake. The pumping station will lift water from the lake into the newly-installed Mill Brook Valley Relief sewer line now under construction and it will then flow out to the ocean. Within five years, the dual-phased program could eliminate any furthur possibility of the odor problem in the Mystic Valley.

As part of the study a number of other techniques were investigated to curtail the odor problem. These included control of anaerobic bacterial growth on the bottom of the lake, injection of activated charcoal, atomization of odor counter-actant cehmicals and aeration. None of these were found feasible, Mr. Cortell said.

Manipulation of the water level, he explained, and the pumping operation would cost in the vicinity of $5,000 yearly. Other steps tried and disproved might have run as high as $100,000 to implement.

"We are fortunate the Mill Brook system is still in the process of being built," he said. "Adding a pumping station to the system is thus held to a minimum cost and it should achieve the results we are looking for."

School Site

back toward the original West Side site more favorably as one of its prime considerations.

The architect pointed out that to prepare and develop the Shore Road Field expanded site for a high school complex might cost the town as much or more than $1 million. He broke this down to estimates of $400,000 for foundation pilings to support a large building on the filled in wetland, $200,000 for rechannelling the Aberjona River, and about $400,000 involved in land and home takings (anywhere from 5 to 25 or more) along the Spruce and Holland Streets area toward Swanton Street.

The architect compared what he guessed to be a total complex cost of 6.75 million for the Turkey Ridge site, which he considered more desirable, with a cost of over $7.25 million for the Shore Road Field site.

Earlier in the evening, the PBC discussed the pros and cons of each of the other sites considered during the past year and: Voted not to recommend an addition to the present High School, as it would not meet the educational specifications set down by the School Committee, and would be a wasted investment.

Voted to recommend the construction of a new high school.

Voted to reject further consideration of the former Bacon-Felt property by M.D.C. land as being inadequate and constricted.

Voted to reject the Leonard Field and Leonard Field expanded site as being inadequate and constricted.

Voted to reject the Cullen-Luongo properties by the Aberjona River and near a large gas tank and the Town Incinerator, which would have involved takings of some six industrial plants and possibly three homes, as not being a good environment for a school building and possibly unsafe being so near a large gas tank.

The PBC had at an earlier meeting this fall come to the conclusion that Main Street beside the present High School and going toward Mystic Street, and including Manchester Field, was inadequate and therefore might not receive state aid.

The PBC was scheduled to meet with the School Committee and School Administration Wednesday night to review the three sites and conceptual plans to discuss their adequacies in terms of housing the educational program. Tonight, the PBC meets again to discuss other aspects of the three remaining sites, heading toward a priority order to reach a conclusion as to which is the most suitable and in the best educational investment interests of the town.

TSAPATSARIS MAKES SENSE

CHARLES N. TSAPATSARIS says the Viet Nam war has caused inflation, higher food and clothing costs, tight mortgage money, less home construction and cutbacks on domestic programs.

TSAPATSARIS says the solution to the war is not complete troop withdrawal or massive air bombings—but direct negotiation. On September 7, 1966, on WGBH-TV Tsapatsaris proposed an Eight-Point Program to end the war.

What National Leaders Say About Tsapatsaris

SEN. EDWARD M. KENNEDY (Mass.): "I . . . am more than pleased to offer my support for your candidacy for Congress."

SEN. ERNEST GRUENING (Alaska): "I hope very much that your eight-point program will be widely publicized and that the people of your district will appreciate its wisdom and sanity."

SEN. ROBERT F. KENNEDY (N.Y.): "I believe we are in agreement on the need to explore every avenue to find a peaceful solution to the situation there."

O'Keefe—Donovan

A ceremony in the Saint Joseph's Church in Lincoln on the morning of Saturday, October 15, united in marriage Miss Deborah Lee Donovan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Anthony Donovan of Lincoln, formerly of Winchester and Mr. James Lawrence O'Keefe Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Keefe of 97 Middlesex Street. A reception at the Colonial Country Club followed the wedding at which the bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

MRS. JAMES L. O'KEEFE JR.

The bride was gowned in a princess dress of peau de soie, fashioned with a circlet neckline, empire waistline, long tapered sleeves and an A line skirt and highlighted with appliques of Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls. Her Watteau back extended into a chapel train from a flat bow at the neckline and her bouffant veil was attached to a petalled headpiece.

Miss Janice T. Donovan of San Francisco, California was her sister's maid of honor, gowned in floor length bronze-shaded Velglow made with a puritan maid deep collar of ecru lace. She wore a matching puritan maid bonnet and carried a bouquet of golden chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids, similarly attired but in moss green, were Mrs. L. Terence Donovan of Qunicy, the Misses Mary Murphy of Medford and Mary Louise O'Donnell of Winchester and Mr. Stephen Tonra of Brockton.

Mr. Clifford W. McGuire Jr. of West Hartford, Connecticut was best man and ushering at the ceremony were Mr. Terence Donovan, brother of the bride, Mr. Thomas R. Terranova of Palisades Park, New Jersey, Mr. Walter J. Haug of Bergenfield, New Jersey and Mr. Thomas Rosazza of Torrington, Connecticut.

The mother of the bride chose a floor length gown of pale yellow imported French silk worn with a matching jacket, a tiny hat of illusion veiling and a green orchid corsage and Mrs. O'Keefe was gowned in a full length turquoise chiffon gown with matching hat and accessories and a pink orchid corsage.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of the Winchester High School, class of 1960. Mr. O'Keefe also was graduated from the Providence College. He is associated with the Shell Oil Company. Mrs. O'Keefe was graduated from Mount Ida Junior College.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple plan to make their home in Woburn.

St. Mary's Turkey Festival Nov. 21

Under the direction of Rev. John H. O'Donnell, spiritual director of St. Mary's Holy Name, plans are being made for the annual Turkey Festival at St. Mary's parish hall, Monday evening, November 21 at 8:30 p.m. sharp.

Co-chairmen for the affair are Leo Roche and Robert Costello; ticket chairman is Edward Ferrullo; publicity, Frank Provinzano; prizes and refreshments John MacDonald. Everyone in Winchester is cordially invited to attend and bring home a complete Turkey dinner. All you have to do is be there and you could win.

There will be over 50 turkeys, complete dinners, boxes of candies, jugs of cider, mixed nuts and fruit cakes along with a beautiful cordless Electric Knife to be given away as a door prize.

The proceeds from this festival are used by the Holy Name to give scholarships to boys and girls wishing to attend a Parochial High School. So come on over and have some free cider and doughnuts while you win.

Callahan—DeSpirito

Making their home in Winchester after a wedding trip to Jamaica are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Joseph Callahan who were married recently in the Holy Rosary Church in Lawrence. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jon DeSpirito of Lawrence and the bridegroom the son of Mr. Edward Callahan of 49 Russell Road and the late Mrs. Callahan.

MRS. DANIEL J. CALLAHAN

Mr. Callahan, who is with the First National Stores in Somerville, is a graduate of the Winchester High School and has served with the United States Army. His bride, who is associated in the laboratory of the Symmes Hospital in Arlington, was graduated from Lawrence High School and the Carnegie Institute of Medical Technology in Boston.

The father of the bride escorted his daughter to the altar for the cursillo nuptial Mass at which the Reverend William M. Cleary, O.S.A. officiated and which was attended by many members of the clergy. A reception followed at the Yankee Doodle Restaurant in Lawrence where Miss Lois DeSpirito of Arlington, Virginia, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride was gowned in white peau de soie fashioned with a fitted bodice, tapered sleeves and a shirred Watteau train and highlighted with appliques of peau d'ange lace. Her veil was caught to an open crown of matching lace and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered around an orchid. Wearing a full length empire gown of emerald green silk, a matching pillbox hat and carrying pink roses and stephanotis was her sister and matron of honor, Mrs. Arnold Aleksonis of Lawrence.

Identically gowned and carrying pink roses were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Adrian Simone of Lawrence, a cousin; Mrs. Raymond Wilson of Granby and Miss Patricia Caruso of Medford, a niece of the bridegroom.

Ushering at the ceremony were the Messrs. Frederick Wheaton of Stoneham, Frank Lentine of Danvers and David Callahan of Burlington, a nephew of the bridegroom, Mr. Charles Riordan of Arlington was best man for the ceremony.

WINTON CLUB CABARET program advertising is the biggest money maker the Club has in its tremendous job of supplying the Winchester Hospital with all its linen—a $16,000 commitment last year. Club ad saleslady Mrs. Michael MacKenzie here discusses with proprietor Lewis Snow the layout for the Renton's Market '67 ad for "School Daze," due at the Town Hall January 31-February 4. Mrs. MacKenzie reports for Winton Club that the cheerful and substantial cooperation of local business firms has been the backbone of efforts to keep linen supplies meeting demands in these days of escalating hospital costs. No wonder the gals (whose program is 55 years old this year) love the businessmen!

Blacksmithing Craft Shows Steady Decline

The spreading chestnut tree died of blight. The village smithy was torn down for a supermarket. And the blacksmith himself has taken to the road.

Today's descendant of Longfellow's mighty man with sinewy hands—and muscles like iron bands—loads his forge and anvil into the car. He makes regular visits to farms that still use horses and mules.

The most affluent craftsmen fit racehorses with shoes. These men are unionized, and some pay calls at tracks and horse-breeding farms in Cadillacs.

Blacksmithing, as idealized by Longfellow in his poem about a tree-shaded smithy on Brattle Street in Cambridge, Massachusetts, has all but vanished, the National Geographic Society says. Many young men who wish to become blacksmiths go to technical schools or agricultural colleges for training.

There is still no substitute, however, for a strong arm and hammer. Since nobody has yet invented a device that can shoe a horse, some 21,280 blacksmiths still practice the craft in the United States. Of these 110 are women.

New York City employs more than a hundred blacksmiths for various jobs. When the city advertised two vacancies in the Police Department in 1964, a parade of hopefuls showed up to demonstrate their skill at pounding red-hot metal, hammering nails, and trimming horses' hooves.

Shoes come ready-made in hundreds of sizes. One smith commented, "You don't get the tang of burning hoof as much as you used to, because more than half the shoes are aluminum and they go on cold."

The average horse needs twice as many shoes each year as a child. A top-ranking craftsman carries in his mind the dimensions of highly bred clients' feet, just as a tailor remembers the suit measurements of favored gentlemen.

In addition to shoeing horses, the blacksmiths of rural America also made wagon tires, teeth for harrows, kitchen utensils, candle holders, gunlocks, knives and anchors. Some of today's blacksmiths have abandoned farm work altogether to create ornamental ironwork—gates, screens, lamps, fire baskets, trivets and candlelabra.

Many smiths have been swallowed by the great maw of American industry. They work as smiths in steel mills, auto plants and shipyards. A few are employed in nuclear plants to custom-make equipment such as long-handled tongs to handle radioactive materials.

The last blacksmith shop in the Nation's Capital was closed in 1959; the retiring owner recalled a glorious day in 1910 when 225 horses were shoed between dawn and dusk. Baltimore's last smithy shut its doors in 1965 to make way for an urban renewal project.

Despite the fact that blacksmithing remains a vital work (smiths were exempted from the draft during the Korean War, the profession shows a steady decline. The U.S. Census Bureau counted only 21,281 smiths in 1960 against 45,351 a decade earlier.

Many of today's blacksmiths don't even call themselves smiths. In an article about blacksmithing in England's Kent County, the London Times commented, "These are few, if any, blacksmiths in this county who do not also describe themselves as agricultural engineers."

Hurrah For The Lions Club Golden Anniversary!

25,000 CHRYSANTHEMUMS and many, many hours of work went into this Mahoney Rocky Ledge float constructed as the 50th anniversary float for the annual Lions Club Halloween parade in Woburn Monday night. Winchester Lions were justly proud of the local nurseryman's creation which carried Maria Lynn Chafee of Brandeis University, holder of "Miss High School of America" title. The float was a top applause winner along the two-mile route.

Monsters In Ocean Depths Stranger Than Legend

Real "sea monsters" are even weirder than the fanciful beasts of old sailors' yarns.

The most imaginative old tar might hesitate to claim that he had seen a creature with arms 35 feet long. Yet the giant squid has such tentacles and a 19-foot body to go with it—more than 50 feet of writhing sea monster.

Living deep in the ocean, the giant squid is almost never seen alive, the National Geographic says. An occasional dead specimen is cast up on a beach or remains are found in stomachs of deep-diving sperm whales.

Fish Live in Dark

Fish that live thousands of feet in the ocean must adapt to living in the dark. Plants cannot develop in the inky blackness, so the fish must eat either plant and animal remains that sift down from above—or each other.

The creatures of the deep are armed with ferocious teeth to enabel them to make the most of any chance encounter with their scarce prey. The jaws of some disengage, allowing them to engulf a dinner larger than the diner.

Mates as well as food are scarce. The male anglerfish solves both problems when it finds a female. He fastens his jaws to her body and remains attached for life.

The male's jaws and tongue gradually fuse with the tissues of the female. When the the two blood streams join, the male no longer needs to feed. It then remains a parasitic dwarf, doing nothing but fertilize the female's eggs as they emerge.

Some fish carry biological lamps on the end of stalks or along the sides of their bodies. The pale glow, which can be flashed on and off, acts as a lure to potential mates or food.

Millions of Years of Ooze

The bottom of the ocean is covered by layers of various oozes, which have accumulated in places for eons. To avoid sinking into the soft mud, many animals walk on stilts. Crustaceans have enormously long legs, and fish have developed great extensions of their fins.

The vast pressure at great depths seems to have little influence on the animals living there. Since water fills their body cavities, the force inside and outside their bodies is equal.

Man's knowledge of the ocean bottom is still meager, but one mystery recently was cleared up. Certain coiled tracks had appeared in many pictures of the ocean floor, but no one knew what made them. In 1965 scientists announced they had photographed the unknown animal: a three-foot long enteropneust, or acorn worm, that feeds on the bottom oozes.

Sea life exists in what might seem a most unlikely place: under the Ross Ice Shelf in Antarctica. The invertebrates discovered there apparently feed on material washed under the ice shelf from ocean waters elsewhere.

Nature's Ways

Our usual willingness to disclose where almost anything may be found outdoors does not apply to the Canada lily.

In fact, these notes on this most graceful wild flower are out of sequence in the parade of nature: the Canada lily has just completed blooming. Thus, calling attention to it at this time should not hasten the lily's drift toward oblivion. At the same time, a few comments may alert those who appreciate rare beauty to watch for the yellow bell-shaped blossoms next July.

In 1902, F. Schuyler Mathews, famed New England naturalist, noted in regard to the Canada lily: "The common lily of the north, found most often upon low meadows . . . the most prodigal of its charms; it is not only in the meadow, it is everywhere."

Astute observer that he was, Mr. Mathews hardly could make that statement today. Certainly, he could not say it of New England—and he meant the entire six-state region.

Today the Canada lily exists as a relatively rare plant. The only areas in which it might be rated as "common" are in wild flower gardens. The cultivated forms, however, lean heavily toward the orange and red side of the color spectrum, for the Canada lily also exists in these colors.

For those who like their flowers wild and unpampered, the commoner yellow form with its three or four large yellow bells, hanging like the bells of a carillon, probably ranks as favorite.

It seems today that a road superintendent almost feels a sense of shame if the roadway shoulders sprout anything as adequate as Canada lilies. Therefore, the New England town in which such a road condition exists shall remain secret.

But, there is a road where each July a dozen Canada lilies bloom, pushing their tall stalks up from a gutter to wave bells in the summer breeze. One often wonders if the residents whose homes bracket these yellow bells notice and appreciate them. To ask might prove fatal to the lilies—or might call attention to documentary evidence that could arrive on a town meeting floor in support of a protest of roadside negligence.

Mrs. Persis Green, executive secretary of the New England Wild Flower Preservation Society, recently moved just beyond the suburban perimeter of Boston. One of her experiences that made the trek seem worth-while was the discovery near her home of a stand of Canada lilies. Exactly where must remain a secret.

If you are the type, however, who can enjoy looking at magnificent beauty and leaving it alone, you might join one of the many wild flower trips the Society sponsors. It has branches in all six New England states.

United Fund Drive Reaches Fifty-Five Percent of Goal in Opening Weeks

The Town of Winchester's 1966 United Fund Drive has now reached 55 per cent of its $37,000 goal it was announced on Tuesday by John J. Collier, Jr., local chairman of the community drive.

As the November 22 deadline for completion of the campaign approaches, the local committee and its over 325 volunteers are working hard to assure the success of this years effort.

Assisting Mr. Collier who is chairman this year, are the following local residents: Mrs. Josephine A. Collier of 63 High Street, vice chairman; William A. Garner of 46 Salisbury Street, audit chairman; Truman Dayton. 1 Ardley Place, assistant audit chairman; Harold Leach of 6 Salisbury Street, assistant administrative; Miss Marguerite H. Troop of 2 Elmwood Avenue, municipal chairman; James Bourne of 19 Indian Hill Road, residential chairman; Robert Paridy of 5 Squanto Road, local business chairman; James P. Kennedy of 52 Salisbury Street, special gifts chairman and Richard C. Okerbloom of 51 Westland Avenue, publicity chairman.

Commenting on this years drive, Mr. Collier said, "It is very important to emphasize to the citizens of Winchester, that the town actually receives much more from the United Fund in community services than the town donates (exclusive of out-of-town work donations) into the united charity and service fund-raising appeal." A partial list of the services available to Winchester residents include: Winchester Hospital, Winchester Red Cross Chapter, Winchester Visiting Nurses Association, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, YMCA, Salvation Army and the U.S.O. whose only source of financial help is the United Fund.

The kind of help given by these agencies and the many others cannot be measured in dollars, but its quantity if not its quality is limited by the numbers of dollars available to each of the 340 participating agencies.

Let's welcome the solicitor with a generous pledge, which will mean so much to the children, the elderly, and the less fortunate, who benefit from these 340 agencies. The dollars which you invest in the United Fund make your own community a better place in which to live.

Lincoln Mothers Review New Math

"The children seemed to know what they were doing even if mother didn't," reported Lincoln School mothers of the new math classes after a classroom visitation day was over on Tuesday afternoon, October 25.

The event preceded the annual official open house for parents, coming Monday, November 14 at 7:30 p.m. and for which invitations have been written by the students as part of their language work.

Mathematics vocabulary made the biggest impression among the mothers interviewed after their association-sponsored visits last week. Terms such as "equivalent sets" and "inverse relationships" were used and understood by the children to the surprise of many mothers.

Mrs. Joseph F. McDonough, president of the Lincoln School Mothers' Association, presided over the business meeting and introduced the principal, Miss Martha Cunningham, who spoke briefly on the importance of the "New Math." Mrs. Robert Joslin presented the new handbook which has an attractive cover design by Mrs. Karl Komp. Mrs. Robert Crocket arranged a most festive fall refreshment table.

They also heard top cancer investigators discuss the film.

Chapman Speaks To Garden Club On Conservation

Mrs. Maurice T. Freeman entertained the members of the Winchester Garden Club for its first meeting on a perfect Indian summer day, October 27th, which enabled the guests to enjoy the gardens as well as the delightful house where the flower arrangements were a beauty to behold.

Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick, president, presided at the coffee table. The centerpiece was an unusual harvest arrangement of squash, gourds and corn spikes.

At the business meeting which preceded the guest speaker, it was announced that this club would enter the Bay State Civic Beautification Contest sponsored by the Garden Club Federation in cooperation with Sears Roebuck and Company. The first phase has already been started, the planting at the rear of the library, pictures of before and after were on display and the transition is already notable. Mrs. Angelo W. Ghirardini and Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken are in charge of this project.

A blue and gold ribbon from the Veterans Hospital in Bedford was awarded to the club and Mrs. Patrick announced that this ribbon should be given to Mrs. Harold M. Twombly for her years of service at the V.A. Hospital.

Brief reports were given by Mrs. Harold F. Meyer on anti-litter and civic beautification; by Miss Corinne Mead on the Post Office award for outdoor beautification; Mrs. Philip P. Wadsworth on horticulture; Mrs. Dudley F. Kimball on programs; Mrs. Don S. Greer on year books, and Mrs. Edward V. French and Mrs. Maurice T. Freeman on ways and means.

Mrs. Percy Bugbee then introduced the speaker, William G. Chapman, Jr., chairman of the Winchester Planning Board. In an extemporaneous talk he held the audience spell bound while he told of the plans which he and members of his board would like to see take place in this town. He spoke of the great natural beauty here with lakes, ponds, woods, and groves. A green belt could be made where citizens could stroll without the hazards of traffic. Parks and vacant lands should be utilized for recreation, education and culture. This club and other organizations must plant the seeds of awareness to keep Winchester beautiful, said Mr. Chapman.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"A law enforcement car is stopping in front of our house," Mrs. Rollings said excitedly. "I wonder what's wrong."

Stan, her husband, gulped down his cup of coffee and rushed to the front door just as the doorbell rang.

An officer asked him if he were Mr. Rollings—and Stan admitted he was. "I have a summons to serve on you," the officer said, and handed him a piece of paper.

Stan's heart sank. As the officer drove away, Stan noticed he was being sued. A person had cut across Stan's lawn, months before, and tripped over a toy which had been left outside. Now—a lawsuit for $7,400 "damages."

Stan called his insurance agent immediately. Since the man had been "trespassing" Stan hadn't even considered the possibility of being sued.

"That's the purpose of liability insurance," the agent explained. "You are defended from lawsuits, whether they are justified or not. Any lawsuit requires attention. Fortunately, you're protected. We'll take over."

"Boy, that's a comforting feeling," Stan said.

May we offer you the comfort of Comprehensive Liability protection?

Fed. Spending

Compared with earlier surveys, the latest ORC poll also shows that there is growing concern about inflation with its consequent rising prices and reduced purchasing power of the dollar.

Almost half (48%) of the respondents report they are "greatly concerned" and this concern is evident in all segments of the population, regardless of age, occupation, educational level, or where they live.

Six in ten say they are fighting their own private war against inflation by changing shopping habits, cutting down, buying cheaper foods, substituting, designating heretofore "necessities" as "luxuries."

The survey also demonstrates that the effect of inflation are being felt more seriously by the elderly and those with lesser education. More than four in ten, 60 years and older, report that they are "worse off today" than a year ago.

Respondents sometimes talk of holding two jobs—even three—in their efforts to stay above the risiing tide of prices.

More than twice as many people blame inflation on the Government than any other group. Twenty-eight per cent feel Government is "most responsibile" for inflation, compared with 6% blaming business, 10% blaming Labor, and 13% the people themselves. A rising 41% admit that they "don't know" where to lay the blame, although there is much less uncertainty expressed about what to do about it.

Since last spring and reflected in previous ORC opinion surveys, there has been an increase among those favoring federal spending cuts.

TIME FOR A CHANGE

Republicans — Democrats — Independents

ELECT

BILL BARNSTEAD

STATE SENATOR

SIXTH MIDDLESEX DISTRICT

Your present Senator, Philibert Pellegrini, does not adequately represent Winchester voters because:

As previous advertisements in the Star have pointed out,

Pellegrini voted against the highway safety bills, explaining that the money would be better spent on education and mental health, although he helped defeat the mental health bill, as noted above.

He voted against the Crime Commission bills.

Although he voted for the Sales Tax, he immediately supported the repeal referendum.

He voted for special privilege bills.

He voted against local controls of billboards.

More and more voters in the district are becoming aware that their Senator's politics does not give them satisfactory representation in the State Senate.

Bill Barnstead favors the Governor's Sales Tax and favors a special session of the Legislature to pass the mental health bill. He favors reduction in the size of the House, aid to higher education and reform of the Civil Service system.

The election of Bill Barnstead will guarantee that Republicans, Democrats and Independents will all get the best representation in the State Senate.

It will be in the best interests of the voters of Winchester to elect Bill Barnstead.

Editorials:

Vital Ballot Questions

Several of the seven questions appearing on the State Election Ballot are of major concern to the best interests of the citizenry of the Commonwealth, and it is important that informed voters turn out in sufficient magnitude to get the proper results.

A Yes vote on Question One would provide for a single ballot vote for Governor and Lieutenant Governor—as with the President and Vice President—assuring the two top state officials will be members of the same party and a team combination, and not, as we have had in past years, the two chief executive positions filled by candidates of different parties and/or of opposition standing. The effect of approving this question would be to produce a greater responsibility and accountability in the two top officers to each other and to the people. Also, the Governor, as chief elected representative of all the people and in charge of a operating multi-million dollar budget and 45,000 state employees, is head of his political party, architect of a legislative program, and the functional figurehead of the state. It is clear, therefore, that his lieutenant should be a man who will support and work with him to insure a successful administration. A Yes vote on question One is necessary to effect this desirable solution, which is supported by both political parties.

A Yes vote on Question Two would allow the Governor to submit proposals to the Legislature for improving the administration of the executive branch through reorganization of the more than 316 units now under its jurisdiction, and at the same time repeal a Constitutional limit of 20 departments in the state administration. The effect of approving this question would be to permit reorganization the potpourri of boards, commissions, departments, agencies, divisions and authorities within the executive branch but outside the direct control of departments and with no standard relationship between the Governor and these multiple agencies. A Yes vote on Question Two is necessary to improve, unify and strengthen the machinery that operates the administration of your state so as to eliminate duplication of work and to better administrative procedures and fiscal and personal practices; and it is supported by both political parties.

A Yes vote on Question Three would be tantamount to equating the industrial development of cities and towns to being a public function, for which purpose the Commonwealth and its cities and towns could provide for, especially in the case of using public funds for private development. A controversial matter and heretofore Constitutionally prohibited, it is advocated by the State Department of Commerce and Development as a necessary competitive tool for keeping existing industries located here and for attracting new ones. At last count 38 other states were found to offer low-cost public financing and other monetary lures to industry, causing losses to Massachusetts in number of firms coming here, job employment losses, and losses in business spending in the economy. The Governor's Advisory Committee on Economic Development supports approval of this question to protect the economic base of the state, although leary of what measures the Legislature should allow. A Yes vote on Question Three would allow the state and its cities and towns to compete favorably for maintaining and drawing new business development.

A Yes vote on Question Four would grant home rule as the right of the people in each city and town to self-government in matters of local affairs. The effect of turning power back to municipalities for the governing of local affairs not otherwise specifically reversed by the state will encourage greater participation and responsibility on the part of community citizens to handle the problems of their individual townships, and at the same time free up the state government's load to spend more undivided time on important state and regional business. ("Local" bills account for 20% of the 4,000-plus bills filed in the Legislature each year!) Endorsed by joint sessions of the Legislature in 1963 and 1965, a Yes vote on Question Four will approve the enactment of home rule to the municipalities, subject to standards laid down by the Constitution, and return the governing of local affairs to local government.

A Yes vote on Question Five would approve the sales tax law passed by both the House and Senate earlier this year, and which is now in effect. Affecting the retail sales of most tangible personal property, with the exception of necessities of life, the 3% "temporary tax" brings Massachusetts into line with 41 other states in broadening its tax base. The new revenues wiped out a large part of the huge deficit in the state budget, provided cities and towns with millions of dollars for overdue and needed educational improvements, and permitted many communities to cut back on high property taxes. Taking 14 months of public education and hard political fighting to achieve, the alternative by a negative vote now would be financial and legislative chaos, higher property taxes, business taxes and an increased personal income tax. A Yes vote on Question Five would preserve the relative financial order returned to state finances and relief to cities and towns burdened with excessive property taxes.

A Yes vote on Question Six, which is similar to Question Five except that it is an advisory vote to the Legislature on the electorate's view of the sales tax rather than a mandatory vote to retain or repeal it as in the previous question, would result in notifying the Legislature of the voters' opinion of the sales tax, either approving or disapproving the Act. A Yes vote on Question Six might tend to show the Legislature that the voters of Massachusetts are willing to accept more modern methods of broadening taxation rather than a continued escalation of the excessively burdensome property tax.

A NO vote on Question Seven, sections A, B, and C would prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages within the town limits. A Yes vote on Question Seven section D would permit an alcoholic beverage license should a hotel or some other establishment accommodating 50 or more overnight guests and 96 in dining capacity. (This would allow for this possibility in the town's future).

Campaign Notes

At election time it is always interesting to observe the actions of people involved in politics, to see people sold on ideas and persuasions and individuals, and to hear steadfastly held beliefs spouted so earnestly it would seem there could almost be no other "truths." It's all part of the campaign game of politics, and it has its good and bad points, but for the most part it's healthy, fun and significant in affecting the final outcomes.

There are some occasions, however, when an overabundance of enthusiasm can lead the more avid enthusiasts astray, and such seems to have been the unfortunate case last week when the Star received and accepted in good faith a publicity story and photograph from one candidate's camp attributing the Governor's supporting endorsement of his candidacy over his opponent's as having taken place at the Sons of Italy Hall here.

Analyzed, the ploy by the overly zealous candidate's camp was to make it appear that the Sons of Italy organization went along with the Governor's endorsement, supposedly made at a function held there. In fact, from the best information later developed, the candidate was not an invited guest at the S.O.I. function where the endorsement supposedly took place, and the organization did not give "heavy applause" on hearing his endorsement by the Governor because in fact no one has yet stated he heard any such verbal endorsement. The only endorsement that we are able to discover was a written one made by the Governor to all GOP candidates.

Such outright deception, while possibly held as "clever" by some source in that candidate's camp, to us, on a more objective level, stands out as nothing more than cheap political chicanery and a significant lack of a moral and ethical standard of any value that we or our readers can appreciate.

The overenthusiastic candidate's camp further went astray when it bought advertising space and attributed the signing of the ad to the Governor, a clearance for which never came from the Governor, even though a spokesman for the candidate said a misunderstanding was involved when authority was given by the Governor's campaign headquarters for the Governor's endorsing of the candidate. Semantical mix-up or deliberate error? We cannot be sure in light of the known publicity deception.

The ironies of the political battlefield are many though, and since we have had to speak out on this reprehensible matter, to do justice to the candidacy of both candidates for the Senate seat from this district, voters should pursue further.

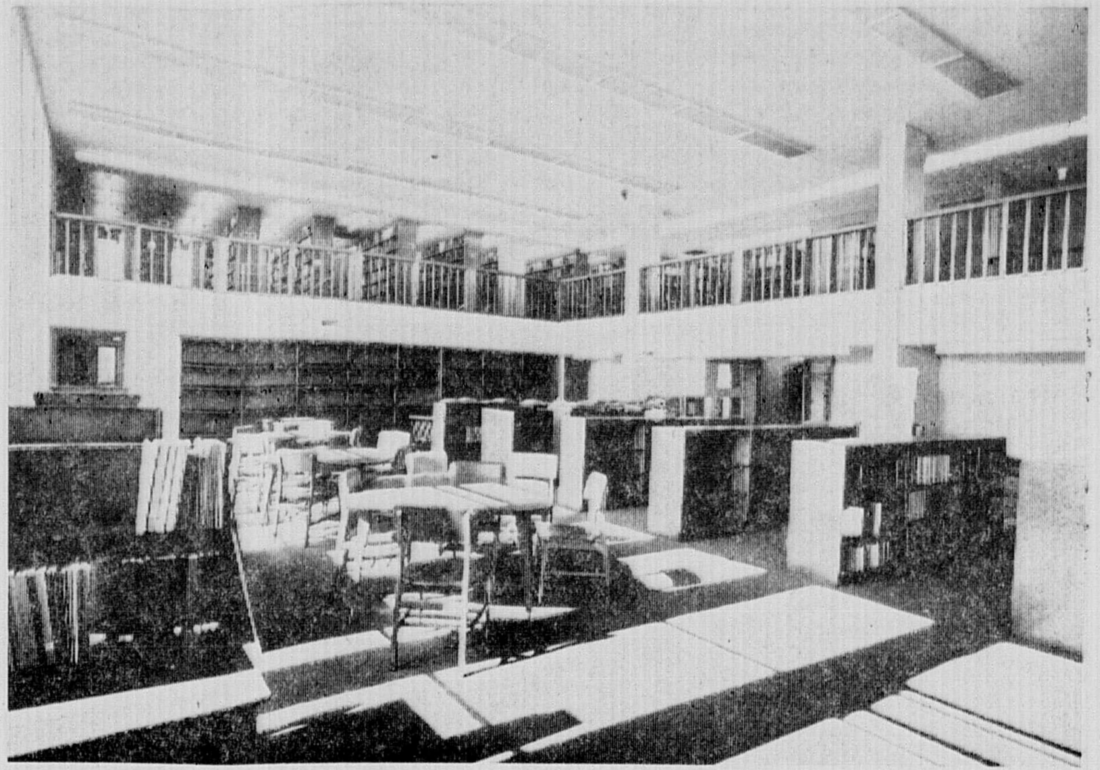
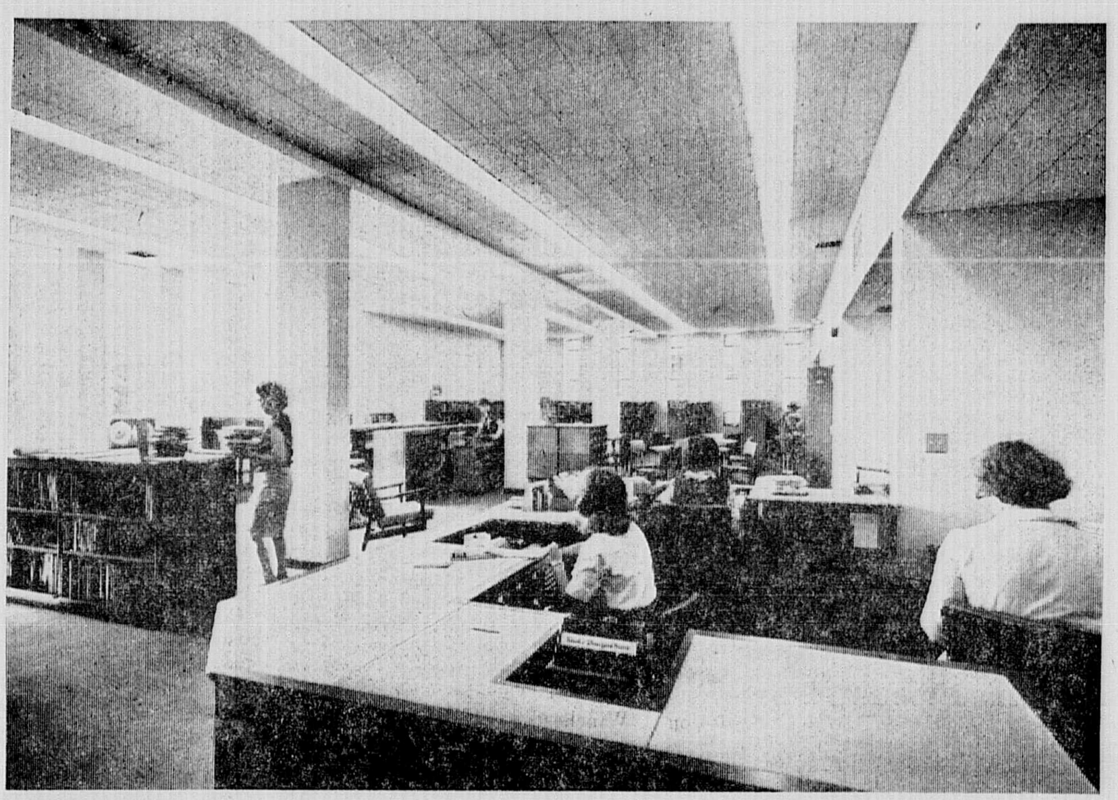
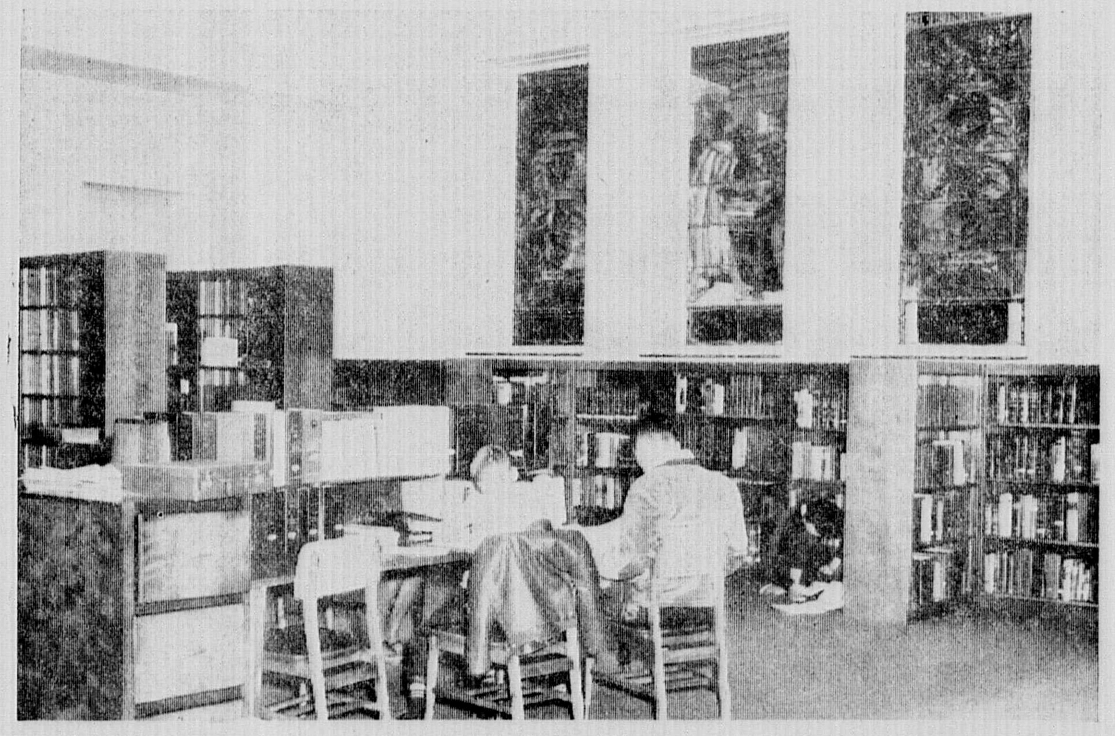
The New Library



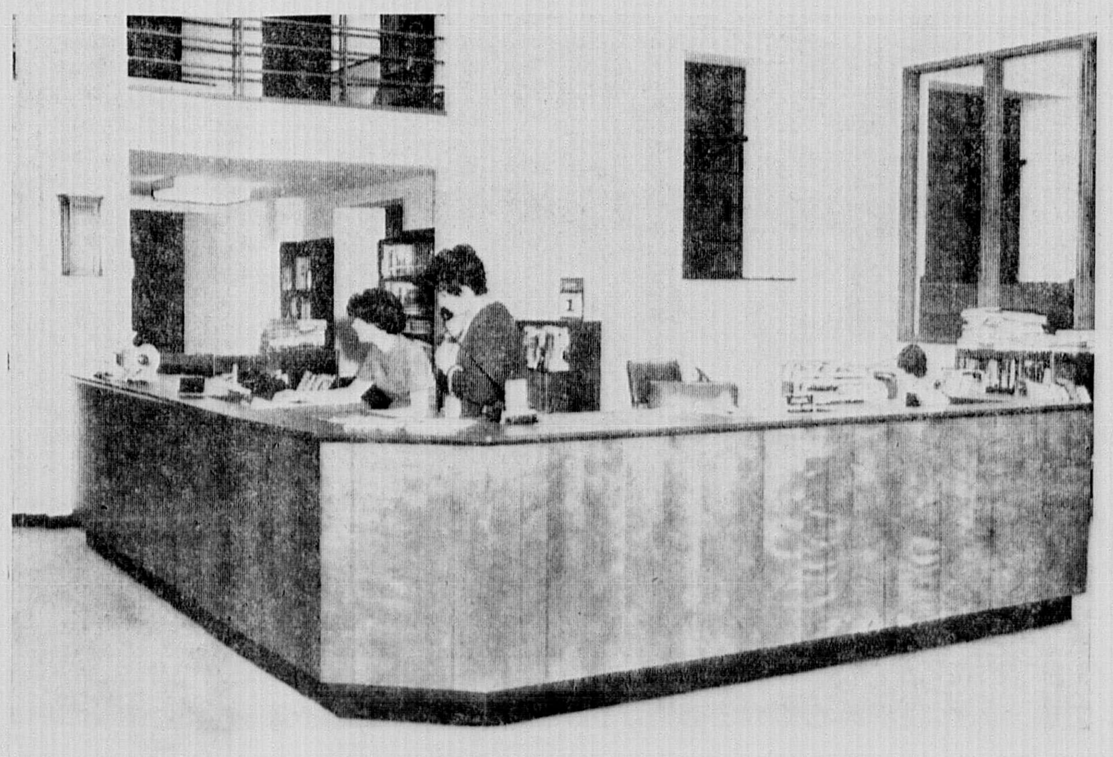
MAIN READING ROOM will seem like a different place to old-timers. Significantly enlarged and remodelled, it features easy access to balconied book storage areas, more display and storage for periodicals along the wall, individual study carrells as at left, and smaller reading tables aimed at quieter reading groups. There are also listening tables with earphones for those wishing to hear selections. The soft, blending paint and walnut-toned furniture, new carpeting and lighting all combine to make it handsome as well as inviting for quiet reading or study.



ADEQUATE SIZE, GOOD LOOKS AND VERSATILITY in the new children's reading room may account for the sharp jump in circulation last month (10,000 over 4,000 September, 1965). The multiplied space efficiency designed for reading and with seating accommodations and more shelved book display combines with the fine natural and artificial lighting to make it highly attractive. A quiet atmosphere is obtained through the carpeting and decor, yet bright leather seats and paint accents make it very alive, too.



FACE LIFTING at the library has enhanced as well as preserved old stained-glass windows. The over-all coloration in the library has elicited high enthusiasm of observers who have visited before the official open house this Sunday.



THE NEW CHECK-OUT DESK is located just to the left as you enter the remodelled Winchester Library, saving space in addition to giving librarians better control.

JULES VERNE, PORTRAIT OF A PROPHET

by Russell Freedman

Although science fiction books are now common, it is a fairly new form of literature and did not become really popular until around the advent of World War II when there was a terrific upsurge in the utilization of scientific discoveries.

This book does not mention the term science fiction at all, but Jules Verne, who wrote a hundred years ago, may rightly be considered the father of that literary art, which is characterized by an imaginary but scientifically conceivable plot and action. His works were based on a vivid imagination but technical details were included, thorough and accurate. Even though these may have been incomprehensible to the average reader they added a degree of verisimilitude.

On of Verne's most famous books, several editions of which are still in print, is Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea. This was grounded on a painstaking study of submarine experiments. The secret of the Nautilus was electricity. When this was written electricity was in the early trial stages and its application was very limited. Verne foresaw its widespread use for light, heat, cooking and power in everyday life. When pioneer ocean-going submarines were introduced twenty or more years later they bore a striking resemblance in design and mechanism to the fictional Nautilus. The author would have been pleased to know that the first atomic-powered submarine was christened Nautilus.

When Jules Verne was a small boy his family lived on a crowded island in the middle of the Loire River. Most of the time the river flowed peacefully past the old houses on the island, but in March the water became swift and turbulent, roaring against the banks and sometimes inundating the streets and cellars of the town. Jules was terrified and fascinated. He would stand at the window watching the flood and imagine the island tearing loose from its moorings and carrying him away down the river. Eventually he outgrew his fear but the fantasy of a floating island stayed with him and he developed it into Propeller Island, which described life on a large man-made island which could be driven at will across the oceans.

A biography of Jules Verne is not easy to write because he left no journals or letters. Toward the end of his life he had become so famous that in the interests of privacy he guarded his personal life. However, the author has used all available sources, and the result is an absorbing story and an inducement to re-read many of the Jules Verne favorites.

Letters To The Editor

Something About Sassafras

Editor of the Star:

When I was a kid I learned that the tender white bark on the roots of young Sassafras trees was both fragrant and tasty. We pulled the young trees up, wiped the dirt off the roots onto our overalls, and chewed away at the bark. It smelled good and it tasted good. I guess it still does.

I also learned something else about the Sassafras. I learned that it has leaves of three different shapes: one, simple, single-lobed symmetrical leaf; two, a mitten-shaped leaf with one thumb; three, a double-mitten shaped leaf, with two thumbs, one opposite the other. I never could figure out just why the tree needed so many different shapes, but that is the way it was. As far as I can remember, there was no pattern to it; the different shapes were scattered indiscriminately throughout the tree.

It took me all these years and I won't say how many) to observe that there is at least one other tree here in New England that goes the Sassafras one better in regard to wardrobe. The tree that I refer to is one of the Ash family. On one little tree that I spotted while walking along Highland Avenue last Sunday, there was an exceptionally large single, simple leaf growing down near the bottom, close to the ground. I took it off and measured it; thirteen inches over all, the petiole two inches and the single blade eleven inches from base to tip, and 5 and one half inches wide for a good part of the breadth.

A short distance above this single leaf grew a compound leaf with three leaflets, the terminal, center one, relatively large, and the two upper leaflets much smaller. Higher on the tree, still, there was a five lobe compound leaf; and, higher still, one of seven leaflets. This makes a total of four shapes of leaf for this type of Ash tree; and, as I say, this goes the Sassafras one better.

The different compound leaves, I noticed, were all of about the same over-all length as the large, single leaf; their various leaflets becoming progressively smaller as the number thereof increased.

Do we have here an example of the "recapitulation" Theory? Was the Ash leaf originally a large, simple leaf; and is it evolving over the years into something with smaller and more numerous leaflets? Or, were my leaves just sports?

Perhaps some kind reader can enlighten me. There have been times when knowledgeable gentlemen have enlightened me on puzzling matters in the past, through the erudite pages of the Star. Does anyone know of a more versatile tree here in New England, than my Ash?

Sincerely,
Clarence Borrgaard

Sons of Italy Says Endorsement Story "In Error"

Editor of the Star:

I was very concerned to see in last week's issue of the Winchester Star an article that stated "speaking at the Sons of Italy, Gov. Volpe drew heavy applause when he stated "I want Bill Barnstead in the Senate."

This, to me, would indicate that the Sons of Italy endorsed Bill Barnstead. This is not true.

First, we are not a political organization and as an organization do not endorse any candidate for any office.

Secondly, Governor Volpe was in attendance as our guest along with Representative Harrison Chadwick, Senator Phil Pellegrini, Selectman Robert Armstrong and many others at our Columbus Day Celebration held on October 12.

During the entire evening the coming election was not mentioned. About 10 p.m. uninvited Bill Barnstead appeared at the front door and in the foyer and attempted to pass out campaign literature. It was at this time, as the Governor was leaving, that he met Bill Barnstead. But at no time during the evening during the presence of the entire assembly did the Governor endorse this man. He was not invited and was finally asked to leave.

Apparently, the individual who placed the article in the newspaper with an accompanying picture on the same idea was completely misinformed or attempted to deceive the public, and I certainly hope that this deception will be taken into consideration when you go to the polls to vote November 8th.

Respectfully,
Arthur E. Dunbar

Importance Of Voting Wisely

Editor of the Star:

There is great danger on Election Day, the wishes of Massachusetts voters to retain the sales tax won't be carried out if people fail to vote, or if they fail to understand how they are voting on referendum Question No. 5—that it takes a "Yes" vote to retain the sales tax.

Recent professional polls and face-to-face contact with taxpayers across the state show that a substantial majority of the people continue to favor the sales tax and its retention when the question is explained simply to them. But when asked the question as it appears on the November 8 ballot, a great deal of confusion is found.

It is imperative to vote on November 8—and it's just as important to vote on the referendum questions as to vote for our elected officials. It is essential to vote "Yes" on Question No. 5 if the people wish to retain the sales tax.

On this issue, the Legislature in a bipartisan vote, has committed itself. The Governor has committed himself. The next move is up to the voters.

Sincerely,
Frank J. Zeo

Fire Chiefs' Assn. Views Bargaining Position Point

Editor of the Star:

The Fire Chief's Association of Massachusetts at its meeting on October 19 in Worcester, voted to inform the public, through newspaper media, of its position relative to recent decisions of the State Labor Relations Board affecting the fire service.

These decisions have resulted in the joining of supervisory and non-supervisory personnel into a single unit. It is the firm contention of the Fire Chiefs' Association that the inclusion of supervisory personnel in the same unit with non-supervisory personnel places the officers in the department in the unenviable position of attempting to serve two masters. Therefore, it is the vote of the Fire Chief's Association of Massachsuetts that two units be established.

The fire officers, working under a semi-military table of organization, must be held responsible in carrying out the plans and procedures outlined by the executive officer of the department. His loyalty cannot be divided between the administration of the Fire Department and the non-supervisory unit established under collective bargaining.

The fire chief and his supervisory personnel (officers) have the responsibility of guiding the fire department and its operation to protect the communities from fires and provide related fire services.

When contracts are being considered, it is of the utmost importance that the best interests of the communities and the Fire Department as well as its employees, be considered. Therefore, it is recommended that the Fire Chief, or his representative be a part of the collective bargaining team as a consultant to the municipal employer, and that he be present at all negotiating meetings.

Sincerely,
Frederick A. Perkins, Jr.
Secretary,
Fire Chiefs' Association

UNICEF Thanks

Editor of the Star:

Many, many thanks to all of you who participated so wonderfully in the UNICEF Trick or Treat program.

We're indebted to the High School Radio Station for their spot announcements, and the many high schoolers who set up the two window displays in Kirsten's and Hevey's, and who placed the posters in store windows.

We thank the teachers and the 4th, 5th and 6th grade art classes for the posters they created, and the merchants who let us use space to display them.

The cooperation of all the churches was an absolute necessity and we are grateful to all the church members who worked to make this a successful effort.

To all of the hundreds of children who took the boxes out on Halloween, you've really done a great thing for those less fortunate.

Sincerely,
Barbara Towner, Chairman
Winchester UNICEF Committee

REP. HARRISON CHADWICK

THE REFERENDUM QUESTIONS ARE IMPORTANT

Referendum matters are placed on the ballot for the voters to make the final policy decision. Every voter should answer these questions. In order that you may know where your State Representative stands on the referenda questions, I have listed my position on each below.

No. 1 is a constitutional change requiring that the Governor and Lt. Governor be elected from the same political party. I am in FAVOR.

No. 2 is a constitutional change to accelerate reorganization of the executive branch of the state government. I am OPPOSED. The basic idea is good, but safeguards are lacking to assure legislative consideration. This could result in autocratic government by an unscrupulous governor.

No. 3 is a constitutional amendment permitting the expenditure of municipal funds for industrial development within limits prescribed by the Legislature. I am in FAVOR.

No. 4 is the so-called "Home Rule" amendment to the Constitution. I am in FAVOR. New powers to control their local affairs are granted to the cities and towns under this amendment.

No. 5 provides for a binding vote by the electorate on the question of retention or repeal of the sales tax law. I am in FAVOR of RETAINING the sales tax. If repealed, equivalent revenue would have to come from some source, probably increased income taxes or property taxes or both.

No. 6 calls for an advisory expression of approval or disapproval on the sales tax law. I am in FAVOR of approving the law. The outcome is not binding on anyone, but will influence the Legislature in making future decisions with respect to taxation.

No. 7 in paragraphs A, B and C asks the same questions relating to liquor licenses that have been on the ballot for many years. I am OPPOSED to all three. Paragraph D is new this year. I am in FAVOR of it. If a substantial hotel wishes to come to Winchester, I believe is should be allowed to serve alcoholic beverages to its patrons.

I have been greatly honored to be a public servant of the people of Winchester in the General Court for the past 20 years and sincerely hope they will wish to return me there for another term on Tuesday next.

Science Trip Of Noted Value

Editor of the Star:

Last week I was privileged to attend the National Youth Conference on the Atom in Chicago, Illinois. I would like to express my thanks to the Boston Edison Company for its sponsorship of my attendance at this gathering of some of the nation's top scientists.

My thanks must also be extended to Francis X. Finigan, head of the Science Department of Winchester Public Schools, for choosing me to accompany him to Chicago; and to Winchester High School for excusing my absence during three days of school.

The lectures, discussion groups, and visits to Argonne National Laboratory and the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry were valuable as the embodiment of much of the science and mathematics teaching of Winchester High. Equally as valuable was the opportunity to meet some of the finest young minds in the country.

Thank you,

"Endorsement" At Sons of Italy Point Clarified

Editor of the Star:

The story in last week's Star indicated that Governor Volpe's endorsement of my candidacy for the State Senate was made in a speech to the Sons of Italy. The fact is that the Governor's remarks were made to me as we were leaving the Sons of Italy and the "applause" referred to in the story was not by the assembled members but by those who were near enough to hear Mr. Volpe personally.

The Governor has indeed endorsed my candidacy and the following letter was received by me in the mail from his office:

"Dear Bill,

"I want to take this opportunity to wish you success at the polls on November 8th. The interest of the people of the Sixth Middlesex District will be well served by you as their Senator.

"You will be a great help to those of us who are trying to make Massachusetts a better place to live, with better work opportunities, better employment opportunities, and a better political climate generally.

"I am confident that with continuous effort we shall both be successful on election day.

"With best personal regards,
Sincerely,
John"

The Sons of Italy have been so friendly and helpful to me in my campaign, it would be unfortunate to leave the wrong impression.

Sincerely,
William A. Barnstead

Budget

While a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives former Rep. Thresher was the first woman member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee. As a member of that committee, she made it her business to find out exactly how that state budget has increased from $5,600,000 in 1956 to nearly $14,000,000 this year without a parallel increase in services," she said.

"In fact, many communities get little or no service from their County Commissioners, since the tightly-controlled, one-party organization in the county feel that they can take their votes and support for granted."

Mrs. Thresher said that, if elected, she would explore the possibility of holding regular office hours in key communities throughout the county, so that local voters will not have to travel to East Cambridge to ask questions on matters affecting the county government.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Thresher toured business establishments in the Center, meeting and talking with Winchester voters, who were pleased to talk with a county candidate. She was escorted by Mrs. William C. Cusack of 2 Lakeview Road, coordinator for the Republican candidate's campaign in the Winchester area. Mrs. Cusack also held a tea at her home for Mrs. Thresher the following week.

Mainsprings of Civil Society Discussed, Analyzed; & Dogs, Leash Law Problems Locally Are Examined

Editor of the Star:

To this date I have qualified, in the language of the editorial of a recent issue, as a "non-participant" who has found some of the letters addressed to this column on the so-called leash law controversy "amusing," although I certainly do not find some aspects of the basis for the dialogue very amusing.

Your editorial of September 29, regarding this matter has, however, bestirred me to the point of dragging out my old portable and joining the ranks of "participators."

Firstly: I must take vigorous issue with the suggestions implicit in the editorial itself. The fundamental issue raised by the leash law petition your paper reported being filed is whether such a law would be unjust. Your quick and emphatic characterization that it is "unjust" and "bad" begs the question. A fair and even-tempered opinion is hardly so readily available, nor so categorically clear.

What process of fact determination, for instance, stands behind "especially when the number of infractors to a common good is small?"

Again, what "leash law" are you talking about? The editorial seems to assume that there is but one such law with immutable terms, but is this true?

Can Winchester not enact a law in this area tailored to meet the problem and the acceptance of the vast majority of its citizens on all sides of the controversy.

But most insidious and what has prompted this letter, is the tacit approval the editorial gives to civil disobedience, inviting the same by predicting it and then citing in support of such lawlessness the tradition, no less, of the American Revolution!

We live in unsteady times and rapid changes in the whole spectrum of our experience rattles us all now and then, but this astigmatic (and I would like to think, unthinking) view of a relatively minor problem expresses a major flaw in outlook that is potentially lethal. This is nothing new, I'm sure it has always existed to some extent in any population, as in some adolescents in reaction to the impact of first realization of the goal and supposed evils and failings of the society in which he finds himself, but it cannot be ignored when encountered as an apparently sincere basis for judgment in a responsible publication, especially one serving a community enjoying more than the average spread of educational advantage and mundane sophistication.

At the risk of belaboring what should be obvious to many, but obviously seems to be fashionable to overlook, our society is bottomed upon law and if law is eroded away, the society goes with it. To live together in peace and be secure in our lives and our property, requires of each of us a relinquishment of some measure of doing exactly what we please at any time and place.

Those who were here before us established a representative form of government to decide when and to what extent each of us must so relinquish a minimum amount of freedom, the whole process being "law" in one of its broader senses.

Relinquishment is only required in a conflict situation, for there is no reason to require one man to curtail his activity, if that activity does not interfere with the substantial interest of another (and the relinquishment the law requires is far less than that voluntarily given by many to make life the more pleasant and enjoyable for others).

Our government also has established machinery for determining the degree of relinquishment in the peaceful resolution of our inevitably conflicting interests and the very existence of that government is dependent upon the acceptance of the solutions so produced by an overwhelming majority of the population. Without such acceptance, there would not be enough police to control, nor jails to house, nor law-abiding citizens to support the active dissenters. This is not to say that every solution must be gladly accepted, nor that another solution cannot be substituted, not that the machinery itself cannot be improved, but it is to say that the process must be respected and any change must take place within the framework of the process if it is to endure.

Under our form of government, legislatures and courts are the specific institutions, along with many inferior boards and agencies having legislative and judicial powers within sharply limited fields, for providing solutions to conflicts private citizens cannot work out themselves.

These institutions do not always produce the happiest of results but they are human institutions and just as fallible and frail as the men that comprise them and, of course, the best way to get the best solutions is to get the best men in a position to discover them.

It is quite easy to gather instances of failings of these as well as any human institution, magnify and emphasize them so that it is just a short step to condemnation of the institution and then the entire system, but prudence should at least require that the ultimate step to overthrow the system ought to come only after the caution-breeding experience of determining (or attempting to) a better means of solving the conflicts.

The recognized genius of our system is that it has within it the capacity to change and bring its particular resolutions into accord with what is regarded as the prevailing thought of the community it serves.

If a given citizen does not like a given solution to a particular problem, he has it within his power and within the framework of the system, which protects that power and gives it the status of a right, to work to make a change through the governmental machinery, and if he is successful, that system will as much stand behind his enjoyment of the new solution as it stood in the way of his enjoyment before the change.

The point is, and this we cannot ever fail to appreciate without risking disastrous consequences and if we want the benefits of a civilized community, that a particular solution is to be respected not because we do or do not personally agree with it, but because and for so long as it is law, because it is the result of an orderly system of government (that can be made to respond to our legitimate aspirations) and ought to be accepted as binding until it is duly changed, and because if more than a relatively small fraction of us fail to be of this persuasion, our society is in trouble, the more serious the greater the number of non-acceptors and the longer the non-acceptance continues.

If the break-point is exceeded and the government collapses, what will take its place. If you do not want to make a journey, why take the first step? I will not recount, although this is the place for it, the eloquent lesson of history as to the relative merits of the possible forms of government.

To come back to the immediate subject, if a leash law is passed by our local legislature — the town meeting — or is the successful subject of a referendum, those for whose benefit this solution is provided are entitled to have it observed and to suggest, as your editorial did, that willful violation of any such law is justifiable is preaching anarchy and deserves condemnation. To use the American Revolution as a precedent for such disregard of law is absurd and ought to be exposed: for a starter, the "laws" against which the colonists rebelled were sought to be imposed against a predominantly unwilling and totally unrepresented people, which would hardly be the case with any leash law that Winchester may adopt.

This is a long response to what may have been an inadvertence, but even if it is inadvertent, this is itself symptomatic of a disease that no longer appears to be endemic to defined groups.

I do not know if it has acquired an established name, but I suppose "disrespect for authority" is sufficiently descriptive and is as good as any other, and when it appears to me to be expressed by the editor of a mature newspaper, the disease has certainly become epidemic.

It is clearly time that the great mass of us who are law-abiding, however timid, apathetic or silent we have been, begin to do the little speaking up and acting out in our daily lives that could collectively stop the swing of the pendulum in the direction it is now moving.

Those who rail against established authority must come to realize that their well being depends upon the continued existence of that same authority, just as the boy who detests the existence of the policeman enforcing the speed laws expects this same man to protect his car from thieves while he sleeps. There are other avenues to satisfy his desire for speed, but a frontal assault on the system is suicidal in more ways than one.

Secondly: While I am at it, I should like to express my view of the "leash law" controversy itself. I have been impressed with the partisanship of many of the views expressed in this column. It would appear that a little more consideration is going to have to be extended to opposing points of view by some of the prior "participators," both actual and vicarious. No side can be said to be without weighty arguments and it does not appear that the extremes of conflicting positions are a fair solution.

A great deal has been written about "freedom," mostly on the part of the dogs, and this is a point that touches me in a very personal way.

I do not own a dog (although I have owned dogs), and I believe I have a right not to own a dog, as I believe my neighbor has a right to own one. Just what prompts decision one way or the other is a purely personal matter and is not here material. This is "freedom" on a human level.

(I suppose in all honesty I should expose my true colors by candidly confessing that I am also of the persuasion that any dog is inferior to any person, including a child, and any attempt to argue the relative destructive or other capacities of a child and a dog is, in my judgment, not relevant to the present issue and serves only to confuse it.)

I further take the position that I have no right to compel my neighbor to own or not to own a dog, nor he to so control me. This is more "freedom" on a human level.

I am positively adamant also, that if my neighbor decides to have a dog, the burdens associated with this choice are his to bear and he has no right to impose upon me or mine in the exercise of such things as our freedom of travel upon the public ways, our freedom from the threat of violence to the integrity of our skin, nor upon the lawful enjoyment of our property, both real and personal. It is in respect to the last-mentioned that I find especial fault with some dog owners, not so much the dogs, which are usually no better or worse than the training they receive.

What the dog does on its master's land and to his things is seldom a source of complaint, in fact, the dog seems to regard its master's premises as some sort of sanctuary wherein it is on best behavior.

What I find particularly objectionable, and is has been particularly burdensome in my neighborhood, which the good taste of the community has prevented from being vented, is the consequence of the "natural modesty," as one writer anthropomorphized, of the dog for performing a certain biological function (which I am sure I need not label further to be understood) on its home ground.

It does not take too many episodes of having to retrace tiny steps from back door to upstairs den with wash bucket, sponge and toweling, fighting gagging nausea all the way, to remove the odoriferous trail from linoleum, carpeting and woodwork and then have to cap the performance with the equally exhilarating task of toothpicking the traces of a canine deposit from the patterned crevices of the bottom of a sneaker (or two), to begin to feel that perhaps just a little of my own freedom has been usurped without due process of law.

If the deposits were encountered in the yard of the dog's owner, there is no real basis for complaint, but this is seldom the case. I keep a small spade and maintain a routine of policing my own yard as a matter of self-defense, something I understand many dog owners are spared.

"Why penalize all, when just a few are responsible?" This question recurs and it is worthy of consideration. Are just "a few" responsible? Where are those not responsible? If customarily restrained, they should not be within any leash law; if not restrained, how can it be said they are not responsible for any objectionable activity? How can you determine what dogs are responsible for what? Some things are fairly obvious, but certainly not all, and it is frequently impossible to establish the culprit.

I should like to have a definitive proposal with which to conclude this now extended letter, but the more I consider the problems, the more questions and the fewer satisfactory answers I seem to come up with, likely because I am not armed with sufficient factual information to make intelligent judgments.

I am convinced, however, that dogs have become a real problem in Winchester and the problem cannot in good conscience be ignored by even the most ardent advocate of non-restraint.

At the same time, there is no need to make the law any more stringent that is reasonably necessary to eliminate substantial abuses on the part of some dog owners.

The real difficulty seems to be in coming up with an arrangement that is feasibly enforceable, yet does not paint too broad an area of restraint; separating out the good guys from the bad guys in the dog population looms as an unwieldy task as a practical matter.

It would seem that once those in favor of some kind of restraint establish the existence of substantial abuses and propose a solution, the burden of proposing a less restrictive, but workable and reasonably satisfactory alternative ought to fall on those opposing to a greater or lesser degree, the imposition of restrictions.

It would further seem that a channeling of energies in such direction, rather than loosing them in emotional appeals against all restraint, would be an exercise of benefit not only to the human population, but also, if the dog trainers are correct, to the canine population of Winchester as well.

Sincerely,
John J. Nolan

Ciampa Heads Up Yes 5 Drive To Keep Sales Tax

Albert G. Ciampa of 24 Tufts Road, Winchester chairman of the Yes 5 Drive, is campaigning locally to save the sales tax by urging voters to vote yes on referendum number 5 on November 8.

"Sales tax revenues are producing $337,900 for Winchester in 1966," said Mr. Ciampa. "We want to keep this flow of money coming in from the state to keep our local sales tax down. Unless voters approve the sales tax by voting yes on referendum number 5, these revenues will be lost and local tax rates will skyrocket. If we lose the sales tax, we'll be faced with almost certain higher property and income taxes immediately," he concluded.

Communications Systems: Basic Course

A LIVE LESSON in the workings of telephone communications was given by New England Telephone representatives last week to youngsters in the Mystic School first grade. Ralph LaVasseur, the installer for the company, brought truck and equipment to the yard to demonstrate how they work and the safety precautions in his job. He even climbed a pole for an eager audience which put him on the spot with questions too. This first for the schools was part of a general communications study, and pupils returned to their rooms to draw and write of their lesson. At left rear are Miss Ellen Tim, student teacher from the Elliot Pearson School at Tufts, and teacher Mrs. Marjorie Dyer of 11 Grove Street.

Sabrina Fair Is AAUW Benefit

Bogart fans here will have an opportunity to see him in a revival of Thornton Wilder's "Sabrina Fair" on Wednesday evening, November 9 at the Lexington Theatre, according to Mrs. Robert Gentry, 30 Pilgrim Drive, a member of the Fellowships committee of the American Association of University Women.

Two benefit performances will be offered at 7 and 9 p.m. that evening by the AAUW to raise money for graduate fellowships for women. Ten young women from other nations are studying at the doctoral level and beyond in the Boston area this year, and continued support of this program is vital, according to Mrs. Gentry.

"Sabrina Fair" stars Audrey Hepburn, Humphrey Bogart and William Holden. Tickets will be available at the box office or information may be obtained by calling Mrs. William Fallon at 729-6186.

Library Personnel Details Services To Noonan Parents

That the circulation in the children's addition of the Winchester Library jumped from 4,000 in September '65 to 10,000 this September told a real story to Noonan School parents as they heard Library personnel define services at their fall meeting on Wednesday, October 26.

Mrs. Joseph McDonough, president of the Parents Association, welcomed parents and teachers and following the reading of committee reports, Miss Paula Caffrey, principal, described the often difficult task of obtaining high quality teachers but justifiably took pride in introducing this year's staff at Noonan and the Annex.

Using projectiles for illustration, Robert Wagenknecht, head librarian, began the evening's program by pointing out in detail the floor plan of the new addition as well as that of the recently renovated sections. The adult level, being primarily his domain, Mr. Wagenknecht reminded the audience of the many services and facilities enjoyed by residents in the past and noted that one new feature is the "Winchester Room," which will be available for group and organizational meetings.

In keeping with the library's policy of serving the community as a whole, a completely new section containing large-typed publications will be easily accessible to citizens with impaired vision.

Mrs. Dorothy Comfort, children's librarian, explained the catalog system on the junior level in hopes that parents and teachers would thus be able to help the children help themselves in locating books. It became apparent that a thorough understanding of the catalog system is beneficial and almost necessary when Mrs. Comfort pointed out the skyrocketing circulation figures according to Mrs. Comfort attributed to the high quality books, the large enrollment at the four pre-school story times, and the very inviting atmosphere characteristic of the new addition.

Due to many requests, the library will feature a vertical file for pamphlets containing information on specific federal buildings, museums, and the like that heretofore was difficult to obtain. Beginning this month the film program for children on Saturday mornings and Friday evenings (accompanied by a parent) resumes.

Mrs. Comfort described with enthusiasm the collection of books that were displayed during the evening, paying particular attention to award winning publications.

Refreshments were attractively served with Mrs. John Hicks and Mrs. Ernest Siegfriedt pouring.

Legion Auxiliary Starts Busy Year, Rummage Sale

Monday evening, November 7 will be the next meeting of the American Legion Post 97 Auxiliary, which has embarked on a very full schedule for this year.

Members are reminded that gifts for the Christmas Gift Shop must be received on or before November 9. It is suggested they be mailed with dues, or brought to the meeting.

Last Thursday evening the group held its first ward party at the Bedford Veteran's Administration Hospital. Work with these men becomes more important than ever as patients from Viet Nam join those from the Korean War and World Wars I and II at the Hospital.

On Wednesday, November 9, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. a rummage sale will be held at the Legion Home, 34 Vine Street.

Anyone wishing to make a donation of clothing, in good condition, or furniture, is asked to leave it at Peterson Chair, 12 Park Street or at the Legion Home.

All proceeds from this sale go into a fund for child welfare. The auxiliary works very closely with retarded children. This and work at the hospital are most important work. Unit No. 97 is very proud of its volunteers and their dedication in this service.

Theatre Lecture Program Available

A theatre lecture program is available now to clubs and organizations through the North Shore Community Arts Foundation. The private, non-profit-organization operates the North Shore Music-Theatre in Beverly and plans to build a year-round Drama-Theatre adjacent to the current structure.

The new North Shore Drama-Theatre will be the home of a resident professional company presenting straight plays during the winter months. Stephan Slane, managing director of the Music Theatre, and other staff members will be available to discuss the new theatre project and the current theatre scene. Mr. Slane is now in Europe visiting theatre centers.

The North Shore Arts Foundation has just received a film of the recent Elliot Norton program in which the distinguished drama critic reviewed the plans of the Beverly based foundation to build a year-round theatre. This film will also be available to interested clubs and organizations.

The new building will be the center of many community programs, as planned by the arts foundation. Its facilities will also be available to public and private organizations, subject to foundation scheduling. Groups interested in arranging a lecture program on the new theatre project may write to the foundation at Box 62, Beverly or phone 922-8220. A detailed brochure on the new theatre is also available upon request.

N. H. Educators Honor Davidson

The New Hampshire Personnel and Guidance Association recently selected George T. Davidson of Conway, N. H., a Winchester native and former resident as the first recipient of its annual award to a New Hampshire educator who has made noteworthy contributions to New Hampshire education and to the counseling movement within the state.

Mr. Davidson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George T. Davidson formerly of 19 Park Avenue, was a graduate of Winchester High School and Bowdoin College, and he is currently serving Kennett High School in Conway, N. H. as director of guidance services. He has been a past-president of both the New Hampshire Principals Association and the New Hampshire Personnel and Guidance Association, has served as co-chairman of the 1964 Personnel and Guidance Conference held at Bretton Woods, is an immediate past-president of the Bowdoin College Alumni Council, and is a visiting instructor in guidance this year at Gorham State College in Gorham, Maine.

Active as a church layman, he is lay-pastor of the Freedom Community Church, and is owner-director of Camp Wakuta for Boys in Freedom, N.H.

Always an avid sports enthusiast, Mr. Davidson has been clock operator for all Bowdoin home football games for the past ten years.

Fuel Oil Heating Air Conditioning

Federal Heating

623-1515 Al LaPointe 729-3405

"The greatest step we have ever taken in over 15 years of continuous customer service," is the way President Al LaPointe of 16 Pierrepont Road, Winchester, summarized his FEDERAL HEATING COMPANY'S new service building.

"Now," he continued, "we have all office, warehouse, and service truck facilities under one roof. This will help provide even greater customer satisfaction and further, gives us a beautiful, weather-conditioned area where customers and prospects can come to discuss their home comfort requirements in modern suroundings."

The new FEDERAL building at 26 Elm Street, Somerville, is only a few doors from their former location near Porter Square and only half a block from Somerville Avenue. Mr. LaPointe's design incorporated a parking area, an office and a service area all inter-connected for convenience of better controlled space and closer coordination of activities.

Federal operates a fleet of fuel oil trucks and service vans all brilliantly colored in their trademark colors of red, yellow and white. Their clean attractive vehicles have been serving Winchester for a number of years. Federal's reputation for fast and efficient service is constantly expanding their fuel oil deliveries in many North Shore communities.

FEDERAL now has complete facilities for year-round home comfort. They provide fuel oil, furnaces, air conditioning and humidification, with qualified personnel to design, install and maintain all equipment. With Shell fuel oil, Waltham and General Electric oil burners, General Electric Air-Conditioning and Aprilaire humidifiers, FEDERAL can engineer any and all facets of your home comfort.

NEW FEDERAL HEATING BUILDING

From his home on Pierrepont Road in Winchester as well as from his office on Elm Street in Somerville, Mr. LaPointe has a unique method of keeping accurate records of customer facilities. His "degree-day" fuel oil consumption averages are kept current daily. His installation and service cards and 24 hour telephone are manned faithfully, not only to answer service calls promptly, but to anticipate customer requirements.

Fuel oil delivery records serve to prevent a customer from running low as well as a check against potential problems for the home owner.

"Service," says Mr. LaPointe, "is our most important product. Whether it's fair weather or foul, FEDERAL'S customers can rest assured of efficient home comfort. Day or night, FEDERAL is geared to respond to emergencies, quickly and to the complete satisfaction of its customers.

Customers, friends, as well as prospective customers, are cordially invited to visit FEDERAL'S new offices at 26 Elm Street in Somerville. There they can see, first hand, the well-apportioned and efficiently designed show room, shop and office facilities planned to provide the most modern home comfort service in the Greater Boston area. There, FEDERAL'S competent employees can show you how their up-to-date, personalized business can mean trouble-free home comfort for you. Drop in or call Al LaPointe at 729-3405 or 623-1515—he will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Auto B & T Driving School

230 Washington Street 729-1197; 729-8478

NOW IS THE TIME TO ENROLL AT B & T AUTO DRIVING SCHOOL's driver education course, especially for youngsters who will be 16 years old before the middle of December. As of the first of January, 1967, the driving age will be raised to 16½ years, so 16-year-olds who don't want to have to wait and extra half-year to get their licenses should enroll in either the November 9, 16, or December 6 courses at B & T Auto Driving School, 230 Washington Street. The five-week course costs $54.50, which is saved many times over with the reduced insurance rates for graduates (savings of about half-cost on insurance for boys, slightly less for girls). November 9 course classes held Mondays and Wednesdays from 4 to 6, and Saturdays from 12 to 2: November 16 course meets 7 to 9 Mondays and Wednesdays, and 10 to 12 Saturdays; December 6 course meets Tuesdays and Thursdays 7 to 9 and Saturdays 8 to 10. Owner and head instructor William H. Taylor, with five assistant instructors, combine many years of expert driver training with all kinds of drivers: young and old, new or nervous. Successful graduates attest to the quality of B & T Auto Driving School's quality instruction and education. For more information call 729-1197 or 729-8478.

Sunday, November 6

Isaiah's prophecy concerning the mission of Christ Jesus is a part of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon on "Adam and Fallen Man" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday: "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound."

Correlative readings from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Through discernment of the spiritual opposite of materiality, even the way through Christ, Truth, man will reopen with the Key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed, and will find himself unfallen, upright, pure, and free, not needing to consult almanacs for the probabilities either of his life or of weather, not needing to study brainology to learn how much of a man he is."

28 Spooks Win Scout Awards

Hobgoblins and ghosts were predominant at the Halloween meeting of Cub Scout Pack 508 at Noonan School Friday night, where awards were presented to 28 youngsters.

Two Cubs, Keith Bonn and Gary Oravetz, received their lion badges to top the list which had 21 receiving bobcat pins. Three bear and two wolf badges also were presented to parents who pinned them on their sons.

Gary also won a cub scout pen and pencil set as first prize with his Martian costume. The judges had a difficult time selecting the winners, as all showed great imagination with outfits that included everything from spacemen to headless Indians, one-legged pirates, to mummies and just about everything imaginable.

Flashlights were presented to the second-and third-prize winners — Kevin Clabby as a green turtle and John Paoletti as a little girl.

Richard DeBourke was inducted as den chief for den 2.

The evening's festivities included balloon, doughnut-eating constest, a bowlegged balloon race and reading of ghost stories by Cubmaster Francis A. Lawton. Refreshments of cider, doughnuts and apples were enjoyed by all.

A breakdown of awards showed five for den five; four each for one, two, three and nine; three for four; and eight for one and seven.

The complete list of winners: Lions, Bonn and Oravetz; Bears, Patrick Durán, Edward Porter and Stephen Sundberg; wolf, David Foley and John Paoletti; bobcat, Donald Allard, Scott Bradley, Paul Cardullo, Robert Carey, Kevin Clabby, Stephen Cogan, Neil Haggerty, Kevin Lindmark, Elliot Melzar, Mirk Milley, Wayne Mills, Joseph Morandi, Gerald Polcari, Robert Powers, Mark Pressly, Anthony Rockhill, Thomas Romeo, Francis Sarnie, Frederick Scholl, Philip Stackpole and Joseph Wightman.

Thunderbird Air Show and Army Parachutists

An aerobatic show by the world-famous U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds will highlight an open house observance Saturday, November 5, at Hanscom Field sponsored by the USAF Electronics Systems Division.

Also on the program with the jet fighter team will be the crack U.S. Army's Golden Knights in a demonstration of group and solo free fall parachuting.

Gates at Hanscom will open to the public Saturday at 11 a.m. with plenty of free parking.

Entrance to the base will be off Route 2A between Lexington and Concord. Visitors using Route 128 should take Exit 45W and follow the signs.

A total of 21 different U.S. Air Force aircraft, the largest number ever displayed here at one time, will be parked on the flight line and open for inspection.

Included in the aircraft display will be a C-47 transport modified for combat service in Vietnam and renamed "Puff, the Magic Dragon."

A precision marching exhibition by the well-known Hanscom Field Jody Drill Team is also on the program.

The 94th Military Airlift Wing, the U.S. Air Force Reserve unit based at Hanscom Field, will observe its first "Bosses Day" to coincide with the open house observance.

The reserve unit will host employers of its members on a tour of facilities and aircraft. Highlight of "Bosses Day" will be christening of the 94th's first C-124 Globemaster aircraft, the replacement for its C-119 Flying Boxcars with Massachusetts Governor John A. Volpe officiating.

The full day's program announced by the Air Force is as follows:

11:00—Open house begins
11:15—Selections by the Stewart Air Force Band
11:45—Lowell Tech Air Force ROTC Drill Team extibition
12:20—Hanscom Field Jody Drill Team exhibition
1:00—Forward air controller's communications demonstration
1:25—U.S. Army Golden Knights parachute team from Fort Bragg, N. C.
2:00 Christening of the first C-124 Globemaster assigned to the 94th Military Airlift Wing, U.S. Air Force Reserve
2:20—Thunderbirds man their aircraft
3:00—Air Show by the Thunderbirds
3:45—Thunderbirds' F-100D aircraft open for public inspection.
4:30—Open house ends

Peace Corps To Test November 12

Winchester residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. on Saturday, November 12, at the Brighton High School, 25 Warren Street, Brighton.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. (If test scores indicate a limited language-learning ability, for example, the Peace Corps tries to place an applicant in an English-speaking country.) The placement test requires no preparation and is non-competitive—an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an appllication, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

The placement test takes about an hour and a half.

Air Force Seeks Registered Nurses

More than nurses. They must be officers . . . teachers . . . students. Such versatility is required of each member of the U. S. Air Force Nurse Corps.

As officers, they must be familiar with the ways of the Air Force.

As teachers, they impart their knowledge to others, and as students, they keep up with the latest techniques. They must be at home in an aircraft, a modern hospital, or a combat zone.

This is no longer the exclusive domain of women. There are male nurses in key positions within the nursing program.

To qualify, an applicant must: be a graduate of an accepted three year school of nursing; be currently registered in one of the states, the District of Columbia or a territory of the United States; be a citizen between the ages of 20 and 35; possess high moral and personal qualifications as well as physical and professional requirements. Women applicants may not have dependents under 18 years of age.

Most appointments are in the grade of second and first lieutenant, although additional professional experience and education may mean an appointment as a captain.

Interested nurses may call Sergeant Dave Woodford at 396-5109 for an appointment, or stop in to his office at 19 High Street, Medford.

Mass. Motorists May Be Election Winners, Says ALA

Massachusetts' motorists may be winners at the gubernatorial election, the Automobile Legal Association (ALA) said today.

"Both candidates for governor have adopted scrapping the state's controversial compulsory auto insurance system," A. W. Query, Jr., ALA legislative counsel, pointed out.

"If the candidates keep to their positions and push for such legislation," Mr. Query said, "the long-suffering Bay State motorists may find their intolerable insurance burden lightened."

The ALA official noted that Governor Volpe tried unsuccessfully in the 1966 legislature to abolish the compulsory system in favor of a financial responsibility insurance law, a system used in 47 states. The Governor's plan, similar to the one filed by the ALA, also provided for an unsatisfied judgment fund, such as in New Jersey.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Edward J. McCormack, "has not as yet proposed a definitive plan," Query noted. McCormack, however, is in favor of abolishing the present compulsory system and has called it "unfair and much too expenseive for our motorists."

Vote Drive By Florist

A 1-man campaign to Get Out the Vote in Winchester will be launched election day by Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery at 210 Cambridge Street. Everyone who goes to the polls is invited to drop in Tuesday for a free flower tagged "I voted! Did you?"

Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery, a Teleflorist, explained that Teleflora, an international-flowers-by-wire firm, is backing a nationwide vote drive and that they are cooperating at the local level.

"Teleflorists all over the nation are doing their part in this campaign," they said. "We want to do what we can locally to help insure a good voter turnout." Teleflora posters on view at the shop urge participation in the balloting.

At Work: Curricula Councils

Recently announced changes in Winchester Public Schools curricula have evolved in part through the formation of groups known as curriculum councils.

Working under the guidance of Dr. Walter Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, these councils study all significant materials and courses of study available in math, English, social studies and science.

John Waite, chairman of the math curriculum council meets with other teacher members Janet Greeno, Donald Stangel and George Greer to study and view teaching techniques in their field. They also evaluate the results of Winchester's curriculum on the student by class visitations, constructing tests, evaluating test results and interviewing teachers.

The English curriculum council is headed by Christos Socarides who works with his council of Margaret Matson, and Phyllis Roberts. They assess the needs for changes in their subject and update the course of study to strengthen any weakness in the curriculum. The councils initiate and run workshops for teachers in the new curricula and prepare bibliographical lists for the purchase of library books.

The council for social studies is presently attempting to create sequence, coordination and balance in Winchester's curriculum Grade K-12 with the leadership of May Milliken and her council members, Mary Regan, Patricia Glasheen and Marjorie Berger. They maintain up-to-date files of curriculum materials in the curriculum laboratory (located in the Division of Instruction offices in the Professional Building on Main Street). The councils also work with the coordinator of instructional aids Thomas Morse, on the reproduction and distribution of the learning materials they construct for use by the students.

Frank Finigan is chairman of the science carriculum council and with council members Ruth Graham, John Limongiello and George Flynn finds new experimental materials from outside agencies and arranges for training the teachers and initiating trials of these materials. The councils also use existing materials constructed by individual teachers in the school system and borrow materials of outside school systems.

Regarding the duties of the curriculum councils, Dr. Harry V. Gleason superintendent, says "This is an impressive list of very important activities which are necessary for proper curriculum control and development. The effect of these activities on the progress of the Winchester schools is as vital as the activities of any one of us."

Principal Joseph Forte and Gardner Handy of McCall and Lynch Junior High School respectively, attended the Northeast Regional Junior High Conference at the Shine Inn in Chicopee, October 26-28 with junior high school representatives from all New England states, New York, and New Jersey.

Scouts Thrill To Harbor Boat Tour

On Saturday, October 29, the combined Winchester Girl Scout troops 475 and 512 enjoyed the day touring Boston Harbor as guests of the noted author and lecturer Edward Rowe Snow.

Captain Snow arranged for the boat piloted by Captain Samuel Burns of Medford, which left from the Charles River and passed through the locks at the Science Museum and headed out to sea.

While all enjoyed such sights as the U.S.S. Constitution, U.S.S. Wasp, the site of the Boston Tea Party, Deer Island, Castle Island, Lover's Rock, Lovell Island, Nix's Mate and Governor's Island, Capt. Snow's legends and lore were the hit of the day. His obvious knowledge and story-telling ability is evidenced by the fact that he is the author of over 40 books regarding the New England coast.

The boat tied up at Boston Light, but no one was able to go ashore because of ground swells. They continued to Great Brewster Island, where they lunched around a beach campfire. The island's many tunnels were explored, and authoritative reports have it that all heard a ghost in one of the old tunnels.

On the trip home through President Road, the weary but happy seafarers saw Fort Warren, Fort Standish, Fort Strong, and Spectacle Island, and Mr. Snow was beseiged with requests for stories and happily complied. Several on board were recipients of prizes and autographs from their host, and all received the treasure of the memory of the day.

On board for the event were:

Lutheran Missionary Program

On Sunday, November 6, the Rev. Donald E. Johnson, Missionary to Tanzania, Africa, will visit the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Montvale Avenue at Prospect Street, Woburn. He will preach at the 9:00 and 11:00 a.m. Communion Services. At 3:30 missionary Johnson will present a special program to the Church School and their parents. The children of Redeemer contribute $300 annually to Pastor Johnson's salary. Refreshments will be served by the Rachel Group.

Pastor Johnson is a missionary of the Board of World Missions of the Lutheran Church in America and began serving his third term in Tanzania in 1962. He is now assistant to the Bishop, the Right Rev. Stefano R. Moshi, who is the first African to be a vice president of the Lutheran World Federation.

Open House At Lynch Tonight

Open House at Lynch Jr. High School will be held tonight at 7:45. Parents are to go directly to the home room of their student where room mothers will greet them, present name tags and offer to each family a chance to pay the voluntary annual dues which help defray cost of mailing and programming expenses, etc.

They will then follow the day's schedule of their child, ten minute classes permitting them to meet teachers and hear the course of study for the year.

Refreshments will be served in the cafetorium from 7:45 p.m. to closing under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Vitka and her committee.

Report Cards Due Next Week

The first marking period for Winchester public schools closes a week from today.

Shortly thereafter parents of children in the secondary schools will receive, through the mail, the first of four "scholarship reports" sent home regularly at the end of each quarter. These automated report cards are prepared by the New England Data Systems (NEEDS), a cooperative nonprofit organization started under a grant from the Ford Foundation in 1963 and in which Winchester is an active participating member.

The reports to parents are developed through the use of IBM mark sense cards. Each teacher indicates marks earned on the cards by using a special mark sense pencil. The cards are then processed at marks earned on the cards by using a special mark sense pencil. the NEEDS computer laboratory in Cambridge where a verification copy of each class is prepared for the teacher's use.

After it is checked, corrections are made and the final production run of the reports is made through the use of the compupter's high speed printer. All the data is brought together including the academic report, the attendance report and personal information such as name, address, etc., and printed on multi-forms that enable them to be mailed directly to parents.

Other reports based on the same data include the distribution of grades, and the computation of grade point average or rank in class.

The schools benefit in other ways through participation in the NEEDS project. All attendance for the system has been automated and has eliminated the use of the old school register over which so many teachers toiled for so many hours. Almost all of the clerical work of scheduling secondary schools has been taken over by the computers. Test scoring is another phase of clerical work recently automated and the preparation of the school-age town census is in the process of transfer to automated methods.

Rev. Henry J. Cassidy of Marshfield, Wisconsin was a recent visitor to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cassidy, 22 Water Street. He was accompanied by Gregory Southworth.

Sojourn in Italy; 2 Natives Return

However you say "old home week" in Italian, that's what it was recently in Salemi, Sicily, Italy, when Chief Frank Amico of the Fire Department, brother Anthony of Forest Street and their respective wives paid a 10 day visit to their native town!

The little provincial town about 25 miles out of Palermo which Guiseppe Garibaldi set up as his first capital of Italy in 1860, was the scene of more than a week of continuing familial festivities and an outpouring of warmth and fun which will make a big page in the memories of the two Winchester families.

Chief Amico was returning for the first time in 50 years, having left Salemi when he was six. Anthony, a bakery product distributor (and six year's his brothers senior), had been back four years ago.

The month's vacation which was spent visiting the continent on the way to Italy from London, their arrival spot on September 26, was anticipated by many a party given the four travelers in Winchester before they took off and started them in just the right mood.

But the kissing, the figs and persimmons picked from trees; the soft Italian wines at every meal; the mountains, the sea, and the men, mules and dogs starting out into the country for a day's work together, these things can't be reproduced here. The Amicos stayed with cousins right in the middle of the little city, nearby its castle, in part of which they were born.

From London the travelers went to Paris, on to Lucerne for a taste of Switzerland (all by plane) then took a beautiful modern train over the Alps to Milan, a train to Venice and Florence, a bus to Rome, and on to Naples before ending their trip in Sicily.

A large group of friends and family gave them a send-off at this end and greeted them too when they returned; but this was more than matched by the sight as they came off the plane at Palermo of about the same number of relatives and friends awaiting them and gayly waving to everyone who disembarked, not being quite sure just which ones they were!

En Ka Gives 25-Year Pins

Mrs. William F. Hickey, Jr., of Highland Avenue was hostess to the first fall meeting of En Ka Society on October 18th. Attendance was nearly 100 per cent and enthusiasm even more so as accomplishments of the past year and plans for the present year were outlined.

After an outstanding luncheon served by Mrs. William Beal and her committee, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee, president of the Society. A very pleasant piece of "new business" was the awarding of beautiful commemorative pins to those members who have worked for En Ka for twenty-five years.

Mrs. Bradford Bentley read a short original poem extolling the faithful help of these ladies. The lovely pins (a blue disk with white En Ka daisy mounted on silver) went to Mrs. William Beal, Mrs. William Beggs, Mrs. F. Milne Blanchard, Mrs. Percy Bugbee, Mrs. Roland Carter, Mrs. Theodore Chilcott, Mrs. William Cusack, Mrs. Paul Goddu, Miss Dorothy Hall, Mrs. Edwin Hall, Mrs. Arthur Jackson, Mrs. Walter Keyes, Mrs. Franklin Lane, Mrs. Clarence Luitwieler, Mrs. Robert MacArthur, Mrs. John Murray, Mrs. Elisha Pierce, Jr., Mrs. E. Ober Pride, Mrs. Herbert Ross, Mrs. W. Campbell Ross, Mrs. Marshall Symmes, Mrs. Leslie Tucker, Mrs. Warren Shoemaker, Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, Mrs. Edwin Zimmerman, Mrs. Morris Kerr, Mrs. Harold Meyer, Mrs. Thomas Righter, Jr., Mrs. Chandler Symmes, and Mrs. Carleton Smith.

Recipients of gifts from En Ka Society, which lends a town-wide helping hand, were reported as follows: Mystic Valley Health, Auxiliary Police, Pop Warner (football), Winchester High School, Winchester Library, Winchester Youth Hockey, and The Homefronters. Also sixteen children attended camp through En Ka's help. Before the year has passed, many other donations will be added to the list.

Mrs. Winthrop Knox, chairman of the popular En Ka Exchange (thrift shop on Church Street) reported that business has been booming since the shop re-opened a month ago. A report written by Mrs. Edward MacCormack, who ran the Exchange last year, detailed a very successful season.

The afternoon closed with a brief and enlightening talk by Donald Spinney, Winchester's new Recreation Director. Mr. Spinney defined recreation as using one's leisure doing self-satisfying activities. Plans are in the works for many varied and worthwhile activities for all age groups, from elementary school children through senior citizens! Among other things, Mr. Spinney plans to bring music and more music to Winchester. Also a winter carnival complete with floats and ice sculpture may be anticipated. After the short talk, questions were invited and the many queries proved how high interest is running in the Winchester Recreation program.

EYE RESEARCH!

We're relinquishing our ad space this week to tell you about an all-important cause—eye research.

In Winchester, as in many of the surrounding Communities, a group of dedicated men, members of the Lions' Clubs, are giving up free time to go door to door selling light bulbs, the proceeds of which will be donated to the Eye Research Institute.

There's no need to dwell on the virtues of such a project, the cause and effects of eye diseases is certainly of major concern to every one of us.

The sale of light bulbs with eye research is certainly an association worth our highest praise for the individual or individuals who thought up the promotion. Poor lighting is a major contributor to poor eyesight.

We hope that when these men call on your home over this weekend or in weeks to come, that you will be generous and by more than one box. You may not have any need for bulbs at this moment, but you do have need to protect your eyesight.

Ed Sterling

When Winchester scored first — the only time this year — things looked bright for the Sachems. But Reading on the quick arm of Bill Kelly, Harvard bound, bounced right back with two quick touchdowns. Kelly looked bad in the first quarter, had to rush his passes, and didn't have much success. But it wasn't that Kelly was so bad but that the great rush of the Winchester defenders put so much pressure on him he had to hurry his throws or eat the ball, which he did on a few occasions.

All through the game Kelly had to get rid of the ball fast, and that he did. His bullet passes got to his receivers in a hurry, and then his great receivers took over. Watkins and Kiley are two of the best we have seen this year. They were fast, extremely hard to cover and repeatedly broke through to get to where the ball was thrown.

Not only were Kelly's passes accurate, they were extremely hard for a defender to get near enough to break up or intercept. Watkins and Kiley had the speed, the reach, and sure hands.

* * * * *

Except for that one breakaway run by the Reading fullback, the Rockets' running game was stopped almost cold. McGee played another outstanding game in the defensive backfield. Pete Grant spent more time in the Reading backfield than he did on his side of the line. Ken Albertelli, Mike Ciarcia and, as usual, Tom Varley played heads-up, hard-nosed defensive ball.

What surprised us was the fine kicking performance of Brian Collins, who had to take over John Cheever's chore. One of his punts was good for 59 yards. On the other hand, Kelly looked pretty bad in this department. He'll never make the Crimson kicking squad.

* * * * *

Saturday Winchester travels to Belmont, which played a great game against Wakefield two weeks ago, but which fumbled away the game against Concord last week with five bobbles, three of which led to Patriot touchdowns. If Belmont plays up to its Wakefield game, the Sachems are in trouble. The lad who will be watched with interest is Belmont's speedy halfback, Monty Marrocco, who broke away against Wakefield for a 78-yard run, only to be nailed four yards from the goal line. Belmont has a fine pass defense, which will be a test of Collins and his receivers.

* * * * *

Early in the season we made reservations about Jim Nance's running, stating we'd have to see how he did against good defensive lines in the league. Our reservations had just about dissipated by the time Oakland came to town. After Nance's performance in Sunday's game, all we can say is that the records speak for themselves.

* * * * *

The Harriers haven't had much recognition because football always hogs the spotlight in the fall. Coach Roger Rawden's cross-country team, led by Dick Fahey, who has set several course records this year, has had a fine season with seven wins, and a second in the Middlesex League meet.

Closing Fine Season This Week

LEADING LOCAL HARRIERS into the State meet this Saturday with a fine season behind them are Sachem co-captains Dick Fahey and Bob Benshimol with Coach Roger Rawden. Behind them is a 7-2-0 season with losses only to Lexington (one point) and League champs Wakefield. They came in second in the League meet held Friday at Melrose.

WHS Boosters Miss League Title By Tuesday Loss

In a brilliantly played game at Lexington on Tuesday afternoon, the WHS soccer team just missed the League championship as Lexington downed them 2-3 before a crowd of about 500.

In "one of the best schoolboy games played in Massachusetts" the two powerhouse rivals fought it out for the first place title and the invitation to the Sate Meet. Bouley's Booters, at the end of another very strong season, had to settle for second spot.

The first period started with hard fought action on the part of both teams with neither controlling the ball very long. The scoring action started in the second quarter with the Lexington line drilling shot after shot into the goal, each one being saved by goalie Alan Ingraham until one shot hit the upper right hand corner for the score.

Winchester's first goal was scored on a penalty kick late in the third period when center forward Bruce Abbott placed a kick in the left hand corner of the goal, beyond the reach of the Lexington goalie. Another Lexington goal was scored in this period when their right wing centered the ball in front of the Winchester goal where the Lexington left inside shot and scored.

Sixteen seconds into the fourth period Bruce Abbott had scored another goal on a screen shot after a fast break down the field. But Lexington scored the winning goal halfway through the period to end the hopes of the home team.

The last home game Friday shut out Belmont, 4-0.

A good crowd turned out on a perfect spring day and was treated to a clear dominance of the Bouley booters over the visitors.

Belmont won the toss and elected to defend the east goal. But the home players took the ball to Belmont's end of the field and before the first 15 minutes were over one goal was registered. Center forward Bruce Abbott scored without assistance, a smooth screen shot.

Belmont had possession of the ball when the second period began but a hand foul gave Winchester a direct kick opportunity. Mike Murray took the kick, placing the ball directly in front of the goal. Henry Shean, in the resulting shuffle, managed to tap the ball to Abbott who took a shot and scored again. The period finished out with fast defensive heads-up ball playing by the Winchester team and Belmont was unable to score.

The third period continued seesaw, with neither side holding an advantage for any length of time. Head shots were connecting for short distances, but the long ground kicks were consistently blocked by either side until on a particularly fast break down east end of the field Doug Fox sent a sizzling shot between the legs of the Belmont goalie. There was no defenses against this shot, it had everything in it.

In the fourth period with a three goal lead Coach Bouley put in the second squad. Ed Downing, Chris Gleason, and Bob Mucci played hard and held the Sachem shut-out.

Halfway through the period Bouley sent the first squad back in to score another goal, accomplished by Henry Shean in a big pile-up at the goal. Alan Ingraham played goalie for Winchester in the first three periods, Bob Armstrong throughout the last.

DICK FAHEY'S WINNING stride has made its mark in the Middlesex League for the past three years. He was edged for first place in Saturday's meet by three seconds by Reading's record breaking Tom Swain.

Wakefield Wins As Middlesex C-C Record Tumbles

Reading's Tom Swain bettered the conference record, along with two other runners, but Wakefield placed five finishers in the top 10 Friday to capture the Middlesex League cross-country championship at Mount Hood Golf Club, Melrose.

Swain, a 5-7, 140-pound junior, unbeaten in nine outings, whizzed home ahead of the field on the 2½ mile course in 13:52, breaking the previous mark of 14:05 set by Stoneham's Richard Greenleaf in 1964.

Dick Fahey of Winchester (13:55) and Mike Turner (14:01) also surpassed Greenleaf's record. Wakefield finished with 34 points, 43 ahead of defending champion Winchester.

Team scores: 1) Wakefield, 34, 2) Winchester, 77, 3) Stoneham, 92, 4) Melrose, 95, 5) Lexington, 97, 6) Reading, 141, 7) Belmont, 202, 8) Concord Carlisle, 249.

Sachem Harriers Defeat Woburn

Winchester's cross-country team earned its sixth victory of the season against arch-rival Woburn in its last duel meet. Both teams had lost only two meets going into the competition, so the meet figured to be close. The Sachems, showing good depth, came through with a 26-29 win.

First place went to Winchester's Dick Fahey, who ran the 2.5 mile Woburn course in 12 minutes, 45 seconds, nine seconds in front of Woburn's best runner, Joe Kaknes. Paul Devlin of Woburn finished third, followed by Sachem Co-Captain Bob Benshimol. Winchester wrapped up the meet when Tom Spang, Paul Blanch, and sophomore Wayne Padula, running as a group, took positions six, seven, and eight. Bunching his runners ahead of Woburn's fourth and fifth men was the way coach Roger Rawden felt he could beat Woburn, and his runners did exactly what he wanted.

The Winchester J.V.'s, led by a fine effort by Lee Oliver, who took first place by around 150 yards, whipped Woburn's seconds 26-34 and ended the season with a 5-4 record.

Top Ten Finishers

Struck $100 Oil

Robert Belida, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Belida of 783 Main Street, won a $100 check from Tulsa Oil Company in its promotional "Strike Oil" game last week. The winning check was presented to Mr. Belida on Saturday by Rico Patracelli, Red Sox shortstop, in behalf of Tulsa and the local Tulsa Service Center, located at 972 Main Street and ownwd by John Pearson and David Bacon, where Mr. Belinda got the two matching halves of a $100 value coupon when he had his car repaired there last week.

Runners at the Ready on Home Course

LAST HOME MEET for WHS Harriers was vs. Reading and won by the local runners 23-45. On Saturday Dan Strout, left, WHS runner (in this photo), placed 34th and Robert McClellan 44th among 73 starters in the League meet.

Reading Downs Winchester, 22-8; Kelly Throws Two Touchdown Passes

JOHN MARTIN SNARES PASS in third quarter of Reading-Winchester game at Reading. Action took place in third quarter, and the pass was good for 26 yards.

Despite a great rush all afternoon by the Sachem defensive team which gave Reading's quarterback Bill Kelly little room to operate and contained Reading's running game, Kelly managed to get off two touchdown passes in the second quarter which, coupled with two great receptions on these plays, was enough margin to defeat Winchester. Reading scored another touchdown in the third quarter when Gino Serrechia picked a ball out of the air which popped up from Brian Collins' hands as it was being passed from center. The Reading tackle lumbered 25 yards to the goal line for his team's third touchdown. Reading added a safety in the fourth quarter to its point total to put the game out of reach.

Winchester scored first, in the second quarter on a pass, Collins to John Martin good for 27 yards. Dave DeTeso went over for the conversion to make the score 8-0 Winchester. That marked the end of Winchester's scoring.

Winchester kicked off to open the game, and the ball was carried to the Reading 43. A screen pass to Jackson for 6 and plunges for 1 and 6 gave Reading a first down on the Winchester 44. On the next play Dan McGee broke through to smear Kelly for a 4-yard loss. A pass broken up by McGee on the next play and another incomplete forward pass forced the Rockets to kick. Bob Nutile got 2, then picked up another 10 for first down on the Winchester 46. On the next play back George Folland recovered a fumble for Reading to take possession on the Winchester 40. After 2 plays got 3 yards, Kelly threw a pass to Kiley, who broke for the left sideline and got to the Winchester 14. Three plays took the ball to the 8, an incomplete pass and a penalty against Winchester put the ball on the Winchester 2. Read- fumbled on the next play and a swarm of Sachem players fell on the ball with McGee getting the biggest piece. After 2 plays got 2 yards, Collins kicked to the Reading 37. A play for no gain and a 5-yard penalty put the ball on the Reading 31. Tom Varley recovered a fumble on the Reading 29.

Nutile on a trap got 10 and first down to the 19. He added 7 and 1 to the Reading 11. Here the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

A play for no gain and a fumble which lost 5 yards gave the ball to Reading on downs. Two plays gained a yard, and a poor third-down kick gave the ball to Winchester on the Reading 25. Nutile made 3. The second play lost 5, then Collins threw a pass to Martin in the end zone for the touchdown. DeTeso went over for the conversion and Winchester was ahead 8-0.

Reading got the ball on its 45 on an onside kick. Ciarcia and Varley teamed up to throw Kelly for a 3-yard loss. Two plays gained 3 yards and Kelly kicked to the Winchester 22. Three plays got 4 yards and Collins kicked to the Reading 39. A pass, Kelly to Kiley, got 17. Another pass and a great shoestring catch by end George Watkins was good for another 14. Another to Watkins went for 10. Kelly then fired a pass to Watkins in the right corner of the end zone on which Watkins made another fine catch for the touchdown. A pass to Watkins was good for the conversion and the score was 8-8.

Winchester couldn't move the ball and Reading had it on its 28. Darryl Conte, Reading's fullback, on the longest run of the day, broke over right tackle, went to the sideline, and was pushed out on the Winchester 35. A pass to Watkins for 10 and then a pass to Bill Carroll in the end zone scored Reading's second touchdown. The conversion was no good, and the score was 14-8 Reading. Nutile made 13 on a pass reception one play before the half ended.

There was bruising play but little forward motion in the third quarter, other than a pass to Martin good for 26 yards and the ball Serrechia pulled out of the air for his touchdown run which made the score 20-6. Ken Doucette, Reading guard, pushed Collins into the end zone for a safety in the fourth quarter, making the score 22-6. Winchester went into a shotgun formation on the last two plays of the game. The first gained 26 yards on a pass to Martin, and the second pass was intercepted.

Skating For The Housewife

Physical fitness applies to everyone, including the housewife.

Every Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 12 noon, some 30 or more women are getting their exercise with a little fun thrown in attending the "ladies' skating program" being held in Hockeytown, U.S.A. in Melrose.

The program is under the direction of a qualified skating instructor. There are beginners as well as seasoned skaters and all are taught the basics of figure skating. Rosemarie Quinn of Lynn, a well known instructor as well as an official judge for the United States Figure Skating Association, is assisting in the program.

Anyone is welcome to attend the program, there are some openings for additional skaters if they wish to join.

On October 20 the Misfits took 6 from the Jaguars and the Saabs took six from the Mustangs.

Fran was high for the night again with a 281, Flaw second with a 274, and Norma and Stina tied for third place with a 263.

Barbara and Tut were really hot this week, and Stina should feel sick more often?

Flaw won the pool this week. Congratulations Flaw?

We all hope that Claire's ankle and Nellie's thumb will be better soon.

We have a new girl Jean MacDonald taking Barbara Haggerty's place. Welcome Jean!

The members of the VFW Bowling League are saddened to learn of the death of Susie Fiore and we wish to extend our deepest sympathy.

On October 27, the Misfits were fighting hard to keep their lead. They took 6 from the Seals Thursday night, and then the Jaguars took all 8 from the Mustangs. Now there is a three way tie for second place.

Rosie D. was high bowler for the night with a 289, second was Flaw with a 285, and Lib and Fran tied for third place with a 279.

Lucy and Rosie D. were hot this week. Tut really liked the holes, and Cappie's whole team tried harder.

Lib was especially good and her 113 string proved it. Welcome to the 100 club Lib.

Lucy won the pool.

Australians Win Ike Trophy, Palmer The Aussie Open; Kathy Wins Again

By Harry McGrath

Golf activities were really world wide for the past week.

In addition to the above results, Ted Makalena, a native Hawaiian, won the Hawaiian Open on the golf course where he learned to play golf.

At Mexico City where the Eisenhower Trophy, emblematic of the World Amateur Team Championship was played. The Australians came from behind to win their second world team title, having won the initial championship held at St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1958.

The United States team finished two strokes behind for second place, scoring a total of 879 to the Aussies 877.

The British team, thanks to a round of 68 by Ronnie Shade, the lowest of the tournament, finished third with 883, while the South African group wound up fourth with 884.

Shade, a Scot on the British team, won individual honors with 283 over the par 72 Club De Golf Mexico course. Patrick Cros of France was second with 290, while our Deane Beman tied with Giniro Nakabe of Japan, for third place.

It is interesting to note that only seven strokes separated the team winners from the fourth place South Africans.

The team totals represent the team's three low rounds each day, which means 12 rounds fir the four days.

The average score per round for the leading team was 73.08 while the fourth place team averaged 73.67.

The U. S. team averaged 73.25 for their scores, used in compiling the team scores.

I'd say the competition was very close.

There were teams from 32 countries—a real World's Championship.

While the Australian simonpures were winning the World's Amateur Team Matches, Arnold Palmer was adding the 1966 Australian Open Championship to his long list of laurels.

Arnie was really running away with the title with rounds of 67-70-66 and "slowed" down to a final round of 73 for a four round total of 276, which is 20 under par and five strokes ahead of the field.

Ken Nagle, the Australian who lost last year's U. S. Open to Gary Player in a playoff, was second, with his 281.

Imagine being 15 shots better than par and finishing second!

Roberto De Vincenzo, from the Argentine, was third with 284, and two Australians, five time British Open Champ, Peter Thompson and Bruce Devlin tied for fourth with 285.

At least the "home towners" had three of the first five finishers, small consolation!

Gary Player, the defending champion was tied for 7th win with 288.

In this country at Las Cruces, New Mexico, which is only about 30 miles from the Mexican border, Kathy Whitworth got back in the winning column by winning the Third Annual Las Cruces Womens Open.

Finishing with 214 for the 54 holes, Kathy added $1,350 to her official money winnings for 1966.

She led Marilyn Smith by six strokes and Micky Wright was tied for third with Carol Mann, each using 221 strokes for the three rounds. Marilyn won $1,090 and Micky and Carol each received $810.

Mickey was off to 77-76 and finished with a 68 the lowest of the tournament but it was too late. Kathy's rounds were 69-71-74.

It looks as though Miss Whitworth will be the 1966 leading money winner.

In Hawaii, where most of the touring pros played in the Hawaiian Open, Ted Makalena, described as part Hawaiian, won his home State Championship with rounds of 66-71-66-68-271, finishing three shots in front of Gay Brewer the defending champion and Billy Casper, each totaling 274 for their 72 holes.

The winner received $8,500, while Brewer and Casper each won $4,125.

Gene Littler, the Golf World Series winner was fourth, 276 and $3,150. Doug Sanders signed in with 278, good for $2,750.

Father-Daughter Team Directs Parish Players

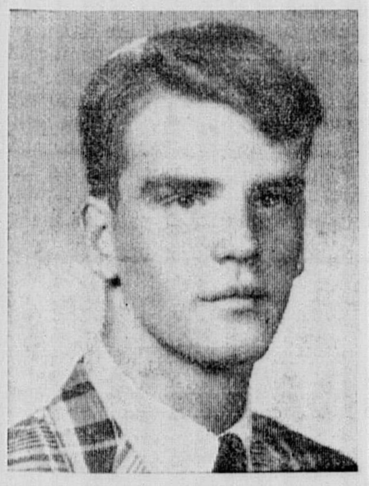
Glenne Grant, director of the Parish Players' fall production, "Ladies in Retirement," is carrying on a family tradition in more ways than one.

Like her father, Harlan Grant, Glenne is an actor, director, and teacher of theatrical arts. And this year, when circumstances compelled Harlan to relinquish his accustomed role as director at the Congregational Church drama group production, Glenne undertook the job.

Harlan, who lives at 22 Pierrepont Road, and who is chairman of the Drama Department at the Boston Conservatory of Music, has compiled an amazing record with the Players. From 1948 through 1965, he has directed 45 productions for the group. His first effort was with "Pygmalion" in 1948 and his most recent one was last year's "Giaconda Smile." Comedies, dramas, mysteries, and historical works all came to life under his touch. These are formidable footsteps to follow but Glenne's qualifications are impressive.

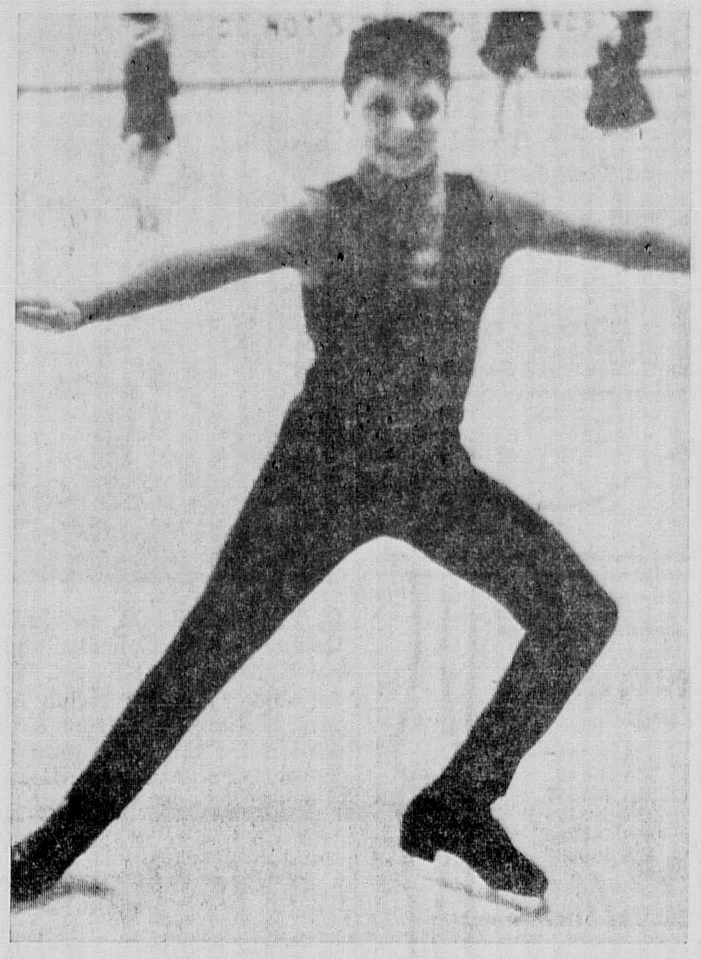
A graduate of the Boston Conservatory in Drama and Dance, Glenne has acquired experience in almost every phase of theater. She has directed adult and children's groups in Lynn, Lynnfield, Somerville, Newton, and Winchester. Behind the scenes she has had extensive experience as a stage manager and as wardrobe mistress. By her own admission, she has lost count of the number of roles she has played but she estimates, with a frown of concentration, "around 110."

"Ladies in Retirement" includes six female parts and four of the actresses filling these parts are no strangers to the Grant directorial technique. Nancy Dorsey, Sally Phaneuf, Julie Foskett, and Mary Mears have all appeared in one or more plays directed by Harlan for the Parish Players. They will be seen under Glenne's direction at Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church on November 17, 18, and 19. For reservations and tickets, call Ruth Albee at 729-5844.



STEPHEN ROBINSON WELLS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wells of 6 Hawthorne Road, recently enlisted in the U. S. Navy for four years and is currently undergoing recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois.

Open House At Hockeytown



DAVID BALTIN

The Commonwealth Figure Skating Club will pay homage to the late Maribel Vinson Owen of Winchester with an "Open House" to be held at Hockeytown, U.S.A. in Melrose, on Saturday, November 5, from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Skaters of all ages, beginners and seasoned skaters alike, and their parents, are cordially invited to skate and watch an exhibition given by the Commonwealth Club members. There is no charge for admission.

Mrs. Maribel Vinson Owen was well known in Winchester and throughout the skating world. She and her two daughters perished in the flight which also took the lives of the U.S. World Figure Skating team.

She directed the operation of the Commonwealth Figure Skating Club for many years, and some of the members now associated on the staff of the club were here pupils. It is in her name that an annual award is given to the club's outstanding skater of the year in the form of a trophy accompanied by a scholarship.

One of the purposes of the "Open House" is to acquaint the residents of the surrounding areas with the type of program offered by the Commonwealth Figure Skating Club.

In addition to public skating, a program of figure skating will be presented for all levels of skaters and an exhibition given by the Eastern Junior Mens Champion, David Baltin, who is the 1966 recipient of the Maribel Vinson Owen Award.

Children accompanied by an adult will be most welcome to attend.

Wee Sachems Over Belmont, 14-0

Keying in on Jeff Ashton and the threats of his sweeps, a well prepared Belmont team was stiff opposition for the Winchester football eleven.

Following the recent good wins of the Sachems, Belmont prepared itself with scouting reports and data on Winchester key plays.

The Junior Wee Sachems, however, turned their attention to another type of game to pressure the defense back to its normal positions. The counter-strategy proved most fruitful. Belmont was forced to draw its players in tight to stop the Winchester gains up the middle.

Due to the first rate blocking of the line by Richard Jacobs, Alex Phippen, Joe Martignetti, David Bower, Tim Duffy, Jeep Strain, Jay Lanigan, and Roger McGrath (as both end and wingback), and also to the tremendous drive and charges by running back Paul Tonello, as well as the hard to knockdown style of Robbie Ungaretti; Belmont eventually fell into the trap of protecting the middle and disregarding its earlier strategy. Quarterback Jacky Strain gave that deceptive fake to Robbie Ungaretti going into the line, pitched out to Jeff Ashton to give him clear sailing around the end. Speed and know-how for going wide just as fast as he can took Ashton down the side lines for the score. The play worked twice for Winchester, the last time with a fourth down and a foot to go for a first and ten.

Although you have to score to win, it is the defense upon which most games turn and those parents and fans who travelled to Belmont for the game were rewarded by this brand of exciting and gratifying defensive football.

The first period for the Junior Wee Sachems was not particularly to the coaches' likings, but in the second it was a different story. Suddenly Winchester's defense awoke and broke through blocks and tackled runners. Kerry Brough was vicious. He hit runners so hard that he often separated them from the ball. There were many good tackles that day. Phippen made a series of tackles that counted heavily in the strong defense of the Junior team. Brian Cullen in his quiet and unobtrusive way protected the middle. Joe Martignetti was and always has been a deadly leg tackler. The player who might go unnoticed from the sidelines, but who played an excellent game was Karl Mayer. He made good tackles, he assisted in stopping the end sweeps.

A satisfying phase of the game from the coaches' point of view was the fine play of the second team defense—as stingy in giving up yardage as the first team. This outfit played the best defensive game of the season. It is well to note their names. Richard Phillips played left end and backed up by his brother Michael, who played an excellent corner back position. Jacobs, Kevin Floyd, and Bower held up the middle with Bower making some fine tackles. In a number of those plays up the middle, Jeepy Strain could often be found at the bottom of the pile. David Magnusen was the outside lineback along with Paul Ceruolo. Chip Vick Roy held down the right end position, while Bob Tonello and Don Jackson protected on passes. The outstanding play of the second team defense was one of the highlights of the afternoon.

The Junior Wee Sachems were happy to have the additions of Bill Dexter and Ricky Ball. Neither could attend the early season tryouts, thus, they were picked up by the farm teams. With the completion of the farm team schedule, they graduated into the Winchester traveling squad. Receiving their firts taste of inter-town competition, they did admirably well.

The game was a good win for Winchester—they faced a rugged team and came out on top. The hard practicing during the week made the difference for the win. Football is a game of team work and coordination. If one part is out of kilter it effects the whole. Players must constantly practice working together. Football is not a game that when you achieve a stage of skill you never lose it. Continued practice is necessary, and for an even finer aim—perfection. But all is not work for the team. The departure to the ice cream parlor after a win is its lighter side.

Women Tennis Players Join Indoor League

GETTING READY to challenge such top teams as Longwood, TCC, Dedham Polo and Country Club, Cohasset and Lexington is a women's team forming at the Indoor Lawn Tennis Club on East Street. Conferring with John Koslowski, club manager, on their prospects are Nancy Quinn; Helen McCloskey and Mary Ann Patrick, co-captains; and Sue Sanborn. Mrs. McCloskey is from Arlington, but the others are Winchester players as are other contenders for the eight-woman team not in the photo: Lucy White, Lorraine Ingraham, Ginger Parsons, Pat Aylward, Glenn Lindgren, Pat Buros and Mary Lou Williams.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

On Wednesday, October 26th, the Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club sponsored a Charity Game for the benefit of the American Contract Bridge League Charity Foundation. In the past fifteen years, bridge players have contributed over two and one half million dollars in ACBL Charity Games. Since 1964, grants have been made by the Foundation to the American Cancer Society, Arthritis Foundation, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, National Tuberculosis Association, Child Welfare League of America, Salk Institute for Biological Studies, and the National Council for Homemaker Services.

Chairman Betty Anne Yeomans, Club member and bridge teacher of our adult education course, wishes to thank all those who contributed. She set forth a festive Hallowe'en refreshment table and also directed B section.

A section's nine tables, directed by Bob Haskell, played against an average of 84. Jock Olmstead, who has been winning regularly with various partners, was tops again, paired with guest John Levinson. High scorers in the scrambled Mitchell game were:

Jock Olmstead and and John Levinson	118½
Tina Lorris and Gerry Barrett	102
James Byrne and Sam Burwen	97½
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	95½
Guy Mingolelli and Carl Galante	89½
Paul Sanderson and David Littleton	88½
Peggy Sanderson and and John Reardon	87½
Clarence Woodward and James Curley	84½

There were nine tables in Section B with an average of 63. One of our charming steady players, Evelyn Blackler, with her partner Mary Campbell, came in first with a fine score of 83 points. The Mitchell game was scrambled to produce one list of top scorers.

Evelyn Blackler and Mary Campbell	83
Richard Smith and William Cunningham	81½
Howard Wittet and Leo Gonsalves	79½
Eileen Brennan and Leonora Carty	74½
Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Root	73½
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	73
Betty Anne Yeomans and Gerry Lawrence	69
Sally Lix and Adeline Mingolelli	67½
Martha Joslin and Carolyn Wittet	64½
Stephen Chiotellis and Peter Tritsch	63½

Board 12 in Section A (rotated for convenience) poses the perennial problem—"Do you bid game at three no trump or four of the major?"—spades in this case. What would be your verdict with the North-South hands? South is the dealer.

North
♠ Q 10 5
♥ K 8 4
♦ K J 10 5
♣ A 7 5

West
♠ K 8 3
♥ 10 7 3 2

♣ Q 9 8 3

South
♠ A J 7 6 4
♣ K J 6 4 2

There should be no question of game with an opening bid opposite an opening bid. South bids one spade, and North jumps to two no trump with the balanced thirteen points. The crucial bid is North's next one after South has bid three clubs. In my book, North should place top priority on giving information to his partner and bid three spades, which will be followed by four spades from South. But—at duplicate if you can make the same number of tricks in no trump as in a major suit, you get a top board for the extra ten points. So North has a temptation to take over the reins and say three no trump, which South passes, not knowing that North has a spade raise.

The board has played eight times, and the traveling score sheet shows opinion divided right down the middle with four spades played four times, making four, and no trump played four times by North, all going down. With the normal heart lead and an entry when the king of spades doesn't finesse, three no trump cannot be made.

Notice, however, that the no trump bid pays off if the spade finesse works, for then North-South can take their tricks without giving up control.

I'd still prefer to let my partner in on the auction and bid three spades as a second bid with the North hand. After all, South can bid three no trump if his shape suggests it.

JC-ettes Welcome An Area Chapter, Plan Jazz Nite

On Wednesday, October 26, the Winchester Jaycee-ettes met at the home of their president, Mrs. Edward T. Rodriguez.

Guest speaker for the evening was Joshua A. S. Young, State Street Bank and Trust, who explained the operation and advisability of trusts. A spirited discussion of trusts, insurance, and mutual funds followed Mr. Young's presentation.

Among guests present were president and secretary of the Stoneham Jaycee-ettes, a chapter recently organized with the help of the Winchester Extension Team.

During the business meeting committees were formed to supervise upcoming projects. Members will again assist in the Red Cross Bloodmobile, and in December will be working on their annual Jazz Nite.

Additional projects under consideration include a "winter sports equipment" bazaar and a wig raffle.

Members are looking forward to the November meeting when Mrs. Howard O. McMahon, executive director of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association will speak on the function and the needs of the Association.

Wellesley Tour For Interested Senior Girls

Interested Senior Class girls attending the high school or independent or parochial schools are invited to visit Wellesley College on Friday, November 11 to attend college classes, tour the campus and lunch in the dormitories with Wellesley students.

Arrangements may be made through Miss Constance Trickett at the high school Guidance Office, or by calling the Wellesley Acquaintanceship chairman, Mrs. Lane McGovern, 729-2661.

Cars will leave WHS at 9 a.m. and return by 2 p.m.

In addition to this trip, the Winchester Wellesley Club plans a tea during Christmas vacation for all interested high school students and Winchester girls now attending Wellesley. The Misses Susan Bradlee, Sally Hoyt, Sara Stillman, and Patricia Thuma are all members of the class of 1970 at Wellesley.

A tour for interested sophomores and juniors is planned for the spring.

Typewriter cleaner—fast, convenient, soft, chemically treated fibers pick up dirt, lint and ink from type. Perforated sheets. Priced at 98c at the Winchester Star.

Cong'l Women Host Guest Day

On Tuesday, November 8, the Mission Union Guild of the First Congregational Church will hold Guest Day with the women from other Winchester churches as guests.

A luncheon will be served at 12:45 p.m. by Mrs. Robert Hudson and her committee. Mrs. Clarence Dauber, president of the United Church Women, will speak on "Laity: Rights, Resources and Responsibilities."

Mrs. Dauber was president of the United Church Women of Greater Cleveland and active in many phases of church work there. Since coming to Boston in 1961, she has been state chairman of the Christian Social Relations Committee of the United Church Women and vice-president and active for the Boston Y.W.C.A., the League of Women Voters, and of the laity of the Massachusetts United Church of Christ.

The worship service will be led by Mrs. Robert Millican. All women of the church are invited, and baby sitting will be provided.

Italy's In-Season

Officials of the 10 largest cities in Italy, surrounding provinces and the two islands of Sicily and Sardinia have made plans which run through May 15, to help visitors take advantage of more than 600 hospitality services and invitations to a wide variety of special events, according to Alitalia Airlines.

"Italy's In-Season" has been compiled in a handy booklet, about the size of a credit card, which records invitations to almost 100 festivals and other special events; a welcome to visit with members of some 70 organizations and service clubs; a guided tour of almost 150 factories and workshops and to 14 major wineries; special privileges at some 30 hotels and restaurants; a tour of one of the major film studios in Rome; and, money-saving discounts on purchases in almost 300 of the finest shops and boutiques.

Pie-Attic Sale

Running from 10 a.m. Saturday morning and closing at 1 p.m. is a Pie and Attic Sale to be held at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church sponsored by its Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship.

For home tables, there'll be pies galore. For homes and gifts treasures of antiques and home accessories. Donors are asked to call 729-1851 before noon tomorrow.

"Fit to Be Tied" Presented to YPF

The Young People's Fellowship of the Church of the Epiphany will be presenting Dr. Donald McLean's well-known "Fit to be Tied" program during the month of November.

The series will consist of four meetings and will center around Christian young people and their attitudes toward friendship, dating, popularity, sex, and marriage.

The series will include the film Human Reproduction, a discussion titled "What does it mean to be popular?", a Corporate Communion breakfast followed by a question and answer period with local doctors, and a discussion led by the Reverend John J. Bishop called "Tying the Knot."

The discussions will be led by men and women who are experts in their fields and who are effective in working with young people.

Pamela Russo To Talk to Sitters

"The Control and Entertainment of Children" is the topic for tonight's meeting of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes' Baby Sitters' School.

Miss Pamela Russo, assistant director of the Beth El Nursery in Belmont, is to outline for sitters attitudes and activities which will make child care a pleasant experience for them and their charges.

Previously associated with Six Acre Nursery in Medford and a former first grade teacher at Medford's Curtis School, Miss Russo is a graduate of Lesley College and Perry Normal Kindergarten Teachers School.

Included in the discussion will be tips on handling children of various ages—providing activities of interest to them; dealing effectively with meal and bed time routines; understanding and responding to their needs.

Historical Society Offers Photo Trip Up Old Canal

The fall meeting of the Winchester Historical Society will be held on Saturday afternoon, November 12th at 2:30 p.m. in the Meeting Room (formerly Rich Room) of the Library. The speaker will be Fred Lawson, Jr., of Billerica and his subject will be "Rambling Along the Old Middlesex Canal."

Mr. Lawson will show us a priceless treasure-glass slides of the canal at the turn of the century. As historian of the Middlesex Canal Association and curator of their museum, Mr. Lawson will take us on a rambling trip from the Charles River to the Merrimac River, visiting some of the remnants of the old canal. The canal passed over the ground where the Palmer Street tennis courts are today. Just beyond Everett Avenue was the old tow path!

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend this interesting and colorful illustrated lecture.

Dognapping Cure

A letter written by Mrs. Stephen M. Edgell of 8 Sheffield West, appears in the October issue of Popular Dogs magazine, page twenty-three. It concerns the prevention of the prevalent crime of dognapping, and suggests never leaving a dog out of sight in a parked car and locked car, but goes on to advocate the installation of a burglar alarm. Such can be obtained for various prices, from one hundred dollars down to one discovered by the Editor of Popular Dogs for $27.95.

This type of alarm would help to prevent the vicious crime of pet stealing from cars, Mrs. Edgell commented. Many people have lost not only fine dogs, but extremely valuable show dogs as well, so constant vigilance is advisable both at home and while traveling, where your dog is concerned, she noted.

Girl Scouts Seek Leaders

Girl Scouts in the Sachem Neighborhood are off to a good start with most of the troops already meeting and planning their activities for the coming months.

However, there are no leaders available for the second grade Brownies at the Noonan School and at the Immaculate Conception School another Junior Girl Scout troop is needed.

No experience is necessary to be a leader, just a desire to work with girls and a willingness to give two or three hours a week to these children.

No new leaders means no new troops!

If you are interested in helping please contact Mrs. Richard Dutting, 729-2191.

"Impact" For Methodist Youth

Young people of both junior and senior high school age of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will be participating all next week in a program that has been given the title of "Impact."

The program will start this Sunday night and will carry on for eight nights ending Sunday November 13 at the First Methodist Church in Melrose. It is intended for all of the youth of the Methodist churches of Lynn District.

Each evening the young people will hear the Reverend William J. "Bill" Peckham of Nashville, Tennessee, National Minister to Youth for the entire Methodist Church, and who knows how to talk to the modern young people on their own level and in language they can understand. Questions and open discussions will be part of the program.

The Reverend Mr. Clay said from the pulpit of Crawford Memorial Church last Sunday, "I hope that not one young person of this church will miss these services. It could be a most important event in the lives of some of them. Parents, insist that they get school work done in the afternoon so they will be free to go at night. And please furnish transportation as needed also."

Miss Janis Stepper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Stepper of 161 Forest Street, and a senior at Endicott Junior College in Beverly, received her Phi Theta Kappa key recently. She was pledged to the fraternity last May and serves as treasurer of this national honor fraternity for junior colleges. Miss Stepper is majoring in secretarial science.

Winchester B. C. Annual Meeting

On Friday, October 21, the Winchester Boat Club held its annual meeting following a catred chowder supper. The reports of the treasurer and secretary were presented and accepted as read. Following this, Richard R. Thuma, Jr., chairman of the budget committee, presented charts showing expenditures for 1966 by each committee and that proposed for 1967.

Mr. Ralph M. Swanson, chairman of the planning committee, spoke of the work that needed to be done to the foundation and sills of the clubhouse, which are badly in need of repair. Coupled with this, he proposed a rearrangement and improvement of the first floor area. He was assisted by Mr. Edward J. Tedesco of Edward J. Tedesco Associates, Architects, who had surveyed the club and drawn up the proposed first floor plan. No action was taken on this item as it will be the subject of a special meeting later this year.

Many special trophies are awarded each year at the annual meeting to various members for outstanding service or performance and this year was no exception. The awards were as follows:

Shu-Shu-Gah Trophy—Proficiency in Watermanship, Charles Hill, Jr.; George B. Field Trophy—Best showing at Marblehead Race Week, Sherry Garrity; Sidney H. Burr Trophy—Greatest Improvement in Sailing, Margaret Law; James A. Newman Trophy—Sportsmanship, Tony Nevin; William L. Hall Trophy—Outstanding Service to the Club over the Years, Walter Y. Josephson.

A slate of officers and directors for 1967 was presented to the membership by the Nominating Committee Chairman, Walter Y. Josephson. Elected to serve for 1967 were: Commodore, Thomas Raphael; Vice Commodore, Richard R. Thuma, Jr.; Rear Commodore, Richard M. Patrick; Secretary, Everett D. Littlefield; Treasurer, Stanley R. Gardiner; Directors, Vincent T. Berger, John R. Blakely, Walter Cronburg, John H. Ivers, Walter Y. Josephson, Richard T. Nelson, Paul Planchet, Edward L. Quinn, Edward S. Shanley and Ralph M. Swanson.

The newly elected Commodore then presented to Vincent T. Berger, retiring Commodore, a large Paul Revere bowl from the officers and directors in recognition of his service to the Club as Commodore, the Commodore's flag flown at the Club whenever Mr. Berger was present, and a Past Commodore's flag.

Mrs. Edward Schlener and Mrs. Dennis Heindel headed the committee of WHS mothers who provided and served the refreshments at the very successful annual High School Open House evening held recently.

KATHLEEN M. O'DONNELL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O'Donnell of 277 Washington Street, a member of the senior class at Aquinas School, Newton is enrolled in the medical secretarial course there. She is a 1965 graduate of Arlington Catholic High School.

Rev. Bishop Will Speak To Epiphany Women

Next Tuesday, November 8th, is the first general meeting of the Women of Epiphany.

Luncheon will be served at 12:45 p.m.; it is not necessary to make a reservation. Following the luncheon the Reverend John J. Bishop, rector of Epiphany, will give an interesting and thought-provoking talk. In addition, some of the articles from the Abbey Fair will be on display, to look at, to admire, and to buy! If anyone missed the Fair, now is their chance to begin shopping for the holiday season.

SPECIAL VOTING INSTRUCTIONS

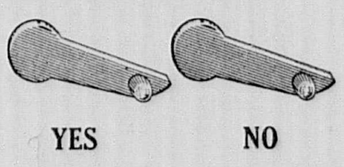
Question No. 1

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held June 11, 1963, received 228 votes in the affirmative and 29 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 5, 1965, received 225 votes in the affirmative and 24 in the negative?

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment provides that at state elections candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor shall be grouped on the official ballot according to the party that they represent and that it shall not be possible to vote for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor except as a partisan group.



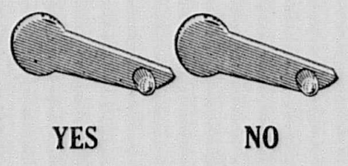
Question No. 2

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 16, 1963, received 169 votes in the affirmative and 100 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 5, 1965, received 200 votes in the affirmative and 61 in the negative?

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment provides that the Governor, for the purpose of making certain structural changes in the executive department, may from time to time prepare reorganization plans to be presented to the General Court. If the General Court fails to disapprove a reorganization plan within sixty days of its presentation and has not prorogued by the end of such sixty days, the plan at that time shall have the force of law.



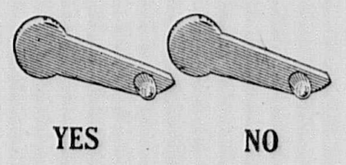
Question No. 3

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held June 11, 1963, received 232 votes in the affirmative and 18 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 19, 1965, received 159 votes in the affirmative and 91 in the negative?

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment authorizes the Commonwealth and the cities and towns therein to provide for municipal industrial development in such manner as the General Court may determine.



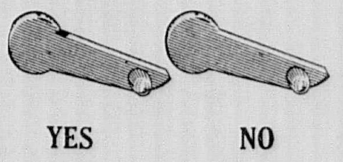
Question No. 4

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION

Do you approve of the adoption of an amendment to the constitution summarized below which was approved by the General Court in a joint session of the two branches held July 16, 1963, received 208 votes in the affirmative and 43 in the negative, and in a joint session of the two branches held May 19, 1965, received 219 votes in the affirmative and 39 in the negative?

SUMMARY

The proposed amendment confers considerable authority upon cities and towns with respect to the conduct of municipal government, including the authority to adopt, repeal and amend city and town charters and, in accordance therewith, local ordinances and by-laws. The General Court retains general power to act in relation to cities and towns and classes thereof and, in some circumstances, to enact special laws regarding a particular municipality, including laws for its incorporation, dissolution or merger. Cities and towns are not empowered to act with respect to general elections, taxation, pledges of credit, dispositions of park land, general civil relationships, the punishment of felonies, or the imposition of imprisonment except as the General Court may lawfully confer such powers upon them.



Question No. 5

LAW SUBMITTED UPON REFERENDUM AFTER PASSAGE

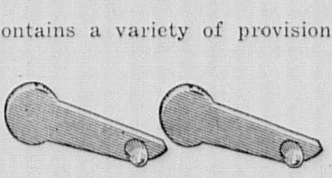
Do you approve of a law summarized below, which was approved in the House of Representatives by a vote of 118 in the affirmative and 102 in the negative and was approved in the Senate by a vote of 21 in the affirmative and 16 in the negative?

The Act imposes a temporary tax upon all retail sales of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the selling price. Sales of certain items are exempted from the tax, including but not limited to sales of food products for human use, articles of clothing, prescription medicines, agricultural machinery and certain publications. The statute contains specific provisions relating to the registration of vendors, the filing of returns and the payment of the amounts collected by such vendors. Vendors may apply to the State Tax Commission for abatements of the amounts owed where they believe such amounts to be excessive, and decisions of the Commission on such applications may be reviewed by the Appellate Tax Board. The Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation shall have the usual powers and remedies provided for tax collection for the collection of the taxes imposed by this section. The State Tax Commission shall issue regulations necessary for proper administration and enforcement of the section.

The Act further imposes a temporary excise upon the storage, use or other consumption in Massachusetts of tangible personal property at the rate of three per cent of the sales price of such property. Sales upon which the retail sales tax described above has been imposed, or which are exempt from the retail sales tax, shall be exempt from the use tax. Sales upon which a tax has been paid in another jurisdiction shall also be exempt. Assessment, abatement and collection of the use tax shall be governed by the provisions which relate to the tax upon retail sales. The tax upon retail sales and the excise upon storage, use or other consumption shall be effective during the period from April 1, 1966, to December 31, 1967.

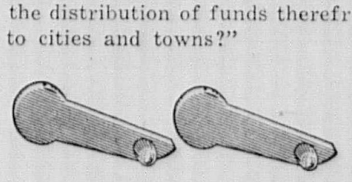
Each qualified taxpayer shall be entitled to a credit of four dollars for himself, four dollars for his spouse and eight dollars for each qualified dependent, but such credit shall not be allowed if the taxable income of such individual and his spouse exceeds five thousand dollars for the year. In addition to the taxes described above, the Act provides for new excises upon certain banks; new taxes upon the income of certain corporations; new taxes upon cigarettes; a room occupancy excise upon rent paid for the use of hotel rooms and other lodging places; and excises upon sales of certain alcoholic beverages.

The Act creates the Local Aid Fund for the purpose of providing educational assistance, and authorizes the periodic distribution of amounts from such Fund to the cities and towns. In addition, the Act contains a variety of provisions relating to the program of State aid to public schools, and to its administration.



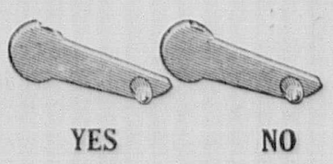
Question No. 6

Do you approve of an act passed by the General Court in the year nineteen hundred and sixty-six, entitled "An Act imposing a temporary tax on retail sales, and a temporary excise upon the storage, use or other consumption, of certain tangible personal property, revising and imposing certain other taxes and excises, establishing the Local Aid Fund, and providing for the distribution of funds therefrom to cities and towns?"

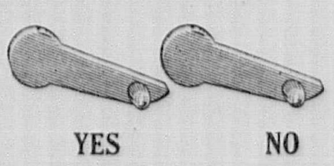


Question No. 7

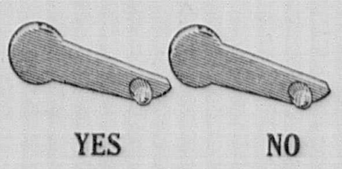
A. Shall licenses be granted in this city (or town) for the sale therein of all alcoholic beverages, (whisky, rum, gin, malt beverages, wines and all other alcoholic beverages)?



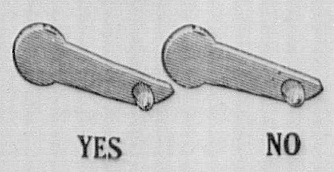
B. Shall licenses be granted in this city (or town) for the sale therein of wines and malt beverages (wines and beer, ale and all other malt beverages)?



C. Shall licenses be granted in this city (or town) for the sale therein of all alcoholic beverages in packages, so called, not to be drunk on the premises?



D. Shall licenses be granted in this city (or town) for the sale of all alcoholic beverages by hotels having a dining room capacity of not less than ninety-nine persons and lodging capacity of not less than fifty rooms?



The seven questions listed will appear on the voting machines on Election Day, November 8, 1966. All voters are urged to study these questions before Election Day, so that no delays will occur at the polling booths. Clip this section out, indicate on it how you wish to vote on the questions, take it to the polls with you and vote accordingly. Remember, these questions appear above the candidates' list.

Please make an effort to vote during the morning and afternoon when the polls are least crowded. In 1964, 5020 persons voted between 4:00 and 7:00 P.M.

Elementary Students To Be Redistributed By School Committee

The traditional concept of neighborhood schools and school districts was bypassed Monday night when the School Committee adopted a completely new elementary school deployed enrollment program through the means of a specially designed redistribution schedule.

While not throwing away the idea of neighborhood schools and school areas, the School Committee, faced with the problem of overcrowding and a need to equalize pupil-teacher-space ratios among the elementary schools, chose to adopt a method of across-the-board redistribution of pupils to relate schoolroom capacities rather than having to gerrymander all seven present school districts and create a new one for the now under construction Tufts Road School.

The newly appointed principal of the Tufts Road Elementary School, Richard Young, presented to the School Committee a chart containing an analysis of the planned redistribution of students, school by school and grade by grade.

The redistribution formula would attempt to achieve the following enrollments in September, 1967: Parkhurst (335); Vinson-Owen (346); Lincoln (304); Washington (331); Noonan (258); Mystic (340); Wyman (328); Lynch, 3 classrooms (80); and Tufts Road (542).

The numbers of pupils to be enrolled in each school were determined by consideration of several factors:

1. The School Committee's intent to improve on or develop "instructional material centers" in all the elementary schools starting in September, 1967. IMC's are either established or being developed at Vinson-Owen, Parkhurst, Wyman and Tufts Schools; new ones will be added at Lincoln, Washington, Mystic and Noonan.

2. The School Committee's aim to keep grades 1-6 in all schools.

3. The School Committee's desire to have two teachers for two classes in each grade at each school, wherever possible.

4. A leveling of convenience/inconvenience by involving transportation from all grade levels.

5. Transportation destinations to include Tufts, Lynch and Vinson-Owen only.

6. A pupil-teacher ratio of 22 or 23 to one in classrooms under 700 square feet.

7. A pupil-teacher ratio of 26 or 27 to one in classrooms over 700 square feet.

The redistribution schedule presented to the committee recommended the following bussing and walking pupil transferrals:

To be bussed from Mystic to Tufts, 115 students ranging from Kindergarten through Sixth Grade.

Junior High's Rec Club Too Big For Hall

Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney announced this week that the Friday night junior high "Rec Clubs" are proving so popular that in future weeks they will have to be subdivided according to grades for the McCall auditorium to handle them.

Noting that over 600 youths in grades 7 through 9 attended last Friday's Rec Club, Mr. Spinney said this Friday's junior Rec Club will have to be for 7th graders only, form 7 o'clock to 9:45 p.m.

Next week, November 18, will be for 8th graders only; and after that on November 25 for 9th graders only.

Snow Sculptures, Winter Carnival Novel Plan Here

Snow sculptures standing on a decoratively lit Common, a public hockey and basketball game, a big winter dance with the crowning of a local carnival queen, all these and more are developing if plans being initiated by Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney engenders sufficient community interest and support.

Today, Mr. Spinney was scheduled to meet with the High School's Student Council to explain some of the plans he has in mind for a Town Winter Carnival, and to listen to student ideas and suggestions on how to make the potential winter event a fun occasion for the town's teenagers.

Mr. Spinney recently met with the active local Junior Chamber of Commerce, and won enthusiastic support and offers for Jaycee conjunctive assistance in managing such a large community-wide venture.

The proposed Winter Carnival dates would be from December 27 to the 30th, and would feature events and things to do for most age groups, but would be especially attractive to the youth of the town.

Federal Water Pollution Help To Industries?

"Should the Federal Government offer financial incentives to private industries to reduce their water pollution?" This is the question which will be discussed at the November unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Winchester.

The League has an outstanding position as an authority on water pollution and has had an important part in influencing legislation. Items on water resources have been on the League of Women Voters national program since 1956. The League believes in long-range planning and development of water resources and has worked actively for passage of most of the present water pollution control legislation.

The establishment of interstate stream standards, as required by the Water Quality Act of 1965 raises the question of what to do about polluting industries.

Mrs. Williams Is March of Dimes' Local Chairman

Mrs. John Williams of 18 Mystic Avenue has accepted the position of Mother's March chairman for the 1967 campaign in Winchester.

"We are proud to have Mrs. Williams on our team this year," said John V. Harvey, Register of Probate of Middlesex County and 1967 state March of Dimes chairman, "for in heading-up the team of the people of Winchester, Mrs. Williams will be joining tens of thousands of volunteers across the Massachusetts Bay Chapter area with one aim in mind "Beat Birth Defects."

"We are coming closer and closer to this goal every year through the generosity of the people of Winchester and of the people of the other sixty cities and towns in the Massachusetts Bay Chapter," he said. "Two birth defects centers are being maintained in Boston whereby doctors from all the major medical colleges are being taught how to deal with this tragedy. Research grants are being given to our finest scientists thanks to the help of the people of Winchester and patients are being cared for." he added.

"We know that 80% of all birth defects can be treated. We must rely on Mrs. Williams and the people of Winchester to help us treat these victims. We know we can count on their generosity." Mr. Harvey said.

Four Named To Boston C. of C.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce this week named four Winchester men to be members of its State Affairs committee.

They are Clinton W. Bennett of 10 Everell Road, senior partner of Cooley and Marvin, certified public accountants and management consultants; Willard S. Hatch of 25 Grove Street, vice president-treasurer of C.H. Sprague and Son Company; Laurence W. Lougee of 7 Cliff Street, vice president, counsel of the National Shawmut Bank and William J. Speers Jr. of 2 Fernway, partner in law with Warner, Stackpole, Stetson and Bradlee.

With other committee members these men will deal with the broad issues on Beacon Hill, specifically taxation and fiscal affairs, governmental organization and reform, and business regulations. The committee jointly reviews the progress of the most important legislation and purposes policy as well as techniques to the Board of Directors.

Volpes Leaving For Europe On Post-Campaign Vacation Rest

John Anthony and Jennie (Benedetto) Volpe, Winchester's first citizens and occupants of the gracious, mansion-like home at 10 Everett Avenue, on Saturday start a trip which will take them back to the little towns in Italy from which John's family moved to Massachusetts and where Jennie herself was born.

The trip has been planned for some time, win or lose in the gubernatorial election. It should have an extra sweetness due to the extent of the win however, and it should be ideal as a way of recuperating from the long, hard campaign grind and of preparing the couple for the New England winter ahead.

They fly Saturday from Logan airport heading for the island of Madeira for their first stop.

Thence they go on to Lisbon and from there to Rome. From Rome the Volpes will start out into the country heading for the mountainous East coast of Italy and specifically the little town of Taranco, not far from Naples.

They have been here before and there are in fact very few close relatives left in the area. But they are fond of the section and delight in returning.

After a sojourn there the first couple of the State will fly to Greece and end their three week vacation criss-crossing this beautiful peninsula.

Part of the special meaning of the little towns in the Italian mountains for Jennie and John Volpe is that their common background there was what brought them together.

Mrs. Volpe was born Jennie Benedetto, one of what was to be a family of eight children. Her birth came several months after her father had left Italy for America. And not until two years later, when he had saved enough money to send for his wife and baby daughter, did she and her stout-hearted mother start out for Wakefield, where he had chosen to settle.

John Volpe was born in Wakefield 57 years ago, but his family had come from the same part of Italy as the Benedettos and they developed close ties in the Italian community of Wakefield.

She reports that the Governor first caught her eye when nearly 20 and a fine figure of a drummer in the Verdi Band of Malden, a group he travelled and played with often (he also played guitar and was as in demand for his talent as his modern teen-age counterparts).

Volpe Wins By A Record Vote

Republican Victories Sweep Democratic State

Volpe Is First 4-Year Governor In 46 Years

Winchester voters swarmed to the polls Tuesday in record off-year election numbers to mark their ballots for the candidates and issues of choice in what developed across the state as a very large response from the Commonwealth's citizenry to have a say in the state's future administration and policies.

Brooke 1st Mass. Negro Senator; Voters' Choice

The last precinct to have its votes counted was Precinct Four, reporting tallies at 12:20 Wednesday morning. Final Winchester returns were completed at 1:45 a.m.

The records show that 9,226 of Winchester's 11,189 registered voters turned out to vote—a high 82.5% voter participation.

Ron MacKenzie Triumphs Over Long in Woburn

Sales Tax OK'd 4-1 By People

By the time local returns were finished, however, the outcome of the election was fairly determined, and Winchester's Governor Volpe was already known to have overwhelmingly swept the state for re-election to a third term as Governor of the Commonwealth—the second Governor to serve three terms (the only other Governor serving three terms was Leverett Saltonstall), and the first to win the new four-year term.

The Governor's smashing victory at the polls this week was by far the biggest triumph of his political career, and showed a resounding "vote of confidence" in the Governor and his administration from the state's citizenry.

Winning re-election to his second term in office in part on a platform policy of the need for responsible state fiscal and tax reform, the Governor conducted what developed into a 14 month battle with the Democratic entrenched Legislature and an extensive public education campaign before achieving an unpopular but primary issue new sales tax. Many political observers credited this victory and its positive and beneficial results with increasing the Governor's stature among the taxpaying voters—and will, many observers speculate lead to more fiscal and tax reform improvements.

In other major statewide contests, Winchester voters tended to vote the same way the majority of voters across the state did in voting heavily Republican, with a few Democratic candidate's exceptions, and approving most of the important referenda questions—with the exception of sales and distribution of liquor locally, which, traditionally, has been rejected by the local homeowners.

Other Fronts

The fighting fields of Viet Nam isn't really all that far removed from the Massachusetts political front or hometown Winchester.

Second Lieutenant Gerald S. Lucey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lucey of 26 Arthur Street, sent from Viet Nam a $10 contribution to Governor John A. Volpe to use in his reelection campaign.

Lt. Lucey's overseas address is First Logistical Command (PEC), APO, San Francisco, California.)

Veteran's Day Honor Parade Here Tomorrow

The annual Veteran's Day parade is scheduled to leave the Legion Hall on Vine Street tomorrow at approximately 10:30 a.m.

Members of the Veteran's Day Committee remind the public that it is invited to participate in the national commemoration in honor of the men and women who served their nation in wartime by attending the ceremonies and the parade.

The parade will go first to the War Memorial at the corner of Main Street and Mystic Valley Parkway, thence to the Town Hall Memorial.

Under the auspices of the local veterans' organizations, the American Legion Post 97 and Veterans of Foreign Wars, 3719, the parade invites the active participation of all veterans. Uniforms are preferable but optional.

Distant Xmas Mailing Must Be Sent Early

While Christmas may be a little over six weeks away, residents wishing to get Xmas cards and gifts to friends and relatives overseas have got to do their shopping and mailing soon in order to insure a Christmas arrival.

Xmas parcels and greeting cards should be mailed by Monday, November 14, for surface transportation to armed forces personnel overseas; and by December 1-10 for airmail communications and gifts.

Gift parcels weighing not more than five pounds and measuring not more than 60 inches in length and girth combined and addressed to members of the armed forces in Vietnam will be provided air-lift service from San Francisco, even though prepaid at the surface rate.

Mailers have also been urged by the Post Office to send gift parcels and cards for distant States before December 5 to guarantee a Christmas delivery: regional and local destination pieces should be sent no later than December 14.

All articles should be packed in boxes of wood, metal, solid fiberboard, or strong double faced corrugated fiberboard. All fiberboard boxes should be securely wrapped in heavy paper which materially strengthens the package.

Each box should be well tied with strong cord. Sufficient cushioning material should be used to prevent any rattling or loosening of articles within the package.

UNICEF Cards On Sale Next Week

The Woman's Alliance of the Winchester Unitarian Society is heading the project of selling Christmas cards and calendars for UNICEF at the Post Office again this year.

Betty Wilde is the chairman and has announced that the project has been expanded to three weeks this year instead of two. Women from other denominations are helping to man the booth which will be open every day except Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. November 14 through December 3.

The women work in two hour shifts and the expanded responsibility for this worthy cause is becoming a town-wide project. If anyone can spare a couple of hours, call Betty at 729-2344. The children of the world will thank you.

Is The Aberjona River Being Polluted?

It was a pretty sight to see, if you could call billowing layers of soap suds piling up higher and higher by the churning action of the river's waterfall in the center of town, a fascinating sight, but it wasn't pretty to think about what it was doing to the once beautiful Aberjona. It was being polluted.

Conservationist-minded citizens were quick to point out last Thursday and Friday when the occasion developed that there was a perfect visual example of how the Aberjona has been being polluted over these past years.

"You just couldn't see it happening before," summed up many comments heard in the square by those who showed concern over the incident.

One teenager leaning over the Converse Bridge commented sagely: "Now you know what's polluting our river."

Health Director Michael D. Saraco investigated the occurrence and reported that he could find no evidence of similar detergent activity further up the Aberjona toward Woburn, and in inquiring at the New England Laundry, located on the banks of the Aberjona by Mill Pond in the Center, he was told nothing had been put into the river from the laundry.

The thesis that it was probably someone's idea of a prank by dumping some detergent over the bridge and into the falls was propounded by some; but other more thoughtful citizens declined to pass it off so lightly, noting that regardless of whether the source of the pollution was industrial/commercial or an individual, the end result of pollution was the same.

Jason Cortell, a biologist for the MDC, affirmed that the "interesting sight" was a graphic illustration of how the Aberjona River has been neglected.

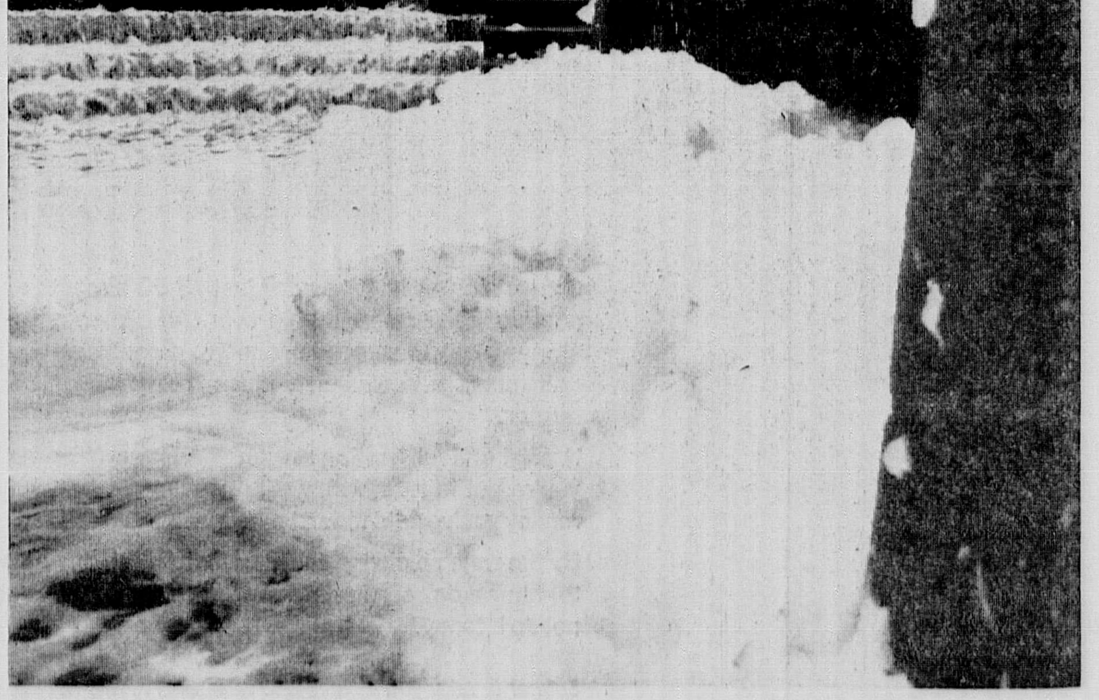
Critical of Winchester's role.. or lack of a role through neglect —in contributing to the present condition of the Aberjona, Mr. Cortell stated "It is difficult for me to think of any watershed in this area (of northern Greater Boston) that has been more neglected."

Mr. Cortell emphasized that "in this day and age when there are so many methods and techniques for maintaining and improving waterways to prevent pollution, there is no excuse for it."

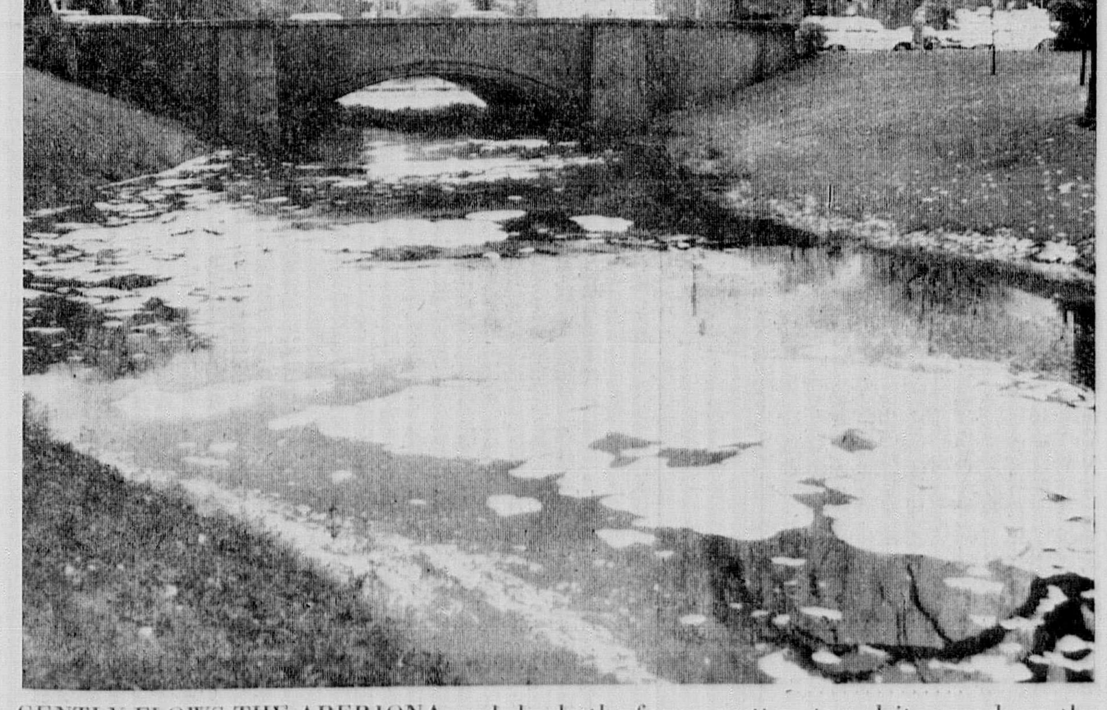
To the point that Winchester's Park Department had been engaged in dredging portions of the Aberjona over the past few years in response to Board of Health and citizen lobbying, Mr. Cortell responded that there was no overall planning management of the once beautiful waterway, and that the dredging was a mere token effort to prevent the problem of the deteriorating waterway from becoming a town disgrace.

He noted further that in the town's own interests in terms of its public health, watershed management, park planning and conservation, it cannot afford to continue what he called "civic neglect."

The sight of the bubbly detergent seemingly playing artistic games with the water at the falls by the easterly side of the bridge was contrasted by the sight of the detergent flowing down the Aberjona in packets of gobs appearing almost like little icebergs. From there the detergent began playing a different game, a chemical reaction process leading to pollution somewhere along the once pretty Aberjona River.



SUDSY BILLOWS churning up at the small falls by Converse Bridge on Main Street became a sight of interest to passers-by last Thursday and Friday; it also became a topic of conversation as to the state of pollution of the Aberjona River. At one point, wind whipped the foamy matter up over the bridge and onto windshields of passing autos, startling drivers and obstructing their vision.



GENTLY FLOWS THE ABERJONA, and slowly the foamy matter steered its way down the river, headed toward Mystic Lakes. Some residents registered concern that when the reported detergent began to break up it might affect living organisms and become a source of air pollution with bad odors. Local conservationists termed the occasion a good visual example of pollution, often not seen.

Arrangements For Holidays Given By Estates Club

Women who enjoy creating unique floral arrangements will be interested in an evening planned by the Winchester Estates Garden Club.

On Monday, November 14, at 8:15 p.m. in St. Eulalia's Parish Hall the club will present an evening of "Holiday Flower Arrangements."

The Messrs. Phillip D'errico and Bill De Mattia will demonstrate new ideas for Thanksgiving and Christmas beauty in decorating with fresh flowers.

Mr. D'errico owner of Cummings The Florist in Woburn and D'errico, McGlynn Flowers in Medford is well known in his field having taught flower arranging at Medford High School. He is also president of the Floral Telegraph Delivery Service. Mr. De Mattia is a graduate of the Mass. School of Art and recently was a winner of the Eastern Mass. F.T.D. design contest.

Refreshments will be served and a floral arrangement will be given away.

Tickets are available from club members or by contacting Mrs. Stephen Butcher at 729-2566. It is also possible to make table reservations for 8 or 10.

Ellis W. Harlow

Ellis W. Harlow, a former resident of Highland Avenue, died suddenly on Friday, October 28, in Chico, California, where he had resided for only three weeks.

Mr. Harlow was retired from his position with the Massachusetts Dental Prosthetics Incorporated, to which he had sold the dental laboratory owned and operated by him for 40 years. He had been known as the dean of dental laboratory industry in this area.

Mr. Harlow was born in Sable River, West Nova Scotia on September 3, 1885. He was the husband of Winifred C. Harlow and the father of two daughters, Mrs. Aileen Tirey of New Hampshire and Mrs. Dorothy Tuttle of Weston. He is survived also by two brothers, Loran and Thomas of Sable River, West Nova Scotia; by a stepson, Charles Johnson of Chico, California; a step daughter, Mrs. Jo Anne Miller of Chicago and by seven grandchildren.

Mr. Harlow was an active Mason belonging to the Mystic Valley Lodge here, the Royal Arch Chapter in Watertown, the Boston Commandery, Number 2 and the Aleppo Temple. The Mystic Valley Lodge conducted memorial services at the Rockwell Funeral Home in Watertown on Saturday morning, November 5. Interment was in Ridgelawn Cemetery in Watertown.

Mrs. Lucy H. (Hatfield) Ogden

Mrs. Lucy H. (Hatfield) Ogden, 84, widow of Edmund W. Ogden and a resident here at 1 Orient Street for 15 years, died in the Emery Nursing Home in West Medford on Monday, November 7, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Ogden was the mother of Mrs. Lucy Carroll of Winchester, of Mrs. Elvira Young of Chevy Chase, Maryland, Mrs. Bertha Davis of Austin, Texas, and of Roger H. Ogden of Lafayette, Louisiana. She is also survived by nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Memorial services will be held in the Meyer Chapel of the Unitarian Church this afternoon, November 10, at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Holderness, N.H. In lieu of flowers, donations in her memory may be made to the Winchester Unitarian Church.

Mrs. Felicita (Colucci) Ficociello

A solemn high Mass was sung on Friday morning, November 4 at Saint Mary's Church for Mrs. Felicita (Colucci) Ficociello, 93, a resident here for 60 years who died on Wednesday, November 2 in a nursing home in Wakefield after a long illness.

The Mass followed a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and interment was in Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

Mrs. Ficociello, who was born in Italy on August 5, 1873, had lived here at 71 Swanton Street and was the wife of the late Pasquale Ficociello. She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Carl Gee Richmond

The Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiated at funeral services on Tuesday afternoon in the First Congregational Church for Carl Gee Richmond, 78, husband of Helen (Atkins) Richmond, who died in the Chelsea Hospital on Sunday, November 6, after a brief illness.

Mr. Richmond, a resident since 1945, recently at 1 Herrick Street and formerly on Grove Street, was the father of four sons, Nelson C. of Guilford, Conn., Richard A. of Kailua, Hawaii, John Q. of Manhasset, Long Island, and Charles S. of Harwinton, Conn. He is also survived by a brother, Myron C. of Stoneham, by four grandchildren and by one great-grandchild.

Born in Peabody on June 25, 1888, the son of Charles S. and Carrie Ella (Gee) Richmond, natives of Greene, Maine, and Unity, N. H., respectively, he grew up in this area and attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he was awarded the bachelor of science degree in 1911.

The flag on the Common was at half-mast for Mr. Richmond this week. He was a retired colonel in the U. S. Army, having served his country in both World Wars I and II. In 1945 the office of the Provost Marshal General awarded him the Legion of Merit for wartime service.

Mr. Richmond had been a special representative with the Boston Manufacturers Mutual Fire Insurance Company, from which he retired in 1953. He was a Registered Professional Engineer, a life member of the Society of American Military Engineers, the Retired Officers Association and the Star of Bethlehem Lodge, A.F. and A.M., in Chelsea as well as the Aleppo Temple of Boston.

Mr. Richmond was buried in Glenwood Cemetery in Everett.

Arthur F. Sawyer

Private services are being held today in the Barber and Lamer Funeral Chapel in Montpelier, Vermont, for Arthur F. Sawyer, 94, a former resident here who had been in Montpelier for several years.

Mr. Sawyer died on Tuesday, November 8, after a lingering illness. He was born in Salem on November 6, 1973, and had grown up there, attending the Salem schools.

In Winchester he was a member of the Congregational Church and in Melrose a life member and past exalted ruler of the Melrose Lodge of Elks.

He was the husband of the late Nellie S. (Page) Sawyer. He is survived by a son, Albert K. of Montpelier; by a daughter, Mrs. E. Eugene Umland of San Mateo, Calif.; and by two grandchildren.

Editorials:

Interesting Election

There was nothing really "off" in this off-year election, unless you start evaluating the results, because citizen voter participation was very high —82.5% locally and similarly high elsewhere across the state and nation, and even topping Presidential Election years' voting in some places; candidate campaigning for gubernatorial, senatorial and representative posts in this state and in many states was very vigorous—to the extent that national party figures travelled the country lending support to hotly contested candidates; and issues of national import which affected the peoples of the states emerged as an area of valuable consideration in judging not only the candidates themselves, but also their philosophical positions and how it would affect their administration of holding governmental posts.

In view of the above, this could not then be called in itself an "off" year election. But the profound results emanating from the election(s) might certainly be considered "off" expectancy.

Here in heavily Democratic Massachusetts, the voters overwhelmingly supported Republican candidates practically from the top of the slate to the bottom, even with Democratic campaign pleas of "unity," and gave Republican Governor Volpe his most triumphant victory and voted to put in office Republican Senator-elect Brooks, the first Negro Senator of this century and the first from Massachusetts.

Elsewhere across the nation, other Republicans who campaigned and fought vigorously with new and independent ideas scored giant political wins —such as Percy against veteran Douglas; and Reagan against incumbent Brown—which must, when viewed in total perspective, make many Republicans look at their party's potentialities with new admiration and hope for a stronger (either minority or majority) political position.

And, at the same time, it must force top-level Democrats to look anew at their party's administration(s)—for with a strong and widely based organization, and with a majority voter headstart, it must appear strange to responsible Democrats to see such "off" expectancy results as this week's elections have shown.

Sweeping Victory

Winchester's voters helped make John A. Volpe a home town hero again with a nearly five-to-one endorsement Tuesday.

Other victories have been in turn more surprising and more exciting.

None has held more of the quality of admiration for a job well done.

A year ago Governor Volpe put on his fighting Irish verbal armor and did battle for the unpopular idea of adding a State tax to products consumed by constituents throughout the State. In April many a purchaser heard cash register attendants chime, 79c for the purchase and 3c for Governor Volpe." The majority party legislators were by no means the only ones who wanted to be divorced from this nagging necessity, the sales tax.

But like a large family of children who finally grow up to see why dad did what he did for their own good, Massachusetts voters said a great big "thanks dad" yesterday.

In his acceptance speech Tuesday night Governor Volpe seemed to wax even more gleefully at the victory of the sales tax than at his own smashing win. And well he might. For the victory of this long, tough fight clearly spear-headed and sustained by Mr. Volpe was a political triumph—something his early Latin antecedents would never believe.

Many now believe that Governor Volpe's integrity in this area and/or the pussyfooting acquiescence running to downright hostility demonstrated by most Democrats on the issue, largely contributed to his big win.

And on this issue alone he has well earned the laurels which the Governor seems always to hold especially dear—the sincere and hearty admiration of his fellow-citizens.

Veteran's Day

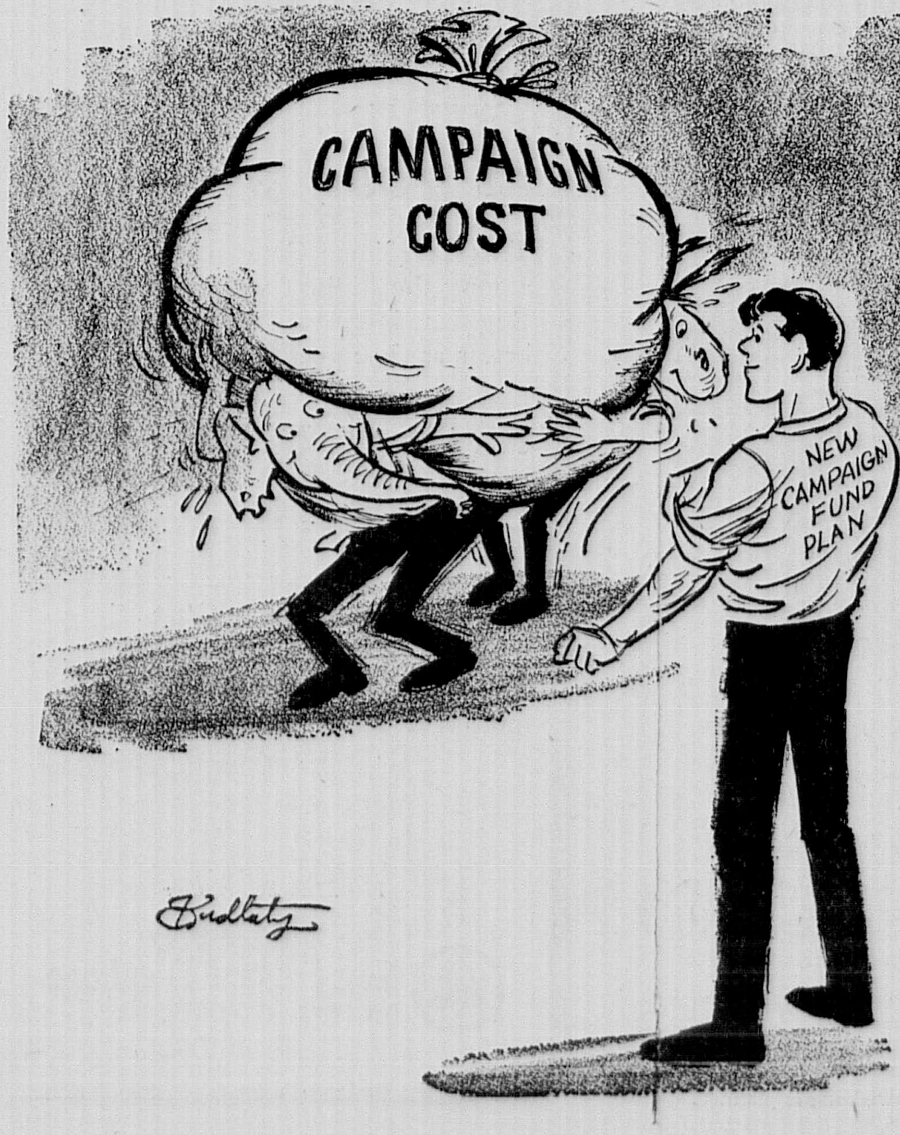
While our young men are fighting in Vietnam, or, some of them, preparing to fight and, many of them, actively serving in their country's service all over the world, the Town of Winchester prepares to pause from its business-as-usual tomorrow to remember the long line of men who went before them.

Winchester's observance of Armistice Day, as it used to be known, a post-World War ceremony now broadened by name correctly to include those who served in all wars, is historically simple but meaningful.

All veterans are invited each year to join in the simple parade organized here by the two service organizations, the Veteran's of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. Commemorative services are held at the Town's War Memorial Monument, in the yard of the McCall School and at the more recently constructed war memorial plaque at the Town Hall.

The public is invited to join with those families for whom the services represent public remembering of a deep personal loss. And many private prayers will join those made in public that the end of man fighting man may come within our lifetime. And that the end of adding names to lists of those who died in action may be more than a dream.

Boy, Are We Glad to See You!



Recreation

Alternately, over consecutive weeks the Friday night Rec Club will be for the 7th, 8th, and 9th grade classes from now on for awhile, Mr. Spinney noted.

In other recreation news, Mr. Spinney announced that plans are in progress to start Saturday morning senior high school girls gymnastic classes soon. Interested senior high girls should contact his office for information or application.

A meeting of the combined junior and senior high boys (28) and girls (22) Rifle Club will be held at the Recreation Office in the East Room of the Town Hall on Monday, November 14, at 3 p.m. With 50 present applicants, classes will likely be divided according to either age or target experience.

At the elementary level. "every school is now covered with both a boys and girls afternoon recreation program at least once every other week," Mr. Spinney stated in marking the tremendous success this elementary recreation program has enjoyed in its first few weeks of operation.

Encompassing 5th and 6th graders at all seven public elementary schools and at Marycliff Academy and St. Mary's School too, the program enlists the paid assistance of six college girls and two boys from 3:15 to 4:30 each Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. They supervise organized recreation games with an average of 40 youngsters at a school, two schools a day, or some 300 youngsters a week with boys and girls programs combined.

Redistributed

To be bussed from Wyman to Tufts, 85 students in Kindergarten through third Grade, and Sixth Grade; from Wyman to Vinson-Owen, 52 students in Grades One, Two, Three and Five; and from Wyman to Lynch, 80 students in Grades Four, Five and Six.

To walk from Lincoln to Tufts Road School, 66 students; from Washington to Tufts, 98 students; and from Noonan to Tufts, 178 students.

According to League of Women Voters observers present, Mr. Young listed several difficulties arising from the redistribution schedule, including the fact that the selection of children for transferrals would remove the traditional school district lines. A less comprehensive partial redistribution system has been in effect for two years already though: pupils from Wyman have been bussed to Vinson-Owen, and some even double-bussed over to Parkhurst; pupils from Noonan went to Washington last year and Lynch, or Noonan Annex, this year; pupils from Lincoln this year have been going to Washington; and pupils from Mystic have this year been going to Lynch's Annex.

Other foreseen difficulties included a complicated bus scheduling program; a complete revamping of the redistribution scheduling may be necessary each year; additional teachers would have to be hired; and some families might be inconvenienced by having children going to different schools than their brothers or sisters (for example: a former Wyman District family could, conceivably have each of its four children going to different schools: Wyman, Lynch, Vinson-Owen and Tufts).

School Committee Chairman Lawrence Beckley, and committeeman John Dolan and Richard Schroeder, stated that there was evidence that parents approved the busing of students in order to relieve overcrowded classrooms.

Superintendent of Schools Harry V. Gilson recommended that the new schedule be adopted by the School Committee, and the School Committee approved the proposal unanimously.

Pollution

Passage of this act has prompted the LWV of the United States to seek from its members in all the local leagues in the U.S. a consesus as to the best way to achieve compliance with the interstate stream standards to be created by this act.

Presentation at the monthly units will be made by the members of the Water Resource Committee, Mrs. Charles H. Miller, chairman, based on the committee's extensive and ongoing studies of this matter.

All members have been asked to attend to voice their opinions on this urgent matter.

The meetings are scheduled as follows:

Tuesday evening, November 15, 7:45 p.m. chairman, Mrs. Norman T. Brust, 729-0089; hostess, Mrs. Chester L. Dawes, 74 Wedgemere Avenue.

Wednesday morning, November 16, 9:30 a.m., chairman, Mrs. Eber T. LeGates, 729-3143; hostess, Mrs. John F. White, 16 Sheffield Road.

Wednesday afternoon, November 16, 1:00 p.m. chairman, Mrs. Albert Dietz, 729-2628; hostess, Mrs. O. Guinn Smith, 38 Rangely Road.

Thursday morning, November 17, 9:30 a.m. chairman, Mrs. Murray Yavner, 729-3371; hostess, Mrs. William E. Spaulding, 379 Main Street.

All units are open to members and non-members. Baby sitting is available at a nominal fee at the home of Mrs. Marshall M. Kincaid, 12 Prospect Street on Thursday morning only.

The chairman of each unit will be able to arrange transportation, if needed.

BOOK REVIEW

by Anne-Marie Haussler
Winchester Public Library

Ludwig van Beethoven. Symphony, No. 3, Op. 55, E Flat Major, EROICA. The Philharmonia Orchestra; Herbert von Karajan, Conductor. Angel 35000 LP.

Note: Since recordings are an important part of our library collection, we shall have occasional review of them in our weekly column.

The third symphony of Beethoven, opus 55, is shrouded with much mystery, compounded of both fact and fancy. Known by the sobriquet "Eroica" (a title applied to it two years after it was composed, at the time of its printing), this work turned a new page in the history of symphonic music. We know, indeed, that on the original title page the name "Bonaparte was written in large letters at the top, and below it "Beethoven" in small letters. We know, further, from a corrected copy in Beethoven's own hand, that the words "entitled Bonaparte" were carefully erased. Beyond this, all Napoleonic speculations concerning the form and content of the piece are pure fantasy. Perhaps it should be thought of as applying less to the man Napoleon, than to the Hero-ideal of the late 18th century, a sort of pre-Romantic Heldenleben. There is some justification for this insofar as one recognizes a thematic parallelism between the Finale of the Eroica Symphony and the last significant portion of Beethoven's Prometheus Ballet.

Although it is always easier to ascribe the deepest psychological and mystical significances to musical works than to analyze the work from a musical point of view, this symphony does no more than to demonstrate Beethoven's complete mastery of motivic cohesion. The germ of the work is the number "3," quite appropriate since it is his third symphony. The work is in E flat major (a key signature of 3 flats), the first and third movements are in ¾ (triple) meter, and the thematic material is an expansion of the more essential motive of the interval of the third (the space outlined by three adjacent notes). It was also in this symphony that Beethoven introduced a third horn into the orchestral texture.

The fact that Beethoven wrote only nine symphonies gives us the opportunity to scrutinize in detail his symphonic output, and the individuality of each work present us with much challenging material. The role of the Eroica in the traditional accounts is to introduce the so-called "second style period" of Beethoven's compositional technique. This it does, if one only analyzes the dynamic features of the work presents us with much challenging material. view of the Beethovenian Oeuvre, its very length and complexity bring to the foreground Beethoven's supreme simplicity, evolving six themes in the first movement from a most elementary motivic device, and maintaining a harmonic sense of the basic tonic-subdominant relationship.

This Angel recording of the Eroica Symphony certainly ranks high in Beethoven discography, Von Karajan's dynamic treatment of the score ably characterizing the heroic limits of the work. The tempo of the second movement tends to drag in places, and the first movement has strange rhythmic deviations, but these peccadillos are amply compensated for by an exhilarating Scherzo and a superb Finale.

Returning To Dog Matters

Editor of the Star:

Recently returning from a year in Europe I stepped right into the unsolved dog problem in Winchester. (I had to mow my lawn) From where I stepped, then, the problem looked (and smelled) exactly as it had when I left town in September, 1965. Not much change or progress, you might say.

Some enterprising citizens had, to be sure, via the petition route, tried to persuade the honorable members of our honorable Board of Selectmen to impose a leash law for dogs, but these honorable gentlemen (I have borrowed all these 'honorables' from Shakespeare's Julius Caesar) neither saw nor smelled any dog problem or possibly decided that in this case discretion was the better part of valour.

It was probably just as well, for as I see (and smelled) it, a leash law most likely would not solve the problem and quite possibly would not improve the situation at all. After all, we are concerned not only with dogs, but with (certain) dog owners as well.

I mean the dog owners (and I should like to think that they are a minority) whose untrained dogs roam all over town and who consider it no problem of theirs if I am not agile enough to avoid stepping into their canines' leavings on my lawn. Is there any good reason to assume that such a dog owner would have any compunction about leading his dog on the leash to another man's property when nature calls? I think not.

The solution, then, is not a leash law, but a sense of responsibility on the part of the owners for the proper training of their dogs. A dog is too beautiful an animal to be left untrained.

I do not, Mr. Editor, want my poorly written epistle to be quite as long as the excellent pen-product of that superior letter writer, John Nolan, who in last week's issue expressed my thoughts on this and other problems to perfection, but I thought it might interest my fellow townspeople to know that our neighborhood has passed on to another phase of the animal problem cycle. We are now in the cat cycle or phase. We have tiger cats, white cats, black cats, gray cats, you name them, we got them.

I have really nothing much against cats; they have some virtues which the poor dogs by nature lack. They are clean and they do not smell, and their bathroom manners (you guessed it; for some reason they prefer to perform on our property) are a joy to behold. But we definitely do not like them to chase and kill our squirrels, and we miss the birds who no longer dare to come to our feeders. So? So nothing, I guess. I just wanted to get this off my chest.

Sincerely yours,
Kaspar O. Myrvaagnes

Return Note On Dog Issue

Editor of the Star:

Much as I dislike to wear an already threadbare subject even thinner, I anticipated the fact that some people might misinterpret my recent remarks on dognapping and that they would start screaming that leash laws are a dog's best friend.

To these people may I point out that often the dogs that are left, after many others have been given up for adoption or put to sleep, are tied out of doors, on the front steps or in the back yard, or are put in a fenced in "run." These dogs are sitting ducks for dognappers, and so are those who are left in parked, locked cars, unattended.

Those of you who read the Humane Societies bulletins, and especially those who read Popular Dogs magazine, know that there is a wave of dognapping all over the country. Dogs are stolen if they are tied out of doors, or if left unwatched in outdoor pens, and even from locked cars, and, incredibly enough, this includes German Shepherds and Doberman Pinschers, who are taken by men who know just how to handle these breeds. They are wanted to resell as guard dogs, after what is often incorrect training. Poodles are wanted because they are so fashionable right now, and large dogs are especially wanted for medical experiments. Some dogs are stolen for ransom, of course, a crime that is surprisingly old.

Many of the finest kennels in the country have lost their best stock right out of fenced in pens in the back yard. Leash laws, of course, only serve to increase the danger of dognapping by forcing many people to tie their dog out, so that they are unable to run away from a dognapper (who comes well prepared with items that make even the fiercest dog, docile and helpless).

So be very careful about leaving your dog in a place where he can be an innocent victim of one of the most vicious criminals we have today, the dognapper.

Sincerely yours,
Claudia Kelty Edgell

Voter Guide Aid Is Noted

Editor of the Star:

We wish to thank the Winchester Savings Bank, the Winchester Co-operative Bank, and the Winchester Trust for their financial support in supplying the town with Voter Guides.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 507 distributed 4,000 of these guides. Peter Tunnecliffe, a young scout himself was in charge of the project. Our admiration and thanks for a job well done.

Sincerely,
Mrs. T. T. Sanford

Youth Comment On Leash Contest

Editor of the Star:

We attend the L.J.H. here in town and are in seventh grade. We have recently held a debate in our Geography class. Three of us were on the team, and cut out articles from your paper and others.

Surprisingly enough, when the debate was over and facts given, we five out of the thirty-two people in our class were the only ones for the Dog Leash Law. We firmly believe there should be a Leash Law, and are asking you to publish this to see out of the thousands of people in this town, which ones are on our side.

Sincerely,
Karen, Bob, Thomas, Patrice, Andy

Where The WHS Class Of 1966 Is!

"Quo vadis, Class of '66?" asked the Winchester School Guidance Department. "Please tell us whither goest thou and what you are doing?"

The answers to these questions appear in the Follow-up Report—Class of 1966 of Winchester Senior High School which covers the whereabouts and pursuits of the 335 graduates of 1966.

According to the report, 15 young men are serving in the United States in the Armed Forces. Working in the business world are 43 grads.

The remainder of the class (82.6 per cent) is pursuing further formal education—at the post graduate level (1), in hospital schools of nursing (7), at preparatory schools (24), junior colleges (36), and technical, business and other types of schools (37). Attending 76 different four-year colleges or universities are 172 young men and women of the Class of 1966.

It is the desire of the Guidance Department to have this information as accurate as possible so if any reader notices an error or has later information, a call to 729-4488 will be much appreciated.

The following graduates are listed under the name of the four-year college or university which they are attending this year.

FINAMORE of Cox Road is in charge of entertainment for the London Lights informal dance to be presented November 18 in the Grand Ballroom of the Somerset Hotel by the Junior Guild of the Infant Savior. Also on the committee are Miss Helen G. Doyle of Grove Street and Mrs. John S. DeVries of Church Street.

Wheaton Group Invites Students

The Lexington-Winchester Wheaton Group cordially invites prospective students, and their parents, to a meeting on Wednesday, November 16, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Paul E. Gray, 5 Sheffield Road, Winchester.

The "WHIMS," a singing group of 12 students currently at Wheaton, will present slides of the college, showing campus scenes and activities, will delight us with their varied musical program, and be most eager to answer questions to acquaint the girls and their parents with life at Wheaton from the social and academic viewpoints.

Miss Constance Trickett and Mrs. Phyllis Nannis, guidance counselors have advised all senior and junior class girls of this opportunity to learn about Wheaton, and they are promised a most interesting evening. Girls from Winchester High School presently attending Wheaton are: Judith Morison, Kathryn Lemay, Elizabeth Aiken; Chandler, Susan Tully, Eleanor Becker, Ann Capodilupo, Linda Barlow, Charlotte Dennett and Paula Miller.

For further information call Mrs. Alfred Fernald, 729-1161.

Knights Templar Elects Grand Commander

George C. Patton, Jr., of Stoneham, a past commander of Hugh de Payens Commandery No. 20, Knights Templar, of Melrose, was recently elected and installed Right Eminent Grand Commander of Knights Templar and the Appendant Orders of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, at ceremonies at the Masonic Temple in Boston last month.

Leonard H. Hoft of Melrose, also a past commander of Hugh de Payens, was installed grand waren. He, too, is highly respected for his many years of activity and dedication to work for Knight Templary, both on the local level and throughout the Grand Commandery jurisdiction.

The installing officer was Rt. Em. Alfred C. Blake, who was assisted by Rt. Em. Frank H. Wilson, grand marshal, a past commander of Hugh de Payens. The inspecting officer was Wilbur M. Brucker, Most Eminent Grand Master of the Grand Encampment of the United States.

Those attending from Hugh de Payens Commandery were eight past commanders who served as an honor escort under the command of Em. Lester W. Bowen, Hugh de Payens' present commander, also the generalissimo, captain general, prelate and a number of other past commanders.

The new grand commander has a history of 42 years in Masonic life.

He is a member of all the Scottish Rite bodies of all the Boston area (a 32nd Degree Mason), a Shriner (Aleppo Temple), a life sponsor of the Knights Templar Eye Foundation, Inc., Wakefield Lodge of Elks, No. 1276, the Hancock Sportsmen's Club, Inc., Hancock, N. H. and a past president of the Square & Compass Club, Stoneham.

He holds honorary membership in seven commanderies in the N.E. states, is a 30-year veteran member of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America; was president of Fellsland Council, No. 242, Boy Scouts of America, Winchester, 1947-1948-1949, and was invested with the Silver Beaver Award, Jan. 5, 1951, and has been a trustee of the Stoneham Savings Bank since 1958, and served prior to that time as corporator from 1954 to 1958.

Business-wise, he has been employed by United States Trucking Corporation, Armored Car Department (a Pittston company), from 1926 to 1962 as New England Regional Manager. He affiliated with Brink's, Incorporated (a Pittston company) as special representative in 1962 and was presented with the 40-year commemorative award on Oct. 1, 1966.

Hugh de Payens Commandery No. 20, K.T., sponsored a testimonial dinner and reception honoring Rt. Em. Patton, on Friday evening, November 4, at Caruso's Diplomat in Saugus.

Portable artists sketching pad with handle for easy carrying. Clips for holding paper. Size 24x36. Can also be used for jig-saw puzzle fans. Priced at $4.00 at the Winchester Star.

The Saturday morning program is for school-age boys and girls. The Library is closed on Friday this week.

Canham Talk Is Ready In Print

Many residents who heard Erwin D. Canham speak on October 17 in the War Memorial Auditorium, will be glad to know that his talk, "The Spiritual Revolution," is now available in printed form. Many others who were unable to attend will also want to own and read a copy of this significant address by the widely respected journalist-statesman.

The non-denominational talk by Mr. Canham, editor in chief of "The Christian Science Monitor," has been delivered, quoted, and rebroadcast to large audiences around the world. He offers a searching look at the spiritual concepts and forces that are re-shaping the world.

The booklet containing the talk are available, free of charge, at the Christian Science Reading Room, 4 Mt. Vernon Street.

Staff & Key Try 'Iolanthe'

Three weeks from tomorrow evening, Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" will blaze forth on the stage of the Winchester High School. Already, a good part of the seats for Friday, Dec. 2, and Saturday, Dec. 3 have been sold and Staff and Key Society is delighted with the splendid response of patrons and G. & S. devotees.

This years production promises to be the finest in Staff and Key's history. Those Winchesterites who enjoyed "The Pirate of Penzance" two years ago and "The Mikado" last year in McCall Junior High School will fully appreciate the increased facilities of the High School auditorium and stage.

Outstanding new local talents, as well as old favorites will be heard in "Iolanthe:"

Appearing in the leading role as Chancellor will be Richard Bates, who played Samuel in "The Pirates" and understudied the role of Ko-Ko in "The Mikado." Earlier last year, he played Sir Studley in the Concord Players version of "Once Upon a Mattress."

Dolores Baldyga, former soloist of the Unitarian Church, will take the part of Phyllis. Holding a masters degree from the N.E. Conservatory of Music, she has toured the U.S., South America and Europe as a member of the trio "Musical Portraits," and is now soloist at Temple Ohavei Shalom in Brookline.

Robert Horne makes his debut with the Society this year as Strephon, the romantic lead. A life long resident of Winchester, he has sung in the Mystic Glee Club, Unitarian Choir and is a former director of the Handel and Haydn Society.

Taking the part of Lord Mountararat will be Victor Jonas, who is presently bass soloist of the Belmont Methodist Church, and was formerly soloist at Winchester's Church of the Epiphany and the combined choirs of Middleboro. Well known to Winchesterites, he sang the Pirate King in "The Pirates," and Pish Tush in "The Mikado."

Robert Mathews, present Chairman of Staff and Key, appears as Lord Tolloller in "Iolanthe." He took the part of Frederick in "The Pirates," Nanki-Poo in "The Mikado," and has appeared locally in "The Boy" in the Parish Players version of "The Fantastiks" and as Finch in the Bedford Community Chorus' "How to Succeed in Business." Currently a soloist with the Winchester First Congregational Church, Mr. Mathews is a member of the Board of Trustees of the N.E. Conservatory of Music.

Linda Milani will certainly be remembered as the soprano lead Mabel in "The Pirates," and Yum-Yum in "The Mikado." This year she will sing the part of the Fairy Queen.

Charles Sheridan will play Private Willis and will be recalled as the humorous Sergeant in "The Pirates" and Poo-Bah in "The Mikado."

Taking the part of Iolanthe is Mary Smith, a seasoned performer, having appeared most recently in Winchester as Pitti-Sing in "The Mikado," and Kate in "The Pirates."

Three newcomers to the Society, Cynthia Knox, Pamela Macy and Jan Card will be heard as the fairies Leila, Ceila and Fleta respectively.

The production manager for "Iolanthe" is Sam Card, who has been associated with the American Savoyards, St. David Players and the Little Theatre of Denver. He has appeared in the G. & S. roles of Col. Calvary in "Patience," the Grand Inquisitor in "Gondoliers" and Despard in "Ruddigore."

"Iolanthe" promises to be memorable entertainment for the entire family. Tickets may be reserved now, while good seats are still available for Friday evening Dec. 2 by calling Mrs. R. Bradshaw at 729-2031, and for Saturday evening Dec. 3 by calling Mrs. R. Mathews at 729-3247.

Charlotte Greer Will Continue As First Lady's Aide

Mrs. Charlotte Greer, wife of Don S. of 82 Arlington Street, will continue to serve Mrs. Volpe as social secretary, a job she has enjoyed and thrived in during the Governor's first two terms in office.

Mrs. Greer, herself a State Republican Committeewoman representing the 6th district, was jubilant at Tuesday's results both local and nationwide when reached at home yesterday.

As for her own job she looked to go on with high enthusiasm.

"They're a simply marvelous family to work for. They make everyone close to them feel that his or her contribution is important, no matter what it may be," she said.

Mrs. Greer, a past president of the local Republican Club, also felt that the four-year term ahead would lead to enrichment of the part Mrs. Volpe can play as first lady.

"She now knows just where she wants to put her energy and her efforts and will have the time to plan her work in a more constructive way," Mrs. Greer said, reiterating Mrs. Volpe's number one interest in the field of mental health and in work for retarded children.

"We were all in a daze on Tuesday night—it happened so fast that we could hardly believe it! But today we can enjoy being just plain thrilled."

Another Winchester man whose job with the Volpe's accrues from their position as head of the State is Edward Ardini, a member of the Massachusets State Police and a familiar face downtown in his position of aide to Governor Volpe. The son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ardini of Salisbury Street, he is now married and makes his home in Hull.

Volpes

Jennie earned her R.N. degree, working both at the Winchester Hospital and at Belleview in New York, the latter a specialty training which opened her continually developing interest in the mental health field, and contributed to her valuable assistance to her husband in this area.

The two were maried 32 years ago and are now grandparents of two. Daughter Jean Rotundi is married to Roger, son of Eugene and Mrs. Rotundi of Forest dent, was married a year ago this summer.

Winton Club Holds Christmas Bazaar

This year the Winton Club is holding its annual Christmas Bazaar on Tuesday November 29th from 9:30 to 9:00 p.m. and Wednesday November 30th from 9:30 to 12:30 noon in the lobby of the Winchester Hospital. This Bazaar has been such a well-received affair over the years we felt it would be a fine opportunity for people to have the choice of two days.

The articles that are to be for sale will run the gamut from unusual toys for all ages, grabs for youngsters and adults and a fine group of stocking stuffers.

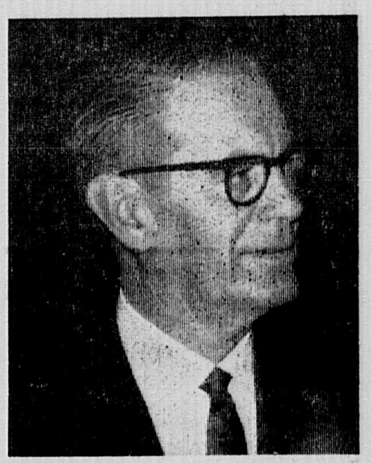
There are many fine specialties from the Gift Table. There will be frosted Christmas candles fashioned with a partridge in a pear tree, choir boys and the Holy family. Another unique item will be gourmet plaques for the kitchen, illustrated gourmet recipes on wood to hang in a country or "sophisticated" kitchen. Silver items are pie plates in silver trays, candle snuffers, velvet-lined jewel boxes, relish and jam dishes that are a combination of crystal and silver and the popular dressing spoons.

There will be attractive flower arrangements suitable for fall and Christmas and so nice to take up to the patients. Desk sets that are coordinated in either flowered or paisley prints. The men have not been forgotten either as there will be ties in plain colors, regimental and horizontal stripes.

Jewelry has taken on a new dimension this year and Winton Club is not to be left behind. A fine choice of gay colored necklaces and long dangling earrings will make any woman feel new and exciting. A new item is a choice selection of watches in rings, bracelets and fob designs.

Baby's Christmas is remembered in clothing items, Swedish stainless steel feeding sets of fork and spoon including the long-handled one for the baby food jars.

Christmas decorations have always been one of the special delights of this bazaar and this year is no exception. Fine wrappings and ribbons and lovely cards will also be shown.



LESLIE J. SCOTT of Wildwood Street, president of the Winchester National Bank, was active at the annual meeting of directors of the banks of the Shawmut Association, Inc., held in Boston recently. Mr. Scott serves as a vice president of the Association.

John T. Horn of 26 Hemingway Street, foreman of Winchester's Highway Department, is recuperating at the Winchester Hospital following minor surgery there last week. For the first time in many, many years Jake will miss the annual Veteran's Day Parade.

Sunday, November 13

The Apostle Paul's declaration, "Ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you," is the Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon titled "Mortals and Immortals." The lesson will be read in all Christian Science services this Sunday.

Related readings from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following:

"The manifestation of God through mortals is as light passing through the window-pane. The light and the glass never mingle, but as matter, the glass is less opaque than the walls. The mortal mind through which Truth appears most vividly is that one which has lost much materiality, much error, in order to become a better transparency for Truth. Then, like a cloud melting into thin vapor, it no longer hides the sun."

Infant Saviour Bazaar Looks To Christmas Buys

The Knights of Columbus Hall will be the scene of a gala Christmas bazaar sponsored by the Guild of the Infant Saviour on Wednesday, November 16.

The bazaar will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mrs. J. Killian and Mrs. Michael Hintlian are co-chairmen of the annual event. Coffee and doughnuts will be available to the early-bird shoppers. Mrs. John T. Griffin and Mrs. Frank DeTeso have arranged a tasty luncheon menu which will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Mrs. Albert T. McDougall and her committee will have many beautiful and decorative gifts for sale on the arts and crafts table. The ever-interesting white elephant table will be under the direction of Mrs. Joseph W. McGaragle and Mrs. Talma T. Greenwood. Gay Christmas aprons are being made by Mrs. Clarence E. Dunbury and her committee. Mrs. John E. Hanlon and Mrs. John C. Moynihan will offer many useful and colorful gifts on the hand knit table.

One of the favorite attractions of the bazaar is the Christmas decorations display which will feature many unusual and beautiful arrangements for the shopper. Mrs. Henry C. Valcour and Mrs. John H. Cosgro have many helping hands working with them in making these arrangements. Chairmen Mrs. Joseph L. Mullen and Mrs. Frank T. Hannon, together with their committee, have made a variety of children's gifts which will appeal to the shopping grandmothers. The well-stocked food table will have a large assortment of home-baked foods from the ovens of the Guild members. These goodies will be sold by Mrs. Jeremiah J. McCarron and Mrs. William J. Gannon. Christmas shopping will be a pleasure for all who visit the Guild of the Infant Saviour Bazaar on November 16. The proceeds from the bazaar will benefit the Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston.

"To Be a Man"

Channel 2 will repeat the provocative documentary "To Ba a Man" Sunday, November 13, at 7 p.m.

Produced at Yale University, the special "N.E.T. Journal" is a candid study of today's college student in the classroom and outside. Cameras eavesdrop on the lowly freshman, visit a gathering at Mory's and watch the rough and tumble on the athletic field as reporters seek to illuminate problems facing the student at Yale—and indeed at all universities.

Speech Expert Before EMARC

The monthly membership meeting of EMARC (East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children) will be held Wednesday, November 16th at the Goodyear School, Orange Street, East Woburn, 8 p.m.

Dr. Robert Ferullo, Speech and Hearing Consultant for the Woburn Public School System will be speaker. The theme for the evenings program is "Community Involvement." Dr. Ferullo has been professor of special education at Northeastern University for the past seven years. He has been consultant for the Woburn School System for the past five years. On November 18th he will begin a Television Series entitled "Talking Talk" on Channel 7 at 6:30 a.m.

A coffee hour will be held following the meeting with Melrose residents providing the refreshments.

All members and friends of EMARC are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Motor Registrar Announces Ban On Outsized Mirrors

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin today announced a special enforcement crackdown on motor vehicles equipped with oversized outside mirrors which extend beyond normal car width limits.

"This concerted effort is necessary to rid the highways of these potential killers. I have directed all Registry Inspectors to be on the lookout for motor vehicles with mirrors which protrude from the sides of vehicles at a dangerous distance," said the Registrar. "There is no reason for a mirror to protrude out more than one inch beyond the width of the vehicle body to afford the operator a clear view to the rear."

Many pickup trucks and passenger cars that tow house trailers have been observed with these attachments and many serious accidents have been caused by these unnecessary hazards.

Owners and drivers are given advance notice to change these mirrors or they will be reported to the Registry for action.

THROUGH RAIN, SLEET AND SNOW — ALL KINDS OF WEATHER, your insurance works for you when you are wisely and adequately covered for any major loss. Complete auto, business, home and personal coverages for all types of contingencies are available through your local independent insurance agent. William Wilde of the W. Allan Wilde and Son Insurance Agency at 1 Thompson Street in the Center. Mr Wilde notes that in many cases people carry some insurance to protect their important assets and to avoid serious liabilities, but people don't always provide for completely realistic or adequate insurance coverages. As an independent insurance agent with much experience in Winchester, Mr. Wilde recommends that residents check to be sure that insurance policies are adequate to meet the real value of that which is valued; and, if help or consultative advice is desired, he will be happy to be of service to anyone.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Sometimes prophets don't have to wait long to see their predictions — or warnings — come true. Such is the case with the wearing of seat belts.

A few months ago the Defense Research Institute pointed out that NO state REQUIRES the use of seat belts. Nevertheless, it warned that courts might demand they be worn if an injured party expected to prove he did "everything reasonable" to avoid an accident.

Since then, in two recent cases, Wisconsin trial courts found the plaintiffs guilty of contributory negligence" for not wearing the available seat belts! In one case the court denied damages altogether, and in the other case the amount of damages sought was reduced.

When a higher court—such as a state supreme court—formulates a similar rule it takes no crystal ball to predict that a NATIONAL TREND will be on!

So for your own good—physically and financially—WEAR seat belts! The fact that they were available, but unused, will be no comfort, and a probable PENALTY, in the event of an accident!

May we discuss other phases of auto safety and insurance with you?

New Volunteer Director

DIRECTOR OF VOLUNTEERS at the Winchester Hospital is Mrs. Phyllis R. Hollinshead of 1 Hilltop Road, newly appointed to be in charge of the 600 volunteers serving there. She is shown with Dr. Ellsworth T. Neumann, administrator of the Massachusetts General Hospital, receiving a certificate of completion of MGH's unique graduate course for hospital volunteer directors. Last year Winchester Hospital volunteers contributed 39,000 hours.

Opera Company College Seminars

The Opera Company of Boston will conduct a series of College Seminars on the forthcoming American Premier of Sarah Caldwell's production of Arnold Schoenberg's opera "Moses and Aron."

The Seminars have been made possible through a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation and five educational institutions making individual grants to support the performance: Brandies, Wellesley, Brown University, the New England Conservatory, and the Cambridge School.

The program, to be called "Schoenberg—the man and his Music," will include information on the composer and on the opera "Moses and Aron," including the story of the opera, the musical structure and how the Opera Company of Boston is preparing it.

The prominent musical authority Eric Salzman will lecture on the musical aspects of the opera and all other aspects having to do with the music of Schoenberg. He will also introduce the students to the concept of 12-note music, and tell them how the opera is composed in the 12-note system.

Two male actors and one female will give a concert reading dramatization, with dialogue taken from Schoenberg's writings and letters written to him and about him.

The American premier of "Moses and Aron" will take place on Wednesday evening, November 30th at the Back Bay Theatre, and will be repeated on Friday evening, December 2nd.

Home and Garden To Learn Xmas Decorating Ideas

Christmas decorations for each room in the house will be the theme of Mrs. Alvin F. Helme's talk to the Winchester Home and Garden Club on November 16, Wednesday.

Mrs. Helme, as an active garden club worker in New Hampshire, has held the offices of president and program chairman several times. She has been state chairman of flower shows in New Hampshire and a member of the State Flower Shows Evaluating Committee. She is at present chairman of New Hampshire Flower Show Schools and is a National Council flower show judge and chairman of the New Hampshire Judges' Council.

Special note is to be taken of a sale of ingredients for "do-it-yourself Christmas decorations at this meeting. This sale, for members and their guests only, will begin at 12:15 p.m. As usual the refreshments will be served at 1 p.m. and the meeting will begin in Crawford Methodist Church Hall at 1:30 p.m.

Landscape Course Meeting Announced

The first meeting of the Landscape Design Course will be held at Mrs. Alexander Aitkin's house, 26 Myopia Road, on November 15, Tuesday, at 1:30 p.m.

The purpose of this course will be the education of Home and Garden Club members in the knowledge of good landscape practice. Among the subjects studied will be the history of landscape architecture, landscape design, art and nature appreciation and civic planning. Those who are interested are asked to notify Mrs. Aitken by phone. (729-1587)

WHS Preparing One Act Plays

Curtain and Cue, the Winchester Senior High School drama club, has completed plans for its winter activities and scheduled its first student production, the traditional One-Act Play Nite for Friday, November 18.

Student directors select and direct one-act plays in competition. This year they will present "Riders to the Sea," "Aria da Capo," and "Sparkin." Judges will select the best director, best actor and actress, and an all-star cast.

During the month of November Curtain and Cue has arranged for 150 students and faculty members to attend three Shakespearean plays sponsored by the Boston Herald Traveler and presented at Cambridge Latin School. Students saw "Hamlet" on November 8, and will witness "Julius Caesar" November 21, and "The Taming of the Shrew" November 30. The performances have received excellent reviews by professional critics. Miss Judith St. Jean, dramatics teacher, has arranged for the students to leave school at 2 p.m. and travel by bus to Cambridge.

On December 9 Curtain and Cue will sponsor the Adelphi College Mime Players who will present an evening of mime and a Saturday morning workshop in mime for interested students. Members of the community are invited to attend the evening performance of mime. The Adelphi Players are considered the best in the East; the group is coached by Jacques Burdick who has worked for many years in professional theatre and studied mime with Marcel Marceau, the famous French mime artist.

The weekend of December 17 is the date for the Christmas program which will include Christmas music directed by Wendell Withington and a dramatic play directed by Miss St. Jean.

Fortnightly Bridge Coming Monday

On Monday, November 14th, The Fortnightly Dessert Bridge arranged by Mrs. Joseph J. Vaccaro, Chairman, will benefit the club's philanthropic projects for the year 1966-1967.

In Gifford Hall, Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, the members and guests will be served homemade desserts and coffee at one o'clock by Mrs. Theodore Shasta, Social Chairman and committee.

The Fortnightly's Second Vice Pres., Mrs. Everett Goss, is in charge of tickets and reservations. Mrs. Wiliam Goodhue will have on sale the donation tickets that promise the winners interesting prizes.

The floral arrangements for the dessert table will be by Forester's Flower Shop.

Fortnightly officers participating in the bridge arrangements are: Mrs. Richard Sheppard, Chairman of Education and Scholarship Committee; Mrs. Edwin S. Cushman, Chairman of Community and Hospital Service Committee; Mrs. E. Carl Hoglund, First Vice President; Mrs. Wason M. Hyde, Treasurer.

Mrs. Meisel To Serve Wheaton

President William C. H. Prentice of Wheaton College has announced that Mrs. Robert C. Meisel, 34 Leslie Road, will be general campaign chairman of the Wheaton College Program for the Winchester area.

The Program is a three-year capital gifts campaign to raise $6,100,000 for a science building, increased endowment for faculty salaries and scholarships, library books and remodeling of existing facilities.

NEW LOCAL BANK SERVICE

WINCHESTER NATIONAL BANK CHECK LOAN

What Is Check-Loan?

Check-Loan provides a personal line of Bank credit for financially responsible people who want the privacy and convenience of making their own loans. It is much like a revolving credit account at a store.

How It Works:

You and the Bank decide upon the amount of credit you can comfortably handle. You receive a supply of personalized checks which look like any other Winchester National Bank check. When you need money you simply write a check for any amount up to your available credit. When the Bank pays the check it creates a loan.

Your monthly payments restore the amount of credit available for you to use again whenever you wish.

What Can Check-Loan Be Used For?

For anything you want. Use it for recurrent needs—unexpected expenses—to buy clothes, furniture or appliances—pay taxes, fuel or medical bills—pay for home or auto repairs.

Check-Loan helps you buy whatever you need, when you need it, from whomever you want, for cash.

Who Is Eligible?

Anyone over 21 with regular employment, a steady income and good credit standing, who resides or works in Winchester and surrounding areas.

How Much Does Check-Loan Cost?

No charge is made for opening a Check-Loan Account. Until you use your account there is no charge.

When you do use your account, Winchester National makes a charge of 1% per month based on the daily average outstanding balance. This low rate is approximately equal to a charge of $6.00 per $100.00 per year on the amount borrowed. You are charged only for the exact number of days you use the money. For example, $100.00 outstanding for 21 days would cost 70 cents. There is a nominal charge of 25c for each check paid.

How Do You Keep Records?

Winchester National does all the bookkeeping for you. A few days before your monthly payment is due, your cancelled checks with a statement of your account will be mailed to you showing the charges to your account, the repayments, the loan balance, the unused credit and the amount of your next monthly payment. You may pay more than your scheduled payment at any time.

How to Apply for a Check-Loan Account

Simply fill in, clip out and return the coupon. An application form will be mailed to you promptly. If you wish, you may call us at 729-3200 or at our office, 7 Church Street, Winchester, Mass.

Now is the time to apply for a Winchester National Check-Loan account—before the need, so that funds will be available when required. Remember, it costs you nothing to open an account.

WITH A WINCHESTER NATIONAL CHECK-LOAN ACCOUNT you can buy what, where and when you like; take advantage of cash purchases or meet emergency expenses. Check-Loan reduces borrowing to its simplest and most convenient form—when you need money just write a check.

Now is the time to apply for your Check-Loan Account—before the need for funds arises.

Advantages of a Winchester National CHECK LOAN Account

- Your account does not have to be paid in full before you can use it again.
- Saves time and travel—you don't have to fill out a new application or come to the Bank each time you borrow.
- Your monthly payment schedule can be as flexible as you want—you can pay in full or you can pay more than the minimum monthly payment any time you wish.
- There is no charge for opening an account or when the account is not in use. There is no charge except when you are using your account.
- Life Insurance protection up to $5,000 to age sixty-five is provided at no additional cost on the unpaid balance of your loan.
- Your attractive, personalized checks are the same as cash, for you to use for anything, anywhere, anytime you wish—they look like any other Winchester National Bank check.

Extra Advantages of Winchester National CHECK-LOAN

Unlike some other plans,

- Your cancelled checks are returned to you as valid receipts of payment.
- Your monthly payment is based upon the amount of money you borrow rather than the amount of you maximum credit.

How to Figure the Maximum Check Loan Available to You

To determine the amount you wish to have in your Winchester National Check-Loan account, use this handy chart. Notice that your maximum credit will be 24 times the amount you wish to pay each month. You may use all or any part of your maximum credit whenever you choose. When you use your Check-Loan account your monthly payments are based on the amount borrowed, not on the maximum amount you are eligible to borrow. Your monthly payments will be equal to 1/24th of the maximum credit, or such lesser amount as required under a repayment schedule which will be furnished you when you open your Check-Loan account.

IF YOU CAN PAY (MONTHLY)	YOU CAN BORROW UP TO	IF YOU CAN PAY (MONTHLY)	YOU CAN BORROW UP TO
$20	$480	$100	$2400
$30	$720	$125	$3000
$40	$960	$150	$3600
$50	$1200	$175	$4200
$75	$1800	$200	$4800

To determine a line of credit not shown, simply multiply the monthly payment you select (in $5.00 multiples) by 24. (Minimum line of credit: $360) Winchester National Check-Loan customers may request a change in their maximum credit at any time.

Chief Derro Elected Second Vice President

On October 27, a business meeting of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association was held at the Colonial Country Club in Lynnfield. Over 200 Chiefs from all over the state attended.

Chief Joseph J. Derro, who has been a member of this organization for the past 6 years, was elected 2nd Vice President. The Chief has been active in the organization and has served on various cammittees.

During the past month he was a delegate to the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Philadelphia where over 4,000 Chiefs from various parts of the world attended.

The main speaker of the meeting was the Honorable Justice Felix Forte of the Mass. Superior Court. The judge spoke on the impact recent Supreme Court decisions have had on law enforcement.

Art Group Plans Study Tour At Busch-Reisinger

The Art Study Group of the Winchester College Club will visit the Busch-Reisinger Museum, Harvard University at 10 o'clock Friday morning, November 18th.

The Museum has arranged to have Mrs. Hugh Matthews give a talk to the group about the aims and wide influence of the Bauhaus School of Design, founded by Walter Gropins in Weinmar, Germany in 1919.

The Busch-Reisinger Museum is located on Kirkland Street at the corner of Divinity Avenue opposite Memorial Hall and Sanders Theatre. If space is available, cars may be parked in the parking space by Sanders Theatre. Otherwise attendants should allow time to find a free space in the neighborhood.

The Carpenter Center of the Vis-Arts, designed by Le Corbusier, and the Fogg Museum are on Quincy Street. It may interest many in the group to visit both of these while so near.

College Visitor

Robert P. Nemec, director of admissions at Cazenovia College, will visit the Winchester High School at 1:30 p.m. Friday, November 11.

Cazenovia College is a private two-year college for women in Cazenovia, New York.

Tufts Road Plans, Its Noonan Impact To Be Discussed

That the opening next fall of the Tufts Road School will have an important effect on Noonan is without doubt.

What is the criteria used in determining enrollment for this new school?

What is this "ungraded education" and its variations?

Where will my child be attending school next year?

These are only a few of the questions in the minds of Noonan parents, slated for consideration during a panel discussion on Tufts Road School, its plans, and resulting effect on Noonan, to be held in the school auditorium on Tuesday evening, November 15.

Sponsored by the Parents Association, this timely program will begin immediately following Open House (7:15-8:45). In as much as plans regarding enrollment, curriculum, and staffing are in full swing right now, this meeting is expected to generate townwide interest.

Panelists will include Dr. Robert H. Anderson, noted expert of ungraded education, curently a professor at Harvard's Graduate School of Education; Dr. Walter P. Gleason, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction in the local school system; Richard Young, principal of the Tufts Road School; and Norton E. Demsey, Jr., computer expert, programming consultant, and specifically in charge of projection enrollments.

Mrs. Robert Powers, program chairlady of the association, will introduce the guest panelist and announce the evening's format. Audience participation will be welcome and encouraged.

"Open House" is traditionally a highlight of the school year and brings out the fathers as well as mothers in full force. So, parents, after visiting your children's classrooms and consulting with their respective teachers, come to the auditorium for what promises to be a very informative and provocative program.

The public is also invited.

Geology Trip To Guatemala For R. W. Birnie

A Dartmouth College student form Winchester, is one of six geology students here who today embarked on the longest international geology trip in Dartmouth history.

Richard W. Birnie, son of Mrs. Mary Birnie of 18 Yale Street, left with the group on the first leg of a three-week trip to Guatemala and El Salvador for field studies of active volcanoes. The trip is being led by Professor Noye Johnson and Richard Stoiber of Dartmouth's Earth Sciences Department.

While in Guatemala, Richard and the others will study two active volcanoes, one of which is the largest lava dome in the wirld. In El Salvador, they will study volcanic calderas, hot active fumaralos, new minerals and steam fields which may soon be used as a source of power.

At Dartmouth Richard played freshman hockey and baseball.

He is a 1962 graduate of Belmont Hill School.

Mercurio Grad Of Insurance School

John B. Mercurio Jr., of the Mercurio Insurance Agency at 1 Mt. Vernon Street was graduated from the Reliance Insurance Companies' All-Lines School, October 28. The seven-week school is primarily an internal executive development program, but is open to outstanding independent insurance agents.

JOHN B. MERCURIO, JR.

Mr. Mercurio, 26, has been associated with his father's agency for five years. The Mercurio agency has been affiliated with the Reliance Insurance Companies since its inception 20 years ago. Mr. Mercurio's father founded the Winchester Association of Insurance Agents in 1964, and was recently elected president of the association.

The Reliance school covers the full spectrum of individual and commercial lines of property-casualty insurance, life and health insurance, bonding, engineering, claims, underwriting, salesmanship, and principals of management.

Mr. Mercurio is a graduate of Boston Colege. Active in community affairs, he is a member of the Winchester Jaycees and the Knights of Columbus.

Teachers Discuss Curriculum At Lincoln School

"Grade lines are becoming more flexible," announced Miss Martha Cunningham, principal of Lincoln School.

Areas of curriculum in sequence were explained by the primary grade teachers at the school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon, November 2nd in the first of a series of curriculum discussions emphasizing the ungraded teaching. The curriculum discussion for the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades will be held on Tuesday, November 15th, and for the kindergarten November 29th.

Miss Beatrice Hutchinson, a third grade teacher, began the discussion with a talk on reading, emphasizing that the school provides for the individual needs of the child by offering many various reading experiences.

With the help of a teaching machine, second grade teacher Miss Margaret Harkins was able to help the parents by defining the mathematical terms used in the primary grades. Speaking about a new science curriculum which stresses scientific observation and experiment was Miss Norissa Purington, a third grade teacher. Mrs. Susan Jones, a second grade teacher spoke about language arts, a curriculum which includes grammar, penmanship, poetry, and reading. She explained the skills that are introduced at different grade levels and how the teacher provides for individual differences.

Since time was short, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, first grade teacher briefed the mothers on the social studies curriculum which is undergoing a change which will show that people are similar the world over and Mrs. Milly Strain, also grade one, explained the music, art, and physical education programs.

Mrs. James DiRocco headed the group of room mothers responsible for the informative afternoon. Serving on the committee were Mrs. Joseph Campo, Mrs. Ralph Della Grotte, Mrs. James Cormack, Mrs. Preston Rowe, Mrs. Kevin McElhinney, Mrs. Norman Linson, Mrs. Louis Percoco, Mrs. William Pittman, Mrs. Donald Pigott, Mrs. Anthony Pronski, Mrs. Robert Girard, Mrs. Michael Cammarata, and Mrs. James Soch.

David Brackett Puffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Puffer of 5 Edgehill Road and a recent graduate of Winchester High School, has entered the freshman class at Brown University.

New Faces Join Parish Players For "Retirement"

Three players new to Winchester audiences will appear in featured roles in the forthcoming Parish Players production of "Ladies In Retirement," according to Ralph Sefarian, president of the group. They are De French of Weston, Doris Bryant of Arlington, and Stephen Pentek of Trenton, New Jersey, now at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

De FRENCH

De French, no stranger to New England theatregoers, takes the role of Leonora Fiske, which she played this summer at the Weston, Vermont Playhouse. De French has done many parts at Weston and has worked with other Summer Stock companies at such places as Bar Harbor, Hampton, Orleans, and Edgartown. She has appeared in a number of motion pictures, most recently in "Never Too Late" with Paul Ford and "Dead Heat On A Merry-Go-Round" with James Coburn. Recent plays have ranged from Shakespeare to Tennessee Williams and Chekov to William Inge.

Doris Bryant, a mainstay of the Arlington Friends of the Drama knows the theatre from backstage to the business office out front. In her latest on-stage appearances, she did outstanding jobs in Arlington's productions of "Critic's Choice" and "The Music Man."

Steve, who does the part of Albert, the ne'er-do-well nephew in the current production, has a list of credits that belies his age. Stage Manager at the Weston Playhouse this past summer, he has had featured roles in such plays as "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Camino Real," "Hedda Gabler" and "Kiss Me Kate." His particular backstage specialty is lighting design.

"Ladies In Retirement" will be seen at Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church on November 17, 18, and 19. For tickets, call Ruth Albee at 729-5844.

Mishawum Valley Choral Society At Shalom Emeth

Temple Shalom Emeth at 14 Green Street, Woburn announces that following the regular business meeting which will start at 8 p.m. sharp tonight, the Mishawum Valley Choral Society will entertain the members and friends with "A Program in Song." Mr. P. Eugene Gould is the director of this very fine group.

Let's fill the hall not only with song but with an attentive audience as well. Everyone is welcome to come and "Hum" along with the beautiful voices of the Mishawum Valley Choral Society. Entertainment will start about 9:30 p.m., so if you don't come to the meeting, plan to come and hear the Choral Society. Coffee and conversation will follow.

THE "EYES" HAVE IT

About a year ago I had an ad in the Star that was printed in very small type. I wanted to see just how many people read the fine print. I was amazed at the results. So let's try it again. We have some very nice turtle neck (long sleeve) jerseys for ladies that for the purpose of this little game are reduced in price. In several colors there is a cotton zipper-back jersey, that we've reduced to $3.50 from $5, also a nylon 2-piece back jersey reduced to $5.50 from $7.00 Thursday and Saturday. If you have good eyes and a flair for a bargain, come buy a few for yourself or for Christmas gifts.

Enrichment Key Aid to Poverty

"Educational enrichment is clearly an antidote to poverty," declared John H. Funk at an address November 2 in Lexington to the Winchester-Bedford-Lexington branch of the American Association of University Women.

Mr. Funk, director of the Educational Enrichment Program, as well as of the Middle School of the Belmont Hill School, Belmont, describes the nature and extent of the EEP. Now in its fourth year, EEP is a successful experiment in helping children in urban communities who need broader and richer educational opportunities than are presently available to them.

For two years the AAUW has been studying the effects of federal education programs on poverty pockets throughout the nation. Mr. Funk's address marked a highlight of this study as well as a fresh approach to the problem, since EEP utilizes foundation rather than federal funds and independent rather than public school facilities.

"The greatest potential for such a program lies in the group of youngsters now beginning to emerge from our less privileged neighborhoods," Mr. Funk declared. These children are neither the academically gifted nor the severely disturbed or retarded. They are the average students, able to read at grade level, whose perspective needs broadening and whose abilities for study and leadership need to be developed.

That success has been achieved in these unique summer sessions held at six private schools in the area can indeed be measured in improved I.Q. scores, Mr. Funk declared. More important, however, is a marked increase of "caring and concern, personal awareness, interest and responsibility."

Followup work under teachers in their own schools who have been a part of the summer sessions will help insure that advantages and perspectives gained will not become distorted into either feelings of superiority or frustration. Rather it is hoped that students who have benefited from one or more of these EEP summers will return challenged and better equipped to become leaders in their own communities.

Group To See Man Of La Mancha

The Winchester College Club Drama Group held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Lee McGuire on October 27th. Plans were discussed for the forthcoming year in Theatre study and activity.

The Drama Group elected to see "Man of La Mancha" and will attend the matinee performance on December 7 at the Colonial Theatre.

"Clean Sweep" For Forum

Next Friday and Saturday, November 18th and 19th will be Work Day for Christ for members of the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church.

Each Forumite is asked to earn money at this time which will be used for the church's witness in the world. Anyone needing help with their fall cleaning, indoors or outdoors may call the Forum office 729-3773 and workers will be secured. In conjunction with this effort there will also be a car wash on Saturday the 19th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the church parking lot.

This Friday morning will see the Ecumenical conferees from St. Eulalia and Forum take off by bus for their retreat in Pembroke, N.H. Candi Smiley and Joanne Cincotta, Bob Crook, Jim Madden and John Mericantante have been making final arrangements with the help of their advisers, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Heindel, forum superintendents and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hall and committee members.

Forumites are also working toward a special November 20th Thanksgiving offering for the Boston City Missionary Society.

Blood Donors Day Tuesday, Nov. 22 For Red Cross

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Tuesday, November 22 from 2 to 7 p.m.

Blood donors who have O negative type blood are in particular demand at the present time. There is a great need for this type blood which is also fairly rare. All types of blood are always needed so that all donors are needed.

If you are able to give blood, do remember the date, and start Thanksgiving two days early.

Tom Flaherty, wearing Bobby Nutile's No. 19 jersey, gave a fine account of himself, getting some good yardage. The sophomore looks like a promising runner for next year's team. Wayne Carpenter also moved the ball well on the few occasions he was called upon, while that other sophomore, Pete Knight, played a solid fullback. Dave DeTeso played an excellent game, both on offense and defense.

Outstanding on defense were linebackers Mike Ciarcia and Tom Varley, and Dan McGee as roving linebacker. Grant also held up his end of the Winchester defense, which continued to sparkle to contain Belmont while the Sachem offense was bogged down.

The Sachems had plenty of opportunity to score the easy way, yet won the game on a desperation pass in the last few seconds on an almost impossible-situation catch. Belmont had the zone flooded with defenders, yet out of that welter of arms, one pair, Martin's, managed to outreach the others. Winchester got lucky for a change.

* * * * *

The Belmont Recreation Department had better get on the ball. Only two men were permitted to occupy the hinky-dink stand on which movies of the game were being taken, and which presumably was also supposed to serve as a press box, because one of the supports had a separated weld, and the stand was in danger of collapsing. A few weeks ago the stand started to buckle and the occupants had to get off in a hurry. Are they waiting for something to happen before making repairs?

* * * * *

Belmont hasn't won a game this year, and attendance last Saturday showed it. The Belmont band outnumbered Belmont fans, as did Winchester spectators.

* * * * *

Reading's win over Melrose was a mild upset, yet on the showing of the two teams against Winchester, we picked Reading to win on the strength of Bill Kelly's arm and his two great receivers Watkins and Kiley. The three teamed up to defeat Melrose just as they did the Sachems. Movies of the Melrose-Winchester game revealed that Kelly was throwing 50 and 60-yard passes without taking a forward step. A passer like that doesn't need much protection.

* * * * *

Bob Nutile, injured in the Reading game, is expected to be ready for action tomorrow at Manchester Field. The Sachems seem to have a good chance to win over a Wakefield team which was lucky to get by winless Belmont, and get a tie against Stoneham, both of which the Sachems defeated. However, this is a must game for Wakefield, which has to win this game and the one against Melrose Thanksgiving Day to take the Middlesex League crown.

* * * * *

Today is the game of the year as far as the junior highs are concerned. McCall, which has piled up large point totals against all opposition in its six games and is unscored on, meets Lynch, which hasn't won a game this year. Doesn't seem like an even match, does it? Yet the Denver Broncs knocked off the Patriots Sunday. Upsets do happen. Action takes place at Manchester Field at 3:00 o'clock.

Winchester Defeats Belmont, 6-0 On TD With 24 Seconds To Play

THE TRIO WHO PLAYED A BIG PART in Winchester's win over Belmont last Saturday. John Martin, who caught the winning touchdown pass with 24 seconds to play; Brian Collins, the middleman, literally and pictorially, who took the pass from center and relayed it to Martin; and on the right, Jeff Schlener, who made two key tackles to prevent possible scoring plays by Belmont.

A 26-yard pass from Brian Collins to John Martin with 24 seconds to play resulted in the only score of the game as Winchester defeated a stubborn Belmont team 6-0 at Belmont Saturday. Martin leaped high into the air to snag the ball as he was surrounded by Belmont defenders, inches in bounds in the right corner of the Belmont end zone. Martin also made a key interception earlier in the fourth quarter with a nice over-the-shoulder catch, running the ball back from his 40 to the Belmont 32.

Winchester had plenty of scoring opportunities but couldn't take advantage of them. Belmont controlled the ball more during the first half but never really had a good scoring chance, the farthest penetration being the Winchester 23-yard line late in the second quarter.

Most of the action in the first quarter took place between the 30-yard lines, although a Collins kick rolled and was downed on the Belmont 5. Belmont moved the ball out of danger with plunges and end sweeps for its best drive, good for 34 yards. The Sachems gained little ground in this quarter, but Collins' kicking kept the ball in Belmont territory throughout.

The second quarter was much the same, with Belmont controlling the ball most of the time. A fine tackle by Schlener on a Belmont interception prevented a possible touchdown. Winchester's longest gain was a 15-yarder by Pete Knight. The Sachems managed only 2 first downs in the first half.

The Sachems received to open the third quarter, with Joe Flaherty gaining 5, 1 and 18, the latter on a right-end sweep. Collins was forced to kick on the Belmont 34, the ball going into the end zone. Roger Fenn recovered a Belmont fumble on the 10, but Winchester couldn't take advantage of the break, losing 10 yards on 2 plays and losing the ball when Wayne Carpenter just failed to catch a Collins pass for a TD. Soon afterwards Dave DeTeso caught a Belmont punt on his 45, skirted the right sideline and was finally nailed on the Belmont 4. Here Winchester failed again, even with the aid of a penatly, and the ball went over to Belmont on its 5. Two plays later the quarter ended.

At the start of the fourth quarter the Belmont booter got off a fine kick to the Winchester 35, but DeTeso brought it back to the Belmont 38. After Flaherty gained 4, Belmont intercepted a pass on its 27. Soon afterwards Martin intercepted on the Winchester 40, running the ball back to the Belmont 32, almost breaking away for a TD. After 3 plays gained 8, Collins kicked to the Belmont 25. Belmont started a drive, aided by a roughing-the-kicker penalty, which brought the ball to the Belmont 45. Three passes failed, and Winchester had the ball on its 32. An overcenter pass to Knight gained 9, then Carpenter on a handoff went for 15. Another handoff to Carpenter was good for 9. Knight plunged for 2 and first down to the Belmont 32. Another pass to Flaherty was good for 12 yards. After being smeared for a 6-yard loss, Collins shot the pass which Martin grabbed for the TD. The conversion attempt failed, and the Sachems had a 6-0 win as Belmont got off one pass-play attempt which Varley broke up.

Newton Avenges Early Loss 8-0

The Newton Pop Warner Junior team, losing only to the Jr. Wee Sachems early in the schedule, rebounded in the second game of the series to hand the lighter Winchester team its second defeat of the season, 8-0. Playing at Shore Road Field, the front offensive wall for Winchester was not hitting hard enough to give runners a chance to break through for the necessary gains. The earlier surprise weapon of Jeff Ashton's sprinting around end was foreseen in the second game which required Winchester to move up the middle. Two men keyed on Ashton wide, which should have meant weakness in the center of the line.

The front line threatened to take advantage there, and although Winchester threatened, it could not cross the Newton goal line. It looked as if, in this battle of defense, the game would end in a stand still, for the Winchester defense was just as strong as the Newton defense. But in the fourth quarter, Newton pulled a double reverse that completely fooled the right side of the Winchester defensive line. The wingback skirted around his end and down the sidelines for the one touchdown of the game. In the last few minutes, Winchester's last hope of scoring faded when the runner was thrown back behind the line in the end zone for a safety. In kicking off from their own 20, Winchester could not get posession of the ball again.

The game was well played defensively but the first and tens were not plentiful. Jeff Ashton ran well in spite of the coverage. Paul Tonello drove hard for his gains up the middle. On defense, the first team did very well. Pass coverage was excellent, a formidable Newton weapon in previous games. The line of Karl Mayer, Alec Phippen, Tim Duffy, Brian Cullen, Kerry Brough, Joe Martignetti, Ricky Ball, and Robie Ungaretti played well. Jacky Strain as corner back made two key tackles of sweeps that could have gone all the way.

The outcome of this series with Newton led to an invitation for entrance into a Junior League that would probably consist of Newton, Brookline, Belmont, and Winchester if it choses to enter.

Julia Shiang To Speak Before Scout Meeting

The fall meeting of the Mistick Side Girl Scout Council Inc. will be held on Monday evening, November 14 at 8 at the Lafayette School in Everett. This is an open meeting and all registered Girl Scout adults are invited to attend.

"Values to Hold—Worlds to Explore" will be the theme of the meeting which will include highlights brought back from the National Council Meeting which was held in Detroit in October. These will include "The U.S.A. in the 1980's" "Program in Action" and "Leadreship in the Future."

Julia Shiang of Yale Street, the East-West Conference delegate from the Mistick Side Council will speak about her experiences at the Senior Scout meeting held in Hawaii this summer.

There will be a short business meeting chaired by the president, Mrs. James R. Stewart, Jr. of Winslow Road.

Other delegates from Winchester are Mrs. Lawrence Beckley, Mrs. Harold Butters, Jr., Mrs. Richard Cary, Mrs. George Kimball, Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Mrs. Emmons Ellis, Mrs. Winfred Knopf, Mrs. Kenneth Donaghey, Mrs. Joseph McDonogh and Mrs. John Nowell.

Also from Winchester as delegates are Mrs. A. Apostolou, Mrs. Richard Dutting, Mrs. Jenness Eugley, Mrs. Eleanor Fitzgerald, Mrs. Arthur Gast, Mrs. Dennis Heindel, Mrs. Nolan Jones, Mrs. James Miller and Mrs. Anthony Pelletier. Alternates are Mrs. Robert DeBourke, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Mrs. Ralph Ranzo and Mrs. Steve Johnis.

Mistick Side Girl Scout Council is a member of the United Community Services and receives funds from the Massachusetts Bay United Fund.

S. O. I. News

The regular monthly meeting for November was held this past Monday evening Nov. 7th, and Venerable Art Dunbar started the meeting at 8:30 p.m. At this meeting four new members were installed into the Lodge and they were: Richard Russo, Francis Scarpasi, Robert Cuff, and Perry Freda. We welcome you fellows into the lodge and hope that you will enjoy the club-house and its membership.

Chairman Al Fiorilli of the Golf Committee reported that the golf season is over for this year and it ended with its first annual Golf banquet and dance which was held at the club quarters this past Oct. 29th. There were about 90 people in attendance plus the invited guests. At this banquet 28 trophies were given out to the deserving members. The Sportsmanship award given out by the golf committee was awarded to Joe Collaggero. A Good Fellowship award was awarded to Anthony (Moose) Bellino.

Chairman Gus Baldacci of the Children's Christmas Party committee gave a report on the coming party. It will be held on the Sunday afternoon before Christmas which is on December 18th, and will start at 2 p.m. He and his committee are now out getting the names and ages (up to 10 years old) of your children so that they each may get a gift from Santa. If you are not contacted please give the names and ages of your children to Gus Baldacci, John Mangano, John Riccio, or Nick Delfino. We hope the members will also give a small donation to help defray the cost of this happy affair.

The annual special Veterans Day Dance will be held tonight at the club hall. There will not be a charge for admission and it is open to members and non-members. The dancing will be from 8 p.m. until 12 p.m., so come on down, and bring a friend or two to make this affair as successful as it has been in the past. See you there!

At the regular monthly meeting of the Aberjona Civic Association which was held this past Oct. 17th. the Board of directors elected officers for the coming year and they are: Richard Penta, president; Joe Paonessa, vice president; Rocco DeTesso, clerk; and Michael D. Saraco, treasurer.

District director of the Winchester lodge, Armand Luccorilli spoke a few words praising the lodge and the many functions that have been had in the past, and of the many planned for the future. He also read the official report from the Grand Lodge.

On the subject of the welfare of the order "Musky" Tofuri got up and thanked the lodge for its kind rememberance at the time of his confinement at the hospital for his recent illness. He also wanted to thank the blood committee for the blood that was given to him in his hour of need. He said that the S.O.I. Blood Bank program was a fine one and you will never know until you are in need yourself. He hopes that more and more members will give to the Blood Bank to insure blood for themselves or other members who may have the need.

Portable artists sketching pad with handle for easy carrying. Clips for holding paper. Size 24x36. Can also be used for jig-saw puzzle fans. Priced at $4.00 at the Winchester Star.

Women's Tennis Here Today

The Winchester Women's Indoor Lawn Tennis Team played its first home match vs. The Dedham Polo & Country Club and emerged as the winners.

Mrs. Nell Walker (Lexington) and Miss Bevely Rymes (Lexington) defeated Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Minor.

Mrs. Ann Hussey (Weston) and Mrs. Mary Ann Patrick (Winchester) defeated Mrs. Sykes and Mrs. Lawrence.

Mrs. Lucy White (Winchester) and Mrs. Sue Sanborn (Winchester) defeated Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Ryburn.

Mrs. Linda Beutner (Arlington) and Mrs. Rita Friedland (Arlington) defeated Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Cheston.

The next scheduled match for the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Team will be against The Country Club of Brookline, at the Winchester Indoor Lawn Tennis Courts 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Thursday, November 10. Anyone wishing to watch the matches will be welcome.

"Landlords" To Appear at Immac. CYO Dance Sat.

Saturday, November 12, the Immaculate Conception Church will hold a dance in its parish hall on Sheridan Circle.

The dance will feature the well-known and popular group, "The Landlords." Suit coats and ties should be worn by the boys, and appropriate aparel for the girls. Admission will be very moderate, tickets available at the door. Dance begins at 8 o'clock and everyone is welcome.

John A. Cuozzo, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Cuozzo, Sr., of 55 Hemingway Street, is in the clarinet section of the Tufts University Concert Band. The band performs four major concerts per year, including the popular "Pops Night at Tufts," as well as several concerts outside the Boston area. A sophomore in the College of Liberal Arts, Mr. Cuozzo is a member of the soccer team.

Gardenias took all 8 points from the Violets. Terry Dattilo of the Gardenias boweled in good form with a score of 303.

Carnations lost 6 points to the Petunias. The match of these two teams was very close. Both Captains bowled hard and well. Ginger bowled a 278 and Ann bowled 271.

Daisies also took 6 points this week. Losing to the Daisies were the Daffodils. This match was very close also. Cusi Fiore of the Daisies bowled terrific with a score of 295.

Last place team Buttercups are still in last, even though they took 6 points from the Roses. Things are looking up for them. Betty Buttercup bowling in her usual good form bowled a 311.

Tulips lost 6 points to the Pansies. This gives the Pansies a chance to get up in first place. The three top teams are very close.

Eight weeks, and we are still waiting for someone to rack up three strikes in a row.

The Bears are still holding their high triple and high single, and they are only in fourth place. R. Riga has high single and R. Russo has high triple. Why can't some of the others knock these gentlemen off the top? A four hundred and a two hundred will do just nicely. Perhaps Richie and Richie will set a record for the books.

The Mustangs took 6 from the top team Misfits and the Jaguars took six from the Saabs.

Fran was high for the night with a 280, Norma second with a 274, and Eleanor third with a 270. Good bowling girls.

Millie, Pat, Eleanor, Lib, and Lucy all had a good night and our new girl Jean is doing very well.

Flaw won the pool again, Lady Luck is with her this year.

Cappie take care of your bronchitis—we need you.

The girls get a gold star this week. It's the first time since bowling started that no one has been absent. Let's keep it up.

DUPLICATE BRIDGE

On Wednesday, November 2, 11 tables settled down in Section A to play 22 boards with an average of 110. After the play was over, Lolly and Dick Smith had turned in a fine 70% game of 153 points to win easily East-West. In the North-South direction, Tom Young, a newcomer to Winchester from Oregon, paired with Miggs Root, squeaked out a one-point win with 134 points.

Dave Littleton, one of our regular contributors, writes the hand this week.

While it is generally accepted that luck as well as good play, is a vital ingredient in winning match-point bridge games, it is sometimes difficult to demonstrate this point in an obvious manner. Many times the luck consists simply of a favorable lie of the cards or a very subtle defensive slip. Few are the declarers who, after bringing home a tight, or even impossible contract, are ready to admit that they were simply lucky! I offer the following evidence of "out-and-out" luck, and admit, perhaps unwisely, that I was the grateful recipient.

I held, in third position, sitting East, the following hand:

♠ A J 3
♥ Q 5
♦ J 9 7 2
♣ K J 10 4

After a one-diamond opening by partner with the opponents remaining silent, the bidding proceeded as shown: (explanation to follow)

West	North	East	South
1D	Pass	1H	Pass
1S	Pass	2NT	Pass
4H	Pass	4S	Pass
5D	Pass	5NT	Pass
6D	Pass	6NT	Pass

All Pass

My initial one-heart bid deserves some explanation. Having an opening bid myself, but holding no four-card major, I decided the hand would probably play best in three no trump, and bid one heart to inhibit this lead against the final contract. After partner's one-spade call, I followed my plan with a natural two no-trump bid. When partner embarrassed me (unknowingly) with her four-heart bid, I had no choice but to attempt to sign off in four spades. Partner, however, convinced that hearts was our agreed suit, read this as a cue bid, and returned the compliment by bidding five diamonds. Again I attempted to sign off, this time a five no trump, but partner was not to be stopped, and cue bid diamonds again. I considered a pass to six diamonds, but knowing that partner's suit might be only three cards, decided to bid six no trump, and was happy when no one doubled. The Ace of clubs was led, and partner tabled this interesting assortment:

♠ Q 7 6 5
♥ A J 10 4

Needless to say, I would have sold my chances to make this hand for a ticket to last year's World Series! However, things began to look up at trick two when the defense continued clubs, with North's Queen going to my King. I now led the Queen of hearts, which held, and continued with a low heart. South played the King, which I won with dummy's Ace. Dummy's five of spades was now led for a finess of the jack, which held; and I thought, "Am I really going to make this hand?"

I counted tricks; 2 spades, 4 hearts, 2 diamonds and 3 clubs. If the queen of diamonds dropped, I surely was! I cashed 2 clubs, and crossed to dummy with a diamond, but on the second high diamond, the queen failed to appear, leaving the following end position:

West
♠ Q 7
♥ J 10

East
♠ A 3
♦ J 9

Thus I made six no trump, the full deal being as follows:

West
♠ Q 7 6 5
♥ A J 10 4
♦ A K 6 3
♣ 9

South
♠ 8 4
♥ K 9 8 7 6
♦ 10 8
♣ A 8 7 5

North
♠ K 10 9 2
♥ 3 2
♦ Q 5 4
♣ Q 6 3-2

East
♠ A J 3
♥ Q 5
♦ J 9 7 2
♣ K J 10 4

Perhaps now, you believe in luck. I certainly do. What's that you say, "Where was the defense?" Thank you for asking—I didn't have the heart to. I just picked up my rabbit's foot, horseshoe, and a four-leaf clover, and plodded on to the next table.

Editor's Note: Of course the run-of-the-mill player, which most of us are, would love to see the bidder of a psyche hoist with his own petard; oh well, better luck next time. I still feel a few psychic bidders keep the rest of us on the alert, which is a general asset in a bridge game.

Holy Name Turkey Festival

Spiritual Director Fr. O'Donnell and his very diligent working committee headed by co-chairman Robert J. Costello and Leo F. Roche, Jr. have made final plans for the Annual Turkey Festival sponsored by the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church.

This is the lone affair planned for the year with the proceeds being used for the Scholarship Fund to assist in furthering the education of a few well deserving young people. Won't you be the one who can proudly say you helped by participating?

Those who have attended the Festival in the past are anxiously awaiting the opening of the doors and if you never participated you should make it a must on your calendar and do it now! It is not necessary that you be a member of the Holy Name Society to sit in with us that evening so bring your neighbors along with you.

The event is to be held at St. Mary's Hall on Monday evening, Nov. 21st at 8:30 p.m.

Many prizes will be awarded during the course of the evening and you could be the lucky ticket holder for a turkey or two, fruit baskets, boxes of candy and chocolates, jugs of cider, fruit cakes, turkey dinners with all the trimmings, etc. Feel lucky? Well be sure to come on down!

With Thanksgiving and Xmas just around the corner some of your winnings would be quite helpful for your holiday dinners. There is no limit to the number of your winings so the evening could prove both profitable and enjoyable.

We expect to see you at St. Mary's Hall on Monday evening, Nov. 21st at 8:30 p.m.

For further information please contact co-chairman Robert J. Costello 729-1730 and Leo F. Roche, Jr. 729-2340.

McCall Classes Morning Visit

The annual "Morning Visit" to McCall Junior High School classrooms will be held on Tuesday, November 15, at 9:30 a.m., and will be followed by a discussion period with Joseph Forte.

After a successful and well attended Open House, this follow-up visit will give the parents an opportunity to observe the instruction in several of their children's classrooms. All parents are invited to take advantage of this morning program to become better acquainted with their children's daily learning experiences, and get a first-hand view of the educational program in action.

Palmer Loses In Playoff Match; Kathy Wins No. 8

By Harry McGrath

Arnold Palmer, after a terrific comeback in the final round, with a four under 68, to tie a 20-year-old Australian pro, lost on the second hole of a sudden death playoff.

Arnold started the last round of the Dunlop Golf Tournament, held in Sydney, Australia, five strokes behind the 20-year-old Bob Stanton, Peter Thomson and Daryl Welch, all native Australians, but came in with his 68 for a total of 294, to tie Stanton who had a 73.

Thomson and Welch fell behind in the final round.

Palmer and Stanton parred the first hole though Palmer had to sink a 15 footer to keep the match going.

However, Arnie, who ran away with the Australian Open last week, bogeyed the second hole and Stanton, a professional for only 20 months, got his par for the biggest win of his short career.

The total prize money was $8,000 of which $2,000 went for first place.

Some difference from some of our $100,000-$200,000 tournaments!

In Amarillo, Texas, Kathy Whitworth won her 8th tournament to tie Mickey Wright for most wins for the year.

And Miss Whitworth had to do it the hard way, because she started the third and last round five strokes behind the long hitting Miss Wright, but came up with a 68 as against Mickey's 73.

Both finished the 54 holes with 255's and Kathy won the sudden death playoff.

Kathy's win gives her an official money winning total of $29,353 as against Mickey's total of $24,430. Kathy received $1,500 and Mickey $1,200.

To my knowledge there are only two more events left on the ladies tour, and even though they are both Texas events I don't think the purses are large enough to give Mickey any chance of catching up.

In between the Whitworth-Wright money winnings is Sandra Haynie with $25,463.

Incidentally, Sandra was the defending champion at last week's Las Cruces event and had to withdraw because of injuries she sustained in an automobile accident en route to that tournament.

However, I am glad to report that she was able to play in the Amarillo event, finishing 8th, and collecting $420.

Of course $29,000, $25,000, $24,000 isn't exactly hay—but the girls must drool a bit when they look at the men's list of official winnings. The 25th place held by none other than Julius Boros whose official "take" up to now is $38,085.

At the Mexican Open, Bob McAlister picked up $3,000 for his win of the Below the Border Championship. Dudley Wysong one of the comers on the circuit, was one stroke out. McAlister was 278 for the 72 holes, while Wysong had 279. They went into the final round all even, but Bob came in with a 67, while Dudley was putting together a most respectable 68.

McAlister, suffering from Arthritis, won the Seagram Cup along with his $3,000.

There is no word as to what goes with the Seagram Cup—or in it!

I was pleased to learn that Billy Casper was named the PGA Player of the Year.

Casper leads in tournaments won—four; Money won—official money that is—with $120,748; the Vardon scoring average; and the Ryder Cup point standing.

He was a shoo-in!

The win of his second U.S. Open title in his playoff with Arnold Palmer, followed that with his second consecutive win in the Western Open. The other two victories were the San Diego Open and the Indianapolis 500 Festival.

He has won the Vardon Scoring Trophy in 1960, 1963, and 1965, and played on the 1961-1963 and the 1965 Ryder Cup Matches.

He is looked upon by his fellow Pros as the "Complete" golfer.

Jack Nicklaus is just about $10,500 behind Casper in official winnings, and they will both play in the postponed Houston International, November 17-20, and first money amounts to $21,000.

Casper has participated in 20 tournaments and finished in the money in every one of them. Nicklaus has played in 16 tournaments and was in the money in each of them.

Arnold Palmer has been in 17 tourneys and was in the money in 16 of them. Arnies official take is $89,468. Doug Sanders is fourth, having won $74,496 in the 24 tourneys he has played in, finishing in the money in 20 of them.

One of those 24, was the "non-Signing" episode.

The Canada Cup, one of the great International Tournaments, will be played this week, November 11-13 at the Yomuri C.C. in Tokyo, Japan.

There has been some misunderstanding as to the apparent "choice" of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer as the United States representatives.

The format calls for the International Golf Association to submit a list of Cup-Point earners to the host country and the reigning golf association of that country may choose any two from the names submitted.

Japan picked Nicklaus and Palmer.

Fred Corcoran who manages the tournament, and has done so much to promote golf throughout the world, says that Japan has taken to golf as it did to baseball. He goes on to say that even though the Los Angeles Dodgers were scheduled (and have since done so) to tour Japan, it was Arnold Palmer's photo in the shop windows and the news of the Canada Cup that is on the front page.

Begun in 1952 as a match between the Canadian and the U.S. Pros, the event has grown into an International fixture.

So much so that Billy Casper when not chosen, arranged several overseas appearances "to improve his image."

The United States team are the favorites both for the team title and the individual crown.

The U.S. representatives have won seven team titles in the thirteen years, but other nations have won, Argentina, Australia (twice), Japan, Ireland and South Africa also racked up victories.

Last year Gary Player and Harold Henning won for South Africa, Gary also winning the individual title.

Last year the late Tony Lema teamed with Jack Nicklaus but they couldn't stop Player who was having his greatest year.

Nicklaus and Palmer will be looking for their third win, having won in Paris in 1963 and in Hawaii in 1964.

There are teams from countries and the play is for 72 holes, all team scores counting for the team title, and the low individual score wins the singles trophy.

Interest is so high in Japan, that all four rounds will be televised, and arrangements have already been made to televise the play-off.

The sponsoring International Golf Association is made up of the General Dynamics Corp.; Time-Life Inc.; Pan American Airways and the American Express Co.

The prize money is not too great, but the tournament carries great prestige.

All the teams are made up of professionals, with the exception of the Czechoslovkia, whose team is made up of amateurs, and one of the players representing the Philippines is an amateur.

The growth of golf in Japan has been phenomenal.

Schools Dismiss Early Wednesday; Lunch Is Served

All Winchester Public Schools will release pupils at noon on Wednesday, November 16. The released time will permit teachers and administration to function in a workshop on a new supervisory plan.

Lunch will, however, be served in all secondary schools and at Noonan Annex on this day. Contrary to the School Department's announcement last week, it is planned that the cafeterias serve lunch on "released time," early dismissal days throughout the year.

THE BIGGEST for sale sign of all is the LITTLE classified ad you run in the Winchester Star.

For The Frances Tomasello Club

FINAL PLANS are made for the Thanksgiving Card Party and Food Fair to benefit the Home for Italian Children to be held on Monday, November 21, at 7:30 P.M., at 1125 Center Street, Jamaica Plain. Seated from left are Mrs. Joseph Caputo of Hillcrest Parkway, Mrs. Frank Ramacorti of Arlington and Mrs. Louis Parziale of Oxford Street.

Unitarian Bazaar Coming W'dnesday

With a theme of "Angels" in a color scheme of green, gold, and white, the annual Christmas Bazaar at the Winchester Unitarian Church will be held from 7-10 p.m. of Wednesday, November 16, and from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on Thursday, November 17.

Under the direction of Mrs. Robert Roundey and Mrs. Thornton Stearns, the Bazaar will open with dessert and coffee served Wednesday evening by Mrs. Frank T. Barnes and her committee, at which time all booths will be open. Special features this year will include a large assortment of new wedding gowns from Priscilla of Boston to be sold at the Clothes Exchange by Mrs. David Wardwell and Mrs. Carlton Totman.

On Thursday morning coffee and afternoon tea will be served by Mrs. Ralph Harper and Mrs. Robert Westwater. Mrs. George Rivinius and Mrs. Robert Wild invite you to partake of a delicious luncheon with sittings promptly at 12 and 1. The treasures in the Art Gallery will be sold by silent auction, according to Mrs. Erwin Renz. Mrs. Nicholas Deininger and Mrs. Irving Dingwell, Jr., have a colorful assortment of mittens for the entire family. Mrs. Warren Jackson and Mrs. Howard Abbott will offer an extensive display of books and Mrs. Arthur Bird's Handicraft Table has a large selection of handmade gifts. Stunning Christmas decorations have been created by Mrs. Wallace Blanchard and Mrs. James Joslin with their committee. The Plant Table of Mrs. Ronold King and Mrs. Lewis Wadsworth will feature house plants and herbs to complement the home baked foods offered by Mrs. Sumner Andrews.

The Children's Fair, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Nolan Jones and Mrs. Warburton VerPlanck, is pleased to present "The Magic of Snow" by the Penguin Puppeteers at 4 p.m. on Thursday. After the performance the children are invited to go behind the scenes to see how the marionettes are worked.

Other busy chairmen preparing the Candy, Household, Remnant, and white elephant tables include Mrs. Elliot Blaisdell, Mrs. Leslie DeGroot, Mrs. Everett Kidder, Mrs. James Kidder, Mrs. Charles Koch, Mrs. John Lyman, Mrs. Alan Howard, Mrs. Frederick Churchill, and Mrs. James Kimball.

VFW Ladies Hold Successful Dance

A most enjoyable evening was had by all who attended the annual Halloween dance held by the VFW Ladies Auxiliary Post 3719.

Prizes were awarded for the costumes. First prize went to Gert McMahon for funniest and to Nellie Boliver, most original. Later in the evening, prizes were awarded when they dunked for apples and first prize went to Robert Powers, second to Rita Collins and third to James Rae.

Sincere thanks go from the group to all who helped in making the raffle of the German Shepherd pup a huge success. Winner of the dog was Leonard Foley of 17 Oak Street. The money will be spent for Christmas gifts for the boys in Vietnam.

Book Review For Crittenton Is November 18

Celebrating 15th Anniversary

Homefronters Make Plans to Hold Tag Day Saturday, November 19th

Saturday, November 19, will be an important day for Homefronters and their supporters when members will be stationed throughout the town to sell tags to benefit the important work of the organization.

This year over 200 Christmas packages have been sent to young men and women in the service. Tender, loving care went into the selection, purchasing and packaging of the 24 items contained in each carton, which was wrapped in gay Christmas-design paper. A Christmas card with the following verse was also enclosed:

Christmas Greetings Especially for you from
The Winchester Homefronters
Who said out of sight,
out of mind?
Why, you're in our thoughts
all the time.
Just to prove we mean
what we say,
Here's a box of goodies—
to open on Christmas Day.

Contents of the 1966 Xmas boxes included.

- Writing tablet and envelopes
- "Yankee" Magazine
- Novel
- "Praying Hands" booklet by James L. Jenks
- Shoe shine kit
- Wash-and-dry Jiffy towels (from EnKa)
- Foot powder
- Soap
- Playing cards (from Rotary)
- Insect repellent
- Pen and pencil (from Fitzgerald Fuel and Winchester Savings Bank)
- Comb and case (from Girl Scouts)
- Money pouch (from Puffer Ins. Co.)
- Halazone tablets (from Jaycee-ettes
- 1967 calendar (from Winchester National Bank)
- Fruit cakes (from Girl Scouts)
- Toothbrush and paste
- Can potato sticks
- Can cocktail peanuts
- Assorted candies

In addition to those organizations listed above, others making gratefully received contributions to the parcels included:

- Knights of Columbus
- VFW Post 3719
- VFW Auxiliary
- Winchester Womens Lodge 1592
- Lodge of Elks 1445
- Rotary
- Salvation Army
- American Legion Post 97
- American Legion Auxiliary
- Fortnightly
- EnKa
- First Congregational Church
- Merry Marthas, Second Congregational Church
- Women of Epiphany
- Unitarian
- Immaculate Conception
- St. Mary's

Personal donations came from: M. Leo Pistorino, Mrs. Erwin Hutchings, Mrs. George F. Winterson and Mrs. G. Miller Fisher.

The Sons of Italy donated their hall for the packaging of the cartons.

The Winchester Homefronters have been remembering service people away from home with parcels since November 16, 1951. At that time a letter to the Star from Mrs. Kenneth B. Toye of the founding committee told the story of the start of the group:

THE WINCHESTER HOMEFRONTERS" IS BORN

"Editor of the Star:

The time has come when the women of Winchester have taken a most constructive step to set up an organization for the benefit of our men and women in the Armed Forces, said organization to be called "The Winchester Homefronters." The organization came into being in the following manner. At the last meeting of the Women's Council, Mrs. William Cusack broached the subject of remembering our boys and girls in the Services at Xmas time. This received such an enthusiastic response that Mrs. Cusack, Mrs. J. W. Shoemaker and Mrs. W. E. Underwood got on the telephone and contacted every organization listed in the "Womens Oroganizations of Winchester," asking that a representative attend a meeting to be held November 5th at the home of Mrs. Cusack. The attendance was large and represented every precinct in town.

After thorough discussion it was decided that there would not be time to compile a list of Service people, obtain funds and mail packages for this Xmas, but that we could, and would, compile the list and send a card to every Winchester man or woman in the Armed Forces. To be able to do this we must have the cooperation of all families having anyone in the Services. When the list has been compiled you will be called, and after proper identification, you will be asked to give the current address of the member of your family in the Services. Or, you may go into the Winchester Library, where Miss Corinne Mead will be in charge of the Services file, and register the member of your family there. Inasmuch as a service man is constantly having a change of address, we earnestly ask that you keep the service file up-to-date by notifying Miss Meade, or her assistant Miss Doris Maxwell, as the changes may come along. This file will eventually be the Town record of our people in the Services."

PRINTING
TOWN REPORTS
FOR 1966

Sealed proposals plainly marked "Town Report Bid" and addressed to the Board of Selectmen will be received at the office of the Selectmen, Town Hall, Winchester, Mass., on or before 3:00 p.m. Wednesday, November 23, 1966, at which time they will be publicly opened and read covering the following materials in the approximate quantities named:

1500 copies to be wired and bound in paper, covers printed:

50 copies to be sewed and bound in cardboard covered with black cloth and covers stamped in gold leaf.

Some of the copy will be supplied about December 22nd and a large part of it by January 23, 1967, and final Controller's report by February 3rd. Complete delivery of the paper-bound copies at the Town Hall is required by February 20, 1967. Bids should be for said delivery and terms are to be stated. Also specify hourly rates for author's changes.

All copy and proof to be taken from and delivered to the Selectmen's Office.

The reports shall be of the same size and general style (with justified lines) and of equal quality and workmanship as the reports for the year 1964 which contained 243 single pages of reports, covers not counted as pages. Bids should be on a per page basis. Copy of last 1964's report may be seen at the Selectmen's Office.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, or to accept such bid as is deemed for the best interest of the Town of Winchester.

Attention Housewives

How many housewives really know the difference between Porterhouse, Club and T-bone steak, when turkeys are a good buy, or how to test a melon for ripeness?

Anyone who is unsure of the answers to these and many other questions will get the facts—and have a chance to test their own shopping skills—when Channel 2 presents the "National Food Buyers Quiz" Thursday, November 18, at 8 p.m.

Matignon Guild Meets Next Week

On November 17, consultations with the faculty will begin at 7 p.m. and continue until all parents have been seen.

Mrs. Daniel Regan, president of the Matignon Guild will preside at a short business meeting in the cafeteria and then refreshments will be served.

Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Joseph Sousa, Mrs. James McElhenny, Mrs. Peter Scanlon, Mrs. Dominic Anastasia and Mrs. Henry Wilayto.

Attendants will also hear of the coming "Bonanzo" to be held November 30 in the auditorium, with refreshments to follow in the cafeteria. This is a "First" for the Guild.

Birthday Party At Halloween

A Halloween birthday party was given in honor of Debbie Lentini of Woburn formerly of Winchester.

The playroom was gaily decorated by her mother Edith Lentini, her grandmother Capone, and Mary McGahey. Attending her tenth birthday party were her many friends and cousins. Prizes were won as follows: 1st prize, Billy Lucas; 2nd prize, Linda Lucas; 3rd prize, Judy Airey; and booby prize, Pauline Airey. Steven, Lainey, Dotty, John, Albert, Eddie, and Brenda all won consolation prizes. Refreshments were served and a good time was had by all the little witches and goblins.

LWV Ask Schools For More "Public" Information

Information for the public about high school program and high school educational specifications was requested by the Winchester League of Women Voters at the School Committee meeting on November 7.

Mrs. Philip Hankins, president of the local league, told the School Committee that educational specifications are written for the architect, not the public.

She stated that the public needs information to evaluate any Permanent Building Committee proposals to solve the high school space needs.

She presented the following questions to define the information requested by the League:

1. How has the present high school building caused problems and limitations in the present high school program?

2. How will the educational specifications for new high school construction solve these problems and limitations?

3. What program changes and expansions can result from the educational specifications?

The School Committee requested that Superintendent of Schools, Harry V. Gilson, undertake the organization of a public relations program to answer these questions.

Women's Medical Auxiliary to Hear Milton Babcock

Milton Babcock, national authority on Early American antiques, will give an illustrated lecture with with colored slides of Early American interiors at the November 17 meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Middlesex East Society.

The meeting will be held at the Lord Wakefield Motor Hotel with a social hour at noon, luncheon at 12:30, followed by a brief business meeting and Mr. Babcock's talk. Members of the group and their guests are invited to bring in articles for identification and appraisal.

Mr. Babcock has been lecturing for twenty years and is a former instructor of antiques at M.I.T., for the State Department of Education, and also for the Boston Center for Adult Education.

Mrs. Andrew J. Fichera of Winchester, president of the Auxiliary, will welcome guests and preside at the business meeting.

2 Here Active At Educators Conf.

Henry B. Perry, director of personnel for the Winchester School Department, is attending the national convention of the Association for School, College and University Staffing at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel November 8-11.

Mr. Perry has worked on the planning committee for this convention of approximately 300 directors of educational placement from schools, colleges, and universities across the nation. He will also serve as a panel member in a discussion on "Divergent approaches to the Interviewing Process."

Also active in the conference from Winchester is Dr. Dana M. Cotton of Yale Street, director of placement at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, who presented the welcome address at the opening session and who will act as chairman of a panel on "Current trends in the selection of School Administrative Personnel."

Responsibilities, Etiquette to Be Sitters' Topic

A brief but thorough discussion of baby sitters' etiquette and general responsibilities and an exam on the content of the entire course is the agenda for the final session of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes' Baby Sitters' School.

Mrs. L. Lee Osburn, chairman of the project, will emphasize the importance of the proper attitude toward baby sitting. Participants, already schooled in all areas of safety in child care, are to be reminded of the necessity for promptness, giving careful attention to parents' instructions, complying with rules regarding phone, T.V., and guests, and reporting to the parents on their return.

Although the sitter's main responsibility is the child or children in her charge, care of the home, that is, picking up after herself and the children, will also be discussed.

Certificates denoting successful completion of the course will be mailed to those whose attendance and exam grade qualify them.

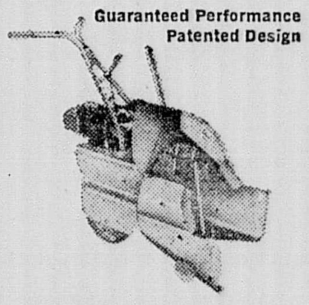
SNOWTHROWER



WHY PAY FOR HORSEPOWER YOU DON'T NEED?

Efficient Rotary Fan Design Means that the 3 HP Jari Out-performs High-Speed Blowers with Much Higher Horsepower —

The Jari self-propelled 2-way Snowthrower has a rotary fan speed of only 500 rpm. It is more efficient than high speed blowers which require more power. And lower horsepower requirement means Jari costs less.

So buy performance, not horsepower. And Jari's performance has been proved by 14 years of successful operation.

The "Layman's Awareness" Topic For Dr. Lynch

Following the reception of Holy Communion at the 7:45 Mass on Sunday, November 13, the members of Saint Mary's Holy Name Society will be addressed by Dr. Brock Lynch on the subject of "The Layman's Awareness."

DR. BROCK LYNCH

Following graduation from Winchester High School, Dr. Lynch did his pre-medical studies at the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, and received his M.D. at the Yale University School of Medicine.

Most recently, Dr. Lynch has been a member of the Board of Advisors of the Cardinal Cushing College, Brookline, and senior surgeon at the Malden Hospital as well as staff surgeon, Tumor Clinic of St. Elizabeth's Hospital and of the Boston Dispensary.

At this meeting at Knights of Columbus Hall, returns can be made for the Annual Turkey Festival which takes place at St. Mary's Hall on November 21st. At this annual fun affair, there's an excellent chance to win one of 50 turkeys and assorted trimmings, and, at the same time, support the worthy scholarship fund which the Holy Name Society sponsors.

MSPCA Hears New President Speak

Mrs. Maxwell McCreery of 4 Curtis Street was hostess to the members of the Winchester Auxiliary of the MSPCA on Monday, November 7.

The guest speaker was David S. Claflin, the new president of the Massachusetts SPCA, and the large group that attended thoroughly enjoyed hearing him tell of the important part that our senators and representatives in Washington play in enacting and enforcing humane legislation in the field of slaughter and research conditions. Being in his position, he had many first-hand, pertinent facts to report. A humorous note was injected when Mr. Claflin was asked about the much publicized "domesticated" moose, who is now at the Franklin Park Zoo. He informed us that a kind benefactor had offered to find a "Mrs." for Mr. Moose.

The afternoon closed with a pleasant social hour. Mrs. Woodrow Boynton and Mrs. Henry Delaney served delicious tea and sandwiches with the help of Mrs William MacDonald. The pourers were Mrs. Richard Chase and Mrs. Winthrop Knox.

Dr. Miller Speaks At Kindergarten Conference

Dr. George L. Miller Jr. of 22 Thornberry Road, dean of Teacher Education at Lesley College in Cambridge, will be among the chief speakers at the New England Kindergarten Conference at the Statler Hilton Hotel in Boston on November 18.

Dr. Miller will discuss "Recent Research in Early Childhood Education" with educators from every corner of the New England region. These people include kindergarten and primary school teachers, principals, school superintendents, and college and university professors.

Unitarian Players Have Fun With Osborne Play

Good community theater was offered to Winchester last Friday and Saturday evenings with the Unitarian Players production of Paul Osborne's "Mornings at Seven" at Metcalf Hall. Jay Sibley directed the cast of nine which included three new faces on the Winchester theater scene.

"Mornings at Seven" concerns several hours in the lives of four not-too-urbane sisters and their families who have lived with or near each other for years without change. That is until Homer Bolton (played by newcomer David Thomson) the 40 year old bachelor son of Ida (Jane Renz) and Carl Bolton (Mel Hunt, also new to the Players) decides to bring home his 39 year old girl friend Myrtle played by Betty Ann Pritchard. This triggers a series of complications.

David (Cecil Prest) the only intellectual in the group, decides to separate from his wife Esther (Doris Thomas in her first role with the Players) to punish her for visiting her sisters. His attitude toward them is summed up pretty well in his parting remark, "You know how you all depress me?" Carl has another of his "spells." Sister Cora (Betty Vallee) decides she and her husband Thor (John Lyman) will move to another house to get away from the old-maid sister, Aaronetta (Shirley Puffer) who has lived with them for forty years. Homer decides he had better yield to Myrtle's pleas for matrimony if virtue is to survive, and the problems are quickly resolved in a succession of comic twists. It is a well written play with some very funny lines and situations. Osborne has provided nine characters of substance, and has been careful to preserve each consistently through the piece. The ending was improved substantially by some cutting so that the play ended with a quick curtain on one of the funniest lines in the show.

The Saturday performance did not seem quite as polished as some of the recent Players' productions, with the pace down at times in the first act. It picked up in the second and was sustained to the final curtain. In part, this was because the second act is faster than the first act, and in part because the audience-cast became established with act 2. The blocking showed Jay Sibley's expert hand, with nine actors moving easily and freely about the small stage of Metcalf Hall.

The set designed by Bob Magnusen, Jay Sibley and Tex Renz, and constructed by Tex Renz and his crew was excellent. Sets have taken on a new dimension since Bob Magnusen has been with the Players.

There are performers who seem always to have complete command of their role and the characterization and to project them to their audience. This was true of Shirley Puffer and Betty Vallee who played with precision, good timing and excellent characterizations. John Lyman seemed to grasp the character of Thor completely, expressing astonishment at the most trivial turn of events. He never stepped out of character. Betty Ann Pritchard brought tenderness to the difficult role of Myrtle. The scene in which Myrtle attempts to be a Pollyanna when she first meets Homer's mother was particularly well done. Cecil Prest revelled in his role as the intellectually superior David, and Mel Hunt made an excellent Carl. This was best demonstrated in the scene in act 2 in which David explains why Carl must find an answer to his often asked, "Where am I?" The combination of Mr. Prest's fine delivery of some excellent lines, and Mr. Hunt's facial expressions made this a high point in the play.

In his first role with the Players, David Thomson gave a fine performance as Homer. This reviewer did not see Homer as quite so much like Lil Abner, however. Mr. Thomson appears to be a versatile performer who should add much to future productions of the Players. Jane Renz was called on to express a wide range of emotions as Homer's mother, and Doris Thomas brought credibility to her portrayal of the stable sister Esther.

There was good contrast in voices throughout and the actors looked right for their characterizations. This is due in part to casting, and in part to the make-up of Paul Planchett.

Co-chairmen for production were Shelby Saylor and Peg Byford. Others working on production included: Dee Magnusen, Tom, Judy and Debbie Deake, set decor; set painting, Bob Magnusen and John Sibley; stage managers, Peg Magnusen and Glad West; properties, Ann Carrigan, Jewell Jackson and Joy Woolley; costumes, Selena Fitzpatrick, Ellie Hoag; program, Will Garvey; prompters, Phyllis Rowe, Liz Davis; publicity, Dee Magnusen, Pam Sibley; lighting, Steve Funk and Gordon Davis; music, Ted Knowlton; tickets, Grace White; audience refreshments, Marianne Knowlton, Liz Davis; ushers, Dick Barnard, chairman; cast supper, Fran VerPlanck, Rene Milles, Phyllis Stearns; cast party, Shirley Lyman, Peg Byford, Shelby Saylor, Pat Astill and Norma Garvey; and special kudos to Peg Magnusen, president of the Players, for all that extra effort.

With a continual in-flux of new talent and a large number of young aspirants now active in the group, we can expect a continuation of good theatre from the Unitarian Players when they mount their spring production "A Thurber Carnival."

Dinner Meeting For Friends Of Orchestras, Bands

By notices sent home this week by students in the Lynch, McCall, and Senior High Orchestras and Bands, their parents who, as such, are automatically members of the Friends of the Winchester Orchestras and Bands, were invited to attend the Fall Meeting of that organization in the Senior High School Cafeteria on next Tuesday, November 15, at 6:30 p.m.

In a departure from former custom, this is to be a dinner meeting with a complete dinner featuring Swedish meatballs to be catered by Lily Kempe at a very reasonable price.

A short concert by the girls of the High School's popular Double Sextette will follow the dinner and precede the business meeting at which the year's program will be discussed.

Reservations may be made by telephone or letter to either the vice president, Richard G, Kadesch of 15 Mayflower Road, 729-0169, or the president, H. Rushton Harwood, Jr., 30 Ledgewood Road, 729-1478. Members of the Friends of the Winchester Orchestras and Bands, their children, and others interested in the music program of the schools are welcome to attend. A large turnout is anticipated.

Congregational Church Building Dedication Service This Sunday

An unprecedented building program by the First Congregational Church of Winchester will culminate with the dedication of its enlarged Parish House and improved Church facilities at special services this Sunday November 20.

There will be two services in the morning and at 4 p.m. Dr. Dwight L. Cart, minister, will conduct a half-hour service of dedication in the Sanctuary assisted by Dr. Kenneth R. Henley, associate minister and Reverend Richard C. Diehl, director of Religious Education. Church members will join in pledging the building to this second century of service to the community and to the broader outreaching of faith. A combined Forum and youth choir will sing the anthem.

The service will be followed by guided tours of the building and a social hour in Chidley Hall.

Young people from the Senior Forum will serve as guides through the four floors of the parish house and members of the building committee will be stationed at several points to describe the renovation.

Edgar D. Hinton is chairman of the program. Also on the committee are John McClellan and Thomas Raphael, tours; William Parsons, special calendar; Mrs. H. K. Spencer and Mrs. George Halm will arrange decorations and Mrs. Gilbert H. Hood, Mrs. John McClellan, Mrs. Thomas Raphael and Mrs. Edgar Hinton, refreshments.

The re-building program, begun on April 19, 1965, following a three-month fund raising campaign which Dr. Cart has called a "small miracle," is the largest undertaking in the history of the church. When the Church members and guests assemble to dedicate their new building on this Thanksgiving Sunday they will also be aware of the significance of this historic date.

One hundred and twenty-six years ago, on November 19, 1840, the original Church was organized and given formal recognition by the Council of Churches. Many years later, on Sunday, November 15, 1925, ceremonies were held in the present edifice to dedicate a new chancel and organ and the first three memorial windows.

With this began the first major expansion plan for the church. On Sunday, November 28, 1926 (also Thanksgiving Sunday) the cornerstone of the parish home was laid and on November 2nd a year later more than 700 parishioners attended ceremonies marking its completion.

Throughout the past year and a half of construction the building committee and construction sub-committee have supervised the work and issued monthly progress reports to the members. So well was this done that minor inconveniences were by-passed and a complete program of church activities was carried on as usual. In early September of this year the church offered its facilities to the St. Mark's Social Center in Roxbury for a day care program for pre-school children.

Virtually every area of the building has been included in the re-modeling. Among the major improvements are the addition of a Family room conveniently located for weddings and funerals and for parents with small children who may listen to the Church services over a speaker system. There is a new library and historical room, choir room and rooms for the Forum and Nonagon groups and a supply room for the Boy Scouts. An elevator has been installed to service both the Sanctuary and the Parish house. The Church school has been provided with additional space. Changes in the chancel area have been made to accomodate a new organ which will be installed at a later date.

Members of the building committee are: Frank Gunby, honorary chairman; Thomas Raphael, acting chairman. George Gowdy, chairman of construction subcommittee; Mrs. Hazen Ayer, Albert Dietz, Paul Atwood, Walter Farrell, Robert Keeton, Charles Stebbins, Richard Sweet, George Whitten, Henry Harris, Treasurer. The decorating committee includes Mrs. Vaughn Harmon, chairman; Mrs. Frederick Stockwell, Mrs. Leon Sargent, Mrs. Gilbert Hood, Jr. and Mr. Reese James.

C.A.P.E.R. In N.H. Is Breakthrough For Local Youth

The hills of Pembroke, New Hampshire, were the setting for an exciting event which included members of Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church and C.Y.O. of St. Eulalia's Church. Ninety-one young people and thirteen advisers spent the weekend of November 11-13 in New Hampshire and established a "first" for Winchester: C.A.P.-E.R., Catholic And Protestant Ecumenical Retreat.

Joining together to explore the theme, "One God: Christian Challenges for Brotherhood," the group heard talks by Monsignor Joseph Lyons (Racial Understanding), Dr. Dwight L. Cart (Personal Integrity), Father Henry Marquardt and the Rev. Richard C. Diehl (One God Through Worship).

Discussion groups followed, resulting in lively and informative sessions. A panel discussion on Sunday morning presented the topic "One God Through Service," asking the question, "What Can We Do?"

Vesper services were planned and conducted on Friday evening by John Mericantante and Candi Smiley; on Saturday by Charlene Jason and Maureen McKenna; on Sunday by Lynn Avola and Carol O'Connor. Sunday morning services were conducted for each group by Father Marquardt and Mr. Diehl.

Bloodmobile Here On Next Tuesday; O Neg. Needed

On Tuesday, November 22, the Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church from 2 until 7 p.m. Blood donors are needed to fulfill the mission of the Bloodmobile. It can function only through donors.

Those who are able to give blood are asked to make a special effort for this Bloodmobile New donors are needed with emphasis on O negative type blood.

The O negative is the universal type which is compatible with any other type. It is of particular importance in the frozen blood program, which in turn is vital to the complete Blood program.

Blood is always needed. Now more than ever the blood supply must be replenished. Give the gift that keeps on giving and make a note on your calendar for Bloodmobile, November 22.

Dr. Austen Named Prof. of Surgery Harvard Medical

The promotion of Dr. W. Gerald Austen of 29 Allen Road, an outstanding cardiac surgeon, scholar and investigator, to professor of surgery at Harvard has been announced by Dr. Robert H. Ebert, dean of the faculty of medicine. Dr. Austen is chief of the cardiovascular unit at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

DR. W. GERALD AUSTEN

Dr. Austen, who is a Markle Scholar in Academic Medicine, has contributed significantly to clinical as well as basic research in the field of cardiovascular disease. He has also made notable contributions in areas of gastro-intestinal surgery, physiology, and chemotherapy.

Held in high regard as a teacher of both undergraduate and graduate students of medicine, Dr. Austen is equally recognized as a leader of others engaged with him in research.

Dr. Austen received the B.S. degree in 1951 from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the M.D. degree in 1955 from Harvard. He interned at the Massachusetts General Hospital and started his residency there. In 1959 he was senior registrar in

Black Horse Tavern Society Forms, Charter Members Join on Saturday

Approximately 23 young people from Winchester and vicinity will become charter members of the Black Horse Tavern Society, Children of the American Revolution on Saturday, November 19th.

The formal organization ceremony of the society sponsored by the Committee of Safety Chapter, DAR, will be held at 2 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, 34 Vine Street.

State and National officers of CAR, SAR and DAR will be guests of honor and include Mrs. George C. Tolman, State regent DAR and Mayor Paul Vaitses, of Melrose, State president of Sons of the American Revolution. Miss Lauren K. Phillips, National vice-president, New England region, CAR will bring greetings from the National Society. Sr. vice commander John McGuire of Am. Legion Post 97 will welcome the members and guests.

Mrs. Clifford S. Sundberg, organizing president will introduce Mrs. Michael Macdonald, regent of the sponsoring chapter, who will present the gavel to William J. Canfield, president of the new society. Mrs. William C. Cusack, past regent, will be installed as senior president.

The Black Horse Tavern Society was named after the historic Winchester landmark which was a meeting place for Patriots during the American Revolution. Organization began last spring and has met with enthusiasm by young people and their parents. Its goals are to promote knowledge of American history, to preserve places of historical importance, to honor memories of the founders of our country and celebrate patriotic anniversaries, to honor the American flag and to love, uphold, and extend the principles of liberty and patriotism.

Membership in the society is open and eligible boys and girls and their parents are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Ward's Market, Nearly Closed, Will Stay Open

After 25 years in the grocery business on Thompson Street, the familiar Ward's Market appeared headed for closing down early this week, due to the health of owner Stanley J. Lavender, until an interested buyer, Arthur Leland of Woburn, announced his intention to purchase the business and continue it with the same name, the same policies and generally the same help.

Mr. Lavender, 60, of 212 High Street in Medford, started Ward's Market as a fruit and vegetable store in 1933, where Ollie's Beauty Salon is now located in the Cullen Block on Thompson Street.

Ward's Market then moved to its present location at 19 Thompson Street in 1941 and expanded its products to include meats and other produce. It now has built up a large delivery order business, and a large customer following. (Some customers have already established an "appreciation fund" for the benefit of Mr. Lavender through the cooperation of the Winchester National Bank.)

Walter Hennessey, Ward's meat department supervisor for 18 years, plans to retire with the leaving of Mr. Lavender.

Most of the rest of the help Mr. Leland of 727 Main Street in Woburn hopes to retain, including Dan Ducey, Thomas Caggiano on Saturdays, and young Jimmy Lavender during Boston College school vacations, etc.

According to Mr. Leland, who stated he was planning to consummating a sale transaction yesterday or today, Ward's Market will remain open weekdays from 8 to 6 Mondays through Saturdays, except on Wednesdays from 8 to noon.

Major Rizzo Is Vietnam Advisor

Recently reporting for duty with the Military Assistance Command in Vietnam was Major Donald R. Rizzo.

Maj. Rizzo is the husband of Mrs. Pauline L. Rizzo of Strafford, Pa. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Rizzo, reside in Winchester.

The 32 year-old officer is assigned to Advisor Team 34, and will serve as the Lac Duong sub-sector advisor in Tuyen Duc province.

With jurisdiction over seven of the 12 provinces making up the II Corps Tactical Zone, forces of the 23rd Division and other elements within the Zone have to be prepared to fight three distinct types of war: the rice paddy combat of the lowland coastal areas; the jungle rain-forest struggle fought in the interior mountain regions; and the plateau war of the western provinces.

Prior to entering the Army in 1955, Maj. Rizzo attended Boston University.

The major was stationed with the U.S. Army Combat Development Center, Ft. Ord, Calif., before going to Vietnam.

Rec Committee Dance Saturday

The Winchester Recreation Committee steps forward this Saturday with its first large teen dance function, featuring the well-known local area rock band "The Castaways."

The Recreation Committee sponsored high school dance will be held in the Town Hall auditorium from 8 to 11 p.m. and, according to Recreation Director Donald Spinney, it will be the first of a planned series of monthly dances designed to supplement the regular recreation program.

Mr. Spinney noted that usual school dance dress should be observed.

In other recreation news, Mr. Spinney announced that there would be no Friday night Rec Club for junior high Eighth Graders this week due to the McCall School auditorium being committed to a McCall joint Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Grade dance. Eighth Grade Rec Club will be held next Friday at McCall from 7 to 10 p.m. Last Friday saw 184 Seventh Graders in attendance at the Rec. Club.

Veterans Day Local Parade

The Winchester Veteran's of Foreign Wars Post No. 3719 and American Legion Post 97 observed Veteran's Day with the massing of colors at the American Legion Home on Vine Street and proceeded to the War Memorials at the corner of Main Street and Mystic Valley Parkway, and the Honor Roll at the Town Hall, where Veteran's of Foreign Wars Commander Henry Connors and American Legion Commander Franklin Stevenson placed the wreaths in honor of our departed comrades.

Invocation was delivered by the Reverend H. Newton Clay, minister of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Taps was played by Fred Thayer and Jim Sauber of the Winchester High School Band.

Representing the Winchester Board of Selectmen was Charles T. Doucette, Jr.

Lawyers Advisory Committee Seeks Town Counsel

The special lawyers advisory committee appointed by the Board of Selectmen has resumed its activities in connection with recommendation of a Town Counsel to succeed Vincent P. Clarke, 69, of 93 Bacon Street, who retires in February, 1967. He was appointed Town Counsel on June 1, 1946.

The Committee completed the first phase of its assignment this past summer with the selection and recommendation of Mark E. Gallagher of Medford as special counsel to advise the Town in collective bargaining matters.

Chairman Edward E. Hicks reports that the Committee will consider all qualified candidates for the position of Town Counsel, and accordingly it would welcome direct inquiries from Winchester attorneys and recommendations of qualified attorneys from interested residents. Resumes and other pertinent data should be forwarded to Mr. Hicks, c/o office of the Selectmen, Town Hall, Winchester.

The Committee is composed of Messrs. Hicks, Austin Broadhurst, Vincent P. Clarke, John A. Dolan, William J. Speers, Jr. and Phillip P. Wadsworth.

Tag Day!

Coming Saturday is the Town-wide tag day for Winchester's faithful women who under the name of "Homefronters" see that servicemen in the far flung world are remembered by their home town. Be on hand to help them out! They do a job for all of us—30 parcels have already gone to Viet Nam.

Schools Physical Condition Scored By School Committee; Lack Of Maintenance Is Hit

In going over its budget the School Committee Monday evening dove into discussion on the "deplorable" state of affairs in the poor maintaining of the community's huge school buildings and grounds investment, decried their "shabby" present condition, and decided to arrange an observation tour of school grounds with representatives from several town boards on Saturday, December 3rd.

Representatives to be invited on the special fact-finding and evaluation tour of school grounds include members from the Finance Committee, Sub-Finance, Park Department, Elementary School Building Committee and Board of Selectmen.

School ground maintenance, the responsibility for and rendering of which was passed from the School Committee to the Park Department several years ago by the Town Meeting, has since been a source of citizen and school administration complaint.

In addition, according to League of Women Voters observers present, hearing a special maintenance report from Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services William Clark, the School Committee was told that the buildings repair and maintenance budget was inadequate, and that a backlog of repairs work now exists which would take a year to accomplish even if the money was immediately available.

He listed the following priorities:

Elimination of safety hazards. For example, in the high school there are inflammable curtains, broken panic bars on some of the doors (which means they must be kept open during school hours), and no fire blankets in the laboratories.

Elimination of interference with the process of teaching. Two thirds of the rooms in the high school are over-heated, noisy pipes, and non-operating stations in the language laboratories.

Overhaul of heating system in the five year old Lynch Junior High School.

Overall plan for restoration of school grounds in effort to recoup part of huge investment in new schools.

Harry V. Gilson, superintendent of schools, suggested the employment of skilled maintenance personnel. Mr. Clark pointed out that the city of Belmont has a six man maintenance crew and has had one for over twenty years, not including school lawn care.

Mr. Clark further stated that he deplored the lack of a program for maintenance and repair.

At present, equipment is not maintained to prevent breakdowns, which, when they occur are repaired poorly, just enough to get back into service, he noted.

New buildings were constructed so badly, continued Mr. Clark, that parts of the floors in three rooms in the Parkhurst School, for example, have sunk into the ground and the exterior as well as interior doors are only six feet high.

FinCom OK's PBC $10,000 For Shore Rd. Site Analysis

The Finance Committee Monday evening reversed an earlier decision last week not to grant a $10,000 transfer from the Reserve Fund as requested by the Permanent Building Committee's subcommittee on secondary schools to continue its investigation into high school sites, and approved the amount after a strong appeal from a united town administration on the move.

Representatives from the Board of Selectmen, who asked to meet with the Finance Committee for reconsideration of the refusal, and members of the School Committee, Planning Board and PBC, attended the hearing review and together urged the FinCom to re-evaluate its decision based on "the best interests of the town."

The refusal to grant the $10,000 PBC request, according to subcommittee chairman Joseph A. Vitka, Jr., would have resulted in grounding the present forward movement of the committee to nearly a standstill for at least a month due to a shortage of remaining funds for architectural, engineering and appraising work.

The net effect of the refusal of additional monies until a special Town Meeting could appropriate some meant, Mr. Vitka noted, that much longer that the town would have to wait to be presented with recommendations from the PBC for a high school site choice—probably to mid-January or possibly February, and this would then mean a new high school couldn't be constructed for occupancy before the 1970-71 school year.

"Even if everything goes perfectly from this point on, including a Town Meeting site approval this winter," Mr. Vitka urged, "it will be January 1970 before we can have a new high school ready for occupancy.

Pellegrini Wins Senate Contest

The final results of last Tuesday's election race for the Sixth Senatorial District (Winchester, Arlington and Medford—5 and 6) between Democratic incumbent Philibert Pellegrini and challenging Republican candidate Bill Barnstead, gave Senator Pellegrini the victory and returned him to Beacon Hill office for a third term.

The election statistics, not fully tabulated by press time for last week's issue, gave Senator Pellegrini a 10,000 vote margin over his opponent, scoring a total of 31,824 against Mr. Barnstead's 21,926.

The vote showed Mr. Pellegrini with 14,309 over Mr. Barnstead's 6,751 in Medford; Mr. Pellegrini with 14,186 in Arlington topping Mr. Barnstead's 10,079; but here in Winchester Mr. Barnstead received more votes, taking 5,096 over Sen. Pellegrini's 3,379.

In Winchester, Precincts One through Six gave Mr. Pellegrini 631; 503; 434; 608; 365: and 838; and for Mr. Barnstead the vote showed 660; 702; 960; 1,322; 1,090; and 362.

In other election news coverage, the Star found an error in its tabulations regarding the vote recorded for Rep. Harrison Chadwick. The actual count showed Rep. Chadwick receiving in Precincts One through Six: 1,014; 965; 1,238; 1,699; 1,355; and 659, making a total of 6,930 votes. Blank votes cast were: 412; 345; 283; 355; 203; and 694, making a total of 2,292 blanks.

United Fund In Last Week Of Drive Off Top

The Massachusetts Bay United Fund Campaign has raised $9,812,282, or 76.9 per cent of its $12,750,000 goal, as it moves into its final week, according to campaign chairman Thomas M. Hennessey of 37 Cabot Street.

"This means," Mr. Hennessey emphasized, "we must raise $2,937,718 if we are to report at the 100 per cent mark at next Tuesday's November 22 final report meeting."

The 18 communities in the Bay Area's West Division stand at 69.7 per cent of quota and Winchester, under the chairmanship of John J. Collier Jr., is currently at 71.7 per cent of quota. Chairman Collier expressed confidence Winchester will move into the victory column at next Tuesday's final report meeting. "We realize," Collier stated, "our general chairman Tom Hennessey is deeply interested in his home community going over-the-top.

Officer Goes To Accident Scene; Brother Injured

Officer Bruce Govostes answered an emergency call for the police ambulance which came over the phone from Cambridge Street at 5:30 Wednesday night, November 9, stating the situation was serious.

When he arrived at the scene he found his own brother, David P., lying unconscious on Cambridge Street. He had just been injured by a car while crossing from the west side (at Blossom Hill Road) to the east side (at the corner of Foxcroft).

David, 26, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Govostes of 46 Swanton Street, had left the Lowell-Boston bus moments before and was headed to where his mother was parked opposite the bus stop. A social worker, he is on the Welfare Department staff of the City of Lowell, working on the city's new rehabilitation program.

Neither he nor the driver of the Dodge station wagon which collided with him, Francis R. Archibald, 49, of Arlington, were able to tell investigating Officers Govostes and Asaro exactly what happened.

Mr. Archibald was driving south on Cambridge Street and reported that he saw nothing until Mr. Govostes struck his windshield. Mr. Govostes was thrown onto the hood and his impact with the car broke the windshield. He was taken immediately to the Winchester Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. C. S. Hickey for a broken collarbone and severe lacerations of the body and face.

Yesterday morning Mr. Govostes underwent minor surgery at the hospital. His condition is considered good, but release time is still uncertain.

Public Library Open House Well Attended

In spite of the dreary weather on November 6 the Public Library open house was a success. It was estimated that between 300 and 400 persons atended at various times during the afternoon. The vast majority of these people, of course, were Winchester residents, including town officials and town meeting members. Also observed, however, were many persons from outside the town, including several head librarians from neighboring towns.

One young mother was overheard remarking "How nice the new Junior Library looks; I only wish it were larger still." Most people felt that the architect did an excellent job tying the new and the old together. In fact many people had trouble telling where the old construction left off and the new began.

Also commented on was the fact that the mural and stained glass windows blended so harmoniously with the color scheme. The new carpets were noted several times in connection with their sound-deadening properties. And one young gentleman was overheard to utter words of approbation for the Winchester Room being reserved for those who wish to study or read in a quiet atmosphere.

The "Guide to the Winchester Public Library," recently printed for the open house, was read with interest by many. Several persons commented that they had no idea the library offered so many different services. Also appreciated were the detailed floor plans in the booklet showing the exact location of all books and service stations in the library. The Guide is still available free at the main circulation desk upstairs or in the Junior Library downstairs.

Weather Station Given By Pettee To Mystic School

The School Committee has accepted a gift of a complete weather station from James L. Pettee of 12 Fenwick Road on behalf of the Mystic School.

Mr. Pettee will install this equipment, which consists of an anemometer, a wind direction indicator, a psychrometer, a barometer, and a rain gauge. The first two items are equipped with electronic indicators which will be installed in a display board in the science room.

David Pettee is a student at Mystic School and he and his father have stated that they want to provide this equipment to the school on a permanent basis such that more people can share in the information gained.

Local Families Do Less Moving

Just how restless are residents of Winchester? How often do they move from one place to another? How many have been living at the same address for more than five years?

A recent study made by the U.S. Census Bureau on the mobility of Americans shows that nearly one person out of every five in the United States was living in a different house in 1964 than he had occupied in 1963.

As for local families, they are less likely to pull up their stakes and move than are people in the rest of the country. This is shown in data contained in an earlier study, based on data gathered in the last census.

According to the figures, some 6,335 Winchester residents changed their addresses at least once in the preceding five year period.

Included in this total were 4,226 who merely moved to new locations within the county and 2,109 who came from outside the county to make their homes in the local area.

Some, on the other hand, moved to other parts of the country. How many is not known.

What the survey shows, in essence, is that 36 out of every 100 people in Winchester were living in different houses than was the case five years before.

The ratio of movers, 36 percent, was lower than that found generally in the United States, the average being 47 percent.

In the New England States, 41 percent had made such shifts and, in Massachusetts, 40 percent.

What impels people to move from one place to another? The current survey shows that a number of social and economic factors are behind it.

The mobility rate was found to be highest among persons between ages 20 and 24, when many young people leave home to get jobs, get married and set up homes of their own.

Job opportunities, as well as the lack of job opportunities, are prime motivating factors. Families gravitate to areas where the employment situation is favorable.

Highly mobile, also, are persons who become married, divorced or widowed. The survey reports, in fact, that nearly 20 percent of all moves recorded were due to marriage or its dissolution.

COMMUNITY RADIO LISTENING over WHSR-FM (91.9), the high school's student radio station, now programs regularly on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 2:45 to 5:15 with conservative popular music, announcements and discussions on public affairs or interviews, plus all football and basketball games. Donna Kelley, Richard Grenzeback and Bill Elliott, shown in the studio, are among the more than 70 students active in the "Voice of the Sachems" organization, which is now attempting to expand its program for general community listening.

Mrs. Mary O. Lord (Drapeau) Farrell

A requiem high Mass was sung in the Saint Rose of Lima Church in Littleton, New Hampshire on Monday morning for Mrs. Mary O. Lord (Drapeau) Farrell, of Salem, New Hampshire who died at the Lawrence General Hospital after a short illness on Friday, November 11.

Mrs. Farrell was the wife of James E. Farrell, a former long time resident here and a retired, well-known sergeant in the Winchester Police Department. They had made their home in Salem for about two years, residing on Lebanon Street in Winchester prior to that.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Farrell leaves five children, Roger Lord of Littleton, Dorothy (Sister Mary Borromeo) of Penacock, New Hampshire, Mrs. Gloria Isham of St. Johnsbury, Vermont, Mrs. Theresa Thayer of Gorham, New York and Mrs. Arlene Lefebzer of Salem, New Hampshire. She leaves 10 stepchildren, Edward, Richard and Clarence Farreil of Stoneham, William and Joseph Farrell of Woburn, Robert of Melrose, Francis of Brookline, John of Winchester, Louis of Hollywood, Florida and Mrs. Mary Wells of Woburn. She leaves one brother in Winchester, Thomas Drapeau of Sylvester Avenue, as well as three other brothers, three sisters, 42 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

A native of Littleton, Mrs. Farrell was buried in the Drapeau family plot in that town.

Mrs. Grace (Conant) Perkins

Mrs. Grace (Conant) Perkins, 89, wife of Robert Heman Perkins and a resident for 52 years, died on Thursday, November 10, at the Winchester Hospital, after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Perkins was a member of an old and distinguished New England family and a direct descendant of Robert Conant, founder of Salem.

Private funeral services were read for her by Don Greer of the First Church of Christ, Scientist on Saturday afternoon, November 12 in the Norris Funeral Home.

Mrs. Perkins was born in Auburn, Maine on April 12, 1877, the daughter of Winslow Hooper and Sarah (Emerson) Conant, natives of Auburn and Meddybemps, Maine respectively. She grew up in Auburn and was educated in the schools there. She came to Winchester after her marriage on October 14, 1914, living first at 11 Bacon Street and subsequently at 11 Symmes Road.

In addition to her membership in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, she was a 50 years member of the Fortnightly. She was also a member of the Paul Revere Chapter, DAR, of Boston, a senior member of the Mass-Maine Daughters and an associate member of the local Committee of Safety, Chapter DAR.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends, relatives and neighbors, and the groups at the J. H. Winn Company and the Post Office for the many kind expressions of sympathy, spiritual bouquets and floral tributes received during our recent bereavement. Also special thanks go to the men from the VFW Post 3719, from the U.S. Naval Yard in Boston and from the Post Office, whose honor military guard greatly added to the meaning of the services.

Nature's Ways

by Wayne Hanley

A suburban Boston woman recently attempted to lead her three-year-old grandson across her lawn and was surprised when he struggled vigorously, broke free and ran back to the asphalt driveway.

The explanation which she received from her daughter was logical. In the high-rise apartment district of New York City where the child was being reared the restrictions against walking on grass plots are enforced so rigidly that the child had been taught never to step off the sidewalk.

The story is true. And, it points up a serious question: How does one impart the value of a meadow to children whose feet have known nothing softer than an asphalt-topped playground?

There are teachers—or, rather, naturalists, since few would attempt such teaching without a deep commitment—who make full-time careers of struggling with that challenge. Some 200 or more of these teachers gathered at Bridgewater State College in Massachusetts August 14 for a five-day discussion of what conservationists often call "the urban challenge." The teachers came from across the nation, since this was the national convention of the Conservation Education Association.

The object of conservation education lies in developing an awareness in children—and adults—of the world around them, and their ties to it. The goal is not to develop naturalists, as such. But, an amazing thing keeps happening. Budding naturalists have a tendency to burst up through asphalt, almost as young maple trees sometimes do.

The facts are that a sizeable percentage of America's well known professional naturalists, biologists and other followers of the beating pulse and greening leaf came straight out of metropolitan cities. In their ranks are such men as Roger Tory Peterson and John Kieran, who are the better known among a cohort from New York City.

Each generation, however, enters a new era. The present generation faces sharp limitations upon the opportunities to contact a natural environment. It is an age in which concerned parents drive for miles so that their young children can see a cow grazing. The parents themselves have lived most of their lives in an environment so artificial that they feel unable to explain to their children the simpler relationships in a natural landscape.

There exists a general neglect of conservation education in public schools, even in New England. The Audubon Societies and the many natural history museums have struggled rather valiantly over the years to fill the gap.

Tail Wagger Wins Hearts, Home

IT WAS A POOCHY IDEA in the first place and it went over big at the VFW Halloween Dance recently—the raffle of a German Shepherd pup. Proceeds went to benefit the Christmas present project to Viet Nam soldiers organized by the VFW Women's Auxiliary 3719. Presentation day was last Thursday and the winner, Leonard Foley of 17 Oak Street is gathering in his furry prize, "Semantha," from its donor, Mrs. Lee Luongo, who also chaired the dance. At right is Nellie Bolivar, who came as an early settler and was "most original" winner for the evening.

20,162 Businesses Listed In County

Figures just released by the Government show that the number of businesses in operation in Middlesex County is at a high level.

There are more of them flourmany parts of the country.

The survey, which was conducted by the Census Bureau, in cooperation with the Social Security Administration, also provides data on the number of people employed and the size of payrolls in every section of the United States.

The report was compiled from tax reports submitted by employers last year, under the social security program. It was based on figures covering the prior year's operations.

Listed in Middlesex County are a total of 20,162 active business establishments.

Of this number, 10,233 have 3 employees or less, 4,190 have from 4 to 7 employees and 3,302 from 8 to 19. The remainder are bigger.

Some 12 percent of the total are businesses with more than 20 employees each.

The ratio is high. Elsewhere in the United States there are 10 percent in this category. The ratio in the New England States is 11 percent.

The proportion of establishments in this group indicates the extent to which larger-size enterprises are supported locally.

At the same time, there is no dearth of small-size firms in the county.

The report shows that Middlesex County's business concerns provide gainful employment for 353,125 people in "covered" jobs. By covered is meant employment that falls within the scope of the social security program.

Not included in the tabulation are domestic workers, members of the armed forces, farm workers, civilians employed by the Federal, state and local governments and self-employed persons.

The number of people holding down jobs in the local area has been increasing but, even more rapid, has been the increase in the size of their payrolls.

Taxable payrolls for those in covered employment have climbed from $1,358,376,000 in 1959, when a previous study of this type was made, to the currently reported total of $1,878,596,000.

It amounts to a rise of 38.2 percent in the period.

It may be less grand than most station wagons.
But it's also about a grand less.

$2295.00

If you're looking for a miniature moving van, our Squareback Sedan isn't it. Even with its back seat folded down it only holds half as much as the average station wagon.

Which means you can't lug 30 pieces of luggage. Or a full-sized double bed.

But maybe you just need a car that can carry 15 valises. Or a full-sized single bed. Then you can save a lot of money with a Squareback Sedan.

It costs only $2295.00

And it not only goes for less than most conventional wagons to begin with, it keeps on going for less.

A Squareback travels about 27 miles on a gallon of gas. It takes 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts. It never needs an ounce of anti-freeze, because it's cooled by air. It should get a good 35,000 miles on a set of tires. And it avoids repair bills like a . . . well, like a Volkswagen.

So before you go out and buy some station wagon that has twice as much space as you really need, ask yourself this question:

Will all that extra grandness be worth an extra grand?

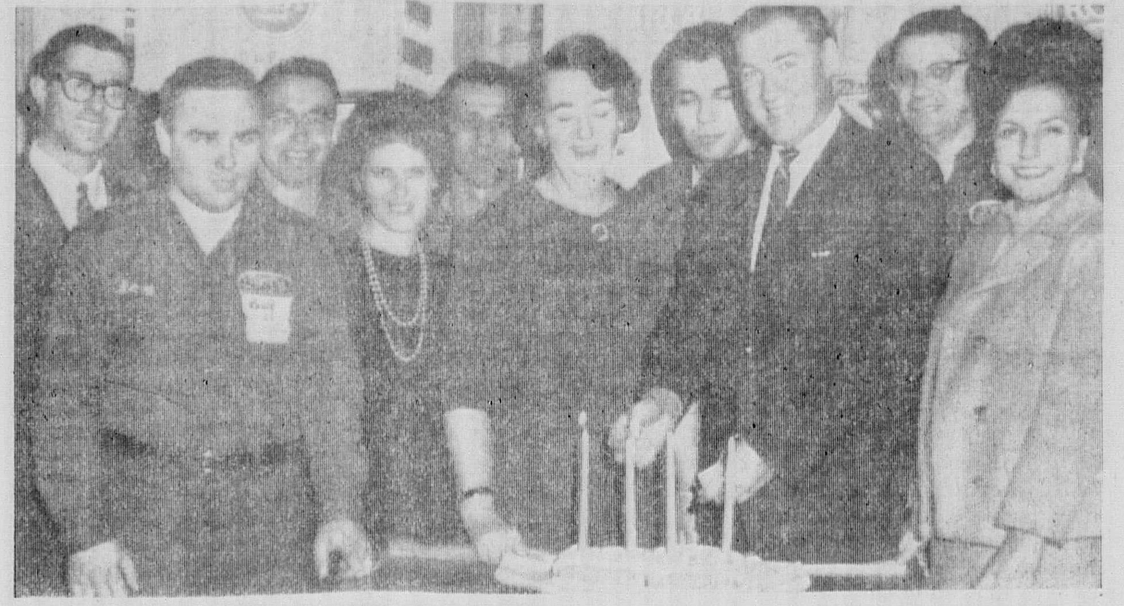
Bigger and Better Every Year



THE STAFF AT THE MARTIN TELEVISION and Appliance sales and service store at the Woburn Four Corners is justly proud at its fourth anniversary celebration. Martin's at the junction of Route 3 and Lexington Street, is now the largest and most modern appliance showroom in the area and has the largest and most modern-equipped service shop north of Boston (three trucks going Monday through Saturday). Just to let the public in on the fun they are giving away (anyone coming in is eligible) seven big prizes; first prize an RCA Victor color television; second, a Zenith stereo-phono-AM-FM stereo radio; third, RCA Whirlpool dryer; then, RCA AM-FM radio, RCA table radio, RCA transistor radio and a Zenith transister radio. Among those waiting to greet you will be, left to right in front, Dave Pierce and Mary Lou Martin,; next is Woburn Chamber of Commerce secretary Frances Baldwin; then owner James Martin and Dorothy Chipman. In the back are Tona LaFauce, RCA district manager, Robert Martin, Del Bartlett, John Antonis and Stephen Chipman.

Thanksgiving At First Church

Thanksgiving will be observed at an eleven o'clock service on Thursday, November 24, in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 114 Church Street.

Sermon readings from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook will bring out the close relationship between prayer and Thanksgiving.

A feature of the service is a period during which individual members of the congregation may give spontaneous testimonies of thanks.

The church soloist, Arthur W. Gleason, will sing "The mighty God hath spoken" by William Croft, accompanied by the organist, Willam A. Saunders. The congregation will join in singing several Thanksgiving hymns.

A Golden Text from Colossians and Responsive Readings from Psalms will set the theme for the service: "Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving—pay thy vows unto the most high."

The Bible Lesson will include Jesus' instructions to pray "in secret," along with related passages from the Christian Science textbook:

"Christians rejoice in secret beauty and bounty, hidden from the world, but known to God—Prayer, watching, and working, combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been successfully done for the Christianization and health of mankind—To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, to-day is big with blessings."

Officer Crowe Graduates From Police Academy

Officer Joseph M. Crowe, Jr., a resident at 129 Highland Avenue, was one of 48 police officers graduated a week ago today from the Massachusetts State Police Academy local police officer course held at Framingham State College.

Officer Crowe spent six weeks in residence at Framingham in a course which since January 1, 1966, has been prescribed by law for all town and city police officers in the state. Special emphasis was placed on instruction in criminal law, traffic procedures, first aid, firearms, courtroom procedure and recent Supreme Court decisions.

Thanksgiving Tilt Is 60th

Sachems Go for 29th Scalping Of Tanners Thanksgiving Day

Get the family up, the turkey in the oven and the kids bundled in time to get up to Woburn and catch the kickoff for the annual football festival between the Indians and the Tanners on Thanksgiving Day.

Squaw Sachem would approve of this kind of celebration for a harvest! The local warriors will leave the Aberjona wigwams accompanied by Sachemette cheer leaders, tumblettes and the big high-stepping WHS band. The pre-game ceremonies will be brief and to the point; just the tossing of an old coin.

Whistles and war-whoops begin things at 10:15 a.m. sharp, when the two ancient rivals will go at each other for the 60th time.

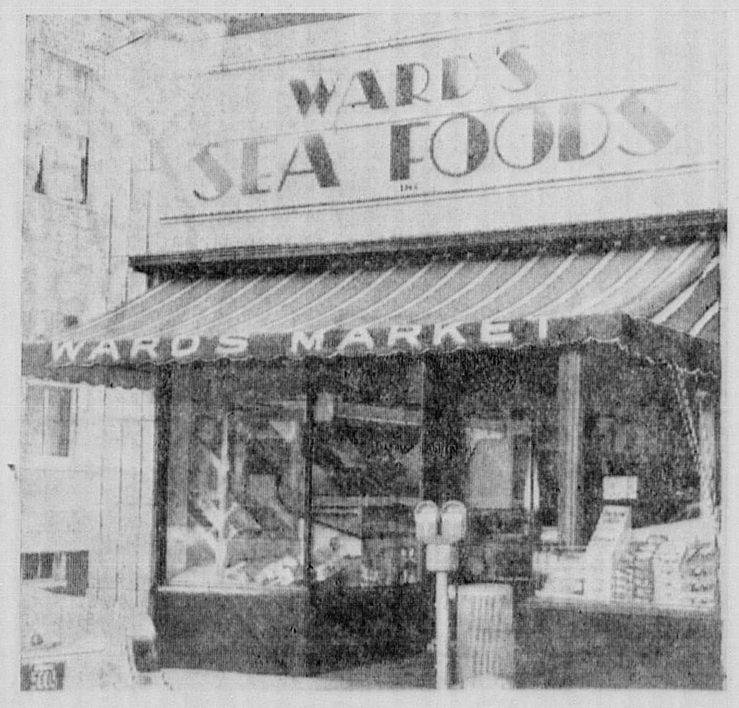
Woburn-Winchester is one of the oldest classics in the state. Winchester is ahead on the count. It has scalped Woburn 28 times and hopes to do it again next week. Woburn has taken the hides of the Sachems 22 times, and the contest has come to a draw nine times.

Last year it was 0-0 on a muddy field. Going backward from 1964 it was Winchester 22-14, then 20-6; Woburn 12-0, and in 1961 (ouch!) Woburn 44-18.

The local 4-3-1 record stands out for this year, for the neighboring tribe to the north has fared badly, one win and six losses. But this sort of thing doesn't seem ever to matter in this particular war game. It still could be anybody's win.

For Winchester 23 seniors will be ready for their last game—all but one of the defensive line will graduate this year.

So—help the lady of the house do the dressing the night before, set the oven timer and walk, run, bus or drive to Connolly Field a week from this morning. You won't regret the effort!



WARD'S MARKET, in business at 19 Thompson Street for 25 years, nearly closed down this week due to owner Stanley Lavender's health; but was negotiated for purchase and is now scheduled to remain open under the new management of announced buyer Arthur Leland.

Editorials:

Notes On The Victors

Many citizens across the Commonwealth as well as in Republican oriented Winchester have been voicing satisfaction over the results of last week's election. To the victors go well-deserved laurels; and to their advisors, planners and workers also go well-earned plaudits. Now is a time for some reflection, however, on precisely what the voters registered.

Governor Volpe won an overwhelming vote of confidence and support from the electorate, and it would be less than fair not to recognize that many citizens voted for him because of general satisfaction with his administration and admiration for his personal determination and ability to cope with an other-party Legislature in seeing through the programs he felt were in the best interests of the state (such as the unpopular but needed sales tax measure, which increased state revenues, aided education, and reduced property taxes). Nevertheless, the Governor's "mandate" from the people not only was based on performance on a job well done to date, but also in anticipation of a job yet to be done. For the Governor promised the voters not only a sales tax on his previous election, but also a complete revamping and modernizing reform of the whole state tax and fiscal structure. This is long overdue, especially a broadening of the tax structure (even beyond what has been achieved with the sales tax); and now that the sales tax has proven its merits, the citizenry and Legislators alike should be more willing to accept a well packaged improvement plan in this area.

When Negro Attorney General Brooke leaves Beacon Hill for Capitol Hill, he makes the same kind of "first time" step that Catholic President Kennedy made in going to the White House. The eyes of more than his native state, those of the nation and even the world will be watching him to see how successful he can be. Beyond the usual Senatorial responsibilities and loyalties to the nation and his state, he will have the additional one to his race . . . which he neither can nor should either abandon or overzealously push. His will be a difficult role to engage; but the electorate, and rightly we feel, voted him into national state representative office because he has the potential qualities of greatness. If he does not fall prey to becoming enamored or enmired in the job to the extent of losing that which most feel he has to offer to it, then he may well become a Senatorial profile of courage and leadership. And this is what the voters of Massachusetts really want their new Senator to be.

State Senator Philibert Pellegrini returns to Beacon Hill for a third term after re-election over Republican opponent Bill Barnstead to represent this district. While most town fathers affirm that Sen. Pellegrini has been most attentive to the interests of Winchester as a town in the Legislature whenever his help was sought, very few local voters who have followed the Senator's voting record in the Senate have had anything positive to say about their representation. It would appear that many local residents seriously wonder why there does not seem to be any consistency in the Senator's political philosophy and/or voting record. Many Republicans and Democrats alike seem to be questioning why he has voted against some measures that most citizens regardless of party feel should be voted for, and for some measures that any thinking voter would feel should be voted down. There are numerous examples, but the point for the Senator to take here is that even though he has been re-elected by a 10,000 vote plurality, he should not delude himself into thinking that the vote was one of a knowledgeably based thinking electorate that was returning him to office in support of a voting record that has been in any way either exceptionally "good" or related in any apparent way to representation of the general thinking of the citizens of this area on many issues. The Senatorial contest this year was an interesting race, however, and maybe the Senator learned something about representing the voters that will be of assistance in guiding his thinking and voting record during these next two years. We hope so.

Let's Improve The Aberjona

"Is the Aberjona River Being Polluted?" was the title of a story appearing on the front page of last week's Star, and in it citizens learned of one instance where the river had been polluted. In fact, the riverway has been polluted and allowed to deteriorate in both watershed and aesthetic condition for many years, to the point, even, where one MDC biologist termed Winchester's care and treatment of its watershed as among the poorest in the northern Greater Boston area, and showed a "shocking civic neglect" for what has become a town disgrace.

Generally considered the responsibility of the Park Board and under the care of the Park Department, there has been no evidence of any overall planning management of the once beautiful waterway (sometimes) flowing through the Center of town; and, from the Woburn line down to the Parkway and the Lakes, it looks it!

If questioned directly, the Board of Health will not say the Aberjona is "unsafe" or constitutes a public health menace at this time; but neither will it say it is "safe," and affirms, from the public health point of view, that it could stand a lot of improvement.

The town recently established a Conservation Commission, and this group, dedicated to preserving what is good in its natural state in Winchester (often through land taking such as the Cox Pond effort last year), it would seem, should in addition to looking for "new" areas to conserve, direct some of its energies toward preserving what was once one of Winchester's most attractive community assets.

Considering that a few summers ago dead fish floated to the surface of the Aberjona, this summer there were odor problems connected with it, and that compared to its scenic splendor in the 1930's and 1940's it is far less attractive now, in the town's own best interest in terms of its public health, watershed management, park planning and aesthetic conservation, something should be done to improve the Aberjona River.

Since little toward improving the Aberjona has generated from the Park Board on its own, with the exception of some token dredging and a good one-time banks brush cutting effort, maybe the Conservation Commission could undertake to study the whole problem as one of conservation significance and come up with a management plan and program to improve this once beautiful and potentially scenic asset to the community.

Homefronters: The Home Front

The idea of sending gift packages to Winchester residents serving in the armed forces wherever they are stationed in the world, was founded and promoted, here in Winchester, 15 years ago this month at the home of Mrs. William C. Cusack.

Since that time hundreds of local sons have been remembered with a special package at Christmas time; and they will be remembered again this year, thanks to the continued interest of the Homefronters organization and the people of the town who support it.

This Saturday, November 19, is the Homefronters' annual Tag Day, and with so many young men overseas in the service of their country at this time, it is a good time to remember this worthy cause.

Governor, Mayor For "Operation Opera Week"

Both Governor Volpe and Mayor Collins have designated this week as "Operation Opera Week." The kickoff of The Opera Company of Boston's 2 week opera drive started on Monday evening, November 14th, at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

Last year the season was oversubscribed, and many opera lovers missed out on seeing and hearing some of the most exciting productions Sarah Caldwell has ever put on, among them the long awaited American premiere of Arnold Schoenberg's "Moses and Aron," which has been in preparation for over a year, and will be presented November 30th and December 2nd.

Because of the demand for subscriptions, the Opera Company has decided to add a third series to accommodate the vastly growing audiences, and they hope to have all three series sold out in the two weeks devoted to "Operation Opera."

The operas to be presented in the 1967 season will include Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress," Verdi's "Otello," Mozart's "Don Giovanni," Puccini's "Tosca" and three works of Bela Bartok—"The Wooden Prince" (a ballet), "The Miraculous Mandarin" (a pantomime), and "Bluebeard's Castle" (an opera). Apart from the fact that these three works have not been presented together before, "The Wooden Prince" has never been seen in this country, and marks another first among the many for Sarah Caldwell.

Miss Caldwell has been fortunate in again having been able to obtain the services of two favorite sopranos of the Boston Opera audiences—Joan Sutherland and Renata Tebaldi—and there will be many other world-famous artists in the casts.

The operas will be given on January 18, 20 and 22; February 6, 15 and 19; February 24, 27 and March 5; March 29, 31 and April 2; May 21, 27 and 28.

Subscriptions can be obtained by contacting the Opera Company of Boston, 172 Newbury Street, COpley 7-8050.

Xmas Seals Keep Up TB Fight

Tuberculosis has been around to bedevil man since ever man was. For centuries it came like a killer snow, the great White Plague.

Yet in our time, for the first time, TB would have to be colored gray. It's become a shadowy area of menance and control.

Some, including a few of the most eminent TB experts, say TB can be wiped out in this country in this generation. And eradication of the disease is the goal of the Middlesex Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Still TB hangs on, though the number of new cases is way down and both detection and treatment vastly improved.

The biggest reason why complete success is so elusive is the ornery nature of the TB bug itself. The guilty organism, the tubercle bacillus Mycobacterium tuberculosis, is one of the toughest, most tenacious and treacherous members of the bacterial world.

BOOK REVIEW

Winchester Public Library

WE CAME AS CHILDREN

edited by Karen Gershon

The full title of this book is "We Came as Children, a collected autobiography. The reminiscences of men and women who escaped to England as child refugees from the Nazi terror." This speaks for itself. What isn't obvious is the aura that pervades the writing (all directs quotations from the victims)—an almost breathless reaction to the world these children were plummeted into. Many articles have been written on the prison camps, but very little has been told of the children themselves, torn from their homes and families and placed in an alien land. Sheer courage and the adaptability of the children themselves is startling, but over all their stories hangs a sadness, of bewilderment, of the strangeness of children without parents, in many cases not knowing why they are parentless.

Children who were displaced in their teens generally have a deep hatred of the German people. Many refuse to use the German tongue at all. Children who left home virtually as babies or at least pre-schoolers, do not seem to have this feeling. They don't hate Germans as such and they seem less aware of their Jewish origin. But over them hangs a pall of bewilderment, of displacement. However kind the families which took them in, they could not replace their own flesh and blood. They could not or did not give the sense of belonging. Many of these children were from well-educated, wealthy families; they were placed, as far as I can gather, with lower middle-class groups and sent out to earn their own way as soon as possible. In other words, their life in England was not comparable to what their life would have been under normal circumstances in Germany.

Better than any work on psychology, this book tells in the words of the people involved what displacement and estrangement does to children. There is not one story that isn't poignant. There is not one displaced child who hasn't been profoundly affected by his experience.

The loss of education alone was traumatic. "Loss of education, from about a year before I left Germany to nearly another year after coming to England plus the months wasted while having to learn English when I finally did go to a village school before I could again begin to have even basic education—this loss made it extremely difficult for me and of course many others to get anywhere at all in later life. One did not appreciate it then, but this double loss of parents and education inevitably wrenched one's life to a lower and extremely limited path. It put all but the most outstandingly brainy years behind in the struggle for some sort of position in life. In my case it was a struggle I never caught up with. Being now of a studious nature I realize intensely the unalterable loss of education when I was put to work at fifteen in a flour mill. It took years of study, some intermittently, and lots of weary keeping at it with many lapses, to learn anything at all, and although I now have a reasonable position, it is not what I could have had and been, with only an ordinarily reasonable education."

Much besides life was lost in the war, and here the story is told by those who suffered.

Homefronters Call for Support

Editor of the Star:

Mrs. Peter Murphy, executive chairman of the Homefronters, calls on all Winchesterites to support Tag Day, Saturday, Nov. 19. Proceeds will help to defray expenses incurred in sending over 200 Xmas packages to Winchester service men and women this year.

Much credit for the tremendous job of selecting, purchasing and packaging Xmas cartons goes to Mrs. Eugene Lane and Mrs. Arthur Collins. Many long hours of work were entailed in this Xmas project, and they were responsible for superb results.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Albert McDougall,

Redistribution of Elementary Pupils Attacked

Editor of the Star:

I am in sympathy with the problems faced concerning unequal distribution of Winchester elementary pupils among our various lower level schools. As a parent of a child in the first grade of Wyman School I am very much aware of the overcrowding in that school. However, the plan proposed and accepted by the School Committee, and scheduled to be in effect by 1967, I find open to serious question.

I wish at this time to protest most strongly that I feel this plan is unfair to the students who will be involved. I am unable to see how they can justify this across the board redistribution with any of the currently proven educational theories of child placement, and am most interested to learn of their thinking and reasoning on this point.

To be very specific, I oppose more than anything the apparent decision to treat the elementary schools in a vertical rather than horizontal manner. Why are they so determined to have grades kindergarten through sixth in each school? Why are they preparing to bus the youngest children in the school system, the ones to whom school is not only a place of learning but a home away from home? And why are they, especially in the case of Wyman students, planning to separate the children in one grade into three different schools? When I consider that in addition to these problems they admit the "foreseen difficulties" that each year a complete revamping of distributing schedules will have to be undertaken I am heartsick at the confusion these young children will be forced to face each year.

Gerrymandering is a political term, full of implicit undertones, and utterly misplaced in a discussion of educational theory. Have they conducted a serious inquiry into the possibility of creating new school districts throughout the town? What are the results and conclusions of this study? I am sure that they will find parents do approve of busing to relieve overcrowded classrooms, but I seriously doubt that you will find many who approve of the current system of busing various groups to different schools without any real sense of direction. I consider the present program a necessity, but an unpleasant stop-gap one.

As a parent and former teacher, I would like to hear their opinion on the following suggestions:

1. Children in grades kindergarten through at least third grade will attend their neighborhood schools.
2. When busing becomes a necessity the older children will be bused first.
3. When the children are to be transferred they will go as a complete grade.
   a. It is unfair to leave some children to enjoy the benefits of the neighborhood school while others are bused.
   b. Confusion and uncertainity can be avoided in the children's minds as to their future place in the school district.
4. The children from one school will be transferred to not more than two less crowded schools.
5. Once transferred the child will remain in the new school until the 7th grade.

Thank you for your interest and consideration.

Very sincerely,
Elinor Parker

Along with the thought-provoking discussions and a period for private devotions on Saturday morning, the young people shared many hours of recreation: football, soccer, hikes, card games, "Twister," a hootenany and dance, with exuberance unmatched in ecumenicity!

The student committee which planned this event included Joanne Cincotta, Jim Madden and John Mericantante of St. Eulalia's and Bob Crook, Craig Heindel and Candi Smiley of Senior Forum. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Heindel were their adult advisers, assisted by the clergy of both churches.

Other adults who accompanied the group were Mr. and Mrs. Dante R. Cantanzano, Mrs. Richard C. Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. McKenna, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Wells.

Sister McCullough and Sister Moynihan from St. James' Church in Arlington were observers, together with Margie Farmer of Pleasant Street Congregational Church, Arlington, and Debbie Fallon, Elizabeth Hasler and Karen diFranza of St. James.

Returning to their home communities, the young people plan to work together in worship and service. Their next joint meeting will be December 4th at 4 p.m. in Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church. Gordon N. Gottsche, director of housing and improvement programs in Boston, will explain the "Just-a-Start" program in Boston's South End.

Those attending C.A.P.E.R. included:

Analysis

"As chairman of the PBC subcommittee I am very concerned over such a delay with its potential loss of time, momentum and interest now going toward resolving the recommendations to be made to the town," Mr. Vitka said, and affirmed, "It is imperative to keep this project going forward to completion now."

Selectman William R. Kimball told the FinCom that the Board of Selectmen was unanimous in its views that "This is in the best interests of the town, and the need is now."

Mr. Kimball further noted the town's being presented with alternative PBC recommendations based on comparatively engineered facts, statistics and estimates, so as "to be able to choose between apples and apples, and not between apples and something else."

Mr. Kimball added that while the FinCom may be looking at the transfer as chasing good money after bad for further engineering study of the Shore Road Field area site when it appeared there are several problems involved with it; nevertheless, he explained, the sentiment of the Town Meeting was to have a Center site at least as an alternative site either to accept or reject, and for this reason the PBC should have the funds to have it professionally analyzed so it can be equated in dollars and cents cost to prepare and develop on a par with the once-rejected Turkey Ridge site.

Town Moderator Harrison Chadwick made the point that when the town would be considering a school construction project of from $8-$10 million, the $10,000 figure for further engineering studies now needed seemed "infinitesimal."

FinCom Chairman Paul Amico said the committee was of the opinion that the appropriating of this money for this purpose was more in the purview of the Town Meeting's jurisdiction and should be up to its judgement.

Discussion on the technical point as to whether the FinCom should transfer Reserve Fund money for the studies centered on whether the situation in fact represented an "extraordinary or unforeseen expenditure."

Town Counsel Vincent P. Clarke told the Fin Com that it had a broad scope for interpretation; in essence saying it could make a case either way, but if it desired to it could OK the transfer on the basis that it could be called extraordinary when one site might require several landtakings and on the basis that it could be called an unforeseen need that has now presented itself.

Mr. Amico then asked if the present estimates available, along with figures that could be obtained from the Assessors' Office, Engineering Office, and the state as to the closing of Skillings By-Pass might not be sufficient.

Mr. Vitka said he did not think his committee would want to appear before the Town Meeting with precise figures on the Turkey Ridge site, and "mere estimates and guesses with a few facts and figures" on the Shore Road alternative.

The Finance Committee discussed the matter further on its own, and later that night voted to approve the expenditure from the Reserve Fund to put the PBC secondary school committee back on the road toward final site resolutions.

United Fund

"Three hundred forty health, welfare and youth-related agencies and services, serving more than 600,000 residents are depending upon our efforts during these final days," stated Mr. Hennessey.

How well they are able to meet the needs of the residents and workers in our 64 communities during 1967 will depend to a very large measure on the results we achieve during this final week," Mr. Hennessey concluded.

With a town goal of $37,000 and only five days to reach this figure, John J. Collier, Jr., Winchester chairman, this week urged residents and local business people alike to give their fair share pledge to this year's United Fund Drive which comes to a close on Tuesday, November 22. To date, Winchester has reached a little over 65% of its goal.

Commenting on this year's drive, Mr. Collier said, "The United Fund pledge system pledging a certain amount to be deducted from your weekly pay check at work or to be paid by check or a given period of time if you give at home, was established to support the singular effort of a "One Drive in One Year" for many charitable agencies.

Since 340 vital causes are supported by this one campaign generous contributions are needed. Such contributions in many cases can come only from pledges to pay in the future, not from pocket money.

Many people feel they can't afford a contribution to the United Fund or at least they can't afford very much. Yet most of us spend nickels, dimes and dollars on non-essentials every day. Just a dime a day or 50 cents a week is over $36 a year.

Just this much can provide two weeks at a summer camp for a deserving youngster.

Sixty cents a week provides four complete treatments for a child in a United Fund supported hospital clinic, or 90 cents a week provides about two weeks care for a homeless elderly person in a United Fund home for the aged.

And so it goes. The individuality of giving in the computer age is not really lost. Your contribution to the United Fund counts; it is one of the bricks, a part of the mortar in a large building program to make Winchester and the other Mass. Bay Communities a better place in which to live.

The old adage, "A little goes a long way" gains new significance in this day, if all of us pledge our little.

"Think Twice—You Give Only Once" is the theme of this year's United Fund campaign. The phrase was built around the basic tenet that an informed citizen is a responsible and willing supporter of the United Fund.

Keep your eye on the United Fund Torch-o-Meter located on the rotary in the center of town, everyone's share helps put Winchester over the top by November 22.

Army Seeks Ex-Soldiers

A new Army re-enlistment program now encourages former soldiers to return to active duty at grades near their old ranks, announced SFC M. L. Angelotti at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station, located at 49 High Street, Medford.

A soldier is considered to have a break in service if he stays out for more than 90 days from discharge, he said.

"Under the new program, a soldier who stays out as little as 91 days or as long as two years is permitted to return at a grade one step lower than his old rank," the sergeant said.

A significant aspect of the new policy applies to all prior service personnel whose service break is for more than 24 months. Grade determination for these cases, the recruiter said, will be made on an individual basis according to Army requirements.

He pointed out that the move is an effort to enhance retention of career personnel and to increase the Army's manpower pool of mature and experienced enlisted personnel.

Post Office Mail Notes for Xmas

In addition to the articles normally prohibited in the mails, matches of all kinds and lighter fluid may not be mailed to overseas addresses. Cigarettes, other tobacco products, coffee, and various other items are prohibited in parcels addressed to some military post offices. Mailers should check with their post office, if in doubt.

The domestic rates of postage are applicable, and postage must be fully prepaid. When fourth-class or air parcel post rates are applicable, the zone rate from the post office where mailed to the post office through which the parcel post is addressed will be charged. Airmail articles weighing not in excess of 8 ounces are chargeable at the rate of 8 cents per ounce.

Addresses must be legible and complete, and should be prepared by typewriter or pen and ink. All APO numbers have been changed to five digits which are identical to the ZIP Code.

The name and address of both the sender and addressee should be enclosed in each gift parcel to permit identity in case of damage or loss of the outside address label. The outside address label should be placed on only one side of each parcel.

Surface mail for Alaska and Hawaii should be mailed not later than November 30 and airmail not later than December 15, to insure delivery before Christmas.

The advantages of using first-class mail on greeting cards, makes it possible for sender to seal the envelope and also write messages, and will be given priority on dispatch, delivery and forwarding. Also if the mail is undeliverable, first class mail will be returned to the sender at no additional cost if the return address is shown on the envelope.

All Special service mail should be endorsed by the sender on the address side of the parcel, such as, First Class, Airmail, Airmail Special Delivery, Special Delivery, and Special Handling.

It is permissible to place instructions such as "DO NOT OPEN UNTIL CHRISTMAS" on the outside of the Christmas package. This allows and makes possible to mail early and have the parcel arrive long before Christmas and be recognized as a Christmas package.

Channel 2 Looks At Red China

"News in Perspective" draws back the bamboo curtain to take a comprehensive look at Red China Wednesday, November 23 at 9 p.m. on Channel 2 (repeat Sunday, November 27, 4 p.m.) .

Originating from Tokyo, the program brings together New York Times newsmen based in Hong Kong, New Delhi, Tokyo and New York. Together they will discuss China's role as a world power, with particular emphasis on the present conflict between Moscow and Peking, the influence of the Red Guards and other important events going on inside China today.

Conditions

The extent of poor construction and engineering is so great in the Vinson-Owen School that in thirty to thirty-five years, the cost of maintaining and repairing it will equal the cost of the original building. The retaining walls will not last ten years, and some have already deteriorated so much that Mr. Clark estimated their life span at five years.

The grass at Vinson-Owen School and the weeds at Lynch Jr. High have measured thirty inches—in June when prospective teachers have come to look over the schoool. Half of the expensive shrubbery planted at Vinson-Owen is gone.

Lawrence Beckley, chairman of the School Committee, asked Mr. Clark to itemize in detail the problems of maintenance, school ground reclamation, repairs—with cost figures, to present to the Finance Committee.

C. Nicholas Casagrande, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Casagrande of 24 Arlington Street, has achieved a place on the Brewster Academy honor roll just released. In addition to meeting high academic standards, Nick's busy fall season has included daily efforts as a member of the Outing Club's "Trail Crew" currently working on the Academy's nine hundred acre wooded area, clearing trails and building dams and campsites for winter outings.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Winterbottom of Denver, Colorado announce the birth of their first child, a son, John, born November 13. Mrs. Winterbottom is the former Ann Buros of Winchester. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Allan T. Buros of Winchester and Mrs. Edna Winterbottom of Philadelphia. Mr. Francis C. Schwab of New London, N.H. is great grandfather.

Newsy Paragraphs

It's venison steaks for the Harry Boodakian family at 5 Albamont Road this week. He was the successful hunter in a party of four at Bear Mountain in Portage, Maine, last weekend, bagging a 152 pound deer. Fellow hunters were Al Hovannesian of Pochontas Road, and John Topjian and Michael Buihaian.

Miss Cary Eaton Maynard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Maynard of St. Paul, Minnesota, formerly of 15 Cabot Street, is a member of the Wellesley College Choir which gave its traditional Fall Concert Sunday evening, October 30th.

JC-ettes Plan Skate Swap Dec. 3

Has Johnnie discarded his sled for a Mustang? Are Billy's skates size three and his feet size six?

Well, Johnnie's sled and bill's skates needn't be idle this winter; neither must Billy. To help all Winchester youngsters take advantage of the winter season, the JC-ettes are planning to hold a Skate Swap on December 3.

At the swap anyone with outgrown skates, skiis, ski boots, and sleds will have a chance to exchange them for the correct size. Any item may be purchased for a nominal fee, without a swap.

To guarantee the success of the swap, the JC-ettes must build a small reserve of winter articles in advance. Winchester residents with skates, etc. in their attics they no longer can use but hate to throw away are urged to donate them by calling Mrs. Edward D. Fitzgerald, 729-2658.

Francis Finigan Elected Officer For Dept. Heads

Francis X. Finigan, head of the science department of the Winchester schools, was recently elected to the office of corresponding secretary of the Association of Science Department Heads of Eastern Massachusetts.

The new association, composed of the heads of departments from towns such as Lexington, Lincoln-Sudbury, Needham, Brookline, and Weston, was formed to promote the interests of science education by the exchange of information and ideas.

Mr. Finigan, a charter member of the group, feels that by participating in the group, Winchester will be kept abreast of the newest developments in current and anticipated science curricula as well as the use of National Defense Education act Title III funds.

Boston Center Visited by 26 Methodist Women

On November 10th at 9:30 a.m. 26 women from the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church W.S.C.S. boarded a bus at the church and went into Boston to visit the work of the Cooper Community Center which is supported by funds from the Methodist Church.

This is a center dedicated to helping the youth in a poor district in Boston and to encourage the people living around it by giving answers to problems arising from the everyday situations in which they find themselves. Unfortunately funds and personnel are limited and so the work the Center is able to do is only as great as the means at hand permits.

Joseph Crocker, head of the Center met the ladies in the Recreation Hall of the Center and reiterated the work being done there. There were many questions which arose concerning future housing in that district, the rise in the cost of living as it related to the persons in the vicinity and future plans for the center. After the preliminary talk Mr. Crocker showed the W.S.C.S. representatives the Nursery at Cooper Center.

Mrs. Eddie Harris, chairman of the day, together with her aide, Mrs. Fred Dodge, after seeing the interest the group had in the center, promised another trip in the near future to Cooper and hopes that many other women in the Community will want to go with the Crawford W.S.C.S. to see what is being done in one small part to aid in the alleviation of the distress of poverty in Boston.

The W.S.C.S. is most happy with the fact that they are now getting a monthly newsletter. In charge of the newsletter is Mrs. Richard Kadesch, publicity chairman for the W.S.C.S. assisted by Mrs. James Gonyea doing art and composition and Mrs. Arnold Gibson and Mrs. D. Stevens providing the typing.

The next meeting of the W.S.C.S. will be a joint meeting with the Couples Club of the church coming Friday December 9. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paridy are chairmen for this catered dinner meeting assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gibson. The program will be provided by the Staff and Key Society members.

Typewriter cleaner—fast, convenient, soft, chemically treated fibers pick up dirt, lint and ink from type. Perforated sheets. Priced at 98c at the Winchester Star.

VICTORY SIGNS were being flashed at the Ronald MacKenzie headquarters in Burlington as it became apparent early Election Eve that Mr. MacKenzie, formerly of Winchester, was to be the next Senator representing Billerica, Burlington, Lexington, Stoneham, Tewskbury, Wakefield, Wilmington and Woburn. Senator-elect MacKenzie is shown, center, with his attractive wife, Jan, as they were surrounded by well-wishers.

German Honorary Degree Awarded To Dr. Rochow

Dr. Eugene G. Rochow, professor of chemistry at Harvard, returns today from a two-week trip to Europe, during which time he visited the Bremanger Smelteverk in Svelgen, Norway, as a consultant; gave lectures in East Berlin and also in Braunschweig and Karlsruhe in West Germany; and received an honorary degree.

DR. EUGENE G. ROCHOW

The honorary degree of doctor of natural sciences was conferred on Dr. Rochow by the Technische Hochschule at Braunschweig on Saturday, November 12, and was followed by a luncheon in his honor attended by the dean and other members of the faculty of science.

On Monday, November 14, at a combined meeting of the Society of German Chemists and the Science Faculty of the Braunschweig Technische Hochschule Dr. Rochow delivered a lecture on the subject, "How Young Is Chemistry?"

During his short stay in East Germany Dr. Rochow spent a little time attempting to trace some of his ancestors who came from the vicinity of Brandenburg, which is a short distance from Berlin.

Dr. Rochow has lived in Winchester for the past seventeen years and has been a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Winchester Schools since its inception. He is well known here and abroad for his pioneering work on silicones and is regional editor of an international journal, "Inorganic and Nuclear Chemistry Letters."

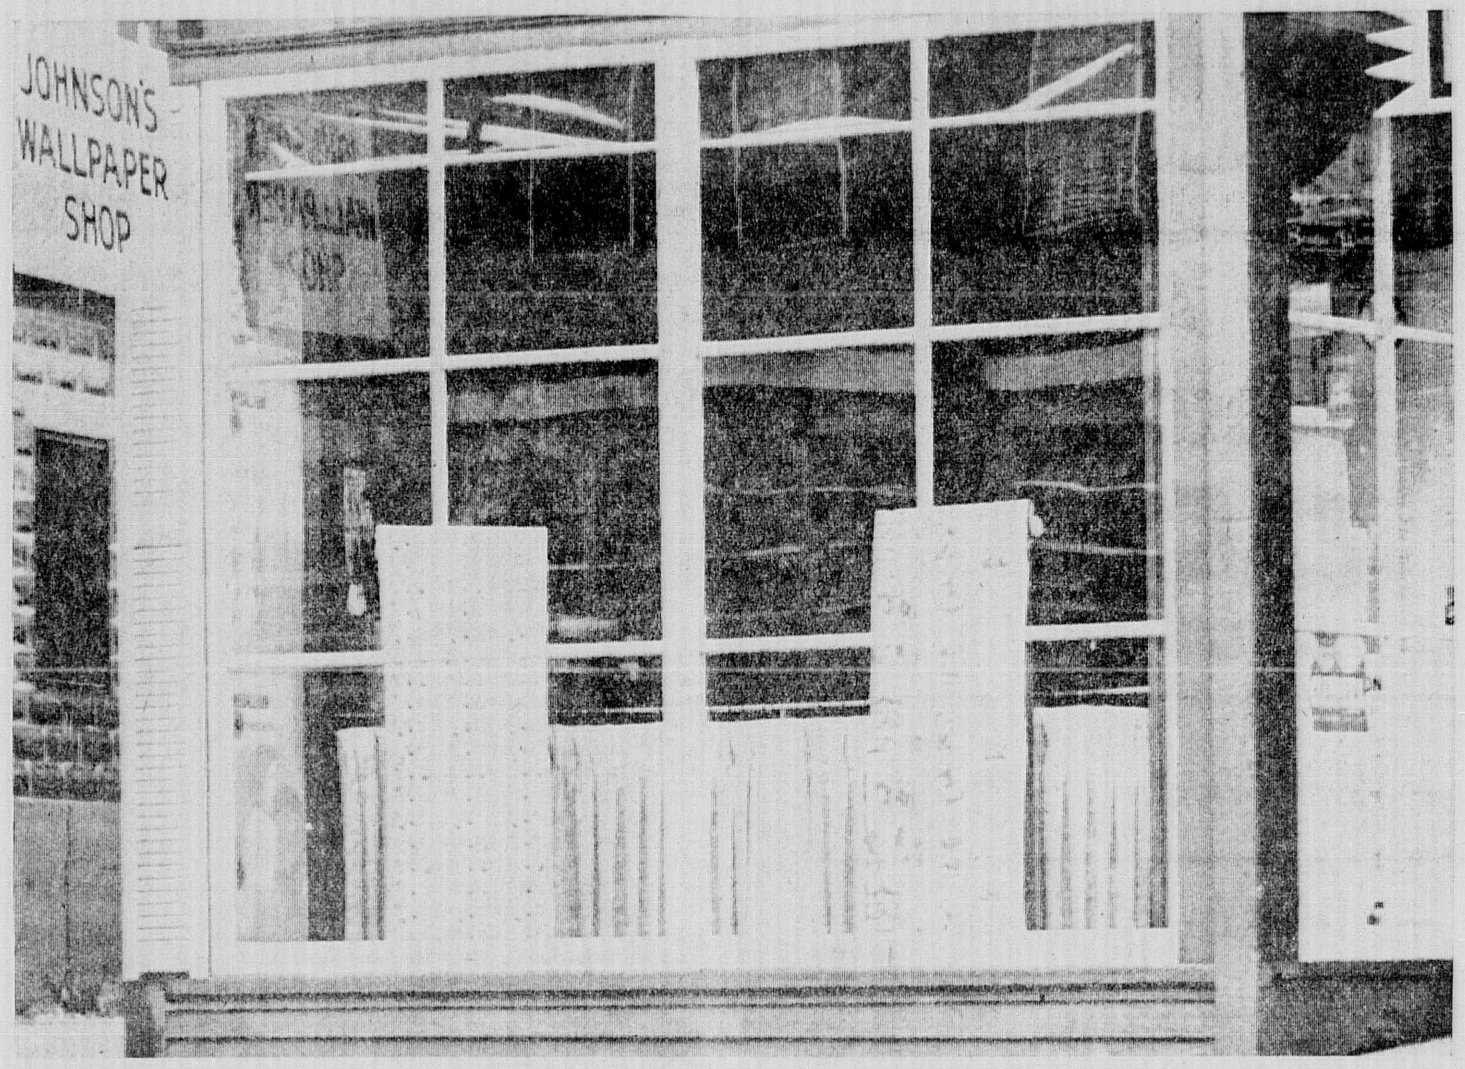
Distinctive Wallpaper Designs to Fit Every Decor, Style, Taste!



WALLPAPER SPECIALTY SHOP. Ever since Johnson's Wallpaper Shop opened the doors of its attractive little shop in the Symmes Building at 747 Main Street nearly two years ago, it has been known widely as "THE" Wallpaper Specialty Shop for homeowners and decorators. Walter Johnson, well-known local paperhanger, painter, and owner of Johnson's Wallpaper Shop, carries a complete line of distinctive wallpaper designs to fit every decor, style and taste. Some of the designs available are right out of leading decorator and fashion magazines; and others will make rooms in your house or business look as though they should be in a "home beautiful" magazine or "office design" photo. See Walter Johnson at Johnson's Wallpaper Shop; he's also a consultant, and many customers find his suggestions as well as wallpaper choices just what they were looking for.

Trees Assist Research In Purification

The same process that trees use now can purify water for human use.

The almost microscopic root hairs of trees have a membrane filter. The membrane sorts the contents of ground moisture. It permits only those minerals that a tree can use to pass through the barrier with ground water.

Dr. Bertram Keilin of Amicon Corporation, Cambridge, Mass., advised a recent conference on problems of the Merrimack River that a similar membrane system has been devised to control water pollution. The membranes are synthetic. They remove impurities, down to such minute particles as viruses and detergents.

"Sometimes," Dr. Keilin commented, "mention of such substances as 'synthetic membranes' to laymen surrounds a process with an air of mystery. But synthetic membranes have become commonplace even in our everyday life. Cellophane and Saran are examples of synthetic membranes."

Dr. Keilin, of course, was not suggesting to business, political and conservation leaders at the Andover, Mass., conference that kitchen wrappers be used to solve pollution problems. The membranes that his processes use are much more sophisticated. They can filter—actually "filter" is not the correct word since membranes work through a slightly different technique known as "osmosis"—tiny bacteria or infinite traces of inorganic minerals.

In fact, membranes make it possible to convert sewage into drinking water. Even though lost in the fastness of the laboratory, Dr. Keilin recognizes that New Englanders are not yet ready for a closed circuit between the septic tank and the water fountain, with nothing but membranes between.

"The public needs more education about water re-use," he suggested. "Water is being re-used again and again, but we have tended to shield the public from these harsher facts."

The facts are that sewage water can be converted into drinking waterat a fraction of the cost involved in converting sea water into fresh water. Salt water is much "dirtier," Dr. Keilin said.

Such processes as Dr. Keilin and other scientists proposed at the Andover conference offer solutions to knottier problems in cleaning water before it is dumped into a stream. The processes are recent technological breakthroughs that have outmoded the old excuses that methods to clean up special pollution problems do not exist. There was repeated testimony that means are available to handle the most complex problems.

Breaking down municipal sewage, however, probably never will involve such elaborate equipment as membrane systems. Robert W. Oakey, a Stamford, Conn., sanitary engineer, suggested that "nothing ever will work cheaper at breaking down sewage than our present bacteria which work free." Oakey said that those who expect science to produce "a pill that can be thrown into the Merrimack River and clean it instantly" are impractical dreamers.

"At this time, we face a $1 billion backlog in municipal waste treatment plants and a $4 to $10 billion backlog for industrial waste plants," he said. "The treatment of wastes probably never will be much cheaper than it is today—and certainly the costs of construction are not expected to decline."

The attack on the Merrimack's problems is a two-state operation. At the same time citizens met in Andover another group was meeting in Concord, N.H., wrestling with the same problem.

Dartmouth Women Meet in Danvers

The annual luncheon and card part of the Dartmouth Women's Club, Inc. was held recently at King's Grant Motel, Danvers, with attendance beyond expectation.

This affair was of particular interest in that club members and friends, old and new, gathered to enjoy each other as well as to have a part in the attainment of the club's yearly goal, a gift of one thousand dollars to Dartmouth College for worthy students.

During luncheon, an informal fashion show featuring the latest styles in day wear, sportswear and evening creations was presented by "Sears" of Saugus. A silent auction added interest during the day.

Following a delicious luncheon, members and guests enjoyed card games of choice. Individual table prizes consisted of petite cornucopias arranged with colorful fall fruits, berries, topped with tiny multicolored birds and a large cornucopia, beautifully arranged with fall motifs was awarded as door prize.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on Wednesday, November 16 at The Brookline Motor Motel. A very important business session will be conducted at 11:30 a.m. and dessert and coffee followed by a social hour will be at 1 p.m. At 2 special guest Mrs. Marion Tucker Rudkin, well-known book reviewer, will speak on "Books are Friends."

RAYMOND C. SALLING of 3 Euclid Avenue, left, management consultant for Roth & Strong, Inc., in Boston, received a Paul Revere bowl from Ralph E. Fenton, training director for Factory Mutual Engineering Division, Norwood, at a recent seminar sponsored by the Boston Chapter of the Administration Management Society. Mr. Salling's topic presented for the seminar was "The Problems of Cost Reduction."

Three-Play Evening to Be Presented On High School Stage Friday Night

The students of Winchester High School will display their talents in the field of dramatics as Curtain and Cue present their traditional One Act Play Nite Friday, November 18, at 8 p.m. at Winchester High School Auditorium.

It has been the tradition at the high school to have three senior drama students select and direct one act plays in competition under the supervision of Miss Judith St. Jean the drama teacher. This year with the added help of Miss Mary Carney from Boston College these able students will present "Riders to the Sea" by William Synge directed by Janice Leighton and Diane Neumann and performed by members of the junior class. Perhaps the best example of a one act tragedy in modern theatre the play deals with man's struggle and defeat by the forces of nature and revolves around an old woman who watches her family slowly being swallowed up by the roaring sea.

The sophomore play directed by Anne Rozelle and Debbie Dillon is "Sparkin," a comedy revolving around a budding romance that is interrupted by a mean old tobacco chewing grandman. "Aria da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay is the senior play selection and is directed by Jane Sexton and Joanne Cincotta. This play which has won several drama festivals is an allegory using Commedia clowns and a play within a play about two shepherds who devise a game which turns into a double murder. Theatre-goers tomorrow will be offered three different styles of drama, making for a well rounded evening.

Along with directors and actors many people are needed to produce a night of drama, and the following people have served as chairman of committees and have worked to involve as many students as possible in this first Curtain and Cue activity of 1966. Miss St. Jean estimates that over 150 students have been involved in preparing for this activity. Chairman are; tickets, Paul Lanigan; publicity, Laura Winsor; programs, Martha Harrington; make-up, Jeanne Burton; prizes, Dianne Neumann; judges, David Andresen; talent show, Kathy Weaver and Miss Carney and stage crew, Paul Griffin, Glenn Johns, David Andersen, Ken Duffy and David Clark, supervised by Earl Ball.

On the night of the performance WHS will be honored to have as judges Miss Elizabeth Hull, W.H.S. English department, Charles Hemmingsen, senior class, and Dr. J. Collins, professor of playwriting at Tufts University. The judges will be asked to select the best play, the best direction, and an all star cast of four actors and actresses.

While the judges are tabulating their scores there will be a short talent show involving a combo, singing groups including the Troubadors, a monologue and several other student acts.

The competition this year is especially tense because the senior class has won for the past two years, and they are not trying to make this a climactic three-year victory.

Vaugh Asks For Registrations Of All Motorboats

State Motorboat Director Wilton Vaugh has filed legislation recommending that all motorboats in the State be registered as a measure of promoting water safety.

The law presently requires registration only of boats propelled by motors of five or more horsepower.

Mr. Vaugh said that the measure conforms with recommendations of national authorities on safe boating, including the U.S. Coast Guard, United Conference of Boating Administrators, and the National Safety Council.

At present, he pointed out, neighboring states of New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and New York register all motorboats.

"If a Massachusetts boat under five horsepower is unregistered and taken into any of these adjoining states," Vaugh said, "the owner faces prosecution should he fail to comply with their boating regulations."

The Director said that twenty-six states in the country now register all motorboats and it is expected that others will join the national trend toward elimination of horsepower exemptions. The Coast Guard is drafting a bill to file with the incoming Congress to register all motor boats.

He said that registering all motorboats would help prevent boat thefts, curb reckless or dangerous boat operation, provide identification and courtesies in other states, identify boat ownership in cases of accident or emergency, and promote safe boating.

Christmas Bazaar Nov. 30-Dec. 1

An old-fashioned Christmas Bazaar with nostalgic decorations and foods is coming to the First Congregational Church on Wednesday, November 30 and Thursday, December 1. The Bazaar opens officially Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock with coffee and desserts from the best old family recipes! Booths are open at that time. On Thursday, booths open at 10 and close at 5 p.m.

Highlight of Thursday's program is the elegant hot luncheon, plus a charming afternoon tea to relax weary shoppers. In addition to the usual items found at a bazaar, gifts and treasures, a cheese corner, crafts, Santa's Workshop, and a "Family Picture" section will add color and excitement.

Miss Alfreda Kearney and Mrs. William M. Wheelock are co-chairmen of the Bazaar, assisted by the following: advisory, Mrs. Dwight L. Cart, Mrs. Kenneth Henley, Mrs. Richard C. Diehl, Mrs. Paul E. Nason; secretary, Mrs. Alfred J. Higgins; treasurers, Mrs. Paul Leverette, Mrs. R. Ashley Lewis, Mrs. Franklin J. Lane, Mrs. Ober Pride; arrangements, Mrs. Harold J. Butters, Mrs. E. Carl Hoglund; publicity, Miss Eleanor Albee, Mrs. George E. Connor; baby sitting, Mrs. Lorraine Nelson; check room, Mrs. Paul F. Stoneman; parking of cars, Mr. Henry Harris, Mr. Bradford Bentley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Hoehn of Pine Street, recently attended the annual Parents Weekend at Abbot Academy in Andover. They were the guests of their daughter, Nancy, who is a fourth year student at the school.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"I notice you are suggesting a 10% increase in the amount of my Homeowners policy," Jim Rineley said.

"Yes," I said, "there has been an increase of about 10% in the cost of building a home over the past three-year period."

"I know it's gone up," Jim said, "and headed higher."

"Right," I said. "On top of the regular inflation, higher costs will no doubt result from the higher interest rates. But the 10% adjustment will keep you in line with our inflationary conditions."

"To get full reimbursement, in the event of a loss, I have to keep my insurance in line with current values, don't I?" Jim asked.

"Correct," I replied. "I'm glad you understand the reason why the increase is necessary. The Replacement Cost provision requires that you carry not less than 80% of what it would cost to replace it."

"The Replacement Cost features are a big blessing," Jim said. "I wouldn't want to lose it."

Perhaps it's also time to review your Insurance. May we be of service?

Curtis, Finigan View Science Of Life Film

G. Hartley Curtis of Winchester Senior High School and Francis X. Finigan, head of science for Winchester schools, attended the world premiere of "Cracking the Code of Life," November 3, at the Boston Museum of Science. They were among 400 selected secondary school science and biology teachers, administrators and talented science and biology students from throughout the state invited to view the new American Cancer Society film and assist in the evaluation of its effectiveness.

Produced by the American Cancer Society, the film was described by the Boston Globe as "revolutionary, winning the acclaim of scientists and high school teachers."

Designed for high school biology pupils, "Cracking the Code of Life" is the first film of its type, at this level, to tell the amazing story of DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid), the substance which passes on heredity information from one generation to the next and controls growth of tissues and cells.

The film was made possible by a special $35,000 grant from the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division, and will be made available to all secondary schools in the state.

Library Film Program

The Pigeon That Came Home, Rumplestiltskin and Make Way For Ducklings make up the program for November 18 & 19th. The first film is laid in Norway where two brothers raise pigeons. One boy takes a bird on a hike and has an accident. The pigeon flies home and enables him to be rescued.

Rumplestiltskin is charmingly acted by children. It's a toss up whether the dwarf or the king is the more fascinating.

Make Way For Ducklings is an old favorite, repeated by request.

Children must be accompanied by an adult throughout the showing of the Friday night program. School age children attend alone on Saturday morning.

Bazaar at Immac Is Next Week

The Sodality of our Lady of the Immaculate Conception Parish, Woburn-Winchester will sponsor its annual Christmas Bazaar on Friday, November 18th from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday, November 19th from 10- 8 p.m.

Famous T.V. and radio magician, Walter Childs will be on hand to entertain both young and old. He will arrive at 2 o'clock on Saturday, November the 19th, at the Immaculate Conception Parish Hall on Sheridan Circle. And he will have fun for all.

The women of the Sodality have arranged a number of tables: White Elephant, Cake, Knit goods, Dolls and Toys, Christmas Wreaths, Candle, Novelties of all kinds, Aprons, Grabs, and all kinds of games for young and old. A delicious luncheon will be served on Friday from 11:30 to 1:30 p.m. A snack bar will be open at all times and one may have one's picture taken with Santa.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Bazaar.

Valerie Beggs Wins Paris Trip

Valerie Beggs, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. (Janet Hayward) Beggs, former residents here, took her mother to Paris last week when she went as a finalist in the Singer World Stylemaker Contest.

Red carpet treatment marked their five-day visit in which they saw the town and had a glorious fling. Valerie aims at being a fashion designer and this taste of the big-fashion life reinforced her desires. She didn't win top prize for the white coat and dress ensemble she had made but that mattered little by the time she was done.

Valerie is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hayward of Maine. Mr. Hayward is a former teacher at the Winchester High School.

George E. Wells Wins Real Estate Writing Award

George E. Wells of 166 High Street planning department manager for the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, has been named the winner of the Robert H. Armstrong Award for 1965 for the most significant original real estate valuation article to appear last year in the Appraisal Journal," quarterly publication of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers.

The presentation, which this year included a check for $500 provided by the Institute's Research and Education Trust Fund, was made in Miami Beach on November 14 during the Institute's annual meeting held in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Mr. Wells' article, "Financing Nursing Homes," was published in the July, 1965, issue of "The Appraisal Journal." He had written it originally as a thesis submitted in partial fulfillment of requirements for graduation from the Stonier Graduate School of Banking conducted by the American Bankers Association.

Mr. Wells also was graduated from the American Institute of Banking and is a former director of the Boston chapters of the Systems and Procedures Association and the Administrative Management Society. Long active in the credit union movement, he also has served as the director of two federal credit unions in Massachusetts.

Elks Hold Fine Sports Evening, Dance, Collation

The Winchester Lodge of Elks honored its softball team last Saturday night with a sports night at which each of the team members was awarded a fine jacket. After knocking at the door for several years, the Elks team won the playoffs in great style to be crowned 1966 champs of the Town Softball League.

Speechmaking was held to a minimum, and a fine evening of dancing to an excellent combo followed. A collation was also served.

SPAGHETTI DINNER
THIS SATURDAY

The Elks are putting on a fine spaghetti dinner this Saturday, November 19, between 12 noon and 2 p.m. at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue. All Elks members and guests are cordially invited. A good turnout is expected, as the Notre Dame-Michigan State game follow on TV shortly thereafter.

Parish Players' Fall Production Opens Tonight

"Ladies In Retirement," the fall production of the First Congregational Church Parish Players will be presented for the first time at 8:30 tonight at Chidley Hall.

The play, a tale of suspense, takes four genteel ladies living quietly in seclusion, and leads them from their tranquil domestic existence to a blood-curdling crime and its ironic punishment with the inevitability of a Greek tragedy.

Sally Phaneuf, last seen in Chidley Hall as the houskeeper in "Pygmalion" and prior to that in the title role of "The Heiress," takes the lead in "Ladies in Retirement," The strong one of a trio of sisters, she undertakes to protect her charges when their security is threatened. De French is her benefactor and victim and the sisters are played by Nancy Dorsey and Doris Bryant. Julie Foskett plays the part of the maid who unwittingly exposes the crime and Steve Pentek plays a nehphew who attempts to profit by it. Mary Mears appears as a helpful nun from a nearby convent.

The play has been staged under the direction of Glenne Grant. Roger Foskett has designed the sets and lights. Ralph Sefarian is production manager.

"Ladies In Retirement" will also be presented on Friday, November 18 and Saturday, November 19. For tickets call Ruth Albee at 729-5844.

Skid School To Train Registry Men; Lists Skids

More than 200 Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles inspectors are taking part in Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies' Skid Control School, at the firm's research center in Hopkinton.

Orders were given to take the course, according to Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin, because skidding is a prime element in many serious accidents, especially in the fall and winter months.

This will mark the first time the Registry has ordered its entire corps of inspectors to attend the school—day-long sessions involving classroom instruction coupled with behind-the-wheel training on Liberty Mutual's "skid pan."

State Police cadets from both Massachusetts and New Hampshire have taken part in the school the past two years, and last year Pennsylvania State Police cadets were given skid school instruction by Liberty Mutual in Harrisburg, Pa.

Purpose of the skid school is to demonstrate the six kinds of skids, let drivers experience the skids and then show how these skids can be controlled.

The six skids, according to Liberty Mutual engineers, are:

1. Front-wheel lock, when the car's front tires slip on ice or oil slick, causing the driver to lose steering control.

2. Rear-wheel lock, when the driver slams on the brakes on slippery pavement, causing the car to make a 180-degree turn with the rear end of the car whipping around to the "front."

3. All-wheel lock, when brakes are jammed too hard, causing all four wheels to lose traction with the road. The car can slide unpredictably in any direction.

4. Power skid, when the car is accelerated too fast for road conditions, causing the rear wheels to spin quickly while the car "fishtails" back and forth.

5. Spinouts, caused by entering a turn too fast and the rear end of the car breaks loose and whips the car off the road.

6. Hydroplaning, the front tires at high speed literally riding atop a thin film of water, with no tire contact with the road. Sudden wind gust caused by a passing vehicle could push the car right off the road.

Liberty Mutual engineers say there are four basic steps to take when a car skids: de-clutch counter-steer, take foot off the brakes and take foot off the gas pedal.

When all four wheels are locked, the car can be slowed down by "stabbing" the brakes, repeatedly hitting them quickly until the front end of the car goes down and releasing the brakes until the hood rises.

Cost of Sentiment

When Troy Donahue told his business manager that he intended to get married shortly after the dawn of a new year, the accountant was horrified. "I suggested they get married by Dec. 31," he told TV Guide. "That way they'd be eligible for a joint income tax return. But Jan. 4 was the anniversary of their first date. Sentiment! It cost them $25,000 in taxes."

The ALA says it's better to get plastered at home than all over the road.

Sears Co. Party Honors Kirk

Nearly 200 persons gathered last night at the 1200 Beacon Street Hotel to pay honor to Henry S. Kirk of 15 New Meadows Road on the occasion of his retirement from more than 30 years of working with the Sears Roebuck and Company.

Mr. Kirk, who was retiring from the position of division manager of the furniture department at the Fenway Sears, had been with the company since 1932. Robert Oelwang, store manager praised his contribution to the Sears Company and presented him with a gift from his fellow workers.

Mr. Kirk lives here with his wife, Elizabeth, and his son, Peter, also with Sears, now in appliance sales in the Saugus store. He is also the father of a daughter, Carolyn, who is in Denver, Colorado with the John C. Davis Insurance Company.

The Kirks plan to leave for Bocarotan, Florida soon for the winter months.

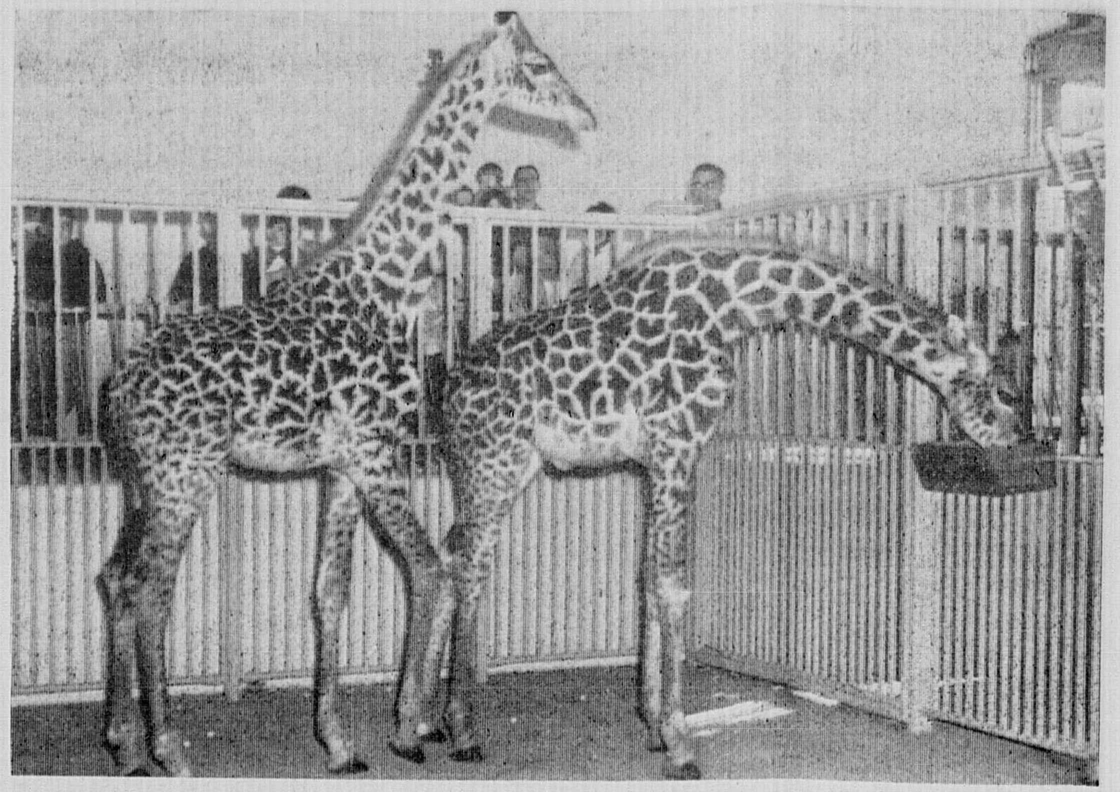
John McLaughlin Is Awarded An Honorary Litt.D.

John Francis McLaughlin, dean of the Massachusetts Bay Community College faculty and a resident for some years at 18 Lloyd Street, was awarded an honorary litterarum doctor degree by Emerson College at ceremonies held November 6 in the First Church of Boston.

Mr. McLaughlin was a member of the faculty of the Winchester High School, and taught English here before leaving to become an administrator at Mass Bay Community Colege. He received the honor at annual Founder's Day excercises at Emerson, where he was graduated some years ago with a B.L.I. degree. He also holds an Ed.M. degree at Boston University.

Mr. McLaughlin was associated with the Everett School system for 20 years before teaching in Winchester. He has also been an instructor at Northeastern University and is a former member of the Emerson College Board of Trustees.

The Height Of Comfort



HIGH-RISE QUARTERS at the Metropolitan District Commission's Middlesex Fells Zoo are these newly arrived giraffes, housed in a new specially designed 20-foot-high building erected as part of the reconstruction program at the Stoneham zoo. The 11-foot-high young giraffes were part of a shipment to American zoos from Kenya, Africa, threatened with a watery grave in the Atlantic last August after the vessel made unscheduled stops at ports where hoof and mouth disease may have been present. Federal authorities later agreed to allow the animals to enter the country and quarantined them for three months.

At Ford Hall Forum Meeting

Senator Wayne L. Morse, outspoken foe of President Johnson's foreign policy, will deliver the David K. Niles Memorial Lecture at Ford Hall Forum in Jordan Hall on Gainsboro Street in Boston, this Sunday at 8 p.m. The meeting is open to the public.

Sen. Morse, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has consistently opposed U.S. involvement in Vietnam, will speak on "Does the United States have a Foreign Policy?" Judge Reuben L. Lurie will preside and serve as moderator for the question period which will follow his address.

The Oregon Senator, now 66, was born on a farm near Madison, Wis., and had his first taste of politics while an undergraduate at the University of Wisconsin where he campaigned for the late "Fighting Bob" LaFollette, like Morse a man known for his independence and liberalism. He holds a Ph.B. from Wisconsin where he earned an M.A. degree in 1924. He received his LL.B. degree from the University of Minnesota in 1928 and four years later a J.D. degree from Columbia.

Sen. Morse was 30 years old when he was named Dean of the University of Oregon Law School in 1931. He was catapulted into national prominence in 1941 when President Roosevelt named him chairman of the National Railroad Emergency Board and shortly thereafter to the National War Labor Board. He wrote many of the key opinions of the Board's decisions during the war.

He was first elected to the U.S. Senate in 1944 as a Republican, resigned from the party in 1952, and after a period as an Independent, he joined the Democratic Party in 1955. He won reelection to the Senate in 1956 and in 1962 by decisive margins.

Wine Room Ready For Holidays

The Giles Package Store, just off the Mystic Valley Parkway at 630 High Street, West Medford, has just completed renovations and an enlargement which includes the addition of a new wine room.

Robert Galvin, manager, reports that a large selection of imported and domestic wines are now shown on attractive display and that the whole store has been remodelled to be spacious and inviting and to accomodate customers with self service.

Giles, which offers prompt delivery in Winchester, is just east of the Route 60 circle at the foot of the Mystic Lakes.

Catholic Mothers' Guild Meeting

The Arlington Catholic Mothers' Guild has begun preparations for the Christmas Season. On Thursday evening, November 17, at 8:00 p.m., at the Arlington Catholic High School, a short business meeting will be followed by a program on "Christmas Decorations." Mrs. Florence Collins, of Woburn, will lecture and present a professional demonstration of attractive holiday decorations. Following this, club members will have a display of their individual creative ideas for Christmas decorations, will explain how these displays are made, and then will have a general exchange of ideas. Articles made by the members will be on display and then a raffle for these will be held at the end of the evening.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Mary Rooney, Mrs. Brenda Cullinane, Mrs. Adele Olendrowitz and Mrs. Elizabeth Keefe. Co-chairmen of the program are Mrs. Anthony Cipolla and Mrs. Frederick Beauchamp.

New Emphasis On Science At Smith Reported

On Wednesday, November 9, the Smith College Club of Winchester met at the Arlington Street home of Mrs. Robert G. Abbott to hear a report of the Alumnae Council held in Northhampton November 1-3.

Mrs. Andrew L. Nichols, who served a club delegate to Council, explained that this year's program had focused on science and the new science facilities at Smith. The Clark Science Center, an eight million dollar complex which will be completed in the spring, now houses all the science departments of the college and includes a new science library, an animal laboratory and special new equipment. With these new facilities, the science department now attracts 10 percent of the undergraduate majors.

Mrs. Nichols also mentioned recent changes in the general curriculum which have been made to provide greater freedom for each individual student. Smith now offers increased flexibility in the scheduling of class time, with more individual advising for all students in the four course program. Each girl now spends one third of her time in her major, one third in studies outside her field, and the remaining third whereever she wishes. The new curriculum is designed to meet the varied preparation and changing needs of today's students.

D. A. R. to Host Hillside Boys

Members of the Committee of Safety Chapter of D.A.R. will be entertained by nine students from the Hillside School for Boys located in Marlboro, at the November 21st meeting.

The boys, accompanied by their principal, Mr. Whittemore, will present a dramatic skit. The Hillside School has been a service project of the D.A.R. for some time. Members are reminded to bring their Christmas contributions for the school at this time.

This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Michael MacDonald, the regent, at 92 Bacon Street on Monday, November 21. Dessert and coffee will be served at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. MacDonald reminds all members of the organizational meeting of the Black Horse Tavern Society of the C.A.R. (Children of the American Revolution) to take place on Saturday, November 19 at 2:00 p.m. in the American Legion Hall.

Brian Collins may have been off in his passing in the Wakefield game, but no one could find fault with his kicking. He averaged 38 yards from the line of scrimmage on his punts. Since he has taken over the punting chores he hasn't had a bad kick. In fact, in the past three games every kick he got off has taken a forward roll. Is he lucky or has he mastered a trick every punter would like to know?

* * * * *

The Winchester pass defense was terrific. The Wakefield QB was blitzed so often he spent more time on his back than he did on his feet, while the Warrior receiver were so well covered Wakefield could complete only three passes out of sixteen attempts. While we're handing accolades, we have to admit the Wakefield pass defense was also terrific. The Sachems got off only two successful passes.

* * * * *

Admittedly Winchester's offense doesn't have the explosive power of Reading or Melrose or Wakefield, but when it comes to defense, there is no better in the Middlesex League. We have been of that opinion for some time. Now our opinion has been confirmed by several Winchester fans who usually knock the team's performance and give praise grudgingly. After last Friday's game they were unreserved in their praise and went along with us, by not only admitting but by averring that the Sachems have perhaps the best defensive team they have ever had and certainly as good as any in the league.

* * * * *

Wakefield fans enjoyed the performance of the Winchester band. Accustomed to the conservative style of play of their own band, they were, especially the younger crowd, enthusiastic about the swinging style of the Winchester aggregation and their rendering of such modern tunes as Batman and selections from Tia Juana Brass.

* * * * *

The crowd was also beguiled by the cute little Wakefield cheerleader, about for or five years old, who assisted in the half-time festivities for the enjoyment of the holiday gathering.

* * * * *

Next Thursday, Turkey Day, marks the end of the football season as the Sachems take on the Tanners in their traditional game. The records can be thrown out the window for this one. Woburn started with a green team which has just recently got the feel of playing together.

* * * * *

While we rejoice in the success of this year's McCall football team, we at the same time sympathize with the plight of Frank Provinzano, whose team has had little success. Because of its geographical location Lynch draws among its ninth graders boys who are apparently more interested in social affairs (dances, parties, etc.) in their extra-curricular pursuits, or in sports less strenuous than football. It would be great for Frankie if the ninth graders could be lumped together and selected by the two coaches sandlot style.

* * * * *

Manny Marshall, McCall football coach, will also assist in handling this winter's high school gym team. With two Springfield alumni at the helm, the squad will be in good hands.

Winchester, Wakefield Tie 0-0 In Rugged Defensive Duel

THE PASS THAT COULD HAVE WON THE GAME FOR WINCHESTER. John Martin's arms just weren't long enough to reach the Collins-thrown pass which would have meant a touchdown and the only score in the Winchester-Wakefield game at Manchester Field last Friday. The picture tells the complete story, with Wakefield's goal posts looming in the background. Tommy Holmes (14) and Paul Cerrone (27) are the Wakefield defenders. Action took place in the second quarter.

In a Veteran's Day game at Manchester Field, Winchester held Middlesex League-leading Wakefield to a scoreless tie. The Sachems had the better scoring opportunities and completely outplayed the Warriors in the first half, holding them to a net of 14 yards and permitting them to cross midfield only once, late in the second period. Johnny Martin intercepted a potential touchdown pass on the last play of the game to preserve Winchester's tie.

It was a rough, tough game, with outstanding defensive play on both sides bottling up the offense. Winchester had five major penalties called against it, which contributed to stalling the Sachem attack.

Winchester kicked off to the Wakefield 44. A 5-yard Winchester penalty put the ball on the Wakefield 49. Pete Grant and Roger Fenn nailed the runner for a 2-yard loss, and on the next play Dan McGee and Pete Grant smeared Wakefield QB Tommy Holmes for a 4-yard loss. The kick went to the Winchester 26. After Brian Collins gained a yard, Bob Nutile on a handoff got 10 and first down to the Winchester 37. Pete Knight picked up 3 and 3, and after a pass play failed, Collins kicked to the Wakefield 20. The rest of the quarter was a punting duel as neither team could gain ground. Toby Choate did break through for a 30-yard run, but a clipping penalty marred his fine effort.

The defensive battle continued into the second quarter. On one play the Wakefield quarterback was nailed for a 13-yard loss by Grant and Kevin Lynch. Knight made one run of 15 yards in the second quarter, and with the aid of a penalty the Sachems had the ball on the Wakefield 22. After a pass to Martin was overthrown in the end zone, Warrior end Glenn Thornton intercepted a Collins pass and ran the ball back to the Wakefield 10. Late in the second period Wakefield halfback Paul Cerrone broke through for a 25-yard run to the Winchester 40, but Mike Ciarcia intercepted a Holmes pass on the Winchester 20, but a penalty against the Sachems nullified that play and Wakefield had the ball on the Winchester 10. A vicious tackle by Andy Kincaid nailed the runner for a 5-yard loss on the next play as the half ended.

Winchester received the second-half kickoff on its 37, but a holding penalty pushed it back to its 22. A pass, Collins to Nutile, was good for 8, but after an incompleted pass Collins booted a 45-yarder from scrimmage to the Wakefield 21. Winchester, with the aid of Grant and Lynch, stopped the Warriors cold. Nutile took the Wakefield kick from his 46 to the Wakefield 32. Knight and Flaherty got 8 yards on two plays. A fourth-down pass into the end zone intended for Schlener was just out of reach, and the ball went over to Wakefield on its 24. Wakefield got a first down on three line gains to its 34. On a keeper, Holmes cut to the right and skirted the sideline until pushed out by Martin at the Winchester 46. Six running plays brought the ball to the Winchester 20 as the quarter ended.

On the second play of the fourth quarter Toby Harvey intercepted a Holmes-thrown pass in his end zone and brought it out to his 14. After 2 plays gained 5 yards Collins kicked to the Wakefield 34, a 45-yard kick. Wakefield got 5 and 6, then Grant and Martin collaborated to throw Cerrone for an 8-yard loss, Martin making the tackle. Cerrone gained 10 and 2, then Wakefield kicked to the Winchester 16. Flaherty got 3. Knight on a trap got 12 to the Winchester 31. Four plays later Collins kicked to the Wakefield 38. A Holmes-Peter Dolan pass brought the ball to the Winchester 46. A pass failed, then Ken Albertelli smeared Holmes for a 3-yard loss. A pass play, a keeper and a 15-yard Winchester penalty put the ball on the Sachem 20. Another pass, to Thornton, put the ball on the Winchester 9. After 3 plays got nowhere, the Warriors attempted a place kick which was partially blocked by Grant, and Winchester took over on its 8. The Sachems went into a shotgun formation, but the pass was intercepted by Thornton and brought to the Winchester 38. On the next play most of the Winchester team broke through to chase Holmes out of bounds for a 5-yard loss. Martin intercepted and brought the ball to his 20 as the game ended.

Late Tennis Finale Crowns Macneil, White

Ted White and Bill Macneil, in a match that almost was postponed until spring, won the Winchester Town Doubles Championship last Monday evening at the Winchester Indoor Tennis Center defeating Ed Williams and Bob Pritchard 8-6, 6-1. It was the second straight year that Macneil had scored a sweep of all three events, having earlier won the mixed with Irene Easling and the singles over Charley Watson.

All four participants were rusty from lack of play in recent weeks and the tennis was not up to their best standards. The first set, although close, was quite ragged with double faults galore and few earned points. Macneil particularly could not find the court with his truly awesome serve and had difficulty harnessing both thundering overhead and his usually dependable backhand return of serve. Taking advantage of these lapses, Pritchard and Williams nearly won the first set and aided their cause through steady returns of serve and some sound serving on the part of Pritchard, who got his first serve in consistently and was capably supported by his partner at net.

After struggling through the first set, Macneil and White got rolling in the second and showed a much better brand of tennis. White, who had held his team together in the first set, continued his consistent play while Macneil warmed to the task and belted the ball mercilessly whenever it appeared in his sector. Although handcuffed at times by the weight of these clouts, Pritchard and Williams responded in kind in fast exchanges, but could earn no more than one game for their efforts despite carrying four of the games to deuce.

Mrs. Betty Pritchard, representing the Winchester Tennis Association which sponsored the event, presented the trophies to the teams at the conclusion of the match.

Swimming Class At Woburn Y

A special afternoon session of swim lessons for young people from Winchester is being announced today by the Woburn YMCA.

Starting Monday, November 21, an eight week swimming course will start for local children 7 through 12 with the added accomodation of a bus pick-up and return. The bus will stop at the Town Hall at 3:45 and return there at 6 p.m. Youngsters are to bring swim suits and towels, plus bathing caps for girls.

The fee for the course is very reasonable and further information may be obtained by calling the Woburn Y at 935-3270. Other swim classes on other days are also open to Winchester children.

Jr. Wee Sachems Win Finale 16-6

The Jr. Wee Sachems, looking for their fifth win in seven starts, crushed the Jr. Pop Warner Belmont team 16 to 6 Friday at Shore Road Field.

It was the second win over Belmont, a tough and well matched series for both teams. The game broke wide open in the first quarter. Jacky Strain, running the quarterback option play, received excellent straight away blocks from the block busters Richard Jacobs, Roger McGrath, Paul Tonello and fullback Robbie Ungaretti, and was able to cut off tackle and down five yards before cutting outside and a 35 yard jaunt for a Winchester touchdown.

A sweep by Jeff Ashton after cutting inside the end gave the local boys an 8 to 0 lead. But Belmont was not to be outdone. It took the kick off and ran down the sidelines for a visitor's score. Winchester prevented the extra point and led at half time 8 to 6. It is interesting to note that both teams scored a touchdown that was called back. Jeff Ashton skirted end on a nice run but the play was called back because of backfield in motion penalty. Belmont skirted end for what looked like a touchdown, but it also was called back, this time because of a clipping penalty. At half time, it was a toss up as to who would win.

Winchester was the stronger team for the remainder of the game. There were no long touchdown runs in the second half, but there were good gains and steady play by the home eleven. Paul Tonello did his usual fine job of driving up the middle on off tackle plays and slides. The backfield shift which moved Tonello deep behind the quarterback has paid off handsomely for Winchester during the season, Ashton continued to be Winchester's great threat. When Ashton gets the ball, the defense has learned never to go at him, but to race laterally across the field to cut off his sweep. Ashton was able to cut inside on several occasions for good gains. Jacky Strain did a fine job of mixing up the plays as quarterback. The plays he calls proved to be more successful than those sent in from the bench. His good quarterbacking and play calling climaxed in the second Winchester touchdown when the center of the line opened up the space for the quarterback sneak. Karl Mayer, Tim Duffy, David Bower, Bill Dexter, and Joe Martignetti scented the end zone and slammed their defensive men to the side. They hammered hard again on the extra points and Paul Tonello swished forward for score number 16.

With a 16 to 6 lead, it was then up to the Jr. Wee Sachem defensive team to hold Belmont. Alec Phippen, Richard Phillips, Brian Cullen, Kerry Brough, Bobby Tonello, and Martignetti and Ungaretti rose to the occasion. Belmont was held to very little gain in the second half. On defense, however, one player stood out Friday above all others—Ricky Ball. He made the key tackles throughout the game. Every time it appeared that the Belmont blockers had our defensive men on the ground, Ball seemed to come from nowhere to make the tackle. He did it so many times that it was impressive. The game could have been easily lost except for his tremendous effort. There were other good tackles. A shoestring tackle of a Belmont back by Jeepy Strain stopped a gainer up the middle. Kerry Brough continued his hard rushes on passers and runners. Joe Martignetti rushed the punter to block the kick. In most instances, however, the team pursuit was needed, and in the second half Winchester stopped them on just this kind of play.

It was a very good season for the Junior team in the first year of play. Each player worked hard and learned much from the instruction and competition from this newly created set up. It is hoped that many of the boys will be eager to play again next year. Much credit must be given to the coaches and their efforts in teaching and organizing. And admiration must be given to those boys who were always at practice, boys like Chip VickRoy, Jay Lanigan, Robbie Unagretti, Paul and Bob Tonello, Karl Mayer, Joe Martignetti, Tim Duffy, Brian Cullen, Kerry Brough, and David Bower, as well as the steady attendance of the new comers Bill Dexter and Ricky Ball. From these boys, there should be a fine nucleus for the team next year. Everyone concerned hopes that next year will breed the good time and interest which was had by all this year.

Junior Curling To Open Soon At Country Club

To get the junior curling season off to a "sweepingly" successful start at the Winchester Country Club this year there will be a coke party on Friday, November 18, at 3:15, in the lounge of the Club House, where plans for the season will be discussed.

Boys and girls, 13 to 18 years of age, whose parents are members of the Winchester Country Club are very welcome and may have their names added to the junior curling roster, by calling Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Gerould, 729-0514, or Mr. and Mrs. Dennis L. Heindel, 729-1694.

There will be an opportunity to observe some good curling in a short exhibition by experienced adult curlers, and then to get on the ice for a session of practice and instruction ending about 5:15.

Junior curling will continue each week, starting December 1, except during vacations when the ice is in use for Bonspiels, every Thursday and Friday from 3:15 to 5:00 p.m., through March.

An all-student production of Robert Merrill's musical "Carnival" opened last week at the University of Massachusetts, presented by the UMass Operetta Guild. In the cast of the popular show seen last weekend and continued November 17, 18 and 19, in John Stavros, freshman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stavros of 18 Florence Street.

BOWLING

VFW

The Misfits took 7 from the Jaquars and the Saabs and Mustangs split 4 and 4.

The 300 Club has a new member, Cappie Airey. She bowled a 306 to join Frans 311. Her strings consisted of 85, 112, and 109. Great bowling Cap!

Cappie's 306 was high for the night. Flaw was second with a 287 and Fran third with a 274.

Eleanor, Barb, and Stina all had a good night. Millie is really improving, and Lib will make that 300 Club yet.

Barbara O'Leary was the lucky winner of the pool this week. Congratulations Barb!

Will everyone please try to be on time on Thursdays. The earlier we start the earlier we finish. Thank you.

Happy bowling, girls!

Violets took 6 points from the Daisies this week. This keeps the Violets in fourth place.

Pansies took all 8 points from the Gardenias. Joan Gorrasi has replaced Pat Brencola of the Pansies, and it looks like the Pansies are going to be pretty hard to beat. Glad to have you back Joan!

Tulips and Buttercups are battling for last place. Tulips lost 8 points to the Petunias and the Buttercups lost 8 points to the Carnations. Emily Buzzotta almost had three strikes in a row. Nice try, Emily?

Daffodils took 6 points from the Roses. Phil of the Daffodils was high bowler with 279.

A speedy recovery to Ann Cullen who will be absent a few weeks. Hurry back Ann! Sorry to hear that Pat Brencola has dropped out, hope you'll be back next season, Pat!

Scout Council To Hold Cub Pow Wow Here

The Annual Cub Scout Leaders' Pow Wow will be held at the Lynch Junior High School on Saturday, December 3rd, acording to John Kimball, training chairman of the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The Pow Wow is an informal conference where opportunities exist to exhibit crafts made by Cub Scouts; to practice and exchange new games, ceremonies, and craft ideas; and to relate them to others; also to share successful methods of Pack operations.

Divided into four specialty areas, the Pow Wow is a tremendous experience for cubmasters, Den mothers, pack committeemen and parents.

The Minuteman Council serves more than 11,000 boys in the following communities: Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Burlington, Carlisle, Concord, Lexington, Lincoln, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Waltham, Watertown, Winchester, and Woburn.

Winchester men active on the Pow Wow faculty include Edward Bingel, Wiliam Krupsky and John Sutherland.

U.S. Wins Canada Cup; Individual Title To Knudson

By Harry McGrath

The Palmer-Nicklaus combination proved too much for the other 35 teams in the Canada Cup Classic that was played in Tokyo, Japan.

The big hitters from these shores used 548 strokes for 144 holes played, and finished 5 shots ahead of the defending champions from South Africa, Gary Player and Harold Henning, who used 553 strokes for their efforts.

George Knudson, Canadian, a familiar figure in U.S. tournaments, won the individual honors in a sudden death playoff with Hideyo Sugimoto. Both players had 272's and Knudson won on ths second extra hole with a birdie deuce.

Jack Nicklaus going into the last round was six behind the leader Knudson, and caught him on the 67th hole, but came up with a double bogie on the par 3 177 yard 69th hole.

Arnie Palmer was four strokes behind, going into the final round, but a 73, brought him in with 275, for fifth place.

Knudson's four rounds were 64-68-66 and 74. Sugimoto, who played here in the 1965 Carling Open, was 66-69-68-69 for his tying 272.

One of the surprising finishes was that of Lu Liang-Huan of Formosa. Lu came through with a one over the record 65 and a total 72 hole of 273 to tie Jack Nicklaus for third place. Jack's rounds were 69-68-67 and 69.

Lu's finish earned his Formosa team third team place.

The other team finishes in order after Formosa, were: Australia, Japan, Canada, Argentina, Belgium, Spain and England to complete the first ten teams.

After Palmer at 275 and fifth place, came Harold Henning of South Africa with 276 and Gary Player, defending Individual Champ was tied with two others from way down under, Bob Charmes, the leftie from New Zealand, and Bruce Devlin, the Australian, all having 277's; and Roberto De Vincenzo, from the Pampas, was 278 to round out the first ten in the individual part of the tournament.

The early rounds saw tremendous crowds, most of them following the U.S.A. strong men, but the last day's weather cut the crowd down. The sudden death playoff was played in semi-darkness with a cold rain coming down on the players and gallery.

Nicklaus and Players' win was their third as the U.S. team and the eighth team victory for Uncle Sam's representatives.

Their 548 score was 28 under par and six strokes better than the prior record of 554 which they set in 1964 while winning in Hawaii.

Sugimoto finished in a tie for 13th place in the 1965 Carling with 7 others, all having 287. He received $2,062.00 for this tie along with the other seven.

He received $500.00 for finishing second in the Canada Cup.

Lu Liang Huan, played in the 1965 Carling, finished with 295 to tie for 60th place. For this he received $745.00.

For his third place tie in the Canada Cup he received $300.00, as did Jack Nicklaus.

Golf has increased its popularity all over the world, but the prize money is still behind the U.S. standards.

Television has much to do with this.

The team prize for the Canada Cup is $2,000, and the individual top prize $1,000.

But the players all receive a pretty good deal on their expense accounts.

In the ladies professional circuit at San Antonio, Texas, where the Alamo Open was held, Sandra Haynie, with rounds of 72-71-70, for a total of 213, won the tournament and $1875.00 for first prize money. She finished the 54 holes tied with Shirley Englehorn who was leading after 36 holes, with her two sub-par rounds of 68-71, however, Sandra caught her with an excellent 70 while Shirley was running up a 74.

Sandra won the sudden death playoff.

Marlene Hagge was the defending champion but she failed to finish in the first 14.

Kathy Whitworth, winner of eight L.P.G.A. Tournaments this year, got off to a bad start with a 78 first round, and though she came back with 73-70, her 221 was only good for a four-way tie for eighth place, each one of the four gals getting $427.00 for their three day efforts.

Sandra gained $1,448.00 on Kathy, in the race for top money winnings for the year, but with only one more tournament to go, Sandra still trails Kathy by $2,700.

Mickey Wright with 71-72-73-for 216 was tied with the other Sandra (Spuzich) for third place, each getting $1,100.00.

So, it would seem that Miss Whitworth, will be the leading money winner for the second consecutive year.

She has now passed the $30,000 mark.

Art Wall is starting the Latin American Tour, right up to his usual performances, winning the Caracas-Venezuela Open by one stroke over Wes Ellis and Dean Refram. Art had a 72 hole total of 276 while Ellis and Refram each had 277's.

Art seems to have a corner on those Caribbean and South American titles.

I am not familiar with the guarantees given in these South American events, but I do know the purses are not very large, compared with the Pro Tour in this country.

I was pleased to learn that the two pro factions, if they could be called "factions," are in agreement.

The so-called "Revolt" on the part of the tour players was a ridiculous thing. It could only result in eventual losses for the tourists.

We have all more or less accepted these top touring pros as smart business men, but their "suggestion" that they carry on as a seperate section of the P.G.A. could hardly be considered a smart business move.

While many of these touring pros have "autographed" clubs for sale, the big percentage of the sales on which they collect royalties, is still made through the local pros in their shops.

I can only think that a few of the touring pros figured that the division of the ranks would result in their getting so rich, they would never have to take a so-called club job, in the future.

So it is pleasing to hear Tommy Jacobs the outgoing chairman of the tournament Player's committee, quoted as saying, "we have definitely settled everything." And Dan Sikes his successor quoted as saying, "If there was any storm, it is over now."

Let's hope Dan, an attorney in his own right, can make his fellow touring pros see they are better off working in harmony with the "working" pros.

I read that the Haig and Haig, (there are still two Haigs, I presume) people presented "Ole" Sam Snead a special trophy, in commemoration of his first pro victory the 1936 West Virginia P.G.A.

That's thirty years ago!

It won't bother Sam if there weren't any samples of the donors product in the trophy. "Ole" Sam is hardly a "scotch" fan.

The postponed Houston International will be played this week Nov. 17-20, at the Jackie Burke-Jimmie Demaret Course of Champions.

This will settle the Casper-Nicklaus duel for first place in the money-winning race.

Jack trails Billy by about $10,000.00 and a win by either one could settle the issue, as the first prize money is $21,000.00.

Writing about Hideyo Sugimoto and his play in the Canada Cup, makes me think of the autograph our popular pharmacist Fred McCormack obtained from Hiyedo at Pleasant Valley—in Japanese.

I wonder if Fred ever had a translation?

Youth Hockey Ready to Go

The Winchester Youth Hockey program will commence Sunday morning from 7 to 9 a.m. on November 27.

William Cruwys, manager, urges that all participants have their applications in early. Spaces are limited as to the number of boys that the rink will handle.

Applications may be obtained at the Sport Shop or at McCormack's Drug Store. The program is held every Sunday morning for the next several weeks at the MDC Skating Rink on the Stoneham-Medford line.

Older boys will be in the large rink, and smaller boys will be in the small side rink.

Mr. Cruwy's reminds, "Be sure to wear your helmet, that your skates are sharp and, most important, that your skates fit. Nobody can skate if his skates are too large. It is not your ankles that are weak, it's probably that your skates don't fit."

McCall Ninth Graders End Football Season with Perfect Record

In defeating Lynch Junior High last Thursday 32-0, McCall ended its season sweeping all opposition on its way to a perfect record, unscored on, untied, and defeating every opponent by a handy margin. Let's take a look at its record:

McCall	28 - 0	Lexington
McCall	18 - 0	Woburn
McCall	20 - 0	Wakefield
McCall	28 - 0	Melrose
McCall	32 - 0	Belmont
McCall	34 - 0	Concord
McCall	32 - 0	Lynch

What's the secret of McCall's success? Manny Marshall, who coaches the McCall football team, says it's a combination of two essential ingredients, good players and the right attitude. While this year's team doesn't have the stars such as last year's Tom Flaherty, Pete Knight and Brian Bowen (who was injured in a diving accident and didn't play on this year's high school squad), it is a well-rounded group with depth in all positions. The boys who relieve the first squad are capable of scoring on their own, as they have shown time and time again.

As for attitude, here's what Coach Marshall has to say. "This sounds clicheed, but honestly, each player gives 100% in team effort and is more interested in contributing to the team's success than in attaining individual glory."

And what about the coach? Manny Marshall is in his third year of handling McCall football. The youthful Manny, who at first glance might pass for one of his own students, seems to have the knack of transmitting his enthusiasm to his players. He came here from several years of teaching and coaching at Hillside High School, New Jersey, after graduating from Springfield College (Wouldn't you guess it?). In his first year here his team had a 5-1 record. He improved upon this with a 4-0-2 record last year, so that in his three years of coaching McCall football teams his combined record is 16-1-2. Not bad, not bad.

In its first four games this year the team gained a total of 1115 yards while holding the opposition of 228 total yardage. Courtney West was leading ground gainer with 354 yards in 50 carries for a 7.0 average. Then came Tom Riley with 163 yards in 38 carries, 4.3 average; Dave Scott with 152 yards, 4.9 average; Mike Gilberti, a fine quarterback, 152 yards in 14 carries, 10.8 average. Bill Wolfe had 9 receptions for 135 yards.

What no doubt pleases Henry Knowlton is the fact that there is some height and weight on this squad for next year's high school team. With the promising holdovers on the present squad, Coack Knowlton firmly believes Winchester's football future is in the ascendency and that it will make its presence felt in the Middlesex League for the next several years. That's cheering news for Sachem fans.

(Note: Because of space limitation many fine players on the football team were not mentioned. However, with a record such as McCall boasts, it certainly indicates that no member of the squad need apologize for his performance.)

Senior Forum

Senior Forum of the First Congregational church will have Mr. William Loesch, chaplain of Columbia Point, Dorchester, for thier Chapel speaker. Forumites are looking forward to having Mr. Loesch, as he was a Nonagon leader several years ago. Columbia Point is close to the hearts of Forum young people as they carried on a most successful "Funmobile" project there for several years.

Chaplains for the service will be Robert Crook and Scott Eaton. Deacons: Richard Birchall and Rick Mobbs. Ushers: Debbie Ericson and Betsy Hollinshead.

McCall Defeats Lynch 32-0 For Perfect Season

McCall Junior High School concluded an undefeated, untied, and unscored upon season by defeating its cross town rival Lynch.

After receiving the opening kick-off McCall drove 80 yards with Courtney West, David Scott, and Tom Riley doing the lugging. Tom Riley took the ball over from the four, Courtney West rushed for the extra points.

Once again it was Tom Riley, this time for 22 yards and a touchdown. Courtney West again rushed for the extra points.

McCall received Lynch's punt on its own 22 yard line and started a drive for its third score. Courtney West took a pitchout went around his right end and 25 yards for McCall's third touchdown. David Scott rushed for the extra points.

Just before the close of the first half Tom Riley took a screen pass in the right flat from Mike Gilberti and behind some fine blocking Tom went 35 yards for his third touchdown and McCall's fourth. Mike Kelleher rushed for the extra points making the score McCall 32 Lynch 0.

The second half saw McCall's substitutes play fine football threatening to score on two occasions while preventing Lynch from scoring.

Lynch moved the ball well on different occasions via passes.

Defensively Noel Webb, Peter Wardwell, and Charles Kees played a fine football game.

Up on front McCall's offensive line led by Paul Stevens, Mark Stabile, Peter Sheehey and Joe Campo blocked well for their backs.

AWARD-WINNING DESIGNER. James W. Miga, 16, of 111 Middlesex Street, receives from Gardner W. Handy, principal of the Lynch Junior High School, a trophy he won in the 1965 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition, which arrived earlier this month. He won the junior division first-place state award for Massachusetts and received $150, plus an expense-free trip to the Guild's four-day national convention in Detroit. The Fisher program is designed to interest boys in creative designing and craftsmanship, and enrollments are currently being received for this year's competition.

Local Alumnae Report on Mt. Holyoke Events

Mrs. James Willing's home at 23 Leslie Road was the scene of the final fall meeting of the Mt. Holyoke Club of Winchester. Following refreshments provided by Mrs. Adin Bailey's committee, Mrs. Edward Reynolds, president, opened the business meeting.

Three of the group had recently visited the Mt. Holyoke campus as participants in the nationwide alumnae council, including Mrs. Reynolds as the Club president, Mrs. Lloyd Butterfield, as school contact chairman, and Mrs. Robert Grasty, as Alumnae Fund chairman. Mrs. Keith Russell, as co-chairman of the fund drive, thanked the group for their co-operation in the drive and mentioned that the Winchester Club had earned the distinction of being one of the top ten clubs of less than one hundred members, in the USA, in percentage of alumnae supporting the drive.

Mrs. Butterfield then gave a lively thumbnail sketch of the college entrance situation. One interesting fact she explained was the "6-4-2-1 ratio." For every six inquiries about Mt. Holyoke, four applications are sent in, two of these applications are accepted, and one girl actually enters Mt. Holyoke the following Fall. She also spoke about Mt. Holyoke's effort to find qualified Negroes to attend Mt. Holyoke. During the summer both sponsored a program to help develope the skills of underprivileged, but potentially academically able high school students. Continuing with this emphasis on the importance of higher education for the underpriviledged student, the college is actively seeking particularly qualified Negro students to attend Mt. Holyoke. At present there are 50 girls who are negro at Mt. Holyoke, 25 alone in the freshmen class.

Mrs. Reynolds described her experiences in listening to both students and faculty telling of the increased role of the performing arts in the college carruiculum. Drama, dance, sculpturing in bronze, and many interesting inter-departmental majors combining artistic fields with the traditional subjects are becoming increasingly common at Mt. Holyoke.

Mrs. Nolan James, chairman of the 1966 House Tour, thanked the members for their excellent support of the annual Fall House Tour. With a few tallies still to be made, it appeared that the 1966 Tour might set a record return for the Scholarship Fund. This encouraging news virtually assured the return next Fall of the increasingly popular tour of Winchester Homes sponsored by the local alumnae of Mt. Holyoke College. On this happy note, the meeting was adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Quinn and their daughter Rita, of 3 Onieda Road, have recently returned from Europe. When they left a gala champagne party, given by their daughters, was held aboard the S. S. France and many of their friends cames to say "bon voyage" and to bid them a fond "au revoir." Their four week extensive tour was arranged by McGrath Travel Service. The itinerary included Paris, the Riviera, Monte Carlo, Monaco, Germany, Florence and Rome. While in Rome, the Quinns received the Papal blessing from Pope Paul VI.

Duplicate Bridge Club

It's good weather now for bridge; the golfers have been driven indoors, and it's too dark for evening tennis. With no special points or prizes on Wednesday, November 9th, twenty-two tables of bridge players turned out for their weekly game of cards.

The winners' column in Section A sports familiar names with Jane and Tex Renz in the top spot North-South. It is good to have them back in the club.

Average score was 110.

North-South
Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Renz, Jr.	134
Jock Olmstead and Clarence Woodward	130½
William Wheelock and Tom Young	122½
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	114
East-West
Ruth Hagan and and Sam Burwen	139½
Edward Sullivan and John Reardon	129½
Polly Wheelock and Fredna Perkins	119½
Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bell	115½
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	112

We are more used to seeing a two-generation Hills combo starring in a different sport, but Wednesday night Dot and Gerry Hills were first at bridge, North-South in Section B.

Average was 90.

North-South
Dorothy and Gerald Hills	120½
Sally Lix and David Littleton	118½
Gerry Lawrence and Richard Smith	109
Alan Leland and Joseph Scarpaci	109
East-West
Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson	118
Howard Wittet and Leo Gonsalves	115
Margaret Jackson and Barbara Shea	91
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade	90
Lillian Sheridan and Rose Hickey	90

Board 18 in Section A poses our problem of the week. Take a look at the North-South hands and see what you and your favorite partner would do. There will probably be a heart bid or overcall by East and a heart raise by West to hamper your bidding. East is the dealer, and North-South is vulnerable.

What was your final spot? Did you find the four-four fit in spades? Or did the long diamond suit prevail?

Looking at all four hands, it is easy to see that game makes in spades. But with standard American bidding, getting there is difficult. Players bidding a weak no trump and opening strong hands like the North one with one club, in effect asking for partner's four-card major suit, have the advantage with this type of hand.

In actual play, only one of the eleven North-South pairs playing the hand bid game in spades, making six. (Congratulations to Bill Wheelock and Tom Young for the top score on the board.)3 You don't have to bid game in spades, however, to do well. Just being in two spades, making five or six, produced the next two best scores. Three North-Souths ended up in diamonds, two making five and one four, still average or above on the board. Four North-Souths let the opposition steal the bid in hearts, setting them three times but not enough for a good score, and the fourth time not bidding above the two-heart level which East-West made. And the lowest score for North-South was a brave try at three no trump, which, thanks to the heart suit and the Ace of clubs, goes down two.

There are two morals to this one, it's so easy to see where the bid should be after looking at all four hands, and, as long as the major suits count more than the minors, in duplicate, you have to keep hunting for those four-four fits in spades and hearts.

24 Graduate From the Baby Sitters' School

Thursday, November 10, marked the close of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes' Baby Sitters' School, a six week course designed to instruct prospective sitters in various facets of child care.

Thanks have been extended to Miss M. C. Schmidt, WVNA; Donald J. Annino, M. D.; Fire Capt. Peter Galuffo; Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton; and Nursery Director Pamela Russo, whose interest and participation contributed greatly to the success of the school.

Among those receiving certificates denoting successful completion of the course were many local teens, including senior Girl Scouts form Winchester and surrounding towns, and a grandmother. Criteria for attainment of a certain certificate were the participants' attendance record and exam grade.

All those who attended the school received a manual containing outlines of each of the six lectures. In addition, they were apprised of the Jaycee-ettes' plan to donate to the town's library an excellent handbook, A Manual For Baby Sitters by Marion Lowndes, given to the group by a Winchester resident, John Keller, of Little Brown & Co.

The Jaycee-ettes expressed hope that parents as well as sitters will make use of this publication since in each lecture the speaker pointed out the responsibility of parents in adequately preparing a sitter to care for their children.

All sitters, regardless of age and experience, should be properly introduced to the home, children, and pets; be given a list of phone numbers to be used in emergencies; and be told where parents can be reached and when they expect to return.

Response to and interest in the course was strong and positive, and the Jaycee-ettes were pleased to announce that they are planning to conduct the course annually.

Pack 525 Opens Year

The first meeting for this year was held recently for Cub Pack 525 of the Vinson Owen School.

Six new Den Mothers and 26 new cubs were taken into the Pack this year. The Pack has 8 Dens including a Webelos Den.

The Den Mothers for this year include: Mmes. Myrna Wilson, Betty Atwell, Donna Redpath, Anne Harris, Ann Frost, Gwen Morsch, Gertrude Resteghini, Robbin Kramer, Marilyn White, Irene Cannava and Nancy Garrity.

Organization and guidance is provided by a committee of Pack fathers. The men serving on the committee are: Joe Ciccio, Sal Cipriano, James Dorsey, James Gonyea, Dan Ladd, Joe Medwar, John Pierce, Dirk VanGemeren and Jack Wilson.

Pack Chairman, Jack Wilson, conducted the first meeting. The boys had a most enjoyable time playing a couple of games.

In the first game each boy competed within his den to be the first cub audibly to burst a chewing gum bubble by blowing. The winners from each den competed in the second event to see who could eat five soda crackers and then whistle "Yankee Doodle Dandy" first. The winner was Alan Clarke who went home happily bearing his prize - a ship's model.

The theme of the next meeting will be Thanksgiving.

Pack 511 Revives Vaudeville

A weekend packed full of Cub Scouting was enjoyed by the boys of Pack 511 last Friday and Saturday.

The monthly pack meeting was devoted to a return of old-time vaudeville to the Lincoln School. Den 1's barbershop quartet rendered "Bill Grogan's Goat" while Den 5 did equally well on "Oh How I Wish I Was in Peoria." Den 3's foot puppets had the audience rolling in the aisles with some very old jokes. Den 6's Hula Dancers swayed to Hawaiian melodies while Den 7's lost and found desk at an old time police station was used as a set to tax the best minds present on the identification of the lost items.

Awards for the month were presented to eight Cubs. Robert Labedz, Richard Test, Nick Ungaro, Chris and Steve Callahan earned the Bear badge and Richard Ellis the Bear badge with a gold and two silver arrow points. Jeff Parsons and Andy MacKenzie became the first Lions in Pack 511 with Jeff also earning a gold arrow point on his Bear badge. The seven candles of wisdom, courage, self-control, justice, faith, hope, and love provided an inspiring setting for the ceremony.

The same Cubs and their parents were up early Saturday morning to participate in the season's first Pinewood Derby. The track was fast and the cars faster than ever as over 30 boys entered the field.

Heat after exciting heat finally narrowed the competition to the six fastest entries and the breathless finals saw Jeff Parsons emerge the winner for the second consecutive time. Second place went to Dave Dalton and following in order were Dan Jaffee, Andy MacKenzie, John Rallo, and Bill Harris.

First place winner in the design competition was Phil Simmons with Jeff Parsons, Dave Dalton, Fred Daly, Frank and John Rallo following in order.

Mahler Solo, "Magnificat" At Unitarian Church

On Sunday, November 20, at 10:40 a.m., the first in a series of six programs will be given by the Winchester Unitarian Choir, under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham, in the chancel of the Winchester Unitarian Church preceding the 11 o'clock service.

The "Magnificat," a rarely heard work by Vivaldi will be sung by the choir, and the "Posthorn Solo" from the Third Symphony by Mahler will be played by James Sauber, trumpeter.

Soloists of the Winchester Unitarian Choir are: Estelle McNeely, Barbara Wood, William Jeffery, Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr. James Sauber is the trumpeter.

"Iolanthe"

The inspired and hardy nucleus of local vocalists who two years ago accomplished the real hard work of putting the Staff and Key Society back in business here should be able this year to look with pride upon their work: There is every reason to believe that this year's "Iolanthe," moved over to the WHS auditorium for Friday and Saturday evenings, December 2 and 3, will outdo even the stellar performance last year of "Pirates of Penzance" and the fine 1964 opener of "Mikado." Many top voices are among those defined in last week's Star, some familiar here, others new. What tickets that are left can be had by calling Mrs. Bradshaw at 729-2031 for Friday, Mrs. Mathews 729-3247 for Saturday.

Soloist Out of Church

Former Unitarian Choir tenor soloist John Morabito and contralto wife Betty will be featured with the Reading Symphony Orchestra Sunday afternoon at the Reading H.S. auditorium, 3:30 p.m. in excerpts from "Il Trovatore." Also on the program, Mendlessohn's Reformation Symphony and Shostakovich's Festive Overture. John used to sing in the choir here with three of the lead singers for "Iolanthe," soprano Dolores Baldyga, tenor Robert Horne and bass Victor Jonas. Dolores is now soloist at Temple Ohavei Shalom, Brookline, Bob is still with the Unitarians and the Mystic Glee Club and Victor, also a former soloist at the Epiphany here, is now lead bass singer for the Belmont Methodist Church.

Kennedy Memorial

Three years ago next Tuesday, November 22, the announcement of the assassination of President Kennedy was made to a Friday symphony audience by Erich Leinsdorf. At 8:30 Tuesday Channel 2 will telecast the BSO in its musical tribute, the new narrated work by William Sydeman "In Memoriam" presented with the Funeral March from Beethoven's "Eroica," Bach's Suite No. 3 and Schumann's Symphony No. 1.

Something New Has Been Added!

What's that time-worn expression — "If you can't beat them, join them!"

As many of you may know, we have never actively promoted the idea of financing the purchase of carpets or rugs at our showroom — that is, until now.

However, this seems to be the era of credit cards and easy financing plans, so we have joined with the ranks of other retailers offering this type of program to our customers.

We did this, (after much careful thought and consideration) not because we wanted to be part of the so-called "in crowd," but rather we considered this to be the right thing to do — that is, to make our product easier for everyone to obtain.

We also investigated various plans being offered and finally registered for two of them — State Street Bank's Bank Americard and Uni-Card. Both plans seem to offer the same easy financing arrangements and they are both becoming equally popular in this area.

We don't anticipate anyone knocking down our doors to buy because we have done so, but we did want you to know that we can arrange to finance any purchase you may want to make, if you're so inclined.

Henry Knowlton Steps Down As Head Coach Of Football; Ends 27 Year Span At WHS

By James H. Penaligan, Former Star Editor

When the last rooter walks off the gridiron at James J. Connolly Memorial Stadium in Woburn today, Winchester's veteran coach, Henry Knowlton, will have completed 27 years of continuous coaching and stepped down and out as Winchester High School's football mentor. He has filled this post with distinction through the years and his official resignation received by the School Committee Monday night came as a shock to many.

HENRY KNOWLTON

Coach Knowlton will continue on as head of the department of Physical Education and Director of Athletics, but his place as head coach of football will be filled by another, who has his work cut out for him to equal the Knowlton record.

During Coach Knowlton's 27 years at the Winchester helm, his teams have won 170, lost 64 and tied 17. This in itself is a record of which to be proud, and when you add to this two State Class "C" titles won in 1942 and 1946, and the Class "B" Championship shared with Gloucester in 1951, his status as a coach and instructor of football becomes easily apparent.

Never has Coach Knowlton sacrificed a boy for the sake of winning, always he has taught his boys to win fairly and squarely.

He has built character through the years at Manchester Field, and yet his boys have known the sheer joy of football under his coaching. Bill and John West captained the 1942 and 1946 teams, Joe Bellino captained the 1955 unbeaten team in the shortened polio year. Joe Donlon and Dick Errico led the 1951 team.

Coach Knowlton has been widely known in college and schoolboy circles. He has served as president of the Massachusetts State Football Coaches' Association, president of the Massachusetts State Athletic Directors' Association, and president of the Massachusetts State Coaches' Association. He is currently president of the Middlesex League Athletic Directors', and secretary of the Hall of Fame Committee of the Massachusetts State Football Coaches' Association.

In 1961 the Association of New England Football Officials chose Knowlton as "Coach of the year" and presented him with a wrist watch and a plaque "for maintaining the high ethical standards demanded of the football coaching profession and for his devotion to teaching the game of football to boys that they may become men of true American sportsmanship."

So strongly did his coaching appeal to a group of sportsmen, headed by the late "Al" Elliott and "Nick" Fitzgerald, that they canvassed the town and presented Coach Knowlton in 1954 with a brand new Chevrolet sedan in an unprecedented example of their esteem.

Few schoolboy coaches can point to such a gift. At the same time the last Plymouth football team he coached before coming to Winchester presented him with a wrist watch and a testimonial scroll as tokens of appreciation of his services through the years he coached there.

Knowlton captained and played halfback on the 1927 football team at Winchester High School, a team good enough to tie for the championship of the Mystic Valley League, in which Winchester played in those days.

After the regular season Winchester played and won a post-season game at Amesbury, and for many years after the game Amesbury fans were talking about that "little number 9" in the Winchester lineup, which was the number Knowlton wore that chilly Saturday.

From Winchester Knowlton went on to Springfield College where he captained the freshman team, and the varsity eleven as a senior and was generally conceded to be the best small college punter in the east. He also participated in track, but football has always been his first love.

After graduating from Springfield Knowlton coached at New Hampton Prep for two years and at Plymouth for five years before coming to Winchester in 1940. He has continued ever since, and has coached baseball, track and second team basketball in addition to football.

He has developed some sterling players through the years. Many have gone on to make their marks in the college game. Boys like Bill West at Army, John West, "Chucker" Roche, Charlie "Sarto" Walsh and George Neville at Harvard, Joe Bellino at Navy and now with the Boston Patriots, big Mike Murphy at St. Joseph's, Frank Dattilo at

Staff And Key Bringing "Iolanthe" To WHS Stage

Gilbert and Sullivan in December is becoming a Winchester tradition. Next week, on Friday and Saturday nights, December 2nd and 3rd, Staff and Key Society will present "Iolanthe" in the auditorium of the Winchester High School at 8:30 p.m.

"Iolanthe" is the most ambitious production the Society has undertaken yet. Less well known than some of the other Gilbert and Sullivan works, "Iolanthe" is, nonetheless, an out-and-out favorite of Gilbert and Sullivan devotees. Critic Deems Taylor ranks it with "The Mikado" as the peak of the G&S repertoire. This operetta offers "Sullivan's most spontaneous and colorful score, and Gilbert's most rhythmically deft and captivating lyrics."

This presentation of "Iolanthe" promises to be the most professional job in Staff and Key's history to date. Costumes and scenery contributed by Mrs. Percival B. Metcalf of the Tracy Music Library will outdo even those seen in "The Pirates of Penzance" and "The Mikado." L. Hassler Einzig, director of music in the Arlington Public Schools and well known throughout the Boston area as a leading authority of Gilbert and Sullivan will direct a professional orchestra, as well as distinguished soloists and chorus.

The cast of "Iolanthe" will be as follows: The Lord Chancellor, Richard Bates; Lord Mountararat, Victor Jonas; Lord Tolloller, Robert Mathews; Private Willis, Charles Sheridan; Strephon, Robert Horne; Phyllis, Dolores Baldyga; Queen of the Fairies, Linda Milani; Iolanthe, Mary Smith; Celia, Pamela Macy; Leila, Cynthia Knox; Fleta, Jan Card.

Staff and Key Society is a non-profit organization. This year the recipient of the proceeds from the performances will be the Winchester Scholarship Foundation.

Tickets, while they last—and they are going fast—may be obtained by calling Mrs. Bradshaw at 729-2031 for Friday, December 2, and Mrs. Mathews at 729-3247 for Saturday, December 3.

LOOKING OVER ACCIDENT VEHICLE for either another victim or some of the driver's personal effects that might be in the twisted wreckage of the sports car that went out of control on wet pavement at the deep curve on Cambridge Street by the Country Club last week and collided with a stone wall. Police and Fire Department officers had to break the steering wheel to release the unconscious driver, who is now recovering at Winchester Hospital.

Bellino Awards Victory Dance's Trophies Tonight

The 30-year-old annual Thanksgiving Day football game Victory Dance being held tonight from 8 to 11:30 in the high school gym for the youths of both Winchester and Woburn, is this year under new sponsorship for the first time, and will have an additional attraction in the awards ceremony with Winchester's famed All-American Navy star and current Boston Patriots player, Joe Bellino, making the presentations.

The arrangements for the dance, featuring Winchester's rock band, the Nurk 5, and with Joe Bellino, himself a Victory Dance award recipient, presenting the awards, were being handled this year by a volunteer sponsoring group composed of Sergeant-Inspector James J. Cogan, Juvenile Officer William Beaton, and former Juvenile Officer William Nash of the Police Department, and also Winchester's new recreation director, Donald Spinney.

The four volunteer sponsors undertook to conduct the event, aside and separate from their local official duties, as a public service when they learned that Fred McCormack, who has sponsored the Victory Dances for the past thirty years, would not be able to manage it this year.

Mr. McCormack, proprietor of McCormack's Apothecary and a resident at 7 Copley Street, said he was unable to continue running the traditional and very popular high school football season climax special event because of business work, and a desire to turn the annual event over to the Recreation Committee for future management.

Petition Seeks To Reduce Size Of House by 80

Initiative petitions seeking voters' support to amend the Constitution of the Commonwealth to provide for a reduction in the membership of the House and to eliminate multi-member districts of Representatives from 240 to 160 have been made available at several locations in town this week through the efforts of interested citizens and public service-minded businesses.

The petition, started on September 7, must have approximately 73,000 registered voters' signatures (roughly 3% of the total votes cast in this year's gubernatorial election), by the first Wednesday in December, the 7th.

Once the required signatures are obtained, the petition would automatically be submitted to the full 280 legislators in a Constitutional Convention, of whom at least 25% must vote for it; and then approved again in the next consecutive Legislative session before being put on the ballot in 1970.

Locally, copies of the initiative petition, which was suggested by Governor Volpe as a necessity for a more efficient Legislature, were distributed here at the first of the week, and can be found at: the magazine tables at the Winchester National Bank, Winchester Trust Company, and the Winchester Co-operative Bank, the checking counter at the Winchester Savings Bank, the tobacco counters at McCormack's Apothecary, the Winchester News Company, and O'Neil's Pharmacy, and at the Winchester Star Office.

Winchester's Representative, Harrison Chadwick of 24 Everett Avenue, said last week that he entirely supported the Governor's initiative petition, noting that the House of Representatives is too bulky, awkward, unruly, inefficient, and lacking in decorum, all of which should be greatly improved by having a smaller Legislative body.

"There are no realistic arguments against it (the size reduction)," Representative Chadwick commented.

Callahan In Vietnam As Translator

Paul F. Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Callahan of 52 Clark Street, was recently promoted to Army Specialist Six in Saigon.

Attached to the Military Assistance Command in the Translation Division of the Adjutant General's Office, Specialist Callahan is a graduate of Defense Language School in Fort Ord, California and is a Vietnamese linguist.

As a translator/interpreter, he is chief editor for Vietnamese documents; composes newsletters for civilian Vietnamese personnel, and forms plans, writes out efficiency reports and does many other tasks.

Being an eye-witness to the November 1st shelling in Saigon, he reports that the South Vietnamese are not lacking in courage as they shrug off disaster and return to daily living.

Field Work On Tax Assessing Revaluation Beginning Soon

6,500 Properties To Be Analyzed, Revaluated

The initial phase of card preparation in the tax equalization appraisal program for Winchester has been completed with phase two, field inspection, about to begin, according to an announcement by the Board of Assessors this week.

The initial work involved the design, printing and typing of 6500 property record cards on which has been entered basic identification and ownership information about each individual property.

With this work now completed, the Cole-Layer-Trumble Company will begin assembling its employees from other Massachusetts projects to begin the measuring and listing phase of the operation. It is at this time that homeowners may expect their doorbells to ring and a request from a properly identified company representative to inspect the interior of their properties.

The Cole-Layer-Trumble Company, which has been in the tax appraisal business since 1938 and working in New England since 1947, has completed over 100 towns and cities throughout the six-state area, including Lexington, Weston, Wilmington and Wakefield.

The Company assigned Daniel Scribner as resident supervisor of the Winchester project. Mr. Scribner brings with him experience in similar programs in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts communities as well as an extensive background in the home construction field and property mapping projects. Mr. Scribner will announce from time to time the names of Company personnel as they are assigned to the project and also announce Winchester locations where the men will be working.

The names of all personnel assigned to the project will be on file with the Town Police Department, so that if any homeowner has any questions about the individual at the door he can call the Police Department for corroboration.

Winchester's first tax equalization appraisal program is slated for completion in early 1968 and will be used as a basis for that year's assessments.

GROUNDBREAKING began this week for the the new Winchester Swim Club off Johnson Road by Ridge Street on the West Side. Due to be finished in May, 1967, the $85,000 privately financed new recreational facility is being constructed by Whitten Construction Company of Bellingham, Mass. Participating in the Sunday ceremony were Henry D. Twitchell, Jr., treasurer; George F. Pacetti; Sam Gountanis, architect; Kenneth D. Hudson, membership chairman; Duane M. Belden, building committee chairman; Frank P. Stevens, president; and Joseph W. Vick Roy.

Public Meeting On School Site

Two sites, Turkey Ridge and the Shore Road Field area, are under consideration as alternative sites for a new high school according to Joseph Vitka, chairman of the Secondary School Building Committee.

Speaking at an information meeting Wednesday night, November 16, sponsored jointly by the High School, McCall, and Lynch Parents' Associations with the assistance of the League of Women Voters, Mr. Vitka reviewed the reasons for eliminating all other sites from consideration. He stated that the Permanent Building Committee would choose either Turkey Ridge or Shore Road Field as its prime recommendation to the Town Meeting.

He further stated however, that both site proposals will appear in the warrant. The Town Meeting will then have the chance to vote on the PBC's recommended site and on the alternative.

Detailed surveys and site costs exist for the Turkey Ridge site. Very little more needs to be done to update that study. The Building Committee will spend additional funds recently granted to it by the Finance Committee to gather comparable data for the Shore Road Field site.

Preliminary estimates of site development costs indicate that it would be considerably more expensive to develop Shore Road Field than to develop Turkey Ridge.

At the same meeting, William Clark, assistant superintendent of schools, described the new high school specifications, which include a field house, a swimming pool, a well-equipped and large instructional materials center, and flexible space so that class sizes can be varied from 15 to 150 pupils—from seminars to large lecture classes.

The new high school will occupy approximately 250,000 sq. ft. of space, or over two times the space of the present school building. The new school will be built to house 1500 students while the present overcrowded school was originally built for 850 junior high students.

New Private Recreation Facility Breaks Ground

The Winchester Swim Club broke ground on its $85,000 private recreational development at 105 Johnson Road, between Ridge Street and Valleywood Circle, Sunday afternoon.

The first turning of earth ceremony for the new Olympic-size swimming pool and bathhouse facility came after a two-year membership drive program and a special local Board of Appeal hearing and permit approval for the construction of the project in a residential zone, followed by the overcoming of an abutters' suit in both county and state courts.

Preliminary site clearing was begun by the Whitten Construction Company of Bellingham, Mass., on Saturday, with official groundbreaking ceremony attended by most of the directors of the Swim Club and many of its members on Sunday. On Monday, bulldozers began the heavy work.

The Olympic-size "L" shaped pool will measure 42 by 82 feet, with an adjacent wading pool for youngsters. It will be constructed of reinforced concrete at an estimated cost of $38,000.

A modern bathhouse measuring 68 feet long and 23 feet deep is also included in the plans. It will be of concrete slab material, and will cost approximately $23,000 to build.

Also included in the 5.2 acre plans is a parking lot and extensive project landscaping with shrub and other plantings.

Frank P. Stevens, president of the Swim Club, said earlier this week that the club hopes eventually to expand its recreational offering to its members by adding some tennis courts. This will be contingent upon the desire of the club to add tennis at a later date, and also upon a future Board of Appeal decision on approving expansion of the facility.

Mr. Stevens said the Swim Club now has 160 of its 250 membership goal, with 90 openings remaining. New members pay a deposit, which is refundable if a member leaves and is replaced by another, a one-time initiation fee, and small annual dues.

The new West Side private recreational facility is due to be completed next spring, with an opening day planned for May 30, 1967.

Parents Hear Of Tufts Rd. School

Following "Open House" last Tuesday evening, upwards of 125 interested parents and teachers took part in a panel discussion on the new Tufts Road School—its plans and impact on Noonan.

Mrs. Robert Powers, program chairlady of the parents association introduced the guest panelists who were, in order of speaking:

—Norton E. Demsey, Jr., computer expert specifically in charge of projected enrollments, who pointed out that pupil-teacher ratio is rapidly taking on more importance than the traditional theory of the neighborhood school.

—Richard Young, principal of the Tufts Road School, who while displaying much enthusiasm, elaborated on his school's many assets noting that the architectural plan alone will allow for the most modern teaching methods, the utilization of learning machines, and a general flexibility in education that was heretofore impossible to achieve in our many small classrooms.

Congregational Church Building Service Sunday

Leaders and members of neighboring churches in the community joined Winchester's First Congregational Church family at its dedication service of the new parish house and church facilities last Sunday afternoon.

"A warm spirit of fellowship and cooperation exists between members of the clergy and people of various communions within the town," Dr. Dwight L. Cart said. "It is all to the glory of God. A cordial welcome is extended to you."

To the people within the parish he said, "You have labored so magnificently and contributed so generously to make this project possible. Not one gift, but many, large and small put together, are making this significant venture a reality. All of us together have done what we could, and our gifts have been blessed and multiplied. It has been a minor miracle.

Hanes Named By State To Probe Health Hazards

Dr. N. Bruce Hanes, associate professor of Environment Engineering at Tufts University, has been named by the State Department of Public Health to a committee that will probe the health hazards of air and water pollution and solid waste disposal.

Dr. Hanes, a resident of 5 Laurel Street, joins a college president, three other public health professors, a physician, a chemist, an atomic power company official and two state legislators on the ten-man committee announced by Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, commissioner of public health.

Dr. Frechotte said new industrial processes and "the rapidly changing, increasing urbanization of our society are generating environmental health problems at an increasing rate."

S. O. I. News

The women's lodge is holding a Christmas bazaar at the club quarters this Saturday, November 26. It will start at 10 a.m. and run all day and into the evening, when special prizes will be given away to the lucky ticket holders. There will be many tables of gifts of all kinds so come on down and do your Christmas shopping early. There will be coffee, tonic, hot dogs, donuts, etc., sold at a small cost all during the day. There will be a light luncheon of either ham or chicken salad sandwiches with chips and pickles at a small cost also. Orders will be taken in the afternoon for the supper of your choice, which will consist of either lasagna with meat balls and salad or tripe with bread and salad.

Why not come on down and enjoy yourself and at the same time pick up a gift or two. The proceeds of this affair, after expenses, go to the many different charities that the women's lodge donates to.

The Children's Christmas Party will be held on the Sunday afternoon before Christmas, which is December 18.

The party will start at 2 p.m., with Santa due to arrive some time during the afternoon with candy and gifts to the good little boys and girls. Chairman Gus Baldacci wishes to remind the members to get the names and ages of their children up to ten years of age to the committee as soon as possible. Please give the names and ages to Gus Baldacci, John Mangano, John Riccio, Nick Delfino, Bill Fiore or the stewards at the club, or to Venerable Art Dunbar. (A small donation will also help.)

JC-ettes Skate Swap on Dec. 3; Skates Needed

Riddle: How is your wallet like a tree?

Answer: They both become barest in December.

Riddle: How are your child's feet like his Christmas list?

Answer: They both grow longer every year.

Relief for wallets, skates for ever-growing feet, and check marks on Christmas lists are all benefits to be gained at the JC-ette Skate Swap. On December 3 at 30 Mount Pleasant Street anyone with outgrown skates, skis, ski boots, sleds, etc., may exchange them for the right size. Any article may be purchased for a nominal sum without a swap.

Riddle: How is your college boy's sled like a garden hose?

Answer: They both decorate the garage wall.

Riddle: How are outgrown skates like the vase received from Aunt Minnie last Christmas?

Answer: They both gather dust in the attic, but you hate to throw them away.

The children of Winchester can put to good use the sled and skates, and the Jaycee-ettes can bring the equipment and kids together. A small supply of skates, skis, ski boots, sleds, etc., is needed to open the JC-ette Skate Swap, and any donations of such will be appreciated. Call Mrs. Edward D. Fitzgerald, 729-2658, to arrange for pickup.

Merchants Meet; Hear Report On Xmas Lighting

Members of the Winchester Merchants Association met Monday night for a dinner meeting at Randall's and shared plans for an expected highly successful pre-Christmas merchandising month.

A report from the Town's Christmas Lighting Committee to remind members that this year for the first time it is hoped that decorative lighting may adorn the center at the rotary. Citizens are also reminded that the committee, to be addressed c/o Ralph Hatch, 2 Meadowcraft Road, welcomes contributions to the end of bettering the civic lighting effects at Christmas time.

The group also heard Donald Spinney, new recreation director for the Town, tell of the start of his program and project plans for a mid-winter carnival here. Enthusiasm for the idea ran high and many of the merchants were quick to respond to his request for prizes to be given away at the event.

26 Charter Members Join to Form Black Horse Tavern Society

"I believe in the Children of the American Revolution as an organization for the training of boys and girls in true patriotism and love of country, in order that they shall be better fitted for American Citizenship.

"As a descendant of the Founders of my Country, I believe that my birthright brings a responsibility to carry on their work, and that as the boys and girls of 1776 took an active part in the War for Independence, so the boys and girls of today have a definite work to do for their country. As a member of the American Revolution, I believe it is my duty to use my influence to create a deeper love of Country, a loyal respect for its Constitution and reverence for its flag, among the boys and girls with whom I come in contact."

With this creed as their directive, a proud group of young people. stood on Saturday before the American flag - their flag - and a very special one too!

Only 24 hours earlier it had flown over the Capitol building in Washington, D.C. and now it lay folded neatly on a table in the American Legion Hall in Winchester.

Congressman F. Bradford Morse had personally sent it from the Nation's capitol and it arrived just in time to be presented to the Black Horse Tavern Society, Children of the American Revolution at their formal organization ceremony Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. William C. Cusack made the presentation for Congressman Morse.

Senior vice commander John J. McGuire of American Legion Post 97 welcomed the youngest patriotic organization to Winchester. Miss Betsey Perry state president gave the official welcoming address for the Massachusetts Society, C.A.R.

Greetings from the State DAR were brought by Mrs. George S. Tolman III, state regent. "It is a healthy sign for the future of our country when there are young people like you who have an interest in American history and show enthusiasm in patriotic endeavors" Mrs. Tolman told the youthful audience.

Following the invocation by Mrs. Rony Snyder, chaplain of the Committee of Safety Chapter DAR, sponsors of the junior group, Mrs. Michael MacDonald, regent presented a gavel and president's pin to William J. Canfield who presided at the meeting.

Besides being president of the Black Horse Tavern Society, Bill is second vice-president of the state C.A.R. Carole Sundberg who took office as vice-president of the local group is also in the state board as chairman of pages. Stephen Sundberg, chaplain, was the third officer installed by Mrs. H. Wilcox Cimeno, senior state organizing secretary, representing Mrs. Donald K. Phillips, senior state president. Other officers will be elected by the members at the next meeting.

Mrs. George C. Houser, honorary senior national president and Mrs. Herbert F. Perry, honorary senior state president, conducted the installation ritual for senior officers and presented the society with a leather-bound scrapbook.

Senior officers installed were Mrs. William C. Cusack, president, Mrs. William W. Goodhue, vice-president, Mrs. Russell P. Pearl, secretary and Mrs. Louis C. Kuhn, treasurer. They hold office in an advisory capacity only, meetings, activities and administrative duties are done by the young people themselves.

Following the installation ceremony Bill Canfield presented Mrs. Clifford S. Sundberg with a gold pin in recognition of her service as organizing president of the Black Horse Tavern Society

As names of the charter members were called each child stepped forward to receive a C.A.R. flag. Several of the youngest took part in the program. Kathryn and Susan Bauchspies led the pledge of allegiance and Catherine Byford led the C.A.R. creed and national anthem. Besides playing the piano accompaniment for the singing of "America" Stephen Sundberg read a prayer poem he had written for the occasion and gave the benedicition.

The incoming president thanked Commander Stevenson and the American Legion Post 97 for giving the use of the hall and facilities for the meeting and the Committee of Safety Chapter for their sponsorship of the society and for providing the reception which followed the ceremony.

In addtiion to those already mentioned charter members of the C.A.R. are: Julianne Elizabeth and James Campbell Cusack; Janet Elizabeth and Jean Christine LaPrade; Bradford Wayne, Craig Woodman and Manton Shepard Spear. Also joining with their official confirmation due after the next national board meeting, were Thomas Bauchspies; Timothy, Jefrey and Robert Cusack; Dean and Faith Demeter; Rebecca Osgood; Mary and Martha Wadsworth; Dorothy and Terri Amoroso, and Eric and Christopher Freeman.

Marycliff Honors

Recently presented honor cards for high academic ratings at Marycliff Academy were:

Cheryl Bezis, a senior, and Cynthia Ross, a junior, with first honors; also Deanne DeConto and Jane Watson, seniors, Jane McBain and Mary Sennott, juniors, Carol Martignette and Julie Coughlan, sophomores, and freshman Martha Bonneville, all of whom won second honors.

Morris Baldwin Kerr

The flag in the Common was at half mast this week for Morris Baldwin Kerr of 11 Manomet Road, a former member of the Board of Selectmen, who died on Sunday in the Winchester Hospital, after a long illness. Mr. Kerr was the husband of Ruth (Marchant) Kerr.

Well known in newspaper circles he was formerly advertising director and assistant publisher of the old Boston Post. He was also an officer and director of the Boston Advertising Club. At the time of his death he was New England representative for Vulcan Industries of Birmingham, Alabama.

Mr. Kerr was born in Winchester on November 7, 1900, the son of the late Frederick N. and Lillian (Baldwin) Kerr. He attended schools here and was also graduated from the Choate School in Wallingford, Connecticut.

Active in civic affairs, he served as a Town Meeting member and as chairman of the Finance Committee, as well as on the Board of Selectmen. He was a director and officer of the Winchester Cooperative Bank.

The Reverend John J. Bishop officiated at private services held for him at the Church of the Epiphany on Tuesday, November 22. Burial was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Alice N. (Quinn) Maniates

Mrs. Alice N. (Quinn) Maniates, wife of the late Philip Maniates, died suddenly at her home at 39 Irving Street on Tuesday, November 22. Seventy-nine years old, Mrs. Maniates was born in Quincy on October 18, 1887, the daughter of Robert and Mary (O'Shea) Quinn, both natives of Ireland. She had lived here for 30 years.

Visiting hours are this evening from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Lane Funeral Home. A funeral from the Home will precede a requiem high Mass at 9 a.m. at St. Mary's Church, tomorrow, November 25, and burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery in Quincy.

S.O.I. Christmas Bazaar Saturday

The Sons of Italy women are holding their Christmas bazaar this Saturday, November 26, at the SOI Home on Swanton Street, opening at 10 a.m. and going until 8 p.m.

The fair will feature a toy table, apron table, boutique, Christmas decorations table, knit table and curio shoppe. In addition there's a country kitchen with home-cooked delicacies, and visitors can have coffee, luncheon and dinner at La Casa Capri.

Sex Education Is Topic For Mothers of Twins

The Founding Chapter of the Mass. Mothers of Twins Association, Inc. will meet on Monday, November 28 at 8 p.m. in the Junior Hall of the Robbins Library, 700 Mass. Avenue, Arlington Center.

The program for the evening will be Otto S. Nau Jr. M.D. speaking on "Sex Education for Children."

Dr. Nau, a pediatrician in Arlington for 15 years, is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts and Boston University School of Medicine. He received his training in Bridgeport Hospital, Boston City and Boston Childrens Hospital. Dr. Nau was also certified by the American Board Pediatrics in 1952 and the American Board of Allergy in 1964.

This will also be the annual "Fathers Night."

All mothers and grandmothers of twins and triplets in the area are invited to attend.

"Country Store Fixin's" at Fair Nov. 30, Dec. 1

All the enchanting rural atmosphere from plug tobacco cutters to lovely Staffordshire, tinware, iron, dry goods—all the delights of the 19th century (even a cider keg, cracker barrel and a checkerboard in front of a pot bellied stove!) will enhance the Old Fashioned Christmas Bazaar on Wednesday, November 30 and Thursday, December 1, at the Frst Congregational Church. All townspeople are most welcome on that day and you do not need to remember the old pickle barrel in order to gain admission!

At this Country Store one may buy dish cloths, pot holders, handmade scented soap balls, tinware, candle snuffers, really lovely quaint yard goods, checkered damask, miniature toy stoves, collectors' items "bottles." Also some good antiques, as well as penny candy. You can even buy GOOD freshly ground coffee, THIS little Country Store you will find just to your liking.

No Christmas Bazaar would be complete without its "opening night," so on Wednesday, November 30 at 7 o'clock, all booths will officially open with a festive dessert and coffee. Booths open Thursday, December 1 at 10 in the morning, and doors close at 5 p.m. In that interim, if you are a "gift-minded" buyer, you will find a world of Christmas wonders, from lovely Gift-craft tables, unusual plants and arrangements, the eye-catching Christmas decorations table, the food, candy, aprons, all magical things that grandmothers MAKE and other grandmothers BUY for the "apple of their eye;" white elephants that this year, somehow, seem more "treasures" than anything else! This is indeed a red letter event on anyone's Christmas-minded calendar.

Remember: Wednesday, December 1, the special hot luncheon from noon to 1:30. There is baby-sitting service, and there are gentlemen on hand to help all shoppers park cars easily and conveniently.

Miss Coburn To Wed Mr. Robbins

Mr. and Mrs. Winston N. Coburn of Rhinebeck, New York announce the engagement of their daughter Joyce Elaine to Mr. Dick L. Robbins, son of Dr. and Mrs. Laurence L. Robbins, 98 Cambridge Street.

JOYCE E. COBURN

Miss Coburn received her bachelor of science degree from the University of Vermont in 1966, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. At present she is teaching at Harwood Union High School in Moretown, Vermont.

Mr. Robbins received his bachelor of arts degree from Lawrence University, Appleton, Wisconsin in 1963, where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. Presently he is completing his senior year at the University of Vermont College of Medicine, Burlington, Vermont.

A December wedding is planned.

Wellesley Club Elects Officers

On Tuesday evening, November 15, at the home of Mrs. Frances G. Jordan on Jefferson Road, members of the Winchester Wellesley Club met for their annual meeting of an evening of art.

After dessert and coffee served by Mrs. John H. McClennan and her committee, Mrs. Richard W. Swanson, retiring president, opened the business meeting and spoke of the recent inauguration of Wellesley's ninth president, Miss Ruth M. Adams, which she attended with Miss Mary L. Hodge and Mrs. Ralph T. Jope.

Mrs. Ronald E. Stillman, ways and means chairman, reported on the 1966 Winchester Mornings and thanked all those who had worked to make the lecture series once again so successful. The club voted to give the proceeds to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, to the Wellesley College Student Aid Society, and to the Wellesley College Development Fund.

Mrs. Lane McGovern, acquaintanceship chairman, stated that there are now four Winchester girls in Wellesley's freshman class: Susan Bradlee, Sara Hoyt, Sara Stillman, and Patricia Thuma; and that there are eight applicants for the coming year.

Mrs. Ralph T. Jope, nominating chairman, introduced the slate of officers for the coming two years: president: Mrs. Colin L. Wheeler; vice-president: Mrs. George Vrossos; secretary: Miss Mary L. Hodge; treasurer: Mrs. Daniel Lisberber; acquaintanceship: Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee; development fund: Mrs. Austin T. Bunker; nominating: Mrs. Richard W. Swanson; publicity: Mrs. Thomas S. Chittenden; hospitality: Mrs. Charles N. Sweetser; ways and means: Mrs. Ronald E. Stillman; calendars: Mrs. Ellis J. Green.

The program for the evening, a series of slides of paintings, sculpture, and other works at the Wellesley College Jewett Art Center, was accompanied by a text read by Mrs. Paul H. Howard which discussed each work of art and stressed the range of historical periods and media in the college collection.

Mrs. James B. Willing of Leslie Road has been elected as a director of the Wives' Club of the 66 year-old Massachusetts Society of Certified Accountants.

Carroll—Johnson

A nuptial Mass on the morning of November 5 joined in marriage Miss Irene Madelyn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Johnson of Medford, former residents here, and Mr. Francis Michael Carroll, son of Mr. Timothy Carroll of Woburn. The Reverend Herbert K. A. Driscoll officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception at Chickland in Saugus.

MRS. FRANCIS M. CARROLL

The bride, a Winchester High School graduate, was attended by Miss Joan Connolly of Woburn as maid of honor and by the Misses Grace Lizotte of Winchester, Eileen Conlon of Woburn and Maryellen Carroll, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids.

Best man at the ceremony was Mr. John Sullivan, Jr. of Winchester and ushering for Mr. Carroll, a graduate of the Woburn High School, were the Messrs. Nicholas Serratore and Michael Puma of Winchester, and his brother, Timothy Carroll.

The couple plan to live in Medford, following a wedding trip to Bermuda.

Forum to Hear Prof. DeGregoris

Reverend Vincent DeGregoris, assistant dean of men at Andover Newton will be the chapel speaker at the Senior Forum chapel service at the First Congregational Church this Sunday, November 27, at 9:15 a.m.

Reverend DeGregoris is professor of religious drama. His sermon is entitled "Make it count" and Julie Shiang and Donna Starrak will be the chaplains.

The Dramatics committee will meet Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in Chidley Hall. Tryouts for the Christmas play will take place and all interested Forumites are urged to attend.

There will be a Junior discussion supper at the Richard Starrak's, 289 Main Street on Tuesday, November 29. An outside discussion leader has been asked to come to make this a more stimulating meeting.

Sloppy Investing

If the now under construction ultra modern Tufts Road Elementary School receives when it is finished the same kind of care and maintenance control that has been tendered the other ten local school plants during the past decade, it won't be long before it too will bear witness to sloppy investment management.

It will become aesthetically unattractive on the outside due to little or no grounds care and upkeep on a regular basis, and external building repairs will be "temporary" patchwork to get by.

On the inside, with modern educational methods and ideas being practiced and taught by a highly paid professional teaching staff, routine maintenance and repair problems will be met by either "let go" or routine fix-ups—until small problems become major ones that will need major budgetary attention.

This same condition that could face the $1¼ million new elementary school could also face the $8 million contemplated new high school. Both projects are monetary investments in school building plants that are planned and designed to provide the best educational situation and advantage for the youth of Winchester. And yet, the care and effort that is going into the planning for these buildings to be the best the town can provide, once built, will be left behind and the buildings left to stand on their own original quality of construction against the many factors of deterioration and depreciation (with the exception of routine cleaning and maintenance custodianship) due to the lack of a fully planned, prepared and provided for maintenance program, just as we have seen developed and evidenced in our other school plants, unless some radical changes in policies, planning and implementation are effected.

Last week the School Committee took an overall policy look at its school plants while reviewing its budget preparations for the upcoming 1967 fiscal year, and dove into a meaty discussion on the inadequacies of general plant conditions, termed "shabby" due to a "deplorable" state of affairs in poor maintenance.

Disgusted with the situation, the School Committee decided to tour the grounds of the schools with representatives from other town boards this Saturday, and next Saturday will tour the interiors of the schools. The reason for calling in other board representatives, it may be guessed, is to solicit their support for Town Meeting action in returning the care and control of school grounds from the Park Department to the School Department, and to get additional monies to "restore" the physical condition of the school properties.

It will be remembered that a year ago the School Committee sought to establish and provide a budget for a regular maintenance crew under the School Department and Committee. The School Committee vainly pointed out the advantages of regular maintenance, but was opposed by the Finance Committee and Park Department on the basis that it was not needed, and with a climbing tax rate, Town Meeting Members' sentiments were against adding more costs to town government.

William Clark, assistant superintendent of schools for administrative services, has said that the buildings repair and maintenance budget is inadequate, and that backlog of repairs work now exists which would take a year to accomplish even if the money was immediately available.

He has also stated that the lack of a program for maintenance and repair in Winchester is shortsighted when one considers the amount of money invested in school properties, and he recommends establishing a full-time maintenance crew with the proper equipment and budget to see that the school properties are adequately cared for.

We agree with Mr. Clark, and we commend the School Committee for looking again at the condition of the educational plant under its jurisdiction with renewed vigor and interest in corrective protective action.

The town should, indeed, stop playing games with pennies, and protect its valuable educational plant investments with properly invested funds to secure its best upkeep and longevity of life.

Citizens Movement

The currently circulating initiative petition designed to reduce the size of the House of Representatives from its present enormous and bulky 240 membership down to at least a more reasonable 160 representative list is a progressive step forward toward modernizing and streamlining the State Legislature and its procedures.

While, seemingly logically, some might argue that theoretically there should be more representation with more representatives representing the people; in actual practice the theory is destroyed by the working inefficiencies and over-proliferation of politics in the Legislative process today due to the very size of the Legislature.

Why, for example, should Massachusetts require a 240 member House when other populous states facing just as complex problems as ours have much smaller Legislative bodies. New Jersey and California have reduced their House sizes in recent years to 80 member bodies; Michigan and Ohio have only 120 and 130 members; and New York has 150 members in its House of Representatives—less than two-thirds the size of the Massachusetts House!

By reducing the size of the House each representative will have a larger number of constituents and a proportionately greater vote in the House, and therefore he will have more power to be effective and, when properly articulated, this will mean better government for the people

Also, hopefully, with the greater representative power, the more important vote, and broader based more diverse districts, perhaps more qualified people will be attracted to serve the people through state government service.

Winchester's own Representative Chadwick, long a campaigner for streamlining the Legislature and its procedures (he initiated the move to install the electronic roll-call system in the House that saves many hours of Legislative time), has said this petition to reduce the size of the House aims in the right direction, and it will be in the best interests of the people to support it.

We agree; and urge every registered voter who is able to sign the petition to do so this week.

The termination filing date of December 7 is rapidly approaching, and a total of 73,000 signatures are needed by then to automatically put the issue before the Legislature for action. Locally, petitions are located in the Winchester Trust Company, Winchester National Bank, the Co-operative Bank and the Savings Bank; McCormack's and O'Neil's Pharmacies; the Winchester News Company and Winchester Star Office.

The voters made themselves heard in the election earlier this month; they must be heard from again on this citizen's movement to improve the Legislative process.

Thanks Go To "Henny"

"Henny" Knowlton has just completed his last season as head coach of the Winchester High School Football Team and his many admirers here and around New England will feel his loss as a personal one.

At the special pre-game rally held at WHS Wednesday morning, Principal W. Howard Niblock pointed up the appropriateness of the Thanksgiving season to the feeling the Town needs to express to the School's departing coach.

Winchester indeed does have reason to be thankful to Coach Knowlton. The legions of players who have returned to tell him personally just how grateful they have been for the brand of sound and sportsmanlike football he has taught them will be echoed by the fans and non-fans in the Town.

In a field of endeavor often marked by explosiveness and the quality of the prima donna, Henny's quiet, even-tempered demeanor has made him a stand-out. He is known for his innate dignity and the respect which he generates with all ages.

The "Coach of the Year" title bestowed on him in 1961 by the New England Football Officials for his high ethical standards and his devotion to teaching the game is an honor of which the whole Town is proud. Citizens may be grateful that he will remain at his job of director of athletics, and that his steady, dependable hand will still be felt in the sports arenas of all the public schools here.

Petition

"Some states, like New Jersey and California, both larger and more populous and confronted with just as many and complex problems as Massachusetts, have only 80 representatives in their Houses," Representative Chadwick added, and stated further that most states have Houses between 120 and 130 in size, such as Michigan and Ohio, with New York, even, having only 150."

The basic argument for having a smaller House of Representatives is that with a larger number of constituents and a proportionately greater vote in the House an individual Representative has more power to be effective. When the power of the Representative is increased then that of the people may be enhanced also, and when articulated properly it should promote better government.

In addition to increasing the prestige of the Representative, larger districts and a more important vote in the House, if coupled with acceptance of plans to provide staff assistance, will tend to attract more qualified people who today are repelled by the aura of back-room politics that seems to be the current image of the State House.

Also the wider diversity of interests that could be incorporated into new districts will necessitate candidates with broader backgrounds in the fields they must represent. This challenge, many feel, will draw more capable people when they realize the greater opportunity available to them if they win.

Some critics of the proposal maintain that the two-party system will be damaged. Some assert the current minority will have a more difficult time winning in even larger districts, for many districts already go uncontested every year (110 seats uncontested this year).

Advocates of the proposal assert the contrary, saying the amendment would achieve a greater balance of power, for with larger populations in the districts, the old centers of power will be diluted, thereby giving both parties an opportunity to broaden their base of support with more potential individual, organizational, and interest group contributors as opposed to being limited to smaller zones and contributors.

Representative Chadwick said this initiative petition started by Governor Volpe, if successful, should be the beginning phase of streamlining the Legislature to enable it to more efficiently cope with the modern problems of state government.

Knowlton

Navy, Bob Johnson at Brown, Dana Kelly and Dave Pratt at Dartmouth, Niles Nelson at the University of Maine, the Serieka boys, "Jocko" at Xavier and Danny at the University of New Hampshire, Paul Amico at the University of New Hampshire, John Murphy and Roger DeMinico at the University of Massachusetts and Doug Thomson at the University of Virginia.

These men and many more like them will keep their old coach's name green for many years. And it was not only as a coach, but also in the field of public relations that Knowlton rates a straight "A." He was never too busy to show his football pictures anywhere or to speak at the Legion, Elks, Sons of Italy, Rotary and many others.

Winchester football fans will now look vainly for the sturdy figure on the local sidelines, but he will be with his boys in spirit each Saturday. Some other man will take over the football instruction now, and will find he has succeeded quite a coach.

Victory Dance

The Recreation Committee was pleased to accept charge of the event for future years, but was unable to handle it on short notice at this time this year.

As of last Friday, there was no sponsor in sight for the annual dance, and so several police officers joined with the recreation director in forming a volunteer sponsoring committee to see that the dance would be held.

As usual at the Victory Dances, awards will be presented to honor the football players of both teams whose performances on the gridiron are outstanding in today's Thanksgiving Day game.

The Winchester VFW Memorial Trophy will go to the outstanding Winchester back, and the Winchester Legion Memorial Trophy will go to the outstanding Winchester lineman.

The Woburn VFW Memorial Trophy will go to the outstanding Woburn back, and the Woburn Legion Memorial Trophy will go to the outstanding Woburn lineman.

And a special award this year, the Winchester Star-Woburn Daily Times Sportsman's Trophy, will be awarded to the player displaying characteristics of sportsmanship on the field.

Dr. Gibson

A graduate of Oberlin College in 1948, the new Filene Center director received his master's degree in political science at Western Reserve and his doctorate in international law and relations at Columbia. Prior to joining the Tufts faculty in 1963, Dr. Gibson was chairman of the Division of Liberal Arts and director of development at Babson Institute.

DR. JOHN S. GIBSON

As director of the Lincoln Filene Center's social studies curriculum development project in racial and cultural diversity and as consultant to a number of school systems, foundations, governmental agencies, and to Educational Services Incorporated, Dr. Gibson is actively egaged in research, development, and experimentation in the social sciences.

He participates in educational radio and television programming, and he has represented the United States at a number of international educational conferences. Among his writings are Ideology and World Affairs; Negro Self-Concept: Implications for School and Citizenship; and New Frontiers in the Social Studies.

He was a United States Delegate to NATO conferences on secondary education in 1960 (Luxembourg), 1964 (Washington) and 1966 (Lisbon).

Dr. Gibson and his wife, Edythe, live at 20 Cabot Street in Winchester with their six children.

Tufts School

—Dr. Walter P. Gleason, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, who reminded the audience that due to the alleviation of crowded conditions in our older elementary schools, space would then be available in each building, with the help of federal funds, to house its own library.

—And Dr. Robert H. Anderson of 8 Winslow Road, nationally noted authority on 'ungraded education' and currently a professor at Harvard's Graduate School of Education, maintained that teachers are constantly striving for the "ideal" in education and pointed out that because of Tufts' flexibility, it will be easier to 'individualize' instruction making this school a stimulating, exciting, and productive place of learning for every child. He mentioned that some research would be done at Tufts, noting as one example, the grouping of heterogeneously aged children.

Audience participation was spontaneous, inquiries varied, and panel members responded with information concerning their respective positions.

However, foremost in the minds of most parents seemed to be the 178 Noonan pupils that will be attending the new school next year. Who will they be? Is there a definite line of demarcation in determining eligibility? These questions could not be answered with any degree of certainty as it is these precise areas that are being taken into consideration at the present time by various town officials and which in time will be determined.

In answer to a specific questioner, Dr. Gleason gave assurance that the opening of Tufts will afford many benefits to Noonan. In addition to the creation of an "instructional resource center" (library), the thinning out of enrollment will produce a more favorable pupil-teacher ratio, allowing space for remedial reading, guidance counselling, etc.

"Teacher training" will be given at Tufts making it possible for faculty members from other schools to bring positive teaching methods back to their individual classrooms. This dissemination of ideas Dr. Gleason added, will be an outstanding boon to all community schools as well as benefits acquired from sizable federal grants which will be made available for experimental programming.

Additional sums are to be allocated for the use of Tufts as a nationally recognized demonstrational institution.

Mail Early For Christmas

Assistant Postmaster in Charge, Alfred W. Barnard, reminded Winchester residents today that there are only some 25 mailing days before Christmas.

"While that may seem like a long way off to most people, it is frighteningly short to those of us in the Postal Service," he said. "Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has predicted that well over eight billion pieces of mail must be delivered between now and Christmas Eve, a new record.

"We are asking everyone to start thinking about their Christmas shopping and mailing now. If all the holiday mail were to hit the postal system at one time, it is obvious that we'd have difficulty delivering every piece on time."

The Winchester Post Office expects to handle close to a million pieces of mail during the holiday rush.

Mailing early and spreading the mail flow out along the entire pre-Christmas season is the key to better mail service at this time of the year.

Last year public cooperation was "tremendous," according to Mr. Barnard. Virtually every piece of holiday mail was delivered before Christmas Day. "This year with increased volume because of the continuing strength of the economy," he said, "we are hoping to see that fine cooperative spirit again."

Assistant Postmaster Barnard offered these mailing tips:

Use ZIP Codes on all mail. "If there are some ZIP Codes that you still need for your mailing lists come to the Post Office and look them up in our ZIP Code directory or give us a call. (729-0389)

ZIP Codes are more important than ever this year. Prepare your gift list right away. The earlier you do your shopping, the better chance you have to get exactly what you want while the stores are still full of merchandise. That way, you can mail earlier too.

Be sure you have enough boxes, tape, string and wrapping paper on hand.

Wrap your packages well. Include sufficient padding. Remember, that your parcel may be shipped in a mail sack with a set of the encyclopedia riding on top.

Include a card or piece of paper inside the package with your name and address and that of the person you are sending the parcel to in case the wrapping should be loose and come off. That way, you can be assured your gift will not wind up in the dead parcel office. Also, insert a list of the package's contents.

Address gifts and greeting cards clearly so that postal workers will have no difficulty in reading the destination. Use first-class postage on greeting cards. This assures their being forwarded if the addressee has moved. Cards that are undeliverable will be returned when you include your return address on the envelope.

The Post Office Department has issued a special five-cents Christmas stamp which will help decorate your holiday mail.

Most important, MAIL EARLY.

Crash

Police officers, assisted by firefighters with equipment from the Rescue Truck, had to labor delicately for some time at the accident scene to extricate the trapped and unconscious driver from the wreck, which was pinned behind a wall and an Edison pole. They finally had to break the steering wheel and foot pedals, and lift the accident victim up over the front seat and out onto the rear deck of the smashed vehicle to free him.

Mr. Gale had been heading North on Route 3 and was negotiating the curve on rain-slicked pavement when the vehicle slipped out of control and crossed over into the southbound lane.

The Jaguar continued skidding across the grass plot by the intersection of Cambridge Street with Arlington Street, struck the historic Squaw Sachem sign, knocking it down; and, crossing Arlington Street, struck the stone wall bordering the Medical Missionaries of Mary property, bounced off the wall and wedged between it and an adjacent Edison pole.

Police Officers Robert Baird and Donald Pigott responded to the accident scene in Patrol Cruiser 51, and radioed for the ambulance and the Fire Department's Rescue Truck for assistance.

Sgt. Mario Buzzotta and Officers William T. Haggerty and John J. Frongillo manning the ambulance, and Lt. Bernard F. Stygles with Firefighters Norman E. Doucette, Norman J. Delorey, Robert W. McElhinney and MacLeod on the Rescue Truck assisted at the scene.

Neat and flat

What fun to pack your bag with a wondrous assortment of creatures from A to Z and travel to Boston with the rollicking verse of our poet Samuel French Morse. Along the way the animals take in the choicest sights of Boston: Swan Boat, Subway, Beacon Street and Boston Harbor — all drawn as only Barbara Cooney can. A delight for the picture book audience.

THE TROLL MUSIC,

story and pictures by Anita Lobel. Harper, $2.92

Last year children enjoyed Sven's Bridge by Anita Lobel, and this season she has written a delightful fairy tale The Troll Music. It has been likened to a piece of Swedish pottery for its delicacy in telling and illustrating. A band of five musicians make music all the villagers agree is the sweetest in the land, but one night a mischievous troll casts a spell over each instrument while the musicians sleep. The result: only a moo, a baa, a neigh and a cluck can they play. Fortunately, the musicians and their animal friends have a plan and with the help of Mrs. Troll restore the music sweeter than ever. The fanciful, fun-filled pictures of musicians, villagers, animals and trolls will delight a child again and again.

THE LITTLEST ANGEL

by Charles Tazewell. Children's Press, $3.50

We never forget the old classical favorites. The Littlest Angel, popular since 1946, is a precious gift for 1966 in a new edition, picture-book size with full color illustrations that any child will treasure. Second and third-grade children can now read the story of how the littlest angel had difficulty adjusting to heavenly life.

WONDERFUL TIME

by Phyllis McGinley. Lippincott, $3.39

Clocks and time are intriguing to children of all ages. Phyllis McGinley, who can always intrigue her young readers, does it again in a Wonderful Time. Her new book of poetry is filled with gay, witty answers about time, its minutes, days and seasons, sun dials and hour glasses.

What is time?
Although we can't touch it or taste it
We can save it or use it
Or waste it
But chiefly we measure is out
And that is what clocks are about

John Alcorn's large, humorous drawings are a bit old fashioned.

A Letter From Vietnam

Editor of the Star:

I wish to thank publicly the neighbors that were responsible for my going away party last July. I was alerted for assignment to Bien Hoa Air Base, Republic of Vietnam, in April, and arrived in Vietnam in August. Before leaving for Bien Hoa Air Base the neighboring mothers got together and had a going away party. I especially would like to thank Mrs. Oliver of 22 Oxford Street who was the spearhead for the party. I regard her as one of the warmest persons who has the nicest personality around today. It was but a small task for them but it will always remain with me for to have neighbors as I have and have to leave them behind was hard.

I am currently working for the 3rd Tactical Fighter Wing Commander as his secretary. I play but a small part in the whole picture here but I feel I can convey the general feelings and thoughts of all of us. Add all the small things each one of us is doing for FREEDOM and you come up with quite a fight for what we know is right. You all should have much pride for the boys over here for the job they are doing in the conditions they are in is outstanding and they should be congratulated for a job well done.

Anyone wishing to write to me is welcome to anytime. When I have free time, which isn't much, I will do my best to answer all letters that are sent.

I would like to wish everyone in Winchester the best wishes for a very merry Christmas season this year.

Where Are The Tufts Road School Pupils?

Editor of the Star:

This past Tuesday evening (November 15) parents of children at the Noonan School were invited to attend a discussion of the New Tufts Road School with a panel of four local educators including the enrollment coordinator, the principal of the new school, the assistant superintendent, and a professor from Harvard. Parents were invited to come and find out where their children would be going to school next year and to learn of the impact of the new school on the children.

The meeting lasted an hour and a half. The parents learned nothing about what school their children would be attending and very little about the "impact" of the new school, except that it would relieve some awful overcrowding in existing classrooms. To paraphrase a late British statesman, never have so many people been compelled to listen to so much in order to glean so few bits of information.

As a parent with children attending both the Washington and Noonan schools, as a resident of Winchester Gardens (usually referred to as "the pit,") and as an educator who is somewhat hardened to long and pointless meetings, I found this display of glittering generalities, obfuscation and patronization particularly distasteful.

It was especially galling to have the enrollment expert proudly proclaim his ability to anticipate enrollment figures a year in advance (from October 1) with precision and then to be told that it would not be possible to say who was going to attend the Tufts Road School until next spring.

When I and others asked about the disposition of children from Winchester Gardens and the generol boundaries of the new school district we received a vague response about a "1½ mile spiral," whatever that means. In spite of all this vagueness about the new school enrollment, the principal complained that there were exactly 551 students assigned to the new school which was designed for a 550 maximum enrollment.

The conclusion one must draw from this performance is obvious. If the school officials can predict so precisely what the enrollment at the new school will be, they must know darn well who is going to be assigned to the school. If they did not, as they claimed at the meeting, they could not make such a prediction.

Two questions therefore remain in the minds of parents like myself who took the trouble to attend the meeting. Which school will our children be attending next year? Why are the school officials withholding this information and pretending that they don't know?

We couldn't get a straight answer to the first question. Perhaps the Star can find out the answers to both.

Sincerely yours,
Malcolm A. Levin

Asks Aid Making Xmas Brighter For Retarded

Editor of the Star:

Here it is the time of the year again when I would like to ask for your help in making Christmas a happy day for the less fortunate ones who do not have any one to visit them or send a gift. These are some of the folks at Fernald school for the Retarded in Waverly. They range in age from babies to 90 years old, men, women, and children.

As in several years past I have collected Christmas gifts and hope to have your help again this year. They can use anything at all in the clothing line, plus dolls, tobacco, record player, records, braille books, and almost anything that is not sharp that they would get hurt by.

I would be glad to pick up at the same time any used skates, skiis, boots or such that your family has out grown and would like to donate to this school.

Please call any evening after 6. 729-0596.

Realtor Writes About School's Site, Building

Editor of the Star:

Since moving to this town 3 years ago, I have followed the weekly news reports in your newspaper concerning the efforts to improve the school buildings of the town.

Perhaps, because I had served on a similar board prior to moving here, I have been interested in the problem with the high school. It has confused me no end to read of all the official and non-official committees and groups planning this school, as I would expect this to be the problem of the school department, both elected and hired, as they are the ones who must work with the finished product. It also appears somewhat confusing as to the time and money spent on site studies, as this tends to indicate to people that there is no concrete plan, and on this basis it would be difficult to sell a project to a town meeting.

It would appear that the 1st step would be to define the need and then the location, and then sell the idea to the town meeting, who are to vote the funds. A building can be placed on any type of land, without a great deal of research, if designed properly.

It also appears to be a waste to research the center area, when all items seem to point to the location as being on the west side, due to the cost of landtakings in the center. Thirty acres of building land in any section of the west side would deprive the town of approximately $100,000 of tax income for the life of these properties. The argument that this is required for state aid is hypothetical, as state aid is supplied in various amounts, and substitutions to required areas are often accepted. The money spent on pre-building studies, when a definite plan is being worked on, is often used to reduce the cost of fees while the building is being built, a practice I upnderstand not used in this town.

In a recent article a figure of about $30 a square foot for cost of a building was given, and this figure will bring many bidders, as it is much above average for school construction costs. It would appear that this could be reduced by as much as 40% by building a school with 2 or 3 floors, rather than on one level. In addition to construction costs, maintenance costs are reduced, due to consolidation.

Building a multi-level school would also enable the school area to be placed on less land, possibly in the center without taking any homes. There appears to be adequate land within the present school boundaries to build a plant to handle 1,500 students. This would necessitate rearranging the athletic field to utilize wasted areas.

The possibility of changing the school program from the present 6-3-3, to a 6-2-4 or a 5-3-4 could also help the elementary grades. the latter system is now being used in some of the progressive school systems, while the return to the 4 year high school has been found effective due to the advancement of today's student. Even if temporary platooning is required, I have been through this problem and found that there was no drop in the standards, or student excellence, only a short-lived inconvenience.

As might be read from this article I am in favor of a school located in the center of the town, without any land takings, although I believe this is not an accepted plan. This can be accomplished by either an addition to the present building, a change of school program, or even a new building.

While I did not plan to comment on the previous buildings, I cannot but state that the design and location of Vinson-Owen on the land used could only produce the results which are now being worried about, as well as the location of the addition on Parkhurst, using the sloped side of the land, rather than the high side. Possibly a small amount of money was saved by these locations, but not enough to offset the costs to correct the problems.

While I, too, would like my children to attend the most modern school in Greater Boston, I am concerned about the cost and the actual benefit to the student. A neighboring city has recently built an impressive plant, but the quality of the program or student has not improved. It takes a combination of factors to produce a student, not only an impressive building.

Very truly yours,
Eugene A. Leonard

Student Council Requests Aid For Korean Orphans

Editor of the Star:

First of all, I and my kids are very anxious of how you are getting in recent days. It seems to be a long time, needless to say, not to contact between us. Actually we doubt, entirely due to enjoy your summer season, whether you forgot my orphans or not.

Here we spent the summer season with working and boring. Truly the weather is more hot and drought than other seasons. Every day the skin-disease, mosquitos any fly etc., have given me much troubles for taking care of my kids. To make things more worse, two children got the operation of appendicitis and repairing the boiler troubles (inner water is much leaking) have pressed me more heavy economic burdens.

Government support is nearly nothing except the main food as you know well, so I must charge the operation fee and repairing the boiler. Actually nobody knows the difficulty of managing the poor orphans here except you. Even the main food supplied by government is not sufficient to satisfy my kid's hungry stomashs.

But I could not give up this project in spite or any bad condition. I respect the fact that your ancestor overcomed and pioneered your country under Christ spirit. This fact has given me much instruction for my orphanage. No doubt, my working and your care will not be in vain but bear a good and meaningful fruit for abandoned poor orphans here.

Truly, I want to confess the thing that I couldn't manage my Home without your helping. You are the only protector of my orphanage.

So, dear friend, believe me and again receive my appealing of another help-request to you. That Is The Movement Of Let My Kids Put On The Warm Clothes! As you know well, the season was changed to autumn, so every morning and night is very cold here. In meeting of this season, the most worries that I have is to have the warm Clothes for them. Especially the school boys and girls must put on their uniform. Unhappily, they are often inclined to be disregarded from his friend in school. Whenever hearing like this information crying sadly, this struck me deeply. How can I soive and satisfy for him without money?

The thing that I want confess is that we have nearly nothing clothes for them. Under the present situation it is very difficult to spend the winter season safely. If you willingly sympasize my appealing of the clothes and uniform difficulties, would you please help us as possible as you can do. We only pray to our Lord for realizing my fervent desire.

I have now 30 school boys and 26 school girls. Among them 15 boys and 13 girls must put on their school uniform. During this winter, if they can get their clothes, how do they feel so much happy! Here the price of winter clothes for children are equal to approximate 1,800 Won ($6.00) and the school uniform is 2,500 Won ($8.00). Even your just one suit of clothes for the poor orphans, that will be keep warm in spite of severe cold winter. They will never forget your dedicated donation. In fact, as my thinking, again my appeal of your help-requesting is very shameful and gloomy to me but for my orphans this was the only thing to me, please understand it.

The result of the Bible and Hymns collection was quite satisfied. Now we got 50 vol. of Bible and 50 vol. of Hymns. So we can realize our desire of let them being Christian we also are preparing the pennant of my orphanage as recompense of your continous donation. As soon as we get it, we directly will sent it to you soon. I think this pennant will be a good memory between us. Hoping that we want to hear your information and let you enjoy your blessed Thanksgiving day. May God bless you richly.

Sincerely,
Supt. Kim, Yong De

Dedication

"We are not seeking to build a church set apart from daily life," he reminded the congregation, "but a church living and serving in the very heart of the community. This church is dedicated to a seven-day-a-week program, that we may bring our Christian faith into the areas of our community life, and bring its power to bear upon the needs and ills and problems of the world."

The dedication ceremony took place nearly 126 years to the day that a congregation of 86 persons voted to organize what was to be called the South Woburn Congregational Church, located on a hill beside Wedge Pond. Three other occasions of dedication of various parts of the building have been held in the month of November.

Dr. Cart said, "To us it has seemed there could be no more fitting time in which to dedicate what has been done here than in this holy season of Thanksgiving." He made note of the fact that in the past the first public services were held in the vestry of the still-unfinished house of worship and that the present dedication is also of a building not entirely finished. It will be another two years before the new pipe organ will be completed and installed, and the sanctuary of the church redecorated.

Special notice was given to an offering at the altar by the young people of the Church School, presented as their expression of Thanksgiving, to be used not for themselves, but for others—people in need in underprivileged parts of Boston. "And so we, too, dedicate this House of God," Dr. Cart said, "not for our own selfish satisfaction, but that people of every race, color and creed may be served."

During the service the youthful voices of the Junior, Youth and Forum Choirs joined with the Senior Choir in singing the anthem "O How Amiable" (Williams). The combined Youth and Forum Choirs sang the songs of Thanksgiving, "All Praise to Thee" (Tallis). They were led by Mr. Robert White, choir director.

Dr. Kenneth R. Henley, associate minister, gave the call to worship, and Rev. Richard C. Diehl read the Scripture lesson.

At the close of the service the congregation joined in the prayer of dedication. There were many present who recalled the first dedication of the new parish house on November 2, 1927, and who remembered that it was achieved under the leadership of the late Dr. Howard J. Chidley, the young pastor who had stood in the pulpit for the first time also in the month of Thanksgiving, 10 years earlier.

Dr. Cart said, "We are indebted to the past more than we can measure—to Dr. Chidley and a host of others who served honorably and faithfully in days gone by. We build upon the foundations they have laid. Who can measure their devotion and sacrifice, the prayer and dedication which have gone into the making of this very hour—such blessings are not to be taken lightly. Our most generous words of thanksgiving are but feeble expressions of our indebtedness. The health of our American way of life depends upon the kind of people that Christ and His Church can produce. Let us pray God that we shall be part of making this church increasingly strong to serve this present age."

Following the services the congregation left the sanctuary in small groups which were led by members of the Senior Forum through the reconstructed area of the building, where members of the Building Committee were stationed to explain the renovations. Everywhere the reaction was the same; visitors seeing it for the first time expressed amazement and pleasure at what has been accomplished in the spacious rooms, wide corridors, improved lighting, ease of accessibility to all areas and even the pleasing color schemes.

The tours terminated in Chidley Hall where refreshments were served.

In the sanctuary and in Chidley Hall the reverence of the occasion and the spirit of the season were interpreted in floral arrangements of unusual beauty designed by Mrs. George Ham.

The program committee included Edgar Hinton, chairman, and Mrs. Hinton, Mr. and Mrs. John McClennan, Mrs. Gilbert H. Hood, William Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Raphael, Mrs. Henry K. Spencer and Mrs. Ham.

Lt. Coady Cited In Firefighting Endeavor at Sea

Lt. Philip J. Coady, Jr., U.S.-N.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Coady of 11 Herrick Street, was presented with a citation for meritorious achievement at a ceremony in San Diego, California, this week for his leadership in bringing a fire under control aboard a stricken Norwegian merchant ship.

The citation, signed by Admiral T. H. Moorer, commander in chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, read:

"While serving aboard the USS Myles C. Fox (DD 829) at sea in the North Atlantic, Lieutenant (junior grade) Coady participated with distinction in the successful salvage of the Norwegian Merchantman M/V Palma during the period 15-22 March 1966. Upon receipt of a distress call from Palma 700 miles Southwest of the Cape Verde Islands on 15 March 1966, indicating that she was on fire and needed help. Myles C. Fox immediately proceeded to the aid of the stricken vessel.

Lieutenant (junior grade) Coady volunteered to board the Palma at night with a firefighting team from Myles C. Fox to cambat a seemingly uncontrollable Class A fire that had been burning for two days. Despite a shortage of firefighting equipment, low firemain pressure and inadequate dewatering capacity, the firefighting team, under Lieutenant (junior grade) Coady's inspiring leadership and determination, brought under control and maintained the stability of the stricken vessel.

Through his untiring efforts, close supervision and adherence to safety precautions, this eight-day salvage operation was carried out safely and Palma was saved to steam into port under her own power. Lieutenant (junior grade) Coady's professional ability and courageous actions reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Naval Service."

Lt. Coady, 25, received the Elks Award for Leadership upon graduation from Milton High School. He was also recipient of a Naval Scholarship to Tufts University from which he graduated.

Lt. Coady is stationed in California where he resides with his wife, the former Judith Greene of West Roxbury.

Rollins

A native of Roxbury, Mr. Rollins graduated from the Boston Public Schools and Northeastern University where he majored in English and journalism.

He did public relations work for the NAACP, was a member of the board of directors of Freedom House and an executive committeeman for the Boston Action Group.

Formerly a political writer for the "Boston Globe," he is presently the the Editor of the "Bay State Banner," a newspaper which features news of the Negro community in Boston.

Mr. Rollins has been a member of the Planning Committees for the "Upward Bound" programs at the University of Massachusetts, Boston College and Thompson's Academy.

He is now vice-chairman of "Operation Exodus" and the author of a new novel, "Danger Song," which will be published by Doubleday in April.

Rev. Howard Hunter of Madison Avenue West, chairman of Winchester Fair Housing, considers this meeting an unusual opportunity for Winchester residents to examine their community in terms of its importance to Boston.

Premiere Dance Is Rec Success

The Recreation Committee's first large youth dance held at the Town Hall last Saturday night was a premiere success, according to Recreation Director Donald Spinney.

The 8 to 11 o'clock dance for high school youths featured the popular local swing band "The Castaways," and recorded an attendance of over 500 young people.

"Wow!" and "Best dance I've seen yet!" were among the accolades several youngsters gave the Recreation Committee and Director for the event.

Assisting the Recreation Committee in running the dance were Mr. and Mrs. David Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brennan, Mr. and Mrs. Albert MacDougall, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gunnar Brink, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Fahey. They were also supported by aid from the Winchester Jaycees.

In other recreation news this week, the Junior High Rec Club for Eighth Grade will be held in the McCall School from 7 to 10 p.m. this Friday night; and the Senior High Rec Club will meet at McCall from 7 to 11 on Saturday night.

Officers Restore Breathing To 10-Month-Old

At five minutes past three on Tuesday afternoon the Winchester Police ambulance responded to an emergency call for a baby who was having trouble breathing.

On arrival at 162 High Street, Officer Richard Beaton assisted Officer Donald Jackson, who effectively and manually dislodged flem from the throat of 10-month-old Keyomi Yatsuhashi. The officers then transported the baby and his mother, Mrs. Michio Yatsuhashi to the Winchester Hospital. Subsequently, with Officers Joseph Crowe and Richard Kelly manning the ambulance, Keyomi was transferred to the Children's Hospital Boston for observation.

The rescue truck from the Fire Department also repsonded to the call.

We Give Thanks!

Tomorrow is a day full of traditions.

It is the day we gather together as a family to give thanks for the many blessings bestowed upon us this past year.

It is a day too, when many of us will overindulge in that wonderful meal. It seems as though it takes forever to prepare the feast and hardly any time before it disappears.

It is also a day when arch-rivals settle the score on gridirons the country over. And regardless of whether you're a football fan or not, a ticket to the local game seems to be a must.

Tomorrow is our day to give thanks for all of these things and to also give thanks to YOU — for allowing us the pleasure of serving you.

May each and every one of you enjoy the happiest of Thanksgivings!

JC's Meet Monday, Invite Men 21 - 35

The agenda will be a full one when the Winchester Jaycees hold their monthly meeting at the Sons of Italy Hall on Monday evening, November 28.

Consequently, the meeting will afford an excellent opportunity for interested young men to drop by and see the Jaycees at work. Membership Director Bud Bowlin has indicated that the numerous programs now underway provide an unusual chance for men between 21 and 35 to become actively involved in Winchester's civic affairs.

To be discussed will be the forthcoming Winter Carnival initiated by Winchester Recreation Director Donald Spinney and supported by the Jaycees, as well as early efforts towards next Spring's Miss Winchester Pageant.

Other areas for discussion include State Civil Service Reform and the Massachusetts State Jaycees' support of Dr. "Jim" Turpin's "Project Concern" in Viet Nam.

For those men under 36 who might be interested, Membership Director Bowlin has stressed that the only requirements to be a Jaycee include enthusiasm and a desire to contribute to a better community.

Lions Give Bond, $25,000 for Peace Essay Contest Win

Randy Kazazian, King Lion of the Winchester Lions Club is announcing this week that group's Golden Jubliee Peace Essay Contest, co-sponsored in Winchester by the Lions International.

Contestants are eligible for the national grand prize of $25,000 educational bond money. The Winchester winner will receive from the local Lions a $50 bond.

All students between the ages of 14 and 22 may participate. The theme of this essay must stress the manner in which world peace may be attained and what you would consider the formula for world peace.

The essay should be entitled "Peace is Attainable." Parents who wish their children to participate in this contest should contact the Chairman of the Essay Contest, Alfred A. Zirpolo at 438-0779 and he will forward rules for this contest. The contest will end December 10, 1966.

Wheaton Group Guest Meeting

On November 16, at a meeting of the Lexington - Winchester Wheaton Group, Mrs. Paul E. Gray was hostess to 80 persons vitally interest in Wheaton College. Guests included prospective students from Winchester and Lexington, their mothers, Wheaton graduates, and the "Whims" singing students from the college.

Following an enjoyable buffet dinner given by the officers, the "Whims" sang a varied program of a capella music, in excellent four-part harmony, of old favorites, "just fun" songs, and spirituals, all delightful. Mrs. Alexander Pugh of Winchester, a former "Whim," joined in the songs.

Miss Lynn Dorman, leader of the "Whims" showed slides of the college, and led discussion of many questions from the prospective students about courses, exams, social activities, even the unusual and effective Wheaton Honor System.

Twenty-three prospective students were most cordially welcomed, and received much information given with enthusiasm and pride by the Whims.

Registration For Entrance Exams At Marycliff

Marycliff Academy is participating with eighty high schools in a diocesan-wide entrance testing program. This program under the auspices of Science Research Associates of Chicago, Illinois, is designated to eliminate the need for students to take entrance examinations at several high schools.

Students desirous of entering Catholic high schools in this vicinity must take this entrance test. They do not necessarily have to take the test at the school they wish to attend. However, registration must be made at the school where the test is to be taken. Results of the tests will be sent to the high schools of the students' choice.

The entrance examination will be given at Marycliff Academy on January 28, 1967 at 8:30 a.m. Designed by SRA the test will be diagnostic in nature based on knowledge acquired throughout the grade school years.

Registration for the January test will be held at Marycliff Academy from November 28 to December 2, between the hours of 3 and 5 p.m. The registration fee of $3.00 covers the cost of the examinations. Registration must be made in person because further instructions will be given at that time.

Yuletide Fun Fest Supports Much CommunityEffort

The Yuletide Fun Fest of the Winchester Home and Garden Club will be held Wednesday, December 7, from noon until 4 p.m. in Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany, with lovely Christmas decorations for sale, some unusual wreaths, handmade craft articles, bakery, and materials for ladies to make their own decor. There is no admission charge to this Fest and all are welcome.

At one o'clock, there will be dessert and coffee with bridge or card games following, and for this event tickets are required, for the number to be served will be limited. Mrs. Philip Boone 15 Fenwick Road is chairman of this portion of the Fest, and reservations may be made in writing or by phoning her at 729-2677. The donation for the dessert is very reasonable and includes an opportunity to enter one's name for the fabulous door prizes (including an area rug from Boodakian's). Those purchasing tickets in groups of four may have reserved tables that day.

This annual Christmas fair of the Club provides funds to carry on many civic projects, including courses of study in conservation education for the Winchester teachers; anti-litter campaign to make the town more attractive; community beautification services in several areas of the town; decorating at the Winchester Hospital and Nurses' Home and Home for the Aged; landscape work at the Winchester Public Library; Garden Club Therapy. including work at North Reading Rehabilitation Center, the Veterans Hospital in Bedford. All these are supported by the club's fund raising event.

Chairmen of the Fun Fest are Mrs. Harwood Boynton, Mrs. G. Gale Wisbach, Mrs. Edmund Wright, assisted by Mrs. George McFadden, Ingredients Table; Mrs. Michael Boodakian, Christmas Decorations and Boutique; Mrs. Edward Kawa, bakery; Mrs. Thomas Magoun and Mrs. George Connor, publicity.

Too Many Quacks for This Truckload, Or Local Ducks Go North for Winter

Gathered under the protective roofing of Mrs. Dorothy Lord's exclusive North Woburn Water Fowl Retreat are a group of refugees from holiday dinner tables: Winchester's more than 25 domestic ducks and geese.

Along with the sizable delegation from the wild world which shares their summer Aberjona home, they have just been through one of the best season's experienced, water pollution not withstanding. The beautiful weather and abundant rainfall combined to bring them lots of visitors upon seeing that their gullets were full of corn and breadcrumbs. And the renovations at the library kept them well entertained.

The ducks are periodically the center of all kinds of attention, but no admirer is more steady, or more dependable than their ever-loving friend, Gunnar Abrahamson. Gunnar, solely as an act of his own interest and concern, drives into the Town Hall back yard every morning at 6:30 sharp. He pulls up and honks the horn of his black Falcon and by the time he has stepped out of the car he can hardly be seen for feathered friends.

Worried lest their diet is under par, Gunnar brings corn and breadcrumbs by the bagfull and the recipients of his bounty quack their appreciation loud and long.

Mrs. Lord, Winchester Star bookkeeper, can't remember when she first started wintering the Town's official flock. But by now there is an understanding between her and the Park Department that when the frosts come and the days shorten the flock will be transported North to their winter resort on her premises.

Even the trip up this year was the object of a special report to the Star. An alert citizen was driving up Main Street not too long ago when she observed that some burlap bags in the back of a Town truck were jumping.

With visions of stolen dogs and medical research in her head, she turned her car around, chased the truck to a stop light and inquired politely of the driver what was in the bags.

"Ducks," said he.

"What ducks," said she.

"The Town's ducks," said he.

Then, no doubt feeling a little embarassed and maybe sheepish (although 'henpecked' might have been more appropriate) he made a tactical error. For to her next question, "And where are you taking these ducks?" he answered with a rather evasive, "I don't know."

The lady, somewhat reassured but not quite enough, thence proceeded downtown to check at the seat of the Town government, the Town Hall. She was told the story of the annual migration north of the Town flock and that they were headed for the School Street winter rest at Mrs. Lords. Not satisfied yet she came over to the Star to inquire if the ducks had really arrived.

Usually transported in cages, some of the flock had this year been protected by bags instead due to faulty locks on the cages and this is what had made them the subject of a high level investigation. They'll be back in the spring, maybe in time for Easter this year!

Buick

THE HOME OF MANY BEAUTIFUL BUICKS AND MERCEDES-BENZ. A familiar site to many Winchester Buick and Mercedes-Benz owners is the Kolligian Motors dealer showroom at 456 Broadway in Cambridge. It is here that smart Winchester automobile owners shop for their new or used cars, where they can trade with Ronald Kolligian of Winchester and know they are getting the best deal, and do business with people who know their cars: the excellent service found at Kolligian Motors is attested by many local car drivers. So if you're looking for a good price on a new 1967 Buick or Mercedes-Benz, now is the time to stop in and visit Kolligian Motors. Remember Kolligian Motors — where you buy the best with confidence.

"There is no wisdom nor understanding nor counsel against the Lord."

This is the Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. Title of the lesson is, "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

The responsive reading is made up of Scriptural passages from Matthew, describing Jesus' forthright resistance to the three satanic temptations that came to him ni the wilderness.

Selections from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following:

"Truth has no consciousness of error. Love has no sense of hatred. Life has no partnership with death. Truth, Life, and Love are a law of annihilation to everything unlike themselves, because they declare nothing except God."

Cub Pack 508 Takes to Space

Winchester's own "spacemen," Philip Stackpole and Charles Jones, won boy scout cameras at the second annual Cub Scout Pack 508 Space Ship Derby at Noonan School's auditorium Friday night (November 18).

Stackpole's Den 5 Special won three heats in a rundown of some of the fanciest home-made space ships ever built. Dads of the Cubs took great delight in conducting the exciting races. Jones, champion of Den 6, had the distinction of having his ship judged the best built of the lot.

Meanwhile 27 awards, including seven one-year "Scouter" service stars to adult members, also were presented at this pre-Thanksgiving monthly meeting.

Jones and Allison also received their one-year Service Stars as did Michael Collins, Patrick Duren, David Foley, William Haggerty, Stephen Hulbert, John Paoletti. Edward Porter and Anthony Saraco.

The adults honored were Mildred Allison, Edwin Jones, Norma Jones, Mary Lawton, Mildred Paoletti, Elizabeth Porter and Michael Saraco.

The annual Christmas pack meeting will be held December 16.

Winchester Unitarian Church

The second in a series of pre-service choral programs, given by the Winchester Unitarian Choir, under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham will be sung in the chancel of the Winchester Unitarian Church on Sunday, November 27th at 10:40 a.m. The program which will be entirely from the Oratorio St. Paul by Mendelssohn follows:

Lord, thou alone art God—Choir.
To God on High—Choir.
Jerusalem—Soprano.
But the Lord is mindful—Contralto.
O God, Have Mercy—Bass.
How Lovely are the messengers—Choir.

The first Anthem in the service will be "Behold The Star of Jacob" (Christus) by Mendelssohn and the second Anthem "Gesu Bambino" by Yon sung by the contralto, bass and choir. The Postlude will be "Psalm XIX" by Marcello.

Members of the Winchester Unitarian Quartette are: Estelle McNeely, soprano, William W. Jefferey, tenor, Barbara Wood, contralto, Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr., bass.

Nothing is as constant as change. It is as inexorably immutable as the forward movement of time itself. Often those who clamor for a change really don't want it; what they do want is for time to reverse itself and return to a period which they contemplate affectionately.

Coach Henry Knowlton, in his quarter-century of coaching the high school football team, has had his share of defeats. But we doubt if he has any serious regrets, nor do the overwhelming majority of the townspeople. His teams have had their ups and downs, with the ups of longer durition than the downs. But it is not so much that Henry Knowlton will be remembered by parents of high school students as having developed super stars or super team, as he will be for having helped shape the character of the boys who went out for the football team. The young men under his tutelage have shown on the larger athletic fields of the colleges the results of his sound coaching and, what is more important, the moral integrity they developed during the years they played for Henny. A case in point is Joe Bellino, who fulfilled his military obligations at the expense of the "fast buck" when he might have begged off as did a super star of another era.

Although we have been acquainted with Coach Knowlton for the past fifteen years, we really didn't get to know him well until the past year or so. In that time we have come to appreciate his adherence to sound football tactics, the handling of his charges, and the basic philosophy which governs his actions as coach of the football team and his duties as athletic director.

It is fitting that Coach Knowlton steps down at a time when Winchester football is on the move. His successor will not be left empty-handed, but will be furnished with a strong nucleus for future teams.

Henry Knowlton will still be with us as athletic director for a while, and we, as well as the townspeople, are pleased about that. To paraphrase a familiar slogan, "You're in good hands with Knowlton."

Meanwhile, this morning his boys will be playing this one for Henny, The thick, tough hide of the Tanners will display many a tomahawk mark, regardless of the outcome.

The Norwich University hockey squad will be going into action soon with one Winchester candidate fighting for a defense berth. John Stabile, son of Mrs. Harry Stable of 9 Herrick Street, a sophomore, is being depended on to boost the varsity hockey squad in its effort to improve over last year's 7-15 record.

1966 WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL SQUAD

Eager and waiting is the WHS football team for the traditional game against Woburn this morning. It will be played with mixed emotions by every player on the squad. For many it will be their last game in a Winchester High School football uniform; and for all it marks the last time they will ever play under Coach Knowlton. This one will be played for Henny.

The annual Winchester-Woburn Thanksgiving Day game is one of the oldest high school football classics in the state. Each years the game produces excitement among the followers of both teams, and this year will be no exception. Over the years there has been many an upset as in all traditional contests. Anything can happen and usually does.

This year's action takes place at Connolly Field in Woburn, starting time 10:30 A.M.

The members of both teams meet twice in one day, in the morning for the game, in the evening for the annual Thanksgiving Day Dance at the Winchester High School gym for the two teams and their followers. Awards for best lineman and best back on both teams, plus, for the first time this year, an additional award for a member of each team making the play of the game will be awarded at the dance.

Palmer Wins By One Stroke; Casper by $10,500

By Harry McGrath

Arnold Palmer dropped a 12-footer on the 72nd (18th hole of the course) for a 69 and a four-day total of 275, and adjourned to the pressroom to watch the other boys struggle to beat him.

Plenty outweighed, the 130-pound Gardner Dickenson bogeyed the same hole after flubbing his second shot; and though he too had a 69 for the last 18, had started on down to Palmer, with 275.

Incidentally, Palmer predicted 275 would win.

While Dickenson and Palmer were fighting it out for the winner's share, the two leading money winners for the year, Casper and Nicklaus, were waging a private battle for money-winning honors for the current year.

Nicklaus finished even par 284 for the 72 holes and with Casper tied for 18th place, along with seven others.

Among the nine who finished in this tie were host pro Jack Burke, Jr., who dissipated his chances with a third-round 74, and George Knudson, recent winner of individual honors in the Canada Cup, who was one of the early round leaders but had 73-75 in the last two rounds.

Arnie, with his clutch putt, took down $21,000 for first-place money. Dickenson, who hasn't won on this year's tour, received $13,000, and George Archer, the towering Californian, took third place and $8,000 prize money. One of the Hebert brothers, Lionel, and first-round leader, two-time U. S. Open champ Julius Boros, were tied for fourth place. Each received $5,150. Doug Sanders was all alone in sixth place with 279, and got a $4,300 check.

Tied for seventh were Bert Yancey, Jacky Cupit, Al Gieberger and the unpredictable Tommy Bolt, whose middle rounds were 66 and 68, but who had a first-round 74 and a last-round 73, for 280. Each four-under-par totals.

Jimmy Demaret, co-host pro, who owns the championship course along with Jackie Burke, finished well down the list with a five-over 289, still quite respectable for Jimmy's age bracket.

Billy Casper's $1,197, in keeping pace with Nicklaus for this tournament, won the leading money-winner's spot, outdistancing Jack by approximately $10,500.

Billy now has $121,945 official winnings, while Jackie has $111,419. Arnie Palmer was third with $110,468; and if he plays in the Cajon Classic, might well pass his playing partner in the P.G.A. Doubles and the Canada Cup.

However, I doubt if Palmer will take in the Cajon, where first money is "only" $4,000.

While the men were fighting it out at Houston, the pro-ettes were going at it at Waco, Texas, in the tournament known as the Success Open Women's Golf Tournament.

Clifford Ann Creed won with 207 for the 54-hole tourney, which gave her a three-stroke lead over Sanda Haynie and Sue Maxwell, who had 210's and received $1,100 each.

Clifford Ann got $1,500 for her first-place finish, and Kathy Whitworth, the Ladies' P.G.A. leading money winner for 1965, and now for this 1966 year, finished in a tie for fourth place, with Shirley Englehorn. Each had 211 and each received $737.

Mickey Wright didn't show in the first thirteen winners.

Clifford Ann's winning money put her over the $20,000 mark for the year.

Chi-Chi Rodriguez, in Tokyo for the Canada Cup, says that the first day he asked his caddie for a sand wedge, the cute little trick ran off and came back with a peanut butter and jelly sandwich.

The young lady must have read something about Al Geiberger.

One player felt so sorry for his bag toter he was going to carry his own bag, but after the first practice round thought she was stronger than the players.

And most of the caddies not only teed up the balls on the practice range, were constantly cleaning the player's clubs, and the player's shoes, and when the tournament was over, gave the players a gift.

The gallery averaged 10,000 daily.

Youth Hockey Ice Problem

Don't forget the first session of the Winchester Youth Hockey program starts Sunday morning November 27, from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. at the M.D.C. Rink, Merford, ice permitting.

Applications are still being accepted.

Be sure to check whether there is ice, as the compressor was being repaired and ice being put in this week.

Do not call the director or any of the coaches inquiring about ice conditions. Call the M.D.C. Rink, 395-9700, or the M.D.C. police station, Wellington Circle, Medford.

Even In Bermuda

DOT AND ART HILLS of 34 Cabot Street, stars of the local as well as the Longwood Courts, were in Bermuda recently, where they took part in the Coral Beach Club Invitation Championships. Art was defeated in the semi-finals of the men's doubles, losing to the eventual winners. Dot, with Kay Hubbell of Conway, N. H., won the ladies' doubles. Bob and Betty Ann Pritchard of 53 Salisbury Street also participated in the tournament.

Invitational Hockey Jamboree Exhibition

Thirty High School hockey teams from communities ranging from Brockton to Reading will participate in the First Invitational Hockeytown Exhibition and Jamboree to be held on Saturday, November 26, and Saturday, December 3.

The event will be held at Hockeytown, U.S.A. in Melrose and will help commemorate the first anniversary observance of the popular ice skating facility.

In the first game which gets underway at 1:15 on the 26th, Marblehead Jrs., a member of the North-east Conference (North Shore League) will meet Archbishop Williams Jrs. in a Jamboree.

Others on the schedule include: Charlie Kirk's Wakefield (Middlesex League) team versus Revere (Metropolitan League) in a Jamboree at 2:15. In a Jamboree, Reading (Middlesex League) will take on Jack Cuniff's Gloucester (Essex Division) team at 3:15.

At 4:45, Don Salvucci's Brockton squad of the South Shore League will challenge Quincy in a Jamboree. Canton High (South Shore League) led by former Melrose great, Russ Kidd, will meet Everett High at 5:45 in a Jamboree. Christopher Columbus (Metropolitan League) will face off against Steve Powers' Winchester High team (Middlesex League) in a Jamboree at 6:45.

Two big games are on tap with Melrose meeting Archbishop Williams (South Shore League) in a Jamboree and Malden of the Metropolitan League and Malden Catholic of the North Eastern Conference clashing in a Jamboree. Game times are 7:45 and 8:45 respectively.

Action on Saturday, December 3, gets underway at 2:15 at Hockeytown with Revere challenging Masconomet of the Merrimack Valley League; Framingham South takes on Jake Crowley's Malden High; Beverly meets Bedford; Matignon goes against Reading in a game; Melrose plays Medford in a game; In the feature, Malden Catholic and Catholic Memorial meet; and Woburn faces off against Winchester. The public is invited to attend.

Nat'l Pop Warner Bowl Game Held In Stoneham Sat.

The Stoneham Spartans have been selected to host a National bee selected to host a National Pop Pop Warner Bowl Game in Stoneham Saturday, November 26, at Recreation Park. The team selected to play the Stoneham Spartans is from Souderton, Penn. Also playing in this bowl game will be the Newton Pee Wee team against the Pee Wee Team from Souderton, Penn.

Over 70 boys and 15 cheerleaders from Souderton will be arriving by bus in Stoneham Thanksgiving evening. They will be staying at local homes in Stoneham. The parents and fans from Souderton will be staying at the Lord Wakefield Motel.

Souderton has for the past three years played in the Army-Navy Bowl in Philadelphia and has a record of 35 wins and 0 losses in the past five years. Many Pop Warner teams from all over the state will be on hand to see this game. Stoneham's record this year is 7 wins, 1 loss, plus 1 tie. Starting time is 12:00 Saturday, November 26, at Recreation Park in Stoneham.

75 Attend Bike Rally

Young Cyclists Run Course

Safe bicycle riding skills were the subject of demonstrations and tests last Wednesday afternoon, November 16, at the Wyman School Playground where Girl Scout Troop 521 sponsored a bicycle rally for Junior Girl Scouts of the area.

With the assistance of Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton of the Winchester Police Department and Clement Landry, custodian of Wyman School, a series of three simulated road patterns, varying in complexity, were chalked on the playground. Approximately 75 participating Girl Scouts rode their bicycles over the course and were scored for their ability to ride and signal correctly for the various situations. In addition, each rider was ranked according to the safe condition of her bicycle.

The Safe Bicycle Skill Test used is one devised by the Massachusetts Safety Council. It has been used throughout the state as an effective means of encouraging safe bicycle riding.

In spite of the overcast sky and low temperatures, the activities drew many interested onlookers, some of whom also rode through the bicycle courses.

Preceding the tests, Officer Beaton spoke briefly to the group about the importance of bike safety, urging the girls to use particular care in the congested areas in the center of town as well as at night or at dusk.

Troop leaders and mothers served as judges of the various tests. Among these were Mrs. Paul Fitzgerald, Mrs. Edward Costello and Mrs. Richard Kramer of Troop 501; Mrs. Chester Fox of Troop 484; Mrs. Percy Hill of Troop 485; and from the sponsoring Troop 521 were Mrs. Robert Lix, Mrs. William German, Mrs. Ronald Stillman, Mrs. Edward McDavitt, Mrs. Donald Searles, and Mrs. Lane McGovern.

Members of Troop 521 completing work on their Community Safety Badges served as hostesses, checkers and demonstrating riders. These were: Marie Casey, Beverly Cade, Janet Chelman, Dorothy Clark, Lisa Fitzgerald, Jill Hallisey, Robyn German, Denise O'Toole, Nancy Stillman, Suzanne Quigley, Karen Tesar and Debra Yavner.

Other members of Troop 521 who were completing work on their Cyclist Badges were: Patricia Kaufmann, Anita Lucey, Vicki Haag, Paige Vincent, Andrea Sweidler, Nancy McDavitt, Janny Dillon, Patty Annino, Betty McDavitt, Sara McGovern, Pamela Searles, Susan Lix, and Maureen Conroy.

WCC Jr. Curlers Kick off Season

A "kick-off" coke party attended by 40 boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 18 on Friday afternoon, November 18, opened the Junior curling season at the Winchester Country Club.

Chairmen of junior curling, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerould introduced their co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Heindel, and after a short welcome from Mr. and Mrs. Clifton McNeill, chairmen of mixed curling, the group moved to the curling building.

Two rinks of seasoned curlers gave a demonstration of curling under the able direction of Bradford Bentley, who talked to the group in the "warm room" during the exhibition about rules, etiquette and general procedure.

After this the group took to the ice—the new curlers to learn how to "deliver the stone," the others to get back into the swing with some practice.

There will be another practice session for the group on December 1 and 2, and the first round robin will commence December 8 and 9.

It was an enthusiastic group, and one that will have a great deal of fun participating in the sport of curling over the winter season. Not only are they looking forward to curling themselves, they are eager to take advantage of a rare opportunity this coming March - to watch the top notch curling during the United States Men's Curling Association Championship which the Winchester Country Club has the privilege of hosting this year. There will be rinks from Alaska, California and every district in the United States which participates in this sport.

Visitors From Citadel to WHS

Cadet David Owen Bird, a former resident and son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Bird of Bradford, N.H., and Cadet Earl Bennette Benson, Jr., of Marietta, Ga., visited Winchester High School Saturday. While here they discussed with interested students the advantages of attending The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina.

Cadet Bird, a senior at The Citadel, holds the rank of captain within the Corps of Cadets. He was graduated from Winchester High School in 1963. A history major at the military college, Bird holds the office of vice president of the Association of the United States Army, vice president of the History Club, and is a member of the Block "C" Club. Recently, he received the coveted designation of Distinguished Military Student, and is enrolled in the Army ROTC Program.

The Daisies took 6 points from the Petunias this week. Did you see those Fiore gals bowl? Peggy bowled a 297 and Cusi bowled 302. Nice bowling girls!

Violets took all 8 points from the Pansies. This was a pretty close match. Cynthia of the Violets was high with 283 and Florence of the Pansies was high with 265.

First place Carnations took all 8 points from the Roses. Emily Buzzotta was high with 280 for the Carnations and high for the Roses was Rose DeTeso with 275.

Gardenias took all 8 points from the Daffodils and this keeps them in second place. Glad to see Emma back in action. She bowled high with 272.

Battling for last place, the Tulips and Buttercups split 8 points this week. Betty bowled high with 318 and Margie bowled high with 297.

Early Birds

Three of our girls received gifts last week appropriate for the coming holiday. Irene Frey was awarded a gift certificate from the Winchester Meat Market for bowling three strings closest to her average. Mahoneys gift certificate went to Pinky Samoiloff for bowling the most pins above her average for one string.

Schotzie Whatley was the lucky one on the drawing and won several bags of stuffing. Also, one girl from each team bowling the closest number of pins to her average for three strings received a can of cranberry sauce.

Pinky Samoiloff is now a member of the 200 club and bowled a 502 for her three games. Nan Thomas bowled a 210 and 546 for three games. Peggy Favorat came up with a 189 and a 490 for three strings.

Ten weeks, and we stil do not have a three striker. How long do we have to wait before some one does the honors?

The Richard boys are still leading the league in the individual department. And the Bears are still there in the team department. For a change, I am going to list the teams at the bottom of the list. After hearing some rumors about discrimination towards these people. I though I would show no favorites this week.

Brownies Become Ready Helpers

Because Brownie Girl Scouts are second and third grade girls, they are considered too young to fully understand the Girl Scout Laws. Instead, the Three B's are the basis of a girls "Brownie Life" Be a Friend Maker, Be Ready Helpers and Be a Discoverer.

In order to Be a Ready Helper they are encouraged to help around their own house, Their leaders point out ways they can lend a hand to all around them. And as small as they are they are shown that they can perform a service for their community.

For several years now making holiday favors for the patients trays at the Winchester Hospital has been a Brownie service project with the troops taking turns covering each holiday.

Last month under the guidance of Mrs. George Vrotsos Troop 523 of the Parkhurst School completed 80 Spooks and Goblins for the trays at Halloween. They were white creatures made from egg cartons with scary faces and wiggly arms.

During the past weeks, Brownie Troop 467 of the Noonan School has been busily making 40 Thanksgiving corsages out of pine cones, dried milkweed pods and lace doilies.

And over at the Wyman School Brownie Troop 520 under Mrs. MurrayYavner has made eighty black Pilgrim hats with white buckles for the trays on Thanksgiving Day.

We hope the patients enjoy these favors as much as the girls enjoyed making them.

WHY PAY FOR HORSEPOWER YOU DON'T NEED?
Efficient Rotary Fan Design Means that the 3 HP Jari Out-performs High-Speed Blowers with Much Higher Horsepower—
The Jari self-propelled 2-way Snowthrower has a rotary fan speed of only 500 rpm. It is more efficient than high speed blowers which require more power. And lower horsepower requirement means Jari costs less.
So buy performance, not horsepower. And Jari's performance has been proved by 14 years of successful operation.

Houston Firm Retained to Study Stadium Complex

The Houston firm of Lloyd, Morgan and Jones, which designed the Astrodome, has been retained as architectural consultants for the Commonwealth Stadium Associates, it was announced today by the Jerome O'Leary Advertising agency.

Herman Lloyd, senior partner of the Houston corporation inspected C.S.A.'s proposed site on the outskirts of Boston last week. He will work with the Boston engineering and architectural firm of Whitman and Howard, Inc. Under the direction of Edwin M. Howard, Whitman and Howard took borings on the site last summer and found it satisfactory for the erection of a stadium complex.

Howard and Lloyd have already had several meetings, both here and in Houston, and Lloyd will return to Boston for more conferences in the near future.

The O'Leary agency also announced that Hemphill Noyes-Hornblower and Weeks will be financial consultants for C.S.A and Choate, Hall and Stewart the legal consultants.

All parties have been working closely together for the past five months, under the direction of executive committee consisting of William A. Lincoln, Boston attorney, F.C. (Buck) Dumaine, Jr., president of Amoskeag Company, and Dom DiMaggio, former Red Sox star and president of American Latex Corporation.

C.S.A., which first announced its preliminary plans last June, proposes to build a 50-million-dollar stadium complex to fill a vital Boston need. All the Boston professional teams except the Bruins, who are committed to the Boston Garden, are seeking better facilities than they now have.

The developer for C.S.A. is Stephen A. Hopkins, Boston realtor. Public relations is being handled by Jerome O'Leary and Co., Inc.

Further announcements of progress will be forthcoming in the near future.

The ALA says it's better to get plastered at home than all over the road.

TOO LATE FOR THANKSGIVING

But we probably could arrange to have your family in this house for the Christmas holidays.

The living room has a fireplace to hang the stockings. The dining room is holiday size. A lav. on the first floor. Six bedrooms and three baths, plenty of room to put up your visiting relatives (better call them before they make other plans). There is a two-car garage, just right for all the new Christmas bicycles, outdoor furniture, etc. You won't need a second car anyway, because it's so close to town the family can walk to do their shopping. A half-acre of level land for an ice-skating rink. It's easy to build and lots of fun.

Well, here's one family gift you can check off your list.

WVNA Reports on Medicare Impact; Dr. Ropes on Treatment of Arthritis

The November meeting of the Winchester Visiting Nursing Association was held on Friday, November 18 in the Michelsen Room of the Unitarian Church, the president, Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson presiding.

Present at the meeting was Mrs. Francis Kramer who is spending one day a week in Winchester. She joins the agency as a social worker offering this additional service to the community under the requirements of Medicare. Mrs. Kramer, a graduate of Simmons College and Simmons School of Social Work, has worked widely in the field, her recent experience having been at the Harvard Medical School and the New England Medical Center.

Miss Margaret Schmidt, acting director of WVNA, reported a sharp increase in the nursing care load as Medicare has become available to the public. If the demand continues, additional nursing hours will require an enlarged nursing staff, she said. Pleased with the school nursing program, the principals have indicated that the schools would like more nursing services if the school budget would allow this extra cost. The agency is still without a director, a major concern to all,. but efforts are continuing to fill this important post.

The speaker of the morning was Dr. Marian W. Ropes (Mrs. Andrew B. Fielding of 12 Lawrence Street,) associate professor of clinical medicine at Harvard Medical School and a member of the staff at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. Ropes, a graduate of Smith College and Johns Hopkins Medical School, is a specialist in arthritic diseases.

Fifty years ago, she said, nothing was known about arthritis. Whereas then, there were only 12 doctors in the entire country who were interested in the field, today there are 2000 doctors in the rheumatic association set up for the treatment of arthritis. Private and public support for research directed at the cause and prevention of rheumatic diseases has continually increased. Many young doctors are going into such research, and graduate doctors are returning to medical school for courses in this area. In Massachusetts there are 25 clinics and two state hospitals for special treatment, the Lemuel Shattuck Hospital in Boston and Lakeville Hospital at Lakeville. Of tremendous importance is the Arthritis Foundation, which has become the sole national voluntary health agency directing programs of research and patient care to combat rheumatic diseases.

Yet despite all this research and the greater understanding of arthritis, the disease has not been conquered nor is there a specific cure. Whether the disease is a disturbance in immunity or the result of infection is still an unanswered question. No responsible virus has yet been identified.

Although arthritis occurs in many different forms, the commonest type is rheumatoid arthritis, and Dr. Ropes directed her discussion to this phase of the disease. Rheumatoid arthritis occurs at all ages, being encountered in children, adults, and in the aged, she said. Though it cannot yet be cured, treatment is generally satisfactory. If the patient seeks help at the very first warning signs, such as pain and swelling of the joints, much can be done to curb the progress of the disease.

Dr. Ropes believes that rest is essential. Complete, round the clock bed rest at first, later regular intervals of rest during the day, will speed recovery. Emotional stress must be alleviated, and any problems involving the patient discussed and solved, if possible, so that the mind is relaxed and emotional fatigue avoided. Regular exercises involving complete motion of the joints are necessary, and physical therapy is helpful. Most important, too, the patient must have the desire to get well.

Over the years many drugs have been used with varying success, some dropped, others retained, but aspirin taken under the doctor's recommended dosage remains the most satisfactory medication for the control of pain and can be used indefinitely for effective relief, according to Dr. Ropes.

Despite there being no cure, arthritis is a reversible disease, Dr. Ropes strongly affirmed. With the new knowledge, understanding, and treatment available today, no case is hopeless, and few people need to be crippled.

Upon request for those interested, good information for the layman can be obtained by writing the Arthritis Foundation in Boston.

Centerpieces For Holidays Detailed For Garden Club

The members of the Winchester Garden Club were fortunate in having a beautiful Indian Summer day for their November meeting held at the attractive home of Mrs. Richard Harlow on Swan Road. Mrs. Alexander Aitken and Mrs. Percy Bugbee poured during the refreshment interlude which included a delicious dessert and coffee.

The president, Mrs. Rowland Patrick, welcomed members and guests, after which a business meeting was held, including a reminder to bring to the Christmas meeting their gifts for children at the Metropolitan State Hospital, aged five to fifteen.

Mrs. Aitken explained in detail the planting of shrubs and trees at the rear of the addition to the Winchester Public Library, recently completed under the auspices of the club. She described the specific plants used and the reasons for their selection. All members of the Winchester community may look forward to the development and beauty of this area in the years ahead.

At the completion of the business meeting, Mrs. Dudley Kimball, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Hollis Gray of Belmont, well-known flower arranger, speaker, teacher, and a long-time friend of the club, whom members always welcome with anticipation and pleasure.

She presented ten original arrangements to be used as "Table Designs for Thanksgiving and Christmas," urging each member to use any antique or unusual accessory she might possess, grouped and arranged with greens, fruits, flowers and candles. She made the following suggestions as a general approach to achieving a festive table setting: first, determine the mood of the occasion, whether it is to be formal or informal; next, decide what room and what colors are to be used, then to achieve a feeling of continuity, the choice of flowers should be related to the color and pattern of the tableware. Mrs. Gray provided several specific examples, among which was one for a Thanksgiving buffet, arranged on a polished marble piece, using a large gold candle and a pair of ceramic pheasants, osage oranges (green) and bunches of grapes made from acorns. Into this design she added large rust and gold chrysanthemums in a linear arrangement.

Much admired by all was the attractive Thanksgiving design in the form of a fruit wreath which was placed on a pewter charger. This was made by using a wire frame, filled with oasis which held fresh fruit and greens, including crab apples, pears, grapes and ivy. The fruit had been made especially attractive by being treated with a thin lustrous coating of an edible oil. This treatment is said to aid in preserving the fruit for a longer period.

For a formal tea party, Mrs. Gray brought an antique white and gold compote in which she used for background, asparagus springeri fern and boxwood to which she added gold and apricot chrysanthemyms and full-blown similarly bicolored roses. She added a few white chrysanthemums to illustrate the desirability of repeating in the flowers the predominating color or tone of the container in order to give the arrangement a feeling of harmony.

Also for Thanksgiving was an arrangement which included a pair of antique Pilgrim figurines used as a focal point, and beside which were placed two large candles, one blue and one amethyst. Rose chrysanthemums, deep purple anemones and dark rosy pomegranates repeated the monochromatic color scheme.

Among the Christmas designs was a large antique epergne type container, with glittering asparagus springeri fern, boxwood and red alder berries. To this Mrs. Gray added red baccara roses; a small, full, and recently developed hybrid tea-rose.

The speaker arranged a large silver candalabra, in which had been inverted a glass epergnette, which she filled with silvered ferns, boxwood and miniature red carnations. This arrangement with red or white candles could be varied and used at any season of the year.

Mrs. Gray arranged a beautiful Canton open-work fruit dish, using white chrysanthemums, white sweetheart roses, boxwood and deep blue statice to carry out the blue and white of the container. For added interest, a pair of white Hummel candlesticks, in the form of angels, was placed on either side of the fruit dish.

The closing presentation was a charming cluster of miniature oil lamps, all aglow, surrounded by pink sweetheart roses and boxwood, arranged on an antique pedestal-type cake dish.

Mrs. Gray's ingenuity and artistic expression combining subtle and varied color combinations in conjunction with a sense of texture and scale, gave each member and guest a sense of having viewed a gifted artist at work, and provided an afternoon of pleasant memories for all.

Planning December Bazaar

THE MEDICAL MISSIONARIES OF MARY Bazaar Committee included men from the area who have been helping the sisters to look to the local annual Christmas bazaar scheduled for Saturday, December 3, at 1 Arlington Street. Left to righ are Thomas Foley of Medford, Harold Wolf of Winchester, Sister M. Veronica, Lieut. Bernard Stygles of Winchester, John Coulter of Lowell, Mother M. Helena, M.M.M., superior of sisters in Winchester, Patrick Doherty of Winchester and Anthony Hume of Needham.

Christian Holiday Customs for MMM Guild; Fair Soon

At the Medical Missionaries of Mary Guild meeting, to be held on Sunday, November 27, at three o'clock in the Hall at 1 Arlington Street, the members will be priviledged to hear a noted scholar speak on the Christian customs of the Advent Season.

Father Francis X. Weiser, native Austrian, who has this year marked his golden Jubilee in the Society of Jesus, is a leading authority on Christian customs, and author of: The Christmas Book; Handbook of Christian Feasts and Customs; Holiday Book; and The Holyland Book. Attached to the teaching staff of Boston College for many years, Father Weiser has recently returned from a visit to the North European countries and to his homeland, Austria, and has resumed his teaching and lecturing schedules.

Father Weiser's lecture will be preceded by a brief last-minute exposition of the plans for the M.M.M. Christmas Bazaar, scheduled to be held the following Saturday, December 3, and at the close of the talk, a social hour will ensue at which refreshments will be served. The meeting will close with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the Convent Chapel.

All Guild members may invite guests to this meeting, and others are welcome to attend, but requested to notify the Convent in advance because of the limited seating capacity.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

What happens when a big fire strikes? How do the businesses affected make out? The National Fire Protection Assn. made a study of the business owners involved in a fire that occurred in a small New York town in 1965. The study, just published, makes interesting reading.

The owner of a coffee shop was only 30% insured. All the fixtures and stock were destroyed in the fire, as well as the business records and $800 in cash. The coffee shop was put out of business permanently because the owner lacked funds to start again.

A jeweler in the same building was put out of business. He explained that before the fire he had been so busy trying to make a living that he hadn't stopped to consider how much his inventory had grown beyond his insurance.

The elderly owner of a shoe store was hard hit and forced out of business too. He had only 40% coverage and the store was totally destroyed. He said: "We now have to depend on Social Security checks, as there is no other income. After a lifetime of scrimping and saving, we have nothing else to fall back on."

All of these tragedies could have been prevented by Adequate INSURANCE.

May we review your protection program?

Library Film Program

There will be no film program this weekend, November 25 and 26, due to the Thanksgiving recess.

Please note well. On Family nights - Friday at 7:30 p.m.—children must be accompanied by an adult throughout the entire program. The Saturday morning programs at 10:15 are for school age children only. Please do not send preschoolers with older children! These restrictions are vital to a successful program.

Duplicate Bridge Club

The ladies daytime duplicate was its usual happy affair this week. Meetings are the first and third Mondays; call Jane Renz, 729-8327, if you're interested in playing. Top scorers were Mary Smith and Sally Lix, Jo Collier and Shirley Black, Clara Wisbach and G. Carr, Ginny Suneson and Sybil Irwin, Nancy Atkinson and Jane Renz.

On masterpoint night, November 16th, Section A's eleven tables saw a tigh battle in both directions. Marian and Chet Davis came in their usual first North-South with our new Hampshire club representatives, Irene and Carl Sittinger, right behind them. And East-West four of our favorite gentlemen players were right up there, with Galante and Steve Haseltine barely edging out Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward. Average was 110.

North-South
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	132½
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sittinger	130
William Wheelock and Tom Young	120
Jock Olmstead and Clarence Woodward	112
East-West
Carl Galante and Steve Haseltine	131
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	130½
Ruby White and Greta Hawley	122½
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith	117½
Polly Whelock and Gerry Barrett	111½
Donna Redpath and Fredna Perkins	111
Colonel and Mrs. James Ryan	110½

In Section B a tandem paired up at the door was way out in front. Sally Lix, who showed her mettle with different partners as the champion of summer series, adjusted her gait to that of Leo Gonsalves, and they galloped home easily the winners.

Average was 54 North-South and 63 East-West.

North-South
Sally Lix and Leo Gonsalves	69½
Anna Hansen and Edward Sullivan	64
Don Dalrymple and Darrell Root	56½
Eileen Brennan and Leonora Carty	52½
Norman Houlding and Lawrence Hayes	52
East-West
John Reardon and Robert Prevoir	70½
Joseph Scarpaci and Alan Leland	69½
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade	68½
David Littleton and Stephen Root	65½
Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson	64½
Barbara Shea and Margaret Jackson	63½

"Fortune will smile on the bold and the brave on this wild distribution deal. Unless East opens a weak two hearts, South will start the auction with one club, and West will probably overcall one diamond. North, who will no doubt be wondering where the heart suit is, should blast into four spades, since it's clear his side doesn't have it. In most cases this will end the auction; East's heart suit is too anemic for a competitive bid at the five-level. Those East-West pairs using weak two-bids will be in a much better position to find the excellent sacrifice. Five hearts may be doubled for down one, but more often North-South will continue to five spades which goes for a trick if East gets a diamond ruff. Although both sides can make game, a small plus score in either direction may be worth an inordinate amount of matchpoints.

Editor's note: For the benefit of those unfamiliar with the weak two-bid mentioned above, some players, reasoning that you don't get the blockbusting type of two-bid very often, use a two-bid in any suit but clubs to indicate a six-card suit and under an opening bid,—from six to twelve high card points. The bid has good pre-emptive value and as in this hand finds the best suit for a sacrifice.

These same hands were played in many localities, and in one, East opened with the weak two hearts, South hesitated and then passed. Result—a top for East-West making four hearts.

Moral: it is difficult to come in at the three-level, and you may as well make life difficult for the opponents.

Japanese Science Education Center

Local retraining of elementary and high school science teachers in Japan is set up on a formal required basis, but teachers are released from classes for short courses lasting from a week to a semester to attend "science education centers." The local school system pays most of the costs, and the emphasis in every course is on the acquisition of special skills and methods of science teaching and on updating the teacher's knowledge of the subject matter. H. Bentley Glass, academic vice president, State University of New York at Stony Brook, writes in the October 14 issue of science about his recent visits to six of these centers.

Programs were established through the far-sighted vision of the local teachers, school administrators, and boards of education, not by order of the National Ministry of Education.

Centers are operated by trained scientists and experienced school teachers who work together to devise programs to suit needs of local teachers. Glass says that the vitality of the science education centers springs largely from their close relation to local schools and from their permanent staffs. U.S. education would profit, continues Glass, if we were to establish science education centers modeled on the Japanese prototype.

On Penguin Navigation

A penguin waddled over the sunny Antarctic horizon and rushed straight past a group of scientists who had released the bird half an hour before.

Farther on the penguin stopped, then began running a confused, broken field pattern. Clouds had covered the sun, and without the sun the penguin was adrift on the ice without a rudder.

University of Wisconsin zoologists followed the wanderings of this and other penguins on two trips to Antarctica in the "summers" (November to February) of 1962-63 and 1964-65.

Penguins which have been released on land far from their homes are able to chart a straight-line course to the sea. They are then able to find their way back to their breeding grounds, located along the seacoast. Even the wandering birds who become confused when the sun goes behind a cloud manage to straighten their courses when the sun reappears.

The researchers believe that the ability of this type of bird to travel in a straight line over hundreds of miles of featureless snow and ice depends on a biological "clock" and "compass" working in combination.

The "biological clock," an internal mechanism in animals which, for example, is able to wake a person minutes before his alarm clock goes off, has not yet been explained by scientists. The "biological compass," however, seems dependent on the sun, at least in penguins. The "compasses" of some other birds seem to depend on the stars.

The sun is the logical reference for the penguin's "compass" since it is above the horizon 24 hours a day during the Antarctic summer.

It is hoped that the study of penguins will help answer the questions of how birds like pigeons and other animals like fish, turtles, and seals manage to return to their same breeding grounds year after year.

Eventually, small radio transmitters may be attached to homing animals and their wanderings followed by satellites orbiting overhead.

Until then, penguins seem to be among the best subjects of homing studies. The black-backed penguins released on the snow and ice are easy to follow over the relatively flat Antarctic surface. The flightless penquins are abundant and easily captured and have strong homing ability.

Charles Theatre Musicals For All the Children

An original musical version of Hans Christian Andersen's classic tale "The Emperor's New Clothes" continues at the Charles Playhouse Musical Theatre For Children through Saturday, November 26.

Performances are held every Saturday at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. with a special performance on Friday, November 25 at 11 a.m. The 2 p.m. performance on the 25th has been booked by Action For Boston Community Development.

The season of original children's musicals, performed by a professional company, will also include: "Peter And The Wolf," "The Rose And The Ring" and "Alice In Wonderland." Season subscriptions are still available for all four productions.

Full house bookings and theatre parties are now being accepted for the special Christmas Repertory Week, Monday, December 26 through Saturday, December 31. "The Emperor's New Clothes" will alternate with "Peter And The Wolf," next production opening at the Musical Theatre For Children on December 3. Further information may be obtained by calling or writing the Charles Playhouse at 276 Tremont Street, Boston, HU 2-4850.

Pass Right O.K. On Mass. Pike

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority has amended its regulations to permit passing on the right on the Massachusetts Turnpike in conformity with the recently enacted statute authorizing such passing on state highways.

A CHANCE TO HELP

Many elderly and infirm persons, as well as those with small children and limited incomes, need help at Christmas if this holiday is to be a happy occasion in accordance with the American tradition.

To help our less fortunate Winchester friends during the holiday season, gifts of money, food and clothing are earnestly solicited.

Gifts may be sent to the Winchester Community Relief Committee.

With Mrs. Knowles are, from left, Mrs. Loring Thompson, 17 Nassau Drive; Mrs. Guy A. Petralia, 16 Indian Hill Road; and Mrs. Warren H. Teichner, 5 Swan Road, all of Winchester.

Stephen Downes On CRB Program

Stephen Downes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downes of 53 Emerson Road, was recently heard over WCRB's "Point At Issue" program.

A member of the Belmont Hill School panel which presented the topic "Future of the Atlantic Alliance," he was commended along with his co-panelists, for a very superior job. The program has been initiated by the station as a secondary school panel program on news analysis, running Sunday Afternoons from 2:00 to 2:30.

Stephen, a senior at Belmont Hill, was recently a recipient of a letter of Commendation for his high performance or the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Stoneham to Start Basic Education Adult Program

Winchester residents are eligible to participate in an Adult Basic Education program to be conducted by the Stoneham Public Schools. This special program is directed to all American citizens over 18 years of age who have not completed six years of school.

It will provide an opportunity to improve reading, writing and language skills through the eighth grade. Successful completion of the program will qualify the individual for admission to an evening high school program and the opportunity to acquire a high school diploma.

Classes will be held at the Stoneham High School on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., and will be conducted by experienced, certified teachers.

The project will be financed almost entirely by federal funds, with the School Department providing housing and utilities

Anyone who wishes to acquire the very important basic skills on which to build their future, should sign up for the program on Tuesday, November 29—the first Tuesday after Thanksgiving—at the Stoneham High School at 6:30 p.m.

Xmas Decorations Are Delight To Home and Garden

The November 16 meeting of the Winchester Home and Garden Club was "wreathed" in early Christmas spirit.

Members and their guests bought ingredients in a special sale to trim their wreaths and make other decorations. Tickets were put on sale for the December 7th Yuletide Fun Fest, and chances, to be drawn at this fair on a lovely area rug donated by Mr. Michael Boodakian were sold to interested members. The tea table, decorated with an exquisite cone centerpiece by Mrs. George Lemay, offered tasty slices of cake and steaming coffee to hungry members.

The business meeting included two important announcements. Mrs. George McFadden told members the next meeting of the Horticulture Workshop will be at Mrs. Granville Gilpatrick's house on November 28 at 10 a.m. Mrs. Alexander Aitken reminded those attending the next meeting of the Landscape Design Course will be at Mrs. Edward Mansfield's house on January 10 at 1:30 p.m.

The audience then settled down to receive a wealth of decorating ideas as Mrs. Henry Delaney, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Alvin Helme, the speaker. Mrs. Helme reminded the audience that everyone was a decorator at Christmas as she brought out a series of beautifully decorated wreaths, candle holders, trees and swags.

Mrs. Helme included several unusual shapes in her wreath making. Among these were an elongated star, an oval and a diamond shaped wreath. Many of the wreaths, exclusively made with natural dried materials, were coupled with matching candle holders and swags. The religious dimension of Christmas was emphasized by two lovely arrangements, one named "The Star of Wonder," of cones and leaves in a star shape, and the other a madonna surrounded with gold cones and leaves. Mrs. Helme concluded her lecture by telling members "Let all your house say Merry Christmas."

McCall New Oregon Governor, Grandson Of Local Gov. McCall

New Governor From Prominent Winchester Family

Tom McCall, the grandson of former Massachusetts Governor Samuel W. McCall and a prominent figure in the Winchester of the 1890's and early part of this century, was in November's election elected the new Republican Governor of the State of Oregon.

With a margin of over 69,000 votes, young Mr. McCall, previously serving as Oregon's Secretary of State, defeated the Democratic challenger, State Treasurer Robert Straub, by a 356,131 latest return vote lead victory over his rival's 286,923 votes.

The Republican victor was previously elected Oregon's Secretary of State two years ago, and had the initial advantage of greater voter recognition than his opponent because he had been a television commentator prior to entering the political arena. In the gubernatorial race, Mr. McCall strategically avoided televised debates with his rival, who was seeking wider public exposure.

Mr. McCall's grandfather, Samuel W. McCall, was editor of the Boston Advertiser Newspaper when he came to live in Winchester in the early 1880's. His first home was on Washington Street near the corner of Swanton Street, then at the corner of Washington Street and Park Avenue; and then in 1902 he built the large and beautiful house that crowns Myopia Hill, on the bluff overlooking Cambridge Street and the Mystic Lakes by the Boat Club.

Mr. McCall was a Dartmouth graduate and a lawyer, but by choice and aptitude became a publicist through his editorship of the Boston Advertiser, and then a public man as one of the most eminent political figures who ever lived in Winchester.

In 1887 and again in 1888 Winchester voters sent Mr. McCall to the General Court as their representative. After his service in the Massachusetts Legislature, he was sent to Congress, where he succeeded the Honorable Henry Cabot Lodge and served in the House of Representatives for twenty years. There he was recognized as one of the ablest and most independent Republican members.

When he left Washington, Mr. McCall returned to Beacon Hill as Governor of the Commonwealth, and served for three terms—one of the few Governor's to serve such a lengthy tenure in office—and then retired from political life in 1919.

Samuel W. McCall was Winchester's first Governor of the Commonwealth, and the last to serve a four-year term in the state before this year. This year, Governor John A. Volpe of 10 Everett Avenue was re-elected to a third term in office (the only other to be elected to three terms was Leverett Saltonstall), and became the first Governor in the intervening 46 years since Gov. McCall left the State House to be elected to a four-year term.

Winchester had another Governor, Gov. Charles N. Harris, and now adds out-of-state Governor Tom McCall to its list of notable political natives—making at present two Winchester men Governors of two of the 50 states, Massachusetts on the Atlantic and Oregon on the Pacific side.

Full Complement On Conservation Commission Now

For the first time since its creation by the Town Meeting in March of 1964, the Winchester Conservation Commission reached its full complement of seven members with two recent appointments.

David Turnquist of 15 Stone Avenue, and Philip P. Wadsworth of 66 Oxford Street, now join Mrs. Ellis Green of 7 Ravenscroft Road, Miss Corinne Mead of 8 Andrews Road, Kendall H. Spencer of 7 Inverness Road, and Warren C. Whitman on the commission, according to chairman Malcolm H. Masters of 3 Ginn Road.

The Conservation Commission also has 13 associate members whose knowledge and interests in the conservation field will be of advantage to the commission in its work, and serve the town's benefit, Mr. Masters notes.

The associate members include Mrs. Alexander P. Aitken, Albert E. Boyer, Richard M. Cantillon, Maurice T. Freeman, Don S. Greer, Dr. R. Bruce Hanes, Mrs. Malcolm H. Masters, Mrs. Fern E. Meyer, Percival A. Smith, Mrs. Richard R. Thuma, Jr., Mrs. Warburton Ver Planck, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Woodward and Vincent Farnsworth, Jr.

The Conservation Commission was instrumental in accomplishing the town's purchasing of Smith Pond—formerly known as Cox Pond—off Ridge Street, for conservation purposes.

$70,000 Dental Office Building Being Erected

While the town's Permanent Building Committee continues its engineering studies of Shore Road Field as a possible new high school site, across the street and between the Aberjona River and the B & M Railroad tracks, Dr. Charles F. Mahoney is erecting a new two-story Colonial style dental and medical office building at 63 Shore Road.

Dr. Mahoney, 38, a resident at 47 Wildwood Street and a practicing dentist at 175 Washington Street, said the split-level $70,000 brick building will contain five suites of dental or medical offices—one of which will be for his practice, and one already scheduled for lease to another dentist.

The 50-foot long, 42-foot-wide, and 24-foot high building is due to be completed by early April. Architect is George D. Reynolds, Associates, of Arlington, and the builder D. J. Olivadoti of 6 Wendell Street in Winchester.

Site development work involved demolishing a dwelling on the lot formerly owned by Elizabeth Fitzgerald, and the clearing of ground for the foundation, done last month.

A 30-foot frontage will provide parking facilities for the dental offices located in a business zone and adjacent to town parking lots off Shore Road and Winchester Place; and, according to Dr. Mahoney, "The new building should be a real contribution to improving the appearance of the area as well as giving the community a convenient and attractive new medical building."

Mystic Glee Club Winter Concert Here

The 27th annual Winter Concert of the Mystic Glee Club of Winchester will be held on Saturday, December 10, at 8:15 p.m. in the McCall Junior High School auditorium.

The overall program will have a Christmas theme, but will also be surrounded by some well known musical show tunes and religious music, giving the evening's concert a diversified program for the audience's enjoyment.

Guest soloist will be Miss Louise J. Brown.

Fred Hill, president of the Mystic Glee Club, said earlier this week that the club welcomes every lover of men's glee club singing to the annual Winter Concert. Tickets will be available at the door and through Mr. Hill (729-4242).

The Winter Concert's program includes:

Buck Rogers Business Comes to Staid Old Winchester

National Research Corporation Opens New Consumer Product Plant Locally

By Barbara L. Powers

Moved into Winchester between a business which develops man's athletic capacities and one which urges on his mental capacities is a new multi-million dollar corporation involved in productions which help move man toward the moon. As an earthy balance, it also produces products which help swinging women keep swinging.

The National Research Corporation's year-old Metallized Products Division is settling in at 37 East Street. It is sandwiched between the Indoor Tennis Club and the University Press, publishers. It was forced to move from parent NRC headquarters at 70 Memorial Drive when it added to its space-exploration products related ones for the consumer market which are now going over big.

LESS THAN TWO OUNCES but tough, flexible, windproof and waterproof is the National Research Corporation rescue blanket, new on the national and international market and going into production this week at 37 East Street, where NRC has moved its multi-million-dollar Metalized Products Division. The disposable emergency blanket, also packaged under the Boy Scouts of America seal, was tested last year by New England ski patrols and came out with a high mark.

If the University Press dates itself back to 1639 and the first printing press brought to America, Metallized Products dates now and ahead. Buck Rogers would be at home here. Though he might have trouble picking out the place in its rather drab area of unlandscaped, look-alike brick factory buildings.

Inside, too, there is nothing visually to distinguish the 3,000 feet of panelled offices and present 12,000 for manufacturing.

On the day the Star visited, one lone "welcome to our new home" basket of chrysanthemums sat on a metal typewriting table in the front hall near a free-standing coat rack—as much as to proclaim that profusions of floral hellos for new businesses go in inverse ratio to their worth. It was noted, too, that although the business is built around the process of metallic coating of plastic materials, the desks of some of the female help sported items perhaps already considered old-fashioned: simple, unmetallized bunches of plastic flowers in plastic flower baskets.

Hhe Metallized Products Division is a division of the National Research Corporation which in turn has been a subsidiary of the Norton Company in Worcester since 1963. Norton, an industrial giant, owns an increasing number of subsidiaries in a variety of fields. The largest abrasive company in the world, its total annual sales in this area is over $265,000,000 with 12 plants in this country and 22 overseas.

Metallized Products came into being in mid-November, 1965, in order to market, manufacture and research in product areas that NRC has developed as an offshoot of its space-exploration-evolved superinsulation materials.

Town Collective Bargaining Now Moving Forward

The Board of Selectmen on Monday night moved to go ahead in bargaining negotiations with the town firefighters while waiting to hear either from the State Labor Relations Board or on the results of a Medford court case regarding what exactly should be the appropriate bargaining unit(s) for the Fire Department.

The Selectmen specifically spelled out on their part that the beginning of negotiations with the firefighters, represented now solely by the Firefighters International Union, would in no way prejudice their position that there should be two units representing the Fire Department: one for the firefighters and another for the officers. The firefighters had insisted that the International represented the whole department.

The Selectmen voted to send the officers of the Firefighters International Local an official letter of recognition for their files as a sign of good faith in future dealings with that organization here. And Selectman K. Paul Chase will make preparations in organizing a bargaining group to represent the town administration, so that preliminary negotiations won't have to wait much longer on the issue of what is the appropriate Fire Department unit(s) since the International would be one, if not the singular, unit.

In other collective bargaining news, an administrative committee consisting of Selectman Henry K. Porter, Finance Committeeman Richard Dexter, and Myles Weaver and David Choate from the Personnel Board, assisted by counsel Mark Gallagher, has had four meetings already on negotiations with the Town Employees Association.

Representing the Town Employees Association are Frank Holland, William Carroll, and Jake Horn, assisted by counsel Arthur L. Johns.

As the town engages in collective bargaining with municipal employees this year for the first time under new state statute, both the town administration and the various employee groups are moving ahead to negotiations with slow but sure based steps with the assistance of legal counsels.

Green Trees Add Christmas Color To Center Scene

Eleven stately balsam fir trees are newly planted on the perimeter of the traffic rotary in the Center this week as Winchester Square begins to perk up, spruce up and gear up for the onslaught of a busy Christmas Season shopping period.

The tall, graceful evergreen firs stand on the Center rotary for the first time this year, and will be adorned with colorful, cheerful lighting.

Arrangements for the innovation this year were worked out jointly by the Town Christmas Decorations Committee and the Winchester Merchants Association, and were obtained at a minimal low cost through Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery Farm on Cambridge Street.

The attractive evergreens were planted by a Park Department crew supervised by Frank Dattilo, with Larry Dattilo, Bob Fiore, Richard Tofuri and Patrick Hession assisting.

First Town Winter Carnival Planned By Recreation Comm.

Dec. 27-30: Four Days Of Community Fun, Events

Winchester's first "Winter Carnival," a four-day end of month recreation spectacular for young people in the community, is "shaping up well," according to Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney, coordinator for the event.

Mr. Spinney said earlier this week that the entire High School student body is getting behind this event in an enthusiastic way, and if that spirit is carried into the Winter Carnival, planned for Tuesday, December 27, Wednesday, December 28, Thursday, December 29, and Saturday, December 30th, the carnival should be wonderful and fun community event.

Highlights of the Winter Carnival include a snow sculpturing contest on the Common, Basketball, Hockey, and Wrestling matches with other towns here, a ski clinic and trip, a teen dance competition, and a final Carnival Dance at which a Carnival Queen will be presented and crowned.

Winchester merchants are supporting the community-wide affair with donated awards and prizes; the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees) is assisting by providing buses to bring the visiting Lynn Hockey Team here and by helping run the Dance Night Competition; the Recreation Committee and Park Department are fully behind Mr. Spinney with technical and advisory and manpower assistance; and the young people at the High School are serving on ten operating committees to help run the Winter Carnival themselves (The Winter Carnival General Committee, and the Decorations, Hospitality, Ski, Prize, Transportation, Ticket, Judging and Lighting Committees).

"Everybody's going to be doing something; and everybody should have a good time," Mr. Spinney noted enthusiastically Tuesday.

Posters heralding the Winter Carnival are being prepared by the art classes in the High School and some Senior Girl Scouts.

The present announced schedule for the Winter Carnival as noted by Mr. Spinney shows:

On Tuesday, December 27, beginning at 10 in the morning, "Snow Fun" snow sculpturing on the Common. At 2 p.m. a Skating Party at the rink by the Town Hall and, at the same time, a wrestling match between the Winchester High School Varsity and visiting Malden High School in the gym. And, at 8 in the evening, a Dance Night Competition in the Town Hall with teenagers swinging to the latest tunes with prizes donated by local merchants going to the best dancers.

On Wednesday, December 28, the art of snow sculpturing will be continued again on the Common at 10 o'clock. Also at 10 o'clock, a free ski clinic will be held at Boston Hill in Andover. Lynn English will play the Winchester High School Varsity in a fast game of hockey at the ice rink at 1 p.m. And at 7 in the evening, the High School Varsity will play Winchester Alumni in basketball in the gym.

On Thursday, December 29, at 9 a.m. all day ski trip will go to Boston Hill in Andover by bus. At 10 o'clock, snow sculpturing will be finishing up in readiness for judging. And at 6:45 p.m. there will be a special show at the Winchester Theatre for the young people.

On Friday, December 30, at 1 o'clock awarding of prizes for the best snow sculpturings and the best dancer in the Dance Competition will be presented at the Town Hall. At 6 p.m. there will be a basketball game between the Winchester High and Concord High School Varsity and Junior Varsity Teams in the gym. And at 8 o'clock, the Winter Carnival will culminate with a Carnival Dance in the Town Hall featuring a well-known popular teen dance band; and at this time the Carnival Queen will be presented.

"This will be the first such Winter Carnival in Winchester," Mr. Spinney commented Tuesday, "and everybody seems enthusiastic about it, and many are working hard to make it a very big success."

Selectmen Study A Professional Administrator

The Board of Selectmen is undertaking a thorough investigation into the advisability of recommending to the town the establishment of a central administrative figure under its jurisdiction, such as is commonly referred to as an executive secretary or administrative assistant.

Selectman K. Paul Chase has been gathering and collating information about similar positions held in other cities and towns in the Commonwealth, and reports that the trend in the direction of many large towns such as Winchester is to have such an administrative post.

Selectman Chase noted earlier this week that the views of many officials in towns where administrative assistants or executive secretaries have been established "seems most facorable," and is often referred to as "an improvement in municipal administration."

He further stated that some towns have been able to achieve a greater savings in dollars through the increased efficiencies of municipal operation than the actual salary cost of hiring a qualified administrator.

Mr. Chase noted that the Selectmen generally feel that the time has come for the town to look seriously at creating such a post and hiring a qualified administrator to assist in the management of town government.

In the period July 1, 1958 to February 19, 1960, the Selectmen had a capable administrative assistant in the late Oscar E. Merrow. According to one town official, Mr. Merrow was able to achieve many efficiencies of town government administration before he was retired in 1960. He was paid approximately $6,100 salary,

ADMINISTRATOR, cont. p. 8

Selectmen View A Policy Of Property Acquisitions

The Board of Selectmen on Monday night discussed the town's position relative to the buying of a particular piece of residential property offered to it as a potential purchaser, and, what began as a routine discussion of an item on the Selectmen's docket, quickly turned into a significant discussion on municipal philosophy and policy that may very well signify a turning point in the community's views and actions concerning land and properties within its borders.

Prior to 1965, even the suggestion of forced land takings, or eminent domain by government, was akin to speaking heresy in Winchester. Similarly, the town's taking of land and/or buildings up for sale, unless a specific need was evidenced, was almost unheard of.

However, at the special Town Meeting last year to determine whether the town would accept an available land Turkey Ridge site for a new high school, which was rejected by a close margin, the Planning Board and Permanent Building Committee raised the point that there was hardly any other undeveloped land in Winchester, and that in the near future the town would be faced with having to deal with land takings for public municipal construction or eventual uses.

At the annual 1966 Town Meeting the Planning Board set a new course for the town by proposed purchase of as yet undeveloped land near the Washington School for potential future school construction there, which the town finally accepted. The Planning Board indicated then that other certain lands, even residential properties, might eventually have to be taken if not bought up by the town as they appear on the market.

The Selectmen discussed this issue on Monday night relative to an offer to the town made by John F. Hevey regarding property at 484 Washington Street, near Leonard Field. And, the Board of Selectmen, as the town's chief executive board, is the agency that generally sets the town administration's policy.

Selecman William Kimball recommended that the town purchase the property and sublease it for rent until it was needed, thereby carrying the taxes and maintenance in the meantime. He then raised the question, however, that the board should determine to what extent the town should make of itself a landlord of properties.

Selectman Henry K. Porter pointed out that this issue touched on one of the main problems of the town in the past—that it has undershot in its planning for the future by merely "planning ahead for only the next six months." The town is going to need more land in the future, he indicated, and inferred that there should be a general plan or program of acquisition for properties in those areas (especially for schools) where they would be needed.

Selectman Charles Doucette continued Mr. Porter's views by critically commenting: "Where are the school lands provided for? Where are the new church lands? And Town Government Buildings space?," he asked. "We have had almost no Planning Board planning on this in the past," he asserted; "and there should have been," he added.

Chairman of the Board Robert W. Armstrong, Jr. asked for board consensus on the need for putting money in the Selectmen's Budget for appraisals of properties as they come up if the town might have some future need for them, and the board concurred, deciding to discuss the matter further with the Planning Board and the Finance Committee.

Car Enters Dairy Barn

A freak accident occurred here a week ago Tuesday when a parked car ended up through the front glass doors of the Dairy Barn, dairy goods store at 864 Main Street.

Driven by a young Winchester woman and left parked North on Main Street, opposite the Pet Shop, the car started to roll backwards. It slid in a J curve around the corner and up into the southern entrance of the Dairy Barn, going straight through the door, with its rear wheel landing inside.

Chuck Whitcumb, manager, reports looking up just in time to jump out of the way as the car demolished the glass front of the store.

New doors were installed Saturday.

Office Quarters For Recreation Uses Is Sought

The third floor of the Town Hall, heretofore used for storing old files and some Civil Defense equipment, may soon be cleared and renovated to make office space for the Recreation Committee and its new Director, Donald L. Spinney, if a current investigation by the Selectmen and Architect Arthur Rand proves fruitful.

The Selectmen received a request for use of the space by the Recreation Committee, and on Monday night gave preliminary approval of the idea.

The Selectmen directed Mr. Rand to view the little used space, mostly a large storage room, with an eye toward making some inexpensive renovation improvements for office use. Appropriations would be sought in a Town Meeting article for that purpose.

Zips May Be Had from P. O.

This year, more than ever before, the use of ZIP Code is essential to efficient delivery of more than eight billion pieces of holiday mail that will be handled by the Postal Service just before Christmas.

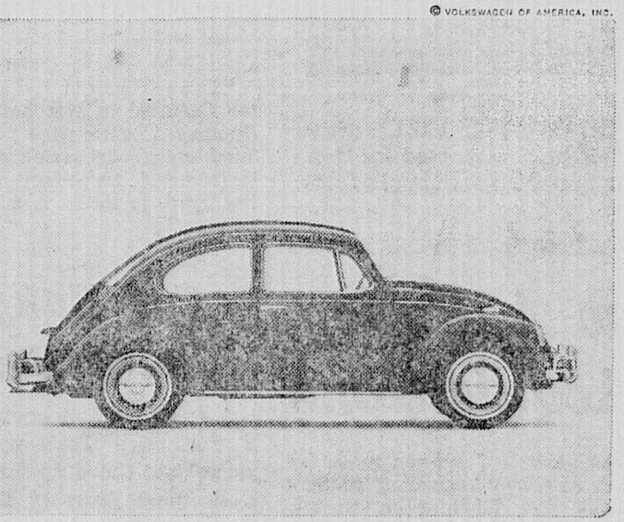
How to get them?

Assistant Postmaster in Charge Alfred W. Barnard says ZIP Codes for addresses you use most often can be obtained from the ZIP Code directory at the Post Office or by phone. The ZIP Code information phone number is 729-0389. Some local ZIP Codes are listed in the business pages of the phone book.

"Probably the easiest method of getting the ZIP Codes you need is to check the return address on the mail you receive from your correspondents. In most cases the proper ZIP Code has been included. Then you should transcribe the codes into your address book." Mr. Barnard said, "Remember, mail moves the Country—ZIP Code moves the mail as he urged all residents of Winchester to make a concerted effort to include the five digit number in both the address and the return address.

ZIP Code helps to cut down the number of times a piece of mail must be sorted before reaching its destination. This saves time in delivery and cuts down the cost of moving the mail.

"We expect a record-breaking mail volume this Christmas and will need all the help we can get," Assistant Postmaster Barnard said. "There are three easy ways in which you can cooperate with the Postal Service and at the same time assure that you get on time delivery for your holiday gifts and greetings. You should shop early, mail early and use ZIP Codes."



Introducing two of the most radical changes in Volkswagen history. Can you spot them?

Did you notice that the headlights are vertical now instead of leaning back a bit? That doesn't make the car look any better. But it makes the road look better by making the lights a little brighter.

And that little hump in the back? We did that to hold the license plate up straight so the police can read it better. (Sorry.)

What you won't notice without driving the new model are the big improvements.

The engine has been enlarged to a ferocious 53 horsepower. That only adds 3 m.p.h. to the top speed. Because we put most of the additional power where it would make the engine accelerate faster, turn slower and last even longer.

Now that the VW is getting to be such a hot car, we put in a couple of things to slow it down. Dual brakes.

The front wheel brakes are completely independent of the rear wheel brakes. So if you ever lost the front wheel brakes, you could still stop the back of the car. (Which automatically stops the front of the car too.)

The new VW also has seat belts, backup lights and recessed door handles as standard equipment. In fact, this year we made so many changes on the Volkswagen that we thought we'd better make one more.

We wrote "Volkswagen" on the back of the car to be sure everybody would know what it was.

Jacob Van Vloten

Services were held at 2 p.m. yesterday afternoon in the Ripley Chapel, Congregational Church for Jacob Van Bloten, 67, a resident of 69 Westland Avenue. Mr. Van Vloten, marketing vice president of the Kyanize Paints Incorporated of Everett, died suddenly on Saturday, November 26, while attending a company sales meeting in San Juan, Puerto Rico. He was the husband of Marjorie (Doolittle) Van Vloten.

The Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiated at the funeral and interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

A native of The Hague, Netherlands, Mr. Van Vloten was a graduate of Bates College and worked for Kyanize for over 35 years. He was a past president of both the New England Varnish & Lacquer Association and the Paint Salesmen's Club. In 1962 he served as New England Regional vice president of the National Paint & Varnish Association.

He was a member of the William Parkman Masonic Lodge and the Winchester Country Club curling team.

A dog fancier, Mr. Van Vloten was active in the MSPCA and the American Kennel Club. He was a breeder of Pug show dogs. He leaves his wife, the former Marjorie Doolittle, and two brothers, William and Henry.

Mrs. Mabel S. (Smith) Hughes

A funeral Mass will be sung in Saint Mary's Church at 9 a.m. this morning for Mrs. Mabel S. (Smith) Hughes, 84, who died in a nursing home in Stoneham after a brief illness. The Mass will follow a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Interment will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Hughes, a resident of 219 Washington Street and widow of Edward J. Hughes, is survived by a son, Lyman Whitney of Orange, New Jersey.

Mrs. Hughes was born in Sacketts Harbour, New York, on January 5, 1882, the daughter of William H. and Alice (Galoway) Smith, both natives of England. She had lived here for 20 years, making her home earlier in Burlington, Vermont.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late Mildred F. (Flaherty) Gange wishes to express its heartfelt appreciation to friends, family and neighbors for their kind expressions of sympathy, spiritual bouquets and floral tributes received during their recent bereavement.

Joseph C. O'Connor

Joseph C. O'Connor, a native and graduate of the High School, died Monday, November 28, following a long illness.

A resident of Arlington, he was 62 years old. He had been a Boston Globe advertising salesman for the past 45 years, recently handling automotive advertising in the North Shore area. He was very well known in Greater Boston automotive circles.

Mr. O'Connor was born of the late Joseph E. and Mary A. (Campbell) O'Connor. He is survived by his wife, Edna (Austin); by two sons, Joseph C., Jr. of Waltham and Robert of Reading, Pennsylvania; by two daughters, Mrs. Patricia Reynolds of Arlington and Mrs. Maureen Fitzgerald of Concord. He also leaves a brother, George A. of Lynn and a sister, Mrs. Helen McGann of Winchester.

He was a member of the Boston Globe Quarter Century Club, St. Martha's Visitors and a charter member of the Boston Globe Campion Hall Retreat League.

A solemn Mass of requiem will be sung at 9 a.m. this morning in St. Camillus Church, Arlington.

Albert Wentworth Twombly

The flag on the Common is at half-mast for the late Albert Wentworth Twombly of 25 Highland Avenue, who died in the Winchester Hospital yesterday morning, after a brief illness, at the age of 69.

The Reverend Dr. Kenneth R. Henley of the First Congregational Church will officiate on Friday afternoon, December 2, at services for Mr. Twombly to be held in the Norris Chapel, Elmwood Avenue. Visiting hours there are this afternoon from 2 to 4, and this evening from 7 to 9.

Mr. Twombly, a well-known electrician here, was the husband of Mary F. (Healy) Twombly. He had been with Raytheon Company for 25 years before his recent retirement. He was a member of the William Parkman Lodge and of the American Legion. He served in World War I as a corporal in the U. S. Army.

Mr. Twombly was a native of Winchester, born here January 30, 1897. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Amy T. Twombly, and by a sister, Mrs. Marion T. Bates, both of Wakefield.

Mrs. Edith E. (Hagan) Huse

Mrs. Edith Emery (Hagan) Huse of 20 Ginn Road, a former resident of 93 Church Street for 15 years, died on Saturday, November 26 at the Winchester Hospital, after a long illness.

The widow of the late Edwin Guy Huse, she was born in Chelsea, the daughter of Alexander J. and Ada F. (Emery) Hagan.

Mrs. Huse was a charter member of the Zonta Club of Medford, serving on its board of directors and as chairman and active member of several of its committees. She was a co-owner of Emery-Pope Originals, a stationery concern; and she was associated for many years prior to this with the Boston Y.M.C.A.

Mrs. Huse is survived by a daughter, Elizabeth E., a son, David E. E. and by a sister, Beryl E. Hagan, all residents of the Ginn Road home. The Reverend Dr. Kenneth R. Henley of the Congregational Church officiated at services for her held in the Ripley Chapel at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, November 29. Burial was in the Puritan Lawn Memorial Park in Peabody.

1966 Christmas Postage Stamp Is Flemish Madonna

Every envelope bearing the 1966 Christmas postage stamp will be a masterpiece, assistant postmaster-in-charge Alfred W. Barnard said recently.

The special holiday stamp is a replica of a painting by Hans Memling, Flemish master of the Renaissance Era, now hanging in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C.

The stamp, which is now on sale at the Winchester post office, was designed from the central portion of Memling's oil, "Madonna and Child with Angels," which was painted on wood about 1480 and has been reproduced in multicolors.

Barnard noted that use of the stamp for the sending of greeting cards assures first-class handling. That means the cards will be forwarded if the addressee has moved, or returned if there is a return address.

This is the fifth in a series of holiday stamps and the postal service expects it to be another best seller. The initial print order was for one billion, two hundred million stamps.

Mr. Barnard estimated that 175,000 of the stamps will be sold locally. He also said that the office has a supply of the attractive 1966 Christmas stamps left too for interested patrons.

The stamp design was unanimously recommended to the Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien by the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee, which passes on all stamps.

School bags—new colors—red or blue waterproof. We also have the dark green color. Be smart and buy one of the new colors. Priced at $1.49 at the Winchester Star.

Rollins—Hannan

Miss Janice Elaine Hannan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Hannan of 12 Wilson Street and Mr. Frederick L. Rollins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rollins of Lynn, were married on Saturday, November 26 by the Reverend R. Berwyn Daniel in the First Congregational Church, Stoneham. A reception was held at the Oar and Anchor, North Reading.

David Gourley photo

MRS. FREDERICK L. ROLLINS

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her designer Skinner satin dress and cathedral train was appliqued with embroidered Alencon lace and hand - sewn with seed pearls. A pearl-studded crown held her silk illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of carnations and poms.

Miss Beverly Hannan, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Miss Donna Perry, cousin of the bride, was a bridesmaid. They were dressed in emerald green velvet floor length gowns made with Empire waists, Dior sleeves lined in pastel green satin and with panels attached from the waist with rhinestone buttons. Their headpieces were of matching velvet flowers and they carried white, yellow, rust and gold poms on white muffs.

Richard Fioccoprile of Lynn was the best man and ushering were Mr. John Dow, cousin of the bridegroom of Reading and Mr. Alfred Dragonetti of Nahant.

The bride's mother wore a shocking pink silk Skinner dress with matching lace coat and hat, and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace dress with a matching hat and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Stoneham High School and John Robert Powers School. She is a secretary at the Northeastern Radiological Health Laboratory in Winchester. The bridegroom is a graduate of Lynn English High School and served in the National Guard. He is employed at the General Electric in Lynn.

After a trip to New York and throughout the New England states, they will reside in Saugus.

MRS. HAZEN H. AYER of 69 Yale Street attended Chicago meetings of the Kemper Insurance Group with her husband recently and was photographed at lunch at the Chicago Women's Athletic Club. Mr. Ayer is chairman of the board of Standish, Ayer and Wood Incorporated in Boston.

Lally—Donovan

Making their home in Woburn after a wedding trip to Montreal, Canada, are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Lally, Jr. who were married here recently at Saint Eulalia's Church. The bride is the former Miss Paula Marie Donovan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto B. Stein of 16 Royalston Avenue and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lally, Sr. of Salem.

MRS. ARTHUR H. LALLY, JR.

Father Charles Eagan, of the Provincial of Stigmatine Fathers, a cousin of the bride, officiated at the Mass which was followed by a reception in Caruso's Colonial Room in Saugus. The bride was attired in a gown of silk peau de soie with appliques of lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. Her full length train fell from her shoulders and her headpiece held an illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids with a rubrum lily center piece.

Mrs. Anthony DiGregorio was matron of honor for her sister and serving as bridesmaids were the Misses Genevieve Capozzoli of Medford, Marjorie DeYoung of Winchester and Marsha Gallagher of Waltham. They were gowned alike in magenta crepe dresses with matching satin coats. Their headpieces were of English ivy and they carried cascades of rubrum lilies and english ivy.

Mr. Thomas Lally of Marblehead was best man for his brother and ushering were the Messrs. Paul Lavesque, Edward Gates and John Kieran, all of Salem.

Engagement Announced

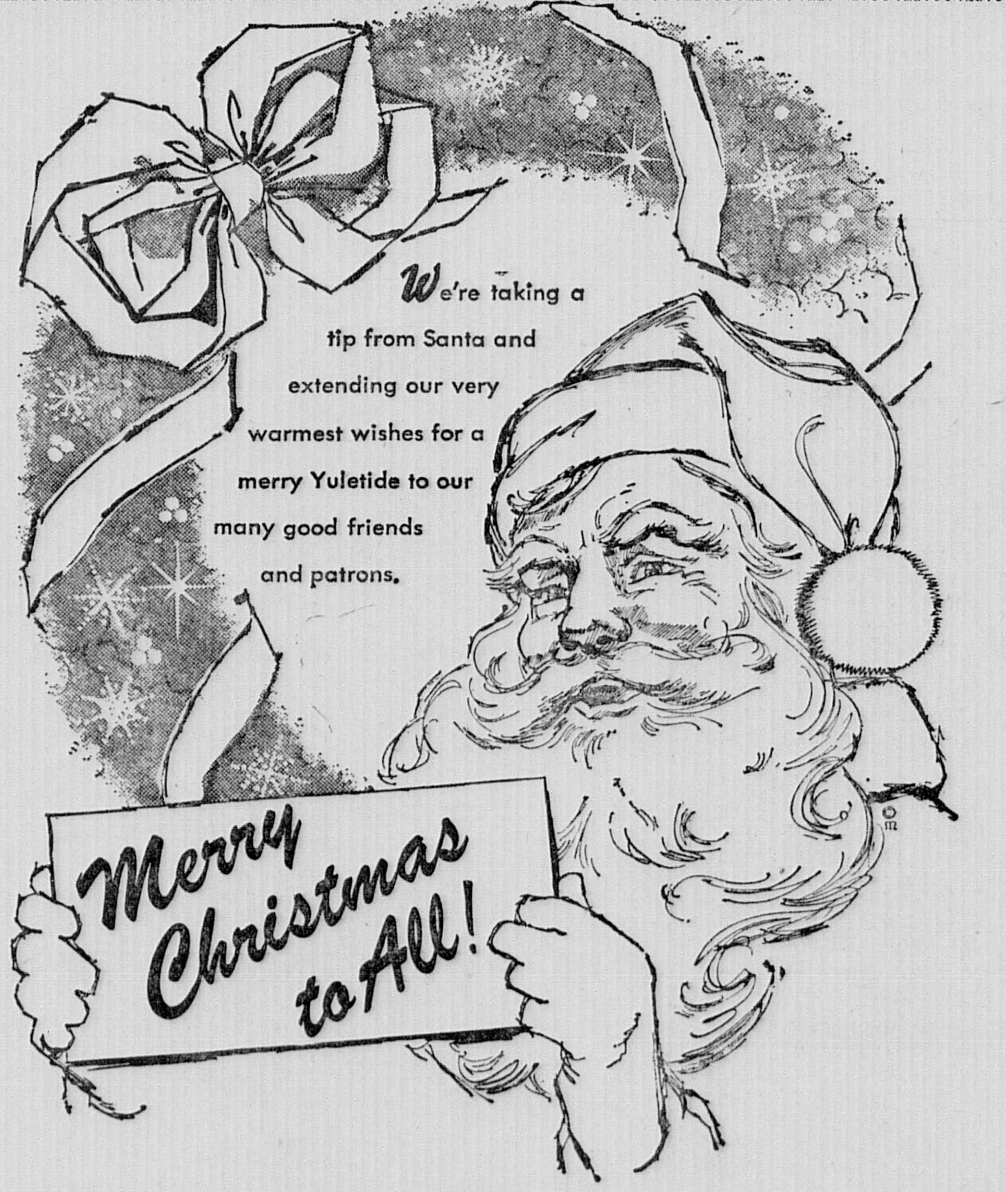
Marshall Speaks To Kiwanis Here

The number of service stations in Massachusetts has dropped while automobile registrations have climbed over the two milion mark, a Winchester spokesman for the Massachusetts Petroleum Council told the Winchester Kiwanis Club last night at the Masonic Hall in Winchester.

During a recent five year period, the number of stations decreased five percent while car registrations increased more than 17 percent, said Benjamin Marshall of Brookside Road, sales representative for Gulf Oil Corporation. As a result, Mr. Marshall said, the average station now is servicing 85 more cars in Massachusetts than it did a few years ago.

Larger and more efficient units are being built to cope with a growing clientele and at the same time to help make America beautiful, Marshall said. In 1964, the last year for which figures are complete, 5,000 obsolete stations were closed; 4,000 others were modernized or rebuilt and 6,000 new outlets were constructed, some winning civic awards for design and landscaping.

By remodeling stations nationwide, oil companies are cooperating with conservationists who are striving to beautify the countryside and rid it of litter, said Mr. Marshall.



We're taking a tip from Santa and extending our very warmest wishes for a merry Yuletide to our many good friends and patrons.
Merry Christmas to All!

Naval Reserve Unit Gets Top National Award

The first national Naval Reserve Division award ever won in the First Naval District has been captured by Naval Reserve Naval Security Group Division 1-11, Commander William W. Tunnicliffe of 11 Orient Street, commanding officer.

Located at the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center adjacent to historic Derby Wharf in Salem, Division 1-11 has won the 1966 national competition among the 101 Naval Security groups Divisions in the United States. One of the major programs conducted by the Navy Department, the Naval Security group program prepares Communication Technician ratings for duties in clerical and radio communication work.

Division 1-11 received the Walter Sherman Gifford, Jr. Trophy. This trophy was established in honor of his son, killed in the Pacific in 1944 while on duty in Security - group - type duties, by Walter Sherman Gifford, native of Salem, long-term president and chairman of the board of the America Telephone and Telegraph Co., and U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain from 1950 to 1953.

The Gifford Trophy was awarded by Rear Admiral Robert Harper Weeks, USM, director of Naval Communications, in the Salem State College Auditorium on Wednesday evening, November 16. Division 1-11 also received the 1966 First Naval District Trophy, which was awarded by Rear Admiral Means Johnston, USN, Commandant of the First Naval District. The trophies were accepted, on behalf of all members of Division 1-11, by Commander Tunnicliffe.

CMDR. WILLIAM W. TUNNICLIFFE

Commander Tunnicliffe received a B.S. in electrical engineering, with distinction, from the Worcester Polytechnic Institute and an A.M. in Engineering Sciences and Applied Physics from Harvard University. He was commissioned Ensign, USNR, in May 1944 and served as special project engineer in the Office of Naval Liaison at the Radiation Laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology until July 1946.

Commander Tunnicliffe was recalled during the Korean Emergency and served as Technical Liaison Officer at the U.S. Naval Computing Machine Laboratory in St. Paul, Minnesota, from February 1951 to February 1953. His previous reserve affiliations have included the Reserve Communications Supplementary Activities Group 1-1, Boston, and appointments as commanding officer of Naval Reserve Naval Security Group Division in Lowell, Worcester, and Quincy. He was appointed Commanding Officer, Naval Reserve Naval Security Group Division 1-11 in July 1963.

In civilian life Commander Tunnicliffe has worked in research and development on airborne bombing radars at the Radiation Laboratory, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; on electronic aerial reconnaissance at the Optical Research Laboratory, Boston University; on radar jammers at Barkley and Dexter Laboratories; on heavy ground radars at the Raytheon Company; and on information handling and process control at the Courier-Citizen Company.

He is married to the former Ruth Loretto Loftus, daughter of Mrs. Arthur W. Loftus of Ginn Road. They have four children, Peter Warren, Virginia Warren, Elizabeth Loftus, and William Loftus, all students in the Winchester School System.

Crawford Couples And WSCS Join For Banquet

The Couples' Club and the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will meet together this month on Friday evening, December 9 for a catered Christmas banquet. The dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Royal Morse 729-2074 not later than December 3.

Mrs. H. Newton Clay will conduct the devotions prior to the music program presented by Staff and Key Society members. It is expected that this will be one of the most delightful events of the church year.

Added attraction will be some beautiful Christmas pieces on display that may be purchased from the W.S.C.S.

Colonel Thuma 25 Years in USAF

A Winchester resident, Col. Richard R. Thuma, of 2 Allen Road retired recently after more than 25 years active duty in the U.S. Air Force.

Col. Thuma, former Deputy for Civil Engineering, had been stationed at Hanscom Field, Bedford, Mass. since 1960.

Maj. Gen. J. W. O'Neill, Electronic Systems Division Commander, presented the retirement certificate to Col. Thuma.

Col. Thuma's six year tour of duty at Hanscom Field began when he was assigned as Assistant Deputy for Civil Engineering in June, 1960. He held this position until July of this year, when he became Deputy. His work at the Electronic Systems Division (ESD) of the Air Force Systems Command has involved responsibility for design and construction in support of all major electronic systems being acquired by the United States Air Force and other defense organizations. These facilities range in type from hardened underground command installations to isolated communications relay stations.

Most of the construction sites for these projects were outside the United States. Many of the locations were in remote areas of Spain, Turkey, Greece, Thailand and the northern provinces of Japan.

A citation read at Colonel Thuma's retirement ceremony said, "The successful planning, programming, design and construction of over 1,000 of these sites are attributable in large measure to the efforts of Colonel Thuma."

His awards and decorations include the Bronze Star, Air Force Commendation Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster, and service awards earned during World War 11.

Colonel Thuma and his wife, Margaretta, have three children, Patrica, 18, a freshman at Wellesley University; Richard R. III, age 17, a senior at Winchester High School; C. Moss, 11, a sixth grader at Mystic School.

Winchester Unitarian Church

The third Pre Service Choral Program given by the Winchester Unitarian Choir under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham will be sung in the chancel of the Winchester Unitarian Church on Sunday, December 4th at 10:40.

The program which consists of numbers from "The Messiah" by Handel and Traditional Carols sung by the Winchester Unitarian Male Choir, follows:

For Unto Us A Child Is Born, Choir
Comfort Ye, Tenor
Every Valley, Tenor
Rejoice Greatly, Soprano
Traditional Carols, Male Choir

The first anthem "Glory to God in the Highest" by Pergolesi and the Second anthem is "Hodie Christmas Natus Est" -Yon. The Postlude will be "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell. Members of the Winchester Unitarian Quartette are: Estelle McNeely, soprano; William Jeffery, tenor; Barbara Wood, Contralto; Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr., Bass.

Witnesses Study Delinquency

The Burlington Massachusetts congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are making preliminary plans to attend a three-day training program in Wilmington, December 9-11. Several delegates from Winchester will be attending the convention, it was announced last night.

Richard L. Harlow, presiding minister of the group, in discussing this announcement to the congregation pointed to the rising plague of juvenile delinquency in this century. He noted that while this problem is almost non-existent among Jehovah's Witnesses, it is an ever increasing problem in all parts of the earth. Mr. Harlow said, "The best program to curb this rising plague has to start within the family circle, for among the many factors responsible for juvenile delinquency, outstanding for this situation is the fact that so many children lack personal attention from their parents."

"The object of the program," Mr. Harlow said, "is to equip everyone of the preaching fellowship of Jehovah's Witnesses in bringing practical Bible information to parents in this locality, showing them how they can prevent problems in their homes, and combat delinquency." This program entitled, "A Sound Spiritual Heritage for Youth" will be presented Friday evening, and will consist of a Film, and live demonstrations of "Doing Things Together as a Family." Mr. Harlow urged the Congregation to extend invitations to all in the community to attend this convention with them.

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, sponsors of the three-day Wilmington refresher program, have set the theme of the assembly as, "Become Spiritual Men with Everlasting Life in View" based on the text at Romans chapter 8 verse 6. The program will commence Friday at 6:45, continuing through Saturday and Sunday. The highlight of the assembly program will be the feature discourse on Sunday at 3 p.m., "Satisfying Mankind's Greatest Need" by the Convention Chairman, Paul R. Ruggles.

Dinner For AAUW Fellows, Fellowships

"Good Fellowship for good Fellows" could well be the keynote for the annual Fellowship Dinner of the Winchester - Bedford - Lexington Branch of the American Association of University Women, according to Mrs. Robert Gentry of 30 Pilgrim Road, spokesman for the Fellowships Committee.

The dinner will be held at 6:30 promptly on Wednesday evening, December 7 at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Lexington and is designed to honor the nine women who have been awarded AAUW Felowships and who are studying at the doctoral level in the Boston area this year, as well as to augment the local treasury of the Fellowships Committee.

Most, if not all, of the the nine AAUW Fellows will be present at the dinner and will be seated at tables throughout the hall to become acquainted with AAUW members. The Fellows represent such diverse geographical points as Czechoslovakia and Taiwan and are pursuing studies in fields ranging from child psychiatry to cell biology. They will participate in a panel conducted by AAUW State Fellowships chairman and branch president, Mrs. Joseph Schantz, following the dinner.

Members of the local branch join with members in 1500 other branches in contributing more than $400,000 annually to provide that about a hundred graduate fellowships ranging from $2500 to $5000 to women scholars in this country and from abroad. Since the inception of the Fellowships program in 1888, the Association has provided financial assistance to more than 2000 scholars in one of its outstanding contributions to higher education and status of women and to the achievement of peace through understanding.

Further information regarding the dinner may be obtained from Mrs. Gentry at 729-6372.

Chi Rho Enjoys Gay Nineties

On Friday evening, November 25, over 200 people filled St. Eulalia's Manion Hall for the Chi-Rho-sponsored Gay 90's party.

Ken Thorpe and his orchestra provided the "musical greats" from the Gay 90's to the Roaring 20's.

Elimination dances and dance contests were held. Prizes were donated by McCormack's and Cradock Drugs. Sing-along sessions found everyone singing the songs from the days gone by that have stood the test of time.

Dancing and singing continued until midnight, with a wide variety of refreshments being served.

This is the second dance run by have been very successful.

The Winchester Star

Established 1880 By Theodore P. Wilson, Sr.

Serving The Community For 86 Years

Editorials:

Need For An Administrator

For several years many observers of local government have argued both the pros and cons of the administration's hiring of a capable administrative assistant or executive secretary to maximize efficiency and smoothness as well as cut costs of operating the Town of Winchester.

The advantages of having an administrative assistant far outweigh the disadvantages; and the only real local adaptability problem that would be faced by an administrator would be the crossing of jealously guarded departmental and board lines of jurisdiction.

The Selectmen are now seriously looking into the advisability of recommending to the town that it establish such a permanent post and staff it with a qualified administrator that could help to streamline and operate more efficiently the management of the town government.

The advocates of having an administrative assistant point out the advantages to be gained if the town were to shorten up its ballot, consolidate some of its departments, and have a coordinating administrator who could oversee the then more centralized town government.

The arguers against claim that this would reduce volunteer initiative in local affairs; but this need not necessarily be so, since currently elected and appointed officials might still be interested in serving in advisory and consultative capacities.

These views, both advocated and argued against, present many interesting points upon which to speculate. Nevertheless, the Selectmen are showing imagination and wisdom in researching the matter, and, considering that the project was undertaken because of an evidenced need as viewed from where they sit as the town's chief executive board, there very likely will appear a recommendation in this direction that the citizens of the town will have to look at with equal seriousness and make a decision on. And that decision, if it is broached, will have to be confronted by the citizenry more with an eye toward the future operation of the town government, than stalemated in over-the-shoulder past performance—as the town, as well as the times, is changing, and improvements in some quarters are in order.

Well Done!

Three Winchester Policemen and the new Recreation Director are deserving of commendation and much praise for their taking on of the chore of running the annual Thanksgiving Day Victory Dance at the Town Hall last week.

The four men, Sergeant Inspector James J. Cogan, Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton, and former Juvenile Officer William Nash, along with Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney, upon learning on short notice that the sponsor of the 30-year-old Victory Dance would not be able to run it again this year, quickly assumed the responsibility and took charge of running the event so that the young people wouldn't be without the annual season's end athletic social event.

The annual Victory Dance was attended by some 550 youngsters from both Winchester and Woburn, and was a good time for all. Many youngsters commented the Dance was well run and a lot of fun.

Credit for community spirit, civic-mindedness, and unselfish giving of their own personal time and effort for taking on and making the event the good success it was goes to these four men.

Christmas Charm Idea

The new charm in the Center is the attractive setting at the traffic rotary accomplished by the planting of eleven tall evergreens.

The sprightly Balsam Firs were put up to add to the Christmas Season Spirit in Winchester this month—and it contributes significantly to the achievement of that effect.

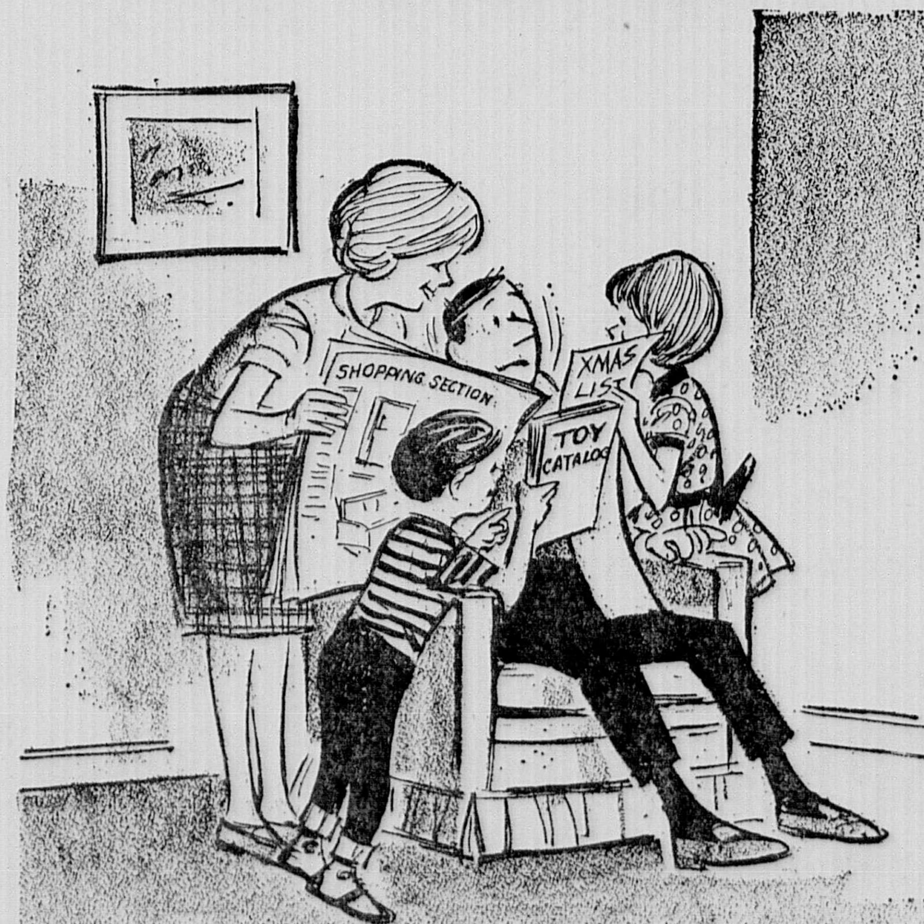
In fact, the new tall green trees add so much to the overall appearance of the area by dressing up the center span and abutment of the long railroad overpass bridge, and also by giving the rotary a finished "centerpiece" design and decor, that it really complements the adjacent Common, almost making it an extension piece.

It also contributes to a screening effect where the five streets converge on the Center rotary in a mass of joining traffic, people, and buildings, so that each one now takes on an individuality aspect—like avenues leading toward or away from a center hub mall—as spokes from a wheel, or as a miniature of the picturesque Parisian Place de la Concorde, instead of a hodgepodge meeting place of all directions with no unity or attractiveness of its own.

But the new charming Center piece is attractive now, and we will enjoy it while we have it, with thanks to the Town Christmas Decorations Committee, the Winchester Merchants Association, the Park Department and Mahoney's Rock Ledge Nursery Farm—all responsible for making the Center more beautiful this season with the imaginative addition.

Unfortunately, the beautiful trees must come down in the beginning of the New Year because they have no roots. But we can hope that either the Park Department on its own, or some other organization, business or individual may find them an attractive enough addition to the beauty of Winchester to warrant a permanent planting, if not of Balsam Firs then of White Pines, or something else akin that will continue to dress up the Center rotary as distinctively as it now appears.

Busy Season Ahead



National Research Corp.

Pegasus to Tinsels

NRC materials have been used for thermal control or superinsulation on virtually every major space vehicle launched by the United States. NRC 2, as the material has been named, is keeping the complete electronic packages in both Pegasus meteoroid satellites operating at about 68 to 86 degrees F., despite violent environmental shifts from 400 degrees F. down to minus 200 degrees.

With this demonstrated performance making history, it is not surprising that NRC turned its sights to the consumer market. The success of the Products Division in its first year dictated the move from the academic surroundings of its inception to the Winchester-Woburn site where it has a rental contract with Whitten Brothers for 15,000 square feet of space, a buying option and provisions for tripling the present area.

On East Street it will carry on the manufacture of: the superinsulation used in thermal control of spacecraft components and for storing cryogenic liquids; metallized plastic to be sold to converters for yarn used in furniture, draperies, clothes; decorative packaging; stadium and rescue blankets; and even Christmas tree tinsel.

And talking with Philip Clough, general manager, one gets a sure feel that the view ahead to future products is far from static.

Mr. Clough was named manager a year ago when the company was born. Assistant director of research in NRC's research division, he is typical of the scientist-turned-business executive which the Boston area has been breeding in the last 20 years. Looking more like a college professor than administrator of a high-powered multi-million dollar business success, his eyes light as quickly about some of his company's jazzy by-products as they do his products to one whose knowledge of exploration in unlimited space is strictly limited.

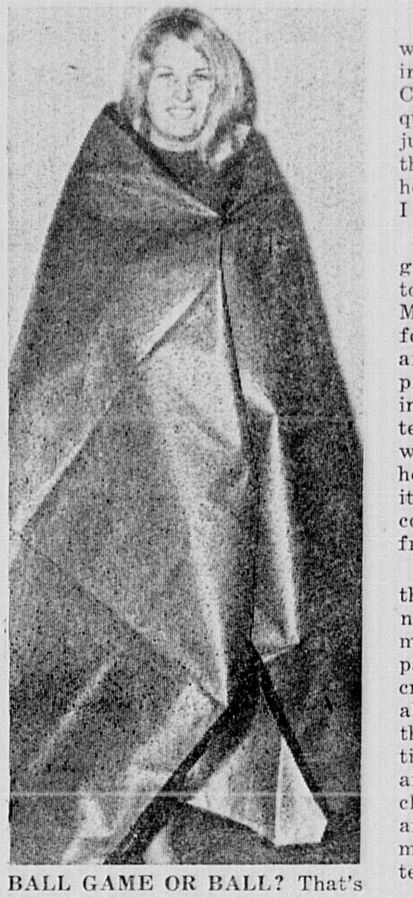
Mr. Clough, a resident with his family of Reading, holds an undergraduate degree in chemistry and math from Bowdoin and a master's in physical chemistry from Middlebury. He also holds 44 patents and is a much published author on the subject of vacuum metallizing.

But it probably accrues from his Maine background and love of the It works by reflecting up to 80 of the person covered. It weighs outdoors that the company moved here instead of to the many other towns that would be glad to have it. On the golf course at Meadowbrook he just happened to run into a partner of W. N. Dolben Realtors who very shortly after that put the Whitten Rental proposition before NRC.

Just One Bachelor

Administrative assistant to Mr. Clough is Andrew A. Smith of Woburn, and his natural enthusiasm for the local site was shared strongly by the whole staff of 25 that were to move their work out from Cambridge. The school population has definintely not yet been effected, however. The only staff member to move into the new apartments on Swanton Street is a bachelor.

Charlie Koch at the Winchester Sport Shop has put the NRC "Space Sportsman's Blanket," called by the company the "most versatile blanket ever made" on sale at the going rate of $7.95. It works by reflecting up to 80 per cent of the natural body heat just under a pound and the "Sport Goods Dealer" reports dealers ranked it a national second as the hottest item of the year.



BALL GAME OR BALL? That's the question as Eileen Gillis, secretary at the new business, does a metamorphosis with metal.

Its progenitors couldn't be happier. They are pleased that the company directors realized early, as its president is quoted as saying, "that the number of astronaut suits you can sell is limited."!

NRC's Metallized Products Division has really overcome the limitations with its first three consumer products.

The Sportsman's Blanket, complete with grommets, can be used effectively as a camping blanket, ground cloth, hunting blind, windbreak, auto accessory, cockpit sunshade, poncho, boat blanket or radar reflector. Markets include camping, boating, skiing, hunting, mountaineering, military, police and public service groups.

The "Space Stadium blanket," a little lighter and without the grommets, is just as handy. And it folds up into a pocket, or, as this reporter can attest after putting it to very satisfactory use in a stadium recently, just as easily into a lady's handbag.

About their companion product, a $2, about six ounce rescue "blanket," the producers report their surprise that whereas their thinking about its market centered on the winter sports area, the greatest response in a nationwide sales sampling came from the South. "We hadn't realized that police in warm climates dislike bothering with heavy blankets. They liked our product's light weight and disposability."

Disposable Gowns?!

And speaking of disposability. The conservative-appearing group of gentlemen busy with metallized materials on East Street don't lift an eyelash when they speak of one of their by-products that's also moving—"disposable discotheque gowns" no less, or, as their manufacturer has dubbed them, items from their "waste basket boutique collection."

There you are ladies—"shorten with scissors—press with a cool iron"! And cool? Man! Mr. Clough sits back in his chair quietly puffing on his pipe and just as quietly says, "Clothes these days are supposed to be heard as well as seen, you know." I didn't.

Material for this kind of thing goes in yard-goods roll form down to North Carolina where Mars Manufacturing puts out "silver-foil fashions" ready to retail around eight dollars. In the basic process on East Street it starts in six foot rolls of plastic material across a metallizing vat in which aluminum is inductively heated to 1,500° centigrade. And it comes out on the second roller completely coated by the vapor from the vat.

The finished product goes out the shipment door along with the not really dissimilar "NRC-2" material used to keep space flight packages insulated. NRC-2 is a crinkled, aluminized Mylar. The aluminum coating is one millionth of an inch thick and the plastic base about 25 thousandths of an inch thick. It has higher mechanical strength, more resiliency and less space-weight requirements than any comparable material.

Altogether at the moment the shipments out of East Street average about 10 truckloads weekly. They head all over the world, with the NASA orders on space materials heading around it. The space blanket is having heavy sales in Canada and throughout Scandinavia. A major wholesale concern in Cleveland makes yarn from the roll form material. Many well-known tools which appear to have metal handles actually have them of coated plastic. An export manager joined the staff last week to see that these and more products go further yet.

The story of the development of these products is an exciting one, dating back to the first NRC explorations in Cambridge on insulating cryogenics, and the discivery of a process by which liquid hydrogen and oxygen could be protected down to minus 420 degrees Fahrenheit.

Winchester can be proud to have this new company, bringing to about 33 the total manufacturing concerns located with an address in the Town. It takes its place in the business statistics here along with such divergent manufacturers as J. H. Winn, the oldest watch hand makers in the country, J. O. Whitten, makers of gelatin and the Assembled Homes Company. All benefit from the proximity to Route 128, just as the Town's first business needed the then flourishing Aberjona for mill power and its later vital tanneries and others depended on the railroad.

Down To Earth With Space Technology

SPACE
SPACE

PROUD OF THEIR PRODUCTS and pleased to be moving into Winchester are Philip J. Clough of Reading, general manager, and Andrew A. Smith of Woburn, administrative assistant for the Metalized Products Division of the National Research Corporation, new tenants at 37 East Street. The "Space" stadium blanket and "Space" sportsman's blanket (with grommets) are on sale at the Winchester Sport Shop.

BOOK REVIEW

Winchester Public Library

Children's Book Suggestions For Christmas Giving

For Eight Years Old and Older

JOY TO THE WORLD

by Ruth Sawyer. Little, Brown, $3.97

A choice collection of six Christmas stories gathered from distant lands and told by one of the great American storytellers of all times, Mrs. Ruth Sawyer Durand. Each legend is related with the magic that will bring a child a better understanding of Christmas in another land — Spain, Arabia, Ireland and Serbia. Accompanying each story is a carol appropriate to it, many original by the author.

The book is very special since all but one story appears in book form for the first time. The soft-brown illustrations by Tina Schart Hyman have an old-peasant quality. Here is a Christmas book a child will be proud to own in later years.

For Eight to Twelve-Year-Olds

CHAUNCY AND THE GRAND RASCAL

by Sid Fleishman. Little, Brown, $4.25

Here is a rib-tickling tale by a master of the art. Twelve-year-old Chauncy sets out across country from Ohio with a buckeye for luck, his father's axe and a wheelbarrow of provisions. He is searching for his kin, a brother and two sisters, whom he hasn't seen since his parents died. On the way he meets a scoundrel, Colonel Plugg, who talks him into taking a batch of triple-yoke eggs to sell and before he sells them he finds himself with a batch of freshly hatched chickens. Suspicious, he meets up with another rascal, who claims he can out-laugh, out-exaggerate and out-rascal any man on this side of the big muddy. He turns out to be Chauncy's long-lost Uncle Will. Together they outwit all comers down the Ohio to Kansas in a series of rollicking adventures until they find sisters Indianna, Mirandy and Jamie. A tale packed with excitement and good reading.

For Ten to Fourteen-Year-Olds

NIGHTBIRDS ON NANTUCKET

by Joan Aiken. Doubleday, $3.25

It's fantastic, preposterous and mad. Eleven-year-old Dido Twite, a London Cockney, is rescued from the sea and, after a ten-day coma on Captain Casket's whaling ship, bounces back to an active life aboard. Dido deals with the captain and his obsession about the pink whale, puts new life into the captain's languid daughter, Patience, spies a mysterious person aboard and has a ready answer for all. The two girls finally land on Nantucket and in the grip of Aunt Tribulation, who is really an imposter working with a bomb expert and others to blow up Nantucket and remove King James from the throne, Dido, Patience, the pink whale and Captain Casket foil the plot. It's a whale of a story.

For Eight to Ten-Year-Olds

ART AND ARCHAEOLOGY

by Shirley Globuk. Harper & Row, $3.79

For the child who enjoys good fact books, Art and Archaelogy, Miss Globuk's book, is one of rare photographs with depth and beauty. The text supplies the answers and the pitcures stimulate as they tell of expeditions all over the world. How wonderful to understand the archaeologist's patience when he assembles 200 fragments he has unearthed into a small ivory statue over 2,200 years old. The new technological aids to the art are shown, such as the underground periscope and aqua lung. The book is a wonderful introduction to man's search for the past and the beauty he has recovered. All ages will enjoy this gift.

Local Merchant's Generosity Is Appreciated By GI's Family

Editor of the Star:

I would like to tell you and the people of your town of the kindness, understanding and generosity of one of your businessmen.

My husband is in Viet Nam and the other day I received a letter from him in which he said he would give anything in the world if he could just hear his children wishing him a Merry Christmas. I thought at once of a tape recording. I telephoned many places and although some people were extremely sorry they could not help me, most were just too busy to be bothered. Finally, the yellow pages took me to Winchester and I talked to Warren O'Shea of the Sound Specialists on Waterfield Road. He didn't even ask my name but told me to come in and he was sure he could help me.

I took my three little ones with me expecting to make the tape in the store. Mr. O'Shea told me he knew there must be some things I would like to say to my husband in private and loaned me a tape recorder free of charge so that I could make the tape at home. Not only that, but he showed me how to operate the machine and told me that if I knew of anyone else who would like to send a message in time for Christmas he would do the same thing for them.

I do not expect special favors because my husband is doing his job but neither do I expect to be told, as I have been, that he is a coward and a glory hound fighting a senseless war. He and the thousands like him are not cowards. They are men who love their country enough to die for her and are willing to do so if it will mean that we may live with the freedom we take so much for granted.

If only more people would realize how much little things mean to our men. A letter from home takes only minutes and costs only pennies. A package of Kool-Aid tucked into the envelope costs only a dime but is shared by so many and enjoyed so much. A Christmas card is hung up and admired by all.

Because Mr. O'Shea cared enough to give a few minutes of his time, my husband can once again hear the laughter of his children.

To you, Mr. O'Shea, go the heartfelt thanks and everlasting gratitude of my family. May God bless you and may you and yours enjoy the happiest of Christmases and all the best in the New Year.

Yours truly,
Mrs. James Salisbury

Vietnam Issue, And Why Is The U. S. There Now

Editor of the Star:

To one who is committed to the survival of democracy, it is a matter of grave concern that U.S. voters show so little informed interest in the foremost issue of the day, the war in Vietnam.

The retreat into indifference is doubtless in large part due to the frustration which the average citizen experiences if he tries to learn the real facts concealed behind the stale cliches offered by Administration spokesmen.

If, for instance, we examine statements made in defense of U.S. policy in Vietnam, we find that members of the Johnson Administration are relying on what the gentle Quakers call "a version of recent history in southeast Asia that is peculiarly their own." According to this version, the Vietnam conflict represents "aggression from the north."

Yet highly qualified American and French journalists stationed in Vietnam in the late fifties and early sixties agree that the conflict is a civil war started by southerners only after they had lost hope that Diem would consent to hold elections as required by the Geneva Agreements of 1954.

If these elections had in fact been held, 80 per cent of the electorate would have voted for Ho Chi Minh, according to ex-President Eisenhower's memoirs (Mandate for Change, p. 372).

Equally unrelated to fact is the version of the future presented by Administration spokesmen.

In their view, the maintenance of an unpopular government in Vietnam, such as Marshall Ky's, will prevent social revolution in other countries.

To refute such an absurd claim, is it really necessary to point out that communist movements thrive wherever there is poverty, hunger, and political disorganization? That pouring hundreds of American lives and two billion dollars every month into the destruction of Vietnam, both north and south, will not decrease poverty, hunger, and disorganization in the rest of Asia, but only increase it in Vietnam?

Sincerely,
Ruth D. Terzaghi

School Planning Is Essential, Long Overdue

Editor of the Star:

In a recent letter to the Star I sharply criticized the failure of school officials to explain how the children living in Winchester Gardens would be affected by the new elementary school on Tufts Road. Although this may not be an important issue to people living outside of Precinct 6, many parents whose children are currently divided over two elementary schools are quite concerned about where their children will be attending schools next year.

However, I would not want this criticism to reflect in any way upon the Tufts Road school or the projected school building program in Winchester.

Relief from overcrowding in several elementary schools, not to mention the high school is essential and long overdue. Both school officials and civic-minded citizens whose efforts have made the new school a reality deserve applause for their accomplishments.

The establishment of an elementary school with the facilities for educational innovation is a welcome addition to the school system. One can only hope that this may mark the beginning of a new era of educational progress in Winchester.

Of course this will cost money, but what better investment in the future of our children can we make?

Sincerely,
Malcolm Levin

Thank Police

Editor of the Star:

On the afternoon of October 17 we were involved in an automobile accident on Cambridge Street, Winchester. We were assisted by Officers Parsons, Perritano and Jackson.

We are submitting this letter to remind the people of Winchester how fortunate they are to have such capable, kind and genuine people in their service.

Please accept our public thanks and gratitude for the sincere effort extended in our behalf.

Sincerely yours,
Miss Anne P. O'Neil

LWV Comments On Pending High School Site Issue

Editor of the Star:

A special town meeting will soon be called to choose a site for a new high school. The Building Committee will offer two alternatives, Turkey Ridge and Shore Road Field complex. One of these sites will be their prime recommendation, but the town meeting will have a chance to vote on both sites.

Members of the League of Women Voters Educational Committee are working to keep the public informed as to how these decisions are being made. League observers attend School Committee, Planning Board, and Building Committee meetings and report in the Star committee actions pertinent to a high school solution.

These committee meetings are open to the public. By law notice of the time and place for each meeting must be posted in the Town Hall bulletin board at least 24 hours in advance of the meeting.

The League hopes that concerned people will continue to follow the progress towards a high school site solution by reading the Star, and that they will seek more information by attending town committee meetings and questioning apropriate public officials.

Thoughtful, knowledgeable questions and opinions expressed in the Letters to the Editor column of the Star will maintain a useful public dialogue between citizens who support different solutions to the high school space problem.

Sincerely yours,
Elizabeth G. Reynolds
Chairman, Education Committee

Santa's Little Helper!

We're getting right to the point in this ad because we feel we can be of assistance to you husbands, especially those who might be like us and don't know what to get the little woman. As a result, we wait until the last minute to buy her something.

Consider buying her an Oriental Rug this year.

Now ponder this suggestion for a minute! With all of the conversations about "tight money," maybe this is the year to consider being practical, and buying an Oriental Rug is being practical.

Here is a gift she can show off every day of the year for as many years as you have anniversaries. And some day, you can pass it on to your children for their home.

Sound like a good idea? You bet it is. Of course we have a selfish motive for suggesting this to you — we have over a quarter of a million dollars in stock to show you.

Why not bring her up to the showroom and let her browse around? If she doesn't find anything she likes — well, we can only say we tried to help.

P.S. Girls — post this in a conspicuous place.

An Extra Thanksgiving Day Celebration!

THERE'S DANCING IN THE STREETS OF WINCHESTER. The pretty Sachem cheerleaders strut their stuff through the Square after their team's Thanksgiving Day victory over traditional rival Woburn.

Rev. Morgan Gives First Mass Here

The Reverend George R. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Morgan of 34 Lebanon Street and a senior student at the Augustinian College in Washington, celebrated his first Mass at St. Mary's Church on Sunday, November 20.

He was ordained the day before in the Order of St. Augustine at Merrimack College, North Andover with his Eminence Richard Cardinal Cushing officiating.

The Reverend Morgan's first Mass was held in his home parish of St. Mary's Church at 1:30 p.m. Assisting at the Mass were Rev. Thomas Walsh as deacon, Rev. Paul Kamide, sub deacon, Mr. Edward Doyle, master of ceremonies. The Rev. Leo Donald Burke was the guest preacher at the First Mass. All priests were from Merrimack College, North Andover which is conducted by the Augustinian Fathers.

Seated in the Sanctuary were Monsignor Rt. Rev. John M. Manion, pastor of St. Mary's and Rev. Joseph M. McCall of St. Jeremiah's Church, Framingham. St. Mary's Schola sang at the Mass.

A reception was held following the Mass at St. Mary's School Auditorium where family members, relatives, friends and members of St. Mary's parish met the Rev. Morgan and received his blessing.

His parents participated in the reception to their son and welcomed the many that were in attendance.

The Rev. Morgan is a graduate of Matignon High School, class of 1957 and Merrimack College, class of 1961.

Invitation to All To "Messiah Sing"

Five Winchester residents will assist the Arlington Philharmonic Society in its dual musical celebration of the Christmas season on Sunday, December 11, at 3 p.m., and on Monday, December 12, at 8 p.m. All residents are invited to the community "Messiah Sing" which it will present.

Miss Alta Merritt of 102 Wildwood Street will play the French horn; James Sauber, 21 Warren Street, the trumpet; Willard Hoyt, 20 Grove Street, and Mrs. Sally W. Kincaid of 12 Prospect Street, the 'cello. Dominic Costa of 26 Ridge Street will also take part.

A Christmas family hour on Sunday the 11th in the Arlington High School at 3 p.m. is being presented by the Society orchestra and chorus. Old-fashioned Christmas caroling by the audience will be the feature of the afternoon. Music from Humperdinck's Hansel and Gretel and from Tschaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite will delight the children most of whom are familiar with these pieces. And all ages will be charmed by Ceremony of the Bells by the famous contemporary composer, Benjamin Britten.

On Monday the 12th at 7:45 p.m. in the Arlington Town Hall, the Philharmonic Chorus will host choruses, choirs, choral groups and individual Messiah singers from the entire community area, joining together to perform a community "Messiah Sing." This Philharmonic evening is open to anyone who would enjoy singing with the group or listening to this traditional music. Singers should bring their own Messiah scores. Dr. Campbell Johnson will conduct both Christmas concerts.

There is no charge for admission to either of these events, but interested Winchester groups are encouraged to send in requests for reservations, to assist in the planning of the "Messiah Sing," to Mrs. Marshall M. Kincaid, 729-6444.

Administration

and the job remained unfilled in the Selectmen's budget from 1960 to 1965, when the old salary compensation plan was replaced by the new Personnel Board plan prepared from the Evans Study—and since the post had been vacant for five years it was eliminated.

Mr. Merrow had served as an administrative assistant within the Selectmen's budget, although the Town Meeting had never specifically created the post. It appears probable, however, that the Board of Selectmen may present an article to the annual Town Meeting of 1967 requesting the permanent establishment of such a position.

Mrs. Charles Greene and the Reverend Alexander Henderson were both re-elected last night to serve the New England Baptist Hospital as corporation members.

A New Memorial Park

PLAQUE IN MEMORY OF THE LATE ALFRED DYKES ELLIOTT was affixed to a large stone on a concrete foundation last Thursday in the beginning phase of preparing the attractive setting by Main and Lake Streets overlooking Wedge Pond as an improved new town park area. The project is being underwritten by the Winchester Rotary Club, which initiated the Common's beautification a few years ago, to honor the late prominent citizen at a cost exceeding $2,000 in landscape design and plantings. A May 30, 1967, dedication is planned. Shown at the plaque site are Herbert S. Mullen, Park Department superintendent; Lewis Snow, president of the Rotary Club; and Sid Elliott, brother of the late Alfred Elliott whose memory is honored.

Guild of The Infant Saviour Memorial Mass

The annual Memorial Mass for deceased members of the Winchester Chapter Guild of the Infant Saviour will be held Wednesday, December 7, at 11 a.m. in St. Mary's Church.

The Reverend Eugene P. McNamara, director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston will celebrate Mass. Following the Mass, luncheon will be served at Knights of Columbus Hall and Father McNamara will present an inspiring message to members and their guests. Reservations for the luncheon may be made by contacting Mrs. George F. Winterson at 11 Forest Street (729-3472) before Friday, December 2.

Panel on College Admissions At WHS Next Week

All parents of students planning to attend college are cordially invited to attend College Night in the Senior High School Auditorium on Thursday, December 8th, at 7:45 p.m.

Admissions officers from Skidmore, Wesleyan, Beloit, Pine Manor Jr. College, State College at Boston will be among those present.

Since much interest in transcripts has been expressed by the parents, samples of typical high school student records which are sent to the colleges will be distributed to each member of the audience. After briefly describing his college, each representative will evaluate the student's records in light of the college's admission standards. The audience will then have an opportunity to ask questions of the panel.

W. Howard Niblock, principal of the Senior High School will be the moderator of the program, which is being sponsored by the Parent-Faculty Association under the program chairmanship of Mrs. Ralph Swanson.

March of Dimes Names C. Butler

According to an announcement today by the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes, Charles W. Butler of the Winchester Trust Company has accepted the position of mailer's treasurer for Winchester for the 1967 March of Dimes campaign.

"Because of the efforts of Mr. Butler and his fellow volunteers in the town of Winchester some child born with a birth defect in 1967 may be saved. Because of a major effort of hundreds of thousands of March of Dimes volunteers, our leading scientists throughout the country are able to find answers to the questions that are asked about birth defects. The tragic total of birth defects in Massachusetts in 1967 will be 8,000 children." Mr. Butler is helping to do something about it.

"The Foundation is proud that the research and teaching done at March of Dimes centers by March of Dimes grantees has brought to life the fact that 80 per cent of the children born with birth defects can be helped. This would not have been possible without the generous aid of the people of Winchester."

Area Dental Assistants

The Christmas meeting of the Middlesex Dental Assistants Society will be held Tuesday, December 6, at the Cottage Crest Restaurant, 610 Trapelo Road, Waltham. The dinner meeting will begin promptly at 7 p.m.

There will be a state visitation this month by the president of the Massachusetts Dental Assistants Association, Mrs. Barbara Hayes. For information regarding transportation please call Miss Patricia Quinn at 444-3658 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. All dental assistants are invited to attend.

Do Your Xmas Shopping At The Market Place

Robert Merenda reports that one of his customers last year gave his wife a Christmas presetnt of having a bathroom tiled in any style she chose, and she has been happy with the present all year. "It's a practical gift idea," Mr. Merenda says, "and it's one that a lot of homeowners consider because of its improvement to the home in a way that can be appreciated year 'round." Mr. Merenda's expert workmanship in linoleum and ceramic tile is well known in Winchester, and free estimates or orders on jobs can be made by telephoning 729-2802.

With the winter season upon us now what better Christmas gift to give the head of the house than a new snow blower to make clearing walks and driveways effortlessly easy. Winchester Power Equipment in the C. H. Symmes building at 745-747 Main Street has all kinds, models, and size snow blowers as well as sells them, They also sharpen and repair ice skates.

For plumbing and heating installations, repairs and supplies during the winter months, H. L. Wood Company stands ready with 24-hour-a-day service for its customers. Herbert Wood, master plumber, specializes in residential, commercial and industrial plumbing and heating work in Winchester.

For the family car a Christmas gift idea—new Firestone tires for the winter months ahead......the tire with the dependable tread. Or, why not give a gas and oil gift certificate as a practical present to one who likes to drive the family car or who does a lot of driving. F. H. Keenan's Jenney Service Station at 12 Swanton Street stands ready to be of service to its customers, including Christmas shoppers who are looking for practical gift ideas.

One terrific Christmas gift idea for women is cosmetics, and O'Neil's Pharmacy at 294 Washington Street is the place to look for just the right kind of perfume, hairspray, or other cosmetic. Shoppers are welcome to browse to find 'the perfect one for ......," and Paul O'Neil says he is always happy to help customers find what they are looking for, and give helpful advice if needed. O'Neil's also carries many other Christmas gift items, such as a handsome traveling shave kit for men. Stop in and see why many gift hunters go to O'Neil's first.

Thinking of how nice a new color TV set would look in your living room this Christmas and New Year's for the color shows (over 90% of current TV programming) and for many years to come? The Winchester Appliance Store at 15 Thompson Street has a showroom full of colorful new color TV sets ready for the TV owner viewer who knows what he wants in quality. Telephone 729-2990 for information, an appointment to see the set of your choice, or even just for same day service on your old set.

Laundry need attention? Superior Laundry at 625 Concord Avenue in Cambridge does superior work on all laundry and dry cleaning, and they have home pick-up and delivery service for Winchester customers. Telephone UN 4-1050 for personal service.

Have a youngster turning 16 soon? A good Christmas present would be to enroll him or her in a B & T Auto Driving School course. B & T Auto Driving School at 280 Washington Street here in Winchester gives expert driver instruction and training to all age groups, and has proven especially adept at training the nervous beginning driver. Telephone 729-1197 for particulars.

The new 1967 Chrysler and Plymouths this year are more beautiful than ever—and they would make exceptional and practical gifts for the new year coming up—something that can be used and useful for a long time. Local residents Arthur Houlihan, Jr., Adolph Herrmann, and Tom Joslin are at Wellington Circle in Medford every day to help and advise Winchester customers in looking for new cars. Anyone wishing a special appointment may call 395-8000.

Does that Volkswagen or Porsche need a winter tune-up? Or how about that extra accessory item for the car? Pass & Weisz, Inc. at 287 Salem Street in Woburn has German trained and licensed Volkswagen and Porsche specialist mechanics that handle many Winchester VW's and carry a complete stock of VW and Porsche parts and accessories. For more information or an appointment call 933-4592 or 933-9833.

Looking for an unusual and distinctive gift idea? Visit the new Candle Shop at 29 Thompson Street, where proprietor Charles Garabedian shows all kinds, sizes, shapes, colors, and fragranted candles for normal home use, formal occasions, or party centerpieces. Also candle holders from wrought iron, brass, silver, and Danish modern walnut wood and other designs. Antiques of many kinds too, on display. Stop in at the Candle Shop, and see for yourself the many Christmas gift ideas available.

Christmas parties? For great hors d'oeuyres, chips and dips, snacks or full meal suggestions and supplies, Arthur Leland, new proprietor at Ward's Market at 19 Thompson Street, has just the right ideas and furnishings to make Christmas and New Year Season's parties easier and tastier!

Going to a formal occasion during the Christmas or New Year's Season? Gregory's Formal Wear at 162 Massachusetts Avenue in Arlington caters to many Winchester customers who know that Gregory's famous name formals and service is the best in the Greater Boston Suburban area. And Gregory's offers expert consulting advice for formal events to those who wish to help in planning or selecting formal wear and other accessories.

Johnson's Wallpaper Shop at 747 Main Street has distinctive wallpaper designs to fit every decor, style and taste, Select from a wide variety of colors and styles and fashions the best wallpaper for a room in your house—or give a Christmas gift certificate allowing the one of your choice to choose a choice selection.

And for those family shopping and Christmas photos you take, E. R. Knox, Inc. of Medford, daily picks up films and delivers quality finished prints at 6 convenient locations in Winchester: the Aberjona, Cradock, Hevey's, McCormack's, and O'Neil's pharmacies, and the Winchester News Store.

A home for Christmas! An elegant new Oriental rug from Mouradian Rug Galleries at 40 Church Street. Aram Mouradian has many of the finest imported Oriental rugs to show those looking for this beautiful Christmas gift idea. Stop in and see for yourself.

For the car owner a visit to Davidson Chevrolet at 127-137 Main Street in Medford might turn up some useful and needed auto accessories such as vanity mirrors, car trash bags, spotlights, etc. Telephone EX 6-7500 for information, ideas and prices. They also have new cars in stock for Nieman Marcus type gifters.

Boodakians Building Anew

NEW BOODAKIAN CLEANING PLANT. Workmen recently began erecting steel framework for a new Koko Boodakian & Sons cleaning plant on the 14 Lochwan Street foundation where the previous building stood before fire ravaged it last January. The new building, estimated to cost approximately $250,000, is scheduled to be finished in March of 1967, and will be larger both horizontally and vertically than its predecessor. It will be constructed of concrete and steel siding, concrete floors and partitions, and will have a sprinkler system. Harry Bodakian, manager of the cleaning plant, said the modern facility will have an increased cleaning capability with new equipment, expanded storage space, and a modernized repair area. The large local area rug sales and service firm maintained "business as usual" for its many customers through its 1026 Main Street showroom building during the period a new building permit, plans and construction bids were in process.

Duplicate Bridge Club

Next Wednesday, December 7th, is a high point in the Club year, the open Pairs Championship, with the Bowman Real Estate Challenge Bowl the prize for the best Club entry.

Despite preparations for the holiday, a goodly group turned out on Wednesday, November 23rd. We were especially happy to welcome back Bill Duryea and his lovely bride who will be making their home in Winchester.

Jane and Tex Renz again North-South in Section A with a hefty 134 points on a 108 average. And in the East-West direction another familiar duo, Martha Joslin and Herb Wood came up with 134 points also.

North-South

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Renz, Jr.	134
Wiliam Wheelock and Tom Young	122½
Lena Collins and Clarence Woodward	119
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	115

East-West

Martha Joslin and and Herbert Wood	134
Richard Smith and Sam Burwen	122
Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Duryea	121
Donna Redpath and Barbara Shea	111
Carl Galante and Jock Olmsted	108

It was very good to have our Club director, Blair Hawley, back in the list again, and when the jousting was over in Section B, the colors went to Blair and his partner, Stephen Chiotellis, for their tremendous 71% game.

North-South

Stephen Chiotellis and Blair Hawley	89½
Major and Mrs. Robert Lix	79½
Edward Sullivan and John Reardon	76
Mr. and Mrs. Roger Longley	73½

East-West

Robert Prevoir and William Corcoran	76
Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade	74½
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fortin	74½
Gerry Lawrence and Lolly Smith	73½
Leonora Carty and Eileen Brennan	67
Anne Murray and Gladys O' Leary	63

I may be only 23 years old and I am certainly not the smartest or most beautiful girl in the world, but Aunt Martha and I were part of a select group invited on a two week cruise in the Mediterranian earlier this month on the fabulous yatch belonging to Stelios Onassios, the suave Athenian shipping magnate.

One afternoon, I was watching Aunt Martha play duplicate on the bridge and she was giving me helpful hints on the side. She was sitting South, as was Mr. Onassios at the next table.

Along came board 13, on which North was the dealer and both sides were vulnerable:

Aunt Martha became the declarer at a contract of three no trump and watched West open the 7D. She ducked cleverly from dummy (whispering to me that this would ensure two diamond tricks if West had either of the two missing honors).

East won with the QD and returned the spade 10. South took the finesse, losing to West's KS. West came back with the 4D and Auntie was a bit perturbed when East showed up with the KD (but never mind, dearie, it will be the same bad break at all the other tables, that's the beauty of duplicate).

East continued with the 8S and Martha held off one round, taking the third lead of spades with the ace (to block the suit, darling). After winning the KC, declarer led a low heart and took West's KH with the AH in dummy.

Here, she confided to me that the strategy was not to let West in to run his two good spades. She led the 9C which was covered by East's ten. She gave me a knowing smile and played the AC from her hand (you see, angel, we don't want West to get in; we might catch the doubleton QC and, even if East has that card, we can lead clubs again from dummy and set up my jack!).

So she led over to dummy's AD and played the last club off the board. Aunt Martha was right! After taking his QC and two diamond tricks, East had to lead a club and make South's jack a winner, and all this without ever letting West in to run spades or even win a heart trick! What a marvelous player is my Aunt!

I enjoyed this board so much that I followed it to the next table where Mr. Onassios was sitting comfortably in a deck chair with his Corsican commodore on his left and a glass of ouzo on his right. I had peeked at the traveling score slip and knew that everyone who had tried a contract of four hearts had gone down.

Sure enough, 3NT was the contract again, but the lead was the 6S. Stelios won with the QS and led the 8H which won the trick. The boat seemed to be swaying a bit more now and I began to feel uneasy, but Onassios took another sip of oozu and led the 2H. West played the ten and declarer called for the ACE from dummy (my, my, he's not as good a player as Auntie, she would have taken the marked finesse and won with the jack!). When East showed out, a rapid exchange took place between commodore and his chief, but it was all Greek to me.

He next led the 3C and finessed successfully with his jack, then plumped down the KC and the AC, and let East win the fourth club trick. East led the 8S and was allowed to hold the trick. Onassios refilled his glass of uzoo (I must find out how to spell that word) and surveyed this end position.

East made a graceful exit with his last spade, but Steli (as I came to call him later) came up with the ace and led the JD right back, endplaying East, making four no trump and taking FOUR more tricks than Auntie Martha!

By the way, if you happen to be in Athens in the near future, be sure to look me up. I have signed up for a series of bridge lessons under expert tutelage!

Auto Passing-On-The-Right Repeal Urged

Legislation to repeal Massachusetts' controversial Passing on the Right Law has been proposed by a sports car club official, in Great Barrington, who says it "legalizes the most dangerous driving practice since the invention of the automobile."

Angus R. MacDonald, president of the Jug End Sports Car Club, said that the majority of drivers oppose the present law which became effective earlier this year.

"The only justification given for the law is that it is in force in 44 other states," Mr. MacDonald stated.

"In reality, the law is an admission that we can't do anything about the slowpokes that clog the left lane on a divided highway. It permits wholesale lane-jumping on a dangerous scale.

"There has been an alarming increase in accidents on divided highways and Passing -on -the -Right laws must take their fair share of the blame.

Mr. MacDonald expects to have legislation filed shortly to, he says, "stop the game of Russian roulette on the highways."

Christmas Club

It was announced today by Mr. Vincent C. Ambrose, president of the Winchester Trust Company, that checks totalling in excess of $161,000. were mailed to all Christmas Club depositors in November.

The popular appeal of this particular type of regular savings is clearly demonstrated by the increases which have been shown again this year in the number of individual depositors, as well as the total dollar volume of Christmas Club deposits. The yearly distribution of this money, saved voluntarily over a 50-week period, gives added impetus to the pre-holiday purchasing power of a large number of prospective retail shoppers.

The 1967 Christmas Club applications are now available at both offices of the Winchester Trust Company - 35 Church Street and 16 Mt. Vernon Street.

Cannonball Express Days Are Numbered

Before the end of the decade a new breed of railroad train will tiptoe past sleeping communities with nary a chug or clank.

At the 72nd meeting of the Acoustical Society of America, held recently in Los Angeles, acoustical scientist Harold R. Mull predicted that even at speeds up to 160 miles per hour turbine-powered trains will produce noise and vibration levels well below those experienced today.

At 125 miles per hour, for example, the interior noise will be no greater than that of a quiet office, while the surrounding community will suffer no more annoyance than from a large truck.

Teaching the turbines acoustical manners depends on quieting three major sources of noise. The turbine engine itself is a well known "whiner" which will be silenced by lining the engine compartment walls with sheets of vinyl impregnated with powdered lead. Rail noise, especially rail-joint impacts, will be isolated from car interiors by air springs and rubber bushings on the wheels and axles. Finally, air turbulence, a great problem at the speeds to be travelled, will be reduced to a whisper by streamlined surfaces.

"The sound of progress as rail transport enters the jet age," says Mull, "will be a softer sound."

Cadettes Run "Play Corner" For Clinic Again

This year the Girl Scouts from Cadette Troop 512 have volunteered to supervise the "Play Corner" at the Well Baby Clinic.

It is the fourth year that a Cadette troop has been responsible for this highly successful project.

Every Thursday during the school year the two girls arrive at the clinic at 2:50 o'clock and set out the paper, crayons, scissors, puzzles and Golden books. Then for well over an hour they entertain the children who are waiting to see the doctor. With their minds thus diverted from the impending needle there is little or no crying to be heard. Afterwards, the girls stay to clean up.

During the year Troop 512 plans to replace many of the worn articles.

So far, the following girls have taken their turn at the clinic: Ellen Corderman, Emily Stebbins, Virginia Miner, Charlotte VerPlanck, Judy Russell, Noreen Murphy, Cathy McHugh, and Jane Heitz.

Next month these girls will be on hand: Janet Puffer, Darcy Hosmer, Ellen Twitchell, Leslie Baerenwald, Jeanne VickRoy, Susan Jones, Kathy Mahoney, Cherie Hanes, Ann Markham, and Laurie VanRoosen.

Scout Pow-Wow Here Saturday

The annual cub scout leader's Pow-Wow of the Minuteman Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, will be held Saturday, December 3rd 1-4 p.m. at the Lynch Junior High School.

Over 200 cub scout leaders representing the 20 communities serviced by the Minuteman Council are expected to participate in this once a year, special training and fellowship experience. An outstanding faculty representing the twenty communities, experienced in their subject matter and the ability to convey their know-how to leaders as well as cub scouts will be on hand to assist den mothers, pack leaders, committeemen and cub parents.

Anyone interested in attending should contact their unit chairman or the Council office direct.

ALA Bill Would Stop Compulsory Auto Insurance

The Automobile Legal Association (ALA) has refiled its bill to abolish Massachusetts' controversial compulsory auto insurance system.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Chandler H. Stevens (I-Bedford), would provide for a financial responsibility law, coupled with an unsatisfied judgment fund, based on the system used in New Jersey.

Similar legislation submitted by the ALA and Governor Volpe failed to win approval in the last session of the General Court.

However, Alphonse W. Query, Jr., ALA's legislative counsel, said chances of passage of such legislation in the next session were "much brighter."

Query, who drafted the ALA measure, said that the auto insurance companies' latest request for higher rates has "rallied public support behind efforts to abolish the compulsory system."

He noted that 47 states now have a financial responsibility motor vehicle law and that such a law is recommended by the Uniform Vehicle Code, which is sponsored by the National Committee on Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances.

Under the ALA's proposal, motorists would not be required to have insurance to register an auto if they have not been involved in an accident or been convicted of a serious motor vehicle violation.

Any motorist who is involved in an accident and who does not satisfy claims over $100 against him would be ruled off the road until such claims are settled.

Persons who cannot collect a judgment against a motorist responsible for an accident would be able to collect from the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund.

The Fund, in which the state and insurance companies would participate, would derive its funds from insurance companies and a slight boost in auto registrations. The registration fee would be boosted $1 for each insured motorist and between $15 and $25 for each uninsured motorist.

Motorists found at fault in an accident would be required to show proof of financial responsibility before being allowed back on the road. This coverage would be $10,000 for bodily injury or death of two or more persons in a single accident, and $5,000 for damage to property in a single accident.

Hennessey Wins Nat. Science Grant In Pol Science

The National Science Foundation awarded a $7,400 grant to the University of North Carolina here for support of one of its graduate student's research on the political socialization of school children.

Awarded for an 18-month period, the grant is financing the doctoral dissertation research of Timothy Martin Hennessey of 8 Governor's Avenue. A graduate of Brown University, Mr. Hennessey is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree in political science, with a specialty in comparative politics.

At present, Mr. Hennessey is at the International Center at the University of Bologna, Italy, where he is studying political socialization of school children in Italy and Ireland.

"The Spiritual Revolution"

"The Spiritual Revolution," the widely acclaimed public talk by Erwin D. Canham, Editor of "The Christian Science Monitor," has been reprinted and is again available in booklet form.

The initial demand for copies of this significant talk was so great that the first printing was quickly distributed.

A new supply has recently been received at the Christian Science Reading Room, 4 Mt. Vernon Street, where copies may be obtained without charge.

Total Curriculum Defined For Lincoln School Parents

The second parent - teacher curriculum discussion was held on November 15 at the Lincoln School with teachers of the intermediate grades presenting a comprehensive picture of the entire course of study in grades 4 - 6.

Mrs. Robert Sands, chairman of the room mothers opened the meeting and thanked her committee for their help in arrangements and refreshments. Those serving on the committee included Mesdames David Ashton, Ernest Dieterich, Herbert Edmands, George Vincent, Dan Test, Ernest Benshimol, Robert Millican, Wilbur Otis, Richard Langley, Calvin Allyn, and Thomas Vangell. Mrs. Sands introduced Miss Martha Cunningham, principal, who talked about the new curriculum, stressing flexible grouping, the multi-text approach; and showed the new single-concept film machine which is being used.

Each area of the cirriculum was covered by one teacher. Reading was described by Miss Cunningham (substituting for Mrs. Mary DeSalvo who was ill) as undergoing a change in the 4th grade. Instead of "learning to read" the children now "read to learn." A great variety of books were on display which showed that the children are encouraged to read in many areas. Dictionary skills, vocabulary development and comprehension are supplemented by the Weekly Reader, and Jr. Scholastic. By the 6th grade most children read at an average adult level. The total reading program will be explained at an Lincoln School Parents Meeting later in the year by Mrs. Phylliss Gallante, reading specialist.

Miss Claire Halverson, 4th grade teacher, described the development in spelling and language. The spelling program is geared to allow the children to progress at their own rate, through teamwork. Although spelling level tests are given at the beginning of the year, adjustments are made if a child should be advancing or not progressing at the proper rate. Workbooks, cards and the child's own list of misspelled words are tools that are used.

Review tests are given periodically in order to keep abreast of the class as a whole. Language consists of creative writing, grammar lessons, literature and poetry study.

Social Studies, now a field which encompasses not only history and geography, but also sociology, economics, political science and anthropology was explained by Miss Maureen Fox, 6th grade teacher. She said that the biggest change has been in the 4th grade curriculum, which now studies 8 different cultural areas of the world, plus a community study. Many different materials are used such as film strips, magazines, news reports, and assorted texts. The 5th grade, also using the multi-text approach studies the U.S.A. on a geographical basis, one area at a time. The 6th grade concentrates on the Western Hemisphere, again using the multi - background technique. All the children are encouraged to develop critical thinking and attitudes toward different cultures which after evaluation and discussion should help them to become better citizens.

Miss Mary Ann Hull, 5th grade teacher, described the science program as one which tries to teach the value of discovery and the scientific method, as relating to the children's every day life, for realistic meaning. Textbooks, musuem trips and experiments are used to illustrate the importance of not jumping to conclusions, but rather evaluating information in order to come to a solution. Again, science topics cover a wide range, including physiology, chemistry, physics, geology and astronomy. Miss Hull took the opportunity to suggest that all children should and can be praised for something, aside from academic ability, in order to help them to grow and feel secure.

Math described by Miss Anne Sullivan, 6th grade teacher, is now a "spiral learning approach." Rather than each step, the child builds on previous knowledge. The basic skills are necessary, but they are encouraged to explore, discover and create. Multi - texts, film strips, records, manipulative devices, puzzles, games, and worksheets are used by the children to help them build up their accuracy and efficiency.

Physical education, Art, and Music were explained by Mrs. Sandra Nieman, 4th grade teacher. Art is correlated with the grade's subject matter, and an appreciation and understanding of art forms is the goal. The use of all art media is available sometime throughout the year. Learning, understanding and enjoying music is accomplished through listening and participating. From 4th to 6th grade two part harmony is advanced to three part harmony. The reading of sheet and choral music is developed, and music theory and notes are taught.

Physical education is primarily for the purpose of developing the neuro-muscular skills plus learning good sportsmanship. As children grow their physical coordination and skills increase, and the program is geared to meet their needs.

At the close of the meeting all parents were invited to examine the teaching tools and materials on display.

Music Club Performers In Good Showing

Members of the Winchester Music Club and their guests gathered for a holiday weekend program Sunday night, November 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Villari, 94 Highland Avenue. Miss Mary Ann Villari was hostess and the mistress of ceremonies was Miss Hillary Hosmer.

David Miner, piano student of John Willis, began the program by playing a Chopin Prelude. David Detra then played a violin solo, the Kuchler concerto opus 15, accompanied by Mrs. William Schromm. He is a student of Mrs. Carl Thomas.

The program continued with Marjorie Sexton, student of Mr. Willis, playing a Debussy Prelude. She was followed by Jane Thompson, who played a violin solo, the Huber Concerto No. 2, accompanied by Angela Burkhardt at the piano. Miss Thompson is a student of Mrs. Carl Thomas and Miss Burkhardt is a student of Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts.

During intermission the group caught a touch of the coming holiday spirit by singing Christmas carols.

The second half of the program began with Jane Sexton at the piano playing a Three Part Invention by Bach. She is also a student of Mr. Willis. Then Lee Oliver, former student of Edward Mitchell, played a bass clarinet colo, Andante and Bouree by Handel. The final piano solo was by Ann Bird, student of Mr. Willis, who played two Chopin Preludes.

The music club is open to all junior and senior high students who enjoy listening to and performing good music. The next program will be January 29. Anyone interested in details about membership in the Winchester Music Club may call Mrs. John Harrington at 729-3452.

It was fitting that Henry Knowlton end his football coaching career with a win, for he has been a winning coach ever since he took over the high school football team a quarter of a century ago. In that time his teams, exclusive of ties, have won almost 75 percent of their games—quite a record against schools with comparable or higher enrollments and in a tough league. Few high school coaches in the country can equal that.

Some of his critics have complained that he didn't drive his players hard enough. The record would negate such criticism, for his system worked. As for his losing seasons of recent years, all things come to him who waits—the good and the bad.

We believe one of Coach Knowlton's greatest satisfactions is that he has relinquished his reign at a time when Winchester's football future is on the rise. There is a good nucleus of players left over from this year's team, plus good material coming up among the present ninth graders. Above all is the winning spirit of the team. Those returning have it—it's a good feeling, and they won't give it up.

The Woburn stands were packed solidly, with the overrun extending to the sidelines and the end zones. The bluff overlooking the field was also put to use, with quite a few of the younger crowd getting free standing room for the game.

* * * * *

We sat next to Father Garrity, who acted as spotter for Father McGann, who was broadcasting the game. Father Garrity didn't miss a trick and pulled us out of a hole on more than one occasion. He's more knowledgeable and has better eyesight.

The Winchester defense was truly remarkable. From end to end it was hard to select any one player as outstanding, for each and every member of the line played a great game. Much has been written about the linebackers in recent weeks, deservedly praised, and their work in this game was just as good as it has been in previous games. With almost all of them graduating it will be tough to replace them—but we can hope next year's defense is nearly as good.

* * * * *

Winchester-Woburn partisanship has always been conducted on a high level, and this year was no exception. We wonder if the townspeople realize just how much this is due to Freddie McCormack's efforts over the years in conducting the Victory Dance and engendering a spirit of friendly rivalry. We are certain that although Fred is no longer connected with the dance in an official capacity, his interest in the youth of Winchester and Woburn will not end. Though he has long been an unsung hero, a little singing was done for him Thanksgiving night, which pleased and moved him no end. A great guy, Freddie.

The time has come . . . cabbages and kings. Let's hope basketball (the cabbage) turns into a beautiful pumpkin coach, and that hockey (at present king) continues its successful reign—for both are truly upon us. Basketball and hockey practice is beginning. A Melrose sportswriter mentioned that Winchester was expected to be a power in the coming basketball season. Maybe—hopefully—he knows something we don't.

Tibor Saddler was awarded his Tufs varsity letter in soccer the other day. He gained a starting forward berth, scored a goal and chipped in with an assist. He is counted on heavily for next year's Jumbo soccer team.

Sachems 20-8 Over Tanners In Traditional Turkey Day Game

JOHN CHEEVER DOES THE LAST SCORING of the Winchester-Woburn game at Woburn Thanksgiving Day as he carries for the two-point conversion after the final Sachem touchdown. Action took place in the fourth quarter.

Before almost 9,000 fans at Connolly Field in Woburn, the Winchester High School football team, coached for the last time by Henry Knowlton, defeated Woburn in the traditional Turkey Day game 20-8 by virtue of two key interceptions. The first interception took place in the first quarter when Ken Albertelli snared a flare pass thrown by Woburn quarterback Doug Lentz at the Winchester 40 yard-line and ran unmolested into the Woburn end zone. This put Winchester in the lead 6-2. The second came early in the fourth quarter when Dave DeTeso got in the way of another Lentz-thrown pass at midfield and ran it back to the Woburn 27 to set up the Sachems' last touchdown and put the game out of reach.

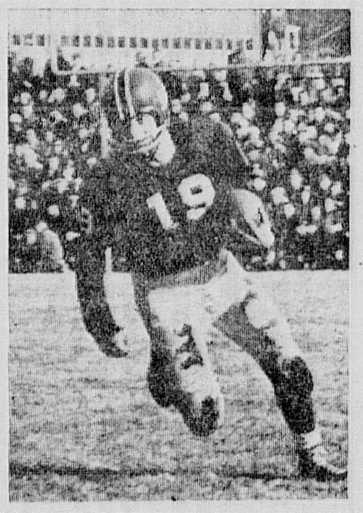
Woburn drew first blood in the first quarter when Woburn's right guard Gary Valdario nailed DeTeso and drove him into the end zone for a safety on an attempted punt return.

The alertness of the Sachem defenders won the game for Winchester. The Tanners actually outplayed their rivals in the statistics.

First Quarter

The opening Tanner kickoff was brought back to the Sachem 30. Bob Nutile crashed through center for 8. Peter Knight got 2 for the first down. After one play got nowhere Nutile was nailed for a 6-yard loss by Tom McEvoy. Collins kicked to the Woburn 30. Charlie Masterson and Billy Lavacchia got 2 apiece. After a pass play failed, DeTeso took the kickoff on his ten, dropped back to his right trying to find running room and was tackled into the end zone by Valdario for the safety. Tanners 2, Sachems 0.

Toby Harvey's onside kick went to the Winchester 32. Tom Varley with the aid of Dan McGee dropped Lavacchia for a yard loss. On the next play Albertelli intercepted the pass that put Winchester ahead, running straight downfield the 60 yards without a hand laid on him. The conversion failed and the score was 6-2 Winchester.



BOBBY NUTILE lugs the ball

The Winchester kickoff went to the Tanner 26. Peter Knight nailed Riley for no gain. Kevin Barry dropped Masterson trying the other side of the line. Lavacchia was stopped for no gain by Roger Fenn, assisted by Varley, and Woburn was forced to kick. The Sachems got the ball at midfield. Nutile went for 5. Knight broke through to the Tanner 24, a 21-yard gain. Nutile got 5. A backfield-in-motion penalty put the ball on the Woburn 25. Knight got another 4. After an incomplete pass to Martin, Brian Collins hurled a pretty pass to Jeff Schlener in the left corner of the Tanner end zone for Winchester's second TD. The conversion failed and the Sachems led 12-2.

Two plays later the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

On third down and 2 to go Grant stopped the next Woburn play cold, then almost blocked the kick, which Nutile returned to the Winchester 44. After 3 plays a Collins kick shoved the Tanners back to their 5. Three plays failed to get a first down and Woburn kicked to its 45. Three plays falied to gain enough for Winchester, and Collins kicked to the Woburn 10. A lateral to Lavacchia, who passed to Masterson, gained 12 yards. Another pass, to Lavacchia, was good for 26 yards to the Tanner 48. Two incomplete passes and a 5-yard loss on a fine tackle by Grant forced a kick which Choate ran right end for 15, but the play was nullified by an illegal motion penalty. A pass good for 15 yards to Nutile put the ball on the Winchester 26. After 2 plays a pass intended for Knight was intercepted by Joe Marashio on the Winchester 27. Mike Ciarcia broke through to smear Lentz by a 13-yard loss. A pass to Lavacchia was good for 17. On the next play Lentz hit Lavacchia with a flare pass to the left and he fought his way to a touchdown. Four Winchester players had a shot at him but couldn't pin him down. The conversion was no good, and the score was Winchester 12, Woburn 8.

Wayne Carpenter took the kickoff on his ten and ran up the alley to the Winchester 48. A pass, Collins to Schlener on a cutback, took the ball to the Woburn 20, good for 32 yards. Four plays got nowhere and Woburn took over on its 20. Two plays later the half ended.

Third Quarter

Winchester kicked to the Woburn 22. After 3 plays netted 4 yards, Barry blocked the kick, but offsetting penalties nullified the play, and Woburn kicked to its 42. Three plays got 3 yards and Collins kicked to the Tanner 12. Woburn started its longest drive of the day, picking up 53 yards on ten plays with Masterson and Lavacchia doing most of the carrying, Billy getting a pass on the way good for 15 yards. Winchester finally got the ball on its 19 but got nowhere and Woburn had the ball on its 45. A left end sweep by Masterson was good for 9. The quarter ended with Woburn in possession on the Winchester 32.

Fourth Quarter

In the first few minutes of the final period Dave DeTeso intercepted at midfield, skirted the right sideline and brought the ball to the Tanner 27. A 5-yard Woburn penalty brought it to the 22. Nutile groke through guard for 11, then another 8. John Cheever got a yard, then Nutile went over for the touchdown. Cheever crashed through for the conversion and the Sachems led 20-8.

Woburn got the kick on its 21. It got two first downs, aided by a Lavacchia run around right end for 7, a lateral to Lavacchia, who threw a forward to Marashio good for 13 yards. Three forward pass attempts failed and the kick went into the Winchester end zone. After three plays got 9 yards, Collins got off a rolling kick which traveled to the Woburn 22. Woburn started another drive which netted two first downs to the Winchesther 48. On the next play John Martin intercepted on the Winchester 22 to end the threat. Collins on two keepers got 7 and 5, and the game ended.

Cupit, Whitworth Classic Winners

by HARRY McGRATH

Jackie Cupit won his first tournament since 1964, when he defeated Chi-Chi Rodriguez in a sudden death playoff, on the second extra hole.

They tied with 271 for the 72 holes, and went on to the sudden death layoff. After halving the first extra hole, Cupit, the P.G.A. Rookie of the Year 1961, parred the second hole while the tiny Puerto Rican got himself a bogey five, after getting in trouble with his second shot.

The Cajun Classic, held in Lafayette, Louisiana, is the last of the official money tournaments on the P.G.A. tour.

Rodriguez, started the last round, three strokes behind Cupit, but his eagle on the 5th hole in the final round caught up with the leader, and went on to a 69, while Cupit had a 72, to create the tie.

Both had chances to win in the regulation 72 holes but couldn't make these crucial putts drop.

Cupit, in spite of his lack of first place finishes, was 20th in the official money list prior to the Cajun.

He got $4,850.00 for the win; Rodriguez $3,100; Dan Sykes, the new tournament chairman finished third and won $2,200.00.

Cupit now has a total of $49,216 in official money winnnings. He played in 27 tournaments and finished in the money 18 times.

Kathy Whitworth came from behind in the L.P.G.A. Titleholders Tournament, held at Augusta, Ga.

Kathy won $1,500.00 with her 291 for the 72 hole journey. Mary Mills and Judy Kimball with 293's shared second place and each received $1,100.00.

The P.G.A. National Team Championship to be held Dec.7-10 at the P.G.A. National Golf Club, Palm Beach Gardens, Florida, has become the world's richest golf tournament.

The total prize money will amount to $275,000.00 with the winning pair splitting $50,000.00.

Gay Brewer and Butch Baird, last years winners split $20,000.00, while fiinishing 3 strokes ahead of the Herbert brothers, Jay and Lionel.

Nicklaus and Palmer are teamed again, and are the natural favorites. But they were last year and didn't win.

The course is the P.G.A. Home-Course, at their new headquarters.

John D. MacArthur, who owns the golf course and headquarters, (the P.G.A. lease and the property), added $75,000 to the prize money.

This year's tournament is not on the official money-winnings list, but will be next year, and money leads could change quickly with such amounts involved.

Fathers Honor Jr. Wee Sachems

The fathers of the Junior Wee Sachem football team honored their sons with a banquet Saturday night.

Paying tribute to the conscientious effort their sons put into a winnig season of five wins and two losses, the fathers provided a get-together of team and parents to conclude a very enjoyable and profitable football year. For many of the boys, this was their first year in playing any kind of organized football. For others, it was a brand new experience of playing well-organized teams from other towns.

So pleased at the learning and progress which these small boys (ranging from 60 to 90 lbs.) acquired over the past two months, the fathers congratulated them with a banquet and certificate of achievement. They were also given a Winchester emblem to signify their membership on the 1966 team, an emblem they can wear with pride and satisfaction on the arm of some sweater or jacket.

The nourishment at the banquet was what boys like best: hot dogs, coke, and ice cream. It was prepared and served by the fathers mostly through the efforts of Judge Cullen. The mothers enjoyed the night out on dad, gratified at his efforts at cleaning up and washing dishes. The fathers took care of the program as well, showing movies, assisting in handing out awards. The amusing comments by the master of ceremonies Al Mayer led to a most enjoyable after dinner discussion. The presentation of gift certificates to the assistant coaches Dave Deschler and Bill Wolf, and the fine wrist watch to coach Jack Strain, climaxed the evening's spirit. It reflected the spirit of understanding and cooperation that was felt all through the year between coaches and families. Friendships were gained here that have become as important as the friendships the boys have had with each other. It was truly a wonderful evening for players, parents, and coaches.

Sports Awards to Collins, Albertelli, Lavacchia, Valdario and Marashio; Plaque Given to Fred McCormack

At the Victory Dance following the Thanksgiving Day Winchester-Woburn football game, held that night at the Winchester High School gym, the annual trophies for the best back and best lineman of each team were given, plus for the first time the Winchester Star-Woburn Times trophy for a player in the game selected on the basis of sportsmanship. Joe Bellino turned over the trophies to the Winchester recipients, while Eddie Foley, star quarterback of the 1955 Woburn team, who went on to further football fame at Boston College, delivered the awards to the Woburn players. A plaque was given Fred McCormack for 30 years of service in conducting the annual football dance.

Don Spinney, Winchester recreation director, was master of ceremonies at the award-giving. He introduced Joe Bellino, who presented the Winchester Post VFW trophy for best Winchester back to Brian Collins, who played such an outstanding game; and to Ken Albertelli (accepted by Johnny Martin in his absence) went the Winchester American Legion trophy as outstanding lineman. Albertelli intercepted to score Winchester's first touchdown and played stonewall defense in the line.

Eddie Foley turned over the Woburn VFW Memorial trophy to Billy Lavacchia as best back for Woburn in the game (the second year in a row for Billy), and the Woburn AL Memorial trophy to Gary Valdario, who scored first for Woburn with a safety and played an outstanding guard. Joe Marashio, Woburn end, received the sportsmanship award.

Henry Connors, commander, and John Walsh, senior vice commander, representing the VFW, and Chief Joseph Derro, representing the Police Department, were also introduced.

It was a pleased and visibly moved Fred McCormack who accepted from Joe Bellino a special plaque for having run the Victory Dance for 30 years without a break. Freddie had to give it up this year because of the press of business making it difficult for him to continue.

Rather than let the dance be dropped, three Winchester police officers took over the affair, Sgt.-Inspector James Cogan, Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton and former Juvenile Officer William Nash. These officers gave of their efforts whole-heartedly to assure the success of the Victory Dance. Don Spinney, who could not take over the affair on such short notice, gave what assistance he could.

It was an extremely well conducted dance. The more than 500 young folks from Winchester and Woburn had a fine evening dancing to Winchester's Nurk 5, a hep combo which dished out the kind of music that went over big with the crowd.

Forum Alumni Meet at Church

Chidley Fireside at the First Congregational Church was the gathering place last Friday for a large number of Forum Alumni members. Although many of the unmarried young people of the church were not at home for the Thanksgiving holiday or were out of town for the long weekend, approximately 40 were on hand Friday.

Several persons who formerly lived in Winchester but now reside elsewhere, came back to the affair as guests. Carleton Bolivar, Jr., U.S. Navy, attended for the first time as did Gordon Wisbach, Jr., now a student at University of Rhode Island. Bill Burrows, Jr., fourth year medical student at University of Vermont, was able to be present for the first time since the June, 1965 meeting.

Four of the Senior Forum members, Craig Heindel, Tom Erskine, Lynne Jones and Chris Hall assisted Mrs. William D. Barone with arrangements and Dr. Kenneth Henley and Mr. Richard Diehl stopped by for informal words of greeting. The next Forum Alumni meeting will be at the Barone home during Christmas vacation.

A BEAMING FREDDIE McCORMACK accepts plaque from Joe Bellino at the Victory Dance held at the high school gym Thanksgiving night. The plaque reads, "Frederick McCormack, McCormack's Apothecary, in recognition of thirty years of unselfish service to the youth of Winchester and Woburn, Nov. 24, 1966."

VFW

The Saabs moved into third place last week taking all 8 from the top team Misfits, and the Mustangs took 6 from the Jaguars.

Fran was high for the night with a 292. Terrific Fran! Right behind her in second place was Cappie with a 291, and Lucy was third with a 288. Good bowling kids.

Stina, Rose and Pat were hot stuff and Flaw, Barb, Norma, and Eleanor bowled well.

The girls voted to have their Christmas Party December 15 at China Moon. That's on a Thursday night after bowling.

Janet won the turkey, and the whole VFW Bowling League hopes that everyone had a very happy Thanksgiving!

Nick Buoniconti To Speak at Pop Warner Dinner

The 1966 football season for Winchester's Pop Warner Junior League Football activity comes to a close with the annual banquet at The Church of The Epiphany, Saturday, December 3, at 6:30 p.m.

Nick Buoniconti, the well-known middle linebacker of the Boston Patriots, will be the guest speaker at the affair. A native of Springfield, he starred at Catherdal High there before going to Notre Dame. He lost no time in making his mark at Notre Dame and, as a two-way guard in his senior year, he led all the Fighting Irish with 74 tackles.

He was a starting guard for the East in the annual Shrine classic in 1961 and also starred for the East in the first All-American Bowl at Buffalo just before joining the Patriots. Despite the fact that he had been co-captain of Notre Dame and mentioned on several All-America selections the previous year, Nick had to overcome the reputation of being "too small" for pro football. This he has done, as his fine record proves.

At the close of his rookie season when he won a regular berth in the second game, Nick was hailed by Coach Mike Holovak as the "best middle linebacker" in the league . . . he was awarded the 1776 Boosters' Club trophy as the Patriots' Rookie of the Year . . . former Defensive Line Coach Marion Campbell calls Nick "better than Sam Huff" in the latter's best years.

"Skippy," as he is known to his friends, now is a home owner in Randolph, with his wife Terrie and their two small children, Gina Marie and Nicholas Anthony Buoniconti III . . . he attends Law School, serves as sales representative for a vending machine company and plays on the Patriots basketball team during the off-season.

It is certain Mr. Buoniconti will have some interesting and worthwhile advce for Winchester's young players, and the adults in attendance. The affair is planned as a night for the players and pretty cheerleaders . . .no long speeches . . . just a pleasant occasion to mark the end of this season.

K. of C. Dancing At Open House

Winchester Council No. 210 Building Association will hold its seventh annual open house, Saturday, December 3, at Council quarters, 58 Mt. Vernon Street.

This annual affair will include dancing to Ken Thorpe's Orchestra from 8-12 p.m. with awards to be presented during the evening. An additional award wil be presented as an attendance prize.

All are welcome, admission is free and a fine coliation will be served.

NICK BUONICONTI of the Boston Patriots, generally regarded as the best middle linebacker in the Americal Football League, will be the featured speaker at the Winchester Pop Warner Junior Football League banquet Saturday.

Elks Annual Christmas Party For the Retarded

The Winchester Lodge of Elks will hold their third annual Christmas Party for the retarded of the Wrentham State School on Sunday, December 11, at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue.

The children, ranging in age from about 15 to 60, will arrive by bus at about 11, and will return to the school at about three. Forty or more of them will make the trip.

There will be a fine turkey dinner, suitable gifts, including something that will be most useful to them in the months that follow. Last year each received a fine parka to see him through the cold winters at the school.

There will also be entertainment for the group, and in turn, the children will entertain the Elks and friends with their charming humor.

At the last Christmas party for the children, among other dignitaries, Governor Volpe, a member of the Winchester Elks, and his charming wife Jennie, visited the party. Mrs. Volpe mingled with the group and greeted each child in her warm, sincere way. She is extremely active in work with the retarded.

The Christmas parties and summer outings for groups from the Wrentham State School have become the pet charitable project of the local Elks, and the members give of themselves whole-heartedly in assuring that every child has a good time. As a matter of fact, even visitors, such as the Selectmen, pitch in and help.

The Elks cordially invite any of the townspeople interested to drop in during the party to get a better understanding of these remarkable children and to observe the charm and wit and affection they exude, and why they have captured the hearts of all local Elks.

PYF to Be Host

The Young People's Fellowship will hold an evening meeting at 7 in Hadley Hall, Church of the Epiphany, on Sunday, December 4.

Groups from Bedford, Braintree, and Medford have been invited and a dinner will be served. The after dinner speaker will be the well-known Rev. Robert Little from Holden, who will speak on the topic "Where Am I Going?"

Any member planning to attend this meeting should have their reservations made.

WHS Girls' Hockey Notches Underfeated Season Again

Inexperience, illness and injury failed to prevent Winchester High School's field hockey team from having a successful season.

Captain Betsy Moore, the only returning varsity player, was unable to play the first six games of the season due to illness, and Captain Ellie Porter missed four games because of a foot injury.

An aggressive forward line, a stubborn defense and a dazzling halfback line combined to defeat five teams by convincing scores and tie the always strong annual rivals, Concord, Lexington, Melrose and Lincoln-Sudbury which was also undefeated.

Seniors; right wings, Candi Smiley, Carole Robinson, left wing, Madeline Sullivan and center Bonnie Johnson and juniors; left inner, Janice Dignam, right inner, Margie Sexton, and left wing, Becki Irwin comprised the hard shooting forward line. Senior fullbacks, Sue Mullare and Nancy Clark, and goal keeper, Lauren McClellan, were the solid, dependable defense. Senior center halfback, Ginny Long, played brilliantly on both attack and defense. Junior halfbacks, Janet Cantillon, and Judy Ober filled in for the co-captains, playing outstanding hockey.

The junior varsity led by captain Mary Fay had a good season. Although the team dominated play in most games, they had difficulty scoring. Members of the J.V. were Paula Garcelon, Eileen Sullivan, Janet Stiles, Maryann Brennan, Linda DeLeo, Kary Laban, Maureen McGuire, Lisa Johns, Merrie England, Carolyn Roundey, Jean Hoyt, Julie Sacca, Lynn Stites, Sue Swanson, Pat Fay, Andy Blanch, Cathy Niles, Sherryl Garrity, Marilyn Richardson and Marcia Barrow. Managers were Laura Winsor, Terry Hessler, Liza Ewing and Patti Westwater.

Hockey Jamboree Opens Season

In thrilling action during the first hockey jamboree and exhibition held at Hockeytown, U.S.A., Melrose this last weekend, Malden Catholic trounced Malden by a score of 9-1 in the feature game.

Additional results from the first half of the jamboree and exhibition, Melrose Jayvees knocked off Arch Bishop Williams Jayvees by a score of 6-0. Watson racked up two goals with one apiece by Noyes, Griffen, Priestly, and Knight.

Wakefield ran over Revere 4-2, Gloucester beat Reading 5-0, Quincy downed Brockton 3-1, Canton squeaked by Everett 3-2, Christopher Columbus upset Winchester 4-1, and the Melrose varsity took Arch Bishop Williams 6-1.

In the Malden Catholic game, Kenty scored four goals, Reardon banged in two, with one apiece by Riley, Ford, and Coleman.

Eight jamborees and exhibitions were held with seven more on tap for this coming weekend. In the opener, Revere challenges Marblehead; Masconomet takes on Malden High; Beverly faces Bedford; Matignon meets Reading; Melrose plays a leading North Shore contender; Malden Catholic meets Catholic Memorial in a feature game; and Boston Tech takes on Winchester.

The remaining games will be played this Saturday at Hockeytown, U.S.A. Game time 1:30.

Registration At Our Lady HS

Academy of Our Lady of Nazareth is a center for the High School Entrance Examination used throughout the Archdiocese.

Those who will enter high school next September may register for this examination November 28 - December 6, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Academy of Our Lady of Nazareth, 13 Jordan Avenue, Wakefield.

The new Arts and Science building will be ready for complete occupancy in September. In the fully equipped biology laboratory and chemistry laboratory students will receive the latest science instruction. Special preparation rooms will provide opportunity for independent study and research.

A standard gymnasium will make for an expanded physical education and extra-curricular activity program. Drama clubs and choral groups will find unlimited opportunities for their creative productions in the attractive, full-staged auditorium.

Other additions included in the new building are choral rooms, practice rooms and an ample cafeteria. Dedication of the Emiliana Center will take place in the spring.

PAUL BLOCK, 10, of 49 Wildwood Street, a student at the Vinson-Owen School, is appearing in a major role in "The Dark At The Top of The Stairs" by William Inge which is to be presented by the Arlington Friends of Drama on December 7, 8, 9, 10.

Poster Design Students Contest

Area high school students have been invited to participate in a poster design contest by the North Shore Community Arts Foundation of Beverly. The Foundation is sponsoring the contest in conjunction with its fifth annual Shakespeare Program for Students of a theatrical poster for the Foundation's spring production of Shakespeare's "The Tempest." The winning poster will be used throughout New England to publicize the spring Shakespeare Program.

The winner of the poster design contest will be flown to New York on American Airlines where he, or she, will visit leading art museums, tour the new Lincoln Center cultural complex, and attend a Lincoln Center production.

Other winners will receive the new Shakespeare game designed by the Avalon Hill Company of Baltimore. This fascinating new game has been created to test the player's knowledge of Shakespeare and his plays.

A panel of distinguished critics and art teachers will serve as judges.

Further details and rules for the contest may be obtained by writing the North Shore Community Arts Foundation, Box 62, Beverly, Mass. 01915.

The Foundation is a private, non-profit organization active in the arts.

"The Tempest" will be performed from May 15 to 27 in sixteen daytime performances by a professional company in Beverly.

Paulist Lecture

The Rev. Christopher F. Mooney, S.J., theologian and author, will be the next speaker in the Christian Culture Lecture Series, on Wednesday evening, December 7, at 8:15, at John Hancock Hall, Boston, speaking on the topic, "Teilhard de Chardin and Christian Spirituality." Dr. Max L. Stackhouse, professor of christian ethics at Andover Theological School, will be the program chairman.

Father Mooney, who heads the theology department at Fordham University, New York, is the author of the recently published book, "Teilhard de Chardin and the Mystery of Christ." He is a frequent contributor to leading magazines and journals including "Thought" and "Theological Studies."

Governor and Mrs. John A. Volpe, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice T. Freeman, and Mr. Eugene J. McCarthy, of Winchester, are among the well-known patrons of the Christian Culture Lecture Series. For details and tickets contact: Paulist Center, 5 Park Street, Boston.

Troop 507 Plans For Polar Bear

Courts of honor held in October and November by Scoutmaster Don Marchant have seen seven scouts advance in rank.

Dan Strout was awarded the Life Scout badge; Geoffrey Rivinius, the Star Scout badge; Dick Butterworth, First Class, and Dan Doucette, Ken Curtis, John Piantedosi and Arthur Carr became Second Class Scouts. A total of 32 merit badges, most of which were earned during the summer months, were also awarded to 11 scouts. In addition, Jim Babin, David Blakely, Richard Mullaney, Ed Murphy, Shawn Breen, Larry McHugh and Peter Rigney entered the Troop as Tenderfoot Scouts.

Several community service and conservation projects have also been carried out during the past month. Over the weekend of October 28, Star Scout Peter Tunnicliffe organized and directed the distribution by the Scouts of Troop 507 of 4,000 Voter's Guide information sheets to the citizens of Winchester. The Voter's Guide information sheets were supplied to the Troop by the League of Women Voters of Winchester as a part of their Voters Information Service. On November 26, Star Scout Ernie Crabtree led a group of 12 Scouts in a forest conservation project in the Winchester Fells. Nearly an acre of forest was cleared of brush and dead trees during the days activities.

November's activities also saw Scoutmaster Don Marchant lead a camping trip to Jaffrey, New Hampshire for the Senior Scouts of Troop 507.

Coming events for the month of December include swimming at the Woburn Boys Club on Sunday, December 11, a Board of Review on Thursday, December 15 and a Court of Honor on December 22. A December camping trip, in preparation for the Polar Bear to be held in January, will be held over the weekend of December 10.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

The "highway safety" problem threatens to be with us for decades to come! Its size is staggering: nearly 50,000 killed last year, and almost 4,000,000 injured! Perhaps this would be more meaningful if expressed another way: A person dies every 11 minutes! And 9,000 people are injured each day!

But restating totals does not lead to a solution. One expert says: "Without headlines, antibiotics and improved medical service have reduced highway deaths more than all of our combined auto safety efforts." Obviously, though, even better medical care is not the real solution either.

The authorities are unanimous: the major cause of accidents is unsafe, and careless driving. Until each one of us BELIEVES this — and takes steps to correct at least ONE person's driving habits, highway tolls may climb even higher.

The chance of great risks, of great injuries, and of great damages, ride with you every time you drive. In view of that, you need great auto insurance coverage.

Why not see us? We feature "the greatest!"

Sodality At St. Mary's Holds Reception Tues.

On Tuesday evening, December 6, at 8 p.m. the new members of St. Mary's Sodality will be enrolled by Father Francis X. Turke, spiritual director, at the regular monthly meeting.

Following the spiritual ceremony in the church, the Sodalists will enjoy a social in St. Mary's Hall. Prefect Margaret Crotty and her committee have arranged a get acquainted hour with entertainment and refreshments being provided for all to enjoy.

Any member of the parish desiring to join this organization may do so by contacting Father Turke, any of the officers, or signing up before the meeting Tuesday evening.

Swim Club Seeks A Pool Manager

The directors of the now under construction Winchester Swim Club at 105 Johnson Road, an $85,000 new West Side private recreational facility, are in the process of searching for a qualified pool manager.

A personnel committee, chaired by Robert H. Hinkley, is reviewing the qualifications of persons experienced in swimming instruction, water safety, group activities and pool management, according to club president Frank P. Stevens.

Treasurer Henry D. Twitchell, Jr., announced last week that the club is nearing its full membership of 250 families; membership chairman Kenneth D. Hudson is in charge of receiving applications.

Bates Family To Make New Home In New Zealand

Richard and Philippa Bates and their children, Jason, Emma, Philip and Giles will say a sad goodbye to their many friends here in Winchester when they fly to California on Sunday morning, en route for New Zealand.

The Bates have lived in Winchester for the past six years, mostly at No. 1 Woodside Road. Jason, Emma and Philip all attended Wyman School and this year Jason has been at the Noonan Annex.

Richard Bates is leaving his position with Sperry Rand Research Corp. in Sudbury to take up a post as Senior Lecturer in Electrical Engineering at the University of Canterbury in Christchurch, New Zealand. He has been active in town with the Staff and Key society and is singing his farewell role as the Lord Chancellor in Iolanthe on Friday and Saturday evenings. Philippa Bates has prepared the Staff and Key programs for the past three years. She is a member of The Friends of the Winchester Hospital and has belonged to the College Club Play Reading group and a local book club.

The Bates have attended the Church of The Epiphany and Jason and Emma sang in the junior choir.

The family will spend approximately two months travelling to Christchurch. They will be in California for ten days before sailing on the P & O liner Oriana from Los Angeles on December 16. They arrive in Aukland three days after Christmas and will spend January, which is the height of the summer tourist season, fishing, swimming and camping in the North Island, gradually driving south to Christchurch in the South Island in time for the new school year which begins in February.

Forum to Hear Former President

On December 4, Reverend Stephen C. Greene, minister of the South Congregational Church in Concord, New Hampshire and a former resident here, will be the chapel speaker at the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church.

Mr. Greene was born in Winchester and graduated from Winchester High School in 1944. He is also an alumnus of Yale and the Yale Divinity School. He was ordained at the First Congregational Church in Winchester in 1950 and has been a minister in Island Pond and Bennington, Vermont. During his high school days he was the president of Forum.

Mr. Greene has chosen "At a Point of Intersection" for his sermon title. Philip Boesch and Richard Kimball will be chaplains for the service.

At 4 p.m. that afternoon there will be a joint meeting for Forum, and C. Y. O. members of St. Eulalia in Chidley Hall. Mr. Gordon Gottsche, director of Housing and Improvement programs, South End Urban Renewal area will present an explanation with slides of the "Just a Start" program. Mr. Gottsche is helping develop and execute a series of neighborhood action programs involving community residents and volunteers on weekends and vacations.

Insurance Upped For Car Owners

10,817 Drivers Feel 6% Rate Rise Here

Winchester's automobile owners will feel a hike of slightly less than a 6 per cent increase in compulsory insurance rates next year, according to figures released last week by State Insurance Commissioner C. Eugene Farnham.

The increase for 1967 compulsory auto rates was the biggest in five years—a percentage rise of about twice the cost of living index increases in the past year—and will directly add to the costs of owners of 10,817 local motor vehicles.

Casualty insurance companies serving Massachusetts—the highest auto insurance rate state in the nation—had originally sought a 12.7 per cent premium boost based on claims statistics from 1965 as an "experience year" upon which to estimate 1967 losses.

The public's reaction to both the insurance companies' request and the State Commissioner's allowance was swift and critical.

Under the newly adopted rating system (still subject to a public hearing, which may be stormy, but is unlikely to produce any changes), the state's previous 18 territories were cut down to 15, based on population and accident frequency figures. Winchester moved from Territory 15 to Territory 12.

Foreign Students Join Cast for HS Xmas Program

The Annual Christmas Program presented by the musical organizations and Curtain and Cue, the drama organization, will take place on Friday, December 16, at Winchester Senior High School. It is open to the public.

Wendell Withington, director of the musical organizations, has announced that participants will be the Girls' Glee Club, High School Orchestra, the Girls' Double Sextette, a brass quartet, and the Concert Choir.

As director of the drama group, Curtain and Cue, Miss Judith St. Jean has prepared with the students an original Christmas play. Sixteen students will portray characters ranging from Charlie Brown to Scrooge. Included in the cast will be two South American exchange students, Maria Christina Lopez and Maria Amparo Cadavid, and the WHS Japanese student Michiko Nakajima.

The title given this annual Christmas event is "Christmas At W.H.S."

Clause 41 Tax Abatement To Elderly Stirs Debate

A tax and abatement difference of opinion in the Town Hall has resulted in a minor revolution there which could affect the tax payments of up to 200 or 300 elderly taxpayers who have sought exemptions under the old Clause 41 and recently enacted amendment which enlarges its scope.

At issue is whether the recently enacted amendment should take effect locally this tax year, or in 1967.

The impact of an immediate increased real estate tax break for the elderly that qualify for it here would be $25,000 in unplanned lost revenues to the Town Treasury. This would result in deficit financing this year to accommodate it, thereby adding approximately 20 cents to next year's tax rate.

The Legislature earlier this year passed the increased benefits under Clause 41 to elderly real estate property owners, and Governor Volpe signed it into law to take effect at once, this year. Attorney General Edward Brooke, asked for an opinion on the issue raised statewide as to whether it could take effect this year, ruled that there was no law that said it couldn't.

Winter Carnival Preparations In Active Progress

Winchester's "Winter Carnival" is moving ahead with plans and preparations for the four day event, December 27, 28, 29 and 30th, firming up, according to Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney.

Mr. Spinney noted on Monday one change from the announced schedule of last week, however. The "Snow Fun" snow sculpturing originally slated to be held on Carnival mornings at the Town Common, will instead take place on the municipal parking lot opposite the Town Hall between Mt. Vernon Street and Shore Road.

The change came about due to the Park Department's suggestion that some place other than the Town Common, where much money, time and effort has gone into landscaping and plantings, might be just as suitable and less susceptible to being damaged.

Mr. Spinney agreed with the suggestion, and altered the Snow Fun location to the municipal parking lot. "There it will also be near the ice rink and the Town Hall, where other Carnival events will be going on, and it will actually have more room and be more easily seen by passers-by," he commented. It will be roped off for the event then.

Thieves Steal $382 From Safe In Local Store

Police have identified four out-of-town suspects and are continuing in their investigation to get more evidence in the theft last Thursday of $382 dollars from an open safe behind a counter in the Winchester Paint and Hardware Store at 20 Swanton Street.

Sergeant-Inspector James J. Cogan credited an observant citizen who took the car registration number of the four young men who seemed to be acting suspiciously and gave it to police as leading to their identification and placing them at least at the scene of the larceny.

Civil Rights Speaker Says Self-Help Is In Order Now

"The civil rights movement has failed and the condition of the Negro citizen has deteriorated." stated Negro journalist and educator Bryant Rollins at a Winchester Fair Housing Association public meeting held recently at the First Baptist Church here.

BRYANT ROLLINS

"Revitalization can occur," he went on to say, "if self help programs like Operation Exodus continue to attract the attention of the Negro and white communities.

He described additional, new self help organizations such as the Roxbury Community School Board, which is designed to promote the involvement of Negro parents in public school educational policy in Roxbury.

According to Mr. Rollins, the Board will also engage in Negro teacher recruitment and curriculum research.

Mr. Rollins concluded by saying "The internal safety of our country depended upon the willingness of white people to submerge their egos and priorities to permit the emergence of Negro egos and priorities."

Mass Tax Appraisals Underway Toward Equality Of Tax Base

Governor Volpe's Residence First To Be Revalued

Northeast Sector Of Town Now Being Appraised

Searching for a common tax base for the community of Winchester, professionals from the specialist mass appraisal firm of Cole-Layer-Trumble Company of Dayton, Ohio, began a program of on-site property inspections here Monday morning, starting with the Town's—and the State's—first family, Governor John A. Volpe's residence at 10 Everett Avenue.

The appraisal of the Governor's gracious home fronting on one of the town's more expensively housed streets and overlooking the attractive Mystic Lake, took slightly less than a half hour to complete, including a twenty minute inside inspection tour with a visual recording of construction details of all the rooms in the large two-story residence, and a five minute outdoor walk around the home with noting of overall measurements and an outline rendering drawing.

In the inspection of the Volpe home, Daniel Scribner, 31, of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, job supervisor of the Winchester appraisal project, made notes on an 8 by 11 inch form card which on one side provided space for building record information, and which was filled in with construction details about the property as he was shown through the home by the Governor.

On the other side the card had provisions for recording property assessment information, most of which reflects work either already or yet to be done in the Assessors Office in the Town Hall, with space for auxiliary facts, determinant calculations, and final assessment results.

The Governor had just returned from morning Mass at St. Mary's Church and, with his wife, Jennie, finished breakfast before meeting with the Assessors' representative, accompanied by members of the press, for the appraising tour of his home.

The Volpe's had returned from their European vacation only on Saturday after a long, hard fall campaign effort, and the Governor had a busy day scheduled with the calling back of the Legislature for a special session later in the morning. However, he was not too busy to take the appraiser through each room of his home, answering questions about construction details himself—for he had built the home himself 14 years ago.

It wasn't a social visit, and clearly the Volpe's had many things of their own business to attend to. But the Governor was a gracious and helpful host in seeing that the appraiser was able to get all the information that he necessarily had to get to do his job in the interior inspection tour; and Mrs. Volpe, although a little surprised that the inspection included the whole house—not just the main floor, which is for receiving guests, but also the upstairs which is the family's private area—was most cooperative and friendly.

Mr. Scribner followed the Governor around the house, noting such construction specifications as the type of house foundation, which happened to be concrete, the flooring materials, the interior finish, the type of heating system, aspects of plumbing installed, whether there was usable attic space, and other features of construction such as any fireplaces and any remodelling data—such as the civil defense air raid shelter behind and beneath the street level garage.

Outside the home, Mr. Scribner noted that the walls were of brick veneer and the type of roofing material. He measured the entire outside of the home and garage, and then drew a "top view" perspective outline of the homesite.

He finished his on tour inspection by noting the typography of the land, the type of street—that it was paved, the type of property improvements — water, sewer, electricity and gas, and the general trend of the district—which was adjudged "static," that is, neither declining or improving or developing.

Mr. Scribner thanked theVolpe's for their courtesies, obtained a verification of inspection signature, and gave them a small leaflet entitled "Setting a Fair Value on Your Property In Winchester" which explained the tax equalization's purposes and procedures.

He then returned to the Town Hall to transfer information on his work card to a final property record card, which has provisions for computer processing adaptability for later use when the assessments are prepared.

According to property assessment records in the Assessor's Office, the Volpe's residence at 10 Everett Avenue was the second highest payer of residential property taxes in the community this year, paying a total of $4,450.08 on a valuation of $76,200. (Mr. Metcalf paid $6,132 on a valuation of $105,000 for the former Schraffts Estate.)

The Volpe home was valued at $67,500 this year, and the land at $8,700—$5,000 on the first 10,000 square feet at 50 cents a foot, $2,500 on the second 10,000 square feet at 25 cents a foot, and $1,200 on the remaining 11,866 square feet at 10 cents a foot.

Mr. Scribner announced yesterday that for the next two weeks appraisers from the Cole-Layer-Trumble Company will be inspecting properties in the Northeast sector of the town; i.e., properties east of Washington Street and North of Forest Street.

First Lady — First To Greet The Appraisers

By Barbara L. Powers

"Oh, no; are they going upstairs? The beds aren't made!"

This happened to be Mrs. John A. Volpe of 10 Everett Avenue, wife of the Governor of the Commonwealth. But it could have been any other Winchester housewife at the hour of 8:30 a.m.

Assessors play no favorites. And the indignity of having a stranger enter one's home early on a Monday morning with the credentials to walk through every room and the intent of doing it critically are felt the same by all women, no matter what their husbands work at.

Mr. Volpe had just returned from morning Mass, and the first lady was giving him his breakfast when Daniel Scribner of Cole, Layer, Trumbull Company, which is making the first mass real estate revaluation appraisal ever to be done here, arrived at the door accompanied by two Star writers and photographer Bill Ryerson.

The Governor's household had had a time alert to the invasion in order to accommodate the press. Other housewives here will have neither the exact time nor the accompanying photographer. But they will know, as Mrs. Volpe did not, that indeed the appraisers do come inside and look at the whole house, from top to toe.

And in many women there must be a battle between the instinct to have one's home looking at its best and the consideration that a messy bedroom might downgrade its apparent worth.

According to Mr. Scribner, housework is the least of an appraiser's concern.

"We don't even see dirty dishes and unmade beds," he said. "We're trained to look at a list of specifics only, and this is what we do."

For Mrs. Volpe the intrusion into the upstairs of her home was probably felt with more impact than other women would feel. Accustomed as she is to the public in her home, she allowed that the spacious living and dining room overlooking the lake were for receiving outsiders and were seldom used by the family. The upstairs, however, represented a retreat—

Xmas Lite Theft

Christmas-time is a season of merriment and giving; but some who are taking instead will be depriving the rest of the townspeople of a merrily attractive Christmas lighting decor in the Center, according to Police and Park Departments' reports.

An alarming rate of approximately 25 lightbulbs each night are stolen from the gaily lit trees and shrubbery on the Common, traffic rotary and elsewhere in the Center.

At the current frequency loss, according to one Park Department official, shortly after New Years when the lights are ordinarily taken down, "they'll only be taking down empty light lines."

Carols Coming

Once again Fortnightly will sponsor carol singing on the Common promptly at seven o'clock Christmas Eve.

This has become a community tradition. Every year since 1925—41 years—townspeople have met to join in this joyous Christmas sing around the Christmas tree.

Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham will direct the carol singing. A brass sextet made up of high school boys will accompany the singers. Miss Sally Worthen, contralto, will be the soloist, singing "Oh, Holy Night."

Plan to come, no matter how well you sing. Bring the whole family, meet your friends and neighbors, and join in this happy community sing on Christmas Eve.

First Conservation Acquisition:

Cox Pond Purchased By Town

The property known as Cox Pond now to be known by its original name of Smith Pond, passed into public ownership this week, as according to vote and an appropriation of $13,000 by town Meeting earlier in the year.

The Winchester Conservation Commission says it hopes that this is the first of several such lands which it anticipates may be purchased by the community for the enjoyment of its townspeople.

At its bi-monthly meeting last Wednesday, the Conservation Commission discussed the possibilities of preserving the watershed areas in the town.

Malcolm Masters, chairman, spoke of the creation of two green belts.

One, he suggested, would be to extend town-owned land from Smith Pond in both directions, to protect the stream which feeds into the pond from Whipple Hill, across the Lexington line, and to follow along the stream as it leaves the pond and flows toward Winning Farm.

The other green belt area, longer and more centrally located, would be along the Aberjona River, from the Woburn line to the Mystic Lakes. This would immeasurably enhance the esthetic character of Winchester.

The Commission heard testimony from William Chapman, chairman of the Planning Board, expressing that group's concern that Winchester's population has reached such a density that it is dangerously close to the brink of what the economic integrity of the town will bear.

Members of the Commission and associate members present agreed that it is time for Winchester to stop and conserve land if the character of the town as we know it is to be preserved.

Mr. Chapman pointed out that the town is now between 80 and 90% developed and that if we wish to preserve our natural resources the time is now or never. Mrs. Ellis Green inquired as to the availability of state and federal aid in purchasing land for the town.

Kendall Spencer noted that Winter Pond is still a matter of grave concern, though this autumn's rains have raised the level somewhat. Vincent Farnsworth, Jr., an associate commissioner, presented a plan for reclaiming some of the west side hill drainage water which is now routed through storm drains to Mystic Lake. Before the town was so extensively developed the natural run-off from the west side flowed into Winter Pond.

The Commission heard testimony from two distinguished visitors. The first was Richard Short, supervisor of Conservation Education in Massachusetts Department of Education, who spoke of the various means at the town's disposal for getting state and federal aid in acquiring lands for conservation.

The second speaker was Jules Sussman, chairman of the Lexington Conservation Commission and chairman of the Massachusetts Association of Conservation Commissions.

Mr. Sussman described the ways in which Lexington has purchased hundreds of acres for preservation as open land, sometimes with considerable amounts of federal and state monies to aid in the purchase price. He also urged the Commission to consider creative ways in which Winchester and Lexington might co-operate developing lands along their mutual border.

It is to the benefit of the people of both towns to save this area in its present state, the speaker suggested, both for protecting the watershed in each direction and for developing a recreational area which everyone may enjoy.

FAULTY WIRING caused a two-alarm fire in a bedroom at 26 Pierrepont Road Monday morning, attributed to a frayed wire and resulting in an estimated $3,000 in fire damage. Firefighters, here shown ejecting burned furniture and furnishings, had a busy week with many alarms.

House Fires, Other Alarms Busy Firemen

Two house fires during the week caused considerable damage to the homes involved. Both are presumed to have been caused by faulty wiring or connections. Each could have been more serious had they not been promptly discovered.

On Saturday at 3 p.m., responding to a telephone call from the homeowner, the Fire Department went to 54 Thornberry Road, where a fire had started in the living room caused, presumably, by a short circuit from a hair-drying appliance in use there.

On Monday at 11:06 a.m., the Fire Department used all apparatus in quelling a bedroom fire at 26 Pierrepont Road. The probable cause was frayed wiring connecting a lamp and an electric clock. The call for this fire came from a neighbor who observed smoke pouring from the roof area of the house, empty at the time.

First Family Hosts First Tax Revaluating

THE GOVERNOR discusses the interior finish of his residence with assessing appraiser Dan Scribner during a Monday morning inspection tour of 10 Everett Avenue. Governor Volpe's home was the first to be appraised in the overall town revaluation. There are some 6,500 other local taxable properties.

MRS. JOHN A. VOLPE shows Mr. Scribner the woman's part of the house, the kitchen. Mostly, it will be the housewives who will show appraisers over their homes for the reconfiguration of the town's tax base geared toward fixing an equality in valuations for all taxpayers. This year the Volpes paid $4,450.08 in local property taxes on $76,500 in valuation, the second highest.

Top Art Speaker Here

Bartlett Hayes, director of the Addison Gallery at Phillips Andover Academy and head of the art department there will be in Town for a meeting sponsored by the School Department and open to the general public Tuesday, December 13 at 7:30 at WHS auditorium. One of the best art educators in the country and a superb speaker, Mr. Hayes will appear to interpret the Education Through Vision research project at the High School. He is a director at Smithsonian and a member of the National Council for Arts in Education among many other honors.

Christmas At Cooperative

Five of Winchester's best painters have works in the December art showing at the Cooperative Bank, 19 Church Street. The vigor and variety of skills represented in the show are well worth a stop-over at the bank to see what has been done with the Christmas symbols by Valia Downes, Elizabeth Lobingier, Emily Marks, Elizabeth O'Malley and Lorraine Stewart.

"L'Enfance du Christ"

The Boston Symphony Orchestra tomorrow and next week is presenting the seldom heard and previously enthusiastically received Berlioz "L'Enfance du Christ" with soloists and the Harvard-Radcliffe chorus. Performed in French and based on the Gospel According to Matthew, this work will come over Channel 2 and WGBH-FM radio live on Tuesday night, December 13 at 8:30. Sunday's Pension Fund Concert looks to be exceptional musical fare as usual, offering two young Tchaikovsky competition winners, Misha Dichter, pianist and Stephen Kates cellist with Senator Edward Kennedy narrating the Copland "Lincoln Portrait."

Calling All Singers

The Lexington Choral Society invites all singers here to partake in its annual "Messiah Sing" presented for the participation of the general public on Friday, December 16 at 8 p.m. at Cary Hall, Lexington. Bring a score or hope to borrow at the hall. This will get your voice in trim for the annual Carolling on the Common here on Christmas eve.

Museum Festival

Christmas at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts amounts to a regular festival with special art and music highlights. The Book Corridor will have master prints among those included in "A Christmas Book," just published by Eleanor Sayre. The Lecture Hall Corridor is hanging a "Daumier in Winter" exhibit. In the Recent Accessions Gallery beginning Tuesday will be 24 highly effective terra cotta figures of an 18th Century Italian Creche. In addition, on Tuesday, a special children's concert is at 4 and one for adults with the Museum's Camerata in medieval costumes is at 7. These things are over and above the superb main special exhibit of the Arts of India and Nepal holding through January 8 in Galleries AA and BB, and not to be missed.

And Welcomes Brentano's

Art and book lovers will welcome the opening in the Prudential Plaza Monday of Brentano's beautiful new store, first time in Boston since its inception 113 years ago. Books, reproductions, jewelry, prints and records are among the specialties which Bostonians can now admire and buy without going to New York or Washington.

Musicians' Competition

The Philharmonic Society of Arlington announces its second annual Young Artist Competition open to all instrumentalists 30 years of age and under, winner of which will perform a concerto with the Arlington Philharmonic Orchestra in April, 1967 and receive a prize of $100. Applications for auditions may be had by sending a stamped self addressed envelope to Arlington Philharmonic Society, 19 Hilltop Ave., Lexington, Mass., 02173. No applications will be accepted after January 1, 1967.

EMARC Social Is Tomorrow

Everyone enjoys spending an evening with friends socializing and EMARC for retarded children is planning to do just that. On Friday, December 9 they will have their annual Christmas Social at Moose Hall, Campbell Street Woburn.

Lolly Gilgun's Orchestra will provide the music for everyones dancing pleasure. The festivities begin at 8 p.m. and there will be a buffet served during the evening.

Anyone interested in obtaining a ticket should contact Joseph LaFave at 245-8010 as soon as possible.

WHS Students To Hear Dr. White

Donna Kelley, Gregory Janson, Julia Shiang, Edward Blanchard, Janet Stiles, Maureen Mallon, Scott Eaton, Lora Pepi, Susan Vercollone and Deborah Dudgeon, students of the Winchester High School, are among nearly 400 superior high school students selected by their science departments to attend the second Science Frontiers lecture in the current series, which will be held at Boston's Museum of Science on December 16. Communities throughout New England will be represented.

Science Frontiers was initiated by the Museum a year ago to give outstanding high school students the opportunity to hear world-renowned scientists speak on their chosen field.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, internationally known heart specialist, will repeat the highly popular lecture he delivered for Science Frontiers in April. A life-long resident of the Boston area, Dr. White has been associated with the Museum of Science for many years and has served on its Medical Advisory Committee.

In his lecture, Dr. White will discuss the progress of medicine in this country, relating his talk to the problems facing medicine today. A capacity audience is expected to attend.

The third Science Frontiers lecture of the 1966-67 series will take place on January 13.

In Vietnam

Channel 2 goes behind the headlines of the Vietnam war to look at the culture and everyday life of this divided nation, Wednesday, December 14 at 8 p.m.

Telling the "Vietnam Story" is Loren Stone, manager of Seattle's educational television station KCTS who recently returned from Saigon where he helped the South Vietnamese government set up a television network.

Stone begins by explaining why the network was inaugurated and how it was put into operation. Then he turns to the people themselves as he discusses their culture and history, providing insight into the problems of today which have roots in the events of yesterday. He describes the basic conflict between the agricultural South and the industrial North, telling how this hatred evolved.

Cooperative Bank Shows Works Of Five Artists Here

A group show of paintings of religious content appropriate to the season is assembled at the Cooperative Bank to be seen throughout December.

Together they make a show which represents five of the best of Winchester's fine painters.

Included are three paintings by Emily Marks: "For Laurie," a small oil of two happy angels, done realistically, and two abstract works, "And There Appeared to Him An Angel," and "Abstraction of Angels."

Valia Downes is represented by a large oil, "The Annunciation," a harmony of neutrals done in the stained glass manner. By Elizabeth Lobingier is "Our Lady of Good Voyage, Gloucester," a strong, highlighted projection of the church in behind a dark, full background of ships and piers.

In pastels of lighted pinks and oranges and warm neutrals is Elizabeth O'Malley's "Annunciation." Lorraine Stewart is represented by a semi-Byzantine small Christian plaque in dark oils.

Many of these paintings have been on show elsewhere in New England and most are for sale.

Mrs. Lillian (Gray) Donaghey

The Reverend Dr. Dwight L. Cart officiated at funeral services held yesterday afternoon in the First Congregational Church for Mrs. Lilian (Gray) Donaghey, 65, widow of the late Clarence S. Donaghey, who died on Sunday, December 4, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Donaghey, who lived here at 14 Glenwood Avenue for the past 37 years, leaves two sons here, Kenneth A. of Dennett Road and Robert B. of the home address. She also leaves two daughters, Mrs. Barbara G. Hollis of Greenfield Center, New York and Mrs. Nancy J. Carpenter of Westboro; a sister, Mrs. Mabel G. Larson of Cambridge; a brother, Harold A. Gray of Baltimore; and 12 grandchildren.

A native, she was born here on November 6, 1901, the daughter of William James and Annie M. (Seed) Gray, natives of Ireland. Mrs. Donaghey was graduated from the Winchester High School with the class of 1920. She was well known here and had been associated in the Collector's Office of the Town Hall for the past 14 years. She was a member of the Purity Rebekah Lodge No. 94, of West Medford, of which she was a psat Noble Grand and treasurer, and of the Business and Professional Women's Club of the First Congregational Church.

Burial was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Francis P. O'Melia

Francis P. O'Melia, a native of Winchester and a graduate of its schools, died at his home at 18 Loring Avenue on Sunday, December 4, after a brief illness.

Mr. O'Melia lived his whole life at the same address and was born in his home on March 2, 1905, the son of the late Michael and Ann (Dempsey) O'Melia, both natives of Ireland. He had been an employee of the Park Department here for 22 years.

Mr. O'Melia is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Peter (Margaret) Albany of Newbury and Mary T. and Anne E. O'Melia, with whom he made his home here. He also leaves three nieces.

A solemn high Mass was sung in the Immaculate Conception Church yesterday morning, December 7, at 9:30 a.m. following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence C. Bleiler of Lynnfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dianne M. Bleiler, to Mr. Lynn M. Olmsted, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Olmsted of 50 Lake Street.

MISS DIANNE M. BLEILER

Miss Bleiler is a graduate of Lynnfield High School, attended Boston University, and is presently employed at the Purdy Studio in Boston.

Mr. Olmsted is a graduate of the Winchester High School and Norwich University, Class of 1963, where he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army. He served for two years in Germany with the rank of First Lieutenant. He is now employed by Remington Rand.

A June 18 wedding is planned.

En Ka Exchange Changes Policy

At a recent meeting of the EnKa Exchange Committee, it was voted to adopt a new policy in regard to the used clothing which is taken in on consignment.

As of Wednesday, December 14, all clothing brought to the shop will, after the regular number of selling days, become the property of the shop, to be turned over to the Welfare Department or sold as a Z-1 item.

After careful study, it was found that most customers who brought in clothing did not want these articles back and were happy to have them turned over to the Welfare Department. Because of the large number of volunteer workers involved in running the exchange and the time involved in attempting to return unsold items, it seemed sensible to try this new system. This system has been used by several other charitable organizations in similar swap shops.

Mineral Club To Hear Barfod

Robert Barfod of 28 Englewood Road, will speak to the Winchester Mineral Club on December 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Epiphany, on chemistry.

Mr. Barfod, a chemical engineer with the Monsanto Company in Everett, was born and educated in Denmark.

The Mineral Club, in its tenth year here, is open to all ages and invites the membership of all persons interested in geology. It meets regularly in the Epiphany on the second Wednesday of each month to discuss minerals and hear speakers on the subject. It also frequently sponsors field trips, weather permitting.

All interested persons are invited to next week's lecture.

Announcement was made this Sunday of the engagement of Miss Deborah Karen Ferguson of 29 Franklin Road to Mr. William Michael Ryan of Belmont.

MISS DEBORAH KAREN FERGUSON

Miss Ferguson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry James Ferguson. She is presently attending the School of the Museum of Fine Arts. Mr. Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs William Ryan, will be graduated this year from Boston College.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Plan June Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Bruce of Greenfield announce the engagement of their daughter, Valerie Jean, to Mr. Robert W. Carlson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Carlson of 64 Wedgemere Avenue.

MISS VALERIE JEAN BRUCE

Miss Bruce is a graduate of Lasell Junior College and Springfield College. Mr. Carlson was graduated from the Winchester High School and The Citadel.

A June 17 wedding is planned.

Toys for Tots By Methodist Youth

The Junior High Youth Fellowship of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church has undertaken the "Toys for Tots" project in cooperation with other agencies that are trying to provide toys at Christmas for children who might not otherwise receive any toys.

Miss Paulette Hayford is chairman for this project. She has requested that anyone having a toy or toys that might be repaired or refinished for this purpose may bring them to the Methodist Church anytime between now and Sunday, December 18. After that there is not sufficient time to do any work on them.

Make some child happy. Find a toy that your child has outgrown and bring it to the Methodist Church.

Tells Story Of "Praying Hands"

On Monday afternoon at the Christmas program of the Reading Craftsmen, Mrs. George E. Connor of Main Street spoke of "Praying Hands," the magazine of which she is editor. The meeting was held in the historical home of the Windsors in Reading.

"Praying Hands" is a bi-monthly magazine dedicated to religion in industry, and sent to over four thousand men and women in business, professions, and civic life, and is published by James L. Jenks Jr., of 28 Church Street.

Mrs. Connor, editor since its inception last year, explained in an informal talk how the small magazine was an outgrowth of the establishment at the Sanborn Company, by Mr. Jenks, of one of the first chapels in an industry, and was designed to reach other industries. From this, the magazine has grown to include material of a wide general interest scope.

Prize to Girls

Success on the television information show, "It's Academic," was celebrated recently at Marycliff when the school received a set of Collier's Encyclopedia.

Cheryl Bezis of 17 Sunset Road, Carol Govoni of Arlington and Leanne Bouley of Woburn were the team members who defeated Roslindale High School and Boston Technical and represented the first all girls' school team to win.

They presented thier prize to Sister Elizabeth Farragher, Marycliff principal as an addition to the school library.

Editorials:

A Good Citizen's Example

Certainly no homeowner looks forward to having someone entering his home to look it over with a critical eye—and further for the purpose of fixing an ultimate tax assessment upon its estimated value. And, it may be little consolation to know that every homeowner in Winchester is undergoing the same inconvenience, annoyance, and wariness in accepting the ritual which is part of the overall property appraising job that the town decided to have done. Nevertheless, the homeowners' approach and attitude can make a big difference—especially if he knows what it's all about and comes to appreciate the value to his interests to have it done thoroughly and done right so the town can move to an equalized and fair common tax base.

The appraisers will inspect the entire interior of homes. While many breadwinners may wonder whether the furniture and furnishings and any remodelling or improvements will affect them with higher ultimate taxes to pay; and while many housewives may wonder whether a cleaned and picked-up home will make it look worth more and therefore taxed more, both can find relief in the knowledge that what is being appraised from the inspections is the actual construction details of the home itself, and not its appearance. For example: the appraiser notes the number of rooms, the kinds of floors, the interior finish, heating and plumbing fixtures, the foundation, the exterior wall and roofing materials, etc. He does not even look at the decor or appointments as to any relevance in his survey.

A good example of a citizen's acceptance of the tax equalization survey inspections was in the appraisal of Governor Volpe's home. Both the Governor and Mrs. Volpe were busy with things that had to be done; but they graciously received the appraiser, stated that they understood that it was necessary to have it done, and both cooperated fully with showing the appraiser to every room in the house and helped by answering questions about aspects of its construction and other items.

The Governor, who had fought long and hard to get a sales tax accepted in Massachusetts for property tax relief in the cities and towns as well as raise state revenue, probably understood better than most homeowners the necessity for something to be done also about property tax equalization, not only in Winchester but statewide.

Appreciating the plight of the property taxpayer, and attempting to do something about it at the state level, here in Winchester the Governor and his wife extended themselves graciously to the effort of the appraiser in researching facts and figures for the purpose of revaluating all the properties here for the purpose of tax equalization.

We think that most Winchester homeowners now similarly appreciate the need for the tax equalization, for it was authorized overwhelmingly by the Town Meeting representatives this year; and we hope and believe that every Winchester homeowner will receive the appraisers and assist them in their work as willingly and graciously as did the Volpe family.

A Conservation Start

The acquisition of Smith Pond, formerly known as Cox Pond and located off Ridge Street, marks the first purchase of private property in the name of the town by the Conservation Commission for the purpose of keeping it in its natural state for the continued enjoyment of all the citizens of the community.

It is a significant step not only in that it is the first purchase of private property in the town for the public domain without being earmarked for a specific development use; but, also, and more significantly, in that it represents a new trend in community thinking—a more and more prevalent awareness of the need to plan ahead for the long-range future of Winchester and what it shall and shall not have or be.

The very establishment of both the Conservation Commission and the Recreation Committee with its new recreation director in recent years give evidence of this community concern for the future of Winchester—especially at this time, when the town is rapidly approaching full development, probably within the next decade.

Going beyond the creation of these two agencies, with the acceptance of a recreation director to establish and develop leisure time programs for the residents of the town, and the appropriation of funds to buy land worth preserving for the public domain, gives further evidence of the town's maturing sophistication in facing what will be the needs of the future community within the megalopolis we will be in with more appropriate planning today.

The values to be found in this singular occasion of the purchase of a pond area for the town are many, but one already can be seen in the recent news story of the holding of nature classes there for teachers of elementary students in the public schools.

As education advances, a subject like biology that once was taught at college level, and now is taught at high school level, and eventually will penetrate down to elementary level, can be magnified and enhanced by trips into the natural environment of animal and plant life—such as often are found in a pond area such as this one.

And adult uses such as for picnics or weekend walks through a woods and pond area are not to be minimized now—for in years to come they may become a big value in the some-time residential life of Winchester's people.

Recreation For The Young

A well-conceived and solidly developed recreation program for elementary- age youngsters appears to have been operating quite smoothly and successfully for a little over a month now under the supervision of the new recreation director.

These afternoon recreation programs for local elementary public and parochial school children now covers each school at least one afternoon every two weeks, and is run by paid young men and women four days a week for about an hour and a half.

The recreational, social, physical fitness and general health benefits to be gained by the youngsters through such an organized and continuing program should be obvious, and the recreation director and committee should be commended for starting such a program for the youngsters, and especially at this early time in their development of a comprehensive program for recreational activities for all age groups in the community.

Highway Conservation

In the early days of this country settlements were established on the banks of rivers because those inland waterways afforded a means of transportation. For the same reason, the railroads later played a role in the growth of cities. Population concentrated where the tracks were laid.

The development of the superhighway has had a lot to do with recent population shifts. Communities which not too long ago were rather remote now find that city commuters want to live there. And because of their proximity to the superhighway, industries relocate in such towns.

Many cities and towns have not been ready for the changes the superhighway has wrought. As if the highway itself did not eat up enough of the landscape, poorly enforced or inadequate zoning laws and little or no sub-division control has allowed lovely rural areas to be changed within a decade into mile upon mile of housing developments, industrial sites and drive-in shopping centers.

The construction of the Federal interstate highway system continues. In New Hampshire it even threatens that state's unique natural feature, Franconia Notch.

In Rhode Island, the new Interstate 95 to the southwest has encouraged industrial and housing development in that direction from mettropolitan Providence.

In Massachusetts, Interstate Route 495 is partly constructed—a vast circumferential arc which will touch many communities from North Attleboro in the southeast to Amesbury in the northeast.

Local Conservation Commissions along Route 495 have moved to meet the challenge, forming a Route 495 Conservation Council. They hope to unite the communities for regional conservation planning in order to arrest unwise use of the land, which will be generated by the highway.

The Conservation Commissions do not want to keep new people and industry out. But they believe they can conserve their valuable natural areas—woodlands and wetlands—and at the same time provide ample space for houses and industries.

Comment:

Many people who spend a lot of time in the Center, merchants, shoppers, policemen, etc., are not a little upset about the theft of so many lightbulbs from the Christmas season decorations in the Square area, and with justifiable cause.

Thefts in general appear somewhat to be on the rise in Winchester, including housebreaks, store thefts and automobile thefts; but, where these lightbulb thefts may be among the smallest in terms of size and cost, it is more the principle that these thefts of public property set up especially to recognize the Christmas season—a period of religious and holy significance.

Many ask, "Why?"

Insurance

Motorists called the raise in premiums "exhorbitant;" automobile associations termed the hike "grossly unfair, especially to the good drivers;" and Governor Volpe, telephoning from a Madeira vacation spot, said: "This tends to accentuate the need for a complete overhaul of our auto insurance system. It is my hope that the Legislature will make this one of its first order of business next year so we can remove this unfair burden from Massachusetts motorists."

The owner-driver classifications, upon which rates within a territory are determined, remained the same:

Class 10 — non-business, no young driver, commute less than 10 miles; Class 12—non-business, no young driver, commute 10 miles or more each way; Class 20—male, under 25, not owner or principal operator, no driver training; Class 22—male, under 25, owner or principal operator, no driver training; Class 24—female, under 25, no driver training; Class 26—female, under 25, with driver training; Class 40—male, under 25, not owned or principal operator, with driver training; Class 42—male under 25, owner or principal operator, with driver training; Class 50—male, under 25, married with one or more children; Class 30—business use.

The dollars and cents cost increase to Winchester drivers, in 1967's new premium rates over those of 1966, will amount locally on a basic $5,000-$10,000 compulsory auto insurance policy to the following: up by $2 in Class 10 and 12; up $6 in Class 20 and 22; up $3.50 in Class 24; up $3 in Class 26 and 30; up $3:50 in Class 40; up $5 in Class 42; and up $4 in Class 50.

Just before the insurance companies made their announcement that they would lose millions of dollars if there wasn't a substantial premium increase, Representative Michael Dukakis proposed a plan developed by Harvard Professor Robert Keeton which could go a long way toward alleviating the highest-in-the-nation auto insurance rates in Massachusetts.

Under the Dukakis - Keeton plan, an injured motorist would be reimbursed by his own insurance company for out- of-pocket expenses for medical and hospital bills, nursing, and loss of salary up to $5,000.

The Dukakis-Keeton plan would not attempt to fix blame for an accident except in cases where claims exceeded $5,000. This plan aims at accomplishing two goals: to provide immediate compensation for accident victims, and, it would eliminate the long, costly legal wrangling which over crowds today's court dockets.

During the recently concluded election campaign, both Governor Volpe and his opponent, Edward McCormack, suggested proposals for improving the 40-year-old auto insurance rating system in the state along the lines of a "financial responsibility plan."

Carnival

The Recreation Director expressed his pleasure at being able to acquire the services of some snow making machinery for that period, thereby "guaranteeing that we will have snow for the snow sculpturing fun," he said.

All Senior High School students wishing to enter the Snow Fun competition should enter their names at the Recreation Director's office in the East Room of the Town Hall, Mr. Spinney noted. He added that groups of six would probably work out best, and those entering that are not grouped up, will be teamed up.

Also those wishing to go on the Ski Trip at Boston Hill in Andover at 9 a.m. on Thursday, December 29, should register their names for bus reservations at the Recreation Director's office.

The end of Winter Carnival "Carnival Dance" will be exclusively for Senior High School students, Mr. Spinney pointed out, and it will feature the popular "Teddy and The Pandas" Band,

In other recreation news, there will be no Rec Club held this Friday or Saturday nights in the McCall School, Mr. Spinney announced, due to other commitments for the building those nights.

This Saturday at the Lynch School from 7 to 11 o'clock, instead of the regular McCall Rec Club for Senior High School. the Recreation Committee will hold a special Rec Club boys and girls basketball and volleyball evening.

Lite Theft

A Police Department spokesman said the losses are due to youngsters removing the bulbs and flinging them through the air to hear the crashing sound when they land.

Police have apprehended two teenagers engaged in the practice already, and are keeping an extra eye out for others who are also destroying the lights and, in some cases, endangering the public safety with flying and broken glass.

Tax Clause

Most cities and towns in the Commonwealth have gone along with the dictum from the State Tax Commission that said all must comply with the Attorney General's ruling. However, some municipalities have balked, including the neighboring town of Belmont, on the basis that it is against established precedent to alter tax situations other than as they exist as of January 1 of each year.

In Winchester, Town Comptroller James Costello cited a 1914 Massachusetts Supreme Court ruling in support of his refusal to authorize the release of funds from the Town Treasury, as directed by the Board of Assessors acting within the scope of the State Tax Commission's order and the Attorney General's ruling. That Supreme Court decision in effect ruled that January 1 of each year is the point in time which all tax assessing must devolve around, and anything happening after that time, in terms of physical structures (or Legislation) must appear forward in the following January 1.

Mr. Costello pointed out that under the Town Comptroller Law he is not allowed to authorize any municipal expenditures in which there is any doubt in his mind as to its validity. "And I have a doubt as to whether the statute is effective now; and I also, therefore, have doubt as to whether the abatements granted by the Assessors under that statute can be effective now," Mr. Costello said.

The Town Comptroller has referred the matter to Town Counsel Vincent P. Clarke for a local municipal ruling. Until Mr. Clarke either rules in favor of Mr. Costello's position, or that of Attorney General Brooke and the State Tax Commission, there will be no funds leaving the Winchester Treasury for tax abatements under Clause 41.

When Clause 41 was first introduced last year, allowing exemptions for persons over 70 whose income did not exceed $5,000 and who has owned property locally for over five years and lived in the state for ten years, some 211 residents here qualified for it.

With the newly amended, and now under local question, increase from the earlier maximum of $233.60 relief on $4,000 valuation exemption to a new minimum of $350 per qualified applicant, the automatic $116.40 increase per property there will cause an additional $23,280 in tax revenues exempted and charged to the Town's Overlay Account. On top of this there will be the extra tax revenue reduction of those new applicants who have since become eligible under the old Clause 41, or who have since become eligible under the new expanded provisions for qualification.

Civil Rights

Allan G. Rodgers, legislative chairman of Winchester Fair Housing, announced that Governor John Volpe will be informed of Fair Housing's position on an increased budget for the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination.

Mr. Rodgers said the Governor will be urged to recommend to the legislature in his January budget address," increased funds for the MCAD which will permit the Commission to fully enforce our anti-discrimination laws."

The METCO suburban busing program was described as important, by Mr. Rollins, because it provided Negro parents with a choice.

Theft

Winchester Paint and Hardware proprietor Michael Bavuso informed investigating officer Sergeant Mario Buzzotta that at about 3:30 on the afternoon of December 1, a young man entered the store and asked questions about the prices of several articles. Two other young men followed him in, but just looked around the store. When the first man left, the others did, too.

Later, the first man re-entered the store and purchased an article, and then left. At 5:30 when the owner was closing up, he discovered the theft of approximately $382 in cash, and reported the occurence to police.

Women's American ORT Planning Membership Tea

The Battle Green Chapter, Eastern Massachusetts Region, of Women's American ORT announces that a membership tea will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Cicero, 11 Cook Road, in Lexington on December 14 at 8:15. Refreshments will be served.

Anyone who is interested in ORT is invited to attend. For reservations you may call Mrs. Alan Ashare in Arlington or Mrs. Richard Millman in Bedford.

First Lady

something unto the household and not to be shared. This time it had to be different; and, the Governor went up to watch Mr. Scribner as he took notes in all the pretty, warm-looking bedrooms.

For the Volpes the Everett Avenue home is the third new home in Winchester on which they have paid taxes. Like all owners of new homes, they have carried a heavy tax burden, and it is not impossible that they will be among those to benefit from the over-all re-appraisal.

Mrs. Volpe raised a question to this reporter of valid interest to all taxpayers and of particular interest to women.

"How," she said, "do they make the judgement which tells whether the woodwork in this home, a new one, is worth more or less than that in an older home with the kind of old wood panelling which cannot be bought these days?"

"I often think of this when I am admiring the old woodwork in homes here in town," said Jennie Volpe thoughtfully.

Mr. Scribner's answer to this one seemed to reflect the straight male point of view.

"It's just the market value that counts," he said. "A beautiful modern home appointed for modern living and a three-story ark—which one do you think would sell better?"

The heavy implication was that the modern home would win hands down. But of course the vagaries of women's reasoning is hard to account for and pretty impossible to put in black and white.

Women appraisers? They wouldn't get past the first house.

Bartlett Hayes To Speak Here On WHS Course

Education Through Vision, an experimental new course at Winchester Senior High School, will be the topic of an open public meeting Tuesday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Bartlett Hayes, director of Addison Gallery and chairman of the art department of Phillips Andover Academy, is the originator of this research project and will explain Education Through Vision to parents, teachers and members of the Winchester Art Association.

WHS teachers Miss Pamie Rentrop and Macey Rosenthal will illustrate methods used in teaching the course. The program has been arranged by Thomas A. Morse, coordinator of instructional aids and special programs in the Division of Instruction of Winchester public schools.

Mr. Morse is supervising Education Through Vision in Winchester. He and the two teachers have spent three summers in the special program given at Andover for research and development of the course.

The course is being offered in 17 schools in the country and embodies a method of broadening the horizons of students through a non-verbal approach to education. Aims of the course are to learn to see selectively, observe and seek to comprehend the unfamiliar, find means for combining ideas into larger relationships, search for fresh meaning in the commonplace, and appreciate the discovery of unexpected relationships.

BOOK REVIEW

by Leila-Jane Roberts
Winchester Public Library

THE ANIMAL FAMILY

by Randall Jarrell

and

ALL ABOUT BROTHER BIRD

by Catherine Plummer

The holiday season is upon us and under the frenzy and haste lies a "willing suspension of disbelief" so that the look on a child's face as he trusts Santa Claus with his secret wishes is touching rather than upsetting. We welcome the time of year when make-believe becomes reality. Iolanthe and her fairy sisters can trip hither and thither on the local stage and two books of fantasy can be discussed as delightful reading. Both, although they detour from pure realism, have a quality of allegory and symbolism about them.

The Jarrell book has a deceptively simple plot. A lonely hunter falls in love with a mermaid and they set up housekeeping together. Eventually they are joined by a bear and later by a lynx and then a little shipwrecked boy. Together they become a family. Like much produced by poets, the story can be read on several levels. On the most obvious, it is a children's fairy tale, but there are other levels of understanding and appreciation.

The adjustments the hunter and mermaid must make to each other's wishes and limitations are typical of most human relationships.

> "One day the hunter was sitting fishing; she swam up and said in a pleased, puzzled voice—and then burst into laughter. 'What are you doing?'
> " 'Fishing.'
> "The mermaid looked more puzzled than before, so the hunter explained in several sentences how he did it. She looked at him unbelievingly and then burst into laughter. 'What are you laughing at?' asked the hunter.
> " 'It's such a roundabout way of catching fish.'
>
> " 'What do you want me to do—swim after them and catch them in my mouth?'
>
> " 'You're the only thing I know that doesn't catch them that way! You look so helpless just sitting there waiting for one. Tell me what sort you want and I'll get it for you.'
> "For a moment the hunter felt a child's humiliation. But then he laughed and told her the sort of fish he wanted, and the mermaid got it for him. The next day he brought her a piece of venison, which she took one bite of and threw away; but the day after he brought her a branch of red maple leaves. The mermaid looked at it as if she couldn't believe it; she carried it, and stroked it, and said to him lovingly, 'It's the best thing I've ever had in my life. Oh, you're so lucky to live on land!' "

The changes caused by the bear and the lynx could be interpreted as the changes different personalities make in inter-relationships as they are added or subtracted from a group. When the little boy is discovered curled up asleep against the bear, the mermaid says, "I never had seen a little one. He's half like a little man and half—oh, different! His arms and legs are so short and white and his head's different—look how soft his hair and skin are! He looks all helpless and not finished yet. He's so new!"

There it is in broad outline, but the pleasure of good story-telling can only be hinted in these excerpts.

On the other hand the Plummer book has a much more complicated plot. The setting is a monastery in the California hills above the fields and vineyards where migrant workers come and go. The Abbot Dom Luis utters a prayer for help in saving these lost souls and his prayer is answered in such a roundabout way that it does not seem like a solution but only multiplied problems. Brother Bird has the power of levitation, which seems more a burden than a gift until he finds a unique use for it. This tale, subtitled "a tale of spiritual whimsy," is fun because the monks who are so otherworldly in their mode of life are plagued with the usual human faults and foibles, and poor bumbling Brother Bird seems like the most unlikely saint. An adult counterpart to The Littlest Angel!

Two Previous Local Governors; But Not Harris

Editor of the Star:

Much to my surprise I read in last week's Star that "Winchester had another governor, Gov. Charles N. Harris." As his surviving son it was amusing to read such a statement. Many of our older residents who would remember him, must have been equally amused. My father was Judge of Probate in Middlesex County, but never aspired to be governor. The other governor who lived in Winchester was Edward Everett. He served from 1835-1839.

According to my recollection, Samuel McCall lived on a street parallel to Park Avenue (not at the corner of Park Avenue and Washington Street) which was later named Governors Avenue because of his residence there. His final home, where he lived as a neighbor, was at 15 Hillside Avenue.

To add to your story about Tom McCall, I might comment that one of Samuel McCall's sons married a daughter of Tom Lawson. The latter was a noted financier who lived in Winchester about the turn of the century. I think it is safe to say that Tom McCall was named for his maternal granfather, and, if so, that means that governor-elect of Oregon had two grandfathers who lived in our town.

Sincerely,
Henry B. Harris
2 Curtis Street

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Star is indeed grateful to Mr. Harris for his correction note regarding the governorship of Edward Everett, mistakenly attributed to Charles N. Harris. Mr. Harris is also correct on the origin of the name of Governors Avenue, according to some of our readers, and the History of Winchester was incorrect.

Tom McCall's Family Here

Editor of the Star:

I have read with great interest your leading article on Governor elect Tom McCall of Oregon. His father and mother, "Hal" McCall and Dorothy Lawson McCall, were both born and brought up in Winchester.

Her father was Thomas W. Lawson for whom Tom McCall was named. Their home was on Main Street on the corner of Main and Mystic Avenue. He was a broker, later known on State Street as the Copper King, and in the early 1900's, the family moved to Boston and lived at Charles Gate East. Any Winchester resident of my vintage, can verify this.

With this heritage of political and business acumen, this young man should go far.

Very truly yours,
A Senior Citizen

Liquor Ads Go Too Far, Says Reader

Editor of the Star:

In 1964 I wrote a letter to the "Star" in which I stated that "any child over ten years old could remember when the liquor industry through its advertisements began the assault on the womanhood, and motherhood, of the nation, by trying to make alchoholism respectable and acceptable to those who had suffered most and had most to lose by the drinking of alchoholic liquors.

To those of us who read the papers we now witness the next step in the diabolic plan. The picture of beautiful "teen-agers," high scoolers, being made happy along with their fathers in his whiskey imbibing, showing that the liquor industry is bent on molding every man, woman, and child in the nation on alchoholism, as I wrote in 1964.

It is not the drunken bums in doorways and alleys of the slums that are abetting the deficiency of our society, it is the "respectable," affluent suburbanites with their cocktail parties in their homes, exposing their now innocent, but suggestible sons and daughters to what has now become the number one moral and health problem in the nation.

Sincerely,
Percy C. Ryerson

Winchesterite Eyewitness To Italian Flood Disaster and Havoc Wreaked

Editor of the Star:

Evelyn and Harlow Russell who were well known in Winchester when they lived at 18 Norwood Street now spend their winters in Florence, Italy and their summers in Ashburnham, Mass. Their daughter, Susan, resides in Florence and they returned to Italy in the middle of November.

The following account of the situation they found arrived airmail in Winchester this week.

Harlow Russell writes:

Never, in my experience before, have I known a silent Italian city. Yes, of course, we hear the scraping of the bulldozers and the growl of the trucks as they pull away (the trucks, scrapers and men are in from Milan, Genoa, Bologna, Naples, Verona)...but the people are silent. The drama of this, alone!

And then, one day...along the Corso...a 10 or 12 year old boy...burst into "The Battle Hymn of the Republic"...it is the truth.

I burst into tears at the sight and sound of it. I still do, as I think of it...even now.

The agony and the ecstasy...the mud and the misery. When I write here, "the mud" do not think of it as just "mud," although that is bad enough, being Tuscany, where the soil is so very fine and claylike. Please understand that in great part it is covered with black fuel oil...pushed up out of the tanks by the force and the pressure of the depth of the flood.

Official figures have been published. You have probably seen them: 4.95 meters (this is 16 feet, one inch) of water and filth stood in Piazza Santa Croce. At our front door (street door) on Via Mattonaia, the water came to within a few inches of the top of the arch...those doors are at least 12 feet high. At the Hotel Liana, water to half way up to the first landing, seven to nine feet; Room No. 1...our first Florentine "home," water to nearly the balcony in the room. That room is a 17 foot ceiling 20 x 20. A former drawing room when the building was the English embassy, when Firenze was the capital of Italy...circa 1860 - 65 - 69. Interestingly, the old murals and wall paintings are showing through the wet, oil stained plaster.

In the park (Parco d'Azeglio) where the mud remains as it was left, no children playing, no nursemaids, no love making on the benches...every bush, every tree is black-coated with oil up higher than I can reach by a couple of feet. From the street I can look through to my fountain, a large bronze crane with a fish in its bill ...still there, but...oil.

The Contessa Svetoni (da Montepulciano) aged 92, in her Firenze home at the corner of Mattonaia and the Viale they took out in a blanket to her niece the Marchessa Ginori up to Fiesole. Her 15th, 17th and 18th century furniture swamped. The 18th century inlay work probably beyond restoring (it is all being taped down with adhesive plaster with the hope that it will dry out evenly and slowly).

La bella citta, Firenze, sat like a sieve to the swollen Arno and when the water subsided...first to remove the carcasses...then the tangled autos...then the mud... then the contents of every ground floor apartment, shop, upholsterers, meat shops, green grocers, silks, woolens, straw goods, leather works...where to put it? The street...the only place. You can well imagine what the streets look like...and smell like.

As always, it is the "little people" who suffer most. Not counting households...estimated 6,000 small shop keepers...wiped out.

Before arriving in Firenze, Evelyn and I had dinner in Milano with Sig. Carlo Bombieri. He told us of his bank's activities (Banca Commerciale Italiana) in offering immediate cash loans without collateral to these people. The pharmacies and the banks are the only things open...and they limited. Everything else must come from out beyond the Viale, which, you remember was once the location of the third wall of the city.

I made Evelyn stay in Milan for a couple of days before I could be sure that she could make it, with help, about the very slippery streets. No heat, no light (except candles, and you know our 18th cent. candlesticks, no elevator, no water, except our ration from the street corner tank-truck.

Franco and Adriana and all the staff at the Liana were overjoyed to see us. At the risk of sounding immodest, I must say that for morale purposes at the least, we are glad we arrived as soon as we did.

Franco lost his car (Giovanna Bombieri lost her's too) so that we have been able to be helpful with ours...and therein lies a story...that we have an automobile at all!!!! It happened this way:

Early in the morning of the day of the flood, Susan (our daughter) awoke in our apartment and started reading in bed. She continued for quite awhile, when the light went out. This, as we know, is not an unusual occurrence. When it continued to stay off, being still dark, she decided to get up and then down to the bar nearby for coffee. While there someone came in saying that the Arno was very full and made an interesting sight. After the coffee, Susan decided before going back to the apartment to run up to the river and have a look. She crossed Ponte San Niccolo in the car for a better look higher up. This was before eight o'clock. By eight fifteen to eight-thirty she returned to the bridge to recross and there was so much water running over it at that time that she just would not chance it, wise girl...so, back to find another crossing...found none. She stayed on the Bobboli side of the city all that day, having parked the car high, was able to contact Paul Kluzer at the Army Medical center, met an American girl at a bar having coffee who asked her to stay the night with her and it was before noon of the next day that she was able to wade knee deep in mud back to the apartment and the Liana. At one point she was down near Via dei Bardi and saw a two to three foot depth of water pouring out of the Giamatti's front door!!

The shops on the Ponte Vecchio are just empty shells, you can see right through, upstream and down. The shop owners have had a diver busy searching the bottom...below the bridge.

Teatro della Pergola got it both ways when the roof opened up before the flood. Teatro Comunale lost all costumes and many instruments and since they were below ground, otherwise o.k. mostly."

Evelyn Russell adds: Harlow has composed this letter for our friends asking that it be shared with others. The documentary which will be shown in the U. S. is stupendous. We saw it last night on T. V. Harlow and I will be in Florence for the opening of the opera season, Sunday the 27th. The first two operas will be given without scenery or costumes. We plan to stay in Florence for now we have light and heat and probably water.

If you have been wondering.. there is a very direct way to the "little people"...an intelligent, well organized, practical effective way to help through The St. James American Church's Flood Relief Fund. (check to: St. James American Church, address to: Flood Relief Fund, Via Gioberti 34, Firenze, Italy).

Each contribution will be acknowledged by a receipt from St. James American Church, Florence, incorporated State of New York. Contributions may be deducted from income Tax.

Hockey Team Wants Praise For Coach Collins

Editor of the Star:

After reading the field hockey article in last week's Star, we feel that we would like to add to it by calling attention to one of the most vital parts of the team's success—Miss Jan Collins.

Her enthusiasm and devotion spurred each player to do her best. Even with several injuries, she was able to produce an undefeated team, for the third time in four years. The team would like her to receive the praise and appreciation she deserves.

Sincerely,
Ellie Porter, Betsy Moore

Remembering Al Elliott

Editor of the Star:

Reminded by the recent plaque donated for the park named in his honor, I would like to pay tribute to Alfred Dykes Elliott, a man who walked amongst us with great humility and with genuine love for his fellow man.

Any person who even knew Al briefly, must have profited from his unselfish way of life.

Appraisals

The appraisers will carry identification cards with their photos attached so that residents will be shown proof of their representation of the local Assessors in inspecting homes. They will also have small leaflets which they will give to homeowners and which describes the purpose of their visit.

The leaflet entitled "Setting a Fair Value on Your Property in Winchester" explains the why, how and when of providing tax equalization in Winchester, and is reprinted below for public information:

THE WHY OF EQUALIZATION

"At the 1966 Annual Town Meeting the Board of Assessors of the Town of Winchester was authorized to contract for the equalization of assessments on all property within the Town of Winchester. This program was made necessary by the General Laws of the State and Supreme Court rulings governing the assessment of real estate at Fair Cash Value for purposes of taxation. This reassessment program must distribute the cost of operation and services in a fair and impartial manner based on the value of the holdings of each owner.

"Your Board of Assessors has contracted with the Cole-Layer-Trumble Company to complete this program in time for the 1968 assessment schedules.

"In order for the Cole-Layer-Trumble Company to make accurate and scientific appraisals it will be necessary for them to make a complete examination of every parcel of property. This phase of the project involves the other taxpayers who are personal-cooperation of homeowners and ly affected by the program. in the interest of fair play and in compliance with General Tax Laws and Massachusetts Court rulings, this is the most desirable procedure for an equalization program covering approximately 6300 parcels in the Town.

THE HOW OF EQUALIZATION

"Cole - Layer - Trumble's first step is to determine material and labor costs to establish building costs in Winchester, and to study real estate sales information in recent years for all types of property.

"Following this a field representative from the Company visits each property, examining the building and inspecting the interior from cellar to attic. This inspection will take only a few minutes of the property owner's time as these men are thoroughly trained and experienced in their assignment. During this visit they record on property cards such items as the size of the structure, type and quality of construction, types of heating, type and amount of plumbing fixtures, and age and condition of the property.

"After making basic pricing computations, staff appraisers will again look at your property, but this time from the outside, in order to relate it as part of a neighborhood or area in terms of the sales data.

"The final action by the appraisal company involves any adjustments in computations based on all accumulated information, and reviewing of all property record cards for mechanical errors and completeness in every detail.

THE RESULTS OF EQUALIZATION

"1. An up-to-date inventory of all taxable property in Winchester will be available.

"2. All assessments will be adjusted to 1968 levels simultaneously at Fair Cash Value (Market Value).

"3. The Town of Winchester will have a uniform assessment system which will provide documentation in support of the new assessments and a basis for future assessments.

OF INTEREST

"The taxpayers of Winchester should understand that this equalization program does not in itself raise taxes; it only redistributes the tax load among property owners. (Taxes are raised only by an increase in expenditures voted by your Town Government to meet the needs of the Town and its taxpayers). However, as the result of the equalization, it is obvious that the tax on property that has been over-valued will decrease, and the property that has been under-valued will increase.

"Normal maintenance program on homes such as painting and minor repairs are not considered as adding value to your property for assessment purposes.

"Each owner will be given ample opportunity to review his new valuation with the appraising firm and the Board of Assessors prior to receiving tax bills for 1968. We hope that all persons will accept this program as further assurance that the Board of Assessors is making every effort to treat all citizens and property owners fairly and equitably."

Fires

Saturday's fire, which came on the heels of an early afternoon call to Stevens Street, where a model airplane had ignited in a youngster's hands while in an upstairs room, brought Engines 4 and 3, the ladder, rescue and fire trucks, and Chief Frank Amico in his car to the Thornberry Road home of Mrs. John Lynch. On arrival the men found that burning draperies and a quilt had been thrown from the home by a neighbor, Duane Belden.

The faulty cord end of the appliance appeared to have sparked and ignited the draperies. Also burned was part of an Oriental rug and a traverse rod. The window casing was also charred.

Monday's fire occurred when Mrs. William F. Sullivan and her two children, ages one and two, were out of the home. Mrs. Marion Thorp of 28 Pierrepont Road called for the Department, and Mrs. Sullivan arrived in the area in time to tell firemen that there were no other children in the house.

At the time of the fire, Engine 4 was on duty at the Russo Cleaning plant on Main Street to be in attendance at the request of the owner when a problem oil burner was being ignited after oil flooding. Chief Amico had Box 262 sounded to bring all apparatus, and eventually a ladder truck from Arlington and Engines from Woburn and Stoneham came into town to man the station.

According to the Chief, the high heat concentration and heavy smoke in the second floor of the home made it imperative to open a hole in the roof to ventilate.

Masked and crawling on their bellies, firemen located the fire in the front master bedroom. Burned here before the fire was discovered was a three-foot-square hole in the floor, which went down into the supporting floor pieces. A night table, stool, draperies and a whole corner of the bed were also destroyed.

Damage from this fire was estimated at $3,000. Investigation of the cause of the fire has led Chief Amico, with the concurrence with the State Fire Marshal, to lay the blame on defective electric cords.

During this fire Woburn Engine 3 on duty here went to New Meadows Road, where steam had been reported. A pipe leak and resultant condensation in the cold air had caused this call.

Chief Amico, in speaking of the two fires this week, reminded homeowners of the necessity of continuous vigilance as to the condition of their electrical appliances no matter how small, and of the advisability of buying only those tested by the Underwriters' Laboratory and bearing the UL label.

The Fire Department had a very busy week, responding to three calls relating to problems with oil burners in addition to those fires reported here. For the first time in many weeks it also recorded one run to rescue a cat in a tree.

Marine Toys For Tots at the Star

The Star offices will again this year be the pick-up place for the Marine Corps Reserve collection of toys for needy children at Christmas.

New or repairable, good, old toys will be much welcomed by the men of the Corps, who make this annual collection, see to the repairs and get each toy into a happy hand by Christmas Day.

Civic Projects At Jaycee-ette General Meeting

At the regular monthly meeting of the Winchester Jaycee-ettes, project chairmen presented reports of recently completed programs, as well as in-progress and proposed plans.

In cooperation with the Homefronters, the Jaycee-ettes were pleased to send water purifying tablets to all service personnel in Vietnam. Mrs. David Mawicke, project chairman, reported that thirty gifts were colorfully wrapped and delivered to the Homefronters office to be included in the impressive holiday packages.

A hotplate was recently presented to the Winchester Home for the Aged. Mrs. James Edson also continues the practice of remembering the birthdays of residents of the home with a suitable greeting card.

Since the last meeting 6 members of the group volunteered an evening performing clerical work at the TB association office in Wellesley.

The Baby-Sitters' School has been completed and was formally accepted by the group as an annual project.

Current projects include the skate swap and bake sale held Saturday, December 3. A fine turnout was on hand to welcome this new venture.

Plans are progressing well on the literary and arts competition to be held during the February vacation. Mrs. John Doherty and her committee are selecting judges and establishing criteria for the entries. All students in grades 1-6 will be eligible to compete. Prizes shall be awarded, and a display of all articles shall be arranged.

As in the past, the Jaycee-ettes will be working on the Mothers' March of Dimes in January. Mrs. John Williams, town chairman, will be assisted by precinct captains: Mrs. J. Hackett, Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. B. Bowlin, Mrs. J. Doherty, Mrs. D. Mawicke and Mrs. E. Fitzgerald.

Other projects in progress are the presentation of "Red Shoes" and assistance with Jazz Nite.

Preceding the business meeting, Mrs. McMann, executive director of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Association discussed the history of mental illness, local problems and ways of meeting these problems as interested citizens.

Power Failure Hits East Side

A downed power line on Main Street near the high school left some residents on the northeasterly side of town without electricity for a few hours last Wednesday, November 30, until Edison Company repair crews located the pole where the power failure was and were able to repair it and restore service.

From about 4:30 on that afternoon until the early evening hours, residents in some sections east of Washington Street and parts of Washington Street itself and a few Swanton Street businesses were without electric power service.

Wyman Faculty Hosts School Tea

Peace, with white doves for decorations, will serve as the theme for the annual Winchester Public Schools Christmas faculty tea to be held at the Wyman School on Thursday, December 15, at 3:45 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Hamilton of the Parents' Association and Mrs. Anne Gitner of the Faculty are in charge of arrangements.

The Framingham State Teachers' College Concert Choir group will provide the entertainment and all members of the Winchester faculty, past and present, are cordially invited to attend this event.

The Town Gets A Pond

SIGNING THE TRANSFER of Smith Pond, formerly known as Cox Pond, are owner Percival A. Smith, and recipient owner for the town, the Conservation Commission, headed by chairman Malcolm Masters. Town Counsel Vincent P. Clarke prepares to give Mr. Smith a check for the property, the first acquired by the Conservation Commission for the town.

Nature Course At Smith Pond

While final papers for Smith Pond, formerly known as Cox Pond, were being negotiated, one of the great nature teachers, Miss Ivy LeMon of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, was sponsored by the Winchester Home and Garden Club, co-operating with the Winchester School Department, in giving a course to the elementary school teachers across the town, on the site of this pond.

Miss LeMon, like assistant school superintendent Dr. Walter Gleason, has worked with such outstanding figures as Mary Lela Grimes and Dr. Weston in their natural history television programs.

Twenty-one teachers from the seven elementary schools in Winchester were enrolled in this course given by the Audubon instructors. The prime objective of the course was to show how Smith Pond lends itself to use as an outdoor laboratory.

At the Vinson-Owen School, for instance, a teacher could make a preliminary introduction of pond life to her class, using such teaching aids as movies, slides, and collections. The children need only don their boots and cross the street to find the real thing. The teacher can see that they have jars, nets, screens and white enamel pans with which to examine fully a day's catch. The twenty-one teachers enrolled in the pilot Audubon course did just this, and it may be likely that delight in discovering the great variety of life at Smith Pond might be transferred directly to the children this coming spring and winter, so great was their enthusiasm.

It is of interest that the technique of teaching in the out-of-doors is being promoted in Winchester, for it is a town fortunate enough to have wild areas left to be examined. To witness the joy of discovery which such a nature trip engenders in the young is, of itself, a tremendous experience.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club, will sponsor a similar course next spring, again led by Miss LeMon. The Winchester School Department has made arrangements to reproduce the transparent overlays depicting pond-life which were created by Mrs. Ann Woodson of the Audubon Society, to be used by the teachers in the classrooms. It is hoped that many more teachers will join the second Audubon course, in order to bring to the children of the town a most impressive experience.

The aim of the conservation program is to foster responsible action by all citizens on problems involving the use of natural resources, since these problems will ultimately affect the destiny of our lands. Studying nature by using school grounds and nearby acreage as laboratories has high educational potential.

These Audubon Workshops are designed to give our teachers a familiarity with the common forms of plant and animal life in their particular areas. Winchester is indeed fortunate to have a public spirited organization such as the Home and Garden Club which is willing to initiate and help to underwrite this program.

S.O.I. News

The regular meeting for December was held this past Monday evening. Venerable Art Dunbar started it at 8:30.

Chairman Gus Baldacci stressed the fact that the names and ages of the members' children are coming in too slow and the time is getting very short. The party will be held on Sunday afternoon, December 18, and will start at 2. You may leave the names and ages of the children with the committee, whose names are posted on the bulletin board, or with the stewards at the club house. Your donation will also be greatly appreciated.

At this meeting a committee was formed to find ways and means of raising funds to be donated to the disasted relief of the recent Italian floods. A central receiving point will be formed by the committee to receive donations from those who wish to give. For additional information on this Italian flood relief program please contact Venerable Art Dunbar or his committee.

Chairman John Dattilo of the sports committee announced that the first mid-season bowling banquet will be held on January 21. This affair is for bowling members only, and their wives or sweethearts. He also announced the annual Men's Sports Nite will be held on the last Sunday in February, which is February 26.

Scoutmaster Bob Fiore of the boy scout troop is asking for help on Monday evenings starting at 7 p.m. for about a couple of hours. He has about 25 members of the troop, and he would like additional help with them. If you are interested contact Bob or Venerable Art Dunbar.

At this meeting brother Nick Delfino was elected as a trustee to fiill a vacancy that had occurred.

Ned Moore Is Research Engineer In Delaware

Edward P. (Ned) Moore, Jr., has just been made research engineer at the Research Center in Wilmington, Delaware, according to word received this week.

Mr. Moore was graduated from Winchester High School and from Tufts College, magna cum laude, in 1952. The son of former residents Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Moore of Stoneham, he now lives in Wilmington with his wife, two sons and daughter.

Mr. Moore joined the chemical engineering division at the Research Center in June, 1952. He transferred to the plastics and elastomer division in February, 1962, to work in the area of polymer processing. Since then he has made rapid progress in developing the fundamentals of extrusion technology, and is now recognized as an authority in this field.

Ned's fundamental studies of oriented films have greatly contributed to understanding of the relationships between processing conditions, polymer morphology, and film characteristics. He has shown an unusual ability to correlate theory, as developed in the laboratory, with plant production of oriented film. His work has led to a number of recommendations for controlling the process to achieve specific film properties.

Chadwick Speaks To Women At Republican Club

Mrs. Ernest J. Wright, president of the Winchester Women's Republican Club opened her home to the board members last Wednesday morning for an enlightening and informative exchange of ideas.

Rep. Harrison Chadwick spoke to the group briefly on the heartening election results both in the nation and statewide.

He stressed the fact that while there is cause for celebration the Republican trend can help Republicans to win even more seats, realize more accomplishments, and set higher goals. He acquainted the group with the formation of the County Council, an agency whose purpose it will be to increase Republican representation in county and so-called minor offices. He urged no discouragement regarding the petitions being circulated on reducing the size of the legislature. Although published figures have been pessimistic there are many petitions still out that are yet to be certified.

Mrs. George Bramley and Mrs. Frederick Cardin discussed their plans for an unusual and entertaining brunch to be held in the spring. Final plans are in the process and more information will be announced later.

The Christmas meeting will be held on Wednesday, December 14 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Phillip Woodward, 13 Sheffield Road. Members and guests will be pleased to hear Mrs. Dwight Cart speak on "The Origin of Christmas Carols." An added attraction will be Mrs. Richard Stuart singing some old and unique carols. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Don Greer reported that interesting and exciting speakers have been contacted for later meetings.

The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Wright with the promise of an exciting program and interesting format in the coming months.

"Ladies In Retirement Is" Parish Player Opener

The Parish Players of Winchester have launched their 41st season with an excellent mounting of the Edward Percy, Reginald Denham thriller "Ladies In Retirement," which was presented recently in Chidley Hall of the First Congregational Church.

The story which takes place in the late 1800's concerns a retired lady of easy virtue Leonora Fiske living quietly in the English countryside with her housekeeper-companion Ellen Creed, and Leonora's maid Lucy.

All is peace and contentment until Ellen's two simple old sisters come to pay a visit which is extended on one pretext or another until Leonora is at her good-natured wits end with their eccentricities. How Ellen's nearly perfect scheme to take over Leonora's household and income to provide for her two pathetic sisters is found out by her own nephew Albert and the maid Lucy, makes for a chilling suspense-full evening.

Glenne Grant did a fine job with her first assignment as director for Parish Players. The pace of the play never lagged, and the acting throughout was even in quality and generally skillful. This is a long play, and in spite of some wordiness, the players managed to sustain interest.

DeFrench as Leonora was perfect as a retired music hall dancer with her improbable red wig, her reminiscences of the gay past, and her quavering voice. We were sorry she disappeared after the first act.

GLENNE GRANT

Sally Phaneuf, no stranger to playing psychotic women (she played the title role in The Heiress here) was Ellen Creed. She acted the part in direct contrast to the flamboyant Leonora, with a quiet forbidding intensity which foreshadowed the awful conclusion.

Nancy Dorsey and Doris Bryant were hilarious as the dotty sisters. Nancy simpered and giggled delightfully as the sillier one, and Doris played the hardier malcontented one with just the proper degree of gruff ill humor.

Albert, the slightly seedy, light-fingered nephew, was skillfully done by Stephen Pentek. His portrayal of the cocky unscrupulous character neatly unravelled the plot.

Juliette Foskett turned in her usual fine performance as Lucy the flighty maid, Albert's accomplice. Her ear-splitting shriek at the end of the play put the final chill on the audience.

Mary Mears as the nun introduced a nice sense of serenity in her scenes which provided contrast to the guilt-ridden Ellen.

Roger Foskett and Company are to be congratulated for the lovely Tudor farmhouse set with its old beams and mellow brick, and for the interesting lighting effects. The old Victorian organ lent just the right eerie touch to the scene.

After such an excellent production, citizens can look forward to the Parish Players' performance of "The Deadly Game," in the Spring.

Unitarian Choir Pre-Service Choral Music

The fourth pre-service choral program given by the Winchester Unitarian Choir under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham will be presented in the chancel of the Winchester Unitarian Church on Sunday, December 11, at 10:40. The program follows:

Christmas Bells, English carol
Listen Lordings, English carol
He Shall Feed His Flock—Messiah - Handel, contralto
Come Unto Me—Messiah - Handel, soprano
O Thou That Tellest—Messiah - Handel, cantralto and choir
Traditional Carols, Winchester Unitarian Male Choir

The first anthem, "A Christmas Carol" by Protheroe, will be sung by the Winchester Unitarian Male Choir. The second anthem, "The Star of Courage" by Wolfe, will be sung by William Jeffery and choir. The postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah by Handel. Members of the Winchester Unitarian Quartette are: Estelle McNeely, soprano; Barbara Wood, contralto; William Jeffery, tenor; and Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr., baritone.

Local League Goes After State Problems In Units

The merits and shortcomings of the Massachusetts State Legislature will be the center of attention at the December unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of Winchester.

The structure of our State Government, a league agenda item for the past five years, is attracting special attention this year because of widespread public concern over such matters as Civil Service reform, auto insurance rates, and the adequacy of State mental health facilities. Additional current controversies include whether or not a constitutional convention is needed to remodel the overall government structure and, possibly, to reduce the size of the State Legislature.

In addition to the problem of legislative size, particular attention will be given to the following issues: legislative redistricting; legislative salaries; procedural changes in the General Court; and legislative committee reform.

Those attending morning units should note that henceforth these will begin one half hour earlier, at 9:15 a.m.

The meetings are scheduled as follows:

Tuesday evening, December 13, 7:45 p.m - Chairman, Mrs. Norman T. Brust, 729-0089; Hostess, Mrs. Chester L. Dawes, 74 Wedgemere Avenue.

Wednesday morning, December 14, 9:15 a.m. Chairman, Mrs. Eber T. LeGates, 729-3143; Hostess, Mrs. John F. White, 16 Sheffield Road.

Wednesday afternoon, December 14, 1:00 p.m. Chairman, Mrs Albert Dietz, 729-2628; Hostess, Mrs. O. Guinn Smith, 38 Rangely Road.

Thursday morning, December 15, 9:15 a.m. - Chairman, Mrs. Murray Yavner, 729-3371; Hostess, Mrs. William E. Spaulding, 379 Main Street.

Baby sitting is available at a nominal fee at the home of Mrs. Marshall M. Kincaid, 12 Prospect Street on Thursday morning only.

The chairman of each unit will be glad to arrange transportation, if needed.

Accordion Group To Perform For Dartmouth Club

The December meeting of the Dartmouth Women's Club, Inc. will be held on Wednesday, the 14th, at Brookline Motor Motel, Brookline. A short business meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Francis A. Sarnie, president, of West Medford, after which social hour, coffee and dessert will be enjoyed by members and their guests.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Joseph H. Clancy and Mrs. Donald M. Myers of Arlington and Mrs. Michael J. Macdonald of Bacon Street.

Mrs. Percy E. Gleason of 13 Pine Street will be in charge of the Yule Sale.

At 2 p.m., Mrs. George C. Rush, program chairman, will introduce Frank Zygarowski, accordion instructor, and well-known as "Mr. Z.," who will present the "Z-ETTS" of Burlington, an all student group of accordion players, featuring Stephen Lazdowski of Woburn, widely known for his recordings and for his renditions on the Cordovox.

The Dartmouth Women's Club, Inc. enjoys a wide membership in the Winchester and Mystic Valley areas.

MRS. EDMUND B. HAWLEY of 25 Ledgewood Road, chairman of refreshments for the fall meeting of the Parents Association at Belmont Day School is shown with the speaker, Dr. Theodore R. Star Sports

STAR SPORT SHORTS

Ed Sterling

At a meeting of the Middlesex League coaches Tuesday night, the coaches selected the all-star Middlesex League football team for 1966. Tom Varley was named to the first team, while Johnny Martin and Andy Kincaid were selected for the second team. A rundown of the entire all-star team will appear in next week's issue of the Star.

* * * * *

We expected it, but were still rather disappointed that Mark Driscoll of Arlington was selected over Bill Kelly of Reading as all-scholastic quarterback by the Globe, although Kelly was named top quarterback in Class B. While Driscoll had a team with everything, superb defense, fine running game, great protection for the quarterback, Kelly was at the helm of a team which couldn't move very well on the ground, which didn't offer him much protection in his passing game. In spite of that, Kelly, who was out with injuries in the only game Reading lost, threw two and three touchdown passes per game to lead his team to a share of the Middlesex League title. He had to get rid of the ball in a hurry, and he did, with great accuracy. Bill handled the team superbly all through the season. Winchester fans remember his great performance against the Sachems, and all his games were equally well handled.

The Class A teams get the lion's share of the publicity in schoolboy sports, and it's tough for a player in the lower classifications to break into the all-star line-up. Driscoll is a fine quarterback—but how would he have done had he had to hurry his passes in every game, as did Kelly?

Jake Driscoll and Brian Berkowitz made the bench on the all-star team, as did Gino Serecchia and Kelly of Reading. Driscoll also made tackle on the Class B team. Bob Nutile received honorable mention.

* * * * *

Remember the Massillon, Ohio, high school football teams that would go through several seasons without a loss, and gained such national prominence under Paul Brown? The team didn't win a game this year. The ball still bounces up—and down.

* * * * *

Brian Collins has been hospitalized with a mild form of pneumonia, and was expected to be released yesterday. Word is that he won't be playing basketball this season. Too bad—we enjoyed watching his hustling, driving type of game last season. With last year's starting team graduated, he will be missed.

* * * * *

Alan Ingraham and Dick Kadesch have been chosen by their teammates as co-captains of next year's soccer team.

* * * * *

Winchester defeated Saugus 1-0 last week in the annual Invitational Hockey Jamboree at the Sports Center in Lynn. Joe Stabile scored the only goal of the game.

* * * * *

The Junior Varsity hockey team opens its schedule with Stoneham tomorrow at 5, at Melrose.

* * * * *

Dick Russo and Art Cunningham are starters on the Nichols College Hockey team which opened its season last week against Assumption at the Worcester Skating Arena.

* * * * *

A couple of girls on the field hockey team sent in a letter to the Star commenting on the fact that Miss Jan Collins was not mentioned for her role in leading the team to an undefeated season in last week's story appearing in the Star. The article was sent in to the Star office without the writer's signature. We have a good idea that Miss Collins wrote the story, and was more concerned that the girls on the team receive the credit they deserved. Those connected in any way with Miss Collins' handling of girls' sports, be they faculty, parents, or the girls themselves, are well aware of her record as a coach and handler of her charges. Is there another coach of girls' high school athletics in the entire country who can equal her record over the past five or six years?

Winchester Hockey Under Way; Concord First Opponent

The first few snow flurries heralded the arrival of hockey for the Winchester High School hockey team, which officially opens its season with Concord in a Middlesex League game at Melrose Hockeytown U.S.A. next Wednesday.

The team has had a couple of preseason practice games under its belt, losing 4-1 to Columbus before the football players had joined the team. In last week's Jamboree it defeated a good Saugus team 1-0.

The team shapes up as follows:

Kevin McHugh	Jr.	G
John Carroll	Sr.	G
Stanley Cruwys	Sr.	W
Paul Blanche	Sr.	D
John Newhall	Jr.	D
Mark Sullivan	Sr.	W
Bob Nutile	Sr.	W
Sal Putnam	So.	W
Dan Mears	Jr.	W
Mike Murray	Sr.	C
Fred McCormack	Jr.	W
Doug Dalton	So.	D
Harry Wood	Sr.	D
Jim Stabile	Sr.	C

Nutile and Murray are co-captains.

Coach Steve Powers expects good results from his squad, with some standout players holdovers from last year's team. McHugh has looked good at goalie, while Cruwys, Nutile, Blanche, Sullivan, Nutile, and Harry Wood played great hockey last year. The opening line-up is expected to read: McHugh, Cruwys, Nutile, Blanche, Wood and Murray. Coach Powers' second line will be a makeup line including Dalton, Mears and Sullivan. Carroll is backup goalie.

The team in its practice games and workouts keep looking better all the time, and prospects for a winning team are favorable. The top winter sport in Winchester is on the way.

Winchester Youth Hockey News

No more applications will be accepted for the Youth Hockey Program. The quota has been filled to capacity. The response has been so successful in the Pee Wee age group, that four teams will have to be formed in this division. This should make it more interesting for the boys in that age group trying to win their respective league championship.

A Bantam All-Star team has been formed and will be playing their games at the Hockeytown, U.S.A. Rink in Melrose. First game will be played this Saturday evening. At the present, the time is not known, but each boy on the team will be notified when to report.

Massachusetts, which today makes many parts and accessories for automobiles, at one time had its own automotive industry. The first successful gasoline-powered car in America was made in Springfield and in the early days of motoring no less than 100 different makes of automobiles were produced in the Bay State.

YMCA Offers Course In Leadership

A leadership training course is offered to high school students in the Woburn area.

The course will consist of ten sessions held on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. at the Woburn Branch Y.M.C.A.

This course is designed to help the high school student to develop or become an effective leader with one's own age group or with various younger age levels. Course content will progress from general leadership concepts and work towards the use of these concepts in various specific leadership situations. Toward the end of the course, candidates will be given an opportunity to apply their leadership knowledge in areas related to one's specific interests.

The ten sessions, two of which have already been conducted, consist of the following topics:

Dec. 14, 3. "What Leadership Demands"
Dec. 21, 4. "Leadership (by age groupings)"
Jan. 5, 5. "What Makes a Group"
Jan. 11, 6. "Conducting Group Meetings"
Jan. 18, 7. "Coaching Team
Jan. 25, 8. "Special Interest Skills"
Feb. 1, 9. "Games for Small Groups"
Feb. 8, 10. "Final Exam and Course Evaluation"

A top YMCA official will speak on group dynamics, and various film strips will be used to bring out important ideas.

Bill Lewis, graduate student at Boston University, is the course instructor. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of St. Lawrence Univ., Canton, New York. He received his masters degree in guidance of personnel in 1964. The past eight years he has been a teacher and coach of many athletic activities. His most recent position was at Potsdam High School in Northern New York, where his track and cross-country teams were perennial champions.

Black Duck Season Nears

Maine, New Hampshire and Bay State waterfowlers are reminded of the need for special permits required for the special black duck hunting season from December 15 through January 8.

This special season, resulting from research conducted by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and State Fish and Game biologist over a period of years, requires hunters to have a valid duck stamp, their regular state hunting license, and, in addition, a special black duck season permit issued by State Fish and Game Departments. Only those hunters who really intend to use these permits should apply by addressing a letter or postcard to their State Fish and Game Director. In addition to name and address, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts requires the applicant's current State hunting license number.

Jackie Brennan Pee-Wee All-Star

Jackie Brennan, 12, of 39 Westland Avenue, plays hockey for the Belmont Pee Wees, currently undefeated and leading the Greater Boston Pee Wee League.

He has also been chosen a member of the Greater Boston Pee Wees, the all-star team of the League, which will be one of the United States representatives next February in the Quebec International Pee Wee Hockey Tournament. The tournament is a week-long affair with the American boys housed in local homes for the entire period. The boys will reciprocate later in the winter when a Canadian team visits Boston.

Jackie is a product of the Winchester Youth Hockey program where he has played since he was seven. Hockey appears to be the strong sport in the Brennan family. Jackie's sister Mary Ann plays field hockey for Winchester High School and Eileen plays for Lynch Junior High. A younger brother, Tom, also plays for the Belmont Pee Wees.

With only two weeks left in the first half, the Carnations lost all 8 points to the Violets. The Carnations are just one point in front of the second place team.

Taking all 8 points from the Roses, puts the Pansies in second place. Florence Paonessa of the Pansies, broke high single with a tremendous 3rd string of 135. Flo almost had three strikes in a row, too. Nice bowling Flo!

With some terrific bowling from Evelyn Giacolone and Margie Gambino, the Tulips took all 8 points from the Gardenias. Evelyn bowled a 312 and Margie bowled a 319.

Bowling with two girls out, the Daffodils took 6 points from the Petunias. Jeanne will be proud of you girls.

Buttercups lost 6 points to the Daisies this week. Betty Morgan bowled a score of 348. What bowling! Betty could do no wrong this week. Nice bowling Betty!

The Misfits are still in the lead after taking all 8 points from the Mustangs this week and the Jaguars jumped up to second place after taking all 8 from the Saabs.

Fran bowled high for the night with a 334. She had her best night yet. She passed Flaw's high single of 119 with a 123, and topped her own high triple of 311 with a 334. Her strings were 93, 118, and 123. Its her special diet that's doing it. Well Fran?

Norma was second in line with a 299, she just missed the 300 Club by one pin. You'll make it next time Norma.

Cappie was third with a 292. That's good bowling Cap!

The 100 Club welcomes a new member Stina Hicks with her 106 string. Welcome Stina (it's about time).

Nellie, Lib and Rosie D. bowled very well this week. And Rosie D. won the pool. Congratulations, Rosie!

We are happy to announce the return of an old pro, Phyllis. Welcome back Phyll!

Welcoming Winter On Winter Pond

FIRST SKATING OF THE SEASON was Sunday, when a part of Big Winter offered avid skaters a chance to feel the ice under their feet. Those who prefer higher temperatures stay-Charles Whitten and Ellen Cunningham madesummer and fall just ended. But Amy and Charles Whitten and Ellen Cpnningham made the most of the lower temperatures. The Old Farmer's Almanac of 1967 predicts temperatures about normal this year; but about the snow it says, "about 89 inches—or almost 30 above average." Here we go again!

Red Cross Youth Aids Children

The Red Cross Youth program under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles F. Potts participated in the U.S. Government A I D program to construct 234 classroom units for refugee children in Vietnam.

The American Red Cross is supplying the school supply chests for these classrooms, each of which will have two shifts of 50 refugee children.

The Winchester chapter has completed a modified school chest containing the required work tools and supplies for a single classroom.

Giving their time to this project were Sue Vercollone, Ginny Long, Nancy Millican, Audrey Puffer, Paul Boesch and Mark Smith.

CHOSEN to represent Marycliff Academy at the Student Government Day in March is Miss Jane Watson, 31 Dix Street. Jane, a senior, is vice-president of the Class of '67. Leslie McGrale of 21 Grove Place was the other candidate for the office.

Discontinuance Of Postal Savings

United States Postal Savings certificates which are on deposit at the Boston, Mass. Post Office, are now earning little or no interest for local depositors, Assistant Postmaster in Charge, Alfred W. Barnard, of the Winchester Post Office revealed today.

Nationwide, the Post Office Department is holding more than $147 million in the obsolete program which was discontinued by the Congress on March 28, 1966.

As of April 27, 1966, Postal Savings were discontinued, and no more accepted by the Post Office Department. Certificates whose anniversary dates have been reached since last April 26 have earned their final interest payment. Those whose anniversary dates fall between now and next April 26 will receive interest until their next anniversary dates, but they can be cashed at any time and a proportionate amount of interest will be paid. After April 26, 1967, no interest will be earned by any Postal Savings accounts, Asst. Postmaster Barnard said.

Assistant Postmaster Barnard suggests that all Postal Savings depositors close out their accounts as soon as convenient so they can put their funds to more productive use.

He also reminded depositors that U.S. Savings Bonds paying a current rate of 4.15 per cent interest, if held to maturity, are an excellent investment for both safety and income.

On July 1 of next year, remaining funds in the program will be turned over to the Treasury Department. There they will be deposited in a trust fund, where they will remain available for payment without time limitation whenever proper claims are received.

Manufacture of sporting goods and athletic equipment provides employment for more than 5000 persons in Massachusetts. Among the Bay State's products in this industry are golf balls and golf clubs, baseballs, fishing rods and tackle, ice and roller skates, ski bindings, shotguns, rifles, tennis rackets, bowling balls, hockey pucks and equipment, inflatable rubber and vinyl rafts, and beach balls.

Busy Week For Forum

December 11 is Forum in Church Sunday for the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church at the 11 a.m. worship service in the main sanctuary. Tom Erskine will be the chaplain. Dr. Henley will preach on the topic "But God Will Not Let Us Go..." and the Forum choir will sing.

Deacons will be Greg Barone, Ken Cooper, Pete Fowle, Craig Heindel, Richard Sawyer, and John Wisbach and ushers Phil Boesch, Lee Hillman, James Mouradian and Robert Drown, Stephen Fernald and Graham Chase.

The Christmas program will be held Sunday evening at 6:30 in Chidley Hall. The Troubadours will present their Christmas selections. Reverend Frederick R. Brown from the Lyman School for Boys will speak on "Letters from Vietnam" and at 8 p.m. the Dramatics Committee will present their Christmas play entitled "Stranger in Bethlehem." Refreshments will be served. Nonagon has been invited to join Forumites and their parents in this gala program to usher in the holiday season.

"Food for Thought" - Forum will hold a Bake Sale on Saturday, December 10, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Purity Save-Mor Market. This will be a perfect time to stock up on pre-holiday, homemade delicacies.

A Christmas Carol

Greater love hath no man than this.—John 15:13

HE lived alone in a cheerless tenement in a dim alley in the heart of the squalid and congested East Side of London. Who he was, from whence he came, what he did, nobody seemed to know. To tell the truth, nobody appeared to care. A stooped, pinched and shabby little figure with an air of timorous shyness and haunting pathos about him, he looked for all the world as if he had just emerged from a drawing by Daumier. When he went out, he was swallowed up immediately in the immensity of the metropolis. When he came back, he retired at once unto himself. He seemingly lived in the desolation of utter loneliness and the hopelessness of abject poverty—a forgotten man submerged in the teeming population of the vast city.

As the Winter set in, he was seen less and less. For several days before Christmas, he was not seen at all. Then some incident with which I am not familiar led the authorities to visit his wretched habitation. They found him dead—dead on the greatest day in the Christian calendar, a victim of acute privation and long neglect. As he had lived by himself, apparently alienated from his fellowmen, so he had died, with no one to smooth his pillow for the last time, or to say a prayer or utter even so much as a friendly word to mitigate the pangs of departure into the great unknown.

When they took out his pathetic remains, consigned no doubt to a potter's grave, the neighbors merely shrugged their shoulders. Another poor devil gone, who was doubtless a sore burden to himself and certainly of no possible good to anybody else. Then they dismissed him from mind. There was, however, one fact that the neighbors did not know.

When the authorities examined his poor and meager effects, they found literally thousands of receipts for postal orders. They covered a period of many years. They were not large in individual amounts but they represented hundreds of English pounds in the aggregate. They all went to charities—charities of all kinds, without discrimination as to race, creed or color of the beneficiaries. Orphanages, hospitals, shelters, homes for the aged, all manner of institutions for the relief of human misery in all its pitiful forms were included in the benefactions. Yes, and among the list animal welfare societies had not been forgotten. The last receipt was for a contribution to the Salvation Army to buy Christmas dinners for the poor.

This man had lived in extreme penury and died in utter destitution that the least of these, his brethren, might be administered unto in their helplessness, want and suffering—that those who were hungry might be given meat, that those who were thirsty might be given drink, that the stranger might be taken in, the naked clothed, and the sick visited. The brief item I read in a London paper some years ago, and upon which this story is based, gave no hint of the personal drama or inner crisis—if such there was—which led to this great renunciation. But surely in some way the transforming power and grace of that love and compassion which Jesus insistently preached and consistently lived and died to vindicate, had quickened the heart and possessed the soul of this man of the London slums, and had become the absorbing passion of his life.

Fine Voices, Top Sets and Costumes Highlight Staff and Key "Iolanthe"

Those who attended either of the performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe" last weekend in the Winchester High School, will agree that Staff and Key's production was a great credit to Winchester.

Few towns of Winchester's size have the opportunity of enjoying such talented and professional theatre within its midst. Many thought it a shame, considering the time and effort required to put on such a production, that "Iolanthe" ran for only two evenings.

Within the three years since its re-organization, Staff and Key Society has come a long distance. Those who saw "The Pirates of Penzance" in 1964 may well remember the lack of dramatic and musical polish in that performance as compared with this year's "Iolanthe." Last year in "The Mikado" the addition of a professional orchestra was a marked improvement.

"The Mikado" was highly enjoyable entertainment, though lengthy and rather uneven in quality. "Iolanthe," however, displayed a noticeably improved sense of dramatic cohesiveness - a quality which has come from accumulated experience in performing the works of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Praise For Director

This year, both male and female choruses performed as well integrated units, producing bold designs on the stage. Soloists depicted their characters in distinct vocal and dramatic fashion. The performance progressed with precision and momentum, as opposed to the rambling version of "The Mikado." For this new ability, Staff and Key can thank several persons: their highly talented director, L. Hassler Einzig, who is not only director of music in the Arlington Public Schools and associated with several musical societies in the Boston area, but a noted authority on Gilbert and Sullivan as well; Mrs. Frances Cabot, who is associated with the society as accompanist and music chairman, and who headlines the orchestra as pianist; and Samuel Card, production manager, who has a long background of experience with operetta and little theatre in directorial and administrative as well as dramatic capacities.

Naturally there were drawbacks in this performance of "Iolanthe," despite the overall distinction. The beginning of the production was weak, and it was difficult for the unfamiliar listener to grasp the plot immediately. Perhaps a part of this weakness is inherent in "Iolanthe" itself as a play. This is one of the very few Gilbert and Sullivan operettas which does not open with a bold and familiar male chorus. Here, instead, a group of fairies flitting about the stage must provide the opening motif and present the background of the story. Accoustically, the Winchester High School auditorium is hardly a director's dream, for there are several dead spots and the sound does not always carry well from the stage, despite a large audience.

Indeed, "Iolanthe" as a whole is perhaps more difficult to comprehend than other Gilbert and Sullivan works. Therefore, clear diction and projection, often lacking in this particular performance, is imperative for accurate communication of subtle details and indeed the entire plot.

Top Solo Voices

The strength of this presentation lay basically in the visual image and the quality of the soloists' voices. Gorgeous costumes befitting the most ephemeral fairy and the grandest peer, as well as the lovely scenery, were made specifically for this production by the Tracy Music Library under the direction of Winchester's Mrs. Percival Metcalf. The chorus of peers with their cape maneuvers in the first act provided a particularly vivid effect. Throughout "Iolanthe," the chorus of fairies danced gracefully about the stage, producing intricate pastel patterns of motion.

Highlighting the cast was Richard Bates as the very humorous and "highly susceptible" Lord Chancellor. He cavorted about the stage, presenting his patter songs with superb deftness and clarity. Sunday morning, following the final performance, Mr. Bates and his family left by plane for New Zealand and a new home. They will be greatly missed in Winchester.

In the roles of the Arcadian lovers Phyllis, ward in chancery, and Strephon, the half-fairy, half-mortal son of Iolanthe, were Dolores Baldyga and Robert Horne. Miss Baldyga displayed a marvelously well - trained, clear and pleasing voice, as well as distinguished dramatic flair. Robert Horne made a perfect Strephon, prancing about like Pan and exhibiting a fine tenor voice. Their duets in Act 1 were outstanding. Both are newcomers to Staff and Key, although they have been heard with various other organizations in the area.

Linda Milani, who will certainly be remembered as Mabel in The "Pirates of Penzance" and Yum-Yum in "The Mikado" made a most regal and awesome Fairy Queen. Recalling her beautiful soprano voice as heard in the earlier operettas it was a surprise to hear her as a contralto in "Iolanthe," though her voice with its marked control and fullness was certainly none the less pleasing.

Always a highlight of Staff and Key productions is the combination of the talents of Victor Jonas and Robert Mathews. This year Mr. Jonas and Mr. Mathews, who is the current chairman of Staff and Key, took the parts of Lord Mountarrarrat and Lord Tolloller, respectively. Their dialogue in Act II was perhaps the most amusing of the show. The outstanding qualities of Mr. Jonas' baritone voice and Mr. Mathews' tenor voice blended most agreeably in their duets.

Mary Smith in the title role made a most whimsical and enchanting Iolanthe. Both dramatically and vocally, she projected well, displaying her theatrical experience.

The small but superbly humorous role of Private Willis was taken by Charles Sheridan, a specialist in bass-buffo parts and a great favorite with the audience.

The supporting roles of the three fairies, Leila, Celia and Fleta were very capably taken by Cynthia Knox, Pamela Macy and Jan Card.

Last but certainly not least, the professional orchestra, consisting of fine local musicians must be mentioned. They did a distinguished job with Sullivan's difficult score, and created a distinctive musical background for "Iolanthe."

"Talking Talk"

Dr. Robert Ferullo, who was the guest speaker at EMARC (East Middlesex Association For Retarded Children) November meeting has a new educational program on television entitled, "Talking Talk." The series may be seen on WNAC-TV Channel 7 at 6:30 a.m. every Friday morning.

His program scheduled for December 9 and 16 are of great interest to members and friends of EMARC. Both programs deal with mental retardation.

The December 9 program will include children and teachers from Wrentham State School and Our Lady of Mercy School in Worcester.

The December 16 program will include young adults from EMARC'S Training Center with Melvin Cohen, past director of the Center and Mrs. Nancy Poirier. Children from the Wrentham State School are also on this program.

Dr. Ferullo is associate professor of special education, Northeastern University and consultant in speech, hearing and deaf education in the Woburn Public Schools.

The television series concerns the problems of children, youth and adults have with speech, hearing and language.

The Golden Text of this week's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon is from Isaiah: "He shall feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young." The lesson is titled, "God the Preserver of Man."

Among related passages from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following:

"The Scriptures say, 'They that wait upon the Lord—shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.' The meaning of that passage is not perverted by applying it literally to moments of fatigue, for the moral and physical are as one in their results."

Living With Your Heart

There was a time when the victim of heart disease was considered doomed to a life of inactivity and semi-invalidism—a belief which in all propability shortened rather than prolonged the lives of those involved.

Now we know that, once the heart has been given an adequate opportunity to heal (usually three to six months, depending upon the severity of the attack and the patient's personal rate of recuperation) it thrives on properly controlled activity. There are, however, a few very important rules to remember, especially when that long-awaited vacation comes along.

Before starting to make specific plans, every heart patient should of course, check with the physician who is treating him and is most familiar with his individual case. Once your doctor has given you a go-ahead and has set whatever limits he believes are neccessary, you can make your plans.

There are some general suggestions, however, which may be of help to the heart patient and to those who vacation with him which can be made here.

When on vacation it is easy to let your guard down as far as special restrictions are concerned. Don't let the relaxed and informal atmosphere tempt you into taking just one cigarette, if you've been told to stop entirely, or one drink more than your doctor allows, or nibbling on salty snacks if you're on a low sodium or low calorie diet. All too often, "just one" leads to another, and then another.

If you are on a special diet - low sodium, low fat, or low calorie - it may take a little extra effort to stick with it, but it is very important that you do. If your plans include a hotel or ocean liner, or if you'll be taking meals on plane or train, ask your travel agent to mention your special needs when he makes your reservation. Most are very helpful in this regard. In traveling on regimented tours in which you have to keep up with others or be on your feet for a long period of time, as in visiting shrines and museums. Keep handy a list of the foods which you are permitted to eat so you can reach a quick decision when you are in a hotel or restaurant. Carry along your own salt or sugar substitute or any other special need.

There are many physical activities which are beneficial to the heart patient, and in which he should participate as soon as his doctor tells him to. Golf and walking head the list, and are recommended to the majority of heart patients. When golfing don't be ashamed to allow people to play "through." Swimming, using a leisurely stroke, and following meticulously all of the common sense rules of never swimming alone, never in too cold water, and not too soon after eating, is usually permitted.

Boating should impose no special problems, as long as someone else launches the boat or portages the canoe, and as long as no attempt is made to start a manual starting motor with a rope pull. If there isn't someone around to do it for you, wait until there is. Above all, don't try to get a power boat into the water at the start of the season or out of the water at the end of the season. Fishing is great as long as you don't try to land the big ones without help.

Tennis, water skiing, Scuba diving and snorkeling are all on the Don't list—they impose a great strain on even a normal heart and are entirely out of bounds for anyone with a heart condition.

Extremes of climate - as well as other extremes - should be avoided by the heart patient. If for a special reason it is desired to travel to an unusually high altitude, or to an extraordinarily hot and humid spot, plan to spend the first few days very quietly while your system acclimatizes itself. Every drastic environmental change places an extra burden on the heart.

Perhaps most important of all is to be on the alert for any signs of trouble. Unusual tiredness, palpitation, dizziness, faintness, swelling of feet or ankles, shortness of breath—each warns that you are overdoing it. Stop and rest immediately. If the symtoms continue, it is best to have a doctor look you over immediately. In general while not too much should be "made" of it, you should not travel or vacation where medical help is not available.

And having taken all these precautions you should expect things to go well; certainly you should not act as if things might go wrong and should expect that they will go well.

Duplicate Bridge Club

The ladies' daytime group enjoyed a Christmas party on Monday, December 5, as they will not be meeting again in December. The winners North-South were Dolly Pasquale and Adeline Mingolelli, Joan Stites and Florence Wilkinson,, Loretta Spencer and Sally Lix; East-West, the top scorers, were Virginia Carr and Clara Wisbach, Shirley Black and Jo Collier, Jean Berberian and Rita Howard.

Whether because of colder weather or other reasons, the eleven tables in Section A filled up more rapidly than usual on Wednesday, November 30. Kay McConnell and Lena Collins turned in the best game for North-South, while Dick Smith with guest Sam Burwen were first East-West. Average was 110.

North-South

Kay McConnell and Lena Collins	128
James Byrne and Dr. Waldron Smith	122
Betty Slade and Robert Haskell	118
Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mansfield	115
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sittinger	112
Adeline Mingolelli and Gerry Barrett	111
Mrs. James Byrne and Waveney Smith	110½

East-West

Richard Smith and Sam Burwen	134½
Fredna Perkins and Clarence Woodward	132½
Jock Olmsted and Herbert Wood	122½
Mr. and Mrs. William Duryea	112

Section B featured a pair of tremendous games North-South. Normally the 85½ points skillfully garnered by Nancy Atkinson and Paul Sanderson would be more than enough to win on a 63 average (after all, East-West, 74½ was 1st), but those local culinary experts, Donna Redpath and Gerry Lawrence were cooking on all four burners plus, and their 88½ points won first place.

North-South

Donna Redpath and Gerry Lawrence	88½

One of our ever-obliging club members, Steve Haseltine (he always says "Yes," is our editor for the Hand-of-the-Week.

How would you like to play a small slam with two Aces missing? That's what happened to one West on Board 7 in Section B. His partner jumped all the way to six no trump on the second round of bidding. He had opened the bidding with one club and rebid two no trump over his partner's response of one heart.

West	North	East	South

North's opening lead of a low club went to South's ace. The diamond ace was cashed, and West was down one.

West's rebid of 2 no trump was a slight (?) exaggeration. If he had the nineteen high card points his bid promised, his opponents could not have two aces when his partner held fourteen high card points. Of course his partner could have checked for aces via Blackwood or Gerber, and signed off at five no trump (maybe he didn't remember how?), but it didn't seem necessary. Are you wondering why South didn't double? I am.

One West bid a small slam and went down one doubled. His partner did check for aces but couldn't remember how to stop a 5 no trump.

Another West bid 3 no trump and made six. Maybe South didn't cash the diamond ace immediately and West got rid of his diamonds on East's hearts and spades.

The other four times it was played West bid 3 and made 5 no trump twice, East bid 3 and made 4 no trump, and once East played it at 4 spades, down 2.

Editor's Note: In case you're wondering how to sign off at 5 no trump, suppose you need two aces for a small slam and bid 4 no trump, asking your partner to show his aces. When he responds with 5 diamonds, showing only one ace, you then know the slam isn't there and bid the unbid major suit, in this case, spades, giving your partner the chance to bid 5 no trump, the correct spot for the contract. Certainly slam might be there with the points in different places.

Tufts Dental Starts Fund For New Building

Tufts University has launched a nation - wide campaign to help finance an $11,754,000 Dental Health Sciences Building in Boston to house its School of Dental Medicine.

The United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved a $5,584,385 matching grant to be awarded on successful completion of the campaign in April, 1968.

Acting President Leonard C. Mead, a former resident on Mt. Pleasant Street, announced that half a million dollars in advance gifts have been received toward the campaign's $5.9 million goal.

The 12-story facility will rise at the corner of Washington and Kneeland streets in Boston's South Cove, and will be the first component of the projected Tufts - New England Medical Center complex.

It will constitute a pioneering departure in the teaching of dental medicine and will be the major center for dental research in the Northeast.

United physically with the Medical Center hospitals, it will enable them to offer a complete range of dental care to hospital patients. With general clinics occupying three full floors, it will allow the school to provide dental health care service to a considerably greater number of persons from the Greater Boston community than the 8,000 now treated annually.

The expansion of facilities for teaching will mean that 125 freshmen can be admitted to the school each year instead of the current 103 and that a planned increase in full-time faculty from 31 to 105 will be possible.

The fund drive's culmination in 1968 will coincide with the 100th anniversary of the school, which began as the Boston Dental College in 1868 and became a part of Tufts College in 1899. The School of Dental Medicine, as it has been known since that date, now shares quarters with the Tufts School of Medicine on Harrison Avenue in the South Cove.

A leader in continuing dental education, the school enrolls more than 500 participants annually in refresher or continuing education courses and cooperates with the Tufts Graduate School of Arts and Sciences in programs leading to master of science and master of dental science degrees.

In research, Tufts has conducted extensive work in the detection of oral cancer, a field in which it is recognized as the leader, and in such innovative work as the use of tiny radio transmitters in the teeth to study occlusion.

Reaching out into the community, Tufts conducts a variety of special community health services, including its participation in Boston's Columbia Point health project, and provides dental services in many local school systems.

A particular contribution to child health is its Cleft Palate Institute to be housed in the new building, which specializes in service for children with facial deformities. The school also conducts the Oral Pediatrics Clinic in the Boston Dispensary and the Dental Department of the Boston City Hospital.

A unique contribution is Tufts' Department of Social Dentistry, offering such courses as the science and art of nutrition, psychology, psychiatry, public health and preventive dentistry, disaster preparedness, and field assignments in public health and preventive dentistry.

Designed by the Architects Collaborative of Cambridge, the proposed building will have five floors devoted to clinics. In addition to the general clinics on three floors, it will devote one full floor to specialty clinics and another to the oral surgery clinic, the diagnostic clinic and the Radiology Department. The ground floor will contain space for retail stores as well as for the reception and admissions areas of the school.

Local Delegates To Convention Of Witnesses

A convention of Jehovah's Witnesses is scheduled for Wilmington this week-end when 1300 are expected to fill the High School auditorium there for three days.

Winchester delegates will hear Richard Harlow, spokesman for the group, who recently said:

"Family worship is the 'spiritual cement' that holds a family together. It involves the worship of God, and a continuous growth of each family in worshipping Him in spirit and truth. Prayer, study of the Bible and togetherness in assembling at congregational meetings are basic essentials in this worship if one is going to experience God's blessing."

How does one achieve it and where does one begin? It is easy to say it must be done but family members already set in ways or habits feel it's a seemingly impossible task.

An incentive to make a start in family worship will be provided at the assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses. The Friday evening program, by means of a film, talks, skits, and pantomimes, will instruct all in attendance in doing things as a family, how family study of the Bible can best be carried out, how a sound heritage can be provided for youth.

One is not required to join in membership or feel obligated in any way by attending and attending the convention will be whole families, young and old, including babes-in-arms. These people together form a huge family of "brothers" and "sisters," as the Witnesses refer to each other, and observing Christian love in action is an exciting experience.

The Burlington congregation extends an invitation to you and your family to join with them in assembly. The highlight of the three-day program will be the Bible lecture Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m., "Satisfying Mankind's Greatest Need." All sessions are free and open to the public.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

A nationally known financial columnist estimates that "50 to 75 percent of the fire insurance now in force on homes is in the form of Homeowner's insurance."

Why the popularity of this combination of coverages? "Cost obviously is the key reason why millions of American families are now buying package insurance for their homes. Package coverage under the Homeowners costs you a full 20 to 30 percent LESS than separate coverages would cost you."

People recognize that the Homeowners policy is a SUPERIOR form of coverage — and the lower cost makes it fall within the price that they will pay. Without the bargain aspect, many families would do without the "extras"—such as burglary and theft, full replacement coverage, comprehensive personal liability and additional living expenses, to name a few.

If you are insuring a home for the first time, or if your fire insurance policy is coming up for renewal—the time to compare COSTS and COVERAGES is NOW!

May we explain the advantages of the Homeowners policy to you?

"Modern Women—The Uneasy Life"

"I am trapped in a cage of my own making," a young woman declares; yet today she has more freedom than ever.

Her dilemma - and that of millions like her - is sensitively documented on "N.E.T. Journal: Modern Women - the Uneasy Life," Monday, December 12 at 9 p.m on Channel 2 (repeat Saturday, December 17, 10:30 p.m.).

Interviewed in their suburban homes, on college campuses and at the sandpiles where their children play, the women of today express frustration that the new freedom education has brought often shrinks before the demands of marriage and motherhood.

WGBH Offers Vietnam Debate

Two men who have recently visited Vietnam view the war from opposite sides of the fence when the Ford Hall Forum offers an appraisal of "The United States in Vietnam," Sunday, December 11 at 8 p.m. on WGBH-FM.

Broadcast direct from Jordan Hall, the Forum presents conflicting views by Marxist scholar Herbert Aptheker and Brandeis University's Associate Professor of Politics I. Milton Sacks.

Aptheker gained national prominence when he visited North Vietnam with Yale Professor Staughton Lynd, despite objections from the U.S. State Department. An outspoken opponent of the war, Aptheker has been at the forefront of the struggle against fascism and racism and since his return from Hanoi has expressed his views on college campuses from Maine to California.

Sacks too has long been interested in Southeast Asia, and recently he returned from two years in Vietnam where he was the visiting Fulbright - Hayes Exchange Professor at Saigon and Hue Universities. A consultant on Indochina for the U.S. government and author of several books on Vietnam, Sacks also has frequently appeared on radio, television and college campuses.

Post Office Encourages Use Of Zip Codes

ZIP Code will help the Post Office Department employees in the delivery of Christmas presents and cards this year.

Assistant Postmaster in Charge, Alfred W. Barnard today emphasized that the proper ZIP Code in the address will help assure on-time delivery of Christmas presents sent through the mail.

"Every Christmas several million Christmas presents travel through the mails. In a great many instances, ZIP Coded parcels travel by shorter routes and are handled fewer times because the five digits help postal clerks to choose more direct transportation routes," the Asst. Postmaster said. "This means there is less chance for damage to the gifts because they are handled fewer times."

ZIP Codes often help deliver a package that otherwise would be sent to the dead parcel office because the address cannot be read.

"There is nothing more unpleasant for postal employees than not being able to deliver a Christmas package and knowing that some child won't receive the gift because the address was illegible," Asst. Postmaster Barnard said.

The key to the best possible postal service is ZIP Code. If you don't have the ZIP Code for any address on your mailing list, they can be obtained from the local Post Office.

A CHANCE TO HELP

Many elderly and infirm persons, as well as those with small children and limited incomes, need help at Christmas if this holiday is to be a happy occasion in accordance with the American tradition.

To help our less fortunate Winchester friends during the holiday season, gifts of money, food and clothing are earnestly solicited.

Gifts may be sent to the Winchester Community Relief Committee.

Well-Earned Retirement

ALFRED P. McKENZIE of 24 Symmes Road, left, custodian at the Winchester Senior High School for 39 years, was feted on his retirement, Wednesday, November 30. Principal W. Howard Niblock made a presentation to Mr. McKenzie from the teachers expressing their feelings and how much he will be missed. Over 100 well-wishers presented gifts at the retirement party held in familiar surroundings, the senior high school cafeteria. Mr. McKenzie began working at the Washington School in 1927 and went to the high school 10 years ago. An avid newspaper reader, he will retire to Hyannis, Cape Cod, where he plans to pursue his hobbies, read the paper, and go fishing.

Silvia Coulter Is Student Model

Miss Silvia Coulter of 14 Wincrest Drive, has been accepted to an advanced course in professional modeling at the Carol Nashe Modeling School in Boston. Miss Coulter has already graduated from the Carol Nashe Charm Course and after having completed advanced modeling class, she will join the modeling staff of the agency.

Miss Coulter now goes to Lynch Junior High and is in the eighth grade. She is the daughter of Charles H. Coulter and Mrs. Coulter, a dress designer and maker.

Cong'l Women Invite All To Special Program

On Tuesday, December 13, the Women's Association of the First Congregational Church will present its very special Christmas program entitled "The Living Madonnas."

This will include living portraits of ten famous Madonna paintings, all portrayed by women of the church, accompanied by appropriate music and a narrator. Tea and dessert will be served at 12:45 in Chidley Hall. Since this is a most unusual program and very appropriate for the Christmas season, a cordial welcome is extended to all women of other local churches.

Elks Xmas Party For Retarded This Sunday

Sunday is the day of the Elks annual Christmas party for the retarded children of the Wrentham State School, the biggest charity project of the year on the Elks' agenda.

Forty or more of the children from the school will arrive at the Elks Home on Elmwood Avenue at about 11 for several hours of entertainment, a fine turkey dinner, games, a magician, and gifts from Santa Claus.

The annual Christmas party had its inception two years ago when three Elks members decided to run its annual Christmas party not for its own children but for those who might otherwise have a bleak Christmas. Arrangements were made to have a group from the Wrentham State School for a party. To the surprise of most of the members, the "children" turned out to be in age from 15 to 60. But never was there a finer party, more fun—and a few tears — for everyone.

Funds for the party and assistance by the members has been voluntary, and the Elks have responded magnificently to the occasion. This year it will be no different. Chairman of the affair, Bud Twombly, states there is still a need for assistance, both financially and physically.

The date is this Sunday, December 11, from about 11 to 3. All townspeople are invited to drop in during those hours to witness the goings on. If you do drop in you may be sure you will be amply rewarded, both spiritually and emotionally, with the proceedings having a titillating effect on your humerus (funny bone).

No Coverings On Vehicle Plates

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin today ruled that the reflectorized number plates that will be issued for 1967 and used for the next five years cannot be covered by any protective covering.

This ruling was necessary because of information received from the number plate manufacturer to the effect that the use of such covering will adversely affect the reflective quality of the number plate.

The Registrar said, "These plates are guaranteed for five years of service, backed up by a $3,000,000 performance bond posted by the manufacturer. These plates do not need protective coverings and, moreover, we need the safety factor of reflective quality which would be severely impaired by any such coverings."

Parents' Responsibilities Too

Prof. Curtis Testifies On Education

Prof. Grant E. Curtis of Tufts University testified before a special Congressional Sub-Committee on Education Saturday concerning federal financial aid programs for higher education.

Prof. Curtis, who lives here at 77 Lawson Road, is director of financial aid at Tufts.

The sub-committee of the House Committee on Education and Labor is headed by U. S. Rep. Edith Green (D., Ore.). Three members conducted the hearing at Northeastern University intended to determine the impact of federal scholarships, work-study programs, national defense loans and guaranteed insured loans on higher education in this area.

Manufacture of instruments is one of the fastest-growing industries in the Bay State. In the five years between 1958 and 1963 employment in the industry rose better than 35 percent and it now totals nearly 30,000.

Christmas Week For Children

The Charles Playhouse Musical Theatre for Children opens its third annual Christmas Vacation Repertory Week on Monday, December 26. Performances every day at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. will continue through Saturday, December 31.

Vacationing children from this area will be able to see "The Emperor's New Clothes," the successful season opener, alternating daily in true repertory fashion with the current production, "Peter And The Wolf."

The Christmas vacation schedule is as follows:

Saturday, December 24—"Peter And The Wolf"

Monday, December 26—"The Emperor's New Clothes"

Tuesday, December 27—"Peter And The Wolf"

Wednesday, December 28—"The Emperor's New Clothes"

Thursday, December 29—"Peter And The Wolf"

Friday, December 30—"The Emperor's New Clothes"

Saturday, December 31—"Peter And The Wolf"

On Thursday, December 29, all seats for the 2 p.m. performance of "Peter And The Wolf" have been sold to the Campfire Girls of Norwood.

Following Christmas Repertory Week, "Peter And The Wolf" will resume, with performances each Saturday at 11 and 2, through February 4.

Investiture For Troops 515, 520

On last Thursday afternoon Brownie Troops 515 and 520 of the Wyman School held a joint investiture at the Church of the Epiphany.

As these two troops consist entirely of second graders who are new to scouting, their leaders Mrs. John M. Harrington, Jr., Mrs. Edward W. Higgins, Mrs. Clifford Orman and Mrs. Murray Yavner feel very proud of them.

A flag ceremony was ably performed by Troop 520. Color bearers were Jennifer Karp, Christine Guarnaccia, Ruth Orman, and Roberta DiGiovani. They were led by Color Sgt. Elaine Barger.

Afterwards the members of Troop 515 delighted parents and friends with a dramatized reading of the Brownie story

Mrs. Richard Dutting, chairman of the Sachem Neighborhood Mistick Side Girl Scouts, pinned the following girls and welcomed them into scouting, Troop 515: Liza Bannister, Alison Burtnett, Susan Carpenter, Barbara Dexter, Amy Gray, Ellen Harrington, Carol Higgins, Debra Hill, Martha Kinton, Sarah May, Janet Nash, Cheryl Norris. Troop 520: Lisa Ulwick, Susan Yavner, Catherine Byford, Kirstin Smith, Roberta DiGiovani, Christine Guarnaccia, Katherine O'Brian, Ruth Orman, Allison Marks, Jennifer Karp, Joan DeNatale, Leslie Tangusso.

Products & Services Here For Your Convenience:

Do Your Xmas Shopping At The Market Place

Give "Aprilaire" for Christmas!

A truly different gift available from Winchester's Federal Heating Company. Keep a comfortable atmosphere in your home with an Aprilaire Humidifier and eliminate chills and colds this winter. Installs in any home regardless of the type of heating system! Models for steam or hot water heating systems have a finger-touch control which allows you to dial away desert-dryness and eliminate furniture cracking. Call Al LaPointe in Winchester at 729-3405 for an installation before Christmas.

Unusual and distinctive gifts are to be found at the Candle Shop at 29 Thompson Street. This new curio shop in Winchester offers scented soaps, in one variety of three appealing scents five for a dollar! One interesting item purchased by a browser was a two-inch wide, one foot high, green pine scented candle that really gives a room a warm Christmasy air! Also, candle holders, in wrought iron, silver, antique brass and wood, from $1.50 and up—stylish in any room, and a real good buy! Cuckoo Clocks, and antiques of many varieties and at reasonable prices too. Also, antiques appraised and bought as well as sold; and clocks repaired. All at the new Candle Shop. Visit, browse, and see some great Christmas gift ideas!

Books make excellent Christmas gifts, and the Spaulding Bookshop-McGhees Gift Shop at 39-41 Thompson Street has many good books for all age groups and all kinds of interests. For example: Arthur Griffin's new photographic study of "New England Revisited" is an exceptionally interesting book in any New England home. Or give the dictionary that caught up with the English language, "The Random House Dictionary of the English Language." Also, good fiction, textbooks, hobby and special interests books to suit every interest. Spaulding-McGhees also carries art supplies and a variety of other gifts in the gift shop—stop in and pick out gifts that are sure to please!

With the colder winter winds blasting regularly through Winchester now, those predicted 89 inches of snow are on their way, and any homeowner or business that wants to have a driveway promptly attended to and kept clear of snow after each storm has only to call Guy LaMarca of LaMarca Construction Company at 113 Cambridge Street (Telephone: 729-3024) to have arrangements made. Driveways cleared from as low as $5 a storm (minimum); or, at whole season rates, dependent upon the size of the driveway.

The Old Farmer's Almanac this year predicts a snowfall of 89 inches for New Englanders, but, the smart Christmas shopper will be ready for it when it comes with a new Jacobson Snow Jet—"it throws the snow where you want it to go!" says Bob Conant of Winchester Power Equipment. This handy Jacobsen Snow Jet is ideal for just about every homeowner: it cuts a 20 inch swath; has a high velocity snow discharge for quicker snow removal on sidewalks, paths to incinerators and garbage cans, and driveways; has an easy starter mechanism; has an advanced 3½ horsepower engine; and finger tip controls for easy maneuverability. Winchester Power Equipment, just moved from 802 Main Street to the C. H. Symmes Building at 745-747 Main Street, carries other types of snow blowers, too, and also services all kinds of small engines. Visit Winchester Power Equipment for a good, appropriately seasonal gift this winter.

Christmas gifts galore at the Winchester Appliance Store at 15 Thompson Street: the quality stereo leader, KLH, in models 11 through 20 starting from $195—a good buy! Also a Magnavox console stereo from $149.95. Christmas albums from countries all over the world for different and distinctive Xmas music in both mono and stereo. Also a full selection of mono and stereo record albums in classical, popular, folk, jazz and rock. Car tape recorder 8-track stereo music tapes with all kinds of music for this new popular car item, from $6.95. Radios from small sizes at $6.88 all the way up to AM-FM with TV and stereo in elegant furniture pieces. And color TV's from $398 (Magnavox), including RCA's, Zenith's and Motorola's. Musical instruments: guitars from $12.88; harmonica's from 60 cents up; and drums from $129. Miniature TV's include Sony 5-inch screen at $129. And, for your golfing friends, a $14.88 replica white golf ball radio that sits as it should on a little green stand—just some of the many good Christmas shopping ideas to be found at the Winchester Appliance Store.

Looking for an unusual and distinctive gift idea? Visit the new Candle Shop at 29 Thompson Street, where proprietor Charles Garabedian shows all kinds, sizes, shapes, colors, and fragranted candles for normal home use, formal occasions, or party centerpieces. Also candle holders from wrought iron, brass, silver, and Danish modern walnut wood and other designs. Antiques of many kinds too, on display. Stop in at the Candle Shop, and see for yourself the many Christmas gift ideas available.

Wall-to-wall carpeting looks elegant in any home, and its ease of maintenance makes it doubly satisfying to housewives. This Christmas, why not spruce up that hallway or playroom, or living or dining room—or any room in the house—with some wall-to-wall broadloom carpeting from Koko Boodakian & Sons, Inc. The showroom is conveniently located at 1026 Main Street here in Winchester, and there is plenty of variety in styles and colors and materials to select from.

A small loan to carry you over the Christmas season and consolidate all those bills under one convenient payment plan? Stop in at the Winchester National Bank at 7 Church Street, "The One Stop Bank...for all banking service!" and see how easy and reasonable it is to let the Winchester National Bank be of assistance to you... as it has for many years to local homeowners and businesses here. And, the officers and staff of the Winchester National Bank, wish to you and yours a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year with season's greetings!

Have a youngster turning 16 soon? A good Christmas present would be to enroll him or her in a B & T Auto Driving School course. B & T Auto Driving School at 280 Washington Street here in Winchester gives expert driver instruction and training to all age groups, and has proven especially adept at training the nervous beginning driver. Telephone 729-1197 for particulars.

Going to a formal occasion during the Christmas or New Year's Season? Gregory's Formal Wear at 162 Massachusetts Avenue in Arlington caters to many Winchester customers who know that Gregory's famous name formals and service is the best in the Greater Boston Suburban area. And Gregory's offers expert consulting advice for formal events to those who wish to help in planning or selecting formal wear and other accessories.

William Walsh Defines Power Problems At MBTA

William J. Walsh of 144 Arlington Street, chief power dispatcher of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority recently published an account of his job and that of the men under him in "Commuter," the monthly publication of the Authority.

The man who holds the main switch for all the MBTA cars Winchester residents use going in, out of and around Boston, describes the power headquarters. Excerpted from his story are these highlights:

"The power dispatcher directs the operation of the generating station's load requirements as well as the sub-stations and lines under routine, abnormal and emergency conditions in a manner to insure safety and economy of operation.

". . . Power dispatchers are busy men, at their headquarters in South Boston Power Plant, where they sit at desks equipped with multiple telephone lines and mobile radiophone. Facing the power dispatcher and his assistant (the automatic sub-station operator) is a large, colorful automatic substations control which operates various electrical sections throughout the system. On the other end of the control center is the position of generator board man, who operates the generators and high-tension switch gear. By means of these controls, meters, lights and tagging procedures the power dispatchers and his assistants might easily be termed the navigators of our electrical transit system.

". . . Load forecastings can tell as many secrets as a well-kept diary. They show a composite picture of the transportation needs of our metropolitan commuters. What time people start for work, when the rush hour to home comes, special events in sports and entertainment and, of course, the vagaries of our New England climate. From detailed studies over the years the daily requirements in transit commuters and determined. . . .

"When trouble comes, like the monsoon" that occurred in the Greater Boston area October 5, 6 and 7, 1962, then the power dispatchers are in for a real session. (You'll remember when Kenmore Station was flooded to a depth of several feet.) The safety aspects of their work at all times demands the power dispatchers' most serious attention and gets top consideration in every action."

Computer Utility Topic of Book By Douglas Parkhill

Douglas F. Parkhill of 8 Hutchinson Road has recently published "The Challenge of the Computer Utility."

Put out by Addison-Wesley at their Reading plant here, the book is designed to facilitate the growing discussion of "computer utilities" by providing a broad overview of the subject. Not confined to technology, the purpose is to paint the large picture and to explore the implications for society of the latest developments in the field.

In some places Mr. Parkhill is deliberately provocative, according to the publisher's definition of his aims—and in general he has written from a point of view which tries for a balance between material for computer specialists and the layman.

In his preface, Mr. Parkhill has defined "computer utility" as another name for the remarkable new methods for the distribution and utilization of computer power —sometimes referred to as "information utility," or "information network." "Regardless of the name," says the author, "the development of this method does open up exciting new prospects for the employment of computers in ways and on a scale that would have seemed pure fantasy only five years ago."

Mr. Parkhill is a member of the Advanced Planning Staff, Systems Planning Division, the MITRE Corporation.

He came to MITRE in 1961 from the information Technology Division of General Dynamics Corporation, where he was chief engineer of the Advanced Development Department. He has also worked with the AVCO Research and Advanced Development Division as manager of the Computer and Electronics Systems Department, with Computing Devices of Canada and with the Canadian Comstock Corporation.

Married and the father of two children, Mr. Parkhill was graduated in electrical engineering from the University of Toronto in 1949.

Film Program At the Library

Family Film Night on December 9 at 7:30 p.m. will include Merry Christmas, Rocks for Beginners and Pig Tales.

Merry Christmas is the Vienna Boys' Choir singing a number of lovely carols as they prepare for their celebration at home.

Rocks for Beginners, which should appeal to our young Mineral Club, establishes that all rocks may be classified into three groups and illustrates certain characteristics of each group to serve as keys to identification.

Pig Tales is the story of Curly and Pinky—inquisitive, adventuresome piglets—and the events of their growing up.

The same program will be shown, for school age children only, on Saturday morning, December 10, at 10:15. Children must be accompanied by an adult throughout the Friday night performance.

Small and Big Business In Same Pattern

In one respect small business and big business appear to follow the same pattern. This is indicated by the fact that independent firms operating with a union show less employment stability than the non-union firms and are apparently seeking to replace manpower with better machinery.

This is shown in a special computer study made of the more than 7,000 independent business proprietor respondents in October to the 1966 year long continuous field survey conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business.

Returns from over 70,000 respondents for the year to date, indicate that 11.4 per cent of the nation's independent firms are operating with a union contract.

Asked if there has been any change in their employment structure since the previous year, the October figures show that of the unionized firms, only 46 per cent report no change in their employment situation at the same time a year ago. On the other hand, 71 per cent of those operating as non-union report no change in their employment level.

The critical indice appears to be the difference in the amount spent on business improvements and the percentage spent on new equipment, The non-union firms averaged an expenditure of only $8,000 on investments in the business with only 50 per cent going into equipment. The unionized firms, however, report an average investment in the business of $18,000 with 63 per cent going into new equipment.

Boston Cat Show Next Week Will Benefit Children

The domestic cat forgets mousing for a weekend and puts his best paw forward for charity, when the Boston Cat Show has its 61st annual exhibition December 10 and 11 at Horticultural Hall.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA), which owns and operates the Angell Memorial Hospital, the Animal Rescue League of Boston and the Boston Cat Club, Inc. is showing some 300 cats of every known breed to raise money for charity, most natobly for children's hospitals.

There are at least 21 million cats in the United States. America's favorite pet, the alley cat, plays a big part in the show and is judged right along with the fancy breeds. The breeds at the show represent 89 varieties. Everything from the curly-coated Rex to the rare Russian Blue to the Abyssinian who traces his origins back to Persian and Siamese, in every color. The breeders have developed not only seal-point Siamese, but red-point, blue point, lilac point, chocolate point, frost-point and tortie-point.

The exhibition and judging lasts from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 10, and from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 11. Admission, with proceeds going to charity, is very nominal.

Former Patient John Yovicsin To Head Heart Fund

John Yovicsin, head football coach at Harvard, will serve as general chairman of the 1967 Heart Fund drive in Greater Boston, it was announced recently by the Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association.

As chairman, Mr. Yovicsin, who underwent heart surgery in 1965, will lead 30,000 Heart Fund volunteers of 46 communities in the annual February drive to raise funds to fight heart disease.

Mr. Yovicsin's heart surgery corrected a condition which may have resulted from an old injury in his high school or college football years. "Anyone who owes as much as I do to heart research feels the urgency of making an all-out drive to beat America's number-one health enemy," he said. "Heart disease still is a winning opponent; but through the Heart Fund's continuing research and education, we can raise the score and win the game."

This is John Yovicsin's tenth season as Harvard's head football coach. He is the 1966 New England Coach of the Year, and won that honor also in 1961; his teams tied for the Ivy League title in both years. A graduate of Gettysburg College, he coached at Pennsylvania high schools and at Gettysburg before coming to Harvard. He lives with his wife and four children in Framingham.

Art Study Group Visits Art Museum

On Friday morning, December 9, the members of the College Club Art Study Group will visit the Boston Museum of Fine Arts to enjoy two special exhibitions.

The group will meet inside the Huntington Avenue entrance at 10 o'clock.

One of the world's largest collections of Indian Art, loaned by Nasli and Alice Heeramaneck of New York is exhibited in the upstairs galleries. "The Arts of India and Nepal" spans four millenia, from 2000 B.C. to the 20th Century.

Mr. Heeramaneck's main criterion in buying has been beauty so that the collection has great charm and appeal, aside from historical importance.

The first exhibit by the Museum of Polaroid color photography is that of the Boston photographer, Marie Cosindas. Her works, 85 in all, show very refined taste, delicate sensitivity, and are notable for their fragile, otherworldly quality. They are simply beautiful and this new form of photography will be of great interest to the group.

The Boston Museum does have an admission charge this year. The charge for the special exhibition upstairs is nominal, however.

A pleasant lunch is planned in the Museum restaurant downstairs.

A machine made by a Massachusetts builder of packaging machinery cuts bread into toaster-size slices, wraps the loaf, heat-seals the seam, and applies end labels—all at the rate of 90 loaves a minute.

Burgess' Land Of Laughing Brook Is Restored

Laughing Brook, which threaded its course through Peter Rabbit land, will be preserved.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society, in cooperation with the Hampden Lions Club, has purchased the brook and the Colonial home beside it in which the late Thornton W. Burgess wrote thousands of nature stories.

The Burgess property in Hampden is surrounded by the Purple Hills, the Green Forest, the Green Meadows, all of which are scenic landmarks that most young readers supposed were imaginary, despite the literalness in which their minds grasped the Burgess tales. The land around Burgess' home was—and still is—populated by Peter Rabbit, Jimmy Skunk, Reddy Fox, Bobby Coon, and all the many characters that endeared Mr. Burgess to generations of American children.

For 50 years, in Springfield and Hampden, Mr. Burgess wrote a daily bedtime story for newspapers, most of them centering on the Laughing Brook area. His prolific pen produced more than 30 books, which were translated into an array of languages including Chinese.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society plans a two-level program for the Burgess property, which will be known as "The Laughing Brook Wildlife Sanctuary—A Memorial to Thornton W. Burgess." It will preserve his home and studio as he left them on his death in 1965 at the age of 91. The home is a Colonial Cape Cod, built in 1742. Beside it is a combination barn, studio and garage. It was in this studio overlooking Laughing Brook that Mr. Burgess worked in later years. Earlier, he climbed a steep hill behind the house to a studio perched upon a ridge. Both bulldings still exist.

Across the road where Laughing Brook tumbles down to join the Scantic River (the Big River in Burgess' tales), the society will build a nature center as the hub of a conservation education program for the Conecticut Valley.

Allen H. Morgan, executive vice president of the society, said that the nature center will create for visitors the atmosphere of Burgess' books.

"Mr. Burgess often spoke of his writing as conservation education through entertainment," Morgan said. "At the proposed nature center we will use live animals to develop the conservation themes that Mr. Burgess wove around Peter Rabbit, Reddy Fox, Jimmy Skunk and other animal characters. The program will be tied closely to the natural history of the Connecticut Valley."

Morgan said that a beginning on construction of this facility will not be possible before next spring. The society still must raise the funds to finance the nature center.

"Although the outside premises may be inspected," Morgan said, "It will not be possible to permit visitors within the house or studio until an adequate staff can be placed on the property."

The nature center will have formal educational programs similar to those now carried out at Drumlin Farm in Lincoln. More than 22,000 school children accompanied by their teachers visited the farm last year for an instructional tour. Similar tours, based upon the Burgess background, will be arranged for the Laughing Brook Nature Center.

The center also will offer courses which prepare teachers now in school systems to present nature education programs to their children.

The Burgess property was destined for public auction. It was saved by the Hampden Lions who created a Burgess Memorial Committee.

The Lions turned their option over to the Massachusetts Audubon Society with the understanding that the home and studio would be preserved and that a program to make Burgess' contribution to children's literature would be made meaningful.

2,000-Year-Old Preserved Seal To Be Studied

The body of a mummified seal, estimated to be about 2,000 years old, will be the subject of a Northwestern University investigation into genetic and cellular changes occurring during biological evolution.

A member of the Northwestern research team left for Antarctica on November 14 to select one of about 90 remarkably preserved seals discovered by National Science Foundation investigators in the McMurdo Sound area. The Northwestern study, also sponsored by the NSF, will begin shortly after the seal carcass arrives by freighter next spring.

The preserved seal presents an unprecedented opportunity for the study of biological changes occurring over time in a living organism, since living members of the same species (the Weddell family) are still found today. Tissues from the contemporary species will be compared with those of the 2,000-year-old seal mummy during the course of the study.

The seals are by no means the oldest preserved species known. The Siberian mammoths, for example, have been found through carbon dating to be up to 30,000 years old. The mammoths, however, have been treated with chemical preservatives and stored in heated museums, making them less suitable for detailed biochemical studies.

At present, this is the schedule of studies involving the seal tissue:

1. The tissue will be studied for its content of deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA), ribonucleic acid (RNA), and other genetic materials. A more detailed study on the structure and function of various proteins found in muscle will also be attempted.

2. Glycolytic enzymes in muscle tissue which might still be functional will be studied. If found, the enzymes will be analyzed both for their properties and for information on how the contemporary molcules might have been altered over the 2,000-year period.

3. Other researchers will concentrate on structure and function of cells, enzymic activity within the cells, and structure of whole organs.

4. Samples of intestinal bacteria which might still be alive will be sought. Bacteria found to be still functioning would then be grown in culture and campared to their modern descendants.

The existence of the seals was confirmed during the late 1950's by George A. Llano, director of the Antarctic Research Division of the NSF.

— How To Buy A Christmas Tree —

Issued in the public interest by the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers' Association and passed on to Winchester by Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm.

Question: How can I buy the best Christmas tree?

Answer: There are 2 kinds of natural Christmas trees: wild trees and plantation grown trees. Plantation grown trees, a development of recent years, are usually the best. They are fresher, denser and more symmetrical. Being hand grown, they naturally cost somewhat more money.

Question: How much more?

Answer: That depends entirely upon your graphical area and the size, species and quality you select. A few dollars more on the average.

Question: How can I tell a plantation grown tree?

Answer: The best way is as in purchasing anything else. Go to a reliable dealer who is selling trees year after year and ask him.

Question: Can't I tell by myself? What's the use of getting one if I can't tell?

Answer: You can tell, simply by appearance. The more beautiful trees are usually the plantation grown ones. If unassisted by man, nature grows tall, thin, trees of irregular shape. Man-grown trees are dense enough to hide the trunks; relatively free of "holes" and bare spots; round and pyramidal.

Question: Any simple, fool-proof test?

Answer: Yes. The "Rule of Thumb Test." If the needles of the tree are longer than your thumbnail, it is probably a plantation grown tree. This, plus the superior beauty, make a foolproof test.

Question: Will natural Christmas trees hold their needles over the holiday season?

Answer: Wild trees may not. Spruce trees (very short needled) definitely won't, wild or plantation. All other plantation grown trees definitely will.

Question: Is a natural tree a fire hazard Answer: Absolutely not, if it is fresh and kept in water. Water is the important thing. Use a tree stand that has a water bowl (the good ones have) and fiill it daily. Your tree will then be less flammable than the everyday things in your home, such as rugs, lampshades, draperies, magazines, etc.

Question: Can't I eliminate all hazard by buying an artificial tree?

Answer: No. Artificial trees have metal limbs, and strings of lights should not be used on them because of the hazard of electrocution. Also, some artificial trees will burn and all of them will melt with excessive heat. Above all, look out for the eyes of kiddies with artificial trees' limbs of twisted wire.

Question: You say that spruce trees drop their needles indoors. Does this rule them out?

Answer: Not altogether. If you can buy locally grown spruce that have been fresh cut, and keep them in water, they will last the holiday season. But only under these conditions.

Question: How about Colorado Blue Spruce?

Answer: It holds its needles much better than the short-needled spruces, such as Norway and White. The "rule-of-thumb" applies here.

But remember that not all Blue Spruce are truly blue. Only the rather rare "shiners" are really blue.

Question: How about "double Balsam?"

Answer: Botanically speaking, there is no such tree. They are simply Balsam fir that have grown up in the open sun and have a thicker foliage than the Balsam that grow in the shade of taller trees.

Question: Is the Balsam fir a good Christmas tree?

Answer: Yes, if it is fresh cut and has been cultivated and sheared each year (plantation grown or the equivalent) so as to be dense, symmetrical and shapely. With the exception of the short-needled spruces which drop their needles it is more a matter of how the tree has been raised than its species.

Question: How about Douglas fir?

Answer: The same thing. East of the Mississippi, however, all Douglas fir are plantation grown and are probably the king of all Christmas trees. They have all the qualities of plantation trees, plus a beauty, softness and stateliness all their own. But they take a long time to grow (20 years) and are quite scarce.

Question: Scotch pine?

Answer: This is the standard plantation tree. Like the plantation Douglas fir, it will hold its needles indefinitely indoors. If properly raised, it is very beautiful, dense and symmetrical.

Question: How about dyed or painted trees? Some people say they are dried out, and only painted to hide this fact.

Answer: Not so. The color is added because the buying public seems to like them this way. It's a matter of personal preference.

Question: How about trees in tubs, with roots?

Answer: Fine. But be sure to buy from a reliable nursery, because the roots must be dug and wrapped in burlap with great care. Otherwise, they haven't a chance of living when replanted out-of-doors. Follow the nursery's instructions with great care, and you will make your Christmas tree go along with you through the years.

Question: Anything else?

Answer: No, that's about it. Oh, yes! One more thing. A Merry Christmas to you!

Christmas Stars At Science Museum

This year's three Christmas evening planets, Venus, Jupiter, and Saturn, will be featured in a special one-night only program, "Stars of the Winter Sky," in the Charles Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Musuem of Science on Tuesday, December 13.

Beginning at 8 p.m., assistant Planetarium director Jack Carr will present the hour-long show which discusses these three planets and other celestial phenomena of the winter season.

One of the most thrilling special effects will be a replica of the Geminids meteor shower, which reaches its peak on the night of December 12 and 13. Included also in the program will be winter star, clusters, like the Seven Sisters, and nebulae, or gas clouds, visible in space.

All ages from 8 upwards will be intrigued as Carr intersperses his factual accounts with some of the myths and legends popularly connected with stars and planets.

Admission to "Stars of the Winter Sky" is very reasonable.

Carols Coming

Once again Fortnightly will sponsor Carol Singing on the Common promptly at seven o'clock Christmas Eve.

This has become a community tradition. Every year since 1925 - 41 years - townspeople have met to join in this joyous Christmas sing around the Christmas tree.

Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham will direct the Carol singing. A brass sextet made up of High School boys will accompany the singers Miss Sally Worthen, contralto will be the soloist, singing "O, Holy Night."

Plan ahead to come, no matter how well you sing. Bring the whole family, meet your friends and neighbors, and join in this happy community sing on Christmas Eve.

V. A. News

The Veterans Administration today warned veterans and dependents of deceased veterans on VA nonservice-connected pension rolls that they run the risk of having their monthly payments discontinued if they fail to return the income questionnaire forms mailed with the November pension checks.

They may even have to pay back the money received in 1966, VA said.

They must return the income questionnaire by January 31, 1967.

The VA is required by law to obtain this income report each year because pensions are paid only to those whose incomes from other sources are below certain limits.

The VA asks that the card not be folded or mutilated because it must run through automatic data processing machines.

Assistance in completing the questionnaires may be obtained at the Veterans Administration Contact Division, Room E-116, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Government Center, Boston, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bryant Honors Walter Currie

Walter S. Currie of 142 Forest Street, has just been honored by Bryant College in Providence, Rhode Island for his 26 years of service to the College.

Mr. Currie, who is associate dean of admissions at Bryant, received an alumni chair of Windsor design with a brass nameplate indicating his years of service. This was awarded him at a special meeting of the Bryant faculty and administration staff held recently on the campus.

Peter & the Wolf Opens Saturday Charles Playhouse

"Peter And The Wolf," based on Sergei Prokofiev's musical adventure, opened Saturday, December 3, at the Charles Playhouse Musical Theatre For Children with performances at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. The second production in the children's series this season, "Peter And The Wolf" will continue every Saturday at 11 and 2 through Feb. 4.

During the Christmas school vacation week "Peter And The Wolf" will be performed in repertory with "The Emperors New Clothes," the season opener, every day at 11 and 2 beginning Monday, Dec. 26 through Saturday, Dec. 31.

Theatre parties for the special Christmas Repertory Week may be arranged by writing or calling the Charles Playhouse Office, 276 Tremont Street, HU 2-4850.

Yuletide Musical At Fortnightly

Mrs. Natalie Weidner, a famous Boston singer, concert pianist and organist will present her program "Christmas in Legend and Song" at The Fortnightly Christmas Tea at one o'clock on Monday, December 12th in Gifford Hall, Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

Arranging the desserts for the social hour are the hostesses Mrs. Theodore Shasta and Mrs. Edwin Cushman assisted by their committee.

The president, Mrs. Ralph Meigs, will preside at a brief business session.

Mass. Mental Health Supports Changes in Bill

Irving Chase, president of the Massachusetts Association for Mental Health, recently stated that "The Association agrees with the changes to the community mental health and retardation act proposed last week by the Speaker of the House, John F. X. Davoren, and Senate President, Maurice Donahue, and has urged the governor's office to incorporate them in the bill before it is submitted to the General Court.

"They have proposed that the responsibility of the area boards in the budgeting of funds should be clarified. Also, that specifications and qualifications of area directors be written into the bill."

Chase said "These constructive ideas which are aimed at answering the constitutionality questions and ensuring that well-qualified people are appointed as regional administrators and area directors, and the additional suggestions by Senate President Donahue that community mental health services be coordinated where possible with other health and welfare activities, will strengthen this act significantly."

Pike Appointed Finance Analyst At Kodak Co.

Dixon S. Pike, a former Winchester resident who had been assistant manager of Eastman Kodak Company Office tabulating, was recently appointed a financial analyst for the firm.

Mr. Pike joined Kodak in 1958 as a staff assistant in the Kodak Office tabulating department. He transferred to the finished goods accounting department as a finished goods analyst in 1959 and in 1962 was named to the systems staff. He was appointed assistant manager of Kodak tabulating in 1965.

Mr. Pike is a native of Winchester. He was graduated from Yale University with a B.A. degree in history and from the Amos Tuck School of Dartmouth College with an M.B.A. degree in business administration.

He and his wife, Nancy, reside at 15 Washington Drive, Rochester, New York. They have three children.

WHS Graduate Starts With Peace Corps In Peru

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Secundy of Washington have arrived in Peru as volunteers in rural community development and agriculture for the Peace Corps. Mrs. Secundy is the former Betsy Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Schaefer of 79 Pond Street and the couple were here over the Thanksgiving holidays before leaving for Peru.

They are members of a group which will be assigned primarily to small rural communities throughout Peru. The agricultural extension workers will aid in organizing farm youth clubs equivalent to our 4-H clubs and in promoting better methods of farming and home economics while the community development volunteers will work mainly with organizing and operating farm co-operatives.

With this group's arrival about 300 volunteers will be working in Peru Peace Corps projects which include urban and rural community development, co-operatives, agricultural extension, university and normal school teaching, handicrafts, forestry, educational television and industrial training.

Betsy, WHS '60, was graduated from Radcliffe in 1964 and last year received her masters degree from the Columbia School of Social work. Her husband, a graduate of Phillips Andover and of Harvard in 1963, earned his law degree form Columbia last June and became a member of the District of Columbia Bar this summer.

They completed 10 weeks of training for the Peace Corps in the middle of last month at the University of Missouri in Kansas City where with other volunteers they studied Spanish, Peruvian history and culture, U.S. history and world affairs. Their technical studies include various basic agricultural skills, organization of co-operatives, methods of agriculture extension, group dynamics and general community development theory.

Chisholm Named

Ronald J. Chisholm of 3 Highland View Avenue, has been elected a vice-president of the Suffolk Law School Alumni Association.

The Winchester attorney, chief counsel of the Massachusetts Public Defenders Committee, is a 1957 graduate of the Law School.

Scout Heads Meet Here to Plan

Sixty Council and District Leaders of the Minuteman Council, B.S.A. participated in the first fall planning conference this week at the Lynch Junior High School.

The Camping and Activities Committee reported that some 2100 boys attended Parker Mountain Scout Reservation and Camp Sachem in 1966, an all-time high. Plans are being developed for the December 13 Camping Dinner where the 1967 plans will be announced to all unit leaders. Other high-adventure activities for 1967 include a Philmont Expedition, Matagamon Wilderness Base in northern Maine, Aquatic camp and expanded district shows in all five districts. Attending this meeting was Nolan Jones of Winchester.

In 1967 the committee has established an increase of 10% in the number of units with trained leaders. Each district will establish a Fall schedule of courses for all leaders and adopt a program of immediate training for new Scouters. The Junior Leader Training camp will be conducted again at Parker Mountain Scout Reservation just prior to the opening of camp.

Ed Crabtree represented Winchester as a member of the Publicity Committee.

The Finance Committee had Harris S. Richardson, Jr. of Winchester as chairman pro tem. It discussed and approved the 1967 operating budget of the Council at $132,000. Plans are already underway to increase the Council Sustaining Membership Enrollment to help bridge the gap between the allocations from the Mass. Bay United Fund and Concord Community Chest.

Larry Chase represented the Musket District as one of five district chairmen who met to prepare plans for the January 28 Annual Council Recognition Dinner.

Spanish Govt. Honors Crowley

Lt. Colonel Edward F. Crowley, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Collins of 20 Glenwood Avenue was honored at ceremonies at West Point recently when he was awarded the Spanish Legion of Honor for "meritorious and outstanding service as deputy Army Attache of the U.S. Embassy in Madrid, Spain."

Col. Crowley, at present executive officer of the Military Academy's department of foreign languages, is the husband of the former Rita Collins.

Marine Recruiters Go After Women For the Corps

Received recently from Medford Marine Recruiting Headquarters was the following release:

The local Marine Corps Recruiters in this area are offering the 120 day delay program to all young women who qualify. Some of the benefits of this program are:

1. Start earning time in service, without leaving home.
2. Earn your first raise in pay before reporting for active duty.
3. Time for you to visit at home and take care of personal affairs before reporting for active duty.

In thinking about and planning for a career for yourself, be wise and check into the career opportunities the Marine Corps offers qualified young women.

Your decision to serve will be one of the most important steps you will ever take. Service as a woman marine will be more than a new way of life. . . . . It will be a dedication of yourself to preserving the foundations of freedom which are being tested today more than ever before.

The United States Marine Corps is an organization jealous of its traditions, proud of its past, certain of its need as America's force in readiness. The men and women of the Marine Corps are an elite group.

If you are willing to accept the great responsibilities of an active and important role as a woman Marine we will be proud to have you serve with us.

The Marine Corps will also let you choose the specific area in which you would like to serve.

Area I—Washington, D.C., Quantico, Va., Norfolk, Va.

Area II—Camp Lejeune, N.C., Parris Island, S.C., Cherry Point, N.C.

Area III—Camp Pendelton, Calif., San Diego, Calif., El Toro, Calif.

Also, many overseas assignments are available, and the enlistment is for only two (2) years.

Some of the benefits besides the pay check are listed below.

1. Equal pay
2. Meals and living quarters
3. Medical expenses
4. Retirement pay
5. Social sceurity benefits
6. Leave
7. Uniforms
8. Promotions
9. Training and education
10. Health, welfare and recreation programs

The Marine Corps believes that a young woman will serve her country and herself best by getting as much education as possible before she enlists in the Marine Corps. However. The Marine Corps will encourage her and make it easy for her to add to her education foundations after she has enlisted.

Service begins with a short and exciting training phase at the home of Marine spirit and pride. . . . Parris Island, South Carolina. Here you will learn the proud tradition of the Marine Corps, receive instruction in personal care and good grooming, be trained in administration techniques or in any one of many other specialties for which you may qualify. Soon you're a polished Marine ready to travel to a Marine base either in the U.S. or overseas, to begin your service. The standards for service are high, in order to be considered for acceptance as a Woman Marine, you must meet the following qualifications:

1. Be between the ages of 18 and 31
2. Be unmarried
3. Be a United States citizen
4. Possess a high school education
5. Be of excellent moral character
6. Be in good physical health

You may obtain more information about service as a Woman Marine by caling 395-1416 in the City Hall Building in Medford, for a personal interview. There will be, of course, no obligation on your part.

NEBHE Publishes Adult Ed Review

Over 21% of New England's registered college students are adults who are taking part-time work in day, evening, or extension courses, according to statistics compiled last year by the New England Board of Higher Education located on Church Street.

For these 78,000 and more studious men and women, and the increasing numbers who will be joining them, NEBHE has prepared a second edition of its directory, "Opportunities for Adult Higher Education in New England Colleges and Universities," and announced its publication recently.

'Opportunities' contains information about every institution in the region which offers programs specifically designed for adult students or whose regular courses are open to them, often at convenient times. The colleges and universities are listed under the state in which they are located, and within each of the six states, alphabetically by cities and towns. A resident of Burlington, Vermont, for example, would find three institutions he might attend under the Burlington entry and one more in the immediate neighborhood under Winooski Within reasonable commuting distance, he would find in Plainfield that Goddard College has a special degree program for adults, and in Middlebury, that Middlebury College has a Summer Language School which is open to qualified adult students.

In addition to locating a readily accessible college, a prospective part-time student can obtain from the directory considerable basic information, all of which has been furnished by the institutions themselves. A key on the inside front and back covers explains the abbreviations which describe the kind of institution, its size, course, offerings, hours, accreditation and other relevant facts, including the name and address of the person to contact. There is also a supplementary section listing colleges and universities which offer short term non-credit seminars or workshops for individual members of their community or at the request of civic or business groups. This section includes a notation as to concerts, films, plays, and other cultural activities which are open to the public.

The first edition of Opportunities has been widely used by advisory personnel in colleges, libraries, businesses, and public groups, as well as by many individuals who yish to continue their education whether for pleasure, for credit, or for career advancement. Free copies of the revised second edition may be obtained by writing or calling the New England Board of Higher Education, 31 Church Street, Winchester, Massachusetts. NEBHE is the region's interstate agency, supported by six New England states to improve and expand opportunities in higher education for the people of the region.

AAA Plans Action Against Unfair Auto Insurance

"It is unfair to increase the premiums for the safe drivers of Massachusetts," according to the Massachusetts Division of the American Automobile Association.

Robert S. Kretschmar, AAA executive secretary in Boston made the statement in a letter to State Insurance Commissioner C. Eugene Farnam, who is considering the insurance campanies' request for another across-the-board increase in compulsory auto insurance rates for next year.

"There are thousands of drivers who haven't cost their insurance companies a nickel," Kretschmar said. "These people are paying too much already. Instead of an increase, they are entitled to a rate reduction.

"Safe drivers are given a fair break and lower rates in most, if not all, of the other states in the country. I am sure you, as Insurance Commissioner, can do the same here in Massachusetts.

"To support any action you may take to reduce the unfairly high rate which safe drivers are now required to pay, the AAA Massachusetts Division will file a proposal with the Legislature which will make it law that drivers who have had no accidents for the past few years, and who have cost their insurance companies nothing, can buy their compulsory insurance coverage at lower rates than drivers who have caused the companies to pay claims.

However, as Insurance Commissioner, you don't have to wait for a new law. You can act now in the best interests of the motoring public. We respectfully urge you to do so."

Holy Name To Hear Of Retreats

Following the reception of Communion in a body at the 7:45 Mass, the men of St. Mary's Holy Name Society will meet at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Sunday, December 11.

FATHER JOSEPH LEO

Their guest and featured speaker at this regular monthly meeting is Father Joseph Leo, C.P. who is the director of retreats at St. Gabriel's Passionist Retreat House in Brighton. In the National Retreat Movement, Father Joseph Leo is known all over the country, for he has been in retreat work for almost 25 years.

Father Joseph Leo will show a 16 mm. sound film in color, the narration being done by the well-known sports writer Bob Considine. He will then give a brief talk, and answer any questions that members may have concerning a week-end closed retreat.

All St. Mary's men are invited to this outstanding program, and to join the Holy Name Movement.

F.B.I. Agent Is Critical About Society's Crime

Says "We Are In Serious Times"... Trouble Ahead Public Safety, Society Structure At Stake

"We are in serious times," F.B.I. Agent James L. Handley told a group of some 100-plus local business and professional men at a Rotary Club luncheon last Thursday noon during a talk on crime in our society.

The special agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Boston District warned that the parallel between the lesson to be learned in the classic "The Rise and Fall of The Roman Empire," and that of the developing situation in the United States society today, is "strikingly similar, and not to be taken lightly."

Mr. Handley pointed out that the great Roman Empire did not basically perish by outside enemy conquest; but rather perished as a result of the deterioration of its society—when its people put aside law and order and their moral foundations, and became instead a lawless and disorderly society.

"And the same symptoms of developing lawlessness, disorderliness, and general moral decay are being evidenced in our great society now," he stated.

Speaking emphatically and pointedly, and documenting each statement of principal societal criticism with specific illustrative examples, the F.B.I. administrative agent urged the local citizens represented to "take an honest look at what is happening today."

"If the increasing frequency of serious crimes in this country continues to spiral upward as it has substantially each year every year in the last decade—12 per cent last year alone—then our society will be in serious trouble," he said.

He pointed out that of the 2,600,000 serious crimes—murders, felonies, assaults, etc.—reported last year, 74 per cent were committed by persons under the age of 25 years, and of that number some 47 per cent were committed by persons under 18 years old. "Think heavily on that a bit," he charged, "for it doesn't take a mathematical genius to figure out that approximately 50 per cent, or nearly 1.3 million serious crimes were enacted by youngsters 18 years old or younger!"

IMAGINATIVE COMMANDMENT. While most of Winchester's churches have parking problems of one kind or another, the new St. Eulalia's Catholic Church innovated this novel way to get a no parking in front of the church entranceway message literally before its parishioners; a "Thou Shalt Not Park" commandment sign.

Retarded Children from Wrentham Enjoy Local Elks' Christmas Party

The Winchester Elks for the third successive year conducted a Christmas Party at the Elks Home on Sunday afternoon for a group of the retarded from the Wrentham State School. Forty of the inmates plus attendants made the long bus trip, arriving at about 11 and returning to the school at about 3.

The "children," ranging in age from about 16 to 50, saw movies, a magic show, had a fine turkey dinner, enjoyed a visit from Santa and put on a dandy twist session for the remainder of the afternoon.

As was the case at the first two parties, Elks and visiting townspeople were rewarded by the guests who came to be entertained and in turn gave much more than they received, enveloping all with their childlike charm, wit and graciousness. Those who for the first time came in contact with these exceptional children were enchanted; the others, for whom the experience was not a new one, once again came under their same spell.

Eddie Arno, the Magician who has performed at all three parties, put on a fine show, and once again displayed his facility for having his audience get into the act.

Bill Dailey, the perennial Santa, was back again to perform his unique magic. The most cherished of the gifts the children received were the individual mounted color snapshots taken of each on Santa's knee. There was, in addition to other gifts, an article of warm wearing apparel for each child.

Pat Rossachi, director of Volunteer Services at the school, had two parties to supervise at the school. In his stead, Mrs. Jeanne Achin, his assistant, kept things running smoothly.

Three of the town Selectmen were in attendance, Robert Armstrong, chairman; Paul Chase and Henry Porter. They donned aprons to run the passout table, ladling out the food. Rep. Harry Chadwick dropped in a little later, as has been his custom at the previous parties, to observe the festivities.

A Christmas Story:

Girl Scouts And A Gift Of Selves

Thursday, December 8, is a day the Girl Scouts of Troop 485 will not soon forget, for that was the day they delivered their hand-made toys to Crotched Mountain.

It all started several months ago when an 18-year-old friend of the Percy Hill family enthusiastically described her experiences as a counselor at the Crotched Mountain School for the Deaf.

Many people know of the Crotched Mountain Rehabilitation Center, but few realize that they also have a resident school for the deaf on the same grounds.

When Mrs. Hill's Girl Scout troop heard about these children, they unanimously voted to make some toys for them, thus earning their toy-makers badge and doing an interesting service project at the same time.

They chose to work for the 5-9 year old girls, as they are themselves around ten years of age.

For a month, they met in groups of four or five and made stuffed pillows with animal faces, colorful yarn octopi, amusing finger pupets, jump ropes, and a doll house.

The doll house is made up of six shoe boxes, each one decorated so as to be a different room of the house. It has wood-like contact paper on the outside and wallpaper on the inside. Curtains hang on all the windows; and, in the bedrooms they match the bedspreads, and in the dining room they match the tablecloth on the table. The doll house is completely furnished down to a television set, bookcases, and a hanging white pom-pom chandelier.

Last Thursday the troop delivered 36 toys to the school, two toys for each of the girls in the 5-9 year old dormitory.

Everyone at the school was delighted to see the scouts and so thrilled at having someone think of them.

After the new toys were unwrapped and played with all the children had a wonderful time singing and playing games together.

Dance Contest Features Many 'Craze' Styles

There may be some shake, rattle, and roll in the old Town Hall on the evening of December 27 promises Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney as he notes the list of current popular dances to be competitively contested among high school teenagers at the Winter Carnival's Tuesday night Dance Competition.

The potpourri of favorites includes such well-known dances as the twist, pony, jerk, frug, swim, monkey, hully-gully, mashed potato, shimmey, hitch-hike, the walk and the Watusi.

Also listed for competition are some lesser known but interesting dances: the shake, shuffle, duck, bendit, philly-dog, alley-shuffle, skate, and bugga-lou, among other "modern" dances.

The competition will be judged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees), with prizes donated by local merchants going to the top three winning couples.

Mr. Spinney said he also expected enthusiasm to be high for the December 30th Carnival Dance, which will feature the top recording group "Teddy and The Pandas" providing the music. The Carnival Dance, sponsored jointly by the Winchester Recreation Committee, with the cooperation of the Student Council, which is helping the Recreation Committee in organizing and publicizing

Carolling Songs On The Common

Again this year strollers and shoppers in the center of Town during the late afternoons and evenings of next week will hear a musical toast to the season.

Emanating from the bandstand, and delighting commuters, too, will be seasonal singing offered by vocal groups from the local churches.

Among those already scheduled are singers from Saint Mary's who will appear at 3 p.m. on Tuesday the 20th; Mary Witham and her Unitarian group at 7 and the First Congregational at 7:30, both also Tuesday; The Immaculate Conception Choir to be heard at 4 p.m. on Wednesday and the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church group at 7:30 p.m. The Baptist Church is to appear on the evening of the 22nd.

This is the second year of the singing and again has been instigated and brought into being by Jack Chitel, president of the Merchants Association.

Two Pedestrians Hit By Car At Street Crossings

83-Year-Old Woman In Recovery At Hospital

A young boy riding a bicycle and an elderly woman crossing a street were the victims of two separate automobile accidents in Winchester this week. Both were reported recovering well at the Winchester Hospital yesterday.

An 83-year-old Winchester woman was reported in "good" condition at Winchester Hospital yesterday after being struck by an automobile in the Center Monday afternoon.

Miss Marguerite E. Barr of 2 Elmwood Avenue was crossing Church Street from in front of McCormack's Apothecary by the crosswalk when the accident occurred at 2:30 p.m.

A number of Christmas shoppers converged on the accident scene, and sent a call for police assistance and the ambulance. Police Officers William Callahan and Thomas Kennedy rushed to give aid to the elderly citizen lying on the ground and bleeding from abrasions and lacerations.

Officers William Nash, Joseph Crowe and Albert Duffy transported Miss Barr to the Hospital, in the town ambulance, where she was treated in the Emergency Room by Dr. Richard A. Kingsbury and admitted for X-rays and observation for possible internal injuries.

Police said that the vehicle involved in the accident was travelling at a slow speed—about 5 miles an hour—and that the driver's vision might have been obscured due to a bright low sun hitting his windshield as he turned the Main Street corner by McCormack's to go West on Church Street.

The driver of the car, Stephen E. Miller, 19, of 24 Kirk Street, reported to police he did not see the elderly pedestrian, and that after leaving the Main Street curbside and turning the corner,

School Athletic Supplies Theft

Following the completion of extensive investigation by the School Department and the Winchester Police, Assistant Superintendent William Clark has announced that a case of breaking and entering at Winchester Senior High School on Friday, November 25th netted the thieves nearly $800 worth of athletic equipment and physical education clothing.

According to the head of the physical education department, Henry Knowlton, the break occurred on the night of the Victory Dance which was held at the high school. The break was accomplished by cutting wire on an outside grill covering an air vent, going down into the well and coming through the crawl space. A lock on the athletic supply closet was forced off and items taken selectively included:

Forty-one game jerseys, (numbered Varsity jerseys only, no J.V. jerseys) at $16 each for a total of $656; 4 practice jerseys for $16; 1 nylon net bag (which held basketballs but was emptied leaving the balls) for $6; 3 cross country warm-up suits at $12 each for $36; and 12 pair new hockey stockings at $6 a pair for $72.

Fire Chief Says Heating Units Can Be Problem

The Fire Alarm Box in last week's Star told a story of recurrent calls to the Fire Department for problems with oil burners, prompting Fire Chief Francis Amico to speak out on the subject of heating equipment in general.

"All heating units should be checked at the beginning of each heating season," says the chief. "There are innumerable places where trouble can start and it is equally important that users of every kind of fuel have their unit checked.

"Citizens tend to get careless about this important safety precaution just because they have never experienced trouble in their own homes," said the chief. "We in the Department, on the other hand, are acutely concious, especially at this time of year, of the number of things that can go wrong."

Swanton Street Bridge Traffic Problem Studied By Selectmen

Administration Eyes Bridge Rebuilding Project

BUSY SWANTON STREET BRIDGE doesn't have to be described to most local drivers familiar with having to negotiate its often difficult angular Main Street entry or exit, as can be seen by the truck and car maneuvering in this recent photo. Significant increase in traffic use load of bridge anticipated this year with completion of large new apartment-house complex and nursing home is expected to accentuate the traffic flow problem and potential hazard area.

The Board of Selectmen next Monday night will discuss and analyze the feasibility of widening, straightening and rebuilding the old Swanton Street bridge—in recent years a growing traffic and safety problem—with an eye toward developing it as a Town project.

The issue was brought to the Selectmen's attention last Monday evening by two Town Meeting Member citizens, Henry Heitz and Robert Winn, who asked what course of action the Selectmen planned to take in finding a solution to the bridge problem.

Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said he agreed the angle should be taken out of the bridge, and that it should be replaced with a wider bridge. However, he told the two citizens, the Selectmen's research on the bridge earlier this year showed that the state would require it to be built with a higher elevation if it is reconstructed.

He further stated that neither the railroad nor the state gave any indication that they would contribute toward financing the cost of reconstruction, preliminarily figured at between $150,000 and $200,000.

Also, he added, the Planning Board had indicated a desire to have a land use study made for the area before any proposals for a new bridge were formulated to aid in the planning of just how the bridge should be constructed. However, nothing further had been communicated by the Planning Board to the Selectmen as to whether it had looked into land uses in that vicinity for such bridge planning.

Following up Mr. Heitz's exposition of the need for a new and more functional adequate bridge to cope with the present heavy traffic there as well as the anticipated increased uses for the new apartment building and nursing home—both nearing completion, Robert Winn politely but aggressively took exception to the accuracy of the Selectmen's information.

Mr. Winn said he had personally talked with officials in the County Commissioners' office and the State Department of Public Works, and both had indicated to him that there was a good chance that state and county assistance might be feasible for such a project, possibly under Chapter 90 funds.

Also, he said, he had heard that Governor Volpe is planning to ask the Legislature for a $10 million bill for the reconstruction and improvements of bridges across the state this year, and this project might qualify under such a program.

The Selectmen, delighted with the new information and hopeful that there might be some foundation for moving ahead on the prospects of a project proposal, scheduled a hearing on the subject for next Monday night, with Town Engineer James A. Wakefield, Jr. and a representative from the Planning Board requested in the meantime to look into the idea and report back to the Selectmen. Both Mr. Heitz and Mr. Winn said that they, too, would attempt to return to aid in studying the issue at that time.

The subject of reconstructing the Swanton Street bridge was first raised during a 1965 Town Meeting session when rezoning of the former Beggs & Cobb site was under consideration for the construction of the new, large Parkview Winchester Apartments complex. At that time, one Town Meeting Member queried: "Can the Swanton Street bridge handle the additional traffic?"

The Selectmen at that time affirmed they definitely had in mind some future widening, straightening and rebuilding of the bridge to make it safer for the heavily used Swanton and Main Street intersection. Later, the Selectmen were sent a letter by neighbors of the area asking what was to be done, and when. The Selectmen responded with a letter saying they were investigating the matter, but nothing had been done or heard about suggesting a proposed project until this week.

Schools' Maintenance Budget Nearly Doubles In Next Year

A significantly beefed-up program and nearly doubled appropriation request appearing in the School Department's 1967 maintenance budget schedule marks the apparent beginning of a new philosophy and policy on the part of the School and Finance Committees toward providing sufficient attention and dollars to the more adequate maintenance of the town's some $8 million plus value in public school buildings.

The budgetary increase for maintenance nearly doubles from the $50,944 programmed over a 20-page schedule for 1966, to $98,965 approved this week on Monday evening by the School Committee, with the concurrence of the Finance Committee, as covered in a 40-page program for 1967.

There were virtually no changes or deletions from the 40-page-long schedule, prepared by William F. Clark, assistant superintendent for administrative services, and which he termed "most important."

The unusually long program schedule and sizeable increase were the result of Mr. Clark's investigation into conditions at the public school buildings and grounds, and a recent report to the School Committee.

The School Committee and School Department administration officials toured several school buildings last Saturday morning, December 10, with representatives from the Finance Committee, to actually see the conditions reported by Mr. Clark and just what the maintenance schedule would accomplish.

Mr. Clark told the group that "an adequate maintenance budget for all public buildings should be at least 1 per cent of their insured value." The town's school buildings and contents are valued at about $8,400,000, he said, and this would mean that the annual maintenance budget for the schools should be in the vicinity of approximately $84,000.

Impressions & Figures

SURVEYOR OF WINCHESTER in the midst of doing reappraisal work in the northeast part of town this week as part of configuring a revaluated tax base for the whole town, Dan Scribner of the Cole-Layer Trumble mass appraisal firm is shown recording construction details and measurements of a local home for 1968 tax assessing purposes. One of his first impressions here: "There seems to be a lot of good, and many large homes in Winchester — more than in most towns. It looks like a nice community to live in."

Columbus Club Italian Relief Disaster Fund

The Christopher Columbus Club has formed an Italian Disaster Relief Fund Committee to raise funds to help the thousands of men, women and children left homeless due to the flood disaster which ravaged a large portion of Italy. Attorney Emidio DiLoreto of 36 Winthrop Street was named chairman of the committee.

A dinner-dance will be held on Saturday, February 18, 1967, at 7:30 p.m., at the Christopher Columbus Hall on Raymond Place, with all the proceeds from the affair going to this fund. Funds collected will be forwarded to Governor Volpe's Italian Relief Fund. At the dinner-dance, it is planned that Governor Volpe personally will be present to accept the funds raised for this endeavor.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, the committee has expressed its hope that citizens of Winchester and surrounding communities who are interested will contribute to this worthy cause.

Checks may be made out to the "Italian Disaster Relief Fund" and either left at or mailed to the Winchester Trust Company. Tickets for the fund-raising dinner-dance may be obtained from any of the committee members, which include: Joe DiZio, James Costagno, Anthony Cirurso, Joe Michienzi, John Gattineri, Louis I. Castiglione, Frank Cirurso, Rocco Ferraina, and Nicholas DiZio.

Littleton Chairs State's Designer Selection Comm.

In the aftermath of the recent hassle over state architects, Tufts Professor Earle F. Littleton of 14 Cranston Road has been elected chairman of Gov. John Volpe's Designers Selection Committee.

Prof. Littleton is chairman of Civil Engineering at the University.

He and the four other members of the Committee—another registered engineer, two registered architects and a member-at-large—were sworn in by Gov. Volpe on Tuesday, December 6, at the State House.

The Committee will recommend to the State Director of Building Construction a minimum of three engineers and three architects for all state-sponsored building projects in the future. Comr. John McCarthy will be able to make a decision based on these recommendations.

Leo Francis Garvey

Leo Francis Garvey, former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County and former chairman of the Winchester School Committee, died at his Hillside Avenue home on Monday, December 12, after an illness of some months.

Mr. Garvey was an active and widely known citizen. He had lived here for 32 years and practiced law from his own office here for 30 years. He was a member of the Middlesex County and Massachusetts Bar Association and of the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers' Association.

Active in organizations, he had been past Exalted Ruler of the Winchester Lodge of Elks, 1445, and also belonged to the K of C 210 here, the Saint Mary's Holy Name Society and the Winchester Country Club.

Mr. Garvey was born in Dover, New Hampshire on March 13, 1906, the son of John and Angela (O'Hara) Garvey, natives of Dover and Nova Scotia respectively. He was graduated from the Dover schools, from the University of New Hampshire and from the Suffolk Law School.

Mr. Garvey was the husband of Evelyn L. (Morin) Garvey, who survives him along with four daughters, Jean E. of Washington, D.C., Mrs. Peter (Mary) McLaughlin of Andover, Anne V. and Patricia C. of Winchester; three sons, Lee F., Jr. of Tewksbury, John M. and Richard D. of Winchester; and four grandchildren.

Many Town and County dignitaries attended the solemn high Mass which was sung for him yesterday morning at 10 a.m. at Saint Mary's Church. A funeral from the Lane Funeral Home preceded the Mass and interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Helen (Werner) Lawyer

Mrs. Helen (Werner) Lawyer died following an extended illness at the Sunnyside Nursing Home in Stoneham on Thursday, December 8. Mrs. Lawyer was 100 years old.

The wife of the late William M. Lawyer, Mrs. Lawyer resided with her granddaughter in Winchester prior to entering the Nursing home some time ago.

She is survived by her granddaughter Mrs. James (Helen) Frongillo of Winchester and by several great-grandchildren and nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were at the Robert J. Costello Funeral Home on Saturday, December 10 at 2 o'clock. The Reverend Alexander Henderson of the First Baptist Church officiated.

Burial was at Mount Auburn Cemetery.

William Thomas

The Reverend H. Newton Clay will officiate at services at two o'clock this afternoon in the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church for William Thomas of 95 Middlesex Street, who died suddenly of a heart condition in the Winchester Hospital on Monday, December 12.

Mr. Thomas was the husband of Ella M. (Spencer) Thomas, who survives him at 95 Middlesex Street, where the family has made its home for about 30 years. He is also survived by one daughter, Mrs. Helen E. Lange of Manchester, New Hampshire; by a son, David S. of Winchester; by a sister, Mrs. Mae Oxner of Nova Scotia, and by two brothers, Joshua of Everett and John of Carbonear, Newfoundland.

Mr. Thomas was born in Carbonear on September 9, 1899, the son of William H. and Ann (Ash) Thomas, both natives of Newfoundland. He saw extensive service with the Canadian Army in World War I, serving on the front lines with the infantry. A resident of this country for 45 years, Mr. Thomas was associated with the Humble Oil and Refining Company in Everett from 1923 until 1958, when he retired as foreman.

Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Rallo Is Survived by 8

Mrs. Eleanora (Alagna) Rallo, the wife of Michele Rallo of 34 Eaton Street who died on November 30, was survived by eight children and 20 grandchildren.

The names of her three sons, Francis P. of Tewksbury, Paul of Woburn and Leonard of Winchester were inadvertently omitted from the obituary in last week's Star.

Globe Announces Jazz in January

It will be "Jazz in January" again at the second annual Boston Globe Jazz Festival at War Memorial Auditorium, Boston, Friday and Saturday, January 20-21.

George Wein, head of Newport Jazz Festival, is producing the two night and one matinee program that will include "The Divine Sarah" Vaughan, Erroll Garner, Dave Brubeck Quartet, Thelonious Monk, Modern Jazz Quartet, Clark Terry, J. J. Johnson, Jimmy and Marian McPartland and the sensational Thad Jones-Mel Lewis Band.

An innovation this year will be a Saturday matinee at 2:00 called "Jazz for Youth." The Dave Brubeck Quartet, Newport Jazz Festival All Stars and Milford Youth Band will be spotlighted in this special program. General admission tickets will be very reasonably priced.

M.C.'d by Father Norman J. O'Connor, the "Jazz Priest," Friday evening's performance will start at 8 p.m. and features Thelonious Monk, Dave Brubeck, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Clark Terry, J. J. Johnson and the 18-piece band of Thad Jones and Mel Lewis.

Saturday's performance at 8 p.m. will star Erroll Gardner and Sarah Vaughan, the Newport All Stars with guest artists Jimmy and Marian McPartland and including Lou McGarrity, Edmond Hall, Bud Freeman, Ruby Braff and Pee Wee Russel!.

If last year's sellout for Boston's first jazz festival is any indication, those applying early will obtain the best seats this year.

Tickets go on sale this week by mail (Box 100 Prudential Center, Boston, Mass. 02199) and at the Globe's office on Wastington Street, and at leading ticket agencies.

F. B. I.

He added that law enforcement officials generally "are as much for parole and probation as any citizen; but too often we see these same offenders who are on parole or probation again committing new crimes." Seven out of the Ten Most Wanted Men on the F.B.I.'s list, he noted, are parolees or persons on probation who were sent out again into society to commit serious crimes.

He further pointed out that the courts, from the highest to the lowest all across the board, seem to be going in the opposite direction of suporting law enforcement. He gave several examples to show his point: a bank robber in Illinois who stole $64,000 was given six months in prison, which only amounts to three months in time served because today they never finish their sentences; another bank robber threatened the lives of three elderly women tellers in a $57,000 holdup and required 100 police officers jeopardizing their lives searching through a field of tall corn to capture him—he got only 2 years, and that with a suspended sentence.

And, of course, there is the public, he added, which is displaying more and more an "apathetic attitude and an 'I don't want to get involved' approach. He noted the bizzare case in New York two years ago when a young woman walking home in the evening was stabbed on three separate assaults on the street to her home before she died—under the eyes of 33 neighbors who had heard her screams for help, and not one went to her aid or called the police. In another event, a man was stabbed in a subway by another man, with 29 persons watching who made no effort to lift a finger to aid him.

Mr. Handley asked who, caught as the innocent victim under any of these other circumstances, would not want some other human being to come to his aid or at least summon help?

"Put all these symptoms together," he urged, "a spiralling crime rate, an unrealistic parole and probation system, courts that don't back up the laws and law enforcement, and a public that only wants to enjoy the material fruits of society without accepting the responsibilities of citizenship in an "I don't want to get involved" attitude, and you'll see that we are in serious times—and headed for serious trouble in the next decade."

House Fire Routs Boy On Russell Road

Returning home from school at 2:53 p.m. on Monday afternoon, Christine Short, 13, of 9 Russell Road met her pajama-clad nine-year-old brother exiting from their upstairs apartment. He had been driven out by smoke.

Running to the house of Mrs. Mrs. Frank Hennelly across the street, the two got Mrs. Hennelly to call in the fire.

On arrival the Fire Department found a fire in the rear entrance of both the lower and upper apartments. It appeared to have started in a pail of rubbish on the first floor porch of the apartment occupied by Gertrude C. Oliver at number 7 Russell Road, and had involved the outer wall, ceiling and pantry of the second floor before the Short boy, home from school with illness and resting on the front room couch at the time, was disturbed.

Firemen had to remove a section of the wall and wiring from the first floor and use the smoke ejector for the heavy smoke in the home. The smoke caused severe damage throughout. The all out sounded an hour and a half after the call first came in.

Maintenance

However, he pointed out, the 1966 maintenance budget was only $50,944, or just a little over half of what it really should have been in the generally accepted 1 per cent rule of thumb—and in fact the school properties look it, he said.

The school maintenance picture in Winchester was even worse before that, Mr. Clark added, for the average over the previous five years was about only $45,000. By not adequately financing and programming maintenance schedules, Mr. Clark emphasized, the town bypassed necessary maintenance along the way to the point where today the community must engage in what might be called a major restoration repair project over the next few years.

As a result of the program set up by Mr. Clark, a three year schedule of maintenance implementation was figured by the School and Finance Committees based on the immediacy need of three categories: Urgent, or necessary for this year; Essential, or needed either in 1967, 1968 or 1969; and Desirable, or things that should be attended to in 1968, 1969 or shortly thereafter.

Included in the Urgent and Essential categories, Mr. Clark noted, were such things considered as either safety hazards, things which were detrimental to the building structures, and anything that impinged on the educational program.

One example Mr. Clark gave of an item that appeared to fit all three categories, Urgent, Essential, and Desirable was the need for inaugurating an annual service checkup of the oil burners in all the schools. This has not been done on an annually programmed basis, as most homeowners do, he said, but rather had been checked on an occasional basis. This will save money on fuel oil, he noted, and, in the case of the high school, when coupled with an overhauling of the thermostatic temperature control system and the whole heating plant there, should result in more even heating so you don't get one classroom studying at a 72 degree temperature while the one next to it is sweltering at 86 degrees.

The School Committee and School Department officials toured the schools' grounds on the previous Saturday morning, December 3, with representatives from the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee, and the Park Board—which had been charged with the responsibility of caring for their upkeep, and which has come under strong citizen and administration fire in the past few years.

Mr. Clark said yesterday that the School Committee might soon be considering some minor landscaping at each of the schools to enhance the properties, which for several years have been showing signs of neglect and have been vociferously decried as unattractive by many citizens and even at the Town Meeting.

Xmas Activities At Latter-Day Saints Church

The Billerica Ward of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at 70 Concord Road in Billerica will be holding a combined Primary and Sunday School Christmas party. This will include all children from 4 to 12 years of age and will be on Friday, December 16 at 7:30 p.m. Santa will be there too. Parents are invited to bring their children to participate in this event.

Bishop Stanley A. Taylor also announced that the program on Sunday, December 25, will be a change from the regular form. There will be special musical numbers from the junior Sunday School, the teen-agers, and the parents, and Bishop Taylor will play "O, Holy Night."

Speakers will be Maylene Straw and Steven Noel from the junior Sunday School, Nancy Forrest and Lance Smith of the teen-agers, and Betty Collins and Clent Houston, superintendent, representing the senior Sunday School. Everyone is invited to attend this special program.

The young people's organization, the Mutual Improvement Association, will have a Christmas party and carol singing on December 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the church in Billerica. There will be an exchange of gifts, Christmas goodies to eat, and an enjoyable time for everyone.

Cambridge Street Notches 3 More

Heavy fog and an arrest for drunkenness appeared to play a part in three accidents which occurred on Cambridge Street between the hours of 7:10 Friday night and 1:42 a.m. on Saturday.

Subsequent to a three car accident which took place at the lights at Wildwood Street on Friday evning, a Winchester man was arrested for drunkeness, The other two cars involved in the accident, which occurred while they were stopped for a red light on Cambridge Street, were driven by a Burlington and a Billerica man respectively.

On Saturday morning at 1:32 a.m., in very dense fog, two cars were in collision at the junction of Cambridge Street and Everett Avenue.

Ten minutes later, at Pond Street, a Burlington man, driving north, collided with a telephone pole causing severe damage to his car. Officer Joseph Crowe, who drove him to the Winchester Hospital for treatment to an injured mouth, reported that at this time the fog was so dense as to make progress, even with the police spotlight, extremely difficult.

Exclusive Report From Vietnam

BY JOHN VALUE

Language

Near Da Nang — Imagine two Marines in conversation. One is a platoon sergeant, the other a squad leader just back from patrol.

"Sergeant, there's beaucoup Charlies just a scochie bit ahead, probably a company."

"Are you stuffin' me?"

"Would you believe a platoon?"

"Can it, corporal."

"Well, there is a dude in the next paddie and I think he's packing Claymores."

"Corporal, get out of Dodge City."

"Sorry about that, Sergeant."

As does any war, this war in Vietnam has its own argot. That of World War II was perhaps the most colorful. Korea tried, but its phrases were pale. And in Lebanon and Guatemala the troopers had time only to develop some bad ailments.

But, as occupied as he is, the military man in Vietnam is applying his linguistic imagination. He is working with Vietnamese, an ugly language to the Western ear, and French, Japanese and all the dialects of American.

Take the imaginary conversation. The designation of the enemy as "Charlie" is logical. He is the Viet Cong, which naturally becomes "VC." Over the field radio he becomes "Victor Charlie," or Charlie for short. The enemy in any number is "he." If a VC unit is particularly skilled, he is sometimes referred to as Charles.

"Beaucoup," left over from French colonial days and denotes largeness in any sense, just as "scochie," a Japasese word (spelled phonetically here), means anything small.

Would you believe that "Would you believe?" is not the product of a TV script writer's imagination? It's so. "Would you believe?" and "Sorry about that," were born in Vietnam. Any trooper will vouch for it. They maintain here that a script writer overheard the expressions and used them in the TV show "Get Smart." It seems logical. The expressions predate the show and the combat soldier seldom gets near a TV set.

The Claymore is a vicious, powerful mine. The VC manufacture an excellent imitation.

"Get out of Dodge," of course, comes from TV's "Gunsmoke," and it mean's you're shut off.

As far as this reporter can tell, the majority of our career military men come from the South. This is good news, as their's is a colorful tongue, and a Southerner of any color has won the reputation of being a good fighter.

Mama-san, Papa-san, baby san, maid-san are Japanese. San is used, unconsciously, to designate anyone, non-military and non-caucasian, in a subservient sense. It's like the French "vous" and "tu."

Because of their diminutive size and white-shirted uniforms, the Civic Police are called "White Mice." They are held in high regard, as are most members of the Vietnamese Popular Forces, "PF's," who help guard the hamlets. The Marines, for some reason, refer to these gentlemen as "Frogs."

The members of the Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) are called "Arvins." There are exceptions by unit, but they are not too esteemed by allied forces. Arvin is sometimes reluctant to take on Charlie.

"Number One" is very good, "Number 10" is very bad. There is no graduation.

If music is an important factor in war, the reporter feels that this is one we well might lose. The Civil War produced songs we still sing and so did World War I. World War II music, I think, was a little mushy. Korea got better—country, western and hillbilly music mainly, but it had heart and you could sing it.

The music of Vietnam is abominable, consisting of long-haired boys screaming inarticulations to the rhythm of either electric guitars or electric chairs. I am not sure which. Perhaps it is because of this music that so many of our men want to get home.

Note: I am saddened to report that the art of cussing appears to be lost. The art reached its apogee during World War II when the tongue of the Old Army was honed fine by war. Since then, cussing has steadily declined and now has degenerated into a dreary, thoughtless, dull litany — an uninspiring fugal study of one filthy and preposterous word. I think we ought to blame the schools.

Christmas At Open Bible Church

A number of special services and programs in keeping with this season are scheduled in the Church of the Open Bible in Burlington.

On Sunday evening, December 18, at 7 o'clock the Senior Choir directed by Mr. John Stirling will present the John W. Peterson cantata "A Song Unending."

The Church School Christmas program will be given on Sunday, December 25 at 9:30 a.m. and at the 10:45 Morning Worship Service the Senior Choir will sing the Hallelujah Chorus, college students will give testimonies and pastor Helgerson will speak on the subject, "A Savior, Christ the Lord." at the evening service on December 25th the Young People's Choir will sing directed by Mr. John Paulson with Mrs. John Paulson at the piano. The Minister's sermon topic will be "The Virgin Birth."

On New Year's Eve, December 31, a special watchnight service with a varied program will be held. A special feature will be the sacred concert at eight o'clock by the Senior Choir.

Everyone is invited to all these meetings.

School bags—new colors—red or blue waterproof. We also have the dark green color. Be smart and buy one of the new colors. Priced at $1.49 at the Winchester Star.

Columbus Club To Dance On New Year's Eve

The annual New Year's Eve Party of the Christopher Columbus Club has just been announced to be held at the Club Hall 18 Raymond Place and to run from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. on Saturday, December 31.

The committee is inviting all interested persons to contact James Castagno, president, at 729-5438 for information and tickets. Music will be by Tony Morandi this year and a buffet will be served.

Sewall Picked For All-Prep

The Boston Globe Sunday named Gordon Sewall, six foot one, 225 pound son of Dr. and Mrs Edgar Sewall Jr. of 4 York Road, as its first string left guard on the all-preparatory school football team.

Sewall, who played for WHS in his sophomore year, has been varsity linesman for Lawrence Academy in Groton for the past three years. An honor student, he expects to enter Bowdoin next year.

Positive Steps

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin has filed some 50 petitions for action by the upcoming 1967 Legislative session, and most of them are either long overdue changes in vehicle law and highway safety or are far-sighted proposals for bettering road and driver conditions. The Registrar is to be commended for putting together such a comprehensive alteration of existing law—including the taking on of some politically delicate issues—and attempting to improve at least the state's role in motor vehicle safety for the public.

Included in the list of good legislation proposed is a tougher handling of "drunken drivers." Under the "implied consent" portion, any driver suspected of being under intoxicating influence while driving and declining to take an official breath test would automatically lose his license for six months, and then his registration for the same period. Also, stiffer fines for drinking drivers are proposed raised from a minimum of $35 to $200.

Another good new measure is authorization for the state to post minimum as well as maximum speed limits, and differential rates for day and dark driving; both long overdue here. We only hope that any new minimum-maximum rates will be more realistic than some of those now posted.

The licensing and regulation of auto mechanics and repair shops is also long overdue, and is a measure that the Commonwealth should adopt—especially in light of the "emphasis" on motor vehicle inspections in this state, which is a healthy twice a year existing law, and also since it should help to protect the public from both less than quality repair attention and some of the present fleecing tactics.

Special attention to special kinds of drivers is now being proposed too—which has long been necessary and heretofore politically left pretty much alone. Some of these include the requiring of motorcycle drivers to wear protective helmets, and the special supervision of drivers over 70 years of age with annual medical certificates and license renewals stipulated.

And finally, we are happy to see, it is being proposed that the car theft law (almost ineffectual now) should be broadened so that the Registrar may revoke not only the licenses of car thieves but also of those receiving the stolen vehicles. We would also like to see passed the bill filed by the Police Chiefs' Association which would make it a felony to steal a motor vehicle and not just a misdemeanor, for from these thefts spring many other kinds of crimes against the public.

Words Of Wisdom

"If you look at what is happening realistically, we're in serious trouble," F.B.I. Special Agent James L. Handley told a group of local business and professional men at a Rotary Club meeting last week—and if you look at his statements of fact, observations of trends, and ramifications of opinion expressed, realistically, you'll know we're in serious trouble too!

The subject of his talk was the rapid rise of crime in this country in the last decade, and its noticeable deletorious effects on our society.

When the Special F.B.I. Agent in charge of the Boston District concluded his talk, the Rotarians—impressed by his message and appreciative of his enlightening them on developing facets about our society that many might have noticed but had not cohesively and comprehensively united into a single, strong commentary on a major ill of the day—loudly applauded his speech.

The points outlined in the significant talk are worth repeating and cogitating on—and doing something about.

He noted the substantially increasing serious crime rate each year, especially in the under 25 and even 18-year-old and under age groups.

One way to cut down on some of this might be to expand recreational facilities and programs across the nation as one constructive outlet for energies. Another might be for the nation to accept a form of Universal Military Training—or one in which those not serving in military service for say a two year spell, might have the option to volunteer for the Peace Corps, Vista, or some other worthwhile active service organization. That tailoring education more to the needs of individuals, and more in terms of practical and applicable education for those not going further into higher academic studies should be more evident than it apparently has been or even is today.

He noted the weaknesses of a parole and probation system that returns many criminals back into society when they are only going to repeat their offenses anew.

At a time when some liberal penalogical policies are making great rehabilitative steps forward in straightening out certain criminals; others are profiting under leniency and merely using it to get free to commit more crimes, or, if as yet untried, do not find the idea of lenient punishment any greater threat to their doing as they will. Of course, the movement to abolish capital punishment is the greatest example of the citizens' developing abhorrence with dealing harshly with harsh criminals; and, in lesser cases, often of meting out any punishments for "ordinary" crimes.

While parole and probation officials often complain that they do not have enough manpower or funds to really keep track of all those entrusted to their "supervision," this should not mean that society should have to suffer the abuses of active criminals on the loose to the degree that it does.

The F.B.I. Agent also noted the very evident lack of support of law enforcement officials on the part of many courts. Some criminals who have been arrested, proven guilty, and have been serving sentences, are now being freed on "absurd technicalities;" and many now being apprehended for crimes are turned free for almost no reason at all.

It certainly does appear to many citizens, as well as it did to the F.B.I. agent that the courts of late have generally been overly concerned with protecting the rights of the criminal, and less so with protecting those of the people. While most knowledgeable citizens recognize that this has not really been the intent of the courts—from the highest to the lowest—most cannot help but see that this has in fact been the general result. One desirable result that by necessity must come about from recent Supreme Court decisions especially, will be a greater sophistication and modernization of police law enforcement departments, and their methods and procedures; but in the meantime, many innocent citizens will not see justice consummated as it should be—and not because of a lack of effort on the part of law officers, but because of ineffective courts. For the preservation of law and order within the society, a reverse cycle of court thinking must come about—returning more to the precept of justice as the paramount concept.

And finally, the F.B.I. agent noted the disheartening appearance of citizen apathy and an "I don't want to get involved" attitude that denotes a general turning away from responsible citizenship on the part of the public.

Public apathy is the first sign of a disintegrating and deteriorating society. It seems to become most prevalent when a society becomes too enamored with materialistic (economic) progress and less so with social and cultural advances. Goals of more purposeful individual living, and even the development of national (and international) goals must become of greater value than materialistic pragmatism in the thinking of the public if the society is to achieve significant and sound development.

Danger Zones

For some time there has been developing here certain traffic and pedestrian conditions that can only be described as "anti-safety."

The situation has been "allowed" to exist because no one really gave it much thought. Offenders don't look upon themselves as wrongdoers; those narrowly escaping injury or damage haven't complained because they weren't actually affected; and the police, busy in many ways, have tried to handle the problem diplomatically through verbal requests or through the usual ticketing procedure, but without any major crackdown to really squelch the anti-safety condition that endangers the public safety.

We are describing the problem of double and triple parking on busy streets near busy intersections; like on Thompson Street, especially where it meets Main Street. We are describing the parking up to and on crosswalks where major thoroughfares intersect, like where Church Street meets Main Street at the corner by McCormack's, and again where Washington and Swanton Streets intersect at the corner by O'Neil's. We are describing parking where there should be no parking, because it hinders traffic movement, like on the railroad side of Main Street by the Swanton Street bridge. And, we are describing the parking of taxis and other vehicles under the railroad bridge by the traffic rotary.

The fact that parking near or on pedestrian crossways might endanger someone's crossing a street does not enter into some drivers' minds, just as it doesn't when they double and triple park in busy ways, or when they leave their vehicles where it will be an obstruction to traffic. And, too, we have the homeowners who insist on growing tall shrubs near their property lines, even if it happens to be at the corner of a major route.

Maybe police officers having traffic duty should spend less time policing parking meter collections and more time policing parking conditions and violations that endanger the public safety.

In other driving conditions at the Center, we have a policeman in the box between Hevey's and Winchester Drug directing traffic and pedestrian flow. What about the drivers and pedestrians on the other side of the rotary by the corner in front of McCormack's? Often we see drivers disregard the signals or just plain speed up the street, or pedestrians fail to use the signals and cross diagonally over the street—and many are the near misses.

We think a concerted enforcement program at the McCormack's corner might go a long way . . . especially in the afternoons. Also, on the subject of signal lights, the brightness of the sun striking many windshields at the McCormack's corner tends to obscure the signal lights—maybe some shields over the lights might emphasize them to the drivers. And, it may not be long now before the town is forced to consider permanent traffic-pedestrian lights instead of blinking ones at the intersections of Washington and Swanton, and also at Main and Shore Road, for the number of near misses makes for harrowing conditions at those locations often.

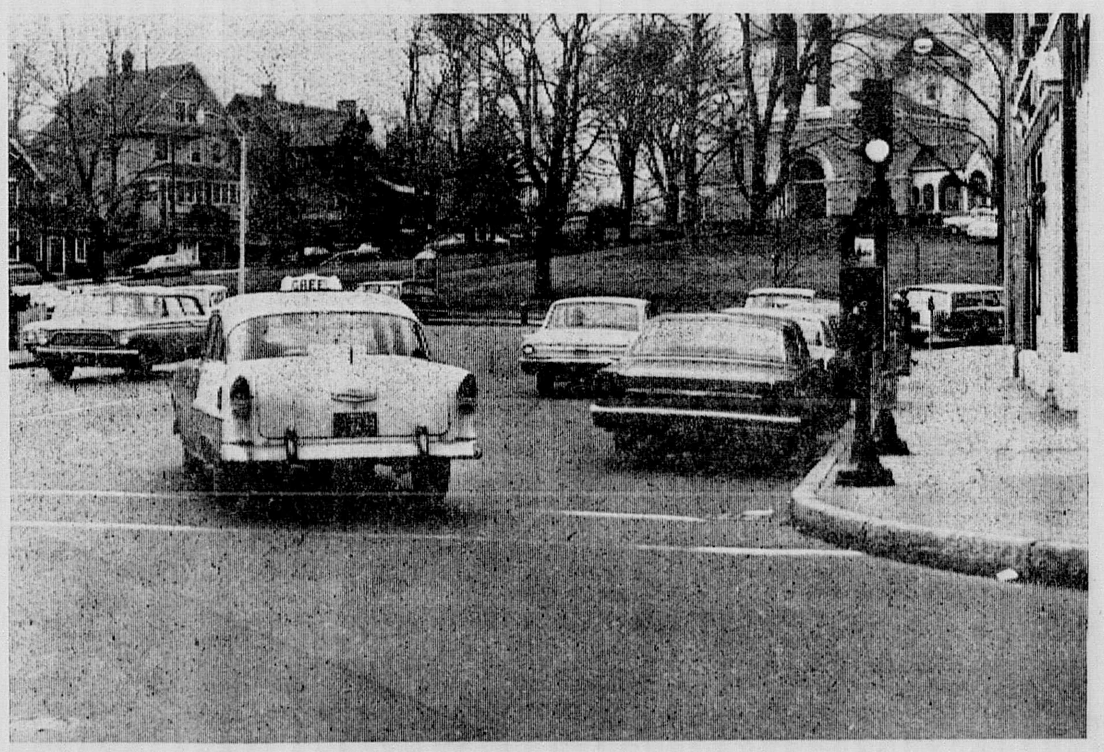
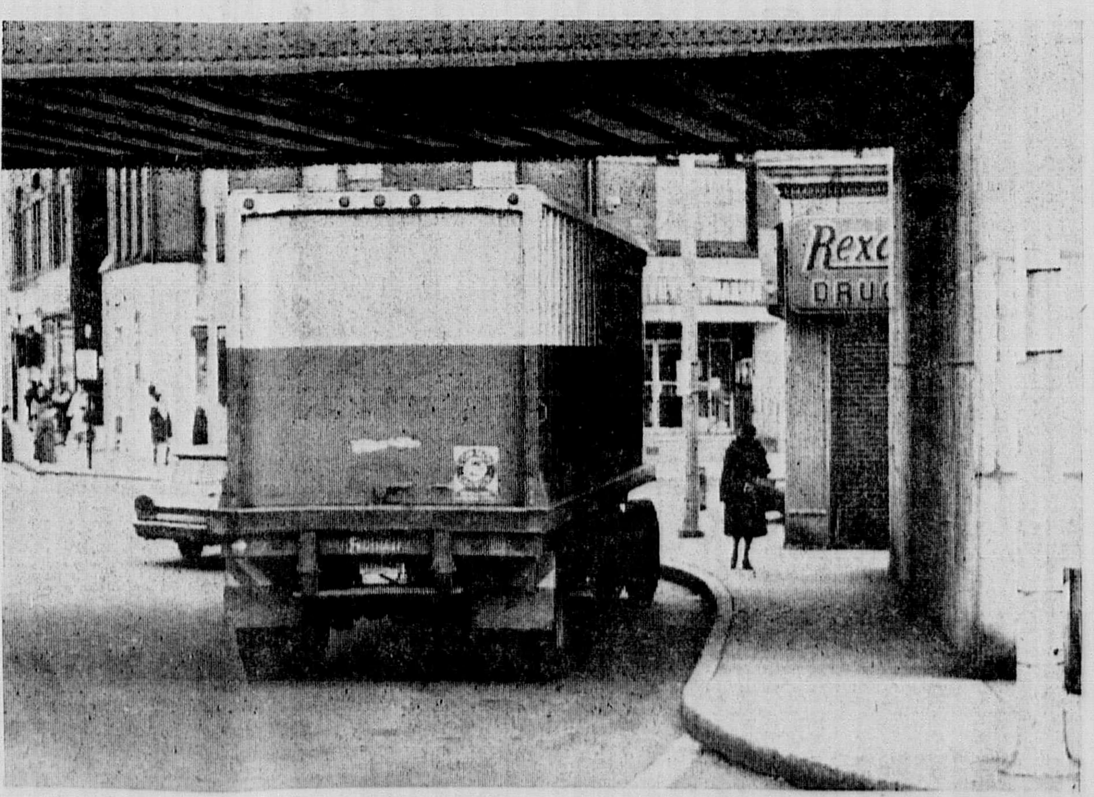
Traffic Hazard Spots

STAR PHOTOGRAPHS BY WILLIAM T. RYERSON



TRAFFIC MANEUVERING TESTS DRIVER'S SKILLS, sometimes, as this taxi driver demonstrates how as he has to swing wide, and even into the opposite direction lane to get around the Main and Church Street corner by McCormack's, where cars park all the way back to the crosswalk, and others double-park in front of them. Two danger spots here, both near the crosswalk, and where the three roads join up before the church, with cars travelling in five directions meeting at the center of a triangle.



AT THE TRAFFIC ROTARY IN THE CENTER, and under the bridge, one is apt to see almost any kind of vehicle parking by the sidewalk and obstructing both the flow of traffic onto Main Street heading south, and the view of pedestrians about to cross the street by the police box (hidden from view by the truck). Trucks and taxis are the most frequent violators of this public safety principle—followed by some drivers who stop, unstopped, to chat with a pedestrian or wait for someone from a train.

BOOK REVIEW

by Elva L. Nelson
Winchester Public Library

RUSH TO JUDGMENT

by Mark Lane

Some of the questions which must be going through the minds of many Americans in regard to the assassination of President John Kennedy are: will the entire case have to be re-opened? was Oswald the lone assassin? was the murder a planned conspiracy? did the Warren Commission fail?

It is certainly the contention of Mark Lane's book that the Warren Commission failed—miserably. Perhaps the FBI and other investigative agencies failed, too, but the final repsonsibility rested with the Commission. Did it really give a fair hearing to all the evidence?

Hugh Trevor-Roper makes the statement that "Ruby's intimate, corrupt connection woth the (Dallas) police was sufficiently revealed by numerous witnesses,, whose evidence Mr. Lane presents. It was denied or softened out of recognition by the Commission." If this is true in the matter of Ruby, Mark Lane's critique of the Warren Inquiry into the death of the late President, which some would criticize as throwing a monkey-wrench into the works, is justified even more so in other areas.

Was Oswald the lone assassin? In his opening chapters, Mr. Lane presents evidence which would seem to show that not all the shots were fired from the rear. Two shots, the one entering the throat of the President and the other hitting his head, were fired from in front of the presidential limousine and the other from its side.

Quoting the doctor at Parkland Hospital, the author states, "Dr. Kemp Clark, who pronounced Mr. Kennedy dead, said one struck him at about the necktie knot. 'It ranged downward in his chest and did not exit,' the surgeon said." This of course, differs from the Commission version which was based on the military doctors who performed the autopsy at which time the wound in the throat had already been altered by a tracheotomy and was later called an exit wound.

In the matter of the fatal shot hitting the President's head, Mark Lane comments, "When the bullet struck the President's head, as one can see from the photographs, he was thrown to his left and toward the rear of the limousine. How could the Commission explain the sudden, violent move of the President's body directly to the left and to the rear?" The President did not fall forward as he should have done had the fatal shot been fired from the rear.

Charles Brehm, an eyewitness aproximately 20 feet from the limousine reports, "That which appeared to be a portion of the President's skull went flying to the rear of the President's car and directly to its left. It did fly over toward the curb to the left and to the rear." Mr. Brehm was never called as a witness before the Commission, and the police finding of skull matter on the street as indicated by Brehm was not referred to by the Commission.

When the tests were made by the Commission to determine whether the rifle owned by Oswald could fire at least three shots at a moving target in the time which was alloted, it was found that the tests were conducted in circumstances that in no way resembled those on the day the President was shot.

After Mark Lane enumerates the differences, he writes, "Not one of the 18 shots regardless of the comparatively leisure pace at which they were fired, struck the head or neck of the target.

"Although the conditions of the test tended to diminish the difficulties, two out of the three expert riflemen were unable to shoot as fast at stationary targets as the so-called assassin had shot at a moving one. Not one of them struck the enlarged head or neck on the target even once, while Oswald is supposed to have done it twice."

Was the murder a planned conspiracy? Was the murder of Oswald also planned? Mr. Lane brings to the reader's attention the possibility that someone was impersonating Oswald shortly before the assassination. That Oswald may not have killed Officer Tippit. That Oswald may have been shot to protect the assissins.

If the President's death was due to a conspiracy, much evidence needs closer evaluation. This would be particularly difficult to do if, as Mark Lane claims, people were pressured to change their testimony. Rush to Judgment may have its limitations, but such a well-documented book is, to say the least, thought-provoking.

LWV Urges State to Up MCAD Budget

Governor John A. Volpe will be urged by the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, to recommend to the 1967 Legislature a larger budget for the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination.

At a Monday, December 19th State House conference with the Governor, State LWV President Mrs. Lawrence J. Kipp will define the league's position on the immediate need for increased MCAD appropriations to insure full enforcement of the Commonwealth's anti-discrimination laws.

According to LWV State Item Chairman Mrs. Alvin J. Hendler of 2 Palmer Street here, "Unlawful discrimination must be curtailed. A fully funded MCAD can do the job."

Christmas Thieves

Tuesday morning Winchester police received reports of thefts of 13 separate Christmas door ornaments which had taken place during the night in different sections of town.

The first was at 3:11 a.m. when a Lorena Road householder called police to say she had been awakened by, and just missed identifying the car of someone who took a wreath from his door. The majority were taken from the West Side area between Bacon and Church streets, and also on Oxford Street. Included were one lighted Christmas star and a string of lights.

THE BIGGEST for sale sign of all is the LITTLE classified ad you run in the Winchester Star.

Accidents

he stopped when he heard a "thudding" noise. A passenger in the vehicle, Sandra Lee of 25 Elmwood Avenue, told police that she had not seen the elderly pedestrian either, until after hearing the thudding noise and the vehicle stopped.

Young James N. Cogan, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cogan of 44 Clark Street, was struck by a car Sunday afternoon, December 11, while riding his bicycle south on Rumford Street, near Salem Street.

The youth was rushed to the hospital in the ambulance by Police Officers Bruce Govostes, Roland Roy and Joseph Asaro, shortly after 3:30 p.m., where he was treated by Dr. Richard Kingsbury for possible internal injuries.

The operator of the vehicle, which was headed West on Salem Street at the time of the accident, was Henry R. O'Neil of 11 Webster Street.

Girl Scouts

The visit ended with cookies and milk being served before the Winchester girls left for home, promising not to forget their new friends.

The girls of Troop 485 include: Susan Broadhurst, Rosemarie deMars, Nancy DeNatale, Ellen DeSanctis, Susan Gebhard, Sally Genster, Phyllis Guarnaccia, Leanne Harris, Rebecca Higgins, Lisa Hill, Cathy Karp, Nancy Lombardo, Kathy Mallon, Christine Marino, Karen Quinn, Bunny Read, Kim Spencer, Gusti Thomas, Liz Thompson, Julie Ulwick, and Cindy White.

Troop 485 leaders are Mrs. Percy Hill and Mrs. John F. White. The two mothers who helped with the project were Mrs. Edward Read and Mrs. Earle Spencer. Mrs. Austin Broadhurst drove the third car of scouts to Crotched Mountain.

Heating

Chief Amico, speaking out on the subject of the recent fires in Town, also wanted to remind householders of some of the common causes of fire which are overlooked. Last week's fires were started by faulty cord connection and frayed wiring. Other frequent causes of fires are electric appliances left on while the homeowner is away and electric cords placed under rugs where their deterioration doesn't show.

"You should disconnect the iron to go to the phone," said the chief, "You never know when you may be so distracted by a call that you don't return."

The chief told of a rule in his own home that the iron is never left on the ironing board, but is always put on a metal table some steps away, so as to minimize the chances that it is left on.

Elsewhere in the paper is the chief's annual message to citizens about Christmas fire hazards in particular.

Party

Much credit goes to Bob Scholl, Jimmy Violante, and Natalie and John Hall, for running the kitchen; and to Lee Walker, Margie Lynch, Janice DiZio, Jane Begley, Diane Scholl, Beatrice O'Connor and Karin Chase, who acted as waitresses. Special credit goes to those junior Elks, young Bob Scholl and Joey Penta, who showed up at the hall at 8:30 a.m. to set up the movie projector and screen and to perform other pre-party arrangements. There were plenty of Elks on hand to move tables and pitch in where necessary—no involuntary volunteers.

Bud Twombly, chairman of the affair, and Ronald Chisholm, exalted ruler, were pleased at the way things went, but they needn't have been concerned. Those alchemists from the Wrentham State School guarantee to turn any party into gold.

Carnival

the dance (and which requested this particular band), will be one of the high points of the town's first Winter Carnival.

Mr. Spinney also announced, in noting an addition to the Carnival schedule, a wrestling match between Winchester and Melrose High School's varsity teams at Melrose at 2 p.m. on Friday, December 30. And, weather permitting, there will be a skating party scheduled at the community ice rink at that time, too.

A special Winchester Theatre show at 6:45 on Thursday night, December 29, will feature "The Professionals," starring Burt Lancaster and Lee Marvin. This will be a two-for-the-price-of-one special for high school students.

In the Snow Fun snow sculpturing activity, held on the mornings of December 27 to 30th, there will be 12 prizes awarded to the two top 6-man teams.

In other recreation news, the Friday night Rec Club at McCall School will be for Seventh Grade, from 7 to 10 p.m. There will be no Saturday night Senior High School Rec Club this week.

Last Saturday night at Lynch School, 40 youngsters attended to play basketball, volleyball, badminton, and wrestling.

Theft

Assistant Superintendent Clark has appealed to any citizen who might receive information leading to the identity of those responsible for the break to contact him at the School Department or the Winchester Police. It is hoped that any information regarding this incident will be reported to the authorities.

Nurse Aide Course At Win. Hospital

The Winchester Hospital is offering to qualified persons the opportunity to enroll in a nurse aide training program, with classes to begin on or about January 9, 1967. The course will consist of four weeks of comprehensive training, classroom instruction, demonstrations, and experience in patient care. After successfully completing the course, trainees will be ready to join the regular nursing staff, working on a full time basis, with all tours of duty available. This is a stimulating and rewarding experience.

The course will be offered to both men and women who are between the ages of 18 and 45 years and who are sincerely interested in people and their welfare. Appointments for a personal interview can be made through the Nursing Office of the Winchester Hospital.

Arlington Catholic Is Presenting "Behold the King"

An original and unusual play entitled "Behold The King" will be presented at the December 15th meeting of the Arlington Catholic Mothers' Guild.

The play was written by eight members of the Arlington Catholic High School Drama Club, and is under the direction of Mrs. Dorenbusch. The musical portion of the program is under the direction of Sister M. Roger, C.S.J. The curtain will rise promptly at 8:00 p.m.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Mary Rooney, Mrs. Brenda Cullinane, Mrs. Elizabeth Keefe and Mrs. Gertrude Keefe.

Fathers and friends are cordially invited to attend this Christmas program.

St. Mary's Mr. And Mrs. Club Notes Prejudice Here

St. Mary's Mr. and Mrs. Club held their December meeting in the Parish Hall last Wednesday evening. There was a short business meeting conducted by President Alan Friot. The program that followed was an illustrated panel discussion on "Interracial Responsibility of the Suburban Community to the Big City."

John Dolan, chairman of the evening's program, introduced his brother, Joseph Dolan, who explained what the Milton Civil Rights Fellowship has been doing to promote this cause. He presented the evening's guest speaker, Arthur Michel, of Milton who gave a most stimulating talk with color slides to illustrate the responsibilities that confront the white communities surrounding Boston.

Mrs. Barbara Joslin, a member of the executive board of the Winchester Fair Housing Association and of the League of Women Voters, and Frank X. Hurley, a director of the Catholic Interracial Council and a member of the Archdiocesan Ecumenical Commission, both Winchester residents, joined Mr. Michel, John and Joseph Dolan in a panel discussion. They then answered questions from the audience.

The response of the members and guests was so enthusiastic that the discussion continued for some time after the meeting was formally over. It was felt that this program revealed some of the latent and overt racial prejudice that exists in Winchester as well as a hopeful sign of new understanding.

Winchester Unitarian Church

The fifth in the series given by the Winchester Unitarian Choir under the direction of Mary Ranton Witham on Sunday, December 18, at 10:40 will be entirely from the Christmas Oratorio by Saint-Saens. Immediately preceding the 11 o'clock service, James Sauber, trumpeter, will play "Alleluia" by Mozart. John W. Baldwin will play the organ postlude.

The program follows:

Recitative and Chorus—Quartette and Choir

Air—Contralto

In My Heart—Tenor and Treble Choir

Benedictus — Soprano and Baritone

Alleluia — Soprano, mezzo-soprano, alto and baritone.

Alleluia—James Sauber, trumpeter

The first anthem "Magnificat," and the second anthem "Quintette and Finale"

Organ postlude composed and played by John Baldwin

Soloists of the Winchester Unitarian Choir are Estelle McNeely, soprano, Barbara Wood, contralto, Roxanne West, mezzo-soprano, William W. Jeffery, tenor, Sidney C. Blanchard, Jr., baritone.

Saint Mary's Junior High Goes To the Opera

Last Wednesday, December 7, the Junior High division of St. Mary's School journeyed to the Back Bay Theater by chartered bus to enjoy Giacomo Puccini's opera, La Boheme.

The four act opera, with a Parisian setting of 1830, starred John Fiorito as Marcello, Chris Lachona as Rudolfo, Carol Courtman as Mimi and Norma Lynn as Musetta. The local students found the characters excellently portrayed by each member of the cast, the singing superb and the scenery intriguing.

This was a wonderful opportunity for the students and one which should foster the growth for an appreciation of the performing arts.

Visiting Nursing Assoc. Hears Report On November

The Winchester Visiting Nursing Association met on Friday, December 9 in the Michelson Room of the Unitarian Church, Mrs. Arthur H. Anderson, the president, presiding.

The morning was primarily a business session with annual reports given by the chairmen of the standing committees: Mrs. Thornton Stearns for education; Mrs. Charles I. Moore for finance; Mrs. Howard W. Bates for personnel; and Mrs. William J. Speers for public relations.

Mrs. Robert A. Nyere, chairman of the nominating committee, presented next year's slate of officers, which will be voted upon at the annual meeting to be held on January 13, 1967 at the home of Mrs. Chester L. Dawes, 74 Wedgemere Avenue. A luncheon honoring retiring members of the board will be held at the Country Club on January 6.

Mrs. Charles Moore of the finance committee announced that the fee for a visiting nurse's visit has been raised from $4.50 to $5.00.

Miss Margaret C. Schmidt, acting director, reported that November was a busy month. The staff made over 200 nursing care visits in addition to some 40 board of health and school home visits. Group vision and hearing tests are being conducted in the elementary schools. Medicare is functioning more smoothly, she said, most patients have been approved, and Medicare payments are coming in a little more promptly.

Of particular interest to the public was her report that the Northeast District Public Health Nursing Department has just finished sponsoring eight two hour programs on Mental Retardation, available facilities for treatment, and the part of the public health nurse in helping the families of retarded children. The nurse is the person the mother can confide in because she feels more comfortable talking in the privacy of her home. A visit also enables the nurse to see the child in a home setting and helps her form her role as a liaison between the family and the facilities available for helping the child. One of the visiting nurses attended each lecture and will share the information she gained with the staff.

Common Carols To Have Brass Accompanists

Promptly at 7 o'clock on Christmas Eve the 41st Annual Community Carol Singing will take place on the Common.

This Christmas when there is so much unrest in the world, Fortnightly invites you to come and sing the old carols, so full of promise, hope, and joy. For 20 minutes join neighbors and friends in a true community sing.

Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham will direct the music and a brass sextet will accompany the singers. Its membership comprises James Sauber and Peter Moulton, trumpets; Mark and John Totman, baritone horn and trombone; Robert Eddy and Arthur Deans, trombone. The beautiful contralto voice of Miss Sally Worthen will sing "O, Holy Night."

Sen. Saltonstall Names Coleman In Academy List

William T. Coleman III, son of Colonel and Mrs. William T. Coleman of 170 Mt. Vernon Street has been named first alternate appointee to West Point Military Academy by U.S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall.

His name was also submitted as one of six young men recommended for competitive appointment to the U.S. Air Force Academy by the Senator.

A 1966 graduate of Winchester High School and currently attending the Air Force preparatory school in Colorado Springs, Colorado, William, 19, had been very active in the Civil Air Patrol as a cadet lieutenant colonel in the Hanscom Squadron. His father, a retired Air Force colonel formerly served in the administration of NORAD Headquarters.

Massachusetts' Senior Senator, who will retire on January 2, after serving 22 years in the Senate, said, "Over the years I have always considered it a privilege and a great pleasure to have a hand in selecting young future officers who are qualified and highly motivated to serve their country. Those whom I have nominated this year are only a few of the young men who took the Civil Service Designation examinations in my name last summer. This being my last opportunity to make such nominations, I wish I could have put them all on the list."

William Coleman also is competing for appointment placement through Congressman F. Bradford Morse.

More Zip Codes

Assistant Postmaster in Charge of the Winchester Post Office, Alfred W. Barnard, has supplied more ZIP Codes for neighboring cities and towns.

The list is for single Zip Codes. Many large cities have more than one Zip Code and the name of the street, road, avenue, lane or terrace must be known so the proper Zip Code number can be supplied.

Four Legged Orphans For Xmas Says MSPCA

A gay little jaunt with a serious purpose last week was a visit to the Buddy Dog Humane Society, 56 Dakin Road, in North Sudbury, where lost and deserted dogs are sheltered until good homes can be found for them.

Taking the Christmas trip were Mrs. R. J. Kimball, Mrs. William MacDonald, Mrs. Philip Bartlett, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, Mrs. Fred Cardin, Mrs. Donald Belcher, Mrs. George Connor and Mrs. Stanley Seaver.

The spic and span new kennels were much admired and the attractive young lady attendants were complimented on their deft handling of the animals. There was considerable oohing and ahing over the adorable puppies yearning for homes and all the Winchester group left donations to further the work of the Buddy Dog Society.

Two attractive pooches were carried back to Winchester for a change of pace since they had been waiting a month for someone to choose them. Now sheltered locally by the Winchester Auxiliary of MSPCA, "Pal," a smallish black and white setter type, housebroken and fond of children, is still hoping someone will take him home for Christmas!" Longworth— Dickinson

The Church of the Holy Spirit, Orleans, was the setting for the candlelight wedding on November 26th of Miss Ann Evans Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Macfarlan Dickson of Orleans, formerly of Wassenaar, The Netherlands, to Larry Lee Longworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Lee Longworth of 17 Dix Street.

MRS. LARRY L. LONGWORTH

White carnations and snapdragons decorated the altar at which the Reverend David White performed the 12 o'clock noon double ring ceremony. A reception followed at the Captain's Club, Orleans.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in heirloom Lille lace designed with a fitted bodice, scalloped sweetheart neckline and modified bell skirt. Her tiered veil was French silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of white roses, spider chrysanthemums and ivy.

Mrs. Rinne B. Smedley of Manhatten Beach, California was matron of honor and attending as bridesmaids were Mrs. Peter K. Dickinson, sister-in-law of the bride, of New York City, Miss Katherine Ann Gyllensvard, cousin of the bride, of New Canaan, Connecticut, and Mrs. Raymond W. Thibault of Boston. They were identically gowned in floor length moss green matlasee with bateau neckline and a slim A-line skirt. Their headdresses were moss green illusion veils and they carried bouquets of gold and rust crysanthemums.

Mr. Ted A. Longworth of Winchester was best man for his brother. Ushers were Mr. Edward Little of South Acton, Mr. Donald C. Beck of Winchester, Mr. Robert B. Needham of Chicago, Mr. Peter K. Dickinson, brother of the bride, New York, N.Y., and Mr. Jerome Karter, brother-in-law of the bride, of Manchester, Connecticut.

The mother of the bride was gowned for the occasion in an aqua brocade dress worn with a matching jacket, aqua accessories and a white orchid pinned to her bag. Mrs. Longworth chose a suit of mink brown silk with which she wore matching accessories. Her orchid was a cymbidium, also pinned to her bag.

The bride is a graduate of Rijnlands Lyceum, Wassenaar, Holland and the Katharine Gibbs School in Boston.

Mr. Longworth is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Colgate University. He is associated with The Rourke-Eno Paper Co., Inc. of Cambridge. The couple will live in Boston.

Harrigan— Mucera

Returning from a wedding trip in Jamaica, West Indies to make their home in Needham are Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Francis Harrigan, Jr., who were married here in Saint Mary's Church at three o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, December 3.

MRS. TIMOTHY F. HARRIGAN, JR.

The Right Reverend John M. Manion officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Country Club, and which joined in matrimony the former Susan Therese Mucera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mucera of 141 Forest Street and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy F. Harrigan Sr. of 47 Lawson Road.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of antique ivory silk ottoman fashioned with a cathedral train. Her cathedral length mantilla was edged with re-embroidered Alencon lace and she carried a cascade of natural foliage plthe leaves.

Gowned in a full length dress of absinthe crepe and carrying natural foliage and ivy was Miss Rita Mucera who attended her sister as maid of honor. The Misses Leanne and Darcy Fitzgerald of Winchester, nieces of the bride, attended her as flower girls, gowned in antique green velvet and Irish lace and carrying baskets of ivy with miniature ivory roses. The ring bearer was Master Nicholas Fitzgerald III, a nephew.

Mr. Nicholas Fitzgerald, Jr. of Winchester was best man for his cousin and ushering were the Messrs. Anthony G. Mucera of Lynnfield, brother of the bride, William P. Bourne of New York City, Roderick S. Thomson of Baltimore, Maryland and Paul J. Mahoney of Winchester.

The bride is a graduate of the Winchester High School and the Vesper George School of Art. The bridegroom, also a Winchester High graduate, is an alumnus of Notre Dame University.

Time

Give yourself time. Don't count on getting anywhere in a hurry in winter. Speed limits are for perfect, dry conditions. On winter's icy streets, it may take ten times as far to stop as on dry pavements. Far lower speeds are essential to safe driving on snow or ice-covered roads.

Miss Hayes Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hayes, 15 Fairmount Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kristine Hamilton Hayes to Mr. Robert Elliott Roy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roy of Wantaugh, Long Island.

MISS KRISTINE H. HAYES

Miss Hayes graduates this June from Douglass College in New Brunswick, New Jersey. Mr. Roy is majoring in biology at Rutgers University.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Dale A. Metzler of Skaneateles, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dale Anne, to Lt. Ronald Kaye Palmgren, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stig G. Palmgren of McClean, Virginia.

Miss Metzler, a graduate of Wells College, is a librarian-trainee at the Syracuse Public Library. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hickey of 79 Church Street. Lt. Palmgren is a graduate of Colgate University. He is presently stationed at the Air Force Base in Blytheville, Arkansas.

A spring wedding is planned.

Ed Sterling

There has been much speculation on who will be the next coach of the high school football team. No decision has to be made until June, and those responsible for the appointment are going to take their time in selecting the new coach. Henny Knowlton was asked to stay on. His answer was a definite no.

The WHS hockey team dropped a 7-1 decision last week to Milton Academy. Jim Stabile scored the only goal for Winchester, the second time he has done so in the last two games. Our understanding is that the loss will not go against Winchester's record, although Milton can record it as a win. The Sachems did not put a full team on the ice.

Peter Thorp, co-captain of the Williams College freshman soccer team, received his class numerals at an award meeting the other night. He was the starting center halfback on the team, which captured the Little Three championship with a win over Wesleyan and a tie with Amherst. Pete was a fine athlete at WHS, captaining the soccer and lacrosse teams and playing a great game on the hockey team. He is currently playing defense for the Williams freshman pucksters.

* * * * *

Tom McLaughlin earned his varsity letter as tackle playing offense and defense on the lightweight football team at the University of Pennsylvania, and was given honorable mention on the all-league team for his defensive play.

* * * * *

Walter Harwood was awarded his varsity letter in soccer at Dickinson College. He was one of four freshmen on the varsity squad, doing duty at wing.

* * * * *

Mike Cosgrove, who was one of the tall men on last year's WHS varsity basketball team, is playing freshman basketball at the University of Bridgeport.

On the Springfield College gymnastic exhibition team which left Monday for a tour of the South are Colin Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gray of 31 Albamont Road, and David Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mayer of 15 Sawmill Brook Road. Both graduated from WHS last year. The team will give only one exhibition in this area, at Lexington High next February 3, at 8 p.m. So if you want to see these boys in action, remember the date.

Undefeated McCall Football Team Feted With Banquet Wednesday

The 1966 McCall Junior High School football team, undefeated, untied and unscored upon, was honored with a banquet and awards night Wednesday, December 7, at the high school cafeteria. Coaches Manuel Marshall and Earl Johnson, and their wives were at the head table along with invited guests: Mr. Joseph Forte, principal of McCall; Mr. Alfred Meurling, assistant principal; and the Boston Patriots' defensive tackles Jim Hunt and Houston Antwine.

The 48 team members were joined by 80 parents and friends for the dinner, well prepared and served by the ladies of the cafeteria staff. After the dinner, Mr. Forte was complimented for his encouragement and interest in the extra-curricular activities at the school as evidenced by the large McCall attendance at the home and away games. He was presented a plaque listing the scores of the 1966 games, to be the start of a permanent trophy collection at McCall.

All team members were awarded trophies, a statuette depicting a linesman or a back and inscribed "McCall J.H.S., 1966. Undefeated, Unscored On," with the player's name. Coach Marshall made the awards to the backs, and Coach Johnson to the linemen.

Coach Earl Johnson was thanked by the parents for the fine coaching and the sportsmanship he had taught the boys. He was presented a desk set and gift certificate. Co-Captains Mike Gilberti and Tom Riley, on behalf of the team, gave the coaches identical shadow-box plaques suitably inscribed, and with a player statuette mounted on velvet.

Coach Marshall was congratulated not only for building a team that outscored several larger schools, but also for the enthusiasm for hard work and teamwork he had developed in these boys. He was also given a desk set and gift certificate, and also a football autographed by the entire team.

Mr. Marshall, in reviewing the successful season, gave credit to the line coaching, defensive and offensive, by Earl Johnson. He stated that one of his team mottos had been "that a team that could not be scored on could not be beaten," and that his coaching placed great emphasis on defense. While he hoped that the team might have a winning season, he did not expect the boys to take his motto so literally. He also singled out the offensive effort that scored an average of four touchdowns per game, and the alertness of the players illustrated by the many pass interceptions and fumble recoveries. Coach Marshall concluded his remarks by complimenting the reserves for their contribution to the winning season and by encouraging the boys to carry the spirit of this football team to other teams during their high school years.

Earlier in the evening, Mr. Meurling, noticing some familiar faces among the dads, asked parents who had played sports under his direction years past to stand—a good half-dozen fathers, not quite as streamlined as their sons, acknowledged his request.

Color movies of several of the season's games were shown by Mr. DeLuca, and the evening was concluded by informal discussion groups among the boys and Jim Hunt and Houston Antwine.

Charlie Freni, The Patriots' Greatest Booster, Or —

Who snared the bunny tails That put the rabbit In Artie Graham's feet?

By Ed Sterling

There have been conflicting stories about the bunny tails Artie Graham, Boston Patriots' end, wears in each sock during a football game. Here's the real lowdown:

Some time ago Charlie Freni and his buddy Chuck Shonta, Patriots' defensive back, bagged a few rabbits while on a hunting trip. The bunny tails lay on a shelf in the back room of Charlie's Winchester Meat Co. store in the Square for about five weeks when Artie Graham, feeling mighty low, walked into the back room. Spying the bunny tails on the shelf, he remarked, "Say, maybe they'll bring me luck."

CHARLIE FRENI AND CHUCK SHONTA

Just before his next game he stuck one in each sock and scored a touchdown. He did the same thing before the following game and scored two touchdowns. He has caught more passes in the last four games than he did in the previous nine, and you may be sure the pre-game ritual is a permanent one.

The affable proprietor of the Winchester Meat Co. on Main Street is a sympathetic soul, the Pats' greatest booster and a pal of all the players. When any of them need a lift in morale they come to Charlie.

Chuck Shonta and Charlie are hunting partners, and during the hunting season tote shotguns or rifles a couple of times a week in search of game. On occasion Charlie, Chuck, Artie Graham and Lennie St. Jean, another Patriot, compose a hunting foresome, as they did recently to furnish all the meat for a game supper at Charlie's Bedford home last week for a group of Pat players.

Charlie and Chuck dropped into the Star office last week to have a chat with editor Dave McLean and the writer. It game me a chance to ask Chuck a question that had been on the back of my mind. "When you tipped that pass into the hands of that Denver player on the last of the game to give Denver the win, did you get much of a riding from your teammates?" "Not at all," he answered. "They realized it was just one of those things. But that loss sure shook them up. They've been a different team since."

We asked Charlie how he ever got tangled up with a gang of butchers who committed everything short of mayhem week after week on opposing linemen and backfield men, hacking them and grinding them into hamburger.

"You forget," and his round features broke into a grin, "I'm in the same business."

Charlie, who still looks rugged enough for a few hard, tough quarters, played his football for Arlington High and the University of New Hampshire. He met Chuck Shonta about five years ago, and they hit it off from the start. It wasn't long before he met the other Patriots, and Charlie has been a Pats booster ever since. He and his wife haven't missed a home game in the past two years.

"They're a great bunch," said Charlie. "Outside of Joe Bellino and John Huarte, none of them have been highly publicized college stars. They've had to make a name for themselves the hard way, in the pro ranks. This is a great team because its a hungry team. They've had to fight to gain the respect of the rest of the league. And trying to pick one or two standouts is a tough job."

And it's true. When you take players like Eisenhower, Antwine, Buoniconte, Parilli, Morris, Frazier, Nance, Garron, Graham, etc., try to pick one over the other. They're all great.

"Players on other teams, after a game, go their separate ways. Not the Patriots. They spend a lot of time in each other's company between games. And no cliques. On and off the field they have a high regard for each other, and that helps make them a team."

Charlie Freni as a walking encyclopedia on the Patriots and can relate anecdotes about the team that have never hit the sports pages.

Outside of the Pats and hunting, Charlie's one other great love (with apologies to the missus) is hunting dogs. He owns three English setters.

He and buddy Chuck bagged a beautiful cock pheasant on the first day of the hunting season and had it mounted. You can't cut a mounted pheasant in half. On the last day of the season they went out and bagged another, a beauty, which could have been the first one's twin. That certainly solved one problem.

One other problem remains, and that, Charlie devoutly believes, the Patriots will handle. That's getting into the super-bowl game with the National League champs. "The Pats will take care of Houston (which they did Sunday), New York, and Kansas City, a front runner that will wilt under pressure."

But win, lose or draw, Charlie Freni will still be the Patriots' greatest booster.

Basketball Season Starts Tuesday; Arlington First Opponent

Winchester High School opens its season Tuesday afternoon, December 20, against Arlington High with not one returning member of last year's starting team. Gone are the four tall men, John Doherty, Bill Floyd, Steve Fahey and Mike Cosgrove; and playmaker Paul Rigney. It is a green team that will take the floor Tuesday afternoon at the high school gym.

Coach Jim Phillips, in evaluating his team, is thankful that the opening game this year takes place later than in previous years, giving the 1966 squad more time to develop. Scrimmages have been had against Wilmington, Medford and Framingham. Coach Phillips hopes to have a workout Saturday afternoon between the Varsity squad and the JV's, with qualified referees to simulate game conditions.

"We are fortunate in one respect," says Jim Phillips, "and that's in having the best-looking sophomore squad in years. But that won't help the team until later in the season. An unusual situation is that out of 55 showing up on the opening roster, only about a half-dozen are juniors and not too many seniors. So our hopes ride on the sophomores to develop faster than usual."

Many on the squad are off the football team and haven't had too much practice. Height is a problem, and Coach Phillips would like to get in as much as he can. Alan Ingraham, about 6-6 or 6-7, showed flashes of good basketball last year with the JV's and limited duty with the varsity. John Cheever, a senior, who hasn't been out for basketball until this year, has the height, about 6-2, but has had little basketball experience. Hopefully he may develop fast. John Martin is about 6-0 and gained valuable experience on last year's JV and varsity. Andy Kincaid is rounding into shape; and Coach Phillips is hoping that junior John Pirani can develop because of his size.

Juniors are Pirani, Toby Harvey, Mark Fitzgerald, Dick Kadesch, Lee Hillman, Bob Belliveau and Jeff Buchanan.

Rick Nelson is manager of the team. As of Monday night, no cuts had been made.

Coach Phillips lists Melrose as pre-season favorites, with three starters returning, led by 6-8 center Wayne Titcomb. Reading beat Everett last week and has Bill Kelly, which in Winchesterese spells "poison." Wakefield is strong. So is Lexington, which opened its season by beating Arlington by 20 points. Belmont has height this year, and both Concord and Stoneham have improved. So, until later in the season, it looks like a rough road for Winchester.

BOWLING

S. O. I. Women

The Carnations, for the first time this half, move from first place to second place. The Daisies, with some fine bowling by Cusi Fiore, took 6 points from the Carnations. This puts the Daisies in fourth place.

Taking 8 points from the Tulips, the Violets step up to first place. This team has certainly done some pretty good bowling.

The Pansies lost all 8 points to the Petunias and this moves the Pansies down to third place. It looks like an exciting last week of the first half. The Pansies and Carnations will be bowling each other. Good luck girls!

It looks like the Buttercups will take last place honor for this half. Watch out for the next half, girls! I understand Betty is going to start a big push.

S. O. I. Men

Well here we are. 13 weeks have passed and still no three strikes in a row.

At this time I would like to thank Larry Dattilo for a job well done, also I wish him lots of luck on his new venture.

As I walk up and down the alleys you should see the many styles of bowling ha! ha! Drop over and watch these men bowl. You will get a big kick out of it.

Three cheers for Ted Peluso who had a good night, who bowled 99, 138, and 88. Good luck Teddy, keep up the good work.

Each week I will talk about one person and hope to talk about everyone. "So roll 'em and rock 'em," because who knows someone might walk up to you and say strike! strike! strike!

VFW

The Misfits took all 8 points from the Saabs and the Jaguars took 6 points from the Mustangs this week.

Fran bowled high for the night with a 308, Cappie was second with a 286, and Flaw third with a 269. That's keeping it in the family.

Norma, Rose, and Phyllis all had a good night and Flaw won the pool. She is the first one to win it 3 times this year. Get out of the pool Flaw!

We are sorry to learn that Stina's father Mr. Joe Pietrantonio is in the hospital and hope that he is recuperating nicely, and will be home shortly. Also we wish to extend our deepest sympathy to Stina and her family on the death of her small nephew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Whitaker of Georgia.

Remember December 15, our Christmas Party, don't forget your present! Happy partying everyone.

Nicklaus-Palmer National Team Champs

by Harry McGrath

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer put together a thirty-two (yes 32) under par record 256 for a best ball total for the 72 team holes.

The scoring on this newest—and richest—tournament, is arrived at by taking the teams lowest score on each hole.

The total prize money of $275,000.00 makes it the "richest" golf tournament ever put on.

This is its second year, and the prize money doesn't count in the so-called official money winning race. (I don't think Arnie and Jack will have any difficulty cashing the $50,000.00 check—official or non-official.)

I understand that next year's prize money will figure in the official money winnings.

If such were the case this year, Billy Casper would be third in the official list, instead of first as he is now in the long green official list.

Nicklaus would be the number one pro on the list, and Palmer number two, with Casper third.

The winning pair led after the Besselink and Sanders took over to opening round, with a 63, but slipped behind after 36 holes, when lead by two, 127 to 129.

For the third round, the strong men had a 63. Besselink and Sanders a 67 and the Cupit brothers put together a record 61.

The new champions had a final round of 64 while the Besselink-Sanders duo had a 65 for a total of 259. This brought them second money of $27,000.00 or $13,500.00 apiece. They had caught the eventual winners and went into a one stroke lead at the 63rd hole.

But six birdies on the last seven holes, gave the eventual champions their three stroke margin, and a new record for the relatively new event, the last year winning total was 259 made by Gay Brewer and Butch Baird, who were never a threat in this years play.

Ray Floyd and Billy Maxwell came in with a 63 to take third money of $19,000.00 for their 262 total.

Another two strokes back at 264, were the teams of Tommy Aaron-Jack Rule and Charlie Sifford-Dave Hill.

Their 264 totals got $12,000.00 for each team

Alone in sixth place, and good for $10,000.00 was the team of Bert Yancey and Dudley Wysong.

There were five tandems tied for seventh place each team fiinishing with 266's and each team received $7600.00.

Included in this five was the team of Paul Harney-Don January, the Cupit brothers and the Herbert brothers.

Sam Snead and Gardner Dickinson were in a six-way tie for 14th place and each of the six teams received $4650.00 to split.

Nicklaus made the understatement of the day, when he said—"We teamed together awfully well."

This was the fifth time Nicklaus and Palmer played as a team and fourth win playing as partners, their only loss coming in this same event last year. Their wins came in the Canada Cup matches of 1963, 1964, and this year.

This win was the sixth for Palmer and the fifth for Nicklaus.

A Real Tough Pair To Beat

Among the gals—The Ladies Professional Golf Association—Kathy Withworth set a new money winning record when she made her total official winnings $33,517.50, beating Mickey Wright's previous record of $31,269.50 set in 1963 when she won 13 tournaments.

This year Kathy won nine events.

Sandra Haynie, who defeated Kathy in a sudden death extra hole at the last tournament of the year, the Pensacola Open, for her fourth win of the year, was second in the prize money list, finishing with $30,157.50.

Mickey Wright, third at Pensacola, was third in the official earnings, with $26,672.00.

Following Mickey, came Carol Mann $23,246.00, Clifford Ann Creed $21,089.50, Marilyn Smith, $16,412.50 and Judy Torluemke, $15,180.00.

In the Vare Trophy standings, Miss Wright posted a 72.40 stroke average, but her 73 rounds fell short of the required participation.

Miss Whitworth, with an average of 72.60 for 101 rounds won this trophy.

It is interesting to note that Miss Haynie had a 73.09 average and Carol Mann was third with her 73.81 average.

Sandra Haynie was in three playoffs this year, winning every one of them, defeating Shirley Englehorn in the Alamo Open Classic, before defeating Miss Whitworth in the Pensacola Open.

Jack Reddy, U.S.G. scoring analyst, has an interesting article in the November issue of U.S.G.A. Journal.

In the article "Scoring Analysis of the U.S. Open, the short game and par-3 play." Reddy shows that the qualifier sank 16 per cent more putts of from four to seven feet than the non-qualifying players.

On the third and eighth holes at the Olympic Country Club, San Francisco, the qualifiers made 58 of 90 putts in the four to seven feet range, or 64 per cent. The non-qualifiers made 30 of 63 or 48 per cent.

The qualifiers, made two or three putts in this range while the non-qualifiers made only one of two.

The difference has been rather constant in recent years. In 1965 the qualifiers made 71 per cent of these putts and in 1964 the qualifiers made 62 per cent.

Reddy goes on to say—"of all the differences observed between qualifiers and non-qualifiers the defference between making and missing these tantalizing short putts is greater than the difference between any other single shot."

The survey shows that the average number of strokes taken from each putting distance by the 64 qualifiers would be, from 2 feet—105 strokes; from 4 feet—125 strokes; while from 30 feet, the stroke average is 2.00.

It must be remembered that Reddy's survey was made during the United States Open Championship—and just being there as a contestant means that the player—whether he qualifies or not for the final 36 holes, is one of the best in the world.

So, if your stroke average from the various distances quoted are higher than Mr. Reddy found the averages to be at the Open, don't get discouraged.

Just keep your head down and follow through on all your putts.

JC's Host Seventh Annual Jazz Nite To Tijuana Sound

With the Tijuana Brass sounds of Dick Martin providing background, the Winchester Jaycees played host at their seventh annual Jazz Nite last Friday evening at the Sons of Italy Hall.

In attendance were over 200 Jaycees and friends, many of the guests being former members who returned for the event.

Earlier in the evening a great many of the couples were entertained at the homes of Jaycees and their wives.

Highlighting the evening was the presentation of an award to member Joseph Crocetta for outstanding service to Winchester and to the Jaycees. A recent promotion will be taking him to Long Island after the turn of the year.

Also during the evening, a raffle was held for the benefit of Dr. "Jim" Turpin, whose "Project Concern" in Viet Nam has resulted in a price being put on his head by the Viet Cong.

Doctor "Jim" has singlehandedly taken on the task of bringing better medical treatment to thousands of South Vietnamese villagers, and in so doing, winning their hearts as well as their minds.

Terming this year's Jazz Nite a huge success, Chairman Bob McNamara noted, however, that the recently doubled membership nearly created a shortage of tickets this year, a symptom which fails to alarm Membership chairman Bud Bowlin.

Co-Ed Names Miss Wilson

Christine Wilson, a ninth grader at Lynch Junior High School, has been named Co-Ed correspondent for the school year 1966-67, according to an announcement by Co-Ed Magazine. Her appointment was made by Mrs. Grace Winquist, home economics teacher at Lynch Junior High.

Co-Ed Magazine is a national magazine for teenage girls published by Scholastic Magazines, Inc. with more than 4,000 Co-Ed correspondents throughout the United States and Canada. Miss Wilson will serve as junior advisor to the editors of Co-Ed and was selected for her qualities of leadership and enthusiasm for home economics. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of 25 Shepard Court.

Snow Blind

Don't be snowblind. . .good windshield washers, wipers and defrosters are a must for safe winter driving. Then, when you can see where you're going, winterwise your driving. Start slowly—spinning your wheels gets you in deeper. Get traction—have snow tires on your car and carry chains for the worst weather. Buckle Up. . . No Matter What The Weather.

Savings Bonds Better Than Ever For Gift Giving

"When you make up your Christmas gift list, don't overlook U. S. Savings Bonds. They're better than ever this year." That's the opinion of Raymond J. Callahan, volunteer Middlesex County bond chairman.

"Savings Bonds now pay interest at the rate of 4.15 per cent when they are held to maturity—and they mature in just seven years," Mr. Callahan pointed out.

"I can't think of a better gift for our loved ones," he said. "Not only do Bonds 'keep on giving' over the years, but they help support our men fighting in Vietnam."

"When you buy Bonds," Mr. Callahan added, "you also solve your gift-wrap problem. Attractive gift envelopes are again available at your bank. They are easy to mail, and can be slipped into a Christmas card envelope or tucked into a Christmas stocking."

Mr Callahan is editor of the Framingham News.

Duplicate Bridge Club

On Wednesday, December 7th, the Bowman Real Estate Challenge Bowl, prize for the Open Pairs Championship, was won by the regular partnership of Rose Hickey and Lillian Sheridan, schoolteachers both and popular club members, who played a fine game of 258½ points on a 210 average. At their table you know the atmosphere will be friendly, usually humorous, and yet dedicated to the serious business of the evening, namely, card playing.

Last year's champions, Blair Hawley and Paul Sanderson, were unable to defend their title, Paul being away. Blair instead took up his time-honored position as extra man if needed to take care of a single, but, whether in his rightful spot North-South at Table 1 with a familiar partner, or, as developed, at Table 21 paired with a newcomer to our area. Mr. Farida Rouchdy, Blair proved himself always a champion, posting the highest score of the evening—282 points—, meanwhile directing the one-board-around 21-table Scramble Mitchell Movement.

The second place winners were also ineligible for the Bowl which is awarded to Club members only, John Reardon with guest, Don Rossetti, compiling 270 points.

Here are the players scoring above average, no mean accomplishment in itself:

Farida Rouchdy and Blair Hawley	282
John Reardon and Don Rossetti	270
Rose Hickey and Don Rossetti	258½
Ellen Schofield and Guy Mingolelli	256½
James Curley and Ben Drinkwater	254½
Barbara Shea and Margaret Jackson	250
Edward Sullivan and Richard Herlihy	244½
Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lorris	244
Addie Mingolelli and Nancy Atkinson	235½
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sittinger	234
Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, Jr.	234
Steve Haseltine and Carl Galante	233½
Gerry Lawrence and Donna Redpath	231½
Ruth Bibby and Ruth Hagen	231½
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cincotta, Jr.	226
Mrs. James Byrne and Mrs. William Duryea	225
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith	223½
Mr. and Mrs. Everett Knox	217½
Norman Houlding and Lawrence Hayes	216
David Littleton and Stephen Root	213
Dr. and Mrs. Robert Blackler	210

The following is not so much a hand of the week as it is a story about the player of the week. And, insomuch as a picture is said to be worth a thousand words, I shall try to paint you a picture of a lady whom I came to know as Farida.

I first saw her approaching me gracefuly across the golden sands in the gathering dusk of an Egyptian sunset. I had been waiting for some time at the desert rail-end known as El-Wedg-Mir station pondering the cablegram which had brought me there:

"Unable to participate Open Pairs. . .am sending representative."

The message was signed "Sanderson" and postmarked Kuwait, Persian Gulf.

It was only after she had gently touched my arm and inquired my name that I realized that this delightful apparition was indeed the 'represetntative' whom I had traveled so far to meet. Her fingers were long yet delicate, her skin deeply tanned yet soft. The cablegram slipped from my hand to be lost forever in the restless sirocco.

Some time later, the amenities behind us, we were seated together discussing our convention card. When I inquired "What shall we play," and she replied "Whatever is your pleasure," I knew that my heart was lost forever.

As the evening progressed, the pressure mounted, as is only natural in an Open Pairs Championship. When board 14 arrived, there also arrived at our table an opponent who had earned more master points this year than I expect to see in a lifetime. The contract was three no trump and I was considerably relieved to find myself as dummy.

Had I known that three no trump had just gone down one at the last table and that Farida was destined to play this hand in such a way as to win only one spade trick, I would have been happy to settle out of court for an average score and be done with it!

But she just gave me an enigmatic little smile and went to work. West, holding a sure outside entry in the ace of diamonds, gambled on the opening lead of a heart, but that was only the beginning. I'm not sure I'll ever really understand how Farida made six no trump on this, but then I'm not in her league. As she explained it, there was something about a pseudo-squeeze against East (to get him to drop one diamond while she ran clubs), but, in the process, she unblocked dummy's diamond suit by playing the 9 and 6 first so that she could run the suit (having, obviously, no other entry to the South hand at that stage in the proceedings).

A recent editorialist in this column moved to Athens. If you'd like to contact me, however, please check the postal rates to Cairo.

Recreation Project

NEW SWIM CLUB FACILITY construction is well under way as site development work on the $85,000 privately financed recreation project progresses rapidly. Begun in mid-November, after a two-year membership drive and the overcoming of legal entanglements with abutters over zoning, the new family recreational facility is due to be completed in May.

Days Are Shorter

Days are shorter during the winter months, which means that more driving occurs during darkness. So, it is important to pay more attention to your vehicles "seeing system"...its headlights, taillights, directional signals, windshield wipers, and defrosters.

Mechanical Ski Slope Going At Edelweiss

The Edelweiss Ski Shop, attractive new Route 28 ski center for equipment sales and rentals, including trades, is announcing adult and teen ski classes to take place rain or shine, powder or slush, on its new "Ski-Dek."

"Ski-Dek" is an indoor slope, continuously on the move mechanically. It has a special synthetic surface equal to two inches of powder on a good snowbase and you can practice every kind of ski maneuver on it, according to reports, at speeds from 2 to 20 miles per hour.

The package price for both adult and teen (under 15) classes includes one and a half hours of indoor lessons plus one and a half hours of lessons outdoors as a follow-up. All information can be had by calling (944-5347) at the shop on Route 28, Reading, not far from the center.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

"This year," says a prominent industrial official, "the average American firm will spend over 1% of net sales on an investment which is almost certain to lose money."

A bad investment? "Not at all. It is one of the most conservative and rewarding expenditures that any firm can make, for we are speaking of INSURANCE . . . protection for the company's property, profits and people."

So says Eugene Aldridge, insurance manager of Texas Instruments Incorporated. He adds, "For most firms, this investment will continue to lose money . . . year after year. Yet it is the planned 'loss' which encourages management to concentrate their efforts on the normal activities of the entrepreneur."

Modern business recognizes the importance of insurance. It realizes insurance serves WELL, even if few losses occur, by providing the priceless ingredients of protection, security, and peace of mind.

A well-planned Insurance Program will prove to be a sound investment for you as well. May we discuss a "personalized" program with YOU?

For the Mails Last Time Round

Assistant Postmaster in Charge Alfred W. Barnard today rang the bell, reminding residents of Winchester that this is the last round for Christmas mailings.

All out-of-town Christmas gifts and greeting cards should be deposited in the mails by Thursday to be absolutely sure they will arrive at their destination on time.

So far the day with the highest volume of mail in December has been December 12 when 48,000 pieces of mail was dispatched through the Winchester Post Office. Assistant Postmaster Barnard estimated that mail volume to date is running about 5 per cent below the same period last year.

Nationwide it is expected that more than eight billion pieces of mail will be delivered just before Christmas - a new record.

Locally the service windows are now open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily, and these windows will be open on Saturday, December 17, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday, December 18, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Extra collections have been scheduled, extra dispatches have been added to expedite the mails, so get those parcels and cards into the Post Office NOW, and be assured of a pre-Christmas delivery.

SEMICONDUCTOR DEVICE ENGINEER

The central Research Laboratory has urgent need for a senior semiconductor engineer interested in new devices and familiar with planar technology. This position provides an outstanding opportunity for an imaginative engineer to create new semiconductor technology for microwave applications. As a member of an experienced team of material, microwave circuit, and device scientists and engineers, he will have an opportunity to explore new design and fabrication approaches to high frequency devices for microwave integrated circuits.

This is a key position in a long-range research program providing ample opportunity to make important contributions and for individual growth in this important and promising new research area. Minimum requirements are a B.S. in engineering or science, and several years of experience in semiconductor research and development including silicon planar technology.

Raytheon offers both an excellent salary with outstanding fringe benefits, and a stimulating environment of colleagues who have established an enviable record in solid state research.

A CHANCE TO HELP

Many elderly and infirm persons, as well as those with small children and limited incomes, need help at Christmas if this holiday is to be a happy occasion in accordance with the American tradition.

To help our less fortunate Winchester friends during the holiday season, gifts of money, food and clothing are earnestly solicited.

Gifts may be sent to the Winchester Community Relief Committee.

New Hymnals For Methodists

Sunday evening at seven o'clock a Family Night Song Fest will be held at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. The principal feature of the service will be the introduction and use for the first time of the newly published official hymnal of The Methodist Church, the first edition of which was three million copies.

The pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, will direct the singing and Miss Joyce Redling will be at the organ.

The song fest will be in three parts with old familiar hymns, hymns appearing for the first time in a Methodist hymnal and, finally, a group of Christmas Carols.

The service is being sponsored by the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship whose members will serve refreshments in Gifford Hall following the service.

The Junior High Youth Fellowship is sponsoring the "Toys for Tots" program this Christmas. They will receive donations of toys and paint, repair and otherwise refurbish them so that little folk who might not otherwise receive a toy this Christmas will be cared for. This Sunday is the last date that toys can be received for this purpose because so little time is left for working on them.

Christmas Safety

Even the family trash can should merit some attention at Christmas time, for it should be kept handy and busy after gifts are unwrapped. The Institute for Safer Living says flammable wrappings and other household trash should be disposed of without delay. The flicker of a candle, a lighted match, or a glowing cigarette in a littered room may quickly turn joy into grief.

Forum to Hear Rabbi Rothman

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman of Temple Shalom, Newton, will be the chapel speaker at the Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church on Sunday, December 18.

Rabbi Rothman received his A.B. degree in the field of social science and his rabbinical education at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati, Ohio. He served in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania at Rodef Shalom Temple, one of the oldest and largest liberal Jewish congregations in the U. S. and at present he is vice president of the Mass. Board of Rabbis and president of the Newton Clergy Association. He has been the spiritual leader of Temple Shalom since 1954.

Chaplains for this service will be Joyce Kell and Sally Weedon, deacons Becki Irwin and Wendy Nelson and ushers Hillary Hosmer and Ted Shasta.

Richard Kimball and Donna Starrak, social chairmen, have been making the final arrangements for the Mistletoe Dance which will be held in Chidley Hall on Friday, December 23 at 8 p.m. Phil O'Shea and his band have been engaged. Past and present Forumites and their friends are invited to join in this annual event which ushers in the holiday season.

On Christmas Eve at 7 p.m. Forum members will gather at the common to sing Christmas carols with other townspeople. From there they will go by bus on their carolling tour to shut-in and elderly persons. Their happy young voices spread the good-news in true holiday spirit. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hall will be hosts at a "Warm-Up" in Chidley Fireside following the tour and prior to the 11 p.m. candlelight service at which the Forum choir will join with the Youth choir. The religious observance of Christmas Day begins with this meaningful and inspiring service. All young people home for the holidays are most cordially welcome.

Square Dance Is Saturday

The Baldwin Apple Square Dance Club announces its second annual Christmas square dance for beginner square dancers who have had ten lessons or more, on December 17 from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Tarkey School, Russell Street, (near the Four Corners).

The caller for the evening will be Bob Burwell. We are hoping to make this dance an even greater success than last year. For further information please call 272-9547.

Fund Starts For New Building At Woburn Y

The Greater Boston Y.M.C.A. has just announced a $2,650,000 capital fund campaign for the area and that the Woburn Y will be a co-sponsor of the drive and can look to be the recipient of $850,000 for the construction of a new facility. The announcement was made by A. H. Parker, chairman of the fund drive and chairman also of the Board of the Old Colony Trust Company.

DON S. GREER

The new facility will include full gymnasium, swimming pool, administrative unit, locker rooms for men, women, boys and girls, and a health club facility. The communities of Woburn, Winchester and Burlington are to be served by the new Woburn facility.

FREDERICK STOCKWELL

Carl G. Roessler, president of General Ship and Engine Works, will be the chairman of the Woburn, Winchester, Burlington section of the campaign. He has already recruited Don Greer of 82 Arlington Street, Frederick Stockwell of 6 Ledgewood Road, and James Mawn of Woburn, to serve on the Steering Committee. Several other local men will be asked to serve on this Campaign Steering Committee. This group will direct the campaign in the three communities to provide their share of the $2,650,000.

It is expected that when the building is completed, the total construction cost will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

The first American-made golf balls, tennis balls, and footballs were produced by a Massachusetts manufacturer of sporting goods.

Y. R. to Review Election Results

What happened during the November elections and why?

These will be the topics of discussion for the December Winchester Young Republican meeting. An examination will be made of the results both at the national and state level. Much has been written and said since November concerning trends and the future of the Republican Party, and these will be of concern to all members of the party.

Especially welcome will be any new or prospective young members who may want to add their impressions or opinions. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday, December 15, at the East Room of the Town Hall.

Mrs. Goodfellow, Mr. Petralia Are Named to Faculty At Northeastern

Mrs. Olga B. Goodfellow of 16 Webster Street and Guy A. Petralia of 16 Indian Hill Road, both of Winchester, have been appointed to the faculty of Northeastern University. Mrs. Goodfellow, formerly associated with Boston University, has been named assistant professor of nursing.

Mr. Petralia formerly associated with the Arlington school system, has been appointed assistant professor of education.

Mrs. Goodfellow attended the St. Francis School of Nursing, Hartford, Conn., and earned a bachelor's degree from Columbia University and a master's degree from Boston University. She is a member of the National League for Nursing, the American Nurses Association and active in the Girl Scouts. Mrs. Goodfellow is the wife of J. Roy Goodfellow, and they have two children.

Mr. Petralia earned his bachelor's degree from Boston University and holds master's degrees from B.U. and Harvard University. He is a member of the National Education Association, former di-rector of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association and president of the Arlington Teachers' Association. Prof. Petralia is married and the father of two children.

Mystic Parents, Pupils Are Active

Mrs. Thomas M. Kivney of 371 Highland Avenue was hostess for the first teachers' luncheon of the year.

The guest list included Raymond Dickman, principal, Mrs. Anne Dreano, secretary, Mrs. Frederick Zappala, president of Mystic Mothers' Association, Mrs. Robert Armstrong, chairman of teachers' luncheons, as well as the teaching staff and the practice teachers of the Mystic School. In the midst of proprations for the holiday season, everyone enjoyed Mrs. Kivney's gracious hospitality and delicious luncheon.

Mystic School parents and friends are anticipating the Christmas assembly on the afternoon of December 20, which will be presented by grades 1 through 4. The theme of this year's presentation will be Symbols of Christmas. The children will be wearing the red and green collars which were made and donated by the Mystic Mothers Association this year. Mrs. Donald Chipman, one of our Mystic mothers, is assisting Miss Natalie Bellows and Mrs. Eleanor Thistlethwaite of the music department, in staging the production. Miss Marguerite Maserian is doing all the art work for the program.

A Massachusetts company produced the first commercial pinsetter for bowling alleys. The first installation was in Fitchburg.

Talented Xmas Shoppers Meet

County Tax Levies Jump $3 Million

Mrs. Irene K. Thresher of Cambridge, recently elected County Commissioner, issued a statement recently listing the large increases in assessments on cities and towns, showing that Winchester's assessment jumped from $212,792 in 1965 to $284,714 in 1966.

Mrs. Thresher, former State Representative from the 5th Middlesex district in Newton and a former member of the House Ways and Means Committee, questions the appropriations for Middlesex County for the past 15 years.

From 1950 through 1956 the appropriations for county expenditures varied only slightly from year to year, beginning in 1950 with the amount of $3,870,809. This amount rose gradually to the amount of $5,673,289. in 1956. But from 1957 the increase rose markedly until in 1966 the cost of Middlesex County operations jumped to $11,213,650.

The County Commissioners assess each one of the 11 cities and 43 towns in the county for their share of the county expenses. This is one more assessment on the local city and town governments over which they have no jurisdiction.

The tax levies on the cities and towns sky-rocketed from $8,799,871. in 1965 to $11,774,119. in 1966. Mrs. Thresher believes that the taxpayers in the cities and towns need to be alerted to this extraordinary draft on their resources, and should raise questions as to whether these county expenditures are essential.

Ninety percent of the employees of a successful Massachusetts electronics company are handicapped persons.

Echoes From The Past

Astronomical observations made by the Japanese and Chinese astronomers a thousand years or more ago are used by scientists today in astronomical research to support current theories of the origin of the stars and of the universe itself.

In 1054 A.D., oriental astronomers noticed the appearance of a new bright star in the heavens—known today as the Crab Nebula—a supernova.

A supernova is a star that explodes, possibly through a hydrogen bomb kind of reaction, and becomes brighter by as much as a trillion times. These super-explosions are exceedingly rare; within our own Milky Way only one has occurred (that we know about) since 1604.

In 1949, using radiotelescopes whose antennas pick up radio emissions from space, astronomers found that the Crab Nebula was a radio source. An important hypothesis emerged: when a star explodes to form a nebula, both light and radio waves are given off. Since the radio telescope "sees" the skies in a way that the human eye cannot, substantiation of this hypothesis requires comparison of current sites of radio emission with ancient records that tell us when a new "star" appeared.

Xi Ze-zong and Po Shu-jen of the Chinese Academy in Shanghai, writing in the November 4 issue of Science, trace the history of confirmed astronomical events recorded since the 14th century before Christ, and relate these events to modern radioastronomy findings.

Clear Vision

Good visibility is the first step to safe driving...especially in winter. Check your ice-sight: Be sure your windshield wipers have live blades, proper tension, and do not streak. Good defrosters are vital in winter...if they aren't in top shape, get them fixed. When rain and snow turn to ice, use a scraper to clear the windshield. Brush all snow off your car, including that on the lights, hood and roof, and front, back and side windows. Wipe windshields thoroughly to eliminate streaks after using commercial spray de-icers. Japanese Way Of Life At Mystic

The second graders in Miss Eileen Cummings' class at Mystic School got a taste of the Far East by learning how to eat rice Japanese style with chopsticks recently.

While the class waited for everyone to be served, they sang a soft and lilting Japanese song they had learned. Dressed in Japanese kimonos Miss Cummings and Miss Sally Johnson, student teacher from Jackson College, helped the children with the technique of chopstick transfer of rice from bowls to small mouths.

The children have been studying Japan in the new social studies curriculum recently introduced in Winchester. Second graders now study foreign countries from the viewpoint of the child. Focus is on similarities and differences in clothing, toys, and food. In addition, the children have a small Japanese vocabulary.

Despite all caution and concerted efforts at coordinating the sticks, a thorough rice cleanup was necessary before the class viewed filmstrips of Japanese family life.

The real life lesson in Japanese table manners was made possible by the parents of class member, Robie Quinn, who gave each child a pair of chopsticks.

Hessler Completes 50th Management Program at HBS

Ormond M. Hessler of 30 Winslow Road, general manager - sales and marketing, B. F. Goodrich Footwear Co., Watertown, was graduated December 9 from the Advanced Management Program (AMP) of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration as a member of the "golden" 50th AMP Class.

The graduation followed a special day-long symposium December 8, on "The Changing Patterns of Executive Leadership," celebrating the completion of 50 sessions of the world's oldest and largest university executive development program and featuring some of the nation's top business leaders. James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will be the principal speaker at the graduation exercises.

The 50th AMP Class is composed of 160 executives from 135 companies in the United States and abroad, as well as from the military services and other government agencies. They come from 31 of the United States and the District of Columbia and 15 foreign countries representing every continent. The 13 - week - long program is designated to provide mature executives with an over-view of business administration and prepare them for the broad responsibilities of core management.

Many Here Make Yuletide Fun Fest A Fine Success for Garden Club

Members of the Winchester Home and Garden Club greatly expended their efforts to support their club's civic programs by making the Yuletide Fun Fest a success.

The sale and card party proceeds evidence a large addition to the funds available for the club projects including the 1966 project: a course of study in nature education and conservation for the teachers of Winchester.

Chairmen of the fair were Mrs. Edmund Wright, Mrs. Gail Wisbach and Mrs. Harwood Boynton who worked unceasingly to make this event a success.

Members responded to the calls for contributions to the bake, Christmas decorations and boutique tables enthusiastically and abundantly. The phoning team was ably handled by Mrs. Henry Padula, Mrs. Edward Kawa and Mrs. Thomas Magoun who among themselves called every member of the club for contributions.

Mrs. Philip Boone, as card party and dessert ticket chairman, handled the sale of tickets and reservation of card tables. Mrs. Robert Baylies and Mrs. Robert Nyere assisted Mrs. Boone with the ticket table during the fair.

Hadley Hall in the Church of the Epiphany offered a kaleidoscope of colors and scents. Wreaths for sale, decorated beautifully by Mrs. Granville Gilpatrick, wafted pine perfume to set the holiday mood. Sale tables met the eyes of the shoppers first entering.

The Christmas decorations and boutique table was heaped with treasures for the eager shoppers. A large part of the table's abundance of handmade Christmas decorations were the collective work of three tireless and very talented members: Mrs. Michael Boodakian, Mrs. Harwood Boynton and Mrs. George McFadden. Members helping to sell these decorations and unusual and lovely boutique items were Mrs. Michael Boodakian, Mrs. Henry Delaney and Mrs. Kezar Nichols.

The bake table, always a favorite with gourmet shoppers, was headed by Mrs. Edward Kawa and assisted by Mrs. Henry Padula, Mrs. Adolph Alla and Mrs. Thomas Magoun.

The ingredients table, groaning with natural dried materials for do - it - yourself decorations was manned by Mrs. John Chipman, Mrs. Alexander Aitken and Mrs. George McFadden. Mrs. Joseph Vaccaro took up her post to turn bolts of ribbon into bows for wreaths.

The bridge-dessert section was charmingly fringed by red satin ribbon threaded through wrought iron lamps. Two attractive green and gold arrangements by Mrs. Gerald Hills were placed on tables for all to enjoy. The card tables, covered with silvered green foil, were each centered with a pastel pink or green candle made by Mrs. Edmund Wright and Mrs. G. Gale Wisbach and were the winner's trophy of each bridge game.

All enjoyed the delicious dessert planned and ordered by Mrs. Arthur Bird, social chairman. Waitresses, under the direction of Mrs. Edmund Wright and Mrs. G. Gale Wisbach were: Mrs. Edward Devlin, Mrs. Frank DeTeso, Mrs. George Lemay, Mrs. Richard Keppler, Mrs. David Karp, Mrs. John Tobey, Mrs. Laurence Lougee, Mrs. John Elliott and Mrs Arthur Watkins.

Before the bridge games officially started the door prizes, donated by Renton's Market, Frederick McCormack of McMormack's Apothecary and Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and the area rug donated by Michael Boodakian were awarded by Mrs. Edmund Wright.

Members left the fair arms piled high with bundles and eyes shining with Christmas spirit.

If an approaching driver fails to dim his lights at night, flick your lights once as a reminder, but don't fight glare with glare. Slow down, keep your eyes on the shoulder or lane guide line, and avoid looking directly into his lights.

MOTHER'S RING
GB 14 KARAT
GB 14 KARAT

THE NAME IS REGISTERED THE DESIGN IS PATENTED

Twin bands of solid 14 Karat Gold to recall her wedding day . . . with a lustrous synthetic stone of the month to mark the birthday of each of her children

The gift that captures forever the memories she'll never forget

How proudly she'll wear it! Each glance, each touch will re-live again those unforgettable moments of happiness that are so intimately hers. Here is a gift that every mother will cherish . . . for each ring is individually fashioned to profile one mother's own particular memories . . . her marriage, her family, her life.

There is only one Mother's Ring. It is so distinctive, so unique, it has been awarded U. S. Patent #186,183. Ask for it by name, confirm it by its identifying tag.

Three Graduating In Nursing

At graduation exercises held Sunday afternoon at the Addison Gilbert Hospital School for Practical Nurses in Gloucester, three young women from Winchester received their diplomas.

MISS MARIE L. McDONALD

The girls were: Miss Catherine Stewart Corkery, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dee of 11 Fairmount Stree; Miss Phyllis Ann Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Kennedy, Jr. of 32 Oak Street; and Miss Marie Louise McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of 2 Russell Road.

MISS PHYLLIS A. KENNEDY

All are 1965 graduates of the Winchester High School and all started their 15 months' course a year ago September. Each plans to take the State Board examination in mid January which will license her in the field of practical nursing.

MISS CATHERINE S. CORKERY

Miss Corkery plans to start her nursing career at the Winchester Hospital. Both Miss Kennedy and Miss McDonald will return to Addison Gilbert Hospital to work. Miss Kennedy has served as president and Miss McDonald as treasurer of the graduating class.

Les Troubadours For Crittenton

The December meeting of the Florence Crittenton Senior Circle will be an especially interesting and entertaining one. Christmas music will be sung by Winchester's "Les Troubadours," and there will be a birthday celebration in honor of the Circle's 50th year.

Members and friends are cordially invited to attend on Friday, December 16 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Shepard Pond, 2 Salisbury Street.

Do Your Xmas Shopping At The Market Place

Thinking of how nice a new color TV set would look in your living room this Christmas and New Year's for the color shows (over 90% of current TV programming) and for many years to come? The Winchester Appliance Store at 15 Thompson Street has a showroom full of colorful new color TV sets ready for the TV owner viewer who knows what he wants in quality. Telephone 729-2990 for information, an appointment to see the set of your choice, or even just for same day service on your old set.

One terrific Christmas gift idea for women is cosmetics, and O'Neil's Pharmacy at 294 Washington Street is the place to look for just the right kind of perfume, hairspray, or other cosmetic. Shoppers are welcome to browse to find "the perfect one for ......," and Paul O'Neil says he is always happy to help customers find what they are looking for, and give helpful advice if needed. O'Neil's also carries many other Christmas gift items, such as a handsome traveling shave kit for men. Stop in and see why many gift hunters go to O'Neil's first.

For the family car a Christmas gift idea—new Firestone tires for the winter months ahead......the tire with the dependable tread. Or, why not give a gas and oil gift certificate as a practical present to one who likes to drive the family car or who does a lot of driving. F. H. Keenan's Jenney Service Station at 12 Swanton Street stands ready to be of service to its customers, including Christmas shoppers who are looking for practical gift ideas.

For the car owner a visit to Davidson Chevrolet at 127-137 Main Street in Medford might turn up some useful and needed auto accessories such as vanity mirrors, car trash bags, spotlights, etc. Telephone EX 6-7500 for information, ideas and prices. They also have new cars in stock for Nieman Marcus type gifters.

Johnson's Wallpaper Shop at 747 Main Street has distinctive wallpaper designs to fit every decor, style and taste, Select from a wide variety of colors and styles and fashions the best wallpaper for a room in your house—or give a Christmas gift certificate allowing the one of your choice to choose a choice selection.

Christmas parties? For great hors d'oeuyres, chips and dips, snacks or full meal suggestions and supplies, Arthur Leland, new proprietor at Ward's Market at 19 Thompson Street, has just the right ideas and furnishings to make Christmas and New Year Season's parties easier and tastier!

For plumbing and heating installations, repairs and supplies during the winter months, H. L. Wood Company stands ready with 24-hour-a-day service for its customers. Herbert Wood, master plumber, specializes in residential, commercial and industrial plumbing and heating work in Winchester.

Robert Merenda reports that one of his customers last year gave his wife a Christmas presetnt of having a bathroom tiled in any style she chose, and she has been happy with the present all year. "It's a practical gift idea," Mr. Merenda says, "and it's one that a lot of homeowners consider because of its improvement to the home in a way that can be appreciated year 'round." Mr. Merenda's expert workmanship in linoleum and ceramic tile is well known in Winchester, and free estimates or orders on jobs can be made by telephoning 729-2802.

Registry Files Safety Bills For Road And Driver

Motor Vehicles Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin has filed a near-record number of more than 50 petitions for action by the 1967 session of the General Court.

McLaughlin's proposals ranged over the entire scope of Massachusetts motor vehicle law and highway safety. Several of the Registrar's most important bills had been under consideration by the 1966 Legislature and had nearly gained approval when the Legislature suddenly prorogued on Labor Day.

The 1967 legislative program for the Registry proposes new laws as follows:

That the "Implied Consent" statute be enacted, requiring those arrested for drunken driving to undergo the official breath test or, if they refuse, to lose their licenses for six months;

That convicted drunken drivers lose their automobile registrations as well as the licenses;

That the fines for drunken driving be increased from the present range of $35 up to $1,000 to a new minimum of $200 and a maximum of $2,000;

That Massachusetts motorists convicted of drunken driving outside the Commonwealth be subject to the same penalties as are in effect for this offense within Massachusetts;

That "scofflaws" who drive after suspension or revocation of their licenses shall have their cars seized and held in police custody at the owner's expense for prescribed periods of time; (this bill is modelled on an even more severe Virginia law which provides for the confiscation of such vehicles and for sale by the State.)

That the State be authorized to establish minimum as well as maximum speed limits and differential speed limits for daylight and darkness;

That the first license issued to a motorist shall be a "beginner's license" and that any violation or culpable accident during the first license period shall result in revocation and new testing before a new license could be issued;

That all ambulance operators and attendants be required to possess valid Red Cross First Aid certificates;

That a staggered system of automobile registrations be established. Registration renewals would be tied to the first day of the month in which the registrant was born. This would eliminate the gigantic annual renewal rush on New Year's Day and, in addition, prove much more convenient for motorists. The new five-year number plate facilitates the proposed staggered system of registrations;

That mechanics and motor vehicle repair shops be licensed and regulated by the Commonwealth for the protection of the motoring public;

That the present law be amended to enable the Registrar to provide special supervision for drivers from age 70 including annual medical certificate and annual license renewal;

That motorcycle operators be required to wear protective helmets;

That school buses contain adequate seating for all passengers and no children allowed to stand while the bus is in motion;

That all law enforcement personnel of the Registry be granted the full police powers which are presently granted to only one branch of the Registry's uniformed force;

That photographic drivers license be provided for Massachusetts motorists and that such licenses be extended from two to four years before renewal;

That a Medical Advisory Board be established within the Registry to advise and assist the Registrar concerning physical qualifications of drivers and to pass on appeals by motorists deemed physically unqualified to operate;

That an exterior rear view mirror be required on all motor vehicles in order to provide greater safety;

That the required period for automobile lights be extended to include not only the ancient "one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise" (completely unrealistic during the winter months of the year) but also at any time when darkness or bad weather limit visibility;

That "arrest without warrant" be authorized in "hit and run" cases;

That the car theft law be broadened so that the Registrar may revoke not only the licenses of car thieves but also of those receiving the stolen vehicles;

That use of automobile telephones be prohibited by the driver of a vehicle in motion excepting for emergency vehicles such as police, fire, or ambulances;

That passengers be prohibited in house trailers while the trailer is in motion on the highway.

Nearly 40 other bills filed by Registrar McLaughlin relate to technical changes and updating of the motore vehicle law and to eliminating conflicting or ambiguous provisions of the motor vehicle code.

Elected to Office At Colby Jr. Coll.

Miss Karen B. Horley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald W. Horley of 3 Webster Street, has recently been elected secretary of the freshman class at Colby Junior College, New London, New Hampshire.

Army Offers Full Tuition On ROTC Schol'ships

The Army is now accepting applications for the 800 four-year scholarships to be awarded young men entering college next fall and enrolling in ROTC.

Applications must be postmarked no later than January 15, 1967.

Awards will be based on scholastic standing, physical qualifications, leadership potential, and other personal qualifications.

The scholarships will be valid at any of 247 colleges and universities offering Army ROTC. Each scholarship includes full tuition, textbooks and lab fees, and $50 a month living allowance for four years of college.

Applications and detailed information may be obtained by writing to: ROTC Scholarship, First U. S. Army, Fort Meade, Md. 20755.

Live

People are in a holiday mood at this time of the year. There are parties everywhere. It is everyone's right to make merry and drink, if he wishes. But it is not the right of a motorist to drink and to drive—so, if you plan to drink, do not plan to drive. LIVE to enjoy the rest of the holidays.

Hurrying Danger

The dangers of hurry, drink fatigue and inattention cannot be overemphasized, especially during this holiday season. Fatigue can be fatal at the wheel. When you begin to feel drowsy, stop—and don't continue until you're wide awake. Driving demands your full attention.

Fire Chief Amico Reminds of Fire Prevention Rules at Christmastime

Fire Chief I. Francis Amico has sent the Star his annual Christmas message concerning safety precautions at this season and the many phases of fires caused at Christmas time.

He strongly urges that all residents be extra cautious during the holiday weeks since the hazards of fire in the home are greatly increased.

He wishes to remind residents that care should be exercised in selecting a Christmas tree; of the importance of safety among smokers who gather at various homes during the holiday season; of the necessity for parents to insist that toys purchased are safe; of the need for an adequately operating heating system and other safety tips.

"By using ordinary care," he said "we can do our part to hold down the annual tragic toll."

He urged residents to select their Christmas tree with caution, reminding them to keep it out of doors until ready to place it in its stand. "Keep it in a pail of water if possible as a freshly cut tree will "drink" and help keep itself fresh and green."

Trees should be erected in the coolest part of the room, away from radiators, hot air ducts, heaters and fireplaces.

Many people go about placing lights on their homes and on trees from year to year without really making a thorough check on their condition. Wires should be checked as well as sockets of Christmas tree lights several days before decorating the tree.

Don't ever say—"oh well, they'll be good enough for this year." Carelessness such as this could lead to tragic circumstances.

Chief Amico said there has been a trend in recent years to get away from the fresh cut tree in favor of a metal tree of some sort. "Never decorate metal Christmas trees with lights as there is always the danger of an electrical shock or short circuit, which could lead to a fire. There are other ways of beautifying this type of tree, but they never should have wires or lights.

Lights should never be left burning all night long, the Fire Chief said, and positively should not be left illuminated while away from the home for long periods of time.

His safety warning includes the Christmas Eve and Christmas Day periods and deal with the disposal of Christmas wrappings.

In closing Chief Amico issued the following warning:

IN CASE OF FIRE IN THE HOME—Quickly get everyone out of the house. Call the Fire Department at 729-1800 or use the nearest Fire Alarm box. (Be sure everyone in the house knows how to call the Fire Department.)

IN CASE OF FIRE AT PUBLIC GATHERINGS—Walk, do not run, to the nearest exit. Call the Fire Department immediately. Keep calm.

Chief Amico and the members of his department extend their season's greetings to all residents of town and urge them to keep safety in mind at all times.

Play, Brass, Voices for WHS

"Christmas is a Time for Giving," an original program created by Curtain and Cue drama club members, will be presented for the public at 8 p.m. Friday, December 16. Christmas at Winchester Senior High School will include performonces by the musical organizations and drama group.

The scenes of the play are woven together by the cartoon characters, Charley Brown and Lucy, who act as commentators. With guidance from Miss Judith St. Jean the narrative was written by Debbie Dillon and David Andresen; Toyshop scene by Sharon Butterworth, Lisa Johns, Patricia Coleman, Martha Rooney; Scrooge scene by Glen Johnson, Marsha Chase; Gift of the Magi pantomime by Hilary Hosmer, Sharon Wilkinson; Commercialism scene by Jane Sexton; Nativity scene by Polly Lanigan, Nancy Cronin, Carole Duran, Cheryl Ferguson, Donal Murphy.

Included in the cast are: Laura Winsor, Brian MacDonald, Sandy King, Sharon Butterworth, Eddie Marcey, Jane Genster, Debbie Dillon, Dean Gallant, Chip Hemmingsen, Jane Sexton, David Andresen, Glen Johnson, Allison Orton, David Barid, Gina Harwood and Lisa Yapp. Exchange students Maria Christina Lopez, Maria Amparo Cadavid, and Michiko Nakajima also are in the play.

Participating in the musical part of the program will be the Girl's Glee Club of 37 voices. They will open the evening with a group of new and familiar Christmas songs. Other groups performing will be the High School orchestra, Girl's Double Sextette, a brass quartet, and the Concert Choir with Meredith Anderson as accompanist. All music is conducted by Wendell S. Withington.

Airman England To Kessler AFB

Airman Lawrence R. England Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. England of 5 Country Lane, has been selected for technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss., as a U.S. Air Force communications-electronics specialist.

AIRMAN LAWRENCE R. ENGLAND, JR.

The airman recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. His new school is part of the Air Training Command which conducts hundreds of specialized courses to provide technically trained personnel for the nation's aerospace force.

Airman England, a 1960 graduate of New Hamp (N.H.) Preparatory High School, attended Roanoke College at Salem, Va., and Boston Architectural School.

Children's Helps 54 Here in Year

More than 54 children from Winchester were among 50,000 infants and youngsters who received medical care at The Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston during the 12 months ended last September 30, the pediatric hospital has announced.

Dr. Leonard W. Cronkhite, Jr., general director at Children's, said a record number of patients were treated during the year, an annual tabulation has revealed.

Of the 50,000 youngsters cared for at Children's, almost 12,008 were hospitalized for surgery or medical attention. The remainder were treated in one or more of the hospital's 50 out-patient clinics.

The greatest number of patients were in the two to 12-year age span, with the second greatest number in the newborn to two-year-old category. The hospital accepts patients up to 21 years of age.

Stoneham Rotary Sponsors Special Boy Scout Troop

"On my honor, I will do my best, to do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout Law; To help other people at all times; To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

This boy scout oath means a great deal to a group of boys from Troop 534, a unique troop, comprised of retarded boys from 12 years of age up. There is no age limit for these scouts.

Their dedicated leader, Thomas Basti of Burlington started the troop in 1958 and it has progressed enthusiastically through the years.

Sponsored by the Stoneham Rotary, meetings are held every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at EMARC's Training Center, 19 Campbell Street, Woburn for boys from Woburn, Winchester, Wilmington, Wakefield, Burlington, Stoneham, Reading, North Reading, and Melrose.

Although the boys do not work for merit badges, they have a varied and interesting program. Knot tying, crafts and skills, sing alongs and games keep the boys active. They also learn to read a compass, fold the flag and the many techniques used in first aid. Last summer they had many outings at Harold Parker State Park learning the intricate details of pitching a tent and the many duties that are involved with outdoor living. They also took many hikes on those outings and learned many interesting things about nature.

"There is plenty of room in our troop for more boys," Mr. Basti explained at a recent meeting. Interested parents should contact him at 933-0418.

Marketing Goes International

American companies are going international in a big way, and "Marketing on the Move" explains why, Monday, December 19 at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

Three men whose companies are at the forefront of international expansion tell host and Harvard Business Review Editor Edward Bursk that the opportunities overseas are limitless and far outweigh the risks.

Taking part are Gene E. Bradley, manager of international government relations for the General Electric Corp.; Norman L. Cahners, chairman of Cahners Publishing Co.; and William Morton, vice president of the Sheraton Corporation of America.

All three agree international ventures must be a partnership, often with the United States company playing a minor role. The key words are sensitivity and partnership; without them companies who go international will surely fail, all agree.

"Marketing Goes International," the sixth program in "Marketing on the Move," is originated and made possible by a grant from The Bresnick Company, Inc., Advertising and is presented by Channel 2 in cooperation with the Harvard Business Review.

Benjamin Gerold

Benjamin Gerold, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gerold, Jr., of Elbow Rock Road, Chepachet, Rhode Island, died on November 13, 1966, after a three-month illness. He was two years old on August 15th.

Mrs. Gerold, the former Carol Ashenden of 99 Pond Street, wishes to thank all her Winchester friends who gave blood for Ben. The baby was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Ashenden, Jr.

Save the Children Federation Aids With Sponsorships

Mrs. Daniel T. Gallagher has just returned to Saudi Arabia after spending a pleasant vacation with the Woodcocks of 12 Sussex Road.

Mrs. Gallagher made another visit this fall to another part of the world — to an eleven-year-old Greek girl in Corinth, Greece. Panagiota Karavas has known Mrs. Gallagher for more than half of her young life through the sponsorship program of Save the Children Federation of Norwalk, Connecticut, but the meeting in Corinth was the first in-person contact that the two have had.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Gallagher, Panagiota has been provided with all the necessary clothing and supplies required of a young girl since she began her schooling. And the material and moral support will enable her to break away from the ties of poverty which bind the future of the uneducated adult. The entire five-member Karavas family has also received support from Mrs. Gallagher.

Greece is but one of the countries in which young people are helped through Save the Children Federation. Founded in 1932, the Federation aids children, their families and communities in the Southern Appalachian Mountains, on American Indian reservations and in many countries overseas, through the sponsorship program, an international self-help scholarship fund and an annual collection of used clothing for the children of Appalachia. The Federation is registered with the U.S. State Department Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreigm Aid and is a member of the International Union for Child Welfare.

Biological Material On Meteorites

Presence of certain kinds of organic material in meteorites is considered as evidence of extraterrestrial origin of life processes. Two questions need answers: Is the material of biological origin? If it is, are biological processes going on in space, or is the presence of organic material simply due to contamination by organic material after the meteorite struck the earth?

One physical characteristic of organic compounds produced by biological processes is that of optical activity—the twisting of a beam of polarized light as it passes through the substance. Science reports recent analyses of meteorites that show the presence of optically active organic material, most of it on the surface of the meteorites.

Similar analyses of rocks from the earth showed that almost identical substances were present in the rocks.

Conclusion is that the organic materials in the meteorites were not produced by life processes in outer space, but were picked up from the earth after impact.

WHY PAY FOR HORSEPOWER YOU DON'T NEED?

Efficient Rotary Fan Design Means that the 3 HP Jari Out-performs High-Speed Blowers with Much Higher Horsepower—

The Jari self-propelled 2-way Snowthrower has a rotary fan speed of only 500 rpm. It is more efficient than high speed blowers which require more power. And lower horsepower requirement means Jari costs less.

So buy performance, not horsepower. And Jari's performance has been proved by 14 years of successful operation.

Having A Ball!

DELIGHTING AUDIENCES recently on the WHS stage was a large and talented cast of Staff Donald Spinney, is now in its second month and faring popularly, as this recent photo shows, with children from the St. Mary's School playing a game with a basketball under the supervision of a college coed in the Lincoln School gym. The program is run four days a week, Tuesdays through Fridays, from 3:15 to 4:30, with all seven public elementary and the Marycliff and St. Mary's Schools being covered at least once every two weeks, both boys and girls. This, the first really organized non-school recreation program in memory for elementary pupils in Winchester, has been well received by the youngsters, parents, and local educators.

Winterized Cars

During big winter storms, use public transportation...But if you must use a motor vehicle, be sure that the vehicle is in top shape for winter driving. Stalled cars are a deterrent to snow removal and cause unnecessary traffic tieups. It is a good idea to carry emergency equipment in the car for difficult situations such as a bucket of sand, a shovel, booster cables, tire chains, and a tow chain or strap...Police and fire equipment must be able to move at all times.

At Harvard

Dr. Michael Fixler, associate professor of English at Tufts University and a resident at 55 Fletcher Street, will be a visiting scholar at Harvard University during a leave of absence beginning February, 1967.

At Harvard, Dr. Fixler, under a grant from the Society for Religion in Higher Education, will research the inter-disciplinary studies of literature and theology, particularly the subject of "Communion and the Religion of Art."

Library Film Program

The films for Family Night, Friday, December 16, at 7:30 are Robert McCloskey and Home Made Car.

Robert McCloskey, whose outstanding picture books have won him the love of children everywhere, talks about his life and work. As he does so, he points out the many people and places in his life that have found their way into his books and also tells how he works, showing the way in which craftmanship must go hand in hand with inspiration.

Home Made Car is laid in England. It involves a dog, a dream, and a scheme by a young car restorer to rebuild an old vintage car in an attempt to win the girl next door. The young man is helped by a friendly garage owner but has plenty of problems and competition.

An adult must accompany children throughout the Friday night showing. On Saturday morning, December 17, at 10:15 the same films will be shown for schoolage children. Please do not send preschoolers.

The next Library Film Program will be on January 6 and 7.

Linotypers?

Six boys from Troop 506 studied the linotype machines at the Star last Wednesday on a press day visit to acquaint them with what goes on behind the scenes when their weekly paper is produced.

The boys were Al Fay, Ian O'Connor, John Curley, John Williams, Phillip O'Connell and Stephen Tiernan and they were accompanied by Mrs. Alexander Fay, den mother of Den 4.

The boys had a hard time deciding which of the many jobs they might like as a vocation, but were interested in all aspects and asked many questions.

Selectmen Probe More on Swanton Bridge Project

State's Requirements, Planning, Money Problems

After studying the Swanton Street Bridge rebuilding project proposal further Monday night, the Board of Selectmen requested Town Engineer James A. Wakefield, Jr. and State Representative Harrison Chadwick to probe deeper into relative construction and financing factors with an eye toward developing a timetable for action.

The Planning Board, represented by chairman William G. Chapman, Jr., noted that it wished to have a part in planning the traffic and bridge construction configuration after doing a land use survey of the area. The Selectmen concurred that such assistance would be valuable in any bridge project plan, and asked when such a survey and planning aid might be forthcoming. Mr. Chapman said the board would be tied up with other projects for most of the next year, but maybe after that it would be able to tackle the task—unless a speedier timetable were called for.

Mr. Wakefield noted that new state requirements for bridges would necessitate raising the present bridge another two to four feet, and this would create a rapid height rise problem for traffic that might be as great as the present problem of the angular Main Street turn.

Appraisers Note Cooperation In Property Survey

"The cooperation has been wonderful, and we have been progressing smoothly with our work in appraising the homes for revaluation assessing," commented Daniel Scribner, representative of the Cole-Layer Trumble Company, on Tuesday in describing his first two weeks in the community doing mass field appraisals.

Starting with the Governor's home on 10 Everett Avenue, and then moving to the Northeastern section of town, the appraisers, Mr. Scribner and Ronald Mace, now are working in the area on the Westerly side of Washington Street and the Northerly side of East and Cross Streets; including Newton, Baldwin, Holton and Marion Streets, and Brookside and Garfield Avenues.

Pedestrian Hit Crossing Street

A 50-year-old Lebanon Street man is reported in "good" condition at the Winchester Hospital this week as he recovers from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Washington Street last Thursday.

William H. Rogers, Jr. of 5 Lebanon Street was crossing Washington Street toward Englewood Road at 5:47 on December 15th when the accident occurred as a vehicle operated by Joseph P. Haggerty, 66, of 27 Fairmount Street, headed North on Washington Street.

The accident victim received a broken right pelvis, broken right knee and leg, and bruises to both legs, according to police, who rushed him to the hospital, where he was treated by Dr. George Hazel.

Officers assisting at the accident scene were Robert Baird, Joseph Asaro, William Haggerty, Richard Kelley and James Flaherty.

Intruders Take Jewelry, Silver

Police are continuing in the investigation of a housebreak and theft at the 81 Arlington Street home of Ralph Bonnell last Wednesday, December 14, in which an as yet undetermined amount of jewelry and silverware was taken.

According to police, an intruder pried open a locked combination door and broke a small pane of glass in the rear door to gain entry to the kitchen. The intruder then ransacked a buffet in the dining room, a desk in the living room, and went through bureau drawers in three bedrooms.

"O, Holy Night . . ."

A TRADITION for 41 years, the annual Community Carol Singing on the Common, at 7 o'clock on Christmas Eve around a lighted tree, is a refreshing, inspiring and enjoyable custom here. Sponsored by the Fortnightly, the joining together of families, friends, and neighbors in the singing of old carols of wonder and joy fill the Square with good cheer each year. Mrs. Mary Ranton Witham conducts, with a brass sextet of trumpets, James Sauber and Peter Moulton, baritone horn and trombone, Mark and John Totman, and Robert Eddie and Arthur Deans, trombones, accompany the singers. Miss Sally Worthen, contralto, will be the soloist singing "O, Holy Night."

Red Cross Youth Christmas Cheer

The true spirit of Christmas prevailed at the Winchester Red Cross chapter house as members of the Red Cross Youth prepared 80 Christmas boxes for the veterans at the Bedford Veteran's Hospital. The proof of the spirit was evident as the boxes were filled and made ready for delivery.

Each box contained a comb, ball point pen, candy, playing cards, chewing gum, and a notebook. Then sealed with the warmth of a job well done, these packages will bring cheer to those who need it so much. Someone cares enough to remember.

The Red Cross Youth collected recent Reader's Digests at School for an addition to the Library at Bedford.

Under the guidance of their Red Cross Youth director, Mrs. Charles F. Potts, Sue Vercollone, Nancy Millican, Audrey Pufer, and Sally Lyman, completed this Christmas cheer project. The final personal touch was added when Sue Vercollone delivered the boxes to Bedford.

Through this generous spirit of the Red Cross Youth, the Winchester chapter of American National Red Cross brought its Christmas message to Winchester.

LWV Notes More Planning Effort In Conservation

The preservation and effective public use of open space, new planning horizons in our neighbor community of Woburn and the possibility of Winchester-Woburn cooperation to maintain the esthetic qualities of the Aberjona River Valley were among significant topics discussed at an open meeting of the recreation committee of the League of Women Voters of Winchester earlier this month.

The December meeting featured presentations by Winchester and Woburn Board chairmen, and was held at the home of Mrs. Ellis Green, 7 Ravenscroft Road.

The speakers at the meeting were John Donohoe, chairman of the Woburn Planning Board: William Ginevicz, chairman of the Woburn Conservation Commission: William Chapman, Jr., chairman of the Winchester Planning Board and Malcolm Masters, chairman of the Winchester Conservation Commission.

Post Office Appreciates Cooperation

"Thank you."

That's the comment today from Assistant Postmaster in Charge, Alfred W. Barnard, who said the people of Winchester "cooperated magnificently and we have had the bet season ever. It now appears that every piece of mail that enters the post office by 8 a.m. on Saturday, December 24th, will be delivered before Christmas Eve. There will be no backlog of holiday mail still to be delivered Christmas Day."

Monday, December 19th, was the busiest day in the Post Office An estimated 75,000 pieces of mail were handled by post office workers. More than 1,000 people visited the post office and 50,000 stamps were sold.

According to postal officials Monday, December 19th was the busiest day since the Post Office Department moved into the present building in 1927.

"The use of ZIP Code and the pattern of early mailing helped us move more mail with greater efficiency than ever before" the Assistant Postmaster commented. "Without the excellent public response we would not have been able to do the job alone."

This year 30 extra Christmas Assistants were hired to help the regular employees to move the heavy volumes of mail during the Christmas period.

To date over 750,000 pieces of outgoing mail have been handled by the Winchester office with a volume average of 55,000 pieces of mail being dispatched daily. The service windows have been busy from 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily in accepting gift parcels and there has been a volume average of over 1,000 parcels a day being dispatched for pre-Christmas delivery. The Asst. Post Master advises that if any patrons still have gift parcels to send, that extra services such as Air-Mail, Special Handling, and Special Delivery can be added to the gift parcels to assure pre-Christmas delivery.

The service windows at the Post Office will be open daily this week from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday, December 23rd.

On Saturday, December 24th, the service windows will close at noon, so the postal employees who have done a wonderful job in moving the mails may enjoy Christmas Eve with their families.

The Assistant Post Master reminds the patrons that the Post Office will be closed on Monday, December 26th, when employees will be enjoying the holiday of Sunday, December 25th.

South American Students Visit, Enjoy Town Life

Seeing snow for the first time this winter here will be two exchange students from Bogota, Colombia.

Sponsored by International Fellowship, Maria Cristina Lopez and Maria Amparo Cadavid are guests of the Wilkinson's of 14 Grove Street and the Sirrine's of 15 Lawson Road respectively.

The girls, both 16 years old, will be attending Winchester High School in the Junior class through January and most of February, when they then must return to Colombia.

Upon returning home they will immediately start school since they are now in summer vacation. Even though Bogota, Colombia, is about 350 miles north of the Ecuator, they follow the seasons of the Southern hemisphere which are reversed from ours.

Shopping for boots, heavy coats and mittens was one of the first items on the girls' agenda. Now completely outfitted they are looking forward to their first real "Nevada" (snowstorm in Spanish). Maria Amparo's first experience with ice landed her on it, but she's excited at the idea of skating. Maria Cristina, who loves waterskiing, will try her luck on the slopes this year.

The two girls are participating in the classes of the high school and in extracurricular activities. Among their courses of the day, they take physical education where they are experiencing basketball for the first time. Their extracurricular activities include the school production "Christmas is a time of giving" and they are our "Start Spanish Students" in the Spanish Club.

Their impressions of life in the United States are vivid and varied. Maria Amparo remarks on the industrious aspect of the people: "They are very profound . . . When someone starts something he finishes it."

Maria Cristina feels we live in a perpetual whirlwind: "Every person here is busy all the time." Neither hesitated when asked about her thoughts of Winchester: "It is wonderful!" the girls agree.

For the past three years the Parent-Faculty Association has been affiliated with International Fellowship Inc., which is an exchange program between the United States and the countries of South America.

Winter Carnival's Program Ready For A Fun-Packed Week

Interest among the young people in the community is running very high this week in anticipation of the town's first "Winter Carnival," a four-day vacation holiday recreation spectacular starting next Tuesday, December 27, and ending on Saturday, December 30th.

Recreation Director Donald L. Spinney, coordinator for the fun-packed community event for the Recreation Committee and with the cooperation and assistance of the Student Council, said earlier this week that the entire High School student body is getting behind the Winter Carnival enthusiastically, and predicted a large turnout.

Interest is running particularly high on the teen dance competition, Mr. Spinney noted. (One student asked if they had to wear loafers or shoes—usual school dance rules—or could they wear sneakers for the competition!)

Another high interest centered event is the snow sculpturing; over 30 six-man teams have already registered for that activity, with new registrations flowing into the Recreation Director's Office in the Town Hall daily.

Early interest was shown in the selection of a Carnival Queen. A well kept secret, the winner has already been chosen—but announcement won't make her name public until the evening of the Carnival Dance, at which she will reign.

And there will be "Snow Bunny" rides, too, Mr. Spinney announced on Monday. Scorpion Snowmobiles have been offered by a local merchant, and another civic-minded citizen has provided some snow making machinery to guarantee snow for the event.

"Everybody's going to be doing something; and everybody should have a good time," Mr. Spinney said Tuesday.

Posters heralding the Winter Carnival were prepared by the art classes in the high school and some Senior Girl Scouts.

The schedule for the Winter Carnival:

On Tuesday, December 27, beginning at 10 in the morning, "Snow Fun" snow sculpturing in an area provided at the Municipal Parking Lot off Mt. Vernon Street and Skillings By-Pass opposite the Town Hall. At 2 p.m. a Skating Party at the rink by the Town Hall and, at the same time, a wrestling match between the Winchester High School Varsity and visiting Malden High School in the gym. And, at 8 in the evening, a Dance Night Competition in the Town Hall with teenagers swinging to the latest tunes with prizes donated by local merchants going to the best dancers.

On Wednesday, December 28, the art of snow sculpturing will be continued again at 10 o'clock. Also at 10 o'clock, a free ski clinic will be held at Boston Hill in Andover. Lynn English will play the Winchester High School Varsity in a fast game of hockey at the ice rink at 1 p.m. And at 7 in the evening, the High School Varsity will play Winchester Alumni in basketball in the gym.

Lewis Appointed Senior VP State St. Bank & Trust

The Board of Directors of the State Street Bank and Trust Company in Boston has announced the promotion of Donald J. Lewis of 10 Bigelow Avenue to senior vice president.

DONALD J. LEWIS

Mr. Lewis has been a vice president and treasurer since 1963 and will continue as treasurer. He heads the Depositors Service Division. He has spent his business career in the banking field.

Mr. Lewis received his education at Belmont High School, Class of 1929 and attended Boston University. He was graduated from the Stonier Graduate School of Banking in 1940.

High School Site Decision Reduced To Two Locations

An early February special Town Meeting appears in the works for the purpose of selecting a site and financing the preparation of plans for the construction of an estimated $7 million-plus new high school building, if steps now being taken by the Permanent Building Committee and soon to be considered by the Board of Selectmen receive prompt action.

The Permanent Building Committee and its subcommittee for secondary school construction voted last Thursday night to recommend two separate and distinctively different types of sites for a new high school to the town.

One site is centrally located, the so-called Shore Road Field expanded site; the other is remote to the geographic center of the town, the so-called West Side Turkey Ridge site.

Neither of these recommended sites would involve any home-takings; but both would include substantial land takings.

The PBC now has on its immediate agenda the continuation of technical studies in progress to determine which of these two sites it finds most suitable to give it first priority recommendation. At the special Town Meeting it will delineate the advantages and disadvantages of both sites, and why either one may be more favorable than the other—from educational, economic, and other salient considerations.

The Turkey Ridge non-central West Side site is essentially the same recommendation that was presented to an earlier special Town Meeting nearly two years ago in 1965, and was turned down with less than the two-thirds vote necessary for the involved land takings. It lies between Johnson Road and High Street, near Vinson-Owen School. The PBC is presently updating technical and economic factors related to that site's recommendation.

The central site, also to be recommended, consists of the Shore Road Field and land lying between the Boston and Maine Railroad track and the spur with an extension along the West bank of the Aberjona River to Swanton Street. These pieces of property to be tied together by rerouting of the river bed and some form

Police Warn Community Of Rising Tide Of Juvenile Crime Offenses Locally

Winchester has the remarkable distinction of having more youngsters under probation authority than any other city or town in the Woburn District Court jurisdiction, Police Chief Joseph J. Derro informed the Selectmen on Monday night in response to an inquiry into the state of juvenile affairs in the community.

During the past year the town also has experienced a nearly fourfold increase in juvenile delinquency court cases, Chief Derro told the Selectmen.

In 1965 there were 16 local cases of juvenile delinquency brought to court. There have been 58 court cases so far this year involving juveniles, the Chief said, which also happens to be 8 more than the second municipality in the seven communities covered by the Fourth District Court (including Woburn, Wilmington, Stoneham, Burlington, North Reading and Reading).

"The people of Winchester have always turned their backs on this juvenile problem, and it is time to bring it out into the open and let the residents know that the town of Winchester is being faced with a serious problem with juvenile offenders," the Chief said.

The Chief laid part of the blame for the extending problem with what he termed a prevailing attitude among residents in the community to sweep the unpleasant issue under the rug—to pretend it doesn't exist here. "But it does exist here," he stated, "and to a greater degree than almost any parent or homeowner is aware."

"I was talking to one woman the other day," the Chief noted, "and she was trying to tell me that her Johnny never did anything wrong; and he's our biggest offender."

Sergeant-Inspector James J. Cogan and Juvenile Officer Richard Beaton, also present at the Selectmen's meeting Monday night to describe their encounters with the problem, both attributed the biggest cause of juvenile offenses to youths who had been drinking.

Light Shed On Bulb Thievery

The recent surge of Christmas lightbulb decoration thievery came to a grinding slowdown over the weekend as alert police officers apprehended a local group of 17-year-old's and an out-of-town group of 13-year-old's in the act.

At 10:30 p.m. on Saturday Officer William Nash, overlooking the Common from the railroad bridge overpass, spotted three youths who ran up the Common pathway and ducked under a tree. They took some lightbulbs down and threw them in the air to hear them crash when they landed. The trio returned under the tree to snatch some more, making a total of twenty bulbs, and when they came out again Officer Nash was waiting for them.

Patrol car 51 was cruising in the Grove Street area when another alert officer noticed that one of two youths walking along had a bulge under his coat. He stopped and asked the youngsters what they had, and they produced a bag of some 100 lightbulbs taken from Xmas ornaments, and a home spotlight. The two 13-year-old's were from Medford and West Medford, and they told police another youngster came over the line daily to take bulbs.

Progress At Tufts Road

The elementary school under construction at Tufts Road will be entirely closed in by the end of this month and the inside work will proceed. At present, it is believed that everything can be completed by the end of June, 1967.

The opening of the Tufts Road school next September should relieve existing overcrowding conditions to some extent but will not resolve the problem. The new school will be filled to capacity, 550, on opening day, but cannot accommodate the pupils from all of the badly overcrowded schools. For this reason Winchester is continuing a program of transfer of pupils to schools which do have spaces available. The most important factor in setting this policy for relief of overcrowded classrooms is that of placing the children where they can be expected to get the best education.

National Women's Indoor Tennis Championships Here

Winchester this winter will host the biggest sports event of its history, and one of the most important national sporting championships of the year that will draw top rank national and international players—the National Women's Indoor Tennis Championships.

The big four-day National Tennis Tournament will be held here at the new Winchester Lawn Tennis Center at 41 East Street on February 16-19, according to information made known this week by the New England Lawn Tennis Association, a section of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

In a move interpreted by some sports fans as a real tribute to Winchester as a great tennis community, the New England Lawn Tennis Association chose Winchester's new Lawn Tennis Center as the site for the national championships.

In recent years this big sporting event has taken place at the Longwood Covered Courts in Chestnut Hill, and has attracted most of the top women players in the United States, including Billie Jean Moffitt King, last year's winner, and Nancy Richey, the 1965 winner. In addition, the tournament also included big name tennis players from foreign countries, including Holland and Sweden.

"It is expected that this year's field will also include many of the top U.S. and foreign girls," said Thomas L. Raleigh, Jr. of 41 Wildwood Street, president of the New England Lawn Tennis Association.

The net proceeds of the tournament will be contributed to the Youth Tennis Foundation of New England, a charitable foundation whose aim is to promote amateur tennis among the youth of New England, according to Mr. Raleigh.

Tournament chairman for the National Women's Indoor Lawn Tennis Championships here will be Harrison Rowbotham of Waban. Official committees are now being formed for the big singles, doubles and mixed doubles Women's tennis championships.

Some of Winchester's legion of tennis players are expected to participate in some of the mixed doubles teams, Mr. Raleigh estimated.

Women entries are limited to 32 in number to keep the championships within the four-day tournament period; most of the matches taking place in the afternoons and evenings, and the semi-finals on the afternoons of February 18 and 19.

Tickets for the national tennis sporting event will be sold locally, and interested spectators may now make application for tickets through the Winchester Lawn Tennis Center by calling 729-4040.

Rev. Charles Engebret Pedersen

The Reverend Charles Engebret Pedersen of 11 Priscilla Lane, passed away on Sunday, December 18, after a brief illness. He was a former pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church in West Medford, and of the Calvary Methodist Church in Arlington, from which he retired in 1960. Since his retirement he had served interim appointments in Rockport and Gloucester, and he was Parish Visitor at the Belmont Methodist Church.

He was a graduate of Garrett Biblical Institute, Northwestern University, and served in parishes in Illinois until coming to Massachusetts in 1925. He had also been pastor of Methodist churches in Concord, Franklin, and Chicopee Falls. He was ordained in 1925.

The Reverend Mr. Pedersen was born in Brooklyn, New York in 1888, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peder Pedersen, both natives of Stavanger, Norway. In recent years he had been librarian for the New England Conference of the Methodist Historical Society at Boston University.

He had been active in Masonic circles, serving as chaplain and former past master of Hiram Lodge. Arlington; chaplain at Menotomy Lodge, Royal Arch, Arlington; Excellent Prelate of the Boston Commandery, chaplain of the Boston Council, Royal and Select Masters, and chaplain of Aleppo Temple Shrine, Boston. Masonic services were held for him on Tuesday evening at the Brown Funeral Home in Belmont.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jeanette E. Pedersen; a son, Charles W. of 38 Everett Avenue; and a daughter, Mrs. Jeanette P. Smith of Chappaqua, New York. There are three grandchildren: Jeanette Smith and Whitney and Judith Pedersen.

Services were held at the Belmont Methodist Church on Wednesday, December 21. Interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery in Arlington.

Mrs. A. Maude (Smith) Wilde

Mrs. Paul C. Wilde, formerly of 39 Wildwood Street, but a resident of 110 Mt. Vernon Street, for the past 30 years, died Monday, December 12th, at the Lakeside Nursing Home in Wakefield, following a year's illness. She was one of Winchester's oldest residents, both in age and in years of residence.

Mrs. Wilde was born in Port Medway, Nova Scotia, September 3, 1874, the daughter of James and Eunice Smith. She received her schooling in Port Medway, being recently visited by the only other surviving member of her high school graduating class. In 1895 she came to Winchester and was a resident of the town thereafter. On April 3, 1920, she was married to Paul C. Wilde with Rev. Howard Chidley officiating. Mr. Wilde died in 1931. Mrs. Wilde became a member of the Winchester Baptist Church on March 3, 1904, being one of its oldest members.

Even in her advanced years, Mrs. Wilde had a variety of interests. She did beautiful sewing and handwork of all kinds and was an avid reader with poetry a favorite. She had a wide circle of friends and corresponded with people all over the United States and Canada.

She was the sister of the late Irving Smith of Liverpool, Nova Scotia, and Forbes Smith and Mrs. Adelaide McEwen Laird of Winchester. Mrs Wilde leaves a brother, J. William Smith of Hopedale, also numerous nieces and nephews in the United States and Canada.

Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery. The Reverend Alexander Henderson of the First Baptist Church officiated.

Mrs. Hazel E. (Cummings) Conklin

Mrs. Hazel E. (Cummings) Conklin, 74, wife of George F. Conklin and a former resident here, died on Sunday, December 11 in Westbrook, Maine.

Mrs. Conklin, who had lived here on Symmes Road in the 1930's and 40's, had made her home in Westbrook for the past 10 years. She was born there the daughter of Mabel Herrick Cummings and Eugene Cummings, former mayor and former postmaster of the town.

Mrs. Conklin leaves, in addition to her husband, a son, George F. Jr. of New London, Connecticut; a brother, Chester H. Cummings of St. Petersburg, Florida; a sister, Ethel R. Cummings of Westbrook; a grandson and three nephews. Services for her were held on Wednesday, December 14 with the Reverend Floyd Kinsley of the Warren Congregational Church officiating. Burial was in Westbrook.

Mrs. Helen (Miller) Jordan

Mrs. Helen (Miller) Jordan, widow of Archibald Campbell Jordan and a long-time former resident, died on Sunday, December 11, at the Mount Vernon Nursing Home in Cambridge. She was in her 88th year.

Mrs. Jordan, well known in Winchester through her extensive church and club work, had made her home at 118 Highland Avenue for over 50 years. Born in Milton, New Hampshire, on April 15, 1879, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller. She moved to Winchester as a bride. The Jordans subsequently moved to Rutland Street, Cambridge, where Mr. Jordan died in 1951, and for the past few years Mrs. Jordan had made her home at the guest house of the Convent of Saint Anne in Cambridge. She had been in poor health for a number of months.

Mrs. Jordan was a former member of the Committee of Safety Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution and an initiator and founder of the Black Horse Tavern Society of CAR in 1931. During World War II she was a leader of the motor corps of the Red Cross Chapter here. She was an active member of the Church of the Epiphany.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, December 13, at the Storey Chapel, officiated by the Reverend Earle Daniels, her former rector of the St. James Episcopal Church in Cambridge, assisted by its present rector, the Reverend Russell Way and by the Reverend John O'Connor. Interment was in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Mrs. Jordan leaves a host of friends but no immediate survivors.

Lt. John Swazey

Lt. John McArthur Swazey, age 30, United States Navy, has been reported missing in a helicopter accident at sea off San Diego, California, on December 12, 1966. Eight officers and two enlisted men were also lost in the accident.

Lieutenant Swazey's wife, Lisa, and three children, Scott, Melissa, and Charlotte, live at 1651 Grove Avenue, Imperial Beach, California. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Swazey, and a sister Elizabeth, formerly of Winchester, live at 181 Cortland Avenue, Winter Park, Florida. A brother, Peter W. Swazey, lives at 29-3 Arlington Road, Woburn.

Lieutenant Swazey was educated in the Winchester Public Schools. Following graduation from Yale University he entered the United States Navy's Officers Candidate School at Newport, Rhode Island, and then the regular Navy. He served on the mine sweeper USS Valor in the Atlantic Fleet and then in a destroyer squadron aboard the USS Mansfield in Japan. For the past three years he taught at the Naval School, San Diego. He was recently assigned to a newly formed Amphibious Assault Squadron, in which he was serving at the time of the accident.

Memorial services were held at San Diego on December 15.

Robert F. Golden

The flag was at half-mast this week for Robert F. Golden of 29 Hemingway Street, 30-year-old husband of Elinor J. (Garden) Golden and father of two sons, who died at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Boston on Friday, December 16, after a brief illness.

Mr. Golden was born in Bangor, Maine, on August 21, 1936, the son of the late John G. Golden and Mrs. Maybelle J. (Mead) Golden, who survives him here. A resident here since his first year, he was educated in the Winchester schools. He subsequently served in the United States Army in the Korean War.

Mr. Golden, formerly with the Carriage Trade Company of North Woburn, had been associated for some time with the Everett Avenue Auto Parts Company in Somerville. He was a member of the Winchester Auxiliary Police force and of the Immaculate Conception Church. In addition to his wife and mother he leaves his sons, Darcy K. and Darien C., and two brothers, Donald R. of Billerica and Paul F. of Wellesley.

A requiem high Mass was celebrated in the Immaculate Conception Church on Tuesday morning at 9 a.m. following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home. Mr. Golden was buried in Wildwood Cemetery.

Plants to Watch!

Deck the halls with toxic holly.
Mistletoe is fatal if consumed.

To eat poinsettia leaves is folly;
Any child who does it will be doomed.

Christmas greens like yew and laurel—
Poisonous even though well-perfumed.

Watch the flowering bulbs, they're fatal.
Happy Yule despite this note of gloom.

A strange Christmas message, to be sure, but it is hoped that it will keep your holiday merry.

For parents of elementary and pre-school children the following list could prove valuable. Also, make note of the number of the nearest Poison Control Center (for Winchester, it is 232-2120) which can give emergency aid and information on poisons.

Among toxic plants used at Christmas are:

Holly berries
Mistletoe berries

Plants given as gifts such as the flowering bulbs of narcissus, hyacinth, daffodil, Star of Bethlehem

Jerusalem cherry plant
Rhododendron
Azalea
Costume jewelry made from rosary peas or castor beans
Poinsettia leaves
Yew
Laurel

Aftermath Of Truck Fire

AN ALERT HOUSEHOLDER on Ravine Road noticed smoke coming from a rubbish pick-up truck last Thursday afternoon and alerted the Fire Department. Before the fire was contained the rack body and tailgate of Mike Penta's truck were involved, and the load had to be dumped on the street.

Free Coffee On Mass. Turnpike

Free coffee will be available for all motorists on the Massachusetts Turnpike on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve, Chairman John T. Driscoll announced today.

"This practice was initiated on New Year's Eve five years ago as a safety measure," the chairman said, "and the results have proved most satisfactory. Three years ago the plan was expanded to include Christmas Eve as well as New Year's Eve and the Turnpike Authority is pleased to announce that coffee will be available on both dates again this year."

As motorists pick up their toll tickets upon entering the Massachusetts Turnpike, they will be given also the following invitation signed by Chairman Driscoll and Howard B. Johnson, president of the Howard D. Johnson Company that operates the eight restaurants along the Turnpike.

"You are cordially invited to stop and enjoy free coffee at the Howard Johnson restaurants on the Massachusetts Turnpike from 10:00 p.m., Saturday, December 24, 1966, to 7:00 a.m., Sunday, December 25, 1966, and from 10:00 p.m., Saturday, December 31, 1966, to 7:00 a.m., Sunday, January 1, 1967. Please drive carefully on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve and throughout 1967."

Scrooge on WBGH

WGBH-FM observes Christmas with eight hours of music and stories in the Yuletide spirit starting at 4 p.m. Sunday, December 25.

First there's a glimpse of Christmas as it is celebrated in Germany on "Deutsche Sonntagstunde," followed by a performance of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker," always a favorite at Christmas time. Presented by the Bolshoi Theatre Orchestra conducted by Gennady Rozhdestvensky, "The Nutcracker" will be heard in stereo, as will "Nowell Sing We" at 6 p.m., when the late Noah Greenberg conducts the New York Pro Musica and the New York Pro Muisca Antiqua in medieval English carols and children's songs.

Then at 7 p.m. Sir Ralph Richardson brings to life one of the most famous of all Charles Dickens' characters—Scrooge—as he stars in a dramatization of that perennial favorite "A Christmas Carol."

Post 3719 Ladies Entertain Vets

A pre-Christmas dinner and party was given on December 14 for about 50 patients of the Bedford V.A. Hospital at the V.F.W. Post hall on White Street. The ladies of the Auxiliary served a delicious home cooked turkey dinner and all the fixings. Later in the evening Christmas carols were sung and given to each that attended were gifts. A most enjoyable evening was had by all. Chairman Mary Titilah expresses her thanks to all that helped in making it a great rememberable Christmas Party for everyone.

Obligations

The majority of the nation's independent proprietors favor a bill by Rep. Emanuel Cellar, N.Y., to provide for debtors to repay obligations if it is found possible for them to do so over a period of years before declaring bankruptcy.

Engagement Of Miss Maiocco

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maiocco of 17 Wickham Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Mr. Anthony Tomasone of Boston.

MISS BARBARA MAIOCCO

Miss Maiocco is a graduate of Marycliff Academy, Chamberlayne Junior College and the Academie Moderne, and at present she is a senior at Boston State College. Mr. Tomasone was graduated from Bentley College, attended Northeastern University and Boston College, and at present is the auditor for the State Board of Education.

Mrs. Cart Talks On Origin Of Carols

The Winchester Women's Republican Club held their Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Phillip Woodward, 13 Sheffield Road on Wednesday, December 14.

Dessert was served at 1:30 by Mrs. Theodore Shasta and her committee and the meeting convened at two o'clock with Mrs. Ernest Wright the president extending a warm welcome to the members and guests present.

A short business meeting followed. Mrs. Gardy Yagjian gave a detailed treasurer's report. Mrs. George Bramley, chairman of Ways and Means spoke of plans for an exciting event at the Astor Motor Inn 215 Concord Turnpike in Cambridge on March 22 with good food, door prizes and a hush-hush special surprise gift planned.

Mrs. Dwight Cart, the featured speaker for the afternoon was introduced by the vice-president, Mrs. Maxwell McCreery. The graciousness of Mrs. Cart's story on Christmas carols from the early 1500's, their origin and their histories gently and meaningfully told the reasons for this joyous, holy season. It was quite evident that much research had gone into Mrs. Cart's interesting and enlightening talk.

Mrs. Richard Stewart (Sara Jane Woodward) followed Mrs. Cart in continuing this happy resume on carols. Her own accompanist, she sang and told the background of the age-old carols she sang in English, Latin and German.

This very delightful meeting closed with the singing of Christmas carols by those present accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Walter Winship the Club's pianist.

Carol Singing For Grange Program

Winchester Grange No. 343 held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in Masonic Hall.

The annual Christmas program was presented, with members' choir forming a living Christmas tree and singing carols intermittent with the reading of an original Christmas story, written by the lecturer of the Mass. State Grange.

A contribution was made by the members to the Globe Santa. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the program.

Icy Turns

When you suddenly come upon an icy patch of pavement, be sure your front wheels are rotating if you are trying to turn. Hard braking will lock them. Then the tires act like sled runners and you slide straight ahead. Pump your brakes and slow down, they coast over the ice. Above all, when streets and highways are slippery, avoid sudden moves.

Lore, Legend Of Christmas Flowers

While thousands of Americans will be saying "Merry Christmas" with flowers this year, few realize that the Druids of ancient Britain, who lived 2,000 years ago, believed that mistletoe was sacred to the goddess of love—thus our modern custom of kissing under the mistletoe.

According to legend, when a lad claims his kiss under the mistletoe, he must remove a berry and give it to the grateful maiden. When the last berry is removed from the plant, the mistletoe loses its power and no more kisses may be bestowed beneath it. It's also said that if a girl is kissed as many times as there are berries, she will be married within a year!

The use of holly as a decoration at Christmas time also can be traced back to antiquity—and many believe that the name is derived from the word "holy." In Germany, where holly is called Christdorn, there is a legend that this thorn was used for the crucifixion crown.

Another tale about holly relates the story of Joseph of Arimathea and eleven of his followers who came to convert some heathens. While preaching to them on Christmas Day, he dug his staff into the ground and it immediately burst into life and blossom. A church was dedicated on the spot, and this miraculous thorn of holly continued to grow, blooming always on Christmas Day.

The flower that has become one of the best-known symbols of the Christmas season is the star-shaped Poinsettia. So popular in this country are these scarlet-leaved blooms that the Florists' Transworld Delivery Association reports wiring more Poinsettias than any other holiday floral offering.

There are also many legends surrounding this Christmas-colored bloom. One tale relates how a poor Mexican girl was heartbroken because she had nothing of value or beauty to offer the Virgin. In desperation she plucked some scrawny roadside weeds and placed them at the feet of the holy statue. They were immediately transformed into scarlet brilliance. The Poinsettia plant, brought to this country from Mexico over 125 years ago by Dr. Joel Poinsett, is still called by many "Flor de Noche Buena"—flower of the holy night.

Whether you "say it" with Poinsettias this holiday season, or send friends other holiday flowers or plants, a colorful free catalogue of floral suggestions is available at local FTD florists' shops to aid you in your final selections.

Other favorite Christmas flowers have fascinating stories behind them. Did you know, for instance, that the Christmas daisy is not really a daisy—but an aster? It's a fact! But this is no more unusual than the history of the Christmas rose—which during Greek times was thought to be a remedy for madness!

According to one legend, the rose came to be associated with Christmas on the very night that Christ was born. A little shepherdess, saddened because she had no gift to offer the Child of Bethlehem, went back to tending her flocks when suddenly an angel appeared. As the angel waved a lily that he carried, the ground was covered with Christmas roses—which the girl joyfully gathered and carried to Christ's manger. The Holy Child turned from the gems and gold of the magi, reached forth His tiny hands for the blossoms, and smiled as the shepherdess heaped them at His feet.

Branching Out

A year-long 1966 survey by the National Federation of Independent Business reveals a trend for independent firms to branch out into activities other than their main business. Financial institutions are more apt to lend to these diversifiers, the survey adds.

Serving The Community For 86 Years

Editorials:

A Community Fun Event

The upcoming Winter Carnival being organized and sponsored by the Recreation Committee and its director, Donald Spinney, whose idea it was to have a Winter Carnival for the youth of the town, is a promising and worthwhile endeavor. The whole town seems to be getting behind it with appropriate seasonal joy and enthusiasm, and especially within the younger set for which it is intended to provide an extra wallop of fun during their holiday vacation period, which should guarantee its success.

Enlisting the support and aid of the Student Council, and with most of the high school's student body actively participating in some phase of the Winter Carnival's promotion and staffing of operational management, the fun-fared event should carry cooperative youth enterprise and activity to a new level here—and in a type of activity program that should prove to be an interesting demonstration project to the whole community: that organized recreation for the youth of the town has meaning and is significant, and that this can be one way in which we can make Winchester a better place to live.

The success of this first big venture, well planned and organized and directed, could very well open the door to other recreation projects, and maybe eventually facilities, that will benefit all in the community. The one ingredient needed to make this Winter Carnival the success it should be, the youth of the town acting in its own best interests, can, on this one occasion, show the whole town how enthusiastic it really is about recreation in Winchester.

Delinquency A Problem

That the Police Chief is right in his assertion that Winchester has a growing and worse juvenile delinquency problem than hardly any of its citizens has any awareness of, cannot be stated too strongly. It seems that repression of certain facts of life here is so complete on the part of most that it is only rarely pierced—such as when Wildwood Cemetery and its flag were desecrated one night last spring, or when a few methodically toured the town last year and destroyed police officers' personal properties.

There may be many causes of the problem, but the one most often cited by police is teenage drinking. We have 17-year-old alcoholics here, and heavy 14-year-old drinkers in Winchester the police informed a concerned Board of Selectmen this week. One youth was placed under intensive hospital care a few months ago in one narrow young alcohol "rescue."

Fortunately, most of the youth of the town do not fall within either the category of delinquent or little big drinkers. However, the statistical percentage is rising, and their effect upon community life and property is to the detriment of both.

The adult community here can do only so much to prevent the problem, when it is willing, by proper home management. The churches and schools can do only so much to whatever degree they are able to influence the developing minds to the good. The individual's own control over his self-discipline is the ultimate point where fruition of other factors come to a head; and it is there mainly that the problem of delinquency must be solved — and his own contemporaries are often the key to influencing that factor one way or another.

BOOK REVIEW

by Leila-Jane Roberts
Winchester Public Library

TAKE JOY: THE TASHA TUDOR CHRISTMAS BOOK

If by any chance there's still a little money (less than $5.00) left in the Christmas budget and you want to get a present for the whole family and for renewed enjoyment each year, this book is the one you want. Mark is for next year for giving if this notice is too late. The salesman just brought it to us last week, and it's already out of stock at the jobber.

Reminiscent of Jack Horner's "Christmas pie," wherever you turn a page out comes a "plum!" The first part has Christmas sayings and stories, then there's a section of carols with music and words, then a series of legends, and finally a description of the month-long Christmas celebration at Tudor Farm in New Hampshire including recipes and family traditions.

Throughout, the illustrations by Tasha Tudor give a first and wrong impression that this must be a children's book. The joy of children is there but this is a family book.

Have you wondered where to find the exact wording of that quotation from Fra Giovanni written in 1513? Here it is. Where can you locate the O. Henry story about the husband with the watch and the wife with the long hair? Here it is. I had never met the story about the gypsies helping to celebrate the Christ Child's first birthday, but it was a delight to reread an old friend, Hans Christian Andersen's story about "The Fir Tree" with lovable mice peeking from one page while a rabbit nimbly skipped over the snow on another. An excerpt from Dylan Thomas is a read-aloudable, as are most of the selections.

If one must be critical, I find the author's reference to herself in the third person throughout the last section in which she is describing their family Christmas a bit affected and detect a note of smugness about how perfect their Christmas celebration always is. But memory has a way of dropping the years we had the measles or the gravy burned and remembering only the joys. Their Kris Kringle tradition is one I'd like to adopt. A good index makes it valuable for reference — it will be on the New Book table in the library this week. Compare your reactions with mine.

Happy Holidays!

Voicespondence Club Offers Taped Friends by Mail

Editor of the Star:

Three years ago, upon learning that I had received a tape recorder as a gift, a kind friend told me about the Voicespondence Club of Noel, Virginia. It has brought such a great deal of pleasure into my life and meant so much to me that I am anxious to bring the same happiness to others.

The Voicespondence Club of Noel, Virginia, is a nonprofit organization composed of more than 2,000 people throughout the world who make friends and voicespond through the medium of magnetic tape. They come from all walks of life and have varied interests. Some are housewives, others are secretaries, stenographers, lawyers, doctors, teachers, musicians, airplane pilots, truck drivers, construction workers, ministers, students, farmers, railroad engineers, etc. Still others are shut-ins, people who are just a little less active than others, residents of rest homes, and people who just simply have the desire to make friends and to voicespond with others.

I now voicespond with 52 tape friends in the United States and four foreign countries, including England, New Zealand, Canada, and France. I look forward to their tapes with eagerness for they never fail to arouse my interest.

These tapes from friends can make some of my days very bright. Today, for instance, the mailman brought me four tapes, one from an ex-government worker, telling all about his recent vacation up in the Canadian woods, another from a dentist in West Hartford, Connecticut, telling about an interesting book he had recently read, the third from a mailman in California, telling about his experiences, and a fourth from my friend in France who is a hotel proprietor, describing the ups and downs of running a hotel. As you can see, the tapes are all different.

It seems that voicesponding is the perfect hobby for someone who is unable to get about to any great extent, or someone who is alone. Friends come to you, at your convenience, and you can select your own friends according to your preferences. The directory issued by the Voicespondence Club, Noel, Virginia, lists all voicespondents, giving their names, addresses, occupations, and interests. This enables you to select tape friends who have interests which appeal to you.

If you have a tape recorder, and want to participate in a hobby which will bring you happiness in abundance in the years to come, why not get in touch with the Voicespondence Club, Noel, Virginia, and become one of us. We will be glad to help you get started and to include you as one of us, people who want to meet people by magnetic tape; people who want friends, warm friends who will keep the mailman busy carrying the tapes back and forth.

If this information will influence the life of just one person to the degree that it has influenced and sweetened mine, it will make me extremely pleased. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Gerald J. Paice

Russells' Letter On Florence Aid Is Commended

Editor of the Star:

The Star is to be congratulated for going to the expense of publishing Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Russell's illuminating letter describing the tragedy of Florence, Italy. The Russells' letter has been brought to the attention of the Committee to Rescue Italian Art, headquartered in New York City, and presided over, as you know, by Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

I have read many accounts published and unpublished, of Florence's incalculable cultural sorrow. In terms of credible detail and personal feeling, however, I don't think any moved me quite as deeply as the Russells'. It is evident that they love Florence, as any educated person must, for its silent elegance, its witness to the Renaissance, its ineffable treasures of art.

I hope that the Star's action in publishing this letter will stimulate many of Winchester's exceptionally responsive people to give to Florence from their hearts, particularly in this sacred season. For Florence is not merely another high tourist attraction in Italy, as great an honor as this may be. Florence is a City of Man, set high on a cultural hill. It gave birth at a critical moment of history to light, where dark reigned; to beauty, where stale forms had prevailed; to intellectual courage and love, where men had grown inward, fearful of opening new doors and windows.

Looking out at a world in ferment, in which our nation can spend $2 billion per month in a limited Asian war, we sometimes get the feeling that there is little we can do to affect events decisively for good. In Florence, in a specific place, in a specific time, we have an opportunity to act positively for what is good and what is beautiful.

Contributions may be forwarded to (1) Committee to Rescue Italian Art, 1 East 78th Street, New York, New York; and (2) Florentine Relief Fund (not exclusively for art restoration, but for general city relief), 375 Park Avenue, New York, New York.

Respectfully yours,
Paul Wilson Sullivan

Seeking Peace Or Surrender?

Editor of the Star:

Last week's bombing of residential areas in Hanoi is one more incident in the long and tragic series of American efforts to counteract pressure for negotiations by escalating the war. The raids followed closely upon the pleas for an extended truce by U Thant, the National Council of Churches and Pope Paul VI who expressed the hopes of all when he said, "May we be permitted to express the hope that this (Christmas) truce become an armistice, and that the armistice be the occasion for sincere negotiations, negotiations which will lead to peace. And this we not only hope for; we earnestly beg and beseech that it be so."

Are bombing raids on Hanoi to be the answer to the Pope's entreaty? If so, we are indeed without defense against the charges of an angry world that we seek not peace but surrender.

Sincerely,
Ruth D. Terzaghi

Tufts Road

Unfortunately, the number of seats available in one school does not always equal the excess number of pupils in another school. Therefore, in some instances students from several grade levels must be transferred to several other schools simply to find seats for them.

How can the schools available offer the best education possible? It was decided that class sizes are to be figured on the basis of the educational capacity (simply, size) of each room in every school. Further, it was determined that all pupils could not be housed if transfers were made only where an entire class could be accommodated. Study also indicated that transfer of upper-grade pupils only would limit the number of transfers and leave unchanged the overloaded lower grades.

Although transfer of students has been a preventive measure in Winchester for some years, recent announcement of plans for pupil distribution in 1967 has caused comment. Changes in pupil enrollments are unpredictable, so plans and figures set up now must be tentative. A large influx of school-age children in one area or migration of the same-aged children out of Winchester would necessitate vast changes in projected plans.

Consideration is also being given to the possibility of having children in the specific overcrowded schools transferred on a volunteer basis to the schools where space is available, including Tufts Road. The proposal being investigated could enable parents to help make decisions on transfer of their children to guarantee them the best education possible.

Hazardous Crossing

CAMBRIDGE STREET ACCIDENT, at Foxcroft Road last Friday evening at 5:47 p.m., involved a 1963 Dodge coming out of Foxcroft operated by Margaret P. Bunker, 71, of 5 Worthen Road, in foreground, and a 1967 Chevelle heading south on Route 3 operated by Edward Mirak, 26, of 59 Morningside, Arlington. The Dodge was spun around and landed on the property at 2 Blossom Hill Road by the force of the impact, and Mrs. Bunker was taken to the Winchester Hospital by Officers H. Cogan and F. Vozzella in the ambulance, where she was treated by Dr. Harry Benson. Also assisting in the December 16 accident were Sergeant Mario Buzzotta and Officer James Flaherty.

Rising Tide

Drinking, and heavy drinking by youths here, is much more prevalent than anyone outside the Police Department realizes, they said. And in their study of the problem, they added, it was very evident that many of the youngsters start drinking at the age of 14 years.

The two officers said they approached the School Department with the problem and asked if it would be possible to start an alcohol and narcotics education course at the junior high school level as one method to try and curb and prevent the respective problems. They said they were met with sympathetic ears but only partial cooperation, and that it was made clear that if such a course were presented to the youngsters, it would only be available to those with a "good record . . . whereas the ones that need proper education and guidance in this area," they asserted, "wouldn't be exposed to it." They both criticized the philosophy of the educational role as it was found in response to the proposition.

Selectman William R. Kimball asked if the police received complete cooperation from the entire community on all police matters, and Sgt. Inspector Cogan said only very little: "Most just don't want to get involved in any way with any investigations that might end up in court," he said.

Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Robert W. Armstrong, Jr., asked when parents did become involved; and Juvenile Officer Beaton noted that for the most part it was only when it directly concerned them when their youngsters were in trouble, and even then many parents do not follow-up to make sure there are no repetitions of offenses.

The discussion over juvenile delinquency within the community was extensive, and the Selectmen showed evidence of some real concern with the problem.

The Selectmen stated that they hoped that current efforts in the area of recreation programs would help to alleviate the problem; but also listened with some degree of concord when Police officials advised that the town should now consider adding an extra juvenile officer and another plain clothes inspector for night duty to the police force.

MITTEN TREES in Noonan School classrooms, each stocked with pairs of mittens donated by students to be delivered at Christmas to the Fernald School for the Retarded in Waltham, have made the season more meaningful for all at the school. Shown decorating one of the trees are, left to right, the officers of the school's Junior Red Cross, Scott Kelley, vice president; Mark Ajakian, president; Bud Rockhill, treasurer; and Lynn Ahlgren, secretary.

Guests of the committee included Charles Doucette of the Board of Selectmen and Mrs. A. R. Brink, chairman of the Winchester Recreation Commission.

Mr. Donohoe spoke of the new progressive climate in Woburn where the city administration is bringing Woburn into the forefront of modern cities in regard to efficient and proper use of land for the future as well as for the present.

Mr. Donohoe, who is also assistant superintendent of Public Works and Building Inspector of the City of Woburn, was appointed to the Planning Board about two years ago. His five-man board has had remarkable success in carrying out ambitious new programs for industrial development and redevelopment of urban areas with the help of state funds.

He explained Woburn's plans for improving its water supply with reservoirs near Horn Pond, new wells along the Aberjona River, and linkage with the M.D.C. for its new industrial area.

He expressed Woburn's willingness to cooperate with Winchester in a study of the problems of the Aberjona River Valley.

Mr. Ginevicz told of Woburn's ambitious plans to conserve open lands for passive recreation, as well as for fishing and skiing, as exemplified in its new ski development near the Woburn Country Club. For this latter project the Commission has received a grant of $114,500 from the State, matched by city funds taken from a $300,000 bond issue previously voted for unspecified conservation lands. Woburn is only 49 per cent developed so there are many areas still available which are suitable for conservation purposes. Some of these are adjacent to Horn Pond or in the East Woburn section.

Mr. Masters told of the recent acquisition of Smith Pond, formerly known as Cox Pond. The immediate objectives of the Conservation Commission are to have two green belts in Winchester for the use of its citizens one along the watershed of the stream into and out of Smith Pond from the Lexington town line to Winchester Estates, and the other along the Aberjona River.

An article is to be submitted at the next Town Meeting to aid the Commission in obtaining state and/or federal funds. (In Woburn it takes just 20 days to vote new funds through the City Council whereas in a town such as Winchester there is a delay of a year in waiting for Town Meeting action.)

Mr. Masters explained that due to circumstances beyond the control of the Commission the Smith Pond property purchase was delayed but permission was obtained to use it for a teacher training project, sponsored jointly by the Winchester Home and Garden Club and the School Department, and conducted under the leadership of the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

He mentioned also the benefit to the Commission of the work done here during the past summer by the municipal intern student from Brandeis University, Ronald Mayer.

Mr. Masters came out in favor of a special fund, as suggested earlier by Mr. Chapman, to enable the Selectmen to obtain options on, or to buy, properties, as they come on the market, for recreation, education or conservation use.

William Chapman discussed the Land Use Study nearly completed by the Planning Board consultant. He pointed out the need for long-range planning in Winchester instead of the six-month variety used in this town on many occasions in the past.

Mr. Chapman cited the need for land upon which to relocate persons who might be forced to move due to neighborhood redevelopment, expansion of schools or other important land use. He suggested that the Town might acquire such areas under the control of the Selectmen. Winchester is nearly fully developed now, Mr. Chapman pointed out, so it is especially important that sound conservation principles be applied in dealing with the remaining undeveloped land.

A lively question period followed each talk.

Carnival

On Thursday, December 29, at 9 a.m. an all day ski trip will go to Boston Hill in Andover by bus. At 10 o'clock, snow sculpturing will be finishing up in readiness for judging. And at 6:45 p.m. there will be a special show at the Winchester Theatre for the young people, featuring a 2-for-the-price-of-one price for the show "The Professionals."

On Friday, December 30, at 1 o'clock, awarding of prizes for the best snow sculpturings and the best dancer in the Dance Competition will be presented at the Town Hall. At 2 o'clock a wrestling match between Winchester Varsity and Melrose at Melrose High School. Also a skating party at the community rink here, weather permitting. At 6 p.m. there will be a basketball game between the Winchester High and Concord High School Varsity and Junior Varsity Teams in the gym. And at 8 o'clock, the Winter Carnival will culminate with a Carnival Dance in the Town Hall featuring the nationally-known popular teen dance band, "Teddy and The Pandas;" and at this time the Carnival Queen will be presented.

Winchester merchants are supporting the community-wide affair with donated awards and prizes; the Winchester Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees) is assisting by providing buses to bring the visiting Lynn Hockey Team here and by helping run the Dance Night Competition; the Recreation Committee and Park Department are fully behind Mr. Spinney with technical and advisory and manpower assistance; and the young people at the High School are serving on ten operating committees to help run the Winter Carnival themselves (The Winter Carnival General Committee, and the Decorations, Hospitality, Ski, Prize, Transportation, Ticket, Judging and Lighting Committees).

"This will be the first such Winter Carnival in Winchester," Mr. Spinney commented Tuesday, "and everybody seems enthusiastic about it, and many are working hard to make it a very big success."

Adult-Student Conflicts Are Studied at Tufts

Long hair, mini-skirts, tight pants, eye shadow and other aspects of personal appearance have been found to be the major source of irritation and disagreement between youth and adults, a Tufts University survey of five selected New England communities disclosed last week.

The study of youth and adult values in life polled 399 high school students, 110 parents and 30 teachers in Plymouth, N. H., Wilton, Conn., and Quincy, Wellesley and Westboro, Mass. It was presented at the December 15th meeting of the New England School Development Council (NESDC) at the Colonial Inn, Wakefield.

"The survey also brought out another enlightening fact," said Dr. William C. Kvaraceus, Tufts professor of education and director of the project. "In analyzing the adults' perceptions of values held by youths and vice versa, it appears that youths are better psychologists than their parents or teachers."

The survey, sponsored by NESDC in cooperation with the Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts, was designed to clarify the ways in which adults interact with youth and youth with adults.

"When it comes to boys' long hair, tight pants, girls' tight sweaters, heavy make-up and the like, there is real conflict. About 60 percent of the students and adults rated this tops on their 'irritability list.'" said Dr. Kvaraceus.

"Unfortunately, this battleground within the pupil-parent-teacher triangle is the wrong battleground. There is little to be gained in this type of 'war' because one fad will replace another while the more important values will endure."

The report also indicates that while students and adults remain farthest apart on values related to dress and coiffure, they are less at odds on such moral issues as gambling in school, bringing liquor to a school dance, sitting out the school dance in a parked car, and looting someone's locker. In other words, the students are more likely to agree with their superiors that these things are wrong and should not be tolerated.

From the study, Tufts and the NESDC will develop a do-it-yourself kit enabling groups of students to appraise their own values and those held by adults—"if the teachers and parents will let them," adds Kvaraceus.

of connective passageways, with the educational plant on Shore Road Field, and the field house probably between the tracks. The total area approximates 30 acres. The PBC is presently researching subsoil conditions to determine the technical and economic factors involved in supporting a school complex on that site.

According to a League of Women Voters observer present at last Thursday's PBC meeting vote, Joseph Vitka, chairman of the secondary school subcommittee, stated that both the Shore Road Field site and the Turkey Ridge site "are responsible recommendations which meet the educational requirements of the high school program."

John Dolan, School Committee representative to the PBC, said that the School Committee agrees with the PBC that both sites meet the requirements of the educational specifications.

At the same meeting the PBC also voted to include in the warrant for the February Town Meeting one article to authorize it to select an architect for the new high school; and another article authorizing it to commission the architect to prepare preliminary plans on the site voted by the Town Meeting.

The Town Meeting also will be asked to vote the funds for the preliminary plans.

Where Did Our Christmas Symbols Come from, Why?

Stockings hung by the fireplace—boughs of holly—a jolly little man in a red suit—no matter what your favorite Christmas symbol, you can be sure that it had a fascinating beginning.

The symbolic use of the tree, for example, dates back at least 4,000 years, to a time when the Egyptians celebrated in honor of their sun god during the month corresponding to our December. This was the season of rejoicing and the palm tree became its symbol.

As to the origin of the Christmas tree, we must move forward in time to the days of Saint Wilfred in the 7th Century. On one occasion, as he stood among a crowd of his converts, he tried to indicate their severance of all connections with heathen religions by cutting down a great oak. As it fell to earth, the oak split into four pieces and—to the amazement of the converts—a young fir tree with its green spire pointing toward the heavens grew from the center.

"This little tree" said Wilfrid, "is a young child of the forest. It shall be your holy tree tonight. It is the sign of an endless life, for its leaves are evergreen. See how it points toward heaven. Let this be called the tree of the Christ Child."

Another favorite Christmas symbol among children is, of course, Santa Claus. Did you know that jolly St Nick actually existed? It's a fact! The historical St. Nicholas was a popular saint who lived in the fourth century—and who in his lifetime was Bishop of Myra in Asia Minor. He was reputed to be very rich and it is said that he loved to make mysterious journeys bearing secret gifts to the unfortunate.

Legend has it that St. Nicholas knew an old nobleman who was very poor but did not want anyone to know of his dire need. Wishing to give him a gift of money, the Bishop crept to a window of the house and, seeing the old gentleman asleep by the fire, climbed to the roof and dropped the money down the chimney. However, it so happened that the nobleman's daughter had hung some stockings to dry by the fire, the money fell into one of them, and the custom of hanging Christmas stockings by the fireplace had its beginning.

Mistletoe is another symbol of Christmas from the annals of legend. The ancient Druids thought it was sacred and hung sprigs of the plant over the doorways for luck. To the Romans, however, mistletoe was an indication of peace and goodwill. From myth and custom over the years, mistletoe became a symbol of love, and inevitably, the custom evolved of kissing under the mistletoe.

In a way, all the symbols of Christmas we use during the holiday season—from decorating the tree and kissing under the mistletoe, to buying Christmas seals picturing Jesus, Mary and Joseph and hanging stockings by the fireplace—have the same ring: "A very Happy Christmas, and a prosperous New Year to All!"

Christmas On Channel 2

There will be music and drama on Channel 2 on Christmas Day.

Starting at 2 p.m. with a full-length performance of Mozart's opera "The Magic Flute," the festivities include a special concert of Christmas music at 6 p.m., a performance of the colorful music drama "The Play of Daniel" at 7 p.m., and at 8:15 Dylan Thomas reading his own "A Child's Christmas in Wales."

"The Magic Flute," recorded by WGBH last summer at the Berkshire Festival, features Erich Leinsdorf conducting the Boston Symphony Orchestra with soloists Ezio Flagello, Judith Raskin, Beverly Sills and George Shirley.

Then at 6 p.m. the Yale University Glee Club joins forces with the Howard University Choir (Washington, D.C.) fpr a concert of Christmas music, including Bach's Cantata No. 50, "Scenes from the Holy Infancy" by Virgil Thomson and carols from many countries.

Immediately following at 7:00, the late Noah Greenberg directs the New York Musica in "The Play of Daniel," a colorful music drama based on the biblical book of Daniel which so eloquently prophesies the Christ Child's birth. And at 8:15, Welsh poet Dylan Thomas reads his own delightful story of colorful aunts and story-telling uncles that is so much a part of "A Child's Christmas in Wales."

WGBH-FM Fare For Christmas

Christmas Eve on WGBH-FM will be a very special night.

Highlight of the festivities is a performance of the Nativity Plays from Medieval York, broadcast in stereo starting at 7:30 p.m. on December 24

Produced for radio and translated into modern English by WGBH-FM's Bill Caveness, the plays follow the famous Christmas story from the Annunciation to the Flight Into Egypt. Each of the 13 plays from the original cycle of 53 performed by a different craft guild or "Mystery," in Medieval England, and so the York Cycle came to be known as "Mystery Plays;" today they speak with special eloquence that is enhanced by the marvel of stereo broadcasting.

Immediately preceding the York Cycle (at 7 p.m.) Cavness presents what he calls "The Night Before Christmas." Included is the Clement Moore poem every child knows so well, the poem that begins "Twas the Night before Christmas and all through the house...," followed by Roark Bradford's "How Come Christmas?" from "Ol' Man Adam an' Hil Chillun" and a chapter from Jan Struther's novel "Mrs. Miniver" that recalls Christmas in England.

Also of special note: Charles Dickens' "The Goblins Who Stole a Sexton" with Sir Ralph Richardson at 5:30 p.m., and at 11:30 p.m., Christmas carols from the United Kingdom. In addition, on Friday, December 23, Geoffrey Godsell of the Christian Science Monitor recalls "Christmas in Bethlehem" at 6:45 and 11:15 p.m., while at 9:30 p.m Bill Cavness and Iten Scott read Adelbert Stifter's lovely "Das Bergkristall" (Rock Crystal or Holy Night) in both English and German.

Care Reminds Of The Hungry Days

This is the season of watching the calendar—just so many days left for shopping, for mailing Christmas cards, for arranging holiday parties with our families and friends.

Yet to half the people on earth, dates mean nothing.

Tomorrow will be like today and yesterday—days of hunger and suffering. World leaders warn that the gap between food supplies and people in the underdeveloped countries may lead to mass starvation. The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization says: "The world food situation is now more precarious than at any time since the period of acute shortage immediately after the Second World War."

The holiday-season CARE Food Crusade appeal offers a way for Americans to help, with gifts in the true spirit of goodwill and concern for mankind. By combining public contributions, U.S. donations of farm foods and host government support toward local costs, CARE seeks to feed 40,000,000 persons in 32 countries during the coming year, in the name of the American people.

To complete this plan CARE needs $6,500,000, to provide 6,500,000 food packages at a dollar per package. The gifts will nourish famine victims in India, war victims in South Vietnam, helpless children and despairing adults on four continents from Latin America to Africa. You can turn their hungry days into days of new life and hope. Mail your check to: CARE Food Crusade, 120 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass. 02116.

Beranek to Help Plan Celebration For Boston Opera

Winchester members of the Boston Opera Company who attended its annual meeting held December 15 heard Senator-elect and retiring Company president, Edward W. Brooke speak with pride of the group's recent growth. They also elected, among other officers and committee members, Dr. Leo Beranek of 7 Ledgewood Road to be a member of a new Past President's Committee named to plan a 10 year celebration.

Laszlo J. Bonis, former executive vice president was named to succeed Mr. Brooke, who was elected to serve as chairman of the Board. John G. L. Cabot, Dr. Frederick J. Stare, Alfred P. Rudnick and John B. Fisher were elected vice-presidents. Remaining in offices previously held are Treasurer Augustin H. Parker and Secretary-Counsel Dean E. Nicholson.

Senator-elect Brooke in his speech to the group, stressed the importance of continuing to develop audience attendance, which has already increased to the point where the Company has been able to add a third series in the present season. This ticket revenue, he pointed out, contributes 40% of the total cost of operating the company. He also talked about the grants given to the Opera Company of Boston, from the Ford Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts and what these grants have meant, not only financially, but also toward giving the company the national recognition due it. He spoke of the many artistic successes the company has enjoyed under the direction of Sarah Caldwell, who is not content to confine herself strictly to conventional and traditional operas, but has also introduced to the American public a number of daring, adventuresome and controversial works, such as Alban Berg's "Lulu," Luigi Nono's "Intolleranza" and Arnold Schoenberg's "Moses and Aron."

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Bonis spoke about the future of the Opera Company of Boston, pointing up the importance of the community standing behind the opera company and supporting it financially, otherwise it will no longer be able to function as the important artistic organization and cultural asset it has become through its history making productions over the past years. He spoke also of a five to ten year plan to establish a permanent resident company with an opera house of its own, and how this plan can be realized.

At the meeting there were six new committees formed: a Finance Committee, headed by Irving Shapiro; a Development Committee headed by Dr. Frederick J. Stare; an Audience Development Committee headed by Jerome Rappaport; a Facilities Committee, the chairman of which will be announced at a later date; a Social Committee, headed by Mrs. John J. Donahue; and a Past Presidents Committee, comprised of Mrs. David G. Black, John B. Fisher, William Lane, and Senator-elect Brooke in addition to Dr. Beranek. This committee will be chaired by Mrs. Black and its function will be to organize the 10th Anniversary season, which follows the present one.

State Education New CC Booklet Lists Mass. Men In U.S. Congress

A handy pocket size fact and photo booklet on the make-up of the Massachusetts delegation and the next Congress has been published by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The brochure contains photographs of each member of the 14 man delegation, with their addresses and telephone numbers both in Washington and their home districts.

Each member of Congress is listed by districts represented and contains information as to their staff and committee assignments.

The Massachusetts delegation will contain two new faces in the persons of Senator Edward W. Brooke and Representative Margaret Heckler of the 10th district.

The booklet was prepared under the direction of the Chamber. National Affairs, who according to its Chairman Anthony Faunce, felt that the availability of such a booklet would encourage additional interest in the work of the delegation.

Copies of the informative booklet can be obtained from the Government Department of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, 125 High Street, Boston 246-1250.

Exchange Student Experiences

Participating students live with a family as a member of that family. They attend school. This is literally an "Exchange Program." The students from Winchester, in exchange for the hospitality received abroad, agree to be hosts to a South American student in their homes for a period of three months.

The Foreign Student Exchange Program is available to all Winchester High School students who have maintained a certain academic standing, who show emotional maturity, a sense of responsibility, and a sincere desire to participate in a program designed to better international relations.

Information and applications may be obtained at the Guidance Office at the High School or from the chairman of the Student Exchange Program, Mrs. Charles D. Stebbins of 29 Oxford Street.

There will be a meeting at the school in late winter to which all interested students are invited. The Parent-Faculty Association provides financial help to students whose applications are accepted.

Bridge

The Selectmen expressed hope that possibly Mr. Chadwick could get the Legislature to allow an exemption from the law on the basis that the bridge no longer overpasses a major rail line, but only a side spur.

The Selectmen also took under consideration the assumption that moneys-in-aid might be forthcoming from the state for bridge rebuilding assistance in the near future.

Recent Births

Mr. and Mrs. John Frederick Hoyt (Deborah Wadsworth) announce the birth of their third child, third son, William Michael Hoyt on Tuesday, December 13, at Halifax Hospital, Daytona Beach, Florida. Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Herbert Todd Wadsworth of 15 Norwood Street. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hoyt of Schenectady, New York. Sharing great-grandmother honors are Mrs. Frederick W. Aseltine of 7 Cabot Street and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth of California.

Warrant Deadline

The Board of Selectmen this week announced that the Town Warrant for special articles to be considered by the annual 1967 Town Meeting in March will be closed on Tuesday, December 27. Any citizens wishing to place an article in the Warrant should obtain petition papers requiring ten registered voters' signatures from the Town Clerk's Office in the Town Hall and return it before the Tuesday deadline at 4:30 p.m.

Human Toll

Last year during the month of December 103 persons lost their lives on Massachusetts highways—19 more than the previous December. The toll of human life has been the worst in our history so far this year. Only the cooperation of drivers and pedestrians can curb the mounting toll—drive and walk using common sense, courtesy, and consideration for other highway users.

Lesley Elects Mrs. Mead Trustee

At the annual meeting of the Lesley College Corporation held recently Mr. Francis M. Mead was elected to the Board of Trustees and corporation for a term of three years.

Mrs. Mead, the former Mary McCarron, was born in Winchester, attended schools here and Lesley College, class of 1925. For 35 years she was an elementary teacher in this town before retiring in 1963.

Active in Lesley affairs, Mrs. Mead has served for the past 10 years on the Lesley College Alumnae Association Board of Directors.

Mrs. Mead now resides in Belmont with her husband, Francis M. Mead, Assistant vice-president of the New England Tel. and Tel.

Less New Jobs

A sharp decline in the creation of new jobs has been revealed by the NFIB, which conducted a survey of more than 70,000 independent firms. Higher taxes, wage and fringe costs, and credit shortages are blamed.

AN ARMFUL OF CHRISTMAS CHEER is held by Barney Callahan at the Winchester Post Office as he takes a bundle of Xmas mail to be sorted for delivery. According to local postal officials, mail estimated at over 800,000 pieces will have passed through the Post Office here in time for the holiday.

Local Postal Workers Will Enjoy Xmas Holidays with Their Families

During this holiday season the Post Office Department has handled record volumes of mail. Postal personnel have worked tirelessly for over two months in handling the unprecedented mailings and have made extra efforts in guaranteeing delivery of mail to the armed forces, not only in Viet Nam but all over the world.

The postal employees are deserving of a well-earned respite from the long and irregular hours worked during this holiday season.

Whereas both Christmas Day and New Year's Day fall on Sundays this year, the following days, Monday, December 26, 1966, and Monday, January 2, 1967, will be observed as national holidays on which there will be no deliveries of mail with the exception of special delivery and perishable mail.

Experience has demonstrated that virtually no business mail and very small amounts of personal mail are deposited on Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Since mail deposited on these two Sundays this holiday season will not be delivered prior to the following Tuesdays, an excellent opportunity arises to annul certain postal operations on the two Sundays in order to afford the maximum number of postal employees the warmth and friendship of home, family and holidays.

Accordingly, only mail deposited in certain collection boxes will be processed and dispatched on these two Sundays.

To accommodate the small number of people who will wish to avail themselves of this service on the two Sundays, the boxes in front of the Winchester Post Office will be collected at 3:00 p.m., and all special delivery and air mail in these boxes will be dispatched promptly, as well as regular mail collected at the same time.

"Hamlet" Opens At Charles

William Shakespeare's tragedy, "Hamlet" has opened a six week engagement at the Charles Playhouse.

Directed by Michael Murray, the third play of the 10th Anniversary Season at the resident professional theatre is produced by Frank Sugrue and Mr. Murray.

"Hamlet," the first Shakespearean play presented by the Charles Playhouse company, will continue through Sunday, January 22.

Walsh Promoted To Marine Major

Marine Major Robert L. Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Walsh of 4 Harrington Road, was recently promoted to his present rank during informal ceremonies in the office of Major General R. G. Weede at Headquarters, Marine Corps, Washington, D.C.

A 1950 graduate of Winchester High School, Major Walsh entered the Marines upon graduation from Colgate University in 1955.

During his career in the Marines he has served at Camp Pendleton, Calif.; London, England; Okinawa and Quantico, Va., before his present assignment to Headquarters, Marine Corps, in Washington.

He is currently serving as the Radio-Television Project Officer in the Procurement Aids Branch of the Marine Headquarters.

Major Walsh is married to the former Constance L. McKee and has two daughters.

Icy Spots

Ice is twice as slippery at 30 degrees as it is at 0 degrees. It lasts longer on bridges and in shade—so be alert here. If you hit an unexpected ice patch, don't try to brake, accelerate or steer. Maintain speed and let your car "roll" through the slippery area.

At Christmas—And All Year 'Round—A Search for Friendship Overseas

For All Ages — One Stamp a Ticket Around the World

Would you like to be a foreigner in another land—but you can't afford the fare?

Would you like to start the new year responding to a gesture from someone overseas—an investment in a few minutes with a piece of paper and a pen—which will bring a fresh, new view of the world into your life?

The International Friendship League has the answer—for all ages.

Thirty years in the business of match making for friendship alone, the organization is a monument to the desire of people around the world to understand each other and to multiplied yearnings for new associations and wider horizons.

Into the offices of the Friendship League, located at the corner of Mt. Vernon and Walnut Streets on Beacon Hill, comes a daily load of four big bags of mail from all over the world.

Some 250 requests for a correspondence friendship come in every day. They come from Denmark, from Pakistan, from India, from all but the non-free countries in the world. They come from all ages.

According to the Misses Edna and Margaret McDonough who have been directing the enterprise since its inception, any new headline about something happening in another country, brings a bagfull of mail asking for pen pals in that country.

Andrea Chapin of 4 Salisbury Street is one of the most important workers at the League center on Beacon Hill. And she, too, reports on the surges of mail which reflect political news here and abroad.

"Any country which has just received its freedom is one from which we are bound to hear a lot. Gambia and Malaysia in Africa are examples. Just as soon as they have something to say about their own government, they want to know how ours is run."

Mail has been heaviest from Japan and India in the past few years. Everyone there seems to want to talk by mail with someone in our country. And our continuing problem is to find in the United States enough people to answer the mail."

A hunt for American friends—this is the daily job of the staff at the International Friendship League. There are five paid workers and some 32 helpers on their lists who contribute about 680 volunteer hours a week toward the effort.

Just sorting the mail is a tremendous job. It comes in on a ratio of 4 or 5 foreigners wanting American pen pals to one American wanting overseas correspondence. Miss Chapin's job is the more refined difficult one of matching person to person. Age, sex, special interests—these she must mate up as best she can.

"Although the average age of our correspondents here is 14 or 15," said Miss Margaret McDonough, "we are very anxious for older persons to join our project."

"There are older persons in, for instance, Australia, who live 200 miles from their nearest neighbor. They love to have an American write to them and tell of hopping into a car and going here and there."

"Russia? We tried it but the answers were too stereotyped to warrant the effort. Teachers would put up answers on the blackboard and they would all come through the same. We may get the State Department to help us to re-open this area, though. Things do change"

Miss Edna McDonough and Christian Herter worked together to start the International Friendship League. The idea occurred to Miss McDonough when a Danish educator visiting here confided to her that the questions asked by our elementary school children about how their Danish counterparts live were some of the silliest he'd ever heard.

The idea of the non-profit group got underway and today it lists some 800,000 members. Life members they are, too. For the one dollar initial membership brings this privilege to anyone for good.

Christmas is a fine time to initiate a foreign correspondence. To start one just mail a self addressed stamped envelope to 40 Mt. Vernon Street. In return one will receive the application blank.

THE UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

BURLINGTON

Rev. Richard G. Douse, Minister
10 Arlington Road, Ext.
Burlington - 272-9383

Family Worship Service, led by the Reverend Richard G. Douse, is held Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in the United Presbyterian Church, 335 Cambridge Street (Route 3A) and Wilmington Road. (Route 62.) Church school classes for second grade through Senior High School and adults are conducted at 9:15 a.m. Three-year-olds through first grade meet during the worship hour (10:30-11:30 a.m.) A Nursery for infants and toddlers is maintained during both hours.

Sunday, December 25

A Christmas Eve Candelighting Service will take place at the Burlington Presbyterian Church 7 p.m. and will portray the Nativity in scripture and music. As part of the worship service a dramatic reading of the contemporary sketch "Let the People Speak" by Arthur L. Zapel, Jr. will be heard.

The combined choirs will sing "The Three Kings" by Romeu. The adult choir anthems will be "Tell Us, Shepherd Maids" by Caldwell and "I Wonder as I Wander" by Niles with Mrs. Franklin Robertor of Burlington as soprano soloist.

On Christmas Day, the Rev. Richard G. Douse will take as his sermon theme "Christmas Journeys." Special Christmas music will include the Polish carol "Infant Holy, Infant Lowly" to be sung by the Junior Choir. The adult choir offering will be "The Shepherds' Story" by Dickinson with Mrs. Joel Jensen of Bedford as soprano soloist and Mr. Joel Jensen as Bass soloist. A cordial invitation is extended to all to worship at these services.

Adult caroling will be held at the V.A. Hospital in Bedford on Friday, December 23 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served to the carolers after, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Adams of Bedford.

An Ecumenical Youth Conference will be held at St. Thomas Church in Wilmington Dec. 27 through 29. One hundred Senior High School youths—Roman Catholics, United Church of Christ and Presbyterian will live and work together and deal with the theme "The Emerging Christian."

The Boston Presbytery meeting will be held on December 27 at 7:30 with Mr. James Naylor of Bedford as Delegate.

"God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

This passage from II Corinthians will be the Golden Text for the Lesson-Sermon titled, "Christian Science," to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday, Christmas day.

Scriptural passages include the story of the birth of Jesus and the adoration of the Magi as well as many references to Jesus' healing ministry.

One of the related selections from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will be this:

"Christ's Christianity is the chain of scientific being reappearing in all ages, maintaining its obvious correspondence with the Scriptures and uniting all periods in the design of God."

Congregational Choirs, Brass In Special Music

The combined Senior Choirs of the First Congregational Church, assisted by the Botolph Brass Ensemble, presented a beautiful choral service of special Christmas music at both morning church services on Sunday, December 18.

At the beginning of the service the choirs sang two carol anthems a capella from the balcony, "Born Today" by Sweelinck, and "Psallite" (Now We Sing) by Praetorius.

The invocation and Lord's Prayer were led by Dr. Kenneth Henley. Then the choirs, under the direction of Robert White, with Mrs. Barbara White as organist, sang a thrilling arrangement of "Now Thank We All Our God" by Pachelbel, with the brass ensemble. The voices of the choirs and the instrumental fanfares echoed back and forth in a movingly dramatic presentation of the well-known hymn.

The combined choirs then sang the glorious "Psalm 150" by Bender. The brass ensemble was a dramatic combination with the full sound of the voices of the mixed choirs.

During the offertory a lovely, serene Christmas composition, "Offetoire" by Dubois was played by the organist, Mrs. White.

Dr. Dwight Cart gave a fine meditation on "The Praise and the Glory," during which he emphasized the power of music in expressing joy and sorrow in every phase of life and in praising the glory of God.

Then the choirs and brass ensemble presented "Gloria" by Hovhaness. In this contemporary piece the individual voice parts sang the melody alone, and at the end the full choir sang a full chorale melody in eight parts.

After the processional hymn, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," the Botolph Brass Ensemble played two thrilling postludes, "Rigaudon" by Campra and "Sonata No. 12" by Pezel.

The large congregation at both services went home filled with Christmas spirit after hearing this beautiful Christmas service. Many long hours of preparation were involved in presenting the service. And the congregation is grateful to all who participate in the choirs of the church.

Members of the choir are:

Sopranos — Mrs. Frank Bates, Mrs. Beverly Butters, Mrs. George Carter, Miss Joanne Eklund, Mrs. David Evans, Mrs. Richard Gaenzle, Mrs. Stephen Hall, Mrs. Anthony Hars, Mrs. Susan Hice, Miss Margaret Hodgson, Miss Alta Merritt, Mrs. Robert Millican, Mrs. Mortimer Nickerson, Mrs. Ralph Seferian, Mrs. Walter Stockwood, Mrs. Robert Wert, Mrs. Alexander Pugh.

Altos — Mrs. Scott Cunningham, Mrs. Walter Farrell, Mrs. Fred Greene, Mrs. Arthur Holmes, Mrs. Aram Marashian, Miss Flora Mardigian, Mrs. Judd Miner, Mrs. Stephen Moore, Mrs. Aram Mouradian, Miss Leonor Rich, Mrs. Judith Sadowski, Miss Mary Dean Snell, Miss Ruth Van Hoek, Mrs. Robert White.

Tenors — Mrs. Carolyn Mawdsley, Robert Mathews, Philip Morrison, Aram Mouradian, Craig Nickerson, Philip Parsons.

Basses — Dr. Frank Bates, George Carter, David Evans, Fred Greene, George Littell, Curtic McLaughlin, Judd Miner, James Reynolds, Kirby Snell, Dr. Robert Wert, Robert Whitman.

Christ Is In The Book Of Mormon, Too

"Local members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints have a dual reason for celebrating the Christmas season," said Stanley Taylor who is Bishop of the Billerica Ward (parish) of the Church.

"In addition to the beautiful description of the events surrounding the birth of Christ as found in the Holy Bible," said Bishop Taylor, "we also have another source which describes some little known facts about the life of Christ and which we accept as scripture along with the Bible."

"This second source," continued Bishop Taylor, "is The Book of Mormon, used as a companion volume to the Bible."

"The Book of Mormon is the religious history of a great nation that once existed on the American continent from approximately 600 B.C. to 400 A.D. This nation also had its Prophets who received revelations from God as did the Old and New Testament Prophets," Bishop Taylor explained.

"God revealed to them the same Gospel that he revealed to the Holy Land Prophets and they also knew of the birth, death and resurrection of Christ. Eventually Christ also appeared to them on this Western continent and taught them the same things he taught in Jerusalem," said Bishop Taylor.

The "plowback allowance" is advocated by the National Federation of Independent Business to allow businesses to reinvest to prevent further unemployment, civic strife, and business liquidation.

Products & Services Here For Your Convenience:

Do Your Xmas Shopping At The Market Place

Unusual and distinctive gifts are to be found at the Candle Shop at 29 Thompson Street. This new curio shop in Winchester offers scented soaps, in one variety of three appealing scents five for a dollar! One interesting item purchased by a browser was a two-inch wide, one foot high, green pine scented candle that really gives a room a warm Christmasy air! Also, candle holders, in wrought iron, silver, antique brass and wood, from $1.50 and up—stylish in any room, and a real good buy! Cuckoo Clocks, and antiques of many varieties and at reasonable prices too. Also, antiques appraised and bought as well as sold; and clocks repaired. All at the new Candle Shop. Visit, browse, and see some great Christmas gift ideas!

One terrific Christmas gift idea for women is cosmetics, and O'Neil's Pharmacy at 294 Washington Street is the place to look for just the right kind of perfume, hairspray, or other cosmetic. Shoppers are welcome to browse to find "the perfect one for ......," and Paul O'Neil says he is always happy to help customers find what they are looking for, and give helpful advice if needed. O'Neil's also carries many other Christmas gift items, such as a handsome traveling shave kit for men. Stop in and see why many gift hunters go to O'Neil's first.

With the colder winter winds blasting regularly through Winchester now, those predicted 89 inches of snow are on their way, and any homeowner or business that wants to have a driveway promptly attended to and kept clear of snow after each storm has only to call Guy LaMarca of LaMarca Construction Company at 113 Cambridge Street (Telephone: 729-3024) to have arrangements made. Driveways cleared from as low as $5 a storm (minimum); or, at whole season rates, dependent upon the size of the driveway.

Johnson's Wallpaper Shop at 747 Main Street has distinctive wallpaper designs to fit every decor, style and taste, Select from a wide variety of colors and styles and fashions the best wallpaper for a room in your house—or give a Christmas gift certificate allowing the one of your choice to choose a choice selection.

The Old Farmer's Almanac this year predicts a snowfall of 89 inches for New Englanders, but, the smart Christmas shopper will be ready for it when it comes with a new Jacobson Snow Jet—"it throws the snow where you want it to go!" says Bob Conant of Winchester Power Equipment. This handy Jacobsen Snow Jet is ideal for just about every homeowner: it cuts a 20 inch swath; has a high velocity snow discharge for quicker snow removal on sidewalks, paths to incinerators and garbage cans, and driveways; has an easy starter mechanism; has an advanced 3½ horsepower engine; and finger tip controls for easy maneuverability. Winchester Power Equipment, just moved from 802 Main Street to the C. H. Symmes Building at 745-747 Main Street, carries other types of snow blowers, too, and also services all kinds of small engines. Visit Winchester Power Equipment for a good, appropriately seasonal gift this winter.

Christmas parties? For great hors d'oeuyres, chips and dips, snacks or full meal suggestions and supplies, Arthur Leland, new proprietor at Ward's Market at 19 Thompson Street, has just the right ideas and furnishings to make Christmas and New Year Season's parties easier and tastier!

CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEAS!

Have a youngster turning 16 soon? A good Christmas present would be to enroll him or her in a B & T Auto Driving School course. B & T Auto Driving School at 280 Washington Street here in Winchester gives expert driver instruction and training to all age groups, and has proven especially adept at training the nervous beginning driver. Telephone 729-1197 for particulars.

Going to a formal occasion during the Christmas or New Year's Season? Gregory's Formal Wear at 162 Massachusetts Avenue in Arlington caters to many Winchester customers who know that Gregory's famous name formals and service is the best in the Greater Boston Suburban area. And Gregory's offers expert consulting advice for formal events to those who wish to help in planning or selecting formal wear and other accessories.

And for those family shopping and Christmas photos you take, E. R. Knox, Inc. of Medford, daily picks up films and delivers quality finished prints at 6 convenient locations in Winchester: the Aberjona, Cradock, Hevey's, McCormack's, and O'Neil's pharmacies, and the Winchester News Store.

Books make excellent Christmas gifts, and the Spaulding Bookshop-McGhees Gift Shop at 39-41 Thompson Street has many good books for all age groups and all kinds of interests. For example: Arthur Griffin's new photographic study of "New England Revisited" is an exceptionally interesting book in any New England home. Or give the dictionary that caught up with the English language, "The Random House Dictionary of the English Language." Also, good fiction, textbooks, hobby and special interests books to suit every interest. Spaulding-McGhees also carries art supplies and a variety of other gifts in the gift shop—stop in and pick out gifts that are sure to please!

Does that Volkswagen or Porsche need a winter tune-up? Or how about that extra accessory item for the car? Pass & Weisz, Inc. at 287 Salem Street in Woburn has German trained and licensed Volkswagen and Porsche specialist mechanics that handle many Winchester VW's and carry a complete stock of VW and Porsche parts and accessories. TODAY AT THE WYMAN SCHOOL in the Christmas program fourth graders Greg DiGiovanni, Bruce Hanes, John Saylor, Steven Ferri, David Schipellite, and (in front) Ned Scanlon will sing songs of peace, the theme of the presentation.

Peace, Christmas 'Round The World, Chanukah Themes For School Programs

Peace, Christmas 'Round The World, Chanukah Themes For School Holiday Programs

Christmas programs were presented in the Winchester Elementary schools this week and evidenced hard work and enthusiasm by all the children and their classroom teachers. In the background throughout the play, pageant or concert of each school are the unsung heroines, the educational specialists in art and music who work with every school in perfecting, accompanying, and directing the program to a successful performance.

The art department specialists, Mrs. Virginia F. Diegelman and Miss Marguerite Maserian, played a large part in the preparation of scenery by the children. The beautiful musical effects of choirs and instrumentalists were inspired by the diligence of music specialists Miss Natalie L. Bellows, Miss Jeanne Loudon, and Mrs. Eleanor Thistlethwaite.

All grades of the Wyman School participated in their program based on a theme of "Peace" on December 22. Carollers were part of the scene produced by the 4th grade.

"Candles Glow, Carols Chime—The Sights and Sounds of Christmas Time" was the title of the Lincoln School program given December 16. Tableaux by the children in the six grades included angels, Chanukah customs, an African Christmas song with drum accompaniment, and the traditional creche.

Vinson-Owen presented a Christmas Concert of instrumental numbers and choral music performed by the 110-voice choir of the sixth grades.

Christmas Customs Around the World were dramatized by the 4th graders of Mr. Simone and Mrs. Morse at the Parkhurst School on December 21. The children sang appropriate songs from each country during the program.

Mystic School children presented "Symbols of Christmas" on December 20 with grades 1-4 participating in the dramatics and carols.

Tableaux and Christmas music were part of the program entitled "Christmas in Other Lands" given at Washington School on December 21.

The pupils of Noonan School presented a Christmas program Wednesday, December 21 entitled "Sing for Christmas." It consisted of narrations of the familiar carols combined with singing of the carols by the children of grades 1-5. An explanation of Chanukah was given by Deborah Levin, Grade 3, followed by the singing of Rock of Ages by her classmates.

Group Completes First Aid Course

The following residents of Winchester recently completed the Standard First Aid Course: Mrs. Rudolph Fiore, Mrs. Percy H. Hill, Mrs. Edward J. Murphy, Jr., Miss Eileen Sullivan and Miss Kathy Sullivan.

Carlton W. Totman was the Red Cross instructor for the five week course given at the Winchester Chapter House. The Red Cross will offer another course to teach citizens the basics of first aid in a few months. Interested persons may leave their names at the Chapter office (729-2300) for an alert when the course is announced.

Marycliff Names Merit Date Test

Parents of Marycliff Academy students are reminded that those girls who expect to complete their secondary school requirements and enter college in 1968 can register now to participate in the 1967-68 National Merit Scholarship Program, according to Sister Elizabeth Farragher, R.C.E.

The first step for all students who wish to enter the nationwide competition is to take the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT), which will be given in the school at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, February 28.

Participating students pay a $1 fee, which is remitted by the school to Science Research Associates (SRA), the testing agency. When the test is given on a Saturday, the school may charge an additional fee up to $1 for special administrative costs of testing on a nonschool day. If a student is unable to pay the testing fee, it will be paid by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) at the request of his school.

In addition to competing for the Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1968, students can take the test to obtain information useful in planning their future education and careers. With his NMSQT scores, each participating student will receive a handbook to help him evaluate his scores, compare his performance with that of other high school students across the country, and give him information on choosing a college and financing his education. The handbook and other interpretive materials are furnished as a part of reporting the test results.

The highest scoring students in each state will be named Semifinalists and will be eligible for Merit Scholarship consideration. In addition to the National Merit Scholarships financed by NMSC, more than 350 business corporations, foundations, colleges, professional associations, unions, trusts, other organizations, and individuals offer scholarships through the Merit Program.

About 13,440 students have won Merit Scholarships in the eleven Merit Programs to date. Some 2330 Merit Scholarships were awarded in 1966 with stipends ranging from $100 to $1,500 per year for four college years. The amount of a winner's award is determined by assessing the financial assistance he will need to attend the college of his choice.

See-Ability

The need to see and be seen in winter weather is an absolute must. Never underestimate the hazard of bad weather driving at night. Rain or fog distort vision and cut down illumination. Driving into swirling snowflakes is one of the most dangerous of all motoring experiences.

Clean mud spatter and slush from headlights and windshields. Don't take chances by driving with reduced visibility. Ninety per cent of decisions which drivers make and the action they take are based on what they can SEE.

Stop Time

Winter calls for plenty of stopping room, so keep a kingsized interval between your car and the car ahead. Approaches to intersections often are packed and polished with snow or ice. Slow down early so you won't slide into cross traffic. Avoid side streets—they are especially dangerous as they are usually the last to be salted. Give yourself more stopping and steering control with quick, hard jabs on the brake pedal.

Leadership For Tufts

NATIONAL LEADER of Tufts University Annual Fund for 1966-67 is Alan W. Sampson, right, a United Shoe Machinery executive, who is congratulated by Dr. Leonard C. Mead, acting president of Tufts and a former resident of Mt. Pleasant Street, for his record-breaking achievement in last year's drive. The current annual fund has an $800,000 goal, to be raised by more than 2,000 volunteer solicitors by June, 1967. It will be used to up faculty pay and create more aid for needy students.

Forum Alumni Greet Holidays

The Forum Alumni of the First Congregational Church met for a pleasant Christmas Party Sunday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William D. Barone. The group, consisting mostly of college young people home for the holidays, had not been together since Thanksgiving time and many of them had not seen each other since the September Pot-Luck Supper.

Between 50 and 60 members were present along with several guests-of-members. The Barones were happy to greet Sally Worthen and Nancy Chase who had not been able to attend before and Peter Berg, the newest member who recently moved to Winchester. Fred Cardin, Jr., Steve Emery, and Jeff Russell were on hand after a long absence! Craig Nickerson, Charlotte Dennett, Judy Robison and Judy Wells helped with the refreshments.

Dr. and Mrs. Cart and Dr. and Mrs. Henley, pastors of the Church, dropped in to extend Christmas greetings while Leon Smith, a long-time friend of the Congregational young people, was invited as special guest.

The Forum Alumni activities for the holiday season are:

Friday, December 23—Forum's Mistletoe Dance. Saturday, December 24—Christmas Eve Caroling starting at the Common at 6:45. Christmas Eve—Service at First Congregational Church at 11 p.m. Sunday, January 1—guests at the 9:15 Forum Service.

Distractions

Brightly-decorated streets and store windows are tempting distractions to drivers at this season of year. Motorists and pedestrians may also be looking at these same sights and may not see your vehicle. So, be alert—watch the road at all times— avoid accidents.

Employment Rose 3% in Country In One Year

Employment in Middlesex County rose 3 percent between March, 1964, and March, 1965, according to one of the nation's economic indicators "County Business Patterns" issued recently by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

County Business Patterns, now published annually, uses payroll information gathered for the first quarter of each calendar year by the Social Security Administration covering employment in most kinds of business and industry but excluding notably agricultural and government workers and the self-employed.

Number of employees in the County, in businesses covered by the report, for March 1965 totaled 364,838 as against 353,125 for the same month a year earlier. First quarter payrolls for the two years were $483.9 million and $469.6 million respectively.

Manufacturing, the largest group of employers in the County, reported a March 1965 total of 152,576 employees and 3-month payrolls of $229.6 million. Service firms, the County's second largest group of employers, had a total of 76,515 employees and $91.5 million in quarterly payrolls.

The County ranked 2nd among the 14 counties in the state in March, 1965, in number of employees in businesses covered in the report. The leading counties in the state in this respect were:

Suffolk with 411,157 employees
Middlesex with 364,838 employees
Worcester with 184,717 employees
Essex with 166,303 employees
Hampden with 134,042 employees

Comparable figures for Massachusetts as a whole show the state's employment rose some 3 percent from 1,611,643 to 1,658,526 between March, 1964, and March, 1965.

Total January - through - March 1965 payrolls amounted to $2,044.1 million as against $1,989.2 million for the previous year's first quarter. For the state, manufacturing led with 666,571 employees and a quarterly payroll of $911.4 million.

More detailed data for the state, counties, and metropolitan areas by type of industry and employment-size are shown in "County Business Patterns, 1965-Massachusetts" for sale at the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 or at any U.S. Dept. of Commerce Field Office.

Other state reports and a U.S. summary range in price from 25c to $2.00. State reports will be reassembled into a set of five volumes and will also be available on tapes and punch cards. Address questions to Business Division, U.S. Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

Caution

The Christmas season is a joyous period for everyone but it is a potential accident generator because of the rush to complete shopping chores, drinking at parties, early hours of darkness, and often inclement weather. Drivers are asked to use extra caution during the holiday period—Care and common sense will go a long way toward assuring a safe and merry Christmas for motorists and their families.

Kiwanis Club Hears of Drug Abuses From Representative of Drug Industry

Young people should be made aware of the dangers inherent in misuse of prescription drugs, a representative of a major pharmaceutical firm recently reminded the Kiwanis members here.

Raymond J. Hanscom, of the Smith Kline & French Laboratories in Philadelphia, urged parents and others who deal with youth to emphasize that "only the weak and emotionally crippled abuse drugs to face life and only the dull and ignorant abuse drugs to enjoy life."

Addressing the Winchester Kiwanis, Mr. Hanscom said the prescription products most often abused are the amphetamine and barbiturate drugs. Each has a different effect and both are medically useful and important, he added.

Drug abuse is not confined to young people, Mr. Hanscom said, nor is it exclusively a city problem. Drug abusers can be found in any kind of community and from all walks of life.

"The adult abuser of drugs usually has a history of social maladjustment," the pressures and demands of society are too much for him to bear. Often he has a background of family difficulties, disciplinary problems in school and trouble with the police. But for the Juvenile drug abuser this pattern does not necessarily apply."

"A significant fact is that juvenile drug abuse seldom takes place by ones and twos. It is usually in a gang or party setting. Somebody starts it and everyone else goes along for fear of appearing 'chicken'."

Mr. Hanscom advised parents to know where their children spend their time and with whom. If their behavior changes drastically, he said, the family physician should examine the youngster. He said the amphetamine abuser who takes large doses usually is jumpy, excited and sweating, the pupils of the eyes are dilated and he may have bad breath and hand tremor. The barbituate abuser taking large doses may pass through a stage in which he is extremely restless, hostile and quarrelsome, but more frequently the drug's sedative effects are evident. Speech is slurred, the user walks unsteadily and he resembles a drunk in almost every way except there is no smell of alchohol about him.

Mr. Hanscom said his firm "strongly supports" federal legislation to help control the drug abuse problem. But, he added, laws are not enough. They must be enforced. "Probably nothing handicaps the police officer in control of juveniles more than the apathy of parents and public."

Dr. Donald J. Senna, program chairman introduced Mr. Hanscom and the group received his talk with much interest. Roland Twombly, president, reminded Kiwanis Club members that the next meeting, which was to have taken place yesterday, was planned as a Christmas buffet for Kiwanis and their wives.

Annual installation of new officers is to be on February 11.

Midnight Service This Saturday At Crawford Church

The traditional service of Christmas carols and candle-lighting will be held at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Saturday, Christmas Eve, starting at 11:15 o'clock and concluding shortly after midnight.

The service will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. H. Newton Clay, who will trace the Christmas story through the Old Testament prophesies and the Gospel accounts. The Sanctuary Choir will sing an anthem and Gloria maifeld, soprano, will sing "O Holy Night." Many of the well known Christmas Carols will be sung and the service will be concluded by the beautifully impressive lighting of the Christmas candles symbolizing the birth of Him who is the "Light of the World," and the spreading of the Christian Gospel.

Operation Change

Saint Mary's Holy Name Society will take part in "Operation Change Plate," a project sponsored by the Holy Name Societies of the Archdioceses of Boston. This project has been conducted in the greater Boston area for the past five years with the proceeds going to the benefit of the Pope John XXIII Seminary in Weston.

Whereas the new aluminum plates will be placed on all motor vehicles for a period of five years, an extra effort on the Holy Name Societies' part to help the seminar has induced most parishes in this area. So all automobile owners are requested to come to the St. Mary's school parking area off Washington Street Saturday, December 31st from 9 to 4 p.m. to see that their new plates (even the cardboard ones) are secured properly to the vehicle.

All members of St. Mary's Holy Name with hidden ability as mechanics are urged to be in attendance to assist in this noteworthy project.

Mothers Learn Of Lincoln School Kindergartens

Lincoln School kindergarten mothers met to discuss curriculum with Lincoln Kindergarten teacher Miss Winifred Richardson.

At the afternoon meeting in the Lincoln kindergarten room, examples of the children's art work were shown to demonstrate the many stages of learning development which occur at the kindergarten level.

Miss Richardson emphasized "The total kindergarten program is aimed at individual development. Each child progresses according to his own rate."

Mrs. Ralph Della Grotte was in charge of meeting preparations assisted by room mothers Mrs. Joseph Campo, Mrs. Arthur Wilson and Mrs. Bernard Harleston.

Leaders Meet At Vinson-Owen

Dr. Clare M. Corcoran, principal of Vinson-Owen School and a member of the State Kindergarten Committee, sponsored an all-day meeting of the Committee held at Vinson-Owen on Monday, December 19.

Guest speakers for this meeting were Dr. George L. Miller of 22 Thornberry Road, dean of professional education at Lesley College, and Dr. Evelyn Pitcher, professor and chairman of the Eliot Pearson Department of Child Study at Tufts University.

The 12-member State Kindergarten Committee is composed of superintendents, assistant superintendents and principals and was appointed following the report of the Willis-Harrington Commission. This committee is studying the feasibility of the State Board of Education requiring kindergartens in all school systems in the Commonwealth.

Recruiter Defines Specialists' Job In The Air Force

"In the United States Air Force" said Sgt. David F. Woodford, Air Force recruiter, "specialization is necessary in flying supersonic aircraft . . . manning missile complexes. . .conducting space probes and a multitude of jobs."

The Air Force has a real need, right now, for many specialists. Special opportunities are open to young college graduates with a major in the scientific-engineering fields. "College graduates have excellent opportunities to apply their knowledge in the Air Force," reports Sgt. Woodford. Applicants must have a college degree, be in good physical condition, and be willing to work hard. Attendance at Officer Training School is the first step and graduation leads to a lieutenant's commission."

As an officer, the scientific-engineering specialist deals with design, development, installation, modification, testing and analysis of vital Air Force equipment.

Old Favorites To Brighten Christmas On Channel 2

An outstanding dramatic production, Dylan Thomas reading, and a complete performance of Handel's oratorio "Messiah" highlight Christmas week on Channel 2.

On Friday, December 23 at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., and again on Christmas Day at 7 p.m., "The Play of Daniel" relates the story of the prophet Daniel, his encounter with King Belshazzar and his miraculous deliverance from the lion's den. First seen on Channel 2 one year ago, the Yuletide music drama was unanimously acclaimed by reviewers as a production of rare beauty - one they all agreed should become an annual event.

Performed by the New York Pro Musica under the direction of the late Noah Greenberg, "The Play of Daniel" was first presented at New York's famous Cloisters in 1958, and was recorded there by National Educational Television.

Also on Friday night at 9:15 (repeated Christmas Day at 8:15, Dylan Thomas will again be seen reading his own delightful, not-to be missed "A Child's Christmas in Wales."

Then on Christmas Eve perhaps the most famous of all oratorios - Handel's "Messiah" - will be presented in a complete, unabridged performance by the Handel and Haydn Society starting at 8 p.m.

Also of special note: Julia Child makes the famous French Yule Log Saturday, December 24 at 7:30 p.m. and Rose Baboian prepares the popular Near Eastern Christmas pastry "Golden Star Paklava" today at 3 p.m.

Can Slides Do It? (For Smith Coll.)

With the news that Vassar may move to New Haven, and the near-by existence of Radcliffe as a co-educational institution, the Smith Club of Winchester may have a difficult time in high-lighting the advantages of education in Northampton, according to the college alumnae here. However, the club has found 35 students from Winchester, Woburn, Medford and Stoneham High Schools who have expressed an interest in hearing more about Smith. These girls have been invited for brunch at 10:30 a.m. on December 27, at the home of Mrs. Thomas Craig, where they will have the opportunity to see colored slides of the college and to ask questions of the Smith undergraduates now home on vacation. If pictures fail to convey the spirit of the college, perhaps the enthusiasm of the alumnae hostesses will succeed.

The hockey team got off to a good start, defeating Concord and Watertown in its first two games. However, there's trouble ahead. Melrose, power-packed, annihilated Watertown 13-0, which Winchester had trouble squeezing by 4-3. Henry Hughes' Red Raiders have everything: Dick Umile, who was second-high scorer in the Middlesex League last year; Captain Mike Sullivan flanking him at the other wing; sophomore center Steve Dolloff, whiz kid with last year's undefeated freshman team, whom Hughes predicts will be one of the greatest of schoolboy hockey stars; and a second line on a par with the first. Melrose is deep in defense. The only question mark is goalie Ken Wells, who saw little action behind Jerry Healey last year, but who was good enough in his first game to score a shutout.

Stoneham (which plays Winchester Monday) is extremely strong. It walloped Concord 7-0. Sportswriters figure this team to offer Melrose the stiffest competition.

Though both Winchester's victories came by modest margins, a win is a win.

In the listing of the 1966-67 Sachem hockey roster, Ed Roy was inadvertently left out. He played on the varsity last year and was outstanding in Youth Hockey, declared most valuable player in his last year.

Barry Johnson, George Murphy and Kent Parrot were on the ice at the same time Saturday night when Harvard lost in overtime 8-7 to the strong Eastern Olympics. Winchesterites had a chance to see them in action over Channel 2. Barry scored two of Harvard's goals.

Winchester lost in its first winter track meet to Belmont Saturday at Lexington 36-46. Fahey won the 2-mile, Halverson won the shot put, Cronin the 45-yard dash, Fern the 600, and Benshimol the mile. Although the Sachems placed first in five of eight events, there was not enough depth to capture enough of the runner-up spots.

Miss Betty Bixler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bixler of Fells Road, was awarded a varsity letter in field hockey for the 1966 season at Swarthmore. Betty, who was also captain of the team, was the mainstay of the squad, which went through the season undefeated. She is used to playing on winning teams; she starred on Miss Jan Collins' teams during her high school days at WHS.

The saddest man about town is Charlie Freni, whose Patriots dropped the game to the New York Jets and with it the chance for the big money. About the only consolation Charlie could possibly get out of that game is the great showing his pal, Chuck Shonta, made, coming up from the secondary time and again to nail Jet runners.

Those few disgruntled armchair experts who with such dogmatic self-assurance classify the Patriots' showing as a case of folding when the chips are down have a short memory. This 1966 team has displayed more guts than any team in the AFL since the league's inception. Coming off a miserable start which saw it win but one game in its first four and declared by everybody to be out of the running, it fought and clawed its way through the next nine games, losing only one, and that on the craziest kind of fluke. It trounced Buffalo twice, the team which backed into the Eastern Division title.

Through game after game it played inspired football and there was bound to be a letdown. Pity it is that it had to come against a team that was loose and played the finest game of its career. Here's what Joe Namath, who played such a great game to defeat the Pats, had to say:

"We got hot the last game of the year, when it didn't do us any good. The thing is that Boston deserves the Eastern championship and should have it. They deserve is because Mike Holovak is a helluva coach whose team had no business having a great year and they did. They beat Buffalo twice and now Buffalo's going to be the champion. Buffalo's going to win what should be Boston's."

And here's what Buffalo Coach Collier has to say:

"All I could think of was Mike Holovak and how he would get his team ready for the Jets. The man's a master. What he's done is unbelievable. He beat us twice and I have to admit we have better personnel.

"There was another side. How could Mike get his club up again? Every week he had that job. He had the Patriots sky high for us and it carried over in Houston."

Well, it didn't carry over in New York, and that's the pity. The human spirit can reach its apex only by a supreme effort of the will and maintain its lofty position for only a brief time. The Patriots players ,and though Coach Holovak may have been their guiding spirit, it was players who had to do the dirty work) clung to the heights longer than anyone thought possible.

The Red Sox should do such folding when the chips are down.

Sachem Hockey Season Under Way; Winchester over Concord, Watertown

The Winchester High School hockey team officially opened its season with a win over Concord in a Middlesex League game played at Melrose Hockeytown U.S.A. Wednesday, December 14. The score was 4-1.

Bob Nutile, switching over from wing to center this year to fill the spot vacated by Dave Rowe, figured in all the scoring, getting assists on three of the goals and driving in the other when he came in alone from the left point and beat Concord goalie Mark Keilty with a high drive into the upper left corner.

After a scoreless first period, Fred McCormack banged in the first marker in the second.

It was a good workout for the members of the team, with practically the entire squad seeing action.

Winchester — g, McHugh; rd, Wood; ld, Dalton; c, Nutile; rw, Blanche; lw, Murray. Spares — Cruwys, Newhall, Roy, Sullivan, Putnam, Mears, McCormack, Stabile.

Winchester	0	2	2—4
Concord	0	0	1—1

Goals—McCormack, Cruwys, Nutile, Blanche, Orpik.

Assists—Nutile 3, Cruwys, Stabile, Wood.

WINCHESTER DEFEATS WATERTOWN 4-3

Winchester won its second game of the young hockey season last Saturday, December 17, squeaking by a battling Watertown team that came from a 3-0 deficit to tie the Sachems in the final period. The tie lasted just 23 seconds, as Bob Nutile scored his second goal of the game and Winchester staved off a desperate Watertown attack in the final few minutes of the game.

The Sachems jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first period on goals by Stan Cruwys, Nutile and Mike Sullivan. Watertown scored late in the second period, Greg Luck getting the marker. He scored again at 6:22 of the third period. Nutile's goal soon after saved the day for the hometowners. He now has three goals and three assists in the first two games to rank high among the Middlesex League scorers.

Winchester — g, McHugh; rd, Dalton; ld, Wood; c, Nutile; rw, Blanche; lw, Murray. Spares — Cruwys, Stabile, Sullivan.

Middlesex League Hockey News

by Frank Burns

The Middlesex Hockey League will have a busy Christmas schedule for both Saturday and Monday at the North Shore Sports Center in Lynn.

Melrose and Stoneham, the top two teams a year ago, will clash in the feature game Saturday at 3:20 p.m. The Red Raiders are the pre-season pick to repeat as champions, led by high-scoring Dick Umile, Mike Turner and Mike Sullivan. They walloped Watertown 13-0 in their League opener.

Stoneham also won its opener easily, blanking Concord 7-0, as six different players shared in the scoring. The Spartans' only two losses last year came at the hands of Melrose.

In another top game, Winchester and Lexington clash in the opener at 1 o'clock. Winchester is leading the League with two wins, while dark horse Lexington lost a 3 to 1 decision to strong Wakefield.

Wakefield, another pre-season favorite, will meet Reading in the second game at 1:20. The third game will match the two bottom clubs, Concord and Watertown.

Next Monday night the League swings back into action a 6 o'clock with Lexington facing Watertown at the Sports Center in Lynn. Stoneham takes on Winchester in the second game.

Belmont and Wakefield meet in the third game at 8 o'clock, while Melrose and Reading play in the final at 8:20.

Mike Turner, Melrose junior, scored a month's supply in the opening game against Watertown, and he leads the individual scorers with seven points on five goals and two assists. Bob Nutile of Winchester has six points in two games, including the winning goal against Watertown.

The leading scorers:

	G	A	Pts.
Mike Turner, Melrose	5	2	7
Bob Nutile, Winchester	3	3	6
Ken Abbott, Melrose	2	3	5
Mike Sullivan, Melrose	2	2	4
Stan Cruwys, Win.	2	2	4
Tom McHenry, Stone.	0	4	4

Golf, Anyone?

The third annual Winter Open Golf Tournament for amateurs will be held at The Country Club of New Seabury on Cape Cod Sunday, January 1, and Monday, January 2.

Amateur golfers may play on either day, or both days, for low gross and low net prizes. Additional prizes will be awarded other top-bracket finishers.

Massachusetts Golf Association or certified home club handicaps will be accepted for the tournament.

Bill Ezinicki, one of New England's top golfers and the pro at New Seabury, said one moderate daily entry fee will cover all charges, including greens and tournament fees and a buffet luncheon for all participants.

Foursomes will be accepted for the tournament. Those who enter as individuals or twosomes will be set up in foresomes by Ezinicki.

The comparatively warm and snow-free weather on Cape Cod makes possible the winter tournament at the Country Club of New Seabury, located in easy-to-reach Mashpee on Cape Cod.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

Explorer Post 503 Junior Rifle Club

The Explorer Post 503 Jr. Rifle Club awards presentation was held for the first time this season at the Post meeting on Wednesday night, December 14.

The members who have made noticeable progress since the club resumed shooting late in September are: David Baird—sharpshooter bars one, two and three; Richard Hill—pro marksman; Douglas Moffat—pro marksman and marksman; J. Rondeau—pro marksman, marksman, marksman first class, sharpshooter with bars one, two and three; James Sauber—sharpshooter bars one and two; and Peter Skerry—sharpshooter bars seven and eight.

Riflery, one of the specialties of the Post has been with it almost since its formation. The club holds its matches and other events for qualification at the Auxiliary Police Firing Range located under the Winchester Star Printing Office on Park Street.

The Junior Rifle Club, exclusive for members of Explorer Post 503 is operated under the excellent direction and supervision of its instructor, Mr. David A. Morgan, and has 20 active members as of this date.

Badminton Club Holiday Dates

Members of the Winchester Badminton Club are advised that the club will play on Tuesday, December 27 and Thursday, December 29. As always, anyone interested in badminton is invited to play at the high school as a guest of the club—8 to 10:30 p.m.

The annual club draw tournament will be starting shortly after January 1, featuring men's, women's and mixed doubles events. Players are reminded to enter their names or contact Rev. Keith Lawton, 729-0584.

Sachems Lose Basketball Opener To Arlington, 56-40

Winchester High School opened its basketball season Tuesday afternoon at WHS gym by dropping a 56-40 decision to Arlington.

It was a close game for three periods. In the final quarter Arlington pulled away to put the game on ice.

The Sachems showed their inexperience, losing control of the ball on 30 turnovers. The sophomores didn't look bad, and with a little more aggressiveness, the team would have made a much better showing.

Scott Anderson was the only Winchester player to hit double figures.

Alumni vs Varsity Basketball Game Next Wednesday

Sophs to Play Lynch And McCall in Opener

Early Wednesday evening, December 28, the varsity basketball team will play its annual game with the Alumni at the high school gym.

The Alumni has won the game the past three years, and the varsity players will do everything they can to slap their big brothers down. And it will be literally so, as Hilfinger vs Hilfinger and Floyd vs Floyd, and perhaps a few other brother acts may be expected to see action on the gym floor.

Getting under way at 6:30 will be the Sophs in the first half vs. Lynch, and the Sophs in the second half vs. McCall Junior High. This will be an excellent opportunity for parents to see their sons in action.

The Alumni-Varsity game will follow immediately, at about 7 p.m.

Greetings
With lots of bustle and good cheer we merrily prepare for the pleasures of Christmas Day. May the holiday bring, in bountiful measure, many happy moments with family and friends for you to treasure.

St. Mary's CYO Six Off to Fast Start

Two poised freshmen and a hard core of veterans have sparked St. Mary's CYO hockey team to its best start in five seasons.

Goalie Fred Cammon and defenseman Mark Stabile, both freshmen, have been key figures in limiting their opponents to only four goals in three games while the offense has netted seven goals to give the club a 2-0-1 record. Victories include a 3-1 win over Roxbury and a 2-1 overthrow of defending champion St. Agnes of Arlington. Punctuating these two wins was a 2-2 deadlock with St. Patrick's of Stoneham.

St. Mary's coach, John Falla, cites the hustling play of Bumpy Herzog and the goal-a-game pace of team captain Tim Sullivan as two big reasons for his club's early success.

Herzog, a former defenseman, was switched to left wing at the start of the current season. He responded by potting two goals in the first two games. The volatile speedster also sees duty as a penalty killer and as point man on the power play where he teams up with slap-shooting Terry Sullivan.

Looking ahead to the rest of the season Falla expects to see a little more offensive punch in his first two lines. "We lost three key players before the season even started," said Falla, "but we've managed to re-structure our lines and defense combinations to compensate. This puts a lot of pressure on Cammon but he still manages to come up with the big stops that keep us in contention until we get an attack going."

St. Mary's has this week off but will resume action on Monday, January 2 at 8:45 versus a tough South Boston team at Ridge Arena, Braintree.

This brings us to the end of the first half of bowling. There were many changes too. Even though the Carnations took all eight points from the Pansies they still were tied for first place with the Violets. In this case, the total pinfall determines the first place winner. So congratulations to the Violets for they are first place team.

Carnations automatically go to second place and the Daisies are the third place team. I don't know where this team came from! Last I heard they weren't even in the running. It must be those Fiore gals. They're still bowling up a storm.

The Buttercups never did get out of last place. I hope you have better luck next half, Buttercups!

We will be bowling Dec. 28th. See you then! Merry Xmas!

Santa Early For Pack 508

Swelterin' Santa Claus "flew" into the comfy confines of Noonan School Friday night to entertain and present gifts to the Cub Scouts of Pack 508 before "sleighing" back to the North Pole to await Christmas Eve.

The gaily bedecked assembly hall provided a Yuletide setting for a program of caroling and games.

Achievement awards were presented to six boys. An impressive Indian ceremony, tracing the history of the pack's blue and gold colors, highlighted the winning of his bobcat pin by Jonh Apostolou.

Other award winners were: Ronald Bingel, bear badge; Keith Bon, lion gold arrow and service star; Brian Mandeville, service star; Joseph Nicosia, bear badge, and Gary Oravetz, lion gold and silver arrows.

Cubmaster Frank Lawton accepted for the pack a ribbon from the Winchester Council for the group surpassing its membership roundup goal. Den 3 won inspection honors for the night and one of its members, Kit Bonn, received a gift certificate for being the top salesman in a recent Christmas sale. John Paoletti, Den 2, and Kevin Clabby, Den 1, were runnersup.

Honors also went to Den 3 for winning the "Footsteps for Youth" race, a hilarious ending to a full evening of pleasure for the youngsters and their parents before the refreshments were served.

The Cubs earlier participated in a sharing program by bringing gifts to less fortunate orphanage children.

Boy Scout Leaders Detail Camp Opportunities

Charles T. Burke of Watertown, chairman of the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America, Camping Committee has announced the conclusion of a Camping Information Night for over two hundred leaders of Scouts and Explorers, held at the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, Wakefield, on Tuesday, December 13th.

Featured in the program was a presentation of the 1967 camping opportunities for Scouts and Explorers from the 20 communities served by the Minuteman Council, including the Minuteman Council Camps, Aquatic Camp, Junior Leader Training Camp, Philmont Scout Ranch, and the Matagamon Wilderness Camp.

Assistant Scout Executive Anthony Toto of Burlington, in presenting the opportunities available at the Minuteman Council Camps, stated, "The Scouts and Explorers of the Minuteman Council have the unique opportunity of attending either Camp Sachem or Parker Mountain Scout Reservation, two of the finest camping facilities in all of New England, at a very nominal cost. It behooves every leader and parent to make an all-out effort for all boys to have at least one week at Scout Camp."

The Philmont Expedition, according to Gene Clark of Winchester, who attended as a leader last year, is a challenging experience for the older Scout or Explorer. Philmont is a working ranch located in Cimarron, New Mexico, and is operated by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Donald Marchant of Winchester and Walter Weidman, District Scout Executive from Reading, told of the value of the Junior Leader Training Camp in developing boy leadership to play an important role in conducting Troop programs year-round.

The Matagamon Wilderness Camp experience was presented by Scout Executive Dan Johnson, who noted that this rugged experience is being provided the boys of the Minuteman Council who seek adventure by canoeing along rivers deep in the wilderness under the direction of a qualified wilderness guide. The Camp is operated by the Kathadin Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, with offices in Bangor, Maine.

For those Scouts and Explorers who are keen on aqua-fun, the Aquatic Camp is the ideal place, according to Mr. Toto. Here the boys spend most of the time in, or on, and under the water in pursuit of aquatic excellence.

In summary, Scout Executive Johnson noted that camping is the reason that most boys join Scouting. He stated that the Minuteman Council, Boy Scouts of America, is proud to have the privilege of presenting outstanding opportunities to the more than 12,000 boys it services. The cost of all activities are within easy reach for any family, and is kept that way primarily because of the support given the Council by the United Funds and the Sustaining Membership Enrollment conducted in each community during the month of March among friends of Scouting and parents of boys taking advantage of the program of character building, citizenship training, and physical fitness.

Middlesex Nat'l Dividend Due

Directors of the Middlesex County National Bank have declared a regular semi-annual cash dividend of $1.00 per share plus an extra cash dividend of 40 cents per share, payable January 16 to shareholders of record on January 10.

Joseph P. Healey, president, announced that the Board of Directors of the Bank also have recommended to the shareholders that, subject to the approval of the Administrator of National Banks, they declare at the Annual Meeting in Febreuary a 20 per cent stock dividend.

Retailing and wholesaling offer the best employment opportunities according to a special 1966 employment analysis of more than 60,000 respondents through October by the NFIB.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

Next Wednesday, December 28th, the Club will host its annual Open House to celebrate the Holiday Season. This would be a fine time to come and try duplicate bridge with goodies to nibble between the rounds. The festivities start at seven o'clock, Knights of Columbus Hall.

From the results of Wednesday, December 14th, the Club ladies must have been planning their shopping, arranging their menus, or such. At least the first places in both directions in A and B sections were captured by eight gentlemen. Ladies! Look to your laurels!

The nine tables in Section A played on a 108 average.

North-South

John Reardon and Robert Prevoir	131½
Guy Mingolelli and Robert Haskell	123½
Ruth Bibby and Ruth Hagan	110
William Wheelock and Tom Young	110

East-West

Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	127½
Lolly Smith and Bill Wetmore	123
Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Renz, Jr.	122½
Barbara Shea and Lena Collins	113

Here are the top scorers in Section B, average 63.

North-South

Joe Scarpaci and Alan Leland	77½
Sally Lix and Clarence Woodward	75
Nancy Atkinson and Farida Rouchdy	71½
Colonel and Mrs. James Ryan	66

East-West

David Littleton and Stephen Root	80½
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jackson	71
Donna Redpath and Adeline Mingolelli	67½
Howard Wittet and Leo Gonsalves	67

Our contributor of the hand-of-the-week is Guy Mingolelli, one of the Club stalwarts, always willing to work, whether editorializing or picking up at the end of the evening. Guy has chosen a hand from the Open Pairs Championship, where he played a fine game; he and his partner ranked fourth out of 42 pairs in the event.

Duplicate bridge is akin to wrestling; virtually no holds are barred. Weak two bids are employed to interfere with the opponents' line of communication. Though some players decry the use of artificial bids, I cannot agree. All bids sanctioned by the American Contract Bridge League are developed to handle certain situations, and when properly employed, generally produce good to excellent results.

Board 12 was opened by North with a bid of 2 spades (weak - showing 6 to 12 high-card points). Some experts might consider the spade holding a trifle weak for this call when vulnerable. Nevertheless, it silenced East and West, and this was the purpose of the bid. South investigated the usual, 2 no trump to determine the strength of opener's hand—6 or 12 points. Upon receiving a response of 3 clubs showing a minimum holding, South promptly gambled on a contract of 4 spades, completing her partner's effort to shut out the opponents.

My opening lead of the spade 7 was unimaginative and certainly did nothing to develop tricks in the defender's hand. Anything but a spade or a heart will help the defense defeat this contract. In selecting a card to lead from the East holding, we should assume from the bidding that North has little or no outside strength. Therefore, we must make an offensive lead to develop the quick tricks necessary to set this contract. This line of thought and the information gleaned from the auction should steer East to the successful lead. Notwithstanding, most East players were reluctant to open from the king-jack of diamonds, much to their subsequent chagrin.

Against an alert declarer, it was impossible to recover from the poor spade lead. I must congratulate the declarer for taking advantage of our lapse in scoring her game. The key to the winning line is to drop a losing diamond on one of the good hearts, and then it is down and out for East-West.

Four spades was bid and made five times, and one red-necked pair allowed 5 spades to be scored against them. Three pairs divined the correct line of play to beat 4 spades one trick for the best defensive effort. Two other pairs defeated 5 spades two tricks for a good result. Five spades was beaten one trick by five teams for what we must consider ordinary defense.

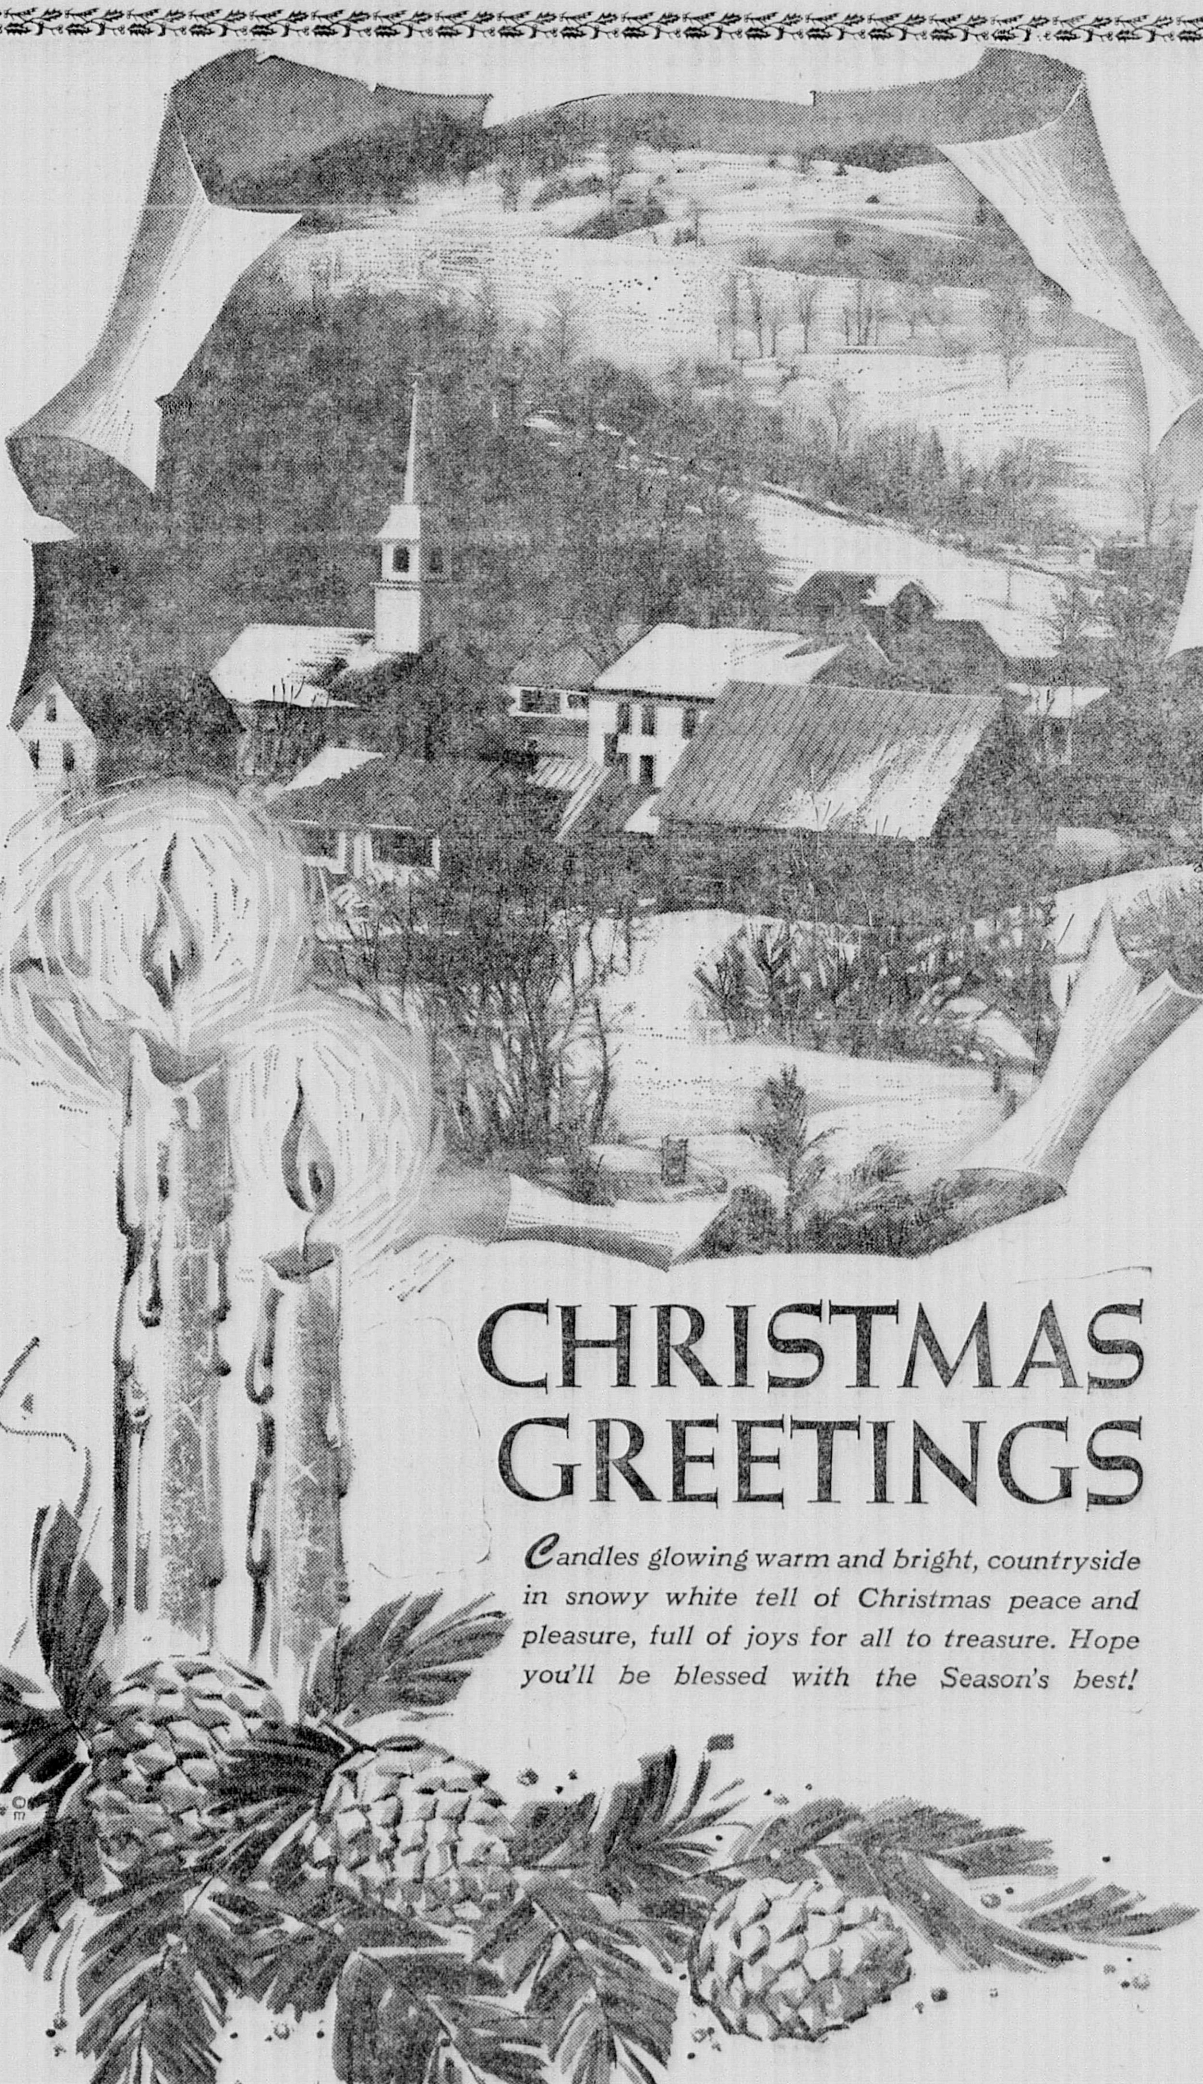
I feel I defended poorly on the hand. Had I been alert and led from my diamond holding, my partner and I would have been co-holders for the bowl for one year.

Editor's Note: Good players are notoriously hard on themselves. The safe lead of a trump is often best, and in this hand, it would take a strong charge of E.S.P. to choose the aggressive approach and then decide diamonds is the best suit to break. I, also, had to pick a lead from the East hand and decided on the jack of hearts. With this lead, North should have made four spades easily, but neglected to take the ace of hearts, discarding a diamond, and then found herself unable to reach the North hand. So—one of the three pairs who set four spades was not good, just lucky!

Living Creche At Methodist Church

For the second successive year the senior Youth Fellowship of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church will present a living creche on the lawn of the church tomorrow night (Friday) starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Young people of the church will present the characters of the Christmas story in an impressive manner and against a background of Christmas music and carols.



CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

Candles glowing warm and bright, countryside in snowy white tell of Christmas peace and pleasure, full of joys for all to treasure. Hope you'll be blessed with the Season's best!

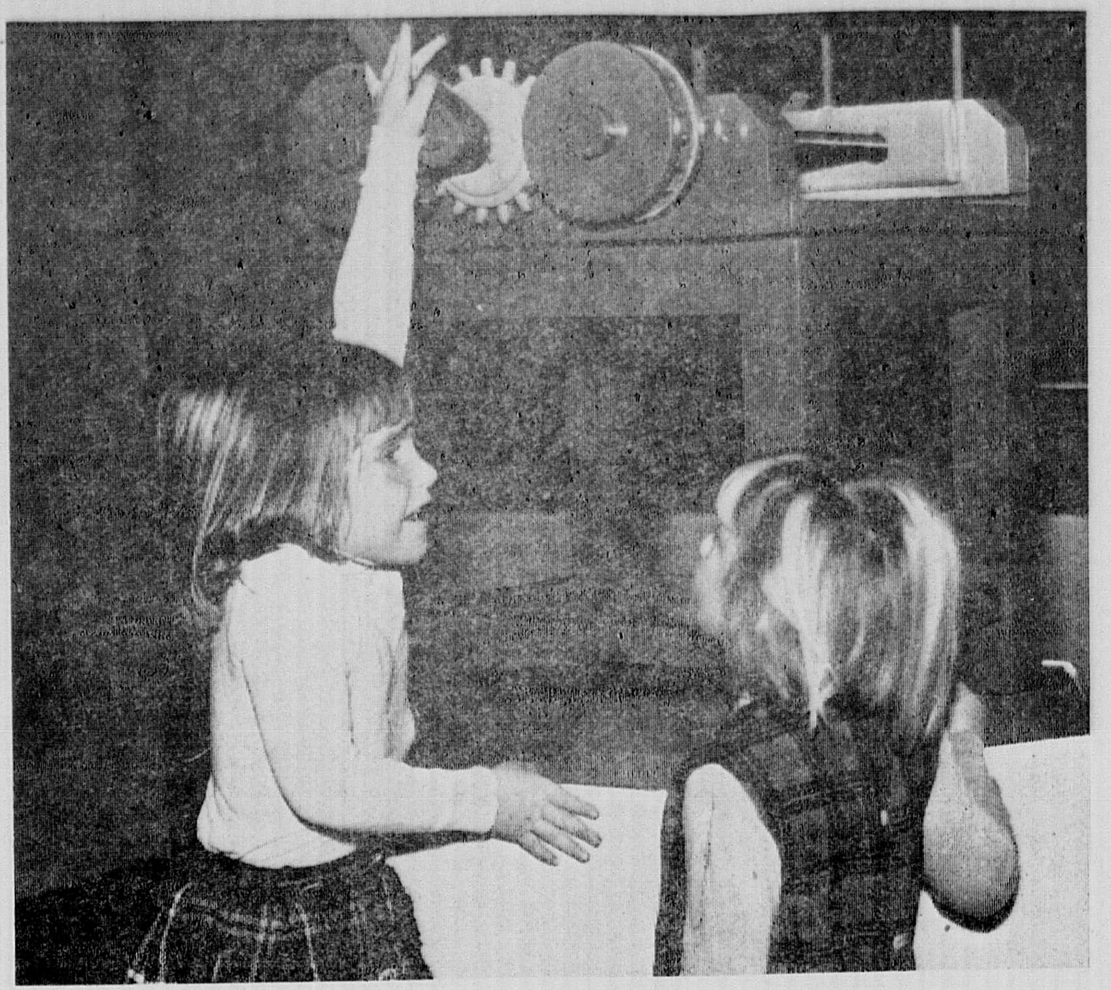
Leonardo The Scientist At Museum



MORE THAN A CHRISTMAS TOY. Martha Devin finds the handle of machine tool model, in special exhibition "Leonardo de Vinci Scientist Extraordinary" at Boston's Museum of Science, too high to reach. Looking on is sister Sara. The exhibition, with 27 working models (most, easily accessible even to these tiny tots), is on loan from International Business Machines through December 31.

25th Anniversary Of Attack On Pearl Harbor

Twenty-five years ago the attack on Pearl Harbor changed the war into a World War. President Roosevelt addressed a joint session of Congress and declared that December 7 was "a date which will live in infamy." "Remember Pearl Harbor" became the battle cry of the nation. A quarter of a century has passed and Pearl Harbor is now remembered as an important chapter of American history.

The Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Attack on Pearl Harbor has been commemorated on a medal released by Presidential Art Medals, Inc. of Englewood, Ohio. This medal is dedicated to those who served during this infamous attack on December 7, 1941.

The "Attack on Pearl Harbor" medal was designed and sculptured by Edward R. Grove of Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania. Mr. Grove became well known for his artistic works when he was sculptor-engraver at the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia. In creating this medal, the sculptor felt that an attitude of grim determination was called for in this likeness of President Roosevelt, tempered by a reflection of his unquenchable belief in our final victory-which he did not live to see. More than fifty camera studies, drawings, sculptures and paintings were studied in preparation for his portrait.

The reverse side of the medal captures a dramatic moment during the sneak attack on the morning of the "day of infamy," December 7, 1941. Seriously crippled in the early torpedo plane attacks and still burning from the later wave of dive bombing, the "West Virginia" has settled, listing, to the bottom off Ford Island. Behind her the masts of her stricken sister ship, the "Tennessee," are silhouetted against the clouds of smoke from the shattered "Arizona." Small boats are on their way to rescue survivors from the burning vessels.

The "Pearl Harbor" medal is issued in 1¾" diameter and available in bronze and a limited number of silver at low cost.

This medal is part of a series commemorating the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of World War II. The series consists of thirty different medals depicting important events and personalties of World War II. The Medals will be issued near the 25th anniversary of each event. A spokesman for the firm said additional information on the "Pearl Harbor" medal and the entire World War II medal Series, can be obtained by writing to Presidential Art Medals, Inc., Englewood, Ohio.

Christmas For Forum

The Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church will attend Christmas Services at the Church this Sunday, December 25.

There will be no chapel services until January 1, at which time the alumni will be recognized and Norman M. Clarke, first president of Forum, will be the guest speaker. There will be a fellowship hour with refreshments following the chapel service and prior to the 11 o'clock church service.

Friday, December 23 is the night of the Mistletoe Dance. This festive occasion on the first night of Christmas vacation brings college young people, home for the holidays, together with present Forumites and their friends, at 8 p.m. in Chidley Hall. Phil O'Shea and his band will play. Forum Carollers will join the community singing on the common at 7 p.m. on Christmas Eve and then will go by bus to sing for elderly and shut-in people in homes around town as well as the Hospital and Home for the Aged.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hall, Forum superintendents, will host at a "Warm-Up" in Chidley Fireside following the carolling tour. Then at 11 o'clock the moving candlelight Christmas Eve service of worship will begin. All are most welcome to join in this beautiful service which opens the religious observance of Christmas Day.

AAA Warns About December's Special Driving Dangers

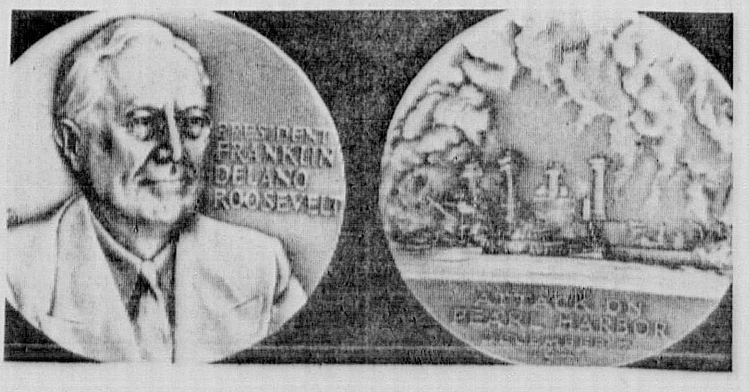
The American Automobile Association today warned motorists and pedestrians that more people are killed in highway accidents during December than at any other time of the year.

In December of 1965, 103 people were killed in traffic accidents in Massachusetts. In 1964, 84 people were killed.

Early darkness, decreased visibility, winter driving hazards, the excitement of the holiday season, and drinking—all make this week and next two of the most dangerous of the year for the person behind the wheel and the person on foot.

Richard W. Hoover, safety director for AAA's Massachusetts Division said, "This is a particularly hazardous time for children." He reminded parents ro review safe walking rules with their children.

"Youngsters must be reminded that in bad weather their vision is restricted, it takes them longer to get across wet and slippery streets, and cars require more stopping distance under these conditions," he said.



NEBHE Plans Social Services Spring Institute

Critical manpower shortages in the helping services — counseling, social work, vocational rehabilitation, health education, corrections, mental health work—exist throughout the New England region. To focus attention on this problem and to take steps toward meeting present and future manpower needs, the New England Board of higher education on Church Street will sponsor a two-day regional institute on undergraduate education for the helping services, to be held in the spring.

The institute has been made possible through a grant to NEBHE of $15,975 from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Planning and selection of faculty for the institute will be undertaken jointly by Richard Nelson-Jones, NEBHE acting director, a project director still to be named, and a planning committee of specialists in the several fields involved.

In announcing the grant, Mr. Nelson-Jones stressed the importance of heading today's students toward careers in the helping services where they can best help to counteract the increasing mechanization and dehumanization of society which so many of them are protesting.

"NEBHE hopes to encourage many of New England's four-year colleges and universities to set up at the undergraduate level attractive new interdepartmental curricula in the social sciences which will provide a sound base for further graduate or professional, in-service training. Later, steps will be taken to help develop vocational training programs in technical areas of the helping services in the region's community colleges."

HIRE OF TRUCKS
FOR SNOW REMOVAL

D.P.U. filed rates for hire of trucks for snow removal may be filed with the Superintendent of Streets, Town Hall, Winchester, Mass., on or before 3:30 P.M. Thursday, January 5, 1967, at which time filed rates will be publicly opened and read.

D.P.U. filed rates shall be submitted on forms, available at the office of the Superintendent of Streets. Forms shall be completely filled in. In addition, owners of trucks shall present evidence of adequate public liability insurance and workman's compensation insurance covering their drivers.

The right is reserved to reject any or all filed rates or to accept such filed rates as are for the best interests of the Town of Winchester.

The Garden Club Holds Meeting For Christmas

On Thursday, December 15th the Winchester Country Club was the scene of a delightful Christmas party for the members of the Winchester Garden Club.

Mrs. George D. Hall and Mrs. Harold F. Meyer were charming hostesses, and the holiday spirit prevailed. Dessert and coffee were served most attractively on small tables arrayed with red cloths, the centerpieces of which were bright little trees and gold angels playing carols.

Mrs. Rowland Patrick the president, welcomed members and guests and a short business meeting was held. The Club is pleased to join with the Winchester Home and Garden Club in decorating Doric Hall in the State House for inauguration day on January 5th. This is part of the inaugural project undertaken by the Massachusetts Federation of Garden Clubs at the request of the inaugural committee.

It has been the custom for the club to do something for the patients at the Veteran's Hospital at Bedford during the Christmas season. Mrs. Harold Twombly, chairman of Garden Club service, announced that this year poinsettia plants had been sent to help bring cheer to these men in the hospital.

The business meeting completed, Mrs. Dudley Kimball, program chairman presented the many exquisite door arrangements which will grace the doors of our members during this Yuletide season.

There were beautiful Della Robbia wreaths in soft, muted colors. An unusual wreath, made in Austria, from dainty dried flowers and grasses was very appealing as the focal point for a pine cone and fruit wreath, a gold-sprinkled angel nestled in a milkweed pod. An arrangement of "sugar and spice" will adorn the door of a young girl's room, and her brother will have a miniature baseball bat and glove forming a tree, on his door. Arborvitae, glistening holly, red berries, roses, dried artichokes, fruit, bells and bows all had a place bedecking the swags, baskets and wreaths which say "Merry Christmas" to all who enter these houses.

Members of the club taking part, and helping to make this program a most enjoyable one, were Mesdames Kimball, Stone, Hintlian, Boone, Ross, Goodhue, Symmes, Freeman, Hall, Bugbee, Ghirardini, Patrick, Ayer, Aitken and Wheelock.

No Holiday

These final weeks of the year are holiday weeks. But not for Death on the Highway. Death never works harder than these dark days of late December. And highway disaster is never more heartbreaking than against a background of Christmas chimes and carols. If you drink, don't drive. If you drive, don't drink. Let's keep Death out of the holiday picture this year.

ACROSS THE COUNTER

Time marches on! And as time advances, so do traditions and customs. Three centuries ago, in the Colony of Massachusetts, people were fined if they quit work or feasted on Christmas. Today, Christmas is a legal holiday, a religious festival, a day and season of joy!

One of the finest features of our civilization is "The Christmas spirit." We all welcome the chance to put down our guard, and to show our better natures—to be friendly and cordial with all mankind.

Not only is this feeling paramount, it is necessary. As someone has observed: "If you don't find Christmas in your heart, you won't find it under the tree!"

We wish to share with you this heartfelt Christmas feeling. We know many of you well enough to realize that the true spirit of Christmas will come to your house!

To each and all, we extend this sincere wish for a very MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Christmas Day at Methodist Church

A special program of services is announced for Christmas Day at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The program will start with the midnight service of carols and candle-lighting which will start at 11:15 on Saturday night and conclude shortly after midnight with the lighting of the "Christ Candle" symbolizing the birth of Jesus, the Light of the World.

There will be identical morning worship services on Christmas Day at 9:15 and 11 o'clock. The pastor will preach on the subject "Beyond Bethlehem." Two choirs will sing and Miss Marjorie Round, guest flutist, will play. Gloria Maifeld will direct the choirs and Julie Collins will be the organist.

At 12:15 o'clock, or immediately following the second morning worship service the pastor will administer the sacrament of baptism for children. Any who have children who should receive this sacrament may present them at this time.

Church School for children up to the 6th grade will be at 9:30 a.m. and for those from nursery through 4th grade at 11 o'clock. All others will be expected to attend the worship service with their parents.

The Adult Bible Class, the Young Adult Fellowship and the Youth Groups will not meet this Sunday.

USE CHRISTMAS SEALS

Teen View

By Mark Frazier

This is my first article for the Star; and you will find that it is different from any other column in the paper. I am a teenager, fourteen years old, and my articles will attempt to show you how I, as a teenager, feel about our schools, our town, our parents, and anything else I have a strong opinion about.

My pet gripe is the way our schools are run. Education is not supposed to be boring, but it is. In my opinion, school is supposed to prepare a person for his job. But they teach us how to spell Euboea, Myceinae, or how to conjugate rendre. How will this prepare us for our careers?

And if it is necessary to teach us French, why can't we learn it by watching French T.V. shows? Someone could send a petition to Senators Brooke and Kennedy, asking them to get one of our satellites to relay a Franch T.V. station to Massachusetts. But nobody will, and we will be stuck with the present method of teaching it, and so will our children, and their children, for generations to come.

This is one of today's big problems; everybody is lazy or afraid to do something different. Today's teenagers see this, and naturally they are reluctant to join a society where the streams are so polluted that they can't swim in them, and everyone is afraid to stand on a soapbox in the town square to debate issues.

The people of this town could start something; we could be the first town in the world to have swimming pools in our elementary schools, clean rivers and lakes that we could swim in whenever we wanted to, or teenage postal service...The possibilities are limitless. And all it needs is someone to start it all.

Sodality Festivities

AT THE SPECIAL CHRISTMAS PARTY held on December 12 for the Immaculate Conception Sodality, officers of the group were among those in charge. Shown with Father Joseph Naudziunas, spiritual director of the group, are, left to right, Mrs. Dorothy Gonsalves, mistress of candidates; Mrs. Gladys Lindmark, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Donovan, vice prefect; and Mrs. Virginia Odin, secretary.

Correspondents

Da Nang—They are journalism's problem children, nature's playthings — the war correspondents. A floating opera. The Lost Circus.

The last time I looked, there were 474 correspondents attending this puzzlement of a war: seventy of them were Vietnamese and 404 were from other countries. There were 180 Americans.

They come in all complexions or temperament and in all manners of dress. The television network men who wear tailored correspondent suits and custom hair-do's; the combat reporters and photographers with beards and flopping, beribboned hats and worn and muddy boots. The more conservative field men in service fatigues, who might be taken for soldiers or Marines except that none of their clothing seems to fit. The Saigon commandos, those political reporters who rarely leave the capital city and whose garb might be called Tropical Ivy League. Oh, my! There are some dudes.

And mostly good fellows. The best, in fact. Meet some:

—Jerry Forkin of Stars and Stripes, a reedy playwright from Galway who joined the Army in order to be able to cover Vietnam. One night at Marble Mountain a fire fight broke out. The sights of three rifles suddenly trained on a weird form skittering down the hamlet's muddy streets. It was Forkin, yelling in Gaelic, his pants in one hand, his shillelagh waving in the other.

—Bill Langly, a 6'4" giant from the Portland, Me., Press-Herald, returned from a night patrol with his hand painfully nettled by a cactus. He spent the rest of the night fretting, afraid he wouldn't be able to type the next day.

—Tim Page, a somewhat supercilious British freelance, walked into the Press Center after four bloody days with the Korean Tiger Division. "Yes," he said, "we counted 87 VC dead. I imagine there were 200. The Koreans had 10 killed, 16 hurt. Some of the VC had no visible wounds. Just broken necks. Karate, don't you know." He looked up at the television and then at the bartender. "Oh, God, Not Ed Sullivan. Lam, bring me a gin and tonic, would you? And turn that damned thing off."

—Jim Lucas, who has won the Pulitzer and whose first war to cover was World War II. He had been here for three years and could go home whenever he wanted. But he stays on. He is not a war lover.

—Charles Durden, a slight young Georgia boy with none of the patience in the world and little of the fear. Held up for clearance for a mission by a rather vain reporter he poked him in the chest, saying: "Listen, jerk. I have 80 papers in 10 states and 20 million readers. I have one minute, bum. Get out of my way." He got out of the way, astonished, and Durden, the pocket pulverizer, walked toward his jeep with a grin. "Well," he told a friend, "it sounded good."

—Dave Reed, a roving reporter from the Readers Digest, who spent five days with a sick correspondent—five important days for Reed—taking him hundreds of miles to get him on a plane.

—And the anonymous correspondent who, during a fire fight, rushed across an exposed bridge to pick up a wounded little girl. He probably saved her life. He wouldn't write about it and made anyone who knows about it promise the same thing.

Big names stay here, and big names come and go. Max Frankel of the New York Times is friendly and puts up at the Press Center. Stuart Alsop is remote and dwells in generals' halls.

Like the military, the correspondents work seven days a week and experience profound fear and discomfort. But they know that after this one final operation is finished, they can return to clean sheets and they don't have to go back unless they want to. And they have the thing most important to them: freedom of choice and movement.

The military likes the correspondents for the most part—the troopers in the field do. It is an everyday question: "Why the hell are you here when you don't have to be?"

It is a good question they ask day after day. I have met no one among this odd company of men—these correspondents—who has come here because he was ordered to come.

Miss Knight To Talk on Life At Georgetown

Miss Julie Ann Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Knight of 5 Alden Lane, Winchester, will speak at Winchester High School next week to seniors interested in collegiate life at Georgetown University.

Miss Knight, a junior in the School of Nursing at Georgetown, plans a career in pediatric nursing upon graduation.

A 1964 graduate of Winchester High, Miss Knight was active there in the Honor Society, the Radio Station, and was editor of the school yearbook.

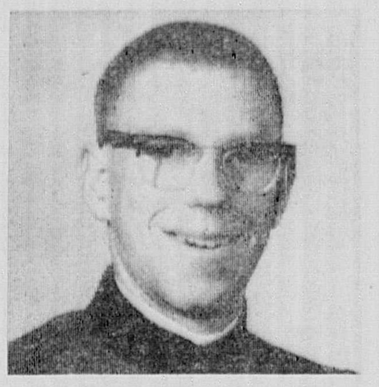
"Troubadours" Sing at Tea

The Christmas Tea of the Women's Alliance of the Winchester Unitarian Society featured a delightful program of seasonal music by the Needham Hand Bell Ringers and "Les Troubadours" of the Winchester High School.

The French carols sung by "Les Troubadours" included Les Anges Dans Nos Campagnes," Noel Nouvelet," "Un Flambeau Jeanette Isabella," "Marche Des Ross," "Il Est Ne le Divin Enfant," and "Cantique De Noel." The singers with "Les Troubadours" are Debbie Erickson, Betsy Hollinshead, Susan Jeffrey, Martha Broadhurst, Anne Rozelle, Nancy Millican, Diane Bemis, Ken Cooper, David Andresen, Craig Heindel, Tom Erskine, Scott Eaton, and Dan Strout. Accordion by Greg Janson, guitars by Jeff Hicks and Scott Jeffrey, with string bass by Jim Mouradian. "Les Troubadours" are under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor A. Thistlethwaite and Miss Susan B. Oxman.

Citadel Honors Cadet Bird

Cadet David Owen Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Bird of Bradford, New Hampshire, formerly of Winchester, was recently named by The Citadel to the 1966 Edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. In being selected he achieved a coveted distinction among seniors in universities and colleges across the nation.



CADET DAVID O. BIRD

Selections for Who's Who were recently approved by Gen. Hugh P. Harris, president of The Citadel, after a special committee had scrutinized the records of members of the Corps of Cadets who have excelled militarily, academically, and in extra-curricular activities.

Company commander of "F" Company at the military college, Cadet Bird, a WHS alumnus, holds the rank of captain within the Corps of Cadets. Enrolled in the Army ROTC program, he received the coveted designation of Distinguished Military Student. A history major at The Citadel, he holds membership in the History Club, the Association of the United States Army, the Society of American Military Engineers, the Ranger-Airborne Club, and the Block "C" Club.

Shannon Receives National Science Award Of 1966

Dr. Claude Elwood Shannon, 50, a resident here at 5 Cambridge Street for the past ten years, was named on Sunday to be one of 11 winners of the 1966 National Medal of Science.

President Lyndon B. Johnson made the announcement, which included also the name of one other Boston area scientist, Dr. John H. Van Vleck of Cambridge.

Dr. Shannon is the Donner professor of mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was honored for his work in the theory of communications and information processing and the award he received was the Federal Government's highest recognition of scientific and engineering achievement, with designations made by the President's Committee on the Nation Medal of Science.

An internationally recognized leader of his field, and the holder of honorary doctorates from Yale, Princeton, the University of Michigan, University of Pittsburgh and Edinburgh University in Scotland, Dr. Shannon earned this notation in the autobiography of the late and great Norbert Wiener:

"Shannon is one of the major spirits behind the present age of electronics computers and automatic factory. Moreover it is through his work that a training in symbolic logic, that most formal of all disciplines, has come to be one recognized mode of introduction into the great complex of scientific work of the Bell Telephone Laboratories."

In the official release of MIT on the honor to Dr. Shannon, the work he has done was defined in this way:

"In his long and celebrated career, he has developed the mathematical theories and techniques that made possible the analysis of switching circuits, computers and communications. His most significant piece of work was "a Mathematical Theory of Communication," published in two parts in the Bell System Technical Journal in 1947-48. With this paper, Shannon laid down the theoretical foundation for communications engineering,—a kind of 'thermo-dynamics of communications', which, up to that time had been missing. In opening a new mathematical field, Shannon's work compares only to that of Norbert Weiner in the theory of time series and to that of Von Neumann and Morgenstern in the theory of games.

Of equal importance has been the impact of Shannon's definitions, his model of the communications process and his theory on scientists and engineers concerned with human communications.

Teichner Given Human Factors' First Ely Award

Psychologist Warren H. Teichner of Northeastern University has received the first annual Ely Award from the Human Factors Society, a national organization of scientists and engineers concerned with the interaction between man and machine.

Dr. Teichner, who lives at 5 Swan Road, received the award for making an outstanding research contribution to the human factors field. His research on the application of information theory to the human being as a data processing system, was selected from studies published in the journal, "Human Factors," in the past two years.

The award, established as a memorial to the late Jerome Ely, a distinguished psychologist in the human factors field, will be given annually.

Sullivan Named National Bank's New President; Craven Cashier

At the board of directors meeting held December 20, William D. Sullivan was named as president of the Winchester National Bank, effective January 1, 1967.

Mr. Sullivan began his banking career during the summer of 1931 at the age of sixteen, while a junior at the Winchester High School and upon graduating with the class of 1932, he became permanently associated with the bank. From 1932 to 1936, he attended the evening division of and graduated from what was then known as the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance, now known as Bentley College. During World War II, he served with the United States Navy from February 1942 until February 1946, seeing duty in the Pacific Theatre of Operations.

WILLIAM D. SULLIVAN

Mr. Sullivan attended the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University and graduated with the class of 1956 after having completed the prescribed course in banking set forth by the American Bankers Association.

He has served as residential chairman and general chairman of the United Fund, is a member of the Robert Morris Association of Credit Men, The National Association of Bank Auditors and Controllers, is presently associated with local fraternal organizations, currently active in the Winchester Rotary Club.

Mr. Sullivan is married to the former Rita M. Goodwin of West Roxbury and they live with their children Lee, Mark and Eileen at 2A Rangeley Ridge.

Town Collective Bargaining Unit OK's Settlement

The town's first negotiated settlement in the field of municipal collective bargaining was accomplished Monday evening when the Board of Selectmen and the Town Employee's Association agreed upon and signed a wage and benefit contract for the year 1967, subject to the approval of the annual Town Meeting.

Frank Holland, president of the Employees Association, and the association's legal counsel Arthur Johns, appeared before the Selectmen for the signing of the contract agreement, and both commented on their opinion that Selectmen Henry K. Porter, representing the board and the town in the collective bargaining discussions, was eminently fair and reasonable to work with. Selectman Porter returned the compliment, and added that if future negotiations were carried on in the same vein as this year's first engagement, the town and its employees would both be well served.

LWV to Sponsor Public Hearing On School Site

High school site proposals will be aired by town boards and committees at a Winchester League of Women Voters sponsored public hearing in the high school auditorium prior to the special town meeting now scheduled for early February.

Two sites, Turkey Ridge and expanded Shore Road Field, will be demonstrated by the Permanent Building Committee at the hearing.

Preceding the PBC the School Committee and the School Administration will describe the need for a new high school building in terms of the high school curriculum problems caused by the existing structure.

The Planning Board will conclude the official presentations with an evaluation of the proposed sites from a town planning viewpoint with emphasis on town land use and town population distribution.

Opportunity for public comment on the proposals will be provided during a question and answer period.

Maps, drawings, and technical data pertinent to the proposals will be made available by the Building Committee and the Planning Board to the public and will be on display in several public places before the hearing.

Winter Carnival Week Action

SNOW SCULPTURERS' DELIGHT! Starting with a pile of snow, WHS Junior Misses, Sharon Butterworth, Nancy Lou Armstrong and Lisa Yapp, begin packing a design in the Snow Fun sculpturing event at the week-long Winter Carnival which began Tuesday. The Carnival also includes a skating party, hockey game, ski clinic, and dances.

An action-packed week of fun, sports and games is the best description of this week's first community Winter Carnival as high school young people turned out in the first day for the Snow Fun snow sculpturing event on Tuesday morning, a wrestling match between Winchester and Malden Varsities in the afternoon, and a teen Dance Night Competition in the Town Hall that evening.

Yesterday, the tempo continued with snow sculpturing by over 30 six-man teams competing for honors and prizes, a free ski clinic held at Boston Hill in Andover, a fast-moving hockey game between Winchester and Lynn English Varsity teams scheduled to be played at the ice rink if the newly made ice was playable on in the afternoon, and a fun game of basketball between the high school Varsity and Winchester Alumni.

"The Carnival is proving a lot of fun, and everybody participating in it is having a whale of a time," carnival and recreation director Donald L. Spinney said in commenting on the early success of the week.

What would otherwise be a quiet and generally uneventful vacation week for many young people here, the Winter Carnival is providing fun events, the opportunity for socializing, and competitive games for prizes that is making this vacation period not only different, but fun-filled and enjoyable.

The Carnival continues today with an all-day ski trip to Boston Hill in Andover, the completion of the snow sculptures for judging, and, this evening, with a special Winchester Theatre showing of "The Professionals" film on a two-for-the-price-of-one entrance for students.

At 1 o'clock tomorrow, prizes donated by local merchants will be awarded to the winners of the snow sculpturing event, and for the best dancers at the Dance Night Competition on Tuesday night. At 2 o'clock there will be a wrestling match between Winchester and Melrose at Melrose High School; and, weather and ice permitting, also a skating party at the ice rink here.

In the early evening, at 6 p.m. there will be a basketball game between the Winchester and Concord High School Varsity and Junior Varsity teams.

The first and successful community Winter Carnival ends tomorrow night with a Carnival Dance at 8 o'clock in the Town Hall, featuring one of the nation's top recording teen dance bands, the popular "Teddy and the Pandas." The town's Carnival Queen will be announced at the Carnival Dance, over which she will preside.

Northeast Area Regional Vocational School Now Is On The Road To Building

While Winchester continues to wrestle with the problem of finding a site, gaining town approval and constructing a new public high school here; the Northeast Regional Vocational School committee is "getting ready to roll" toward financing and building an area serving vocational school now that it has secured a site at Breakheart Reservation in Wakefield and with the approval earlier this month by the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Commission.

The MSBAC's approval and its 40 per cent state aid applied to the construction cost, coupled with the Massachusetts Department of (Vocational) Education's approval of the committee's education specifications for the project and its program made earlier, along with the accomplishment of site acquisition through the Legislature's nod last year on a bill allowing the M.D.C. to sell 60 acres of the Breakheart Reservation for the school, means that the last of the technical hurdles have been surmounted, according to Winchester's representative on the 12-community committee, Marshall M. Kincaid of 12 Prospect Street, and leaves only the financing to be worked out before actual construction begins.

Mr. Kincaid guessed that the soonest construction could begin would be next fall, and that therefore the earliest the new vocational school could start servicing local youngsters with vocational aptitudes would be in the fall of 1969. One reason for the delay in construction, he noted, is the requirement that the committee have all its funds—through bonds and municipal and state revenues—in hand before authorizing groundbreaking.

Jaycee Xmas Tree Pickup

The annual pickup of discarded Christmas trees by the Winchester Jaycees has been scheduled for Saturday, January 7.

Each year, with trucks donated by local businessmen and the Town Park Department, the Jaycees assist in fire prevention by removing a potential fire hazard to the town incinerator.

This year, the Jaycees hope that Old Man Weather will be a little less harsh. Last year the pickup took place in a full-scale blizzard.

Peoupe wishing to have their tree picked up should move it to the front of their property, close to the street, as early as possible on the morning of the seventh. This will eliminate confusion and ensure your tree is out when the truck comes by.

In addition, the Jaycees ask that a quarter (25c) be attached to the tree in an easily visible manner. They wish to stress that this is strictly voluntary, with the proceeds being used for community service.

Chairman of this year's effort is Bob Costello, who will be supported by the entire membership of the Jaycees.

A Year Of Tax Revaluation, School Building, Planning

1966. This was the year that was—in Winchester a year of tax changes as the Assessors started a complete townwide revaluation with the aid of professional mass appraisers beginning to canvass some 6,500 parcels of property with interior inspections of buildings upon which to fix full and fair cash values for the equalization of tax assessments in 1968; also for the 70-plus elderly citizen taxpayer, a "break" with windfall exemptions on properties within certain prescribed requirements, with an amended and extended provision now under local legal entanglement query as to whether is should become effective for 1966 or in 1967; and, with the passage of the new state sales tax by a victorious Governor Volpe, citizens dug a little deeper into their pockets in making purchases on everything except the necessities of life.

1966. This was the year that was—in Winchester a year of school building as the new $1.5 million Tufts Road Elementary School rapidly began taking form and now is a structure being outfitted with its particular appointments and furnishings—a school so heralded for its progressive innovations in design and program (which was prepared specially through research and experimentation during the summer) that most townspeople are looking forward to its opening and anticipate great educational values from it, hopefully to be extended to the other elementary schools in the immediate future.

1966. This was the year that was—in Winchester a year of school planning as the Permanent Building Committee's secondary school subcommittee labored to coordinate the School Committee's needs as ultimately outlined in adequate educational specifications with the Planning Board's planning ideas as they occasionally developed, so that at year's end and with most of the credit for progress going to the PBC's perseverance, the town faces a special Town Meeting, probably in February, to choose which of two recommended sites it will locate a new $6 million-plus school building to accommodate a growing and more substantial educational program.

1966. This was the year that was—in Winchester a year of general construction as the Water and Sewer Department concluded the second $150,000 phase of its two-part program of providing sewer lines in the Myopia Hill area—making the town 98% covered with sewer service; as the new St. Eulalia's Catholic Church on the West Side was completed in the spring; as the new $3 million-plus 314-unit Parkview Apartments complex finishes construction on Swanton Street, and the new Winchester Nursing Home on the other side of Swanton Street progresses in its construction; and with the completion of additions and alterations at the Winchester National Bank and the First Congregational Church; and with the building of new light

Previewing Ahead Look At 1967:

A Year Of Tax Equalization, School Decisions, Building

1967. This will be the year that is—in Winchester a year of tax equalization as mass tax appraisers from the independent firm of Cole-Layer Trumble visit every parcel of property in the town to re-appraise its value for equalized tax assessment purposes, arriving at an updated tax base to work upon in preparing 1968 assessment figures.

1967. This will be the year that is—in Winchester a year of school decisions as the town heads for a February special Town Meeting to chose a site from two recommended by the Permanent Building Committee for a new $6 million-plus high school complex; as the town reviews a doubled school maintenance budget for the purpost of resurrecting the condition of the town's present $14 million-plus value in ten public school buildings; as the School Department and Committee attempt to institute new modern methods of teaching in the new Tufts Road Elementary School, and tries to then spread the good benefits learned throughout the rest of the elementary schools; and as the school system attempts to adjust to a new method of relating elementary youngsters to schools in a redistribution formula instead of by school districts as before.

1967. This will be the year that is—in Winchester a year of school building as work in the $1.5 million new Tufts Road Elementary School is completed by spring, and as a decision on a site for a new $6 million-plus high school paves the way for making of plans and letting of bids for the actual work to be done—many hope by the end of 1967, but probably not until early 1968 — with an estimated earliest possible completion date now of 1969 or 1970.

1967. This will be the year that is—in Winchester a year of in-depth study of both town protective departments, starting with the Police Department and then the Fire Department, to research, analyze and evaluate their strengths and weaknesses in terms of personnel, training and recruitment, equipment, space and building needs, methods and procedures, with an eye toward modernization and increased efficiency.

1967. This will be the year that is—in Winchester a year of collective bargaining over wages, benefits and grievances between town government and its employees in an organized and business-like fashion according to recent legislation, as was first-step handled cautiously in the latter part of 1966.

1967. This will be the year that is—in Winchester a year of greater emphasis on town planning in every quarter as the townspeople and municipal boards more fully awake to the fact that the community each year more and more becomes a part of the growing metropolitan area and that the planned development of the rest of the town through more adequate zoning, municipal organization and by-laws and efficiency of opera-

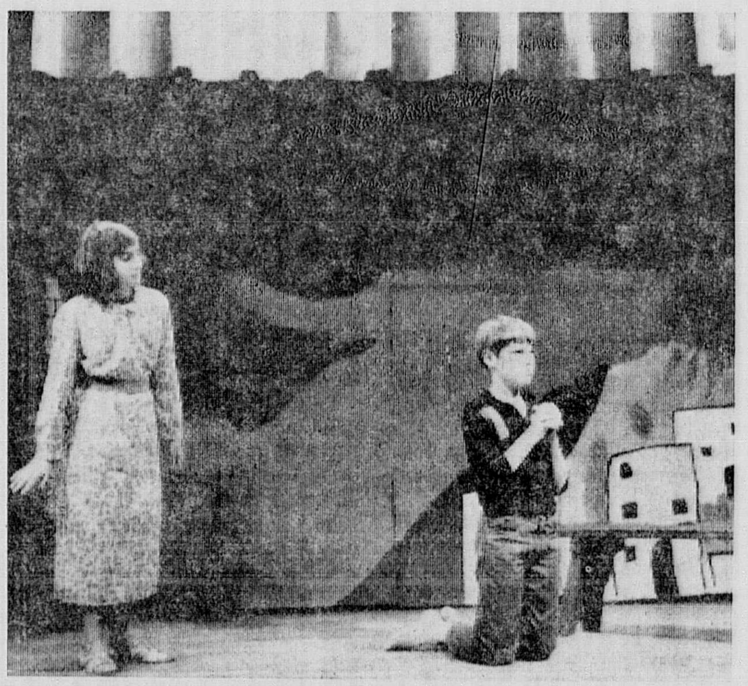
"The Perfect Gift"



LU ANN HINTLIAN played the innkeeper's daughter in the Christmas play put on recently at the Belmont Day School.

Young Actress At Belmont Day

Lu Ann Hintlian of 7 Wood Lane played one of the leading roles in the Christmas program presented by the older children at Belmont Day School on Thursday evening, December 15. She portrayed Ruth, the Innkeeper's daughter, in "The Perfect Gift" by Graham du Bois. Singing in the chorus of angels which accompanied the play were Tom Beranek and Kent Richardson of Ledgewood Road, and Robert Bradlee of Lorena Road.

A Christmas assembly was presented by the younger children on Tuesday morning, December 13. Cameron and Lee Hawley took part in the play "A Little Child." Little Victoria Hawley was part of the program in which the large audience of parents and the children, from four years old through the third grade, took turns singing Christmas songs both familiar and new.

THE BIGGEST for sale sign of all is the LITTLE classified ad you run in the Winchester Star.

Verse Read On "Mary's Mail"

Listeners to Friday afternoon's "Mary's Mail" radio program heard a holiday verse, written by Karen Frizzell of 6 West Chardon Road, read over the air.

Karen is 11 and a sixth grader. Her seasonal verse read:

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS

A star in the sky shinging bright,
Led the way one Christmas night.
It led us to a manger bare,
And little Lord Jesus was sleeping there.
Now you have Santa to look forward to,
Because everything's changed and everything's new.
But that star that shone
one night above,
Still reminds us of Jesus,
friendship, and brotherly love.

More Policewomen Needed for Duty At the Schools

Mrs. Lucy (Wilcox) Cushman

Mrs. Lucy (Wilcox) Cushman of 134 Mt. Vernon Street, died at the Winchester Hospital on Saturday, December 24, after a long illness.

She was born in Clinton, the daughter of the late Harry A. and Annie B. Wilcox of Winchester. She came here as a young girl and resided here for 50 years. She was a graduate of Winchester High School.

Mrs. Cushman studied the piano for many years as a private pupil of the late Minnie Little Longley of Boston who was a pupil of Edward MacDowell.

Before she finished high school, Mrs. Cushman started giving piano lessons and continued to do so in Winchester and surrounding towns for 45 years. During this period she taught over 1500 children and adults.

Mrs. Cushman was active in musical circles in Winchester. For several years she was the accompanist for the Staff and Key Society and played for many Gilbert and Sullivan productions. She also accompanied the Mary Ranton Witham Choral Group.

She was a life member of The Church of The New Jerusalem (Swedenborgian) in Roxbury and Boston. For many years she played the organ at the Roxbury church and taught Sunday School at both churches for most of her life.

In Winchester, she held memberships in the Staff and Key Society and the Women's Republican Club. She was also a member of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants.

Private funeral services were held on Wednesday, December 28 with burial in Mt. Prospect Cemetery in Bridgewater. A memorial service will be held later at the chapel of The Church of The New Jerusalem in Cambridge.

Mrs. Cushman is survived by her husband Stewart L. Cushman of Winchester and her daughter, Mrs. Donald S. Peck of Arlington.

John F. Donovan

John F. Donovan of Medford, formerly of 77 Woodside Road, died suddenly at the Malden Hospital on Wednesday, December 21 at the age of 66.

The flag in the Common was at half mast for Mr. Donovan, who retired 11 months ago after 40 years as an accountant in the transportation department at the Army Base. He served in the army during World War I.

Mr. Donovan was a native of Winchester, born here on February 20, 1900, the son of the late Michael and Annie (Terry) Donovan, both natives of Ireland. He grew up here, was educated in the Winchester Schools and was very well known in the Town.

Mr. Donovan was the father of Terry F. Donovan of Billerica and of Mrs. June Cunningham of Medford. He leaves also six grandchildren and two sisters, Mary E. Donovan of Winchester and Mrs. Agnes Burke of Woburn.

A solemn high Mass was held for him in the Immaculate Conception Church at 9 a.m. on Saturday, December 24 following a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends, neighbors, Winchester Police Department and the Winchester Auxiliary Police, for their kind expressions of sympathy, spiritual bouquets and floral tributes extended to us during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Ethel O. (McGray) Soar

Mrs. Ethel O. (McGray) Soar, wife of the late George E. Soar and a resident of this town for nearly fifty years, passed away Monday, December 26, after a long illness.

Mrs. Soar was born on Cape Sable Island, Nova Scotia, the daughter of Captain Benjamin F. McGray and Cassie (Brown) McGray.

She was a charter member of the Association of Descendants of Ralph Smith, members of which trace their ancestors back to the settlers of Hingham in 1633.

Mrs. Soar was a charter and life member of the Royal Chapter O.E.S. of Medford. She was a past matron of this organization and its treasurer for many years.

She had been a member of the Medford Women's Club and the Stoneham Women's Club. During the depression she organized and supervised sewing units in the Lincoln and Wadleigh schools.

Surviving Mrs. Soar are her daughter, Mrs. Margaret S. Bailey; two grandchildren, Burton E. Bailey of Hampton, Virginia, and Mrs. Martha B. Loftus of Winchester; three great grandchildren, Deborah and Jeffrey Loftus of Winchester, and Paul E. Bailey of Virginia; and a brother Carroll McGray of Milton.

Dr. Robert Storer officiated at the services for Mrs. Soar held December 28th at the Norris Funeral Home. Interment was in Puritan Lawn Memorial Park.

Katherine G. Foley

A solemn high Mass was held at the Immaculate Conception Church on the morning of Saturday, December 24, for Miss Katherine G. Foley, who was born at the family homestead on 15 Hill Street 83 years ago and had lived there all her life.

The Mass followed a funeral from the Lane Funeral Home and was followed by burial services held in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn. The Reverend Father Gerald B. Horgan officiated.

Miss Foley is survived in Winchester, by one sister, Mrs. Annie E. Davis, one brother, Dr. George A. Foley and several nieces and nephews. She was born here on August 21, 1883, the daughter of John and Catherine (MacNamara) Foley, both natives of Ireland. She went through the Winchester Schools, graduating from the High School and she subsequently was a clerk for the Boston and Maine Railroad, a job she held for 50 years, retiring 13 years ago.

Miss Foley was a member of the Ladies' Sodality of the Immaculate Conception Church.

Mrs. Bridget (Burke) Doherty

A solemn high Mass of requiem was sung at 9 a.m. on Tuesday morning for Mrs. Bridget (Burke) Doherty of 87 Wendell Street, who died suddenly on Friday, December 23, at the age of 81.

Father Joseph B. Naudziunas celebrated the Mass at the Immaculate Conception Church assisted by Father Francis X. Turke of Saint Mary's Church and Father Daniel Cavanaugh of Saint Joseph's Church in East Woburn. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Doherty is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary H. Hawkins and Mrs. Rita A. McManus, both of Winchester; by one son, William J. Doherty of Woburn; by seven grandchildren and by one great grandchild. She was born in County Mayo, Ireland, the daughter of the late James and Mary (Reilley) Burke and she came to this country as a young woman.

Mrs. Doherty had lived in Winchester for 55 years. She was the wife of the late Michael Doherty, who passed away 12 years ago. She was a member of the Blessed Virgin Sodality at the Immaculate Conception Church and of the Catholic Association of Foresters.

Mrs. Mary Rosella (Schecher) Brock

Mrs. Mary R. (Schecher) Brock, wife of Francis J. Brock of 74 Salisbury Street and mother of three children, died on Tuesday, December 21, after a brief illness. She was 46 years of age.

Mrs. Brock was born in Everest, Kansas. A registered nurse she grew up and received her nursing training in that area. She moved to Winchester four years ago.

The Reverend Francis X. Turke officiated at the requiem Mass held for her on Friday morning at nine o'clock at Saint Mary's Church and at the graveside ceremony which followed in Wildwood Cemetery. The funeral was held from the Lane Funeral Home.

Mrs. Brock leaves, in addition to her husband, three children, Nancy A. and M. Patricia; one son, Michael A.; and a sister, Mrs. Mildred Simpson, of Kansas.

Mrs. Alice (Clark) Salmon

The Reverend John J. Bishop of the Church of the Epiphany officiated here Tuesday afternoon, December 27, at 2 p.m. at funeral services for Mrs. Alice (Clark) Salmon, 65, a long-time resident who died on Friday, December 23, at the Fairlawn Nursing Home in Lexington after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Salmon, a resident of 128 Church Street, had lived here for 30 years. The services were held at the Norris Funeral Home. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

She was a registered nurse, receiving her diploma from the Choate Memorial Hospital School of Nursing after being graduated from Woburn High School.

Born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, the daughter of John J. and Mary (MacDonald) Clark, natives of Halifax and Scotland respectively, Mrs. Salmon was the wife of the late Thomas P. Salmon. She is survived by two sons, Thomas C. of Rye, New York, and Philip C. of Winchester; and by a daughter, Mrs. Joan S. Nesbitt of Manchester.

Science Museum Opens Course In Navigation

Miss Leslie H. Wetterlow of 98 Hillcrest Parkway is the first resident of Winchester to register for the new Celestial Navigation program to begin at Boston's Museum of Science on January 10.

This unique four-session course is an expansion, by popular demand, of the initial Celestial Navigation program offered by the Museum last year. Each meeting, beginning at 8 p.m., will include an hour's lecture in Morse Auditorium and an hour of direct application in the Charles Hayden Planetarium.

Dates are Tuesday evenings, January 10, 17, and 24 and February 7.

Guest lecturer Dr. Francis Wright of Harvard University and the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory will present the series. A well-known teacher of navigation, Dr. Wright has conducted yearly courses in the subject since leading special sessions for Army Amphibian Engineers and naval officers during World War II.

Further information about Celestial Navigation may be obtained by calling the Museum of Science at 742-1410.

Let It Ring Out!

RING OUT THE OLD, RING IN THE NEW! Third grade Lincoln School boys and girls prepared to ring in the New Year early. The "Sound of Bells" was part of the Christmas program given at Lincoln School just before vacation. By now they're really ready for 1967!

Candidate For "The Meanest"

"Mummy, I just hope Santa brings me that tool chest."

With the inside line that Mummies have to the biggest gift giver of all, Mrs. Vincent Galvin of 45 Calumet Road reassured Vincent Jr., 8, at bedtime on Christmas Eve.

But she was mistaken.

The Galvin Borgsward station wagon had been parked in a hurry Friday night at Wedgemere Station when Mrs. Galvin just caught a train. Access to the trunk was possible for this reason.

When at midnight, Christmas Eve, the Galvins went to their car to take some last presents out for under the tree, they were all missing. A total of about $70 worth of toys for their four children, including the FOA Schwartz tool chest which young Vincent so wanted, had been stolen. Mrs. Galvin could only cry.

"The meanest thief" laurels could well go here.

A Pageant To Remember By

"THE BOY WHO SANG FOR THE KING" was the pageant chosen by the church school at the First Congregational Church, presented December 18 to commemorate the Christmas season. A large number of young people took part in the effective production.

There Is Something For Everyone On Channel 2

The week on Channel 2 has something for everyone.

There'll be three top-notch dramas, a sharp debate on Massachusetts auto insurance rates in which the public will take part, a new class for creative knitters (beginners and experts) who want to learn principals as well as techniques, the hot jazz trumpet of Al Hirt, a live Boston Symphony Orchestra telecast, the return of Colette Shulman with her perceptive comment on the Soviet press, the New England premiere of one of the most popular series ever produced for children, and much, much more.

It all begins the week of January 1.

Here's the line-up, starting at noon on New Year's Day with a galaxy of fine programs for holiday viewing:

Sunday, January 1

12 noon—The Successor, repeat of one of the best programs of the year—a fictional account of the deadlock between conservative and liberal elements within the Catholic Church, a warmly human picture of the gentle, wise Cardinal ultimately selected.

1:30—Lincoln Center Stage 5, an Opera, ballet and drama all based on a short play by Frank Gilroy depicting the anguish of a young man who seeks punishment for an unpunishable crime.

2:30—The Dance Theater of Jose Limon in which the famous dancer and his company perform "Moor's Pavanne" based on Shakespeare's "Othello" and "Missa Brevis."

3:30—Dear Liar, repeat of a WGBH favorite—Jerome Kilty's play based on 40 years of correspondence between G. B. Shaw and the actress Mrs. Patrick Campbell, with Kilty as Shaw and his wife, Cavada Humphrey as Mrs. Pat. Dear Liar will also be aired Monday, January 2 at 3 p.m. for the convenience of viewers.

12:30 (repeat 5 p.m.) Misterogers' Neighborhood, Fred Rogers invited the young and the young at heart to visit his Neighborhood of Make-Believe, peopled by some of the most improbable characters ever invented.

7:30—Musically Speaking, Famed jazz trumpeter Al Hirt demonstrates the innovations he has made in trumpet playing, performs a section from "Java" and talks with musicologist George Marek, vice-president and general manager of RCA about his career. (Repeat Wednesday, 10:30).

9:00—N.E.T. Journal. The Opium Trail. The documentary follows the opium trail from the poppy fields of Burma, to Thailand, where the narcotic is converted into morphine brick, then to Bankok along the byroads of corruption and escalating profits, and finally to Hong Kong, "the city that grew on opium." (Repeat Saturday, 8:00).

Tuesday, January 3

8:30—Boston Symphony Orchestra. Erich Leinsdorf conducts this live concert, broadcast direct from Symphony Hall (radio in stereo). Program: "Der Schwanendreher" by Hindemith (Burton Fine, viola soloist); and Haffner Serenade by Mozart (Joseph Silverstein, violin soloist).

Wednesday, January 4

8:30—Auto Rates: Why Pay More? First of a hard-hitting WGBH series on the cost of automobile insurance in Massachusetts featuring insurance company spokesmen, legislators with new plans and supporters of the financial responsibility concept who will offer their own views on auto insurance and answer questions phoned in by viewers.

9:00—Your Dollar's Worth. The High Cost of Food. A special N.E.T. documentary on rising supermarket prices — what causes them, and what the consumer can do about it.

Thursday, January 5

2:00—The Busy Knitter. Elizabeth Zimmerman sets out to prove that knitting is both useful and fun. Using common sense, ingenuity and resourcefulness, she makes a classic raglan or cardigan sweater before the camera.

7:30—Just Published. Rhode Island's Democratic Senator Claiborn Pell joins host Richard Sterne to talk about his much-discussed book "Megalopolis Unbound," a study of the mounting transportation tangle in American cities.

9:30—The Soviet Press This Week. Colette Shulman, who just returned from a trip to Russia and a brush with the Soviet government, resumes her popular series, reporting weekly on events in the Soviet Union. She is a former UPI Moscow correspondent.

9:45—China Watching. Experts analyze events on inside China today, providing a look at both sides of the Communist world—first Russia, now China.

Friday, January 6

5:30—What's New. A child's eye view of the "Alvin," a radicall new research submarine based at the Wooods Hole Oceanographic Institute in Woods Hole, Mass.

2 and 8—N.E.T. Playhouse. The Amorous Flea. TV premiere of the long-runoff-Broadway musical comedy hit based on Moliere's "School for Wives."

Saturday, January 7

9:00—College Sport Of The Week. Basketball: Northeastern University at Boston University. (Recorded recently at B.U.)

Dr. Teichner

Before joining Northeastern's psychology department this fall, Prof. Teichner was research coordinator at Tufts University. Earlier posts included those of psychology professor and director of the Institute of Environmental Psychophysiology at University of Massachusetts in Amherst, and chief of the psychology branch at U.S. Army Laboratories in Natick.

DR. WARREN H. TEICHNER

Dr. Teichner, whose scientific publications are primarily in the fields of psychophysiology and perception, is editor of The Journal of General Psychology and on the editorial board of several professional journals. He is a fellow of the American Psychological Association and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and is a member of the Human Factors Society.

Serving The Community For 86 Years

Editorials:

For A Better Education

As the community moves toward a special Town Meeting in February to chose a site for a new high school building, we are plagued with one harbored worry that manifested during the year's building committee meetings, and that is about the adequacy of the planning for the educational program to be incorporated into such a huge $6 million-plus investment structure.

It took the Permanent Building Committee nearly a year to get what it could accept as adequate and sufficient educational specifications out of the School Committee and Department for the planning of the building itself according to what the school officials felt was necessary to house its educational program.

We know that the educational specifications were designed to incorporate the present educational program, and then some. But what we still wonder about is the school system's own planning in regard to its future educational program.

We know, for example, that the School Committee and administration questions its own role in the community; that is, does its educational role end with the instruction of academic subjects, or should its role be a larger one within the modern community to include such matters as citizenship, morality and ethics, and other problems of the modern community.

The question is philosophical, but the answer to it must be practical. We wonder about the future role of the educational system within this community, and the adequacy of any planning forethought that might have gone into its future courses.

Winter Carnival Fun

The beginning days of the week-long first community Winter Carnival here shows that it is a welcome addition to the youngsters' Christmas vacation period, and one that is proving a fun-packed wholesome youth event that we hope to see continued in future years.

Attendance has been sporadic at the various planned events, some with many and others with few showing up, but the important factor to note is that something has been planned and offered to those who have an interest in doing something and having fun with their contemporaries—which is far more important than nothing at all being offered. If some are able to find or do other things that interest them during this vacation period, that is good, too; but at least the community has provided some recreational outlet for its youth, and those that have and are taking advantage of the Winter Carnival's happenings are fully enjoying it!

Santa's Helpers

During the early part of December many were wondering whether or not the weather would let us have a white Christmas—and it did, just in time for Christmas, too!

Many residents had friends and family relatives coming into town on Christmas Day, and others went visiting elsewhere; but all had occasion to appreciate the splendid job of snowplowing and de-icing accomplished by our hardworking town employees, especially the Highway Department workers, who went out during the happy holiday with their families to ensure a happy and safe holiday for all of Winchester's families.

The townspeople, at a time like this, are shown by the employees and the municipal government that there is still truth in the old saying: "You can't do better than live in Winchester!"—as any traveller by motor vehicle or foot over the Christmas weekend here will attest.

Shoemaker's Child

Living in Winchester is an experience punctuated with reactions of pride at the accomplishments of one's co-citizens. And often of surprise that they live here at all, so quietly do they do so.

This week's paper notes the national acclaim of Dr. Claude Elwood Shannon, an international figure compared by his patron institution, MIT, to Norbert Weiner in distinction in mathematics.

It also notes the retirement from a vice presidency in the New England Telephone Company of Thomas Hennessey, a warm, effective executive whose meaningful work outside of the company has left its mark on all citizens of the area and who recently was awarded a Human Relations Citation from the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Sometimes those in charge of public relations at the various business offices and institutions in Greater Boston don't quite understand just how important to the home Town paper news of its illustrious citizens is.

One of the gentlemen named above is the father of major research in communications, the other has been a top executive of the top communications company in the country. But the Star had a heck of a time getting information on one and very little luck with the other.

A call to MIT Tuesday morning asking for information to amplify the story on Dr. Shannon (read in the Boston papers) and help with a photo, was answered by the girl at the telephone stating that the office was too busy right then for her to put us through. The effect was mollified Wednesday morning when the director of the office very kindly read the official release on Dr. Shannon to the Star over the phone.

A call last Thursday to the Telephone Company public relations office camplaining that the information on Mr. Hennessey was much too sketchy for the interest of his co-citizens in Winchester was met with a promise to send more right away. The Star is still waiting. It did its best by digging in its files to add to the picture caption received.

The shoemaker's child often is the one who goes shoeless, as they used to say.

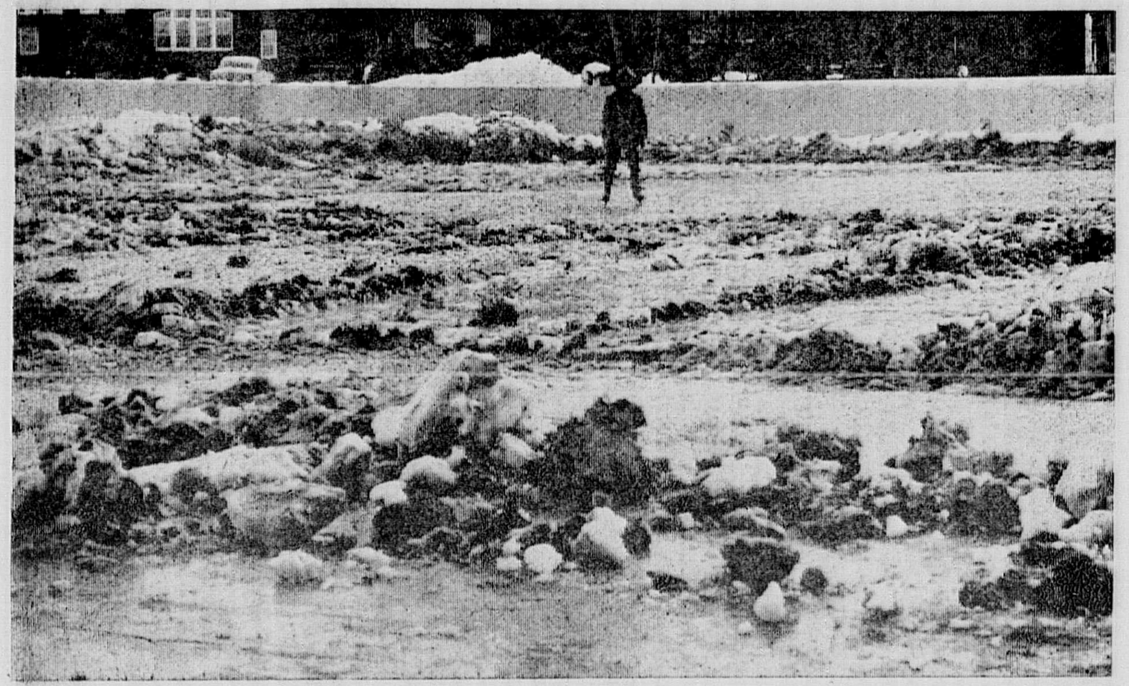
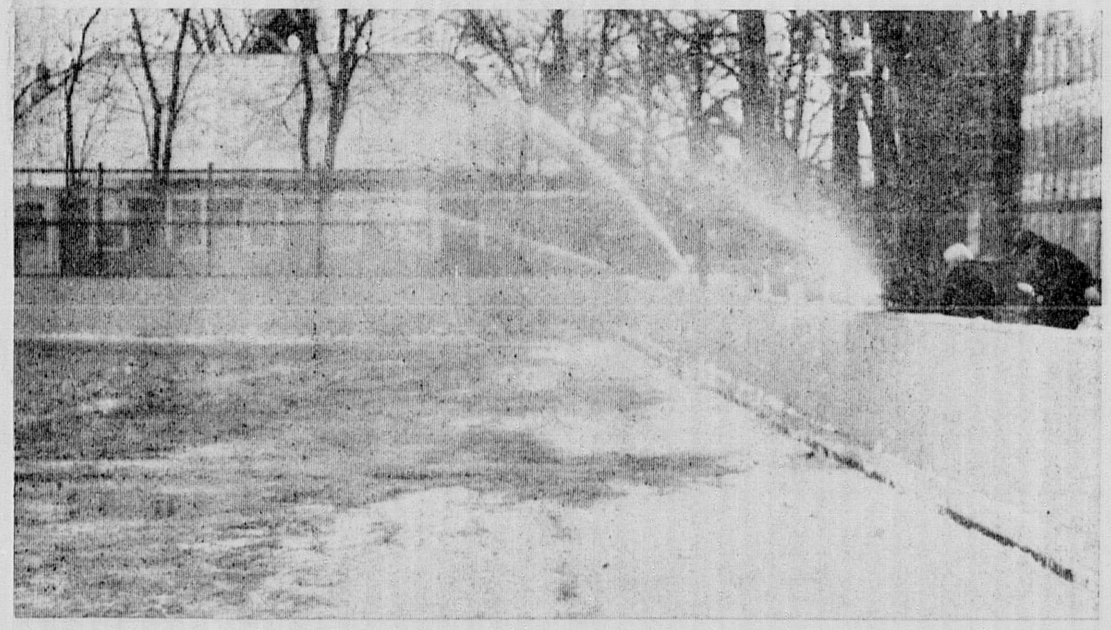
Ice Rink Trial

PHOTOGRAPHS BY WILLIAM T. RYERSON

NEW WATER SYSTEM FOR BETTER ICE, installed by a private contractor assisted by the Water Department and the Park Department, through funds donated by the Winchester Rotary Club ($400) and En Ka Society ($400), will mean more evenly spread and better icing for the town's public rink by the Knights of Columbus building. The new ice-making system was attached to the ice rink earlier this month in anticipation of the Winter Carnival's hockey games and skating parties.



SOMEBODY GOOFED! Would you believe it—but a well-intentioned Park Department worker over the weekend put a heavy plow truck on the ice at the rink with the idea of taking snow off it—and instead tore up the ice and mud with the snow. This youngster was determined to give his new skates a little try anyway; more than 50 others who wanted to try new Christmas skates left dejected; and Winter Carnival officials were wondering how they could have hockey games and skating parties without any ice.



WATERING SYSTEM LAYS ICE layer over the rink after the broken-up ice and mud was cleared from the rink on Monday. The new layer of ice was being specially nurtured for the Winter Carnival and school-vacationing youngsters to use this week.

BOOK REVIEW

Winchester Public Library

A SHORT WALK ON THE CAMPUS

by Jonathan Aitken and Michael Beloff

In the tradition of Mrs. Trollope and Charles Dickens we are once more subjected to a scathing indictment by a couple of Englishmen. This time it is our colleges that are under fire by [illegible] young Oxford students who came over as a debating team and visited campuses all across America. Well, this is good, and as a nation we have always been able to take criticism, but it seems a bit pretentious on the basis of a twelve-week whirlwind tour to be able to point out so many things wrong with our students.

In the first place American students have no sense of humor. The jokes cracked by the two English debaters would often leave their audiences in a state of uncomprehending silence. There was an occasion at Columbia University when Michael Beloff had the audacity to poke fun at the President of the United States. His remark: "I understand that General Eisenhower was once in charge here at Columbia. It must be the only university in the world where the intellectual qualifications needed to become president are less than those needed to become a student." Such extremely daring remarks are unheard of here, and he was told that in America etiquette demands that such jokes are made only in private.

The colleges on our Eastern seaboard are fairly sophisticated, and many of the students have actually been to Europe; but once you get into the hinterlands things are different. Many times the audience at the debate was there not from an interest in the subject, but only to see a real live Englishman. Their most frequent question to the natives of that far-off country concerned the Beatles.

As everyone knows, the sex life of American college students is pretty wild. At a cocktail party for the authors, an attractive Sarah Lawrence student plunged directly into a discussion of the superior abilities of her Negro lover compared to those of white boys. Her enthusiasm was backed up by a friend who assured them that all the knowledgeable girls in their dormitory could tell similar tales. At had to fight off predatory female collegians in order to retain their virtue.

Some of these anecdotes seem a trifle unlikely. For instance on one of the panty raids (a quaint sex rite in America) to which they were witness a young man is quoted as referring to "cami-knickers." As most colleges they visited the English students far as I know this is a strictly British term and is unlikely to be employed by an American. These raids incidentally are engineered and carried out by the young ladies who invade the men's dormitories not to steal masculine underwear but to lose their own.

The chapters on the college fraternity system and on segregation read as if written by entirely different authors. They are serious and challenging and do not descend to caricature and exaggeration. Most Americans agree that fraternities are adolescent. They are in the process of being drastically changed or completely abolished in many colleges. And there is no question that our segregation problem does have and should have a bad name in foreign countries. We do not dispute these things. It is unfortunate that the rest of the book could not cover something besides the authors' "immense amusement" at our "national absurdities."

letters to the editor

You Have To See With Both Eyes Open, Too

Editor of the Star:

For some time now I have been hearing and reading about the reaction of people to one purported incident during the Vietnam conflict. A letter to the editor of the Star which appeared in last week's paper was the last straw.

The purported "deliberate" bombing of civilians in Hanoi, N. Vietnam, originated from a claim by the North Vietnamese. The story was picked up by Communist sympathizers all over the world, naturally, but it certainly is disconcerting to find so many normally calm thinkers jumping on the Communist bandwagon with letters-to-the-editor-type comments. Has the Star's recent communicant no stomach for the United States' side of the story? The U. S. has denied "deliberate" bombing, but has admitted the possibility of accidental damage to non-military targets.

In time of war, there are always incidents of accidental casualties—the so-called "innocent bystander" is a normal item in any deadly battle, whether it be on the streets or on the field of battle. This is one of the unfortunate circumstances of any conflict. History records the fact that some warring nations deliberately locate military targets within civilian areas, counting on the reluctance of their adversary's humaneness to protect vital installations. The Communists are one of these proponents of "strategic" placement of targets. Does the Star's correspondent believe that all city-limit signs should provide a sanctuary from attack?

One thing in general I would like to point out—the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are constantly sabotaging civilian areas, often deliberately blowing up civilians to create terror—apparently the Star's recent writer does not hold this to be "deliberate" bombing of civilians—or does she root for the other side and not consider these daily incursions as "illegal?"

Is there a possibility that one of the North Vietnamese S.A.M.'s fell to earth in Hanoi after missing its target? Since the Chinese Commies preach the expendability of people, is it possible that they planted explosives in the devastated Hanoi area deliberately to create an "incident?" Consider also the possibility that some manufacturing facilities for "bombs" had a mishap in a factory and in a civilian area, wherein the plant was located, both factory and the surrounding area was destroyed. Certainly the Communists would not admit to an error on their part, but they would most assuredly take advantage of such an incident to place the blame on the "hated Americans."

I am deeply concerned that people in this country rush to decry anything they hear that, at the time of hearing, upsets their equilibrium, especially when it is the "mod" to blame everything on the government. Some of the "in" groups now have switched from stupid draft-card burning to one possibly accidental bombing of a civilian area. Were they as much concerned when the South Vietnamese civilians were accidentally bombed by U. S. and South Vietnamese planes and artillery. I didn't see any letters to the editor declaiming those incidents. I don't claim that we are always right, but I do claim everyone has the right to a benefit of the doubt and a balancing of the possibilities.

If someone wants to write to the editor, it is his privilege (though you won't find it in Communist countries) but, I say, look at both sides before you go off in a cocked hat about something you don't know anything about.

Sincerely,
James R. Stewart, Jr.

Smith Pond's Facts, History And Lore Noted

I do not know where you received your information about the pond the town has just purchased from my brother, Percival Smith.

The heading on the front page of the Star of December 8th, "Cox Pond Purchased By Town" upset me more than a little bit. My cousin, Bert Cox, had nothing to do with the making of that pond. My brother, from whom you purchased the land, and my father dammed up the outlet on our own property and formed that pond.

As the years passed, I tried to keep a dam there but as the saying goes, "progress took over." When the Cox land was sold, the builders came down to the outlet and tore out the dam. I filled it again. That is the only reason we still have a pond.

As the story goes, it starts from Whipple Hill. I am sorry to differ with the writer again. If the one that wrote the article started from the head of Locke's pond and went up the valley, he would have come to a small pond in the woods—a short distance. That pond was on Wallace Fiefield's land. Further on up was another pond that belonged to my uncle Lester Smith. That was the water that came down to Locke's Pond and went out through Cox land into our land to form that pond. When it left our land it went down through what was called "Menchin Run," then through Sam Gustin's land into Locke's pasture to Henderson's Swamp as it was called, to Winnings Pond. From Winnings Pond down through Shannon's land out in back of the White Spot in Woburn to Horn Pond, Woburn; then to Wedge Pond to the Aberjona River and to the Mystic Lakes.

I am glad to see that some of the towns-people like Mrs. Varn Myers and others had foresight enough to conserve our pond area. I hope they can acquire the rest of the land for conservation. It is a welcoming sight to be able to go there and walk around and see the wild duck with their young in the summer months and to see them in the fall full-grown..

In the winter months that pond would freeze over early and boys and girls formerly came from all over to go skating. Many good times were had by all.

Maribel Vinson Owen learned to skate on our pond.

I do not live in the town now but I hope I will still have the privilege of taking my family there and walking around.

Respectfully yours,
Parker L. Smith

Girl Scouts' Thoughts On Conservation

Editor of the Star:

The Girl Scouts of Troop 512, interested in conservation, got together and started to discuss the problem of water pollution. We decided that it would be better if the public beaches were cleaned out or closed because most of the boys and girls that swim there get sick because of the pollution problem.

We are thankful that there are still some open lands for the animals to live and for us to learn about the wildlife of nature. We do think there should be a limit to building permits so these places will not be destroyed.

Telephone Executive Retires

THOMAS M. HENNESSEY of 37 Cabot Street has just retired as vice president-public relations with the New England Telephone Company. Here, with Mrs. Hennessey, he is receiving a certificate presented him at one of the many festivities which attended his stepping down. At left is Allen G. Barry, president of the N.E.T. and T.

Mr. Hennessey Steps down as VP Of N.E.T. and T.

Thomas M. Hennessey of 37 Cabot Street ended 43 years of contribution to the New England Tel. and Tel. with his recent retirement as vice president-public relations.

One of the tributes paid Mr. Hennessey at the many occasions which honored his retirement was made by Erskine White, former president of N.E.T. and T. and former long time resident here in Rangeley.

Mr. Hennessey is an extremely well known and highly thought of citizen of the state and the nation.

He is a past president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and served as this year's Massachusetts Bay United Fund campaign chairman.

A native of Lawrence, Mr. Hennessey joined the telephone company in 1923 right after his graduation from Harvard College. His numerous civic activities have included serving as director and vice president of the New England Council, and chairman of Boston Mayor Collins' Committee on Civic Unity and co-chairman of the Governor's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

In April of this year Mr. Hennessey was awarded the Human Relations Citation of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He has lived for 36 years in Winchester and has been a Town Meeting member, a member of the Finance Committee as well as serving here as director of the Winchester Hospital and of the Winchester Country Club.

Voc. School

Unofficial estimates of the cost of the new facility have increased by $2.4 million, according to the committee.

Figures prepared for consruction bonding some six years ago, placed at $4.2 million, have since been revised to include more recent construction cost increases and to figure in for the disappearance of previously available government surplus machinery and machine tools, and now approaches $6.6 million.

Mr. Kincaid said he did not expect the committee would be asking for any monetary support from Winchester, beyond the normal committee operating budget contribution, during this next year. The earliest Winchester would be tapped for assistance would be in 1968, he said.

(The town now contributes only to the committee's operating budget based on a formula relating this communiy's school population —approximately 6.7%—to those of the other eleven district communities: Woburn, Malden, Melrose, Chelsea, Reading, North Reading, Revere, Saugus, Stoneham, Wakefield and Winthrop. Winchester will contribute to retiring the principal of the 20 year bond issue floated to construct the school, and, once built, the town will contribute to its operating expenses according to the number of pupils it enlists in the vocational school's enrollment.)

The regional vocational school will be like a new Wentworth, only free to our youngsters, when it is completed, Mr. Kincaid noted. He described the school as a 1,000 student complex in grades 8 to 12, with 200 additional students in post graduate grades 13 and 14.

The architectural firm of Korslund, LeNormand and Quann of Norwood are currently engaged in preparing preliminary layout planning work.

National Bank

Charles W. Craven, assistant cashier, was named cashier to fill the post left by Mr. Sullivan.

Mr. Craven was born and educated in Boston, is a graduate of the High School of Commerce and Bentley College of Accounting and Finance, and joined the Winchester National Bank on October 1, 1958. He was formerly employed locally at Browning Laboratories, Inc., where he was camptroller and office manager, with previous employment in both Medford and Attleboro.

CHARLES W. CRAVEN

Mr. Craven has been a resident of Winchester for twenty years and has been active in church and fraternal affairs, and is a Past Grand Knight of Winchester Council K. of C. Also active in community affairs and charity drives, he is a former treasurer and director of Winchester Chapter of American Red Cross and presently serves as director and treasurer of Winchester Little League. He has also served as a member of the Town Finance Committee and is currently its secretary, a position he has held for the past eleven years.

Mr. Craven resides at 6 Madison Avenue West with his wife, Mary, and son, David, an eighth grade student at McCall Junior High. They are also the parents of a son, Charles, Jr., and a daughter, Ellen.

Leslie J. Scott, who has been president of the bank since 1945, was elected chairman of the board of directors. Mr. Scott is vice president of Shawmut Association, Inc.

Heart Fund Names Neill

Stanley E. Neill of 5 Overlook Way will be in charge of special gifts for the 1967 Heart Fund in Winchester, according to an announcement made by John Yovicsin, chairman of the 1967 Greater Boston Heart Fund.

As chairman, Mr. Neill will be responsible for special individual gifts to the Heart Fund. He has worked previously as a Heart Fund volunteer.

Mr. Neill is a director of the Winchester Cooperative Bank and a corporator of the Winchester Savings Bank. He is president of the Winchester Country Club.

"Leaders like Mr. Neill and the many Heart Fund volunteers are fighting on a great team," said Mr. Yovicsin, who is head football coach at Harvard and New England Football Coach of the Year, and who underwent heart surgery last summer. "We score through heart research and education. And to win in the fight against heart disease means countless lives saved and health restored. I know that people in the Winchester area will support these hard-working Heart Fund volunteers and the great cause they represent."

Science Award

In particular, Shannon's measure of information has found wide use in experimental psychology."

Dr. Shannon has been in Winchester since just after rejoining the MIT faculty 11 years ago. He was made a permanent professor there in 1957 and is a member of the departments of both mathematics and electrical engineering.

He lives here with his wife, Mary, his two sons, Robert, 14, and Andrew, 12, students at the Lynch Junior High School, and his daughter Peggy, 7, in the Wyman School. He has for the past two years been serving the town as a member of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Secondary School-College Relations, an appointed sub-committee of the School Committee.

Born in Michigan, Dr. Shannon was graduated from the Gaylord, Michigan, High School in three years. He received his bachelor of science degrees in both mathematics and electrical engineering from the University of Michigan. While in high school he worked as a Western Union messenger, and while in college, repairing radio sets. He made a start on his experimental work while in the Reserve Signal Corps unit at Michigan, but, when he was graduated at the age of 21, was too young to receive his commission.

He was at MIT from 1936 to 1940, earning his master's and Ph.D. degrees. He than spent a year at the Institute of Advanced Study in Princeton, following which he joined the Bell Laboratories in Murray Hill, New Jersey, where he worked until his return to the Institute.

Dr. Shannon describes his work as the "theoretical application of studying ways in which the amount of information carried over channels, usually radio, can be measured," and studying the "best ways of dealing with it."

It is "more a mathematical theory than a direct application," according to the award winner, who has also in the past received, among other honors, the Alfred Noble prize of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; the Morris Liebmann Award of Radio Engineers; the Stuart Ballantine Medal of the Franklin Institute and the Research Corporation award.

A member of the National Academy of Sciences, he has authored more than 40 articles in professional publications and is the author of a second book, "Automata Studies," written with John McCarthy and published in 1956.

1966. This was the year that was—in Winchester a year of increased juvenile delinquency and unusual crimes here, as vandals desecrated Wildwood Cemetery by knocking over headstones and tearing down and ripping the American Flag; as the number of juvenile-caused property damages rose substantially; as a local psychiatrist was shot by a local patient in his Arlington office; as a Billerica Samaritan was knifed and beaten and robbed by two young men while passing through Winchester; as a 17-year-old girl surprised a burglar in her parents' home on returning from school; as some youths attending teen dances spoiled the image of the others enjoying the youth functions and caused the Selectmen and police to study the potential developing problem and impose stricter supervisory rules over public youth events.

Coffee Can't Sober

A cup of coffee after cocktails could do more harm than good, the Automobile Legal Association (ALA) today warned holiday motorists.

Philip C. Wallwork, ALA safety director, and a resident at 7 Jefferson Road said that once alcohol enters a person's bloodstream, coffee has no sobering effect.

"Motorists who take a few drinks and then have hot coffee 'for the road' may be worse off because they'll have a false sense of security," Wallwork said. "They'll think the coffee will sober them enough so they can drive safely, but they'll be wrong."

The ALA official urged all motorists to think twice before having a few drinks to toast in the New Year.

"The best thing 'for the road' is a safe driver," he said. "If you have to drink, leave the car parked and take public transportation. You'll be safer and other motorists and pedestrians will be safer."

Harvard Artist To Speak Before Art Association

The next meeting of the Winchester Art Association will be on Wednesday, January 4, at 7:30 p.m., in the Rich Room of the Public Library. At that time, David Hollman, art teacher, will be the guest speaker.

Currently, Mr. Hollman teaches at Harvard School of Architecture where he holds classes in line drawing and mosaics. His educational background includes the Boston Museum School, Alfred University and the School of Practical Art in Boston. His work is represented, to name a few places, at the National Gallery, Washington D.C., Carnegie Institute and Brandeis University galleries. Mr. Hollman is also designer-craftsman and has been exhibited widely throughout the United States.

The meeting on January 4 will be preceded by a short coffee hour.

Sachems Trounced

The Winchester winter track team was outclassed by powerful Lexington at Lexington Field House Tuesday morning. The score was 71-15.

All Winchester could salvage out of the meet were seconds by Fenn in the 300 and 600, a third by McLellan in the 1000, a second by Benshimol in the mile, and a second by Fahey in the 2-mile.

Lexington swept the first three positions in the other events.

Memorial Gifts To Heart Fund

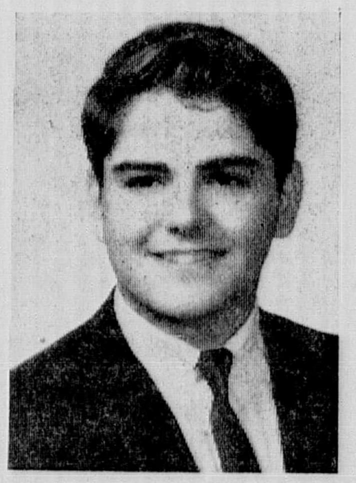
Many late friends and relatives of Winchester residents have been honored during the past three months by memorial gifts to the Heart Fund, according to Dr. George S. Kurland, president of Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, who announced the names of hundreds of Greater Boston persons so remembered.

"Memorial gifts to the Heart Fund are like the New Year, looking both to the past and to the future," Doctor Kurland said. "They express remembrance and love for those who are gone, and they spell hope and life for others in the future, through heart research and education.

"Heart Fund memorials are living momuments to loved relatives and friends, and any contribution thus made large or small is a contribution toward better health and longer life for our families and our communities."

These late friends and relatives of Winchester residents have been honored recently by Heart Fund memorials:

Hazel Berry, Martin Burkhardt, Arthur Burtnett, Lester W. Cameron, Mrs. Julia Dillon, Mrs. Mary Farrell, George A. Foley, Philip Goldman, William B. Harvey, Jr., David B Holmes, Harold Larson, Thomas Murray, Edward Y. Neill, Charles H. Newton, George Nowell, Mrs. Rallo, Edward J. Scott, Henry Gregg Small, Howard Stockwell, Mrs. Marion Wing.



JOHN MERCANTANTE of Lockeland Road has been elected to the National Honor Society. A student at Austin Preparatory School he is also a member of the school's Honors Club in which honor society and dean's list students join for the purpose of giving academic assistance to others. John is assisting freshmen students in both French and English.

Miss Kelley Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kelley of 58 Emerson Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Natalie Louise, to Mr. Allen Rockwell Roman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Roman of Coral Cables, Florida.

MISS NATALIE LOUISE KELLEY

Miss Kelley attended Middlebury College and was graduated from the College of Business Administration, Boston University. She is employed as an accounting systems analyst for the Miami Herald. Mr. Roman is a graduate of the University of Miami and is presently attending the School of Law at the University.

An August wedding is planned.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Dame of Weymouth are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Linda Cleaves Dame, to Mr. Robert Grandy Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Thompson of 15 Garfield Avenue.

Miss Dame is a graduate of the Weymouth High School and is presently on the staff of the New England Merchants' Bank in Boston. Mr. Thompson, who is associated with the Richard Knight Insurance Agency of Boston, is a graduate of the Winchester High School and attended Bentley College.

A wedding is planned for August 26.

Yankton College Honors Paul White

Paul M. White III, son of Mrs. Paul M. White of 3 Fletcher Street, and the late Mr. White, was recently named by Yankton College to the 1966 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. This is a coveted distinction among seniors in the universities and colleges across the nation.

Paul will graduate from Yankton College in January with honors and has been accepted at graduate school at Springfield College to pursue a master's degree in health and physical education. He will start in March 1967 as Springfield is on tri-semester.

A while ago Paul was chosen as the prototype of all Yankton College students as a representative of the progress that has been made in the last few years. Slides were shown of Paul and his wife Barbara from the time he entered Yankton including all his college and extra-curricular activities. His work in community construction jobs and in teaching swimming at South Dakota College to aid in his tuition were among those shown at the Tenth Decade Drive.

Paul and Barbara will be back in Winchester sometime in January. They didn't make it for Christmas.

Baker—Ames

To make their home in Pasadena, California, where the bridegroom is a Ford Foundation Research Fellow in mathematics at the California Institute of Technology are Dr. and Mrs. Kirby Alan Baker, who were married on the afternoon of Saturday, December 24 in the Memorial Church at Harvard University.

MRS. KIRBY A. BAKER

The bride, a graduate of Lake Erie College, is the former Miss Ellen Stetson Ames, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wesley Ames of Highland Park, Illinois. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Gilbert Baker of 7 Grove Street. An alumnus of the Winchester High School, he was graduated summa cum laude from Harvard and elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He also earned his doctorate at Harvard.

The Reverend Richard S. Hasty of Duxbury officated at the three o'clock services which were followed by a reception at the Sheraton Commander Hotel in Cambridge. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a wedding gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a small brush train and a veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Wearing identical dresses of moss green silk trimmed with lace and fashioned in a modified empire style, and carrying pink roses, were her two attendants. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Denny Ames of Basel, Switzerland was maid of honor at the ceremony and the bridegroom's sister Miss Brenda Sue Baker of Winchester was the bridesmaid.

Mr. Dennis Graham Baker of Winchester was best man for his brother and Mr. Neil Kenton Baker ushered at his brother's wedding along with the brother of the bride, Private First Class Warren Stetson Ames and the Messrs. Bradley Campbell Ross and Whitney Smith Jr., both of Winchester.

Miss Hollinshead To Wed In June

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Hollinshead of 1 Hilltop Road announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Sue, to Mr. Verne J. F. Berube, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Berube of Van Buren, Maine.

Miss Hollinshead, a graduate of Winchester High School, is a senior at the University of Maine.

Mr. Berube is a 1966 graduate of the University of Maine where he was a member of Theta Chi Fraternity. He is presently a member of the faculty at Van Buren High School.

A June wedding is planned.

Two Policemen Here Graduated At Framingham

On December 16 Patrolmen Roger DeMinico and John W. McKinley were graduated from the Massachusetts State Police Academy in Framingham as members of the 43rd local police officers' course.

The graduation exercises were held at the South Framingham High School.

Chief Joseph J. Derro and Lieut. Edward Bowler of the Police Department, and Charles Doucette, a member of the Board of Selectmen, were in attendance at the graduation exercises together with relatives of both officers.

They were singled out for having received outstanding marks in all their examinations and offices. Mckinley received a mark of 98.0 in the examination, which was one of the three highest marks received in his class.

Both men have recently been appointed regular officers in the department.

Before entering police service, Officer McKinley was graduated from the University of Massachusetts at Stockbridge. He is married and the father of two children.

Offifficer DeMinico also attended the state university, where he majored in physical education. He is married and the father of one child.

Care Donations Set 10-Year Mark

Public contributions to CARE in fiscal 1966 set a 10-year record of $12,173,345, or $1 million more than the previous year, according to the just-published 20th annual report of the non-profit overseas aid agency.

Printed in the shape of a CARE package, the report shows that these donations by the people of the United States and Canada were multiplied into nearly $93 million in food, self-help and medical aid delivered to needy peoples in 40 countries of Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America and the Middle East. The total includes U.S. Food for Peace donations and host government support toward internal expenses. Cumulative value of distributions since 1946 is $582 million.

Refugees and other civilian war victims in South Vietnam dominated CARE's attention in the past year, the report points out.

"Deeply involved as we are in this task, our other commitments around the world were not neglected," Frank L. Goffio, executive director, summarizes. "Our fight on hunger was intensified and expanded, helping to feed 40 million persons in 32 countries, including 28 million children in school feeding programs; our Self-Help projects increased in number and variety; our MEDICO service made new advances in spreading the benefits of modern medicine to deprived areas.

"This record of achievement fittingly marks our Twentieth Anniversary. It is also a tribute to the millions of donors who chose to express their humane concern through CARE."

Senior Forum To Welcome Its First President

Sunday, January 1, will once again mark Alumni Sunday at The Senior Forum of the First Congregational Church. Forumites and all alumni are invited to attend chapel at 9:15, followed by an informal get-together in the Tucker and Palmer Rooms before the 11 o'clock church service.

The chapel speaker will be Forum's first president, Norman M. Clarke of Deerfield, whose topic will be, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" A native of Winchester, Mr. Clarke was educated in the Winchester schools, graduated from W.H.S. in 1936; he served as the president of the Forum in 1937 and helped in the formation of this unique church organization for high school young people. He was graduated from Suffolk Law School and during World War II served overseas as captain in the U.S. Army Signal Corps.

Mr. Clarke has been associated with the New England Telephone Co. for the past 30 years and at present is manager of the N.E.T. Commercial Office in Greenfield. He is very much interested in community affairs and is a member of the Deerfield Regional School Committee, a volunteer lieutenant in the Deerfield Fire Department, a past president of Kiwanis and a member of the Second Church in Greenfield.

Chaplains for this service will be Craig Heindel and Lynne Jones; deacons Tom Butterworth and Barry Blanchard and ushers Richard Emery and Arthur Fowle.

From what the Winchester Varsity basketball team showed against a mediocre Woburn team, it needs plenty of practice and a half-dozen games under its belt before it's going to make a respectable showing on the floor. Its inexperience was painfully apparent. The team has some potential, but suffers from the fact that too few of its players had a chance to develop during last year's varsity season.

Scott Anderson is an excellent ball controller, despite his size, but his effectiveness is cut down by the fact that his teammates don't maneuver into position to get a good shot at the basket. In the Woburn game the opponents' zone defense kept the Sachem shooters out of good basket range. The Winchester team could use a bit of deception to get its players closer to the opponent's basket.

Alan Ingraham has good potential, has the height, and needs a little more coordination, which should come with experience. John Cheever surprised with an exceptionally good game. This young man, in his first year of basketball despite the fact that he is a senior, surprised everyone with his fine play. He could develop into a great player before the season is well along. Tom Workman seems very fast, and is another that could develop into a fine player. Hilfinger is a much better player than he showed in the Woburn game. It was just an off night for him. John Martin is another that should develop as the season progresses. John Pirani may not be a gazelle on the floor, but his teammates could take a lesson from him in aggressiveness. John fights for the ball as though his life depended on it.

Winchester fans are in for a lot of frustration watching this team in action. It has lost its first two games, and the strong opponents are yet to be met. Here's what Coach Jim Phillips has to say:

"People don't realize how strong the Middlesex League is. And this year every team but ours has improved. A half-dozen games have been played against Class A teams, and the Middlesex League has taken them all. Look what Reading did to Everett and Watertown, and Melrose to Boston Latin!"

Well, Winchester will improve, too, but it will take time. There is good sophomore potential, and the Sophs will get plenty of time on the floor to develop.

* * * * *

The officiating seemed weird at times, but in all justice to the referees, it would have taken a dozen of them on the floor to spot all the infractions. It just seemed that the ones called hurt Winchester more than they did Woburn. On occasion two and three infractions could be spotted taking place at one time.

* * * * *

Well, the hockey team has gone through four games without a defeat. It hasn't overpowered the opposition, and its first two games were against weak Concord and Watertown. But it did overcome one big hurdle by tieing Stoneham Monday. The Spartans have been the Sachems' nemesis the past several years,, having defeated the locals something like six or seven straight. So the tie represents a big mental hurdle overcome.

With Melrose, Wakefield and Winchester in a three-way tie for the Middlesex League, the Melrose-Wakefield game Saturday looms as the big one of the young ML season. Just how powerful is Melrose, which has scored 25 points in its first three games?

* * * * *

Our sister community to the south, Medford, seems to have revived sportswise. After a great football season following dismal ones, the hockey team seems to be following the same pattern. Medford won its its first two games by 13-0 scores. Wow!

* * * * *

Mark Donahue of Myopia Hill Road, varsity goalie on the St. Sebastian Country Day School hockey team, was invited to play in the Lake Placid Hockey Tournament which started Tuesday and ends today. Mark, who is president of the senior class, scored successive shutouts against St. Sebastian's first two opponents, the scores being 5-0 against Framington, and 8-0 against Barnstable.

All in all, 1966 was a very good year for sports in Winchester. The girls proved themselves better athletes than the boys, but they had Jan Collins to lead them in three sports. Wonder how she'd do coaching the football team. That would be some headline, wouldn't it?—"Winchester Appoints Lady Football Coach."

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Middlesex League Hockey Publicity

by Frank Burns

The showdown between the preseason favorites for the Middlesex League title will come Saturday afternoon at North Shore Sports Center, Lynn, when defending champion Melrose battles Wakefield in the opening game at 1 o'clock.

The high-flying Red Raiders look like a solid choice to repeat, and Wakefield is expected to be their biggest roadblock.

The other games on Saturday's slate appear well balanced with Concord, winner of its second game in two years last Saturday, taking on the winless Reading six. This game will start at 1:20.

Lexington and Belmont clash in the third game, starting at 3 o'clock. Lexington played a pair of ties last weekend while sitting out three of their regulars.

In the final game, improving Watertown will test the Spartans of Stoneham High. John Krol's Watertown team has come a long way since being bombed 13 to 0 by Melrose in its opener. Last Saturday it tied Lexington.

The league will continue its heavy holiday schedule with a set of games on Monday afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock.

Melrose will open against Belmont at 1 o'clock, while Stoneham and Lexington meet in the feature game at 1:20.

Reading plays Winchester at 3 o'clock, and Concord and Wakefield tangle in the final game at 3:20.

Dick Umile of Melrose took over the scoring lead in the league as the Red Raiders dominate individual honors. The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Dick Umile, Melrose	5	6	11
Mike Turner, Melrose	7	3	10
Mike Sullivan, Melrose	5	4	9
Steve Dolloff, Melrose	4	5	9
Bob Nutile, Winchester	4	3	7
Jim Niles, Stoneham	4	2	6

S. O. I. Men

Because of the holidays and lack of space, bowling news has been curtailed the past two issues. Next week there will be more news about S.O.I. bowling.

Richie Riga bowled 403 Tuesday night, top triple for the season.

Tanners Defeat Sachems In Overtime, 49-47

In a basketball game featuring a wild fourth quarter which resulted in a tie and sent the game into overtime, Woburn defeated arch-rival Winchester 49-47 at Woburn gym Friday night, December 23. The Sachems had every opportunity to win, but fouls, poor shooting and throwaways marred the team effort. Winchester's inexperience was apparent, as many of its players played both good and ragged basketball.

In the overtime, with the score 43-43 after regulation time, Tom Workman sank a quick basket to give the Sachems a 45-53 lead. But fouls on Gaffney and Contalonis brought Woburn up to a tie. A basket by Doherty put the Tanners in the lead, but Alan Ingraham sank two foul shots to tie the score at 47-47. Doherty came through with a couple of free throws, to end the scoring at 49-47. With 8 seconds to play, Winchester bombarded the Woburn basket, with one shot hitting the rim as the game ended.

Winchester had a good first quarter, leading at one time 11-7. John Martin, John Cheever and Ingraham looked good in this quarter, Cheever and Ingraham scoring 4 points apiece. Woburn cut the lead to 13-12 as the period ended.

The same three players continued with a good game in the second quarter, with Cheever snaring a half-dozen rebounds and stealing the ball a coupe of times. The Sachems led 25-20 at the half.

Winchester had trouble finding the basket in the third quarter. There was much fouling on both sides, with Woburn getting more accuracy in its shooting. Scott Anderson controlled the ball well, but his teammates didn't give him too much help, finding difficulty in breaking through Woburn's zone defense. Tom Workman entered the game in the last half of the period and looked very fast, getting a couple of rebounds and stealing the ball a few times. Cheever also looked good in the last three or four minutes of this quarter, which ended with the score tied 32-32.

In the wild fourth period both John Pirani and Ingraham had a chance to be the heroes of the game. Pirani's aggressiveness resulted in three clutch rebounds, and Ingraham sank four clutch foul shots. However, the team's goal shooting left much to be desired. The key play of the game came with little more than a minute to play and Winchester holding a 43-40 lead. Winchester threw the ball away, the Tanners took heart, and Cassidy sank two foul shots to make the score 43-42. Another foul shot and the score was tied as the period ended.

In overtime Workman scored first to put Winchester ahead 45-43. Fouls on Woburn gave the Tanners several shots at the basket. Doherty sank 2 to give Woburn the win 49-47.

The Sachem JV's had a 15-7 lead in the first quarter, but Woburn narrowed the gap, pulled ahead and won 53-44. No one hit double figures for Winchester, Pirani hitting for 6, Papadinis also getting 6 points.

Sachems Tie Lexington & Stoneham In Games over Weekend, 2-2 and 1-1

Winchester, Melrose and Wakefield Tied for First Place In Middlesex League Race with Six Points Each

Winchester and Lexington tied 2-2 in Saturday afternoon's game at Lynn Arena, and on Monday night, the Sachems came ont of the game against strong Stoneham with another tie, this time 1-1, to preserve its season's undefeated record and place it into a three-way tie with Melrose and Wakefield for the Middlesex League lead.

In the Lexington game the Minutemen scored first on Art Lorentzen's 20-footer at 3:42 of the second period. Jim Stabile came right back with a shot to tie the score. Bob Nutile scored for the Sachems to put them ahead 2-1, but Breslin hit for the goal tieing the score which held up for the remainder of the period.

Jaycees Sponsor Second Annual Battle Of Bands

The Winchester Jaycees has announced plans to hold its second annual "Battle of the Bands" in late February.

Last year's local winners, the Tytans, continued on through the regional competition to the finals held in Boston Garden. This year's event has added significance since the overall competition has been expanded from state to national proportions.

Top rock and roll bands from seventeen states will compete in June for a variety of awards ranging from cash prizes to recording and movie contracts. This is the first year the competition has been extended outside of Massachusetts, where the idea was originated by the Weymouth Jaycees.

Last year's event in Winchester, featuring eight of the top local teenage bands, attracted nearly 800 teenagers to the Town Hall. This year promises to be no exception.

Other winners of last year's competition here were the lively Nurk Five, who have become local favorites, and the Federalists of Andover, a group small in stature, but large on showmanship.

With the prominence that the Battle of the Bands has achieved this past year, the number of teenage bands wishing to compete has greatly increased this year. Consequently, interested bands are urged to contact Jaycees President Ed Rodriguez at 729-2032 for information.

Additional details, including dates, prizes, requirements, etc. will be released next week by Chairman Bill Errico, who may be reached at 1-667-9224.

Miss Winchester Pageant Entrants Sought by Jaycees

The search is on in Winchester for a future Miss America.

The Miss Winchester Scholarship Pageant director, John Hackett has announced initial efforts are about to begin toward contacting entrants for the Pageant, scheduled for April 22.

College girls home for the holidays should take particular notice since the timing of the event would permit them to participate with little difficulty. This results from the fact that the Pageant and necessary rehearsals will correspond generally with most college spring vacations.

Entrants Chairman Bill Edwards has indicated that all single girls between 18 and 28 are eligible.

For further information about the Pageant, aspirants should contact Mr. Edwards at 729-7574 or Roger DeMinico (729-8498), who is responsible for entrants from within Winchester.

Prof. Hill To Direct New Tufts Engineering Course; Internships Are One Aim

A new breed of engineer—one with the ability to invent and innovate on his own—will be the product of a new graduate program in engineering design at Tufts University beginning next September.

Professor Percy H. Hill of 11 Stratford Road chairman of Tufts' Department of Engineering Graphics and Design and director of the new program, says that the degree program will develop graduates uniquely equipped "to produce new designs untilizing original ideas." He notes it is a pioneer effort in this direction among engineering colleges.

The program, as outlined by Professor Hill, will require 30 credits leading to the master of science degree, with at least 18 credits in engineering design.

One of the most unusual requirements will be an "Internship in Design" course. A growing number of industries—Polaroid, Johnson & Johnson, Watts Regulator, National Radio and Geartronics—already has shown an interest in participating in the program.

PROFESSOR PERCY H. HILL

Each Tufts engineering student will conact one of the participating industries and will be informed of its need for a new product or device. He is expected to solve the problem, including the construction and testing of a prototype. His completed design will be defended in critique before design jurors representing the same industry.

"We want to be very selective in screening candidates for this program," said Prof. Hill, who envisions a relatively small first-year class. "We want it to be of high quality from the very start. We are confident it will stimulate invention, innovation, entrepreneurship and independent study on the part of the students."

Prof. Hill further explained the real need for his "inventors' school." He said that the art of creative engineering in engineering colleges has hardly received adequate attention. Industry, government and society as a whole should be concerned with the development of inventive and innovative potential in engineering students, he offered.

"Technological advances over the past decade," continued Prof. Hill, "have caused problems which engineers are attempting to solve today—in such areas as air and water pollution, transportation and urbanization. This program at Tufts will not wait for the problems to arise; we will prepare our students to anticipate them. In other words, they will take the offensive instead of the defensive.

According to Prof. Hill, an innovator himself in this field of education at Tufts, the graduate of the novel program will be equipped to enter engineering on a private practice basis as well as industrial employment.

"This may be a breakthrough for the engineer into the ranks now enjoyed by other professions such as medicine, law, and dentistry," he claimed.

A four-year $112,000 Ford Foundation grant given in 1965 to strengthen education in engineering design will help support the program during the first, formative year.

A design laboratory for the program already has been constructed in Anderson Hall on the Tufts campus. The laboratory consists of electronic and mechanical test equipment, a prototype construction area, machine tool area, reference library, conference room, and drafting room.

Courses of study include: Numerical Methods, Inventive Design, Experimental Design, Computer Aided Design, Seminar in Product Design, Automation, Internship in Design, Advanced Kinematics, Fractional Horsepower Electro-Mechanical Devices, Systems Design, and Design Thesis.

Most of the schools in the Commonwealth will be closed for the holidays from Christmas through New Years. Don't spoil their holidays—watch out for them. Exercise extreme caution in areas where children are apt to be at play with new sled, skis, or on skates.

Free Boating Classes to Start

The Charles River Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, will commence their free boating classes on Monday evening, January 9th, at 7:30 p.m.

The classes will be held at Rindge Technical High School located near Harvard Square, Cambridge. Students desiring further information may attend these classes without obligation on January 9th or the following Monday on January 16th. Those who wish to enroll free may do so on the dates specified.

The United States Power Squadrons, a non-profit organization founded in 1914, has educated thousands of students in all phases of boating and navigation. The free classes offered will provide the student with all the basic boating information necessary to help him skipper any craft in a safer and more knowledgeable manner. For further information attend the classes or call Robert W. Richardson 862-1402 or Byron J. Zedros 484-6696 in the evenings. Otherwise write: Charles River Power Squadron, 21 Merchants Row, Boston, Mass. 02109.

Recognition For Years Of Service

LEWIS E. STOWE of 101 Wildwood Street (left) was recently honored for completing 40 years of service with the Dewey and Almy Chemical Division, W. R. Grace & Co., in Cambridge. He received a silver Paul Revere bowl from William L. Taggart, president of Dewey and Almy, at the company's 18th annual Quarter Century Club meeting at which George W. Blackwood of 29 Wedgemere Avenue, newly elected group executive of the Industrial Chemicals Group of W. R. Grace was a head table guest.

Winchester Duplicate Bridge Club

Despite the busyness of the week, Wednesday, December 21, brought out the usual blend of regular Club members, occasional guests, and newcomers to enjoy our evening game together.

Donna Redpath, squired by Clarence Woodward, was way ahead North-South in A Section with 132½ points on a 108 average, while East-West produced a tight battle between two of our favorite Club couples, the Richard Smiths and Philip Cades, (good players all, and most pleasant ones, as partners or opponents) with Lolly and Dick Smith ending up one point ahead with 133 points.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cade	132
Fredna Perkins and Jock Olmstead	129
Paul Vatter and Lewis Ward	111½
Martha Joslin and Herbert Wood	109

Section B finally filled up a full eleven tables playing on a 110 average. One of our regular partnerships, Peter Cullen and Alfred Frederick, most faithful in their weekly attendance, had a fine game of 130½ for the top place North-South, and one of our never-played-together - before - matched - up - at-the-door pairings,—Miggs Root and Stephen Chiotellis,—accumulated 146 points to win East-West.

Darrell Root is our editor for the hand-of-the-week.

"Board 16 in Section B is an example of the problem of arriving at the right contract as well as having that contract in the correct hand. Of the eleven times the hand was played, the bid was three no trump nine times, three times by South, and six times by North. The other two contracts were in spades.

South
♠ K Q 3
♦ 8 5 2
♣ A K 10 4 3 2

For example, the normal opening with the North hand after a pass by West, the dealer, is one heart, East passing and South bidding two clubs. North can now rebid two hearts, probably the safest bid, or bid two no trump. In the latter case, South will bid three no trump. If North bids two hearts, South may then rebid his clubs, showing the long suit and general strength of the hand, or will more likely bid two no trump, hoping that North has a diamond stopper in addition to the advertised heart suit. And North, looking at a hand with only two cards below a nine-spot, and those a seven and an eight, then carries on to game.

The results indicate that the two no trump bid by South was unfortunate and unlucky, because the diamond lead is the only logical lead from the West hand, and East-West can take the first five tricks which they did the three times South played the hand, and these unlucky pairs tied for a very poor score.

The six times the hand was played from the North side of the table, five no trump was made once, four once, and three four times. With the normal spade lead, North can take nine tricks, six clubs and three spades. If East and West now discard correctly, they can take the remaining tricks with the heart Ace, diamond Ace, and remaining diamonds or spades. If the discards are made incorrectly, then North can make overtricks.

Another line of play is for North to force the Ace of hearts by taking the spade lead on the Board and leading the heart 7, hoping that whoever takes the heart will shift to the spade rather than the diamond. This line of play might produce twelve tricks.

So—who says there is no luck in duplicate?

Registration Plates for 1967

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin today issued the following statement regarding registration plates for the new year:

"If your motor vehicle is registered for 1966 and 1967, you may attach the new plates beginning at noon on December 31 or you may drive with 1966 plates until noon on January 2 provided you carry evidence of 1967 registration in the vehicle.

"However if your motor vehicle is not registered for 1966 but is registered for 1967, the new plates cannot be attached to the vehicle until midnight, December 31, and they must be on the vehicle if it is going to be on the road January 1.

"To provide further assistance to motorists who have not yet registered for 1967, all Registry offices will remain open on Saturday, December 31 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m."

Say It with Kindness — Girl Scouts Reach out to Others

From Korean orphans to Winchester policemen, from infants to those counting the years on their fingers, members of Girl Scout troops in the Sachem Chapter, Mistick Side Girl Scouts, have been reaching out with aid and cheer to people all around them this season.

They haven't forgotten their own families, though, and many have worked to make gifts to bring home, too.

Over a month ago Brownie Troop 475, led by Mrs. Anthony Pelletier, and Girl Scout Troop 510, under Mrs. Ralph Swanson, made two hundred fruit cakes for the Homefronters' boxes which are sent to the town's servicemen.

Mrs. Wallace MacDonald's Troop 517 spent many weeks cutting, sewing, and gift wrapping two hunded comb cases for the Homefronters.

Seventy-five infants' Christmas stockings were designed, made, and filled for all the babies born at the Winchester Hospital during Christmas week by the girls of Troop 512 under the direction of Mrs. Charles Stebbins.

Junior Troop 500 under leader Mrs. Paul Apostalo made 25 large red stockings which the Friends of the Winchester Hospital filled and gave to all the children in the hospital Christmas day.

Each girl in Mrs. John Harrington's Brownie Troop 515 made a batch of Christmas cookies which they then brought to the men in the fire station, police station, and post office.

On December 13 Mrs. Ralph Swanson's Junior Troop 544 presented an hour of caroling at the Home for the Aged in Jamaica Plain. This is the second year the girls have done this and it is hard to say who enjoyed it the most.

Last, but not least, on December 7, 35 pounds of clothing was mailed to a Korean orphanage by the Sachem Chapter, Mistick Side Girl Scouts.

For two months, all the troops in the neighborhood have been quietly collecting children's clothes to send to a serviceman nephew of one of the Scout professional staff. He is stationed in Korea and in writing his aunt told of the pitiful plight of the children in the orphanage near him. Clothing is scarce and there is no such thing at a toy, he wrote. The children just sit or stand around doing nothing.

The soldier mentioned that if his aunt could send something to him he would personally bring it to the orphanage. The leaders of the Sachem neighborhood unanimously voted to collect clothing, and their Girl Scouts backed them by bringing in this "first" mailing. Plans are under way to send another package soon and also to make some toys for the children.

It has indeed been a useful and happy year with more of the same ahead.

Aliens Must Register In Jan.

The Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, announced today that non-citizens must report their addresses in January under a provision of the 1952 Immigration and Naturalization Act.

More than 3,430,000 aliens reported their addresses last January. The figure is expected to reach at least 3,540,000 in January 1967.

The address report requirement applies to all aliens admitted for permanent residence who have not yet been naturalized, as well as to aliens in the United States temporarily.

The Commission noted that the only exceptions are: non-citizens in diplomatic status, and foreign representatives of international organizations of which the United States is a member, such as the United Nations.

Each alien concerned may fill out an address report card at the local United States post office or at the nearest office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and return the card to the clerk from whom received. More than 90 per cent of the aliens who reported last year filed their reports at local post offices.

The Commissioner stressed that no one should mail the card.

Parents or guardians of alien children under 14 are required to fill out address reports for such children.

Legal guardians of aliens in custodial care should fill out address reports for such persons.

Commissioner Farrell said that any alien who is ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the Address Report Card (Form 1-53) for him and then return the card to the issuing clerk after it is filled out by the non-citizen.

After an alien has filled out a card at a post office or an office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and has given the card to the clerk, he has fulfilled his obligation under the 1952 Act. Aliens who are not in the United States during January must report their addresses to the Service within 10 days after their return.

Serious penalties may be imposed upon an individual who willfully violates the Alien Address Report requirements.

This Sunday At Methodist Church

There will be two services of worship this Sunday morning at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

The first service will be at 9:15 o'clock with the pastor, The Rev. H. Newton Clay, administering the sacrament of holy communion to all who wish to receive it on New Year's Day. The ritual will be used as it appears in slightly revised form in the new official Methodist Hymnal.

The second service will be at 11 o'clock and will be the annual Student Recognition Sunday Service which is usually observed on the Sunday that falls between Christmas and New Year's Day. Students from the church and representing several colleges and universities will take part in the service.

The sermon will be by the Reverend Miss Diane Davis, educational assistant, a student at Boston University School of Theology who will deliver the sermon on the subject, "Christ Has Come!—Any Meaning for 1967?" Miss Davis was ordained a deacon at the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church last June.

Steven Poole, Northeastern University, will lead the call to worship and the invocation; the responsive lesson, "De Profundis," will be led by Gary Oleson, Lafayette College; William Chase, University of New Hampshire, will read the Scripture Lessons; and Keith Oliver, a pre-theological student at West Virginia Wesleyan College will offer the prayer.

The ushers for the service will be Marilyn Haff, University of Massachusetts; Lynne Scott, Northeastern University; Wendy Newman, Westfield State; Jean Henry, Lowell State anl Linda Knight, School of Nursing, Lawrence Memorial Hospital.

Cheaper Auto Insurance Aim Of Bill By AAA

Cheaper compulsory auto insurance for accident-free drivers is offered in legislation filed recently by Rep. Lincoln P. Cole, Jr. of Lexington and the Massachusetts Division of the American Automobile Association.

The bill would permit insurance companies to sell compulsory motor vehicle liability insurance coverage at lower rates to drivers who qualify by reason of their accident-free records. It would also end the "legalized price fixing" under which the Insurance Commissioner must set the same compulsory rate for all drivers (both the accident-free and those with accident records) in a certain classification or territory.

"Our proposal corrects the major fault of the Massachusetts auto insurance system by permitting accident-free drivers to qualify for lower premiums based upon their own good driving records," said Rep. Cole. "The present system unfairly penalizes the accident-free driver by forcing him to subsidize the poor risk driver who has a bad accident record.

"It just doesn't make sense to have the state penalize safe drivers through high insurance rates year after year. We should be rewarding accident-free drivers, not penalizing them financially."

Rep. Cole called the measure a "safety-incentive" insurance bill. He said it would give every driver a dollors and cents reason for reducing acidents.

Richard W. Hoover, Legislative Counsel for AAA's Massachusetts Division, pointed out that most if not all other states give safe drivers lower insurance rates. He criticized the proposed 6% increase in compulsory rates for 1967.

"There are thousands of drivers in Massachusetts who haven't cost their insurance companies a nickel," Hoover said. "These people are paying too much already.

"Instead of an increase, they are entitled to a rate reduction. Our proposal would give them the cheaper insurance they have a right to have but are legally deprived of under the present unfair compulsory insurance law."

Pack 503 Carols And Celebrates

For the Cub Scout Pack 503 December pack meeting, 65 Cub Scouts and their families sang Christmas carols for the residents of Winchester Home for the Aged. Mrs. Robert Nicholas led the caroling on Tuesday night, December 20.

After singing, the Cubs returned to their regular meeting place, Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church, for a holiday program and party prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Buchanan and their committee. The program, narrated by Mr. Robert MacNally and assisted by Cubs Bradley and Brian Marks, told the story of Hanukkah and as the Menorah was lighted, the significance was explained. The Nativity story was then told, amid an impressive creche stage setting. Singing "O Christmas Tree," the cubs placed ornaments they had made on two Christmas trees on stage.

After refreshments had been enjoyed by all, Cubmaster Jack Sutherland presided at the award ceremony. A Bobcat pin was presented to Charles Whitten, a Wolf badge to Michael McCully, and advancement to Webelos was earned by Larry Croft.

State Alerts Students To Summer Jobs

J. William Belanger, director of the Division of Employment Security, urges college students home for the holidays to apply for camp counselor jobs at the Division's office in the Park Square Building, Boston College students who live outside the Boston area may apply for these summer jobs at the employment security office nearest their homes.

"We have on file right now, requests from camp owners to fill 2300 summer camp jobs," Mr. Belanger said.

Included in the job openings are positions for camp directors, counselors, arts and crafts instructors, water safety instructors, nurses and dieticians. Students qualified in these specialties are in demand.

"Filing an application in the spring will be too late in most cases," Mr. Belanger said, "because by that time most of these jobs will be filled."

The available openings are in youth camps throughout New England, with most located in resort areas in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Last year, several hundred students found such jobs through the special summer camp job unit in the Park Square office of the Division of Employment Security.

Think what would happen to prices if every American had a million dollars!

This thought started me thinking about a possible solution to the war in Vietnam. If the U.S. printed tons and tons of North Vietnamese money and dropped it on North Vietnam, it would undoubtedly be picked up by the peasants and others. Since they would all become rich, prices would rise. to combat this inflation, the government would have to issue new currency. Naturally, we would counterfeit that too, and they would find that their money was worthless again. And a country with worthless money cannot fight a war.

School spirit is a joke at the school I go to. This may upset some parents, for when they went to school their facilities were nothing compared to ours. But when they went to school, they were not spoon fed by the richest parents in the state; they had to make it on their own. For example, we have a beautiful school, which was given to us. But nobody has any pride in it. Why? Because we didn't have anything to do with its planning or construction. If the School Board had let students help design or build Lynch Jr. High, we would have more school spirit.

A few days ago I read an article that said over 50 people die every day in the U.S. from gun accidents. This amounts to over 17,000 dead per year—over three times the reported number of U.S. casualties in Vietnam. Isn't it time someone did something about this?

... And Candlestick Maker!

IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR, when young people in high schools and private schools, business schools, colleges and graduate work go out on the hunt for summer employment. Here Ellen Lougee of Cliff Street poses in the Connecticut College kitchen to illustrate how she worked last summer: as a chef for a vacation home in Woods Hole.

Mail Sorted? Eggs Graded? Ask A Student To Do It

From the office of Career Counseling and Placement at Connecticut College (for women) in New London there comes this week a story reviewing what the liberal arts students there did for work last summer.

The story is a reminder that hundreds of students here aged 16 and up will be looking for summer work in the next four or five months—pounding the pavements, burning the wires, asking for references.

They'll do everything from highly classified assistance in space missile research to life guard duty—or from assistance to a congressman in Washington to being a chef.

The chef's job is what Ellen Lougee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Lougee of 7 Cliff Street took last summer. Along with another Connecticut College classmate from East Haven, Connecticut, she staffed a kitchen for a vacationing women in Woods Hole. Together they stretched their cooking repertoire, previously limited strictly to hotdogs and hamburgers, to include crepe suzettes, duck with wild rice and eggs Benedict.

Ellen is a sociology student and vice president of the sophomore class. Cooking has never been a special passion. A graduate of the Northfield School for Girls, she applied last spring at the summer counselling office run by the Parents' League of Greater Boston (association of private school parents) and was shown the possibilities. She took the job in the kitchen boned up on her mother's cook books, and went to work.

Statistics from Connecticut College's summer review tell a story which is reflected many other places.

Seventy-eight per cent of the student body at the liberal arts college for women worked for about 10 weeks last summer and earned more than $32,894. About one third of the students were employed in secretarial and clerical positions.

Of the 990 students who worked during the summer, 81 per cent saved an average of $346 or 58 per cent of their earnings.

The students used their imaginations, resourcefulness and, sometimes, daring in applying for jobs. One was a jolly Dancing Bear to thousands of tots who visited Storyland at Hyannis. She also amused the audiences as Sylvester the Talking Frog and the Big Bad Wolf.

A senior donned the whites of a Good Humor girl; a sophomore opened President Johnson's mail. One girl investigated annoying telephone calls for New Jersey Bell Telephone Co; another graded and sold eggs.

The majority of jobs, the report states, provided "pre-professional experience in career fields directly connected with college majors." Art history majors worked in museums, child development students assisted in Headstart programs, psychology majors helped in mental institutions, and future zoologists were involved in various laboratory research projects.

While 888 students worked full time and 128 had part-time jobs, 54 volunteered for a variety of activities, such as assisting in muscular dystrophy research at Hospital des Enfants Malades in Paris or counseling at a day camp for blind children in Washington.

Employment opportunities and voluntary service in foreign countries attracted 18 Connecticut College students. Generally, the jobs were in European department stores and businesses. Some students with bi-lingual abilities tutored children of Italian and French families.

Is it back to the kitchen for Ellen this summer? It's too early to say.

Sgt. Mandeville Returned From Waters off Viet

Staff Sergeant Bruce H. Mandeville of 6 Skillings Road, back in the U.S.A. after some months' service on a KC-135 Stratotanker of the 4252nd Strategic Wing in waters off Vietnam, took part in rescue operations in the Western Pacific skies while at sea.

The 1965 graduate of Winchester High School, who has been in the Air Force since, is now stationed at Pease Air Force Base in Portsmouth, New Hampsrhire and a recent story in the Portsmouth daily paper told of one of the group's efforts:

"With one engine shot out, an F4C Phanton jet fighter with low fuel reserves sent out a "May Day" call for an emergency refueling in Western Pacific skies.

"A KC-135 Stratotanker of the 34th Air Refueling Squadron, Pease AFB, monitored the call for help and hustled to rendezvous with the wounded Phantom.

"Despite heavy battle damage and an engine gone, the fighter hooked-up to the tanker and took on sufficient fuel to limp to its home base without further mishap.

"The tanker and its crew, composed of Capt. Roy E. Tucker, aircraft commander; 1st Lt. Jerome A. Gittlein, co-pilot; Maj. Clinton E. Wagner, navigator, and SSGT. Bruce H. Mandeville, boom operator, at the time of the incident had finished a scheduled refueling operation. Their coolness in handling the emergency situation was consideraed commendable by officials.

"Captain Tucker and his crew are on temporary duty in the Western Pacific with the 4252nd Strategic Wing."

The Fortnightly

The Fortnightly Literature Committee will meet at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, January 4, in the Meeting Room (formerly known as the Edgar J. Rich Room) of the Winchester Public Library.

An account of the life and books of a distinguished woman biographer is to be presented by Mrs. Everett D. Littlefield.

Fortnightly members are cordially welcome.

Eleven Enrolled At Wentworth

Eleven Winchester students are enrolled at Wentworth Institute for 1966-67 academic year according to an announcement by Dr. H. Russell Beatty, Wentworth president.

More than 2,300 day students are specializing in the full-time two year curriculum in industrial and engineering technology courses. An Associate in Engineering degree is granted to students completing the two year engineering technology program and a certificate to students in the two year industrial technology course.

Wentworth, one of the largest accredited technical institutes in the country, is conducting a $3,100,000 development program for the construction of three new buildings on its 9-acre Huntington Ave. campus. These new facilities will enable the school to expand its enrollment to 2,500 students when completed.

The school also received a $500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation to establish a Curriculum Center for the development of more new effective instructional laboratories and teaching techniques which will be made available to other schools in the field.

Former Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks is chairman of Wentworth Board of Trustees.

The Winchester students include: Paul W. Goddu of 3 Cliff Street; Michael J. Metrick Jr. of 7 Berkshire Drive; Robert C. Belida of 783 Main Street; John M. Bees of 49 Myrtle Terrace; John A MacDonald of 103 Loring Avenue; Douglas B. Goodale of 66 Middlesex Street; Denis A. Cushman of 33 Lebanon Street; Charles G. Manning of 11 Yale Street; William J. Carroll of 5 Florence Street; and Walter S. Scott Jr. of 2 Lagrange Street; Jeffrey W. Smith of 2 Ridgefield Road.

To our many friends and customers...

Though we were temporarily interrupted in business, we are now operating with our own crew in other quarters.

We wish you and yours a happy, prosperous and peaceful New Year.

We shall endeavor, though through inconvenience to our employes, to render the same quality of cleaning that has been expected of Faulkner's New Life Cleansing, with hopes that in a few short weeks we shall return to our home — a refurbished plant — and continue serving you as we have in the past.

Please forgive any inconveniences that may arise. We shall do our very best to keep them at a minimum.
